THE CRESTON REVIEW

Vol. XVII. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1925 No. 24

Goodwin Heads New School Board

Creston's 1925-26 school board had the inaugural meeting on Monday night, at which all the trustees were present, and after electing T. Goodwin chairman for the year, and re-appointing S. A. Speers, secretary and treasurer, the usual routine of a meeting was disposed of in businesslike fashion.

The correspondence included the resignation of Miss Laxton, who has been in charge of the primary room for the past two years, and which was accepted with regret. The application of Miss Vickers, vice principal, for leave of absence until the new year was granted, and a substitute teacher will be engaged for the intervening period.

The position on the high school staff, due to the resignation of Miss Carrie, which was accepted a couple of months ago, will be offered Miss Vivian Jones, who is at present in charge of a summer school in eastern Canada, and who attended the B.C. University the past term, previous to which she had been on the staff at both the Grand Forks and Summerland school. She comes splendidly recommended and will be given $1600. Failing her the position will be offered Miss Chatwin of Kelowena, who also comes well recommended but who has not taught high school previously. She will be tendered the position at a stipend of $1500.

For the primary room the unanimous choice was Miss Clara Mercer. She comes worthy and well qualified with successful experience at Hedley and Fernie, where she took the primary work. Both Inspectors Manning and Sheffield speak highly of her ability.

To replace Miss Vickers the trustees agreed to offer the temporary appointment to Miss Olive Rooke of Grand Forks, and at the same time will wire Inspector Manning to recommend someone in case Miss Rooke does not care to accept for the short term offered.

The position of janotor will be offered Mr. Barner again on the same salary basis as the past term, and if he does not accept tenders will be called for the work. Chairman Goodwin was authorized to engage a carpenter to do considerable general repairs around the building, including the roof which will have to have attention before it will be advisable to do some plastering repair work that is badly needed.

The trustees are of opinion that the central school building will have to have three coats of paint on the east and south sides and two coats on the north and west exposures. The roof will either be stained or painted depending on the cost of each. Tenders for this work are now being called for, and the job is to be completed by the end of August.

Investigation will be made of the basement which the inspector asks to have a drain placed in so that the floor can be sprinkled with hose and thus abate the dust nuisance which the children complain of.

As the accommodation in the high school is likely to be at least taxed to capacity the board is advertising that applications for attendance must be made at once, and that in case of over crowding such applications will be considered in the order in which they are received.

Canyon City

J. W. Wood was a business visitor at Nelson a few days this week, returning on Wednesday.

Miss Muriel Knott, who is at present in Vancouver, has been engaged to take charge of the school at Yahk for the coming term.

Jas. Kenny of Trail has been a Canyon visitor the past few days, the guest of his sister, Mrs. C. A. Robinson.

Part of the A. R. Swanson ranch has again passed into new ownership, having been purchased by Frank Baker, who is at present located at Lister, and who is developing poultry on a considerable scale.

Canyon United Church Sunday school is having its annual picnic at Goat River today.

Bernard Lowerson has been given a contract to clear and cultivate five acres of the former Spencer place, now owned by C. Blair.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Browell of Nelson returned to Canyon on Thursday last for the funeral of the late Ted Strong. Guy has since returned but Mrs. Browell will likely remain permanently.

Principal Kolthammer graduated two of his candidates at the midsummer Entrance examinations, the results of which were announced at the end of the week. The successful pupils are Harry VanAckeran and Ruth Clayton. The pass of the former pupil is particularly creditable as he celebrated his twelfth birthday just a few weeks ago.

One of the biggest funerals ever witnessed at Canyon was accorded the late "Ted" Strong, whose remains were laid to rest in Creston cemetery on Friday afternoon last. Rev. J. Herdman, pastor of the United Church, officiating, with A. D. Pochin, W. Kernaghan, A. Wickholm, R. Byrne, W. H. McQueen and Roy Browell officiating as pallbearers, the esteem in which he was held being strikingly shown in the many floral tributes. Deceased was married hardly more than three years ago to Miss Jess Hickey who with a young daughter, Elva, are left to mourn his death and to whom goes out a very true sympathy of a wide circle of friends in their sad bereavement.

Lister

Ed. Langston of Kimberley is here for a few days' visit this week at the ranch that he has in partnership with his son, Harold, and is well pleased with the look of things on the place.

F. N. Thompson, mail driver, is taking a well earned week's vacation at present with Nelson friends, and in his absence M. Williams is handling the mail delivery from Creston.

Quite a number of young people from Creston and Erickson were here on Friday night for a "hop" which Mrs. Lister gave in honor of Miss E. Bevan of Creston, who joined the nursing staff of the Kelowna hospital this week.

The Sunday morning service at the United Church will be taken by O. M. Samuelson of Canyon, in the absence of Pastor Herdman, who is in charge of the young people's camy at Cultus Creek.

Former principal Pearce of Lister school, who is on leave of absence on a visit to England, has had his leave extended and the trustees are on the lookout for a teacher to take charge until at least Christmas.

Harry Brown of Kimberley is here on a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Fred N. Thompson. He made the trip in his in his Ford touring.

Friends of Miss Murielle Millington were pleased to note her name among the successful third year high school student writing on the examinations at Cranbrook.

The many friends of Mrs. C. Davis of Rykerts will be glad to know that she is making a nice recovery at the Bonners Ferry hospital, following an operation for appendicitis last week.

Lister school has again sustained its enviable reputation for getting results at the annual midsummer examinations, and this year has established almost as creditable a record at graduating first year high school students. The successful Entrance scholars are Jack Jory, Doris Millington and Dorothy Niblow, and those passing into second year high school are Elmer Huscroft and Thos. Mitchell. The principal, Miss Cherrington, is to be highly commended for the showing, as she only took charge at the first of the year.

United Church to Enlarge Building

A 16 x 44 foot addition, along with a basement the full length of the present edifice and the proposed extension, the repainting of the whole structure's exterior and the redecorating of the interior was authorized at the inaugural session of the board of management of Creston United Church last night, with the work of enlargement to start early in August.

The pastor, Rev. J. Herdman, was, of course, named chairman of the managing board, and the choice of secretary fell upon D. H. Linn, and Jas. Adlard was elected treasurer.

The building committee was retained as originally constituted with J. W. Robinson as chairman, who announced that of the $1000 subscribed early this year, a considerable portion has already been paid in and there are sufficient funds available to get on with the work.

Plans were submitted showing that with the basement and extension available the latter can be subdivided to provide two class rooms for the increased Sunday School attendance and make ideal meeting places for the Ladies' Aid, managing board and other executive gatherings.

Members of the board of management from the Wynndel congregation were present and as that point and Creston will be in charge of Rev. Mr. Herdman a satisfactory arrangement was entered into as to the portion of salary each shoule pay, as well as the other financial undertaking each will assume the present year.

A conference of the United Church workers in the Kootenay has been called for August 25th at Nelson, and the pastor and Mr. Robinson will be the Creston delegates. At this gathering it expected plans will be revolved for the work of the church and shortly thereafter the man sent in to take charge of United Church work at Kitchener, Canyon and Lister, delegates from the latter two points being at the meeting urging that action along this line be had as soon as possible.

It was agreed that the Epworth League would take on the appearance here of a lady entertainer who will appear in September the proceeds to go to the building fund.

Wynndel

A number of the members of the United Church board of management were at Creston on Tuesday night for a business meeting of the two congregations at which salary arrangements were satisfactorily adjusted for 1925.

Elias Uri is making the rounds in a new 1925 model Chevrolet, which he purchased at the Lidgate garage at Creston. The Ford he traded in is now owned by Mr. Paskoski.

Everyone is delighted with the very fine showing made by Wynndel school at the midsummer Entrance examinations, when all three candidates who wrote were successful in passing with creditable marks. They are Adelaide Rosindale, Edna Davis, and Sylvia Benedetti.

There was quite a large turnout at the Tennis Club dance at the old schoolhouse on Saturday night, the music for which was provided by Miss Dorothy and Jack Penson.

The members of the United Church Ladies' Aid were out in large numbers on the afternoon of the 18th, when Mrs. Cornwell (nee Davis) was their guest at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Joy. The bride was suitably remembered with household articles and a very pleasant afternoon socially was spent.

The Andestad family are away at present on their usual summer camping trip, which takes them to Sanca this year.

Announcement is made that Miss Cherrington, who was in charge of the Lister school the past term, will succeed Miss Snow as principal here. She had a fine pass list in both the Entrance and first year high school classes, and if the latter work is taken up here her selection as school head should prove a good one.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McInnes and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Rathie, sr., and family, were motor visitors to Corn Creek for the weekend at the J. B. Winlaw place. While enjoying a perfect day a large deer fly settled on Mrs. Rathie's arm, the sting from which produced an inflammation so quickly that medical attendance had to be promptly secured.

Erickson

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Craigie are spending a few days this week with his brother, Norman, at Lumberton, making the trip by motor in company with Mrs. Repsomer and Mrs. McGrath.

The trustees have offered the position of second teacher at Erickson school to Miss Shiel of Armstrong, and are expecting her acceptance of the work any day now.

G. P. Smith is here from Wetaskiwin, Alberta, looking after some improvements on his ranch, which is leased this year to Lung Kee. Mrs. Smith is still with her sister, who is under the doctor's care, at Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Putnam and family were Sunday visitors at Kuskanook. Mr. and Mrs. Waylett also spent the Sabbath at the early vegetable and fruit basket of the Kootenays.

L. T. Leveque was a fishing visitor at West Creston on Sunday and had great luck with bass, one of his samples tipping the beam at 4 pounds 3 ounces—just two ounces shy of the record catch of a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolf Wele and Mr. and Mrs. Craigie arrived back on Thursday last from almost three weeks' motor trip to Spokane, Seattle and a few days stay with Portland friends.

Three of the five pupils from Erickson school were successful at the Entrance examinations held at the end of June, the results being announced on Friday. Those making a full pass were Molly Kemp, Beulah Penson and Edward Martin.

Alice Siding

Mrs. Bartholomew and son, Bobby, of Nelson, were visitors here a few days this week, guests of Mrs. Churchill.

Miss Edith Turner of Winnipeg, Man., arrived on Tuesday on a visit with her sister, Mrs. L. McMurtrie.

Mrs. T. Moul, who has been a visitor with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, for the past six weeks, left for her home in Vancouver a few days ago.

Miss Ruth Smith is a holiday visitor with friends at coast points.

The shipping season at the Smith Crossing is over for the year and the loading platform has been put into winter storage once more.

Word from Principal Lallamand is to the effect that he is having a fine summer vacation, which he is devoting mostly to fishing in the Nicola valley.

The covered wagon sojourners that have been making headquarters at the shack on the Compton ranch for almost a month, moved on south at the end of the week, heading for some point in Washington.

The young people and some of the adults had a shirtwaist dance at the Todd home on the 20th, the affair being a sort of sendoff for Bob and Jack Miller, who have since returned to Alberta.

Friends of W. A. Pease will be pleased to hear that he has decided to retire from hard work and has sold his farm at Cloverdale, is now a resident at Vancouver. After much experience as mayor of Alice Siding he will doubtless be heard from in municipal circles in his new location.

Leslie McMurtrie Dies at Kamloops

Almost as a bolt from the blue came Saturday's telegraphic announcement from Kamloops of the death of J. Leslie McMurtrie, who passed away that morning in the sanitorium in that city. The unexpectedness of the message was due to the fact that his wife, who had gone on a visit to him about two weeks previously, had but a few days before advised his parents of his steady recovery, and bright prospect of his being able to return home in the near future.

Deceased was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McMurtrie and had gone to Kamloops in May when it was feared he was developing tuberculosis, and the immediate cause of death was a clot of blood on the brain, which in his weakened condition he was unable to pass off.

The late Mr. McMurtrie was in his thirty third year, and with the exception of about three years during the war, when he was with the Canadian Air Force, he has resided with his parents who came to the Creston district from Liverpool, England in 1911. In 1920 he branched out into horticulture on his own when he purchased the Pease ranch and in 1921 he was married to Miss Eleanor Turner of Winnipeg, Manitoba, who, with one son, survive him.

The remains reached Creston on Tuesday and the funeral took place that afternoon from his late residence, with Rev. H. Varley conducting the last sad rites, and Major Mallandaine, C. B. Twigg, Jas. Compton, Guy Constable, R. Sinclair Smith and Hon. Stace Smith officiating as pallbearers, the large turnout of friends to pay their last respects, and the many floral tributes, bespeaking the high esteem in which he was held.

Although of a retiring disposition his industry and many admirable personal qualities earned for the late Mr. McMurtrie a host of friends and acquaintances all of whom deeply sympathize with the widow, son and parents in their sudden and heavy bereavement.

Sirdar

Motorists complain of the condition of the road between the Constable ranch and Kuskanook, that is in need of repairs in several spots. A few days ago a car with four people in it went over the bank at the North ranch but fortunately none were seriously hurt.

While working on the survey of the road between Kuskanook and Boswell Chas. Neil had the misfortune to gash his foot with an axe and will be off work for a week or ten days.

Sam Lombardo is a heavy shipper of tomatoes and cucumbers to prairie points. The Pascuzzo and North ranch also are on the shipping list in these lines.

Night operator Cox, who has been here for the past two months, has left for the coast, and is relieved by operator T. Andrews of Cranbrook, who was operator at Canyon and other places.

Mrs. Lombardo and son, Arthur, were Cranbrook visitors last weekend for a couple of days.

The Coyax extra gang, who have been here the past four months, working at Landing and in the yard here, and was with the work trains, pulled out for Cranbrook on Tuesday, where they will do track work.

Master Eric Bennet of Fernie, who has spent ten days with Clifford Neil, went to Erickson on Tuesday, en route home.

Rev. H. Varley being away on vacation church services are withdrawn for Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Walthers, Mr. and Mrs. Loasby and Master Billy Moore motored to Erickson on Monday evening for a visit with agent T. W. and Mrs. Bundy, and had a most enjoyable stay. Tom's flower garden sure has it all over anything of the sort on the Crow line and he will surely carry off the C.P.R. garden prizes for 1925.

Where Co-operation Is Needed

The opinion is frequently expressed that Canada suffers from too much government and legislation, and with a Federal Parliament and nine Provincial Legislatures for something less than nine million people, there is probably some reason for such an opinion being more or less prevalent, and to support the suggestions periodically advanced in favor of the union of the three Maritime Provinces into one, and the merging of the Prairie Provinces, thus reducing the number of Legislatures to five. But whether such amalgamations are now feasible is another question, and, in view of the fact that ultimately Canada will have a population of many times nine millions, it is open to argument whether such combinations would be wise in the long run.

But that there is room for a much larger measure of cordial co-operation in matters of legislation between the Federal Parliament on the one hand and the various Provincial Legislatures on the other hand, and between the Legislatures of adjoining Provinces, and, in fact, between all Provinces, is hardly open to serious discussion. The framers of the Act of Confederation did their work exceedingly well, but the B.N.A. Act should not be regarded as the laws of the Medes and Persians, unalterable. Constitutional enactments, however wise in 1867, are not necessarily suitable a century or even half a century later.

It is proposed to call a conference of Provincial representatives to give consideration to suggested amendments to the B.N.A. Act designed to curb the arbitrary veto power of the Senate over legislation which meets the approval of the elected representatives of the people in the House of Commons along lines somewhat similar to those which finally had to come in Great Britain in order to restrict the power of the House of Lords. There are, however, other subjects of equal or even greater importance which might well receive attention at such a conference.

For example, not only should the powers of the Senate come under review, but the constitution of that body if it is to be continued as an integral part of our legislative machinery. It stands to reason that the four rapidly growing Western Provinces will not be content for all time to have their representation in the Senate limited to that of the three small Maritime Provinces, namely, twenty-four Senators for Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, and a like number for Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Certainly if such a basis of Senate representation is to be maintained much longer, then the powers of the Senate must be greatly restricted.

Again, while the B.N.A. Act clearly defines the respective spheres of the Dominion Parliament and the Provincial Legislatures in regard to many subjects, it confers on both Federal and Provincial bodies legislative and administrative authority in regard to certain other matters, with the result that there is constant conflict and continual appeals to the Imperial Privy Council, and hardly a year passes that decisions are not rendered declaring laws passed at Ottawa or in the Provinces ultra vires, that is beyond the power of the enacting body to pass. It is time these clauses of the B.N.A. Act were clarified.

The bringing about of such changes takes time because both Federal and Provincial authorities are notoriously loth to abandon any slightest right, power or privilege which they now enjoy, and furthermore any change in the B.N.A. Act involves not only action in Canada, but also by the British Parliament, because, like Australia, Canada does not possess the power to amend its own constitution. In the meantime, there should be greater disposition on the part of the Dominion Parliament to co-operate with and assist the Provinces to realize their wishes in regard to matters of prime importance to them but over which the Dominion also exercises certain powers.

Some of the Provinces passed laws to protect their citizen from being victimized by glib-tongued salesmen of stock in worthless companies such as the Hearst Music Company, wildcat mining and oil companies, etc. These laws have been declared invalid insofar as they apply to companies having Dominion charters, so when any one of these companies out to fleece the public are denied a Provincial charter, or the right under such a charter to sell stock, they simply take out a Dominion charter and defy the Provincial authorities.

Apart from the fact that the Federal authorities should be just as anxious as any of the Provincial authorities to protect the people of Canada from these unscrupulous peddlers of worthless stock, they should be more than willing to co-operate with the Provinces in upholding the law and maintaining proper respect and dignity for the law. Unfortunately, Ottawa is not thus co-operating with the Provinces, and numerous instances are arising where Provinces have turned down company promotion schemes for good and substantial reasons, only to have Ottawa promptly grant a Dominion charter.

The Dominion Government should not only protect the Provinces from this open contempt of their laws, but Ottawa should enact legislation safeguarding the public from being victimized by companies operating under Dominion charters in the same manner that the Western Provinces have in regard to Provincial charters.

Human Values

Norah Holland died in Toronto the other day and the announcement was compressed in a paragraph. Yet Norah Holland was one of the finest and best beloved of Canadian poets, a sweet singer whose songs gushed from her heart and whose work made life better and richer. Three Times the Quantity Shipped For First Three Months Over Same Period Last Year

Nearly $500,000 worth of Manitoba butter has been shipped from Winnipeg since January 1, 1925, to the middle of April. The shipments totalled 60 cargoes, averaging 400 boxes to the car of 56 pounds to the box. According to the provincial dairy commissioner, this is over three times the quantity shipped in the corresponding period of 1924. Shipments were made to the British Isles, Toronto, Montreal, Halifax, Calgary, New York, Chicago and Detroit.

Quebec Lady Suffered From Kidney Trouble and Found Complete Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

South Stukely, Que.—(Special).—That relief can be obtained from all kinds of kidney disorders by using Dodd's Kidney Pills is again evidenced by the testimonial received from Mrs. J. Derocher, a well known and highly respected resident of this place. She writes:

"I was attacked with a malady that at first I did not think was serious until about the beginning of last March, when it became evident that I could do nothing. I consulted a doctor and he told me I was suffering from kidney trouble.

'I was obliged to take to my bed. I had a Dodd's Almanac in the house and read a few of the testimonials, then bought 3 boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and a box of Diamond Dinner Pills.

"I can assure you that they have made me well, and the pain in my back between the shoulders is gone. I am completely relieved of my trouble."

Development Of Radio

Send a 100 Words a Minute Across Atlantic

Radio messages may soon flash across the ocean at the rate of 1,000 words a minute from a single transmitting station, is the prediction of trans-Atlantic radio officials in New York.

At present a radio message can be clicked off at the rate of 100 words a minute, or slightly more. The development of a machine to speed up the ocean messages, and thus help reduce rates, is now in progress.

From 20 to 30 per cent. of the messages sent to and from Europe nowadays flow through radio channels, the rest taking the course of the 17 cables on the bed of the Atlantic.

The Duke of Alba has ordered two of his estates cut up and the land apportioned among the tenants on a deferred payment plan. The duke is said to have been inspired by the principles of democracy and hopes his example will be followed by other members of the landed gentry.

The Duke of Alba comes from one of the oldest and proudest families of Spanish nobility, and he represents, he has said, the fifteenth generation of the descendants of Christopher Columbus, and now is the only living descendant of the discoverer of America.

Senator W. B. Ross, in speaking on the proposed resolution dealing with constitutional changes, said it was for the provinces to say if there should be any change in the Treaty of Confederation.

Tremendous Progress Made By Canada In Wheat Growing During Past Twenty-five Years

The natural resources intelligence service of the department of the interior at Ottawa says Canada has made tremendous progress in the past twenty-five years in the production of wheat, and the extension of her wheat areas is attracting considerable wheat-buying countries. At the opening of the present century the excellence of Canadian hard wheat became recognized, but occupied a comparatively inconspicuous position in the wheat markets of the world. Within the past twenty-five years—but a day in the life of a nation—that position has been entirely reversed, and Canada has advanced from ninth to second place as a grower of wheat and from fifth to first place as an exporter of this cereal.

The rapid increase in Canadian acreage devoted to wheat is shown by the following figures: In 1900 in all Canada there was but 4,224,542 planted to wheat; in 1910 this area had increased to 8,863,151 acres; in 1920 to 18,232,374 acres; and in 1924 to 22,055,710 acres. The production of wheat in 1901 amounte dto 55,572,368 bushels, in 1910 to 132,048,782 bushels, in 1920 to 263,189,300 bushels, and in 1923 to 474,199,000 bushels.

Canada's influence on the world's wheat markets is illustrated by the enormous growth of exports. From the small amount of 6,871,939 bushels in 1901 they took what was at that time a big jump to 18,688,092 bushels in 1902, and 24,566,703 bushels in 1902. In 1910, 46,589228 bushels of wheat was poured into the world market, in 1915 exports were 140,306,613 bushels and in 1924, 214,630,825 bushels.

Canada has a wonderful opportunity, not only in the productiveness of her wheat fields and in the quality of the wheat that her soil and climate produces, but in the fact that the wheat industry of Russia, which was a chief competitor, has not recovered its pre-war status. Canadian wheat is much in demand both in Great Britain and on the continent, and can be produced at a comparatively low cost, in competition with American-grown wheat.

The farm cost of producing wheat in Western Canada in 1923, as estimater by the United States' tariff commission, was 82 cents a bushel, including a land charge, figured as interest on stated land values. These figures were opposed to a cost of $1.47 per bushel, the estimated cost of producing similar wheat in Minnesota, Montana and the Dakotas, made by the same authority.

Canadian wheat is acknowledged to be of an unusually high order and, through the Canadian system of grading and elevator regulations, merits the standing it has among foreign buyers.

Farmer Identified Property

Proved In Peculiar Way His Ownership of Chickens

When asked if he could identify some chickens which he had lost and which two men were charged with stealing, J. McDougall, Ont., a farmer living near Acton, told County Constable Champan they were "quiet" hens and always greeted his horse when he returned home from town by jumping on the shafts of the buggy.

McDougall took the constable in his buggy to where the chickens were, and immediately they saw the horse they performed their "stunt" by jumping all over the shafts of the buggy.

The identification was complete.

Following Alberta's Lead

Several States Seeking Information On Cream Grading System

Several states are following the lead of Alberta in adopting official cream grading systems. The latest to seek information is the state of Illinois, where it is hoped to work out some such system this year. The state of West Virginia is also endeavoring to inaugurate a system modelled on the Alberta system. It is expected that Dr. Mackay, secretary of the American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers, will visit Alberta this summer to study the system there.

A favorite food in Tibet is dried yak meat, sometimes 100 years old.

Campaign To Advertise Canadian Vegetables

Object is to Create National Demand For Home Grown Products

"Eat More Canadian Fruit and Vegetables," is to be the key-sentence of a Dominion-wide advertising campaign this summer, if the plans of the Canadian horticultural council work out. L. F. Burrows, secretary of the council, has been doing some active canvassing in the east, and is now in British Columbia at the same work. The plan is to raise a large fund from the co-operative shippers, dealers, manufacturers of sprays and packages, and others directly interested by a levy upon fruit and vegetables shipped or handled. This fund is to be used for national advertising of the various fruits and vegetables as they approach the peak of production, in order to raise consumption at the same time. The object is not to increase the profits of any particular organization of growers, but to create instead, a national demand for Canadian-grown fruits and vegetables so that all engaged in this trade may benefit by more extensive sales and distribution.

Canada's Wheat Exports

American Paper Comments On Canada's Vast Opportunities

Canada is unique in having a small population on an enormous cultivated domain, says the Washington Post. But that is a condition which time will materially modify. In fact, conditions are even now rapidly changing. Two circumstances—our strict limitation of immigration, and the knowledge of Canada's vast resources and opportunities—are causing multitudes to flock to the Dominion rather than to the United States. The coming years may, therefore, see population increasing more rapidly than the production in wheat, with the result that the surplus available for exportation will decrease. Nevertheless, we may expect for a long time to come to see Canada rank as the foremost wheat exporting country in the world.

An Ounce Of Prevention

Possible to Reduce Fly Plague to a Minimum

With the opening of the long fly season only a measurable distance ahead, the question whether this perennial plague will this year be serious or slight depends on the action today of wise housekeepers and alert health officers. If there were no breeding grounds for flies there would be no flies, and there can be no breeding grounds save where filth is allowed to accumulate.

The fly is perfectly equipped with the furnishings and characteristics that make him an ideal germ carrier, and hence a spreader of disease. Knowing his capacity in this field, it is a crime to ourselves and to our fellow men to tolerate such a nuisance.

B.C. Canned Fish

Product Is Shipped To Many Ports Throughout the World

Exports of canned fish from Vancouver during the first three months of the current year, show a considerable increase over the quantity shipped in a similar period during the past three years. In the first quarter of 1925 exports totalled 415,526 cases, compared with 332,352 cases in 1924. Shipments were made to Australia, New Zealand, the Orient, Central and South America, West Indies, United Kingdom and continent, Fiji and South Africa.

America's Favorite Meat

In the course of a year every resident of America eats on the average more than ninety pounds of pork which is the favorite meat. The per capita beef consumption is more than sixty pounds. Lers veal is being used—only eight pounds per capita. But Americans are not getting back to our muttons, for they consume now only five pounds of mutton and lamb annually.—New York Times.

It is always easier to convert our cash into experience than to swap it back again.

Where Immigration Flows

Bulk of Immigration Must Make Its Way to the Prairies

No section of Canada is really populated to the point which makes an invasion of immigrants on a large scale impossible without economic disturbance and difficulties. It is only in the more sparsely peopled west that there is opportunity for large numbers of strangers to find places. Land here is comparatively cheap and the object of the immigration policy is, and must be, to get people onto land which they can pay for. The only way to divert the stream from the western provinces to the older ones is to cut down the value of farm lands in the eastern provinces to a figure within reach of the newcomers or to open enough new factories to absorb them into the industrial system. Neither is practicable. With or without government direction, the tide will flow where the resistance to be encountered is least. As the west fills up the east will fill up too, but for many years the bulk of immigration must make its way to the prairies. And after last winter's unemployment experience it should not be difficult for an easterner to understand that that is the only safe and sane policy to promote.—Edmonton Bulletin.

Formality of the White House

"There was just as much formality as at Buckingham Palice," declared Mrs. Chas. Thorburn, speaking of a reception of women delegates to the international council of women's congress in Washington, by President and Mrs. Coolidge, at the White House. Mrs. Thorburn was elected vice-treasurer of the council of the congress.

Western Canada's Titled Farmers Are Playing An Important Part In Development Of Agriculture

Hungarian Settlers

Between Fifty and Sixty Thousand Now Located In Canada

There are between fifty and sixty thousand Hungarian (Magyar) immigrants and their children in Canada, according to Dr. Frank Hoffman, of St. Andrew's College, Saskatoon, there being settlements at Otthon, Punnichy and Regina, composed of very industrious, contented people with large families. In 1921 Dr. Hoffman established a literary society in Regina, and from which important social and national work amongst the Hungarians is carried on and the ideals of Canadian citizenship brought constantly before them. Many have been very successful on the land, amongst whom are J. Troth, Sr., who, beginning with a capital of but $200, now with his five sons, owns 20 quarter sections of land.

Canadian Seed Goes To U.S.

Alberta Alfalfa and Timothy Seed Finds a Ready Market

A considerable quantity of alfalfa seed produced in Alberta last year was sold to the United States' dealers, indicating the demand for northern-grown seed. It is estimated that over a quarter of a million pounds were sold altogether. Alberta seed growers also sold one hundred thousand pounds of Timothy seed.

Former Governor-General Here

His Lordship the Earl of Aberdeen and Temair, and Ishbel, Countess of Aberdeen and Temair, after an absence of seven years, have again visited the Dominion, of which His Lordship was Governor-General thirty years ago. They went with the British delegates to the seventh Quinquennial Conference of the International Council of Women, which met at Washington, May 4-14. The latter represents 35,000,000 women belonging to 38 National Councils, said the Countess of Aberdeen when interviewed recently, and their aim is "Peace through Arbitration." Her Ladyship organized the Victorian Order of Nurses during her regime as Vice-Reine at Ottawa and has since seen it grow into a nation-wide movement. "It gave me great pleasure," said Her Ladyship, "when our ship put in at Halifax to meet representatives of the order in uniform who came down to the dock to greet us."

"It is always a pleasure to meet old friends," said Lord Aberdeen, "and none do I count dearer than the friendships made in Canada. Lady Aberdeen and I crossed your glorious country twice before I became Governor-General and we always count those visits and subsequent ones among our happiest time. I love your broad, open prairies, your great lakes and towering mountains. Mention of our first trip reminds me of the old man who, endeavoring to convey to a Scotchman the immensity of Canada, said, 'Why, we have lakes into which you could drop the entire British Isles and woods where Scotland would be lost except for the smell of whiskey.' I love Canada and Canadians, and after murky London, your blue skies and warm spring breezes are glorious and inspiring. And this is not taffy—you know what I mean—why, when we crossed the border on the train, I noticed the difference between the railroads. The train ran smoother and steadier, so much so that I asked an official what road we were running over and was not greatly surprised when he used those magic letters, 'C.P.R.'"

Before coming to Montreal, Lord and Lady Aberdeen attended the International Conference on City Planning in New York at which many Canadians were present. Lord Aberdeen had offered a prize for the best designs submitted for the reconstruction of the devastated areas of Dublin, which was won by Prof. Abercrombie, of Liverpool. "Now I want you to mention this," said His Lordship, "the papers are full of the murders and unpleasant happenings in Ireland, but little or nothing is said of the good things. The cleaning up of the slums of Dublin is a worthy thing. And do you know that since the establishment seven years ago of the Women's Health Association, there has been a decrease of 2,000 deaths a year from consumption in Ireland If that is not a good thing, what is?"

Since their last visit to Canada, His Majesty King George has elevated Lord Aberdeen to a marquisate, and in taking his title, he chose the Irish one, Temair, which has the same significance as Tara, the site from which one views a pleasant prospect, "as from your Windsor Station," said the Marquis in parting.

Prince Charles Philippe d'Orleans, descendant of King Louis Philippe of France, and nephew of the King of the Belgians, has recently arrived in Canada in the company of the Hon. John Stanley, who was his companion at Oxford, to become the latest addition to the growing list of titled agriculturists in Western Canada. He is at present on the ranch of Lord Rodney at Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta, where he will remain for a year as a pupil before acquiring a ranch of his own, probably in the vicinity of that of the Prince of Wales in Southern Alberta.

Western Canada, and in particular Southern Alberta, is being particularly favored by the aristocracy of Europe seeking fresh outlet for their endeavors along the line of agriculture, and each year sees some addition to the territory's group of titled ranchers. The acquisition and subsequent development of a ranch in Southern Alberta by the Prince of Wales is generally regarded as having been a precedent, whereas the Prince had several predecessors among the titled families of Europe, as he has had many successors. It is not generally known that the Prince was in all probability guided to some extent in the selection of the locality of his ranch by reason of the close proximity of that of the Earl of Minto, which had been established some years before.

Years ago Lord Aberdeen and the Duke of Sutherland developed ranches in Western Canada, the former at the northern entrance to the Okanagan Valley in British Columbia and the latter in the Brooks district of Southern Alberta. Before relinquishing his property a short while ago, Lord Aberdeen had performed certain valuable colonization with old country families, and played a part in the development of the British Columbia fruit industry. The area about the Duke of Sutherland's property has become famous as an alfalfa-producing region, and his land had the honor in 1921 of bringing the championship for alfalfa seed to Canada for the first time.

In the same High River district of Southern Alberta, where the ranch of the Prince of Wales is located, is the fine mixed farming establishment of the Count de Foras, a French nobleman who located there many years ago, and is one of the province's most successful agriculturists. North of this, near Calgary, is the grain farm of Admiral G. Como, D.S.O., a relative of the King of Italy, whilst still farther north is the Danish dairy colony of Markerville, where Prince Eric, son of the King of Denmark, lived for years and studied farming. Continuing still farther north, one comes to the district of Fort Saskatchewan, north of Edmonton, in which is the ranch of Lord Rodney, where the French Prince is learning the rudiments of western farming, and which the English nobleman has been developing for years along practical lines.

Since the war, following the upheaval in Europe, Western Canada has received many refugees of the old nobilities, particularly from Russia, who in the new land are moulding new lives. In addition, many individuals of high rank in the allied forces have, in the revulsion from war, and the desire for more tranquil existences, taken up the threads of civil life as farmers upon the plains of Western Canada.

This tendency, so pronouncedly evident in the years since the termination of the war, is merely a further indication of the absolute democracy of Western Canada and the high standing of agriculture in that territory, which brings all men, of whatever class or calling, up to the level of the pursuit of the world's most important industry.

New Idea In Ranching

Silk worm ranching is being carried on satisfactorily in the Sacramento Valley, California. A company has commenced the incubating of two million eggs of silkworms for the commercial production of silk. The eggs were imported from France and Italy. The farm has more than twenty-five thousand mulberry trees planted for feeding the worms and furnishing the material from which silk is made.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, JULY 31

The Loan Refusal

In connection with the Co-Operative Berry Growers Union of B.C. there has been considerable publicity given to the refusal of the provincial government of a temporary loan to enable the Union to carry on in its usual fashion this year. Realtive to this matter the following letter from A. R. Swanson, a former C.P.R. agent here, who is now located at Mission City, and who has always taken a keen interest in growers' affairs, will be read with interest. Under date of July 20th, he writes the Review:

"The loan was not granted, but the factory is operating with private money and everybody in this section of B.C. is happy. I I am in position to know that the Government did everything in its power to help the growers and the Premier cannot be censured in any way. The only criticism which can be passed against the Government is that a more watchful eye might have been kept as to the way in which expenditures by the Union were made last year.

"Although my two conferences with the Priemier did not bring the loan I always found the Premier open to consider any reasonable suggestions, and another way was found and the factory was saved to Mission, after a clean slate and drastic economy measures were adopted by the Union directorate.

"In this connection I might suggest that I feel that it is quite possible that a cannery for Creston is a possibility for next year if the people there want it. If you want a cannery there, one which would operate along sane but cold blooded business lines, let me know. It is all bosh about a properly conducted cannery not paying It is perfectly sound if conducted as a business institution.

"The last two years experience has taught the growers one of the most valuable lessons of a life time."

The Educational Survey

The report of the Educational Survey is being printed and it is understood that there will be a pretty general distribution of it throughout the Province. A summary of the report has been handed out by the Minister of Education. The Minister has stated that he will regard the report as suggestive rather than mandatory and the Education Department will introduce changes in line with the report from time to time where these are considered advisable.

School financing was very thoroughly discussed. The chief recommendation is that a tax of not less than one per cent should be levied on all incomes not now taxed and be used largely to reduce the present school tax on real property It is recommended that there be a general school levy on all property in the Province whether within a school district or not: that a larger share of the cost of buildings be borne locally; that Provincial grants be re-arranged on a basis of ability and effort to pay rather than on the number of teachers employed; that an intermediate school or junior high school be established that would permit pupils to specialize along broad general lines that are fundamental to vocational, scientific or cultural programmes of study; that manual training, domestic and technical education be continued and extended; that by a system of bonusing successful rural school teachers should be encouraged to remain in country schools.

The Commissioners oppose any suggestion that Boards of School Trustees should be committees of Municipal Councils or be in any way subservient to them. They favor the continuance of the present relations.

In regard to religious instruction the commissioners favour this but they hesitate to recommend that the teaching of religion be made a part of the school curriculum, until such time as the churches themselves can agree on what portions of the Bible should be taught.

The Commissioners oppose the imposition of high school fees. They recommend that where children from rural districts without high school attend high schools in a municipality tuition fees be paid by the government. The Commissioners give the Department of Education credit for the progress made in recent years in modernizing the system. They praise the personnel of the staff of inspectors and recommend more frequent inspection, especially in rural schools. They also have favourable comment for the Normal School staffs. In the opinion of the Commission no student should be admitted to Normal before the age of eighteen.

Drainage Affairs

Bonner's Ferry Hreald.

Commissioner W. G. Swendsen, department of reclamation, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and until late last night was in conference with O. C. Wilson and the commissioners of several drainage districts relative to engineering problems and the certification of dasinage district bonds.

Work in Drainage districts No 3 and 4 has been delayed because to date it was not possible to secure the certification of the bonds of the two districts. Commissioner Swendsen assured the representative of the Herald last evening that the bonds of these two districts would be certified at once. He was impressed with the wonderful crops growing in Drainage District No. 1 and is satisfied that the drainage plans for other districts in the Kootenai Valley are practical and feasible, and his department will co-operate with the various districts in solving the many problems of reclamation. This morning Commissioner Swendsen left, in company with J. C. Vernon, engineer for Drainage districts No. 3 and 4, and the commissioners of the two districts, to view the land to be reclaimed and will spend the day viewing the different projects in the valley which are to be reclaimed in the near future.

Mr. Swendsen has been appointed to represent the interests of the state of Idaho in the Columbia Basin reclamation project and in about a month plans to come north again to investigate the feasibility of the proposed plan to use Pend d'Oreille and Priest lakes for the storage of water for the project. At this time he will also confer with Canadian authorities in regard to plans for the control of the flood waters of the Kootenai river and the complete reclamation of the overflowed lands of the Kootenai Valley. He plans to spend at least four weeks in the district upon his next trip north

Local and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Speers and family got back on Friday from a two weeks motor trip as far east as Medicine Hat, Alberta, returning via Banff and Lake Louise. Motor tourist campers at Banff this year are almost double the number visiting that resort in any previous season.

At the school board meeting on Monday night Miss Laxton, teacher of the primary room, who has just resigned from the staff, had her resignation accepted, and the trustees are now looking for successors for her, Miss Carrie and Miss Vickers, who is away on six months' leave.

Rt. Rev. A. J. Doull, Bishop of Kootenay, was here from Vernon on Monday, when he conducted a confirmation service at Christ Church, when six new members were received into membership. At the same service he also consecrated the new altar installed at Easter. At 7.30 a.m. Tuesday he presided at a celebration of Holy Communion.

Jas. Anderson and L. Hanna of Kaslo were Creston visitors on Thursday last, making a survey of the Alexander limits, the former being in charge of the varied Alexander interests in the Kootenay. The blizzard last December took considerable toll of the standing timber. Mr. Anderson also inspected the Reclamation Farm which has just been leased for a five-year term to A. K. Klockmann.

At the inaugural meeting of the trustees at Wynndel the appointment of Miss Rose Cherrington as principal of the school was confirmed, and it is expected the first year high school work will be taken up the coming term. Miss Cherrington had splendid success with both her Entrance and high school pupils at Lister as shown by the departmental results just published and Wynndel is fortunate in securing an instructor of such proven ability.

A much enjoyed outdoor reception was that of Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Dow, at which Mrs. Geo. Mawson (nee Wilson) was the guest of honor, the affair being a miscellaneous shower for this popular July bride, a large company of guests remembering her with a great variety of useful household articles. Refreshments were served in the hostess' well known style, who was assisted by Misses Evelyn and Louise Bevan, Lillian and Rose Cherrington, Lily and Edith Wilson, Miss S. McKelvey and Miss Morna Cameron, of Perth, who is a visitor with Mrs. A. L. Cameron.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

For more detailed information see the Bulletin "How to Pre-empt Land."

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

Mrs. Lister and Alex. Lidgate of the Creston orchestas furnished the music for Saturday night's dance, which was quite well attended.

Both the Sash & Door and Continental Lumber Company mills are running to capacity these days, the demand for lumber showing some improvement this month.

Mr. Hathaway of San Francisco, Calif., of the oldtime firm of Hathaway & Paulson, was here on a business visit a couple of days last week. He is the holder of almost 6000 acres of Kitchener lands that, so far, have gone undeveloped.

NEWS OF KOOTENAYS

The News hears that Trail is to have a brand new hospital to be fully modern in all its appointments and will be about 100 x 100 feet in size.

A contract has just been let at $42 an acre to reclaim 1000 acres of Kootenay Flats lands near Bonners Ferry, in Drainage District No. 3.

Too few sportsmen were in evidence at Grand Forks one night last week to make it possible for a public meeting to form a Rod and Gun Club.

The feature of the annual school meeting at New Denver was the big turnout of women, who voted down the motion to close one of the rooms of the public school.

At a softball game at Cranbrook last week to get funds for the scouts summer camp the turnout was so small that it was not worth while taking up a collection.

400 children and adults attended the united Church Sunday School picnic at Cranbrook one afternoon last week. It was by far the biggest gathering of the sort ever seen in those parts.

Due to excessively dry weather and the hordes of grasshoppers the range feed around Penticton has been ruined and the cattlemen will either have to reduce their herds or shift them elsewhere.

The coal company at Fernie has just put a night crew to work in order to speed up the work of constructing their new machine shop. The cement crew works four hours on and eight hours off.

The horticultural authorities give it out that the Okanagan apple crop this year will probably be 87 per cent. of that of 1924. Crab-apples promise a 76 per cent. crop as compared with a year ago.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD," a Vitagraph picture with J. Warren Kerrigan in the title role, is an adaptation of this thrilling novel.

"If they so much as put a shot across my bows, up goes their Deputy-Governor to the yardarm. Your only hope, Colonel, lies in the fact that I shall send them word of that intention. And so that you may mend as far as you can the harm you have done, it's yourself shall bear them the message, my lord."

"I'll see you damned before I do," fumed his lordship.

"Why, that's unreasonable and unreasoning. But if ye insist, why, another messenger will do as well, and another hostage aboard—as I had originally intended—will make my hand the stronger."

"Aye, in God's name, go, my lord," spluttered Bishop, "and make yourself obeyed."

Lord Julian bowed stiffly to the cowering Deputy-Governor. "You understand, sir, that I do as you desire," he said coldly.

"Aye, man, aye!" Bishop assented hastily.

"Very well." Blood escorted Lord Julian to the entrance ladder at the foot of which still swung the Arabella's own cock-boat.

"It's good-bye, my lord," said Blood. "And there's another thing." He proffered a parchment. "It's the commission. Bishop was right when he said it was a mistake."

"I am sorry," Lord Julian said sincerely. "I still do not perceive—blister me if I do!—why you should not have found someone else to carry your message to the Commandant, and kept me aboard as an added hostage for his obedience to your wishes."

Blood's vivid eyes looked into the other's that were clear and honest, and he smiled, a little wistfully. A moment he seemed to hesitate.

"Why shouldn't I tell you? It's the same reason that's been urging me to pick a quarrel with you so that I might have the satisfaction of slipping a couple of feet of steel into your vitals. When I accepted your commission. I was moved to think it might redeem me in the eyes of Miss Bishop—for whose sake, as you may have guessed, I took it. But I have discovered that such a thing is beyond accomplishment. I should have known it for a sick man's dream. I have discovered also that if she's choosing you, as I believe she is, she's choosing wisely between us, and that's why I'll not have your life risked by keeping you aboard whilst the message goes by another who might bungle it. And now perhaps ye'll understand."

"And you tell me this?"

"I tell you because . . . Oh, plague on it!—so that ye may tell her; so that she may be made to realize that there's something of the unfortunate gentleman left under the thief and pirate she accounts me, and that her own good is my supreme desire. Knowing that, she may . . . faith, she may remember me more kindly—if it's only in her prayers. That's all, my lord."

Lord Julian held out his hand.

"I wonder whether you are right," said his lordship, "and whether you are not the better man."

"Where she is concerned see that you make sure that I am right. Good-bye to you."

The Arabella sailed within the hour, moving lazily before a sluggish breeze. The fort remained silent and there was no movement from the fleet to hinder her departure.

CHAPTER XXI.

War.

Five miles out at sea from Port Royal, whence the details of the coast of Jamaica were losing their sharpness, the Arabella hove to, and the sloop she had been towing was warped alongside.

Captain Blood escorted his compulsory guest to the head of the ladder. Colonel Bishop breathed freely at last.

"A safe voyage home to you, Colonel, darling," said he in valediction, and from his easy, smiling manner you would never have dreamt of the pain he carried in his breast.

On the mole at Port Royal, under the low, embattled wall of the fort, Major Mallard and Lord Julian waited to receive him, and it was with infinite relief that they assisted him from the sloop.

"My life's happiness hangs upon your answer."

"Anyway, it's not for long," growled the Colonel, finding speech at last. "No, by . . ." He emphasized the assurance by an unprintable oath. "If I spend the last shilling of my fortune and the last ship of the Jamaica fleet, I'll have that rascal in a hempen necktie before I rest." He had empurpled in his angry vehemence, and the veins of his forehead stood out like whipcord. "Come, my lord. We must take order about this, you and I."

They went off together, skirting the redoubt, and so through courtyard and garden to the house where Arabella waited anxiously. The sight of her uncle brought her infinite relief, not only on his own account, but on account also of Captain Blood.

"You took a great risk, sir," she gravely told Lord Julian after the ordinary greetings had been exchanged.

But Lord Julian answered her as he had answered Major Mallard. "There was no risk, ma'am. So that Blood's ship was allowed to pass the fort, no harm could come to Colonel Bishop. Blood pledged me his word for that."

Very early next morning, before the heat of the day came to render the open intolerable to his lordship, he espied her from his window moving amid the azaleas in the garden. He hurried forth to join her. He explained himself by the announcement that he bore her a message from Captain Blood.

"He desired me," he said at last, "to give you a message that should prove to you that there is still something left in him of the unfortunate gentleman that . . . that . . . for which once you knew him. It is not easy. Stab me, it is not. He was a man who deserved well. And amongst us we have marred his chances; your uncle, because he could not forget his rancour; you because . . . because having told him that in the King's service he would find his redemption of what was past, you would not afterwards admit to him that he was so redeemed. And this, although concern to rescue you, was the chief motive of his embracing that same service."

She had turned her shoulder to him so that he should not see her face. His lordship's unusual nervousness was steadily increasing. "He thought, then—so he told me—that my presence here had contributed to his inability to redeem himself in your sight; and unless he were so redeemed, then was redemption nothing."

"He thought that you had contributed?" she echoed.

"Aye, and he said so in terms which told me something that I hope above all things, and yet dare not believe, for, God knows, I am no coxcomb Arabella. He said . . . I had gone aboard his ship to demand the instant surrender of your uncle. He laughed at me. Colonel Bishop should be a hostage for his safety. By rashly venturing aboard his ship, I afforded him in my own person yet another hostage as valuable at least as Colonel Bishop. Yet he bade me depart; not from the fear of consequences, for he is above fear, nor from any personal esteem for me, whom he confessed that he had come to find detestable; and this for the very reason that made him concerned for my safety."

"I do not understand," she said, as he paused. "Is not that a contradiction in itself?"

"It seems so only. The fact is, Arabella, this unfortunate man has the . . . the temerity to love you."

She cried out at that, and clutched her breast whose calm was suddenly disturbed. "Go on," she bade him.

"Well, then; he saw in me one who made it impossible that he should win you—so he said. Therefore he could with satisfaction have killed me. But because my death might cause you pain, because your happiness was the thing that above all things he desired, he surrendered that part of his guarantee of safety which my person afforded him. If his departure should be hindered, and I should lose my life in what might follow, there was the risk, that . . . that you might mourn me. Because of that he bade me leave his ship, and had me put ashore." She looked at him with eyes that were aswim with tears. "Was he right, Arabella? My life's happiness hangs upon your answer."

How He Discovered Best Constipation Relief

Mr. Joseph F. Glus of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes "In the past 20 years I have been constantly troubled with constipation. Every remedy I tried would work O.K. for a while—but soon failed. The only remedy I have been able to use steadily with good results have been Carter's Little Liver Pills. I don't guess when I take them—I know I'm going to feel relieved." 25c at all druggists.

PAINS ACROSS THE BACK

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mitchell, Ontario.—"I have taken your medicine for a number of years. I do not take it steady all the time, but I am never without it. I always keep it in the house. I took it first for pains in the abdomen and bearing-down pains, headaches and pains across the back. I have my home to look after and many a day I could not get up at all. I saw the advertisement in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Mrs. John Miller told me about it, too. Every time I take it, it makes me feel better and I always recommend it to my friends. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about this medicine and you may use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. F. J. Wassmann, Mitchell, Ontario.

The merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is told by women to each other. Many women know by experience what this medicine will do and they are anxious for others to know.

Such testimony should cause any woman suffering from the troubles so common to her sex to give this well-known medicine a fair trial.

Do you know that in a recent canvass among women users of the Vegetable Compound over 220,000 replies were received. To the question, "Have you received benefit by taking this medicine?" 98 per cent. replied "Yes."

This means that 98 out of every 100 women are in better health because they have given this medicine a fair trial. C

Iodine Is Rarest Of Human Elements

Body Contains But One Five-Thousandth Of An Ounce

There is only a tenth of an ounce of iron in the human body, yet that small quantity is essential to life. But compared with iodine, iron is an abundant human element, writes Dr. Milo Hastings, of New York. The amount of iodine in a healthy human is about one five-thousandth of an ounce. Counting ten million people in New York and vicinity this would give us about a hundred pounds of iodine for the community. One man could carry the iodine for the whole ten million of us—but if we let him do so, the other 9,999,999 of us would promptly die.

This sound like a lot of fool theory—but it is as well proved as any fact known to the science of life and health. This minute quantity of iodine is contained in our thyroid gland, and because of it that gland performs its function of controlling the growth and normal development of body and mind.

Pain In The Muscles, Stiffness In Joints,

Quickly Subdued By Nerviline

Those who have tested out numerous liniments will agree that where something is needed to dislodge a deep-seated, more or less chronic condition there is nothing to compare with Nerviline. It's because Nerviline penetrates so deeply, because it has about five times the strength of the ordinary only preparation, it has come to be known as King over all Pain. For Rheumatic conditions, muscular and joint stiffness, Nerviline works wonders. A trial proves this. Get a 35 cent bottle from your dealer to-day.

Another Old Custom Passes

Whip-Women Of London Leave Old Covent Garden

The whip-women of Covent Garden are going to abandon the precincts of this famous produce market for the same reason that the village blacksmith is becoming an automobile salesman. The whip-women are among the picturesque denizens that go along with this most picturesque market square, and for the last 300 years an unbroken line of members of their families have checked the whips of the produce growers who frequent this market.

This concession of whip checking, which has supported many families for so long a time, was granted to six ancestors of the present-day whip-women in the sixteenth century when Covent Garden was really a convent garden of the Monks of Westminster outside which the farmers brought their garden truck to sell.

In that century half a dozen whip-women took charge of the whips of the farmers to keep them from the hands of thieves, and collected a penny from the owner at the end of the day. The number of whip-women has grown to 12 because some women left their share of the concessions to two daughters, but even though the price of checking whips is now threepence, the whip-women of today cannot make a living, they say.

Socialism and Capitalism

The Dreamers Who Would Upset the Present Social Order

If there were no need of betterment there would be no need of politics. But it is a long leap from the proposition that capitalism has not produced an earthly paradise to the proposition that it must therefore be replaced by a totally different system founded on a theory of which nothing is known but that its champions disagree among themselves as to what it means, and that the attempt to put one version of it into practice has resulted in a frightful national catastrophe.—London Daily Telegraph.

GOOD NEWS FOR RHEUMATIC PEOPLE

Now Known That This Trouble Must Be Treated Through the Blood

The most a rheumatic sufferer can hope for in rubbing something on the tender, aching joint is a little relief. No lotion or liniment ever did or ever can do more than this. The rheumatic poison is rooted in the blood. To get rid of it you must treat it through the blood. Any doctor will tell you that this is true. If you want something that will go right to the root of the trouble in the blood, take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to purify and enrich the blood, and when they do this all blood troubles, including rheumatism, disappear. Among those who have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. Annie Wright, Woolchester, Alta., who says: "I was a sufferer from rheumatism for six years, and during most of that time my life was one of misery. I tried several doctors, and many remedies recommended, but never got more than temporary relief. The trouble seemed to affect my whole system and I was badly rundown and suffered from headaches as well. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and through these I found complete relief and to-day I feel like a new person. I can therefore strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone suffering as I did from this trouble."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The chain breaks there into two sections, one passing through Egypt to East Africa and the other going eastward to Mesopotamia, India and China before crossing Australia and New Zealand on the way to Canada and Great Britain and Ireland.
