The Diamond Jubilee Shield, emblematic of the valley's school athletic championship, will adorn the wall at the Huscroft school for another year, pupils from that seat of learning rolling up a total of 38 points at the field day at Creston fair on Wednesday last, to annex the championship for the second year in succession.

In considering the points scored by each school it must he borne in mind that Creston school concede Huscroft 30 points, and the Canyon and Erickson schools also carry a handicap of 15 points in competition with one-room schools. But even at that Huscroft's total of 38, is splendid as Erickson's gross score was only 33, and Canyon's 41. Creston amassed a total of 61 points.

Canyon has quite a galaxy of talent, especially in the racing features. Mary Nygaard carried off first honors in the classes for girls under 7 years as well as those under 8 yeaes. Babs Spencer breasted the tape first for girls under 10 years. Sidney Gartland was first home in boys under 7 years, while the Canyon relay team under 9 years finished in front of them all.

Erickson's mainstay was Maurice Kelsey, who captured premier honors in the high and long jumps and pole vault. Minnie Huscroft was the individual star for Huscroft with two firsts—girls' high jump and 100 yards dash.

Creston's best individual performer is Olive Connatty with first in girls' long jump and second in high jump. In the racing the Nickel boys were to the fore, Norman winning the 100 yards sprint and Norman leading them all home in the boys under ten-years. Ruth Spencer captured the girls under 12 years, while the local chool was in front in the three-leg race for both boys and girls, and won the open relay race.

The sports did not pass off exactly pleasantly and if the arguing, which was worse than ever this year, is to be eliminated the teachers of the various schools ought to get together and compile some hard and fast as well as definitely stated rules as to ages, etc. The winners;

Big Entry in Every Class in Show—Children Take Lively Interest—Sale of Work and Cooking Liberally Patronized.

Both in quantity and quality the best that Wynndel can produce in fruit, vegetables, needlework, cooking, as well as a splendid children's section, was in evidence at the first annual fall fair at that centre, which was staged in the old schoolhouse on Saturday afternoon under the direction of Wynndel Women's Institute.

In addition to tht natural attractiveness of such a varied display the effect was heightened by still further decorative effort by the Institute members who used the Institute colors to good advantage.

The fair was opened in time-honored fashion by Col. Fred Lister, M.P,P., who spoke in eulogistic terms of the enterprise of the ladies, and the splendid horticultural possibilities of the Wynndel section. The speaker was introduced to the gathering by the Institute president, Mrs. H. A. Bathie.

Russia's Five-Year Plan

Under all normal conditions the people of Western Canada would display merely an academic interest in events transpiring and developments taking place in Russia, but for some time past, and to an ever-increasing extent, Russian policy has had a bearing and a definite effect upon the prosperity of this portion of the Dominion, in fact upon the whole business structure of Canada, as well as of other countries.

It is difficult to find out exactly what is taking place in Russia, as many reports are both confusing and contradictory, consequently it is not surprising that people in this country are still puzzled and uncertain in their minds whether Russia constitutes a real and permanent menace to Canada, not politically or in a military sense, but economically.

Certain things have, nevertheless, become fairly well established. For example, it is known that in October, 1928, Russia inaugurated what is known as the "Five-Year Plan" of national development which observers on the spot in Russia describe as "the most interesting economic experiment anywhere in the world."

On October 1, 1930, the second year of this experiment will come to a close. So substantial has been the progress made that now the slogan is: "The Five-Year Plan In Four Years." What is this "Five-Year Plan?" It was outlined by a Soviet Government agency over a year ago, and, in part, the plan—

"Provides for total capital investments in the five years beginning October 1, 1928, of $33,000,000,000, or about two and one-half times the actual investments in the preceding five years. A goodly share of this will go for the construction of industrial plants and for the purchase of foreign equipment and machinery. The foreign-trade programme calls for imports of about $3,200,000,000 during the period. Among the outstanding projects scheduled for construction, and in most instances completion, during the five-year period, are two tractor factories with an output of 40,000 units per year each, an automobile factory with an output of 100,000 cars per annum, a score of steel mills to produce over 5,000,000 tons of steel per year, many chemical, textile, machine-building, electro-technical, paper, glass, leather, and other factories, as well as a dozen or more large power plants, many mines, etc."

That was the "Plan," but, according to a Moscow correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, the "Five-Year Plan" in many instances is already surpassing the figures expected to be attained. He says: "The first version of the "Plan" called for the production of 22,000,000 tons of oil and 10,000,000 tons of cast-iron in 1933; now these figures have been revised upwards, respectively, to 38,000,000 and 17,000,000. During the current year 221 new industrial enterprises, built at a cost of approximately $425,000,000, have begun to function, and the list of unusually large factories which have been completed comparatively recently, includes a tractor plant, an agricultural machinery factory, a paper mill, a pipe factory, two oil refineries, several electrical stations."

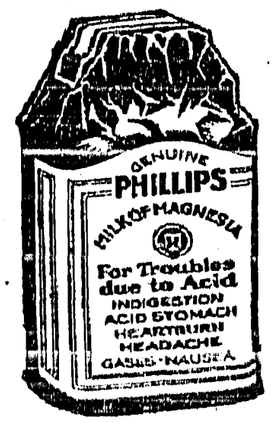
The "Five-Year Plan" also included what practically amounts to the nationalization of agriculture, and the erection of these huge tractor and agricultural machinery factories, oil refineries, etc., are all a part of this new agricultural policy. The Manchester Guardian correspondent in Moscow, further notes that "in collective farming, 25 per cent. of the peasant households have already gone over to the co-operative method, although the "Plan" originally contemplated only 20 per cent. in 1933."

Russia is now dumping wheat, coal, lumber, into many European and other markets, further demoralizing the already badly demoralized world price for these commodities. The Russian Government is reported as having chartered a large number of vessels to convey wheat from Russia to England, Italy, and other countries, and that this wheat will be sold abroad regardless of price. The United States Government has charged that Russia has engaged in transactions on the Chicago grain markets to force down the price of wheat; the Canadian Government has secured power from Parliament to prohibit Russian imports into Canada; the League of Nations at Geneva, is discussing the effects of Russian policy on all other nations.

It is further alleged that under Soviet auspices this great "Five-Year Plan" is being carried out by poorly-paid labor, and much of it forced labor, even convict labor; that the standard of living has been definitely lowered; that food and even clothing supplies are sharply rationed, with the result that other countries, with higher standards of living and greater individual liberty of action, cannot begin to compete with Russia.

The Bolshevistic propaganda of Russia failed in its efforts to bring about world revolution, but its "Five-Year Plan" of economic development at home with a view to dumping huge quantities of goods and products of all kinds into world markets is, even before the "Plan" is one-half completed, having an adverse effect in all other countries, and further depressing already depressed business conditions throughout the world.

The farmers of Western Canada, who must depend for their success upon making profitable sales of their products in world markets, are among the chief sufferers.



When Food Sours

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

How Saskatoon Is Favored

Saskatchewan City Attracts Many Important Gatherings

Saskatoon has been a much visited city this summer. Recent visitors included the 150 British medicos, while on September 7th came the Sun Life special trains; on the 9th the Canadian Ticket Agents' Association and on September 12th the Dakota farmers—some of whom, it is pointed out, may decide to remain in the region. "Commissioner Joseph Holmes," says The Hub, "had to take special exercises to strengthen his right hand against the intensive period of welcoming the strangers within our gates."

THE ANAEMIC GIRL

Who Has Lost Her Charm and Beauty

"She seems to be losing her looks." This remark is often heard about girls who were once noted for their sparkling eyes, their rosy cheeks and their vitality. The cause is not far to seek—they have become anaemic; that accounts for the pallor and the loss of charm. The anaemic girl, if she neglects her health, may be a sufferer all her life.

Take heed, you pale, anaemic girls. Plenty of fresh air, nourishing food and rest will help you, but what you need most is good blood. Those wretched headaches; that fickle appetite and those terrible heart palpitations can only be banished if the blood is rich, red and pure.

Good blood—the kind that brings good health is created by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of these Pills is to build rich, red, health-giving blood. The Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

High Educational Standard

Canadian School System Impresses Educationists

Visitors to Canada are invariably impressed with the country's educational system, particularly if they be men especially interested in the subject. It is greatly to be doubted if any nation on earth excels our own in the matter of schools of all kinds. Our educational system is thorough always, standards are high and our graduates emerge from schools and colleges with diplomas that have always placed their services in great demand across the line.—Border Cities Star.

Do not allow worms to sap the vitality of your children. If not attended to, worms may work irreparable harm to the constitution of the infant. The little sufferers cannot voice their ailment, but there are many signs by which mothers are made aware that a dose of Miller's Worm Powders is necessary. These powders act quickly and will expel worms from the system without any inconvenience to the child.

Give the Devil His Due

An old Scottish woman, who had never been known to say an ill word about anybody, was one day taken to task by her husband. "Janet," he said impatiently, "I do believe ye'd say a guid word for the de'il himself." "Ah, weel," was the reply, "he may na be sae guid as he micht be, but he's a very industrious body."

He sees ahead only years of endless torment with intervals of rest which are themselves fraught with never ceasing fear of renewed attacks. Let him turn to Dr. J. D. Over a Hundred Varieties

A single tree with approximately 125 varieties of apples has been grown near Martinez, California, by George Upham. It took more than twelve years of experiments to obtain the phenomenon. Upham has been grafting branches to the original tree since 1918. In the spring the grafted limbs bud at different times with blossoms in dozens of shades.

Britain's Youngest Aviator

Miss Winifred Joss Drinkwater of Paisley, Scotland, is Britain's youngest aviator, having just received her pilot's license at 17, the minimum age for a British pilot. In flying solo she handles her machine like an expert. S. Baldwin, secretary of the Scottish Flying School, says she will be a great flyer.

Mrs. J. J. MacDonald, Glace Bay, N.S., writes:—"I am the mother of six children, and would not be without a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house. Car Elaborately Equipped

Fittings In Limousine Of Jugo-Slavian King Very Complete

A Packard sedan limousine, recently delivered to King Alexandria, of Jugo-Slavia, is said to be one of the most elaborately equipped automobiles in Europe. The space under the glass partition separating the rear compartment from the driver's space is divided into a number of compartments. A large locker in the centre is fitted with a leather lunch kit, equipped with a complete silver and gold table service. In a double compartment at the right are thermos bottles for warm foods and a large toilet case. Thermos bottles for hot or cold liquids are fitted into a cabinet at the left of the centre locker, and in the top of this space are a first-aid kit and a large cigarette case. A built-in compartment for the King's sword extends across the top of the three compartments, and the lid, which protects the sword against dust, becomes a shelf when closed. Immediately in front of this is a tray to accommodate road maps.

Source Of the Thames

Seven Springs In Cotswold Hills Feed World's Most Famous River

How many people—even among the millions who live upon its banks—could say offhand where the source of the Thames was to be found? The fact that so few of us know anything about the beginnings of the world's most famous river is reflected in the statement, that, until recently the Thames had its source in a rubbish dump. Now the rubbish has been cleared away, and visitors to the source will find a little pool in a wood hollow, with, at one side, a stream gushing out. It is Seven Springs, the source of the Thames; but there is nothing to tell anyone that this is the case, and in the quiet Costwold Hills, where Seven Springs is situated, we are not thinking of London and London's River. However, a plan is now on foot to lay out the site in a worthy manner and to build a fountain through which the Seven Springs may flow.

British Capital For Alberta

Anglo-Western Oils Limited To Commence Development Work

Five million dollars of British capital, organized under the name of Anglo-Western Oils Limited, with a federal charter and headed by Sir Edward Manville, chairman of the Phoenix Oil and Transport Company, and of the Daimler Company, both of Great Britain, has been made available for Alberta oil development, according to an announcement made in Calgary recently.

The announcement was made by J. C. Dallas, managing director of Calmont Oils Limited. Mr. Dallas said the company had acquired 490,000 acres in Alberta and two wells would be sunk immediately in the Milk River area.

OUTCRY AGAINST THE DUMPING OF RUSSIAN WHEAT

London, England.—Wheat will play possibly a dominant part at the Imperial Conference discussions. The dumping of Russian wheat produced under conditions of semi-serfdom, has raised an outcry not only in rural England but across the agrarian states of Europe.

It has given the movement for wider Empire preference impetus such as no mere academic discussions could possibly have done.

Nevertheless there are strong doubts as to whether the present Labor government would be prepared to impose a duty on foreign wheat. The "Free Traders" and the "Free Fooders," such as Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Rt. Hon. William Graham, president of the Board of Trade, are much at the economic helm at Downing Street.

The Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions, has a counter scheme which would accord preferences by way of bulk state purchases. But although Mr. Thomas has not yet divulged the details of his plan it is meeting strenuous criticism on the ground that it will increase the price of food.

The Daily Herald, Labor organ, dismisses the outcry against the dumping of Russian wheat as a political stunt.

In regard to the conference on Dominion legislation, whose report comes up for consideration at the Imperial Conference, the Manchester Guardian remarks that its findings, as a whole, will doubtless be adopted without much difficulty.

"The right of the British Government to disallow or reserve Dominion legislation has become purely theoretical and the recommendation that it should finally be abolished is not likely to be disputed," says the Guardian.

"It is well, however, to recognize that this means that minorities such as the Southern Loyalists in Ireland and the native groups actually within the Union of South Africa, can no longer, even in theory, look to Britain for protection."

"That Dominion legislation should have extra-territorial validity is also a necessary and desirable result of equality. Difficult questions arise, such as the uniformity of merchant shipping legislation within the Empire, but this will be of the greatest value.

"If a dominnion which now has no mercantile marine, asserts its desire to fly its own flag to the exclusion of one which marks it as a member of the British commonwealth, there will be no thunder from Whitehall to deny its right to do so."

The Guardian believes, however, that if the test actually came the practical convenience of flying a flag which the British navy would recognize and protect would likely weigh heavily against the pleasure of asserting undisputed independence.

Regarding the much-discussed abolition of dominion appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council, the Guardian remarks that those who are alarmed to hear talk of modifying the tribunal's functions may be comforted by the fact that the need for some final inter-imperial court is recognized even by those dominions which have taken the most pleasure in flouting the authority of the present one.

Seeking Cause Of Depression

Geneva, Switzerland.—Susan Lawrence, Labor chairman and parliamentary secretary to the ministry of health in the MacDonald cabinet, in the name of the British Government urged the League of Nations assembly to institute a world-wide scientific inquiry into the fundamental causes of economic depression reported by virtually all countries on the globe.

Manitoba's First Welfare Conference

Important Conference To Be Held In Winnipeg Early This Month

Winnipeg, Man.—Much interest is now being taken throughout the Province in the first Manitoba Conference on Social Work that is to be held at the Marlborough Hotel, Winnipeg, on the 7th, 8th and 9th of October.

This is to be a conference where everyone interested in social work or any phase of it, and including social workers, church workers, teachers, nurses, municipal officials, school trustees and board members, and those who come in contact with the different human problems of their communities will be welcome, and their part in the discussions appreciated.

Much study has been given over the past nine months to the series of topics related to Manitoba problems that should occupy a place on the program, and to the securing of the most qualified persons to lead in their presentation and discussion. Over fifty men and women, all prominent in their various fields, have already accepted certain responsibilities for this purpose.

Two outstanding speakers, Dr. Bernard H. McGhie, of Orillia, possibly's Canada's foremost authority on the training of the feeble-minded child, and Dr. Henry L. McKay of Chicago, a noted student of the problem of the delinquent, are among those on the program.

The problems of the underprivileged or wayward child, the destitute or broken up family, the mental defective, the delinquent, in their various aspects, as well as such general topics as "Health" and "Unemployment" are all listed for discussion.

The financial burden placed on provincial and municipal funds, as well as the calls on the purse of the benevolent individual, are each year assuming greater proportions. There is, in addition, an ever-widening belief, and, in consequence, an increasing pressure on the public authorities, that for the general good more still has to be done in dealing with the problem of the mental defective. In difficult times, such as the one the country is now passing through, the question of family relief and the proper responsibility for its care is assuming a new importance.

All such questions are giving increased thought and anxiety to those interested in the welfare of their various communities, and emphasize the necessity for seeking an intelligent plan to deal with them.

The State of Minnesota, for over 30 years, has held annual conferences on its welfare work and every year has brought an increasing help to those engaged in social work. A representative attendance from all over the Province should give to this first Manitoba Conference on social work, decisions and results of the greatest benefit, and work out practical methods for dealing with some of the immediate difficulties.

To those desiring the detailed program of the conference, a request to the Secretary, 753 Wolseley Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba, will secure it.

Saving To Dairy Farmer

Cream Exporters Now Have Inspection Free Of Charge

Ottawa, Ontario.—As a measure of relief for dairy farmers producing milk and cream for export to the United States, Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture, has issued instructions to the veterinary inspection staff that beginning September 22, inspections required under the United States Federal Import Milk Act to permit of milk or cream being shipped into the United States, shall be made free of charge.

This means a saving to the dairy farmer of from $2 to $5 or more for the official inspection of his premises and herd.

Illicit Narcotics Traffic

League Of Nations Told That Canada Is One Of the Victims

Geneva, Switzerland.—Mrs. Mary Irene Parlby, of Alberta, told the social questions committee of the League of Nations that Canada is one of "the victims" of the illicit traffic in narcotics.

She said the situation was improving, however, owing to the arrest of many taking part in the traffic. Thorough control of narcotics entering Canada had also aided in decreasing the quantities illegally brought in.

Expect Collapse Of Gandhi Movement

Indian Government Reports Revolt Is Nearing End

Simla, India.—The collapse of Mahatma Gandhi's civil disobedience movement was prophesied in the Indian government's weekly communique on the political situation in the country.

The communique said that the influence of propaganda of National Congress agents was "rapidly evaporating" and though still important in rural areas was destined to fail inevitably because of the deleterious economic consequences of the civil disobedience campaign.

Relief Work Started

Unemployed Mine Workers Of Nova Scotia Will Receive Help

Halifax, N.S.—Distribution of relief to mine workers and their families in the various colliery districts of Nova Scotia affected by unemployment will be started immediately, the cost to be borne by the Federal and Provincial Governments and the municipalities in communities concerned. This statement was made by P. W. Morrison, president of the United Mine Workers, district 26, and mayor of Glace Bay, following a conference with Hon. Percy C. Black, acting premier of Nova Scotia.

Executions In Russia

Forty-Eight Revolutionists Are Shot For Destroying Food Reserves

Moscow, Russia.—All members of a secret counter-revolutionary society, numbering 48, who were found guilty of seeking to starve the population of the Soviet Union by destroying the food reserve of the country, were shot recently by the Ogpu, as "unreconcilable enemies of the Soviet Government and active counter-revolutionists."

Professor Alexander Ryazantzey and Eugene Karatyguin headed the list of executed governmental officials.

See Trade Revival

Bankers Predict Permanent Improvement In Volume Of Business

Victoria, B.C.—"We have reached the bottom and are at the turn," Sir Robert Holt, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said here recently in commenting on conditions in Canada.

"There is no stringency of money in the country," commented Sir Charles Gordon, president of the Bank of Montreal, another Canadian financier visiting here.

"The trade of the country has suffered a setback due in some measure to the low price of commodities, but there is a better feeling now," Sir Charles added.

"The revival is coming, but it will be gradual," he continued. There is plenty of money in the country for the business being done and we are always ready to advance loans for legitimate commercial enterprise."

This year's crop, which has been estimated at four hundred million bushels, is better than had been expected, Sir Charles commented.

"There should be a permanent improvement in the volume of business done by the manufacturers of the country," he said when questioned concerning the new tariff.

'Plane Makes Speedy Trip

Six Hours For Flight From Oklahoma To Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Man.—Nine hundred and thirty miles in 385 minutes—almost 2.5 miles a minute—that is the record made by Daniel J. Moran, president of the Continental Oil Company and four companions, including W. M. Harrison, managing editor of the Daily Oklahoma and former editor of the Winnipeg Tribune, in the fastest trip ever made by humans from Oklahoma City to Winnipeg.

Mr. Moran had a date in Winnipeg with Governor Sales of the Hudson's Bay Company, and he started from the southern city with a forty-mile wind trying to pound his tail all the way through. He left there in the morning and had lunch in Winnipeg and was smilingly shaking hands with Governor Sales nearly 1,000 miles from his starting point in the afternoon. He used his own tri-motored custom-built Ford monoplane.

Is Proving a Success

Canadian Cattle Exports To Britain Favorably Received

Ottawa, Ont.—"The resumption of Canada's export cattle trade to the Old Country has apparently got away to a good start," commented H. S. Arkell, Dominion livestock commissioner, following receipt of a report on the initial shipment of Canadian beef cattle to Manchester, England.

"Our cattle have evidently met a very satisfactory reception despite the fact they arrived on the market during one of the hottest spells of weather England has experienced in 20 years," Mr. Arkell said.

"Now that we have made such a good start, Canadian shippers should see to it that no inferior cattle are allowed to go overseas."

BISHOP-ELECT GOES TO NEW DIOCESE

Rodrigue Villeneuve and Bishop J. Prud'homme, of the diocese of Prince Albert-Saskatoon.

SPIRITED REPLY TO CRITICISMS OF WHEAT POOL

Saskatoon, Sask.—The individual farmer in Saskatchewan is harder pressed financially today than he was in 1923, when the Wheat Pool was organized and depression was world-wide, in the opinion of H. S. Fry, of Regina, publicity director of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

Commenting on the Winnipeg news despatch which said that reports had been circulated to various exchanges that the Pool was facing financial disaster, Mr. Fry said that was "only an exaggerated example of what has been going on particularly during the past three months."

Opponents of organized marketing on the part of farmers, he said, considered the present an opportune time to try to shake the faith of farmers in their marketing organization. The attempt would fail, he was convinced. The Pool was handling a larger percentage of the crop than last year.

Whatever happens, farmers will not go back to a system which the great majority of them have abandoned because of its failure to give due consideration to the producer as a primary factor.

The spreading of maliciously faked reports such as the one circulated recently the director termed "as traitorous to the national welfare and the welfare of agriculture in Western Canada, as it is well-timed psychologically."

"I can only repeat," said Mr. Fry, "what has already been said from so many official quarters, that there is absolutely no foundation whatever for this malicious story.

"This is a matter which, of course, directly affects the business of the central selling agency, but attacks such as this, made under cover and designed to misuse the power of the press, are not unheard of in our experience previously, and are aimed primarily at breaking down the morale of the membership of the provincial pools, on the basis of which the C.S.A. operates.

Many factors combined to create the farmers' serious financial condition, Mr. Fry believed, among these low prices, short crops, obligations to creditors accumulated during years of higher prices, and the general world-wide depression.

"This unusual combination of circumstances is being used to the utmost by those who would injure the Pools through any means short of direct libel," he said, "and the incident is only an aggravated example of what has been going on in a lesser way continually and in the last three months in particular.

"All these efforts to undermine organized marketing in this province are foredoomed to certain failure. Farmers may well be disappointed at the present low level of prices. Cash wheat has dropped nearly 50 cents on the Winnipeg market since the beginning of the present crop year.

Deplores Alarmist Talk

Dr. Swanson Says There Is No Over Production Of Wheat

Quebec, Que.—All alarmist talk of world over-production of wheat was, in his opinion, wholly unwarranted, Dr. W. W. Swanson, of Saskatoon, head of the Department of Economics of the University of Saskatchewan, said, prior to sailing for London, England. Dr. Swanson is one of the wheat experts attending the London conference in an advisory capacity.

"Wheat is the world's basic food; there has never been any true surplus of food and there probably never will be," Dr. Swanson said. "There certainly is none at present, and a country such as Canada may safely regard its stores of wheat as the truest form of wealth, certain to be converted into money on a fair basis of price, despite temporary difficulties of marketing."

Shows Large Profit

London, England.—The British post office will show a profit of well over nine million pounds, or $45,000,000 this year, Hon. H. B. Lees-Smith, Postmaster-General, states. The announcement is going to arouse the advocates of penny postage to fresh efforts.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, OCT. 3

Let's Have an Early Decision

Now that the formal hearing has been held by the provincial water board on the rival applications for permission to develop Goat River canyon it is to be hoped that no time will be lost in handing down a decision into which will be written in unmistakeable terms the earliest possible date for the commencement and completion of this long looked for power development.

Our information is that both companies have their plans all prepared and have ample capital to at once proceed with construction, under which circumstances there seems no good reason for the water board to allow many days to pass without work being commenced.

And, likewise, the companies interested will be wanting a quick decision so that full advantage can be taken of the fine weather that may be expected before winter sets in to get on with their work.

When the wintry winds do blow cement work is not done to the best advantage, and on other outdoor effort altogether too much time is lost in near zero temperatures swinging arms, stamping feet and other activities of that sort in an effort to keep up steam for the work in hand.

Road Appropriations

In an effort to excuse the government for the poor shape highways in most parts of the province are in apologists for the administration are now saying that appropriations for maintenance are not large enough, and point to the fact that while traffic has greatly increased in the past four or five years, yet the annual grant for keeping up highways is much the same as in 1925, for instance.

At first blush this argument may look to have merit to it, but let us not forget that in the last five years work with horses and much man or hand labor has been done away with. Today the gas shovel in charge of one man at $5.00 a day will load as much gravel as a dozen men who formerly were paid about $50. And a motor truck driven by a man at the same $5.00 a day we should get better distribution than was formerly possible with at least half a dozen teams who, with driver, would have drawn down another $50 daily.

While traffic has undoubtedly increased, we must not forget that labor saving methods have surely greatly reduced labor costs, so that the same amount for upkeep as five years ago should be equally efficient today—and a little more so. Instead of pleading insufficiency in appropriation it would be much nearer the truth to lay the blame on inefficiency in supervision — of both work and expenditures.

Where the Money Goes

Early in September the Tolmie government abolished the one-man liquor control board and has replaced it with a board of three members. Up till September it cost the province $12,000 yearly in salary to handle its liquor control business, but with the new three-man control the yearly stipends paid total $30,000, of which amount $15,000 goes to the board chairman.

At a time when it was expected the administration would be limiting expenditures in luxuries, in order to cope with the demands for unemployment relief, this reorganization of the liquor control board at such princely salaries is proving anything but popular with the people.

And, bad and all as the uncalled for raise in government operation expense is, the situation is made all the more disgraceful by the government permitting W. F. Kennedy to resign as member for North Okanagan, to take a place on the board at $7,500 per annum.

In the twelve years the Liberals were in power at Victoria it had many sins, both of omission and commission to answer for, but the Review cannot recall any of them quite so reprehensible as the Kennedy salary grab.

If the administration at Victoria is going to develop the policy of adding to the staffs of departments that have a surplus of revenues Creston and district would not be averse to the appointment of a game guardian for this section. If our memory is not playing tricks on us we feel sure we are quite justified in saying that for 1929 the intake for hunting and fishing licenses at Creston would be ample to pay the salary and expenses of such an officer the local Rod and Gun Club have long asked for.

An insulator saved may mean a life saved

Insulators, those glass caps on telephone poles to which the wires are connected, are important factors in keeping the telephone service open. If they are broken a cessation of service is likely to result.

So the breaking of an insulator, putting telephone service out of order, may prevent an emergency call from going through and thereby result in the loss of life. Likewise, an insulator saved may mean a life saved.

Deliberate breaking of insulators is a criminal offence, and prosecution will follow detection.

Wins First Prize For Layer Cake

Above is a photograph of Mrs. W. McKenzie, 9 Fernwood Park Ave., Toronto, to whom was awarded the first prize for layer cake, at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. There were a large number of entries of cakes of various kinds and Mrs. McKenzie not only won first prize for iced layer cake, but also for muffins and small cakes. We give below the recipe used by Mrs. McKenzie for the prize-winning cake.

Golden Layer Cake:—½ cup butter; 1 cup sugar; yolks of 6 eggs; ½ cup milk; 1¾ cups flour; 4 teaspponsful Magic Baking Powder; 1 teaspoonful of orange extract. Cream butter and sugar, add well beaten yolks and beat again with butter and sugar until very light. Sift flour and Magic Baking Powder together and add to first mixture alternately with milk. Beat lightly for about one minute, put into greased layer pans and bake. Temperature 400 degrees Farrenheit. Time about 20 minutes. Put together with lemon filling and ice with boiled frosting.

Lemon Filling:—1 lemon and rind; 1 cup cold water; 1 cup sugar; 1 egg; 1 tablespoonful flour. Beat lemon-rind and egg together. Stir in lemon juice and sugar. Dissolve flour in water. Cook in double boiler till it jellies and spread.

Boiled Frosting:—Dissolve a cup of granulated sugar in ¼ cup of hot water. Wash down the sugar from the sides of the pan, cover and let boil three or four minutes, uncover and let boil to a rather firm soft ball stage. Pour in a fine stream on the whites of 2 eggs, beaten dry, beating constantly meanwhile. A few Maraschina cherries chopped and added to the frosting gives a delicious and pleasing flavor.

School For Flin Flon

Mining Town In Northern Manitoba Town To Have Public School

Efforts of the mining town of Flin Flon to have modern public school instruction this year have at last been successful, according to word received in The Pas. Equipment is now being installed in the class rooms, and it is expected that work will begin within ten days.

Financial plans are about complete. With grants from the province, the town, and with the aid of the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co., grades up to eight will be taught this year.

It has been decided to engage Miss Doris M. Foster, of Winnipeg Beach, to teach the primary grades, and Miss Margaret Sutherland for grades three, four and five.

In days of yore if anybody missed a stage coach he was contented to wait two or three days for the next one. Now he lets out a squawk if he misses one section of a revolving door.

New Market In Egypt

Trial Shipment Of Apples Being Made From Okanagan Valley

A new market for British Columbia apples in Egypt is being opened up by a trial shipment there, under arrangements completed by the provincial department of agriculture.

This shipment will consist of 2,000 cases from the Okanagan Valley at a price to net the growers a profit which would be small in a domestic market but satisfactory in an export market. The agricultural department believes that Egypt will offer a large market for British Columbia fruit in the future and is anxious to cultivate this business. A few apples from this country have found their way into Egypt before, but the market has never been built up in a big way.

ZACHARIAS AND ELISABETH — Life In a Pious Jewish Home

Golden Text: "And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless."—Luke 1.6.

Lesson: Luke 1.5-80.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 122.

explanations and Comments

A Righteous Couple, verses 5, 6.—In the days of Herod, King of Judaea (Herod the Great, who reigned from 37 to 4 B.C.), there lived a priest named Zacharias, of the course, or group of Abijah. "David divided the priests into twenty-four courses, each of which in rotation was responsible for the temple services for a week. Each course, therefore, officiated twice a year, at an interval of six months. After the captivity only four courses returned, but these were subdivided into twenty-four courses under the old manner. The course of Abijah is said to officiated in April and October." The wife of Zacharias, who was a descendant of Aaron, was called Elisabeth. Their home was in the hill country south of Jerusalem. Both were righteous before God, strict Jews who observed the Mosaic law, kept all the commandments and ordinances. They were not faultless, but blameless according to the Old Testament standards.

The, Birth and Naming Of John verses 57-66.—When Elisabeth's son was born, all her neighbors and relations rejoiced with her. "There is nothing else in the world so important as children, nothing else so interesting." — David Starr Jordan). Those present at the circumcision of the child when he was eight days old, wished to name him Zacharias after his father, but Elisabeth said, "Not so; but he shall be called John." See verse 13. "John" means "the grace of God." "There is none of thy kindred that is called by this name," they said in astonishment, and turning to the father, they asked him what the name should be, making use of signs, for he seems to be supposed deaf as well as dumb. (Verses 18-20. "Five words cost Zacharias forty weeks' silence." — Thomas Fuller. "Various suggestions have been made to evade the conclusion that he was deaf: that men are very apt to treat a dumb person as if he were also deaf; that they communicated by signs instead of by speech to spare the feeling of Elisabeth, whose judgment was being appealed from; that a sign was all that was needed, Zacharias having heard all that was said."—Expositor's Greek Testament. Zacharias called for a writing tablet a tablet covered with wax, and upon it he wrote with a stylus, "His name is John."

Then Zacharias burst forth into speech, blessing God. The people were much impressed by his recovery of speech and by the unexpected name given the babe, and they perceived that some great future was before the child. "What, in view of these things, shall this child be?" they asked. "For the hand of the Lord was with him," the Evangelist comments.

Strength Of Canadian Woods

A comparison of strength values of wood of sugar maple and yellow birch show that sugar maple is considerably the stronger in the green condition, whereas after seasoning, they are of approximately the same strength. This is revealed through publication of results of the physical and mechanical properties of Canadian woods by the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, Department of the Interior.

Last Year 95 Creameries Produced Sixteen Million Pounds Of Butter

The dairy record of the Province of Alberta is an encouraging one. In 1912 the province had only 53 creameries producing a little over 3,000,000 pounds of butter. Last year there were 95 creameries with an output of 16,000,000 pounds. In 1912 six cheese factories produced but 40,000 pounds of cheese, while last year ten factories produced over a million pounds.

Interesting Discovery In Wales Of Gold Coins Minted In 1340

Thirty golden nobles, in perfect condition and apparently fresh from the Mint where they were struck to celebrate the defeat of the French fleet by Edward III., at Suys, in 1340, were discovered recently on the edge of an ancient road leading from Taliesin, Cardiganshire, to the Dovey Estuary, where a ferry in olden days carried travellers across to North Wales.

The coins depict an English warship breasting the waves and surmounted by the English coat-of-arms and the King's head.

CHAPTER I.

When, after years of slavery to the whims of a hard old uncle, Nicholas Hastings went forth on his quest for freedom, he started tramp-wise, his belongings tied in a blue-checked handkerchief which he had bought for the occasion. For years he had foreseen this departure from the home of his fathers—the haughty farewell he should bestow upon an irate uncle—the tears of his gentle Aunt Nettie when he took her in his arms. But Fate frustrated those plans. His patient little aunt had been laid away in Elmwood Cemetery two months before; and only a week ago his uncle had followed her, as if, Nick thought with grim and sacrilegious humor, he was loath to let her enjoy a peaceful residence in her Heavenly Mansion.

So there were no farewells to say. Instead, Nick left by the back door (because he didn't want Selina Smith, the village gossip, to see his stick and handkerchief), and stood for a moment looking off at the familiar landscape.

He had always loved the view from this little porch. An orchard sloped gently to a green intervale, through which a sleepy river travelled to the sea. One wouldn't have dreamed that the house stood on a dusty thoroughfare. From here were visible only "green pastures and still waters." Nick could remember sitting here with his mother on summer evenings, and after his mother's death, with old Aunt Nettie. For a moment a wave of tenderness for the place swept over him; then youth flooded back with an intoxicating exhilaration. He slipped the door key into his pocket, and with no tinge of regret vaulted the stone wall and strode across the orchard, where, once beyond the eyes of curious neighbors, he would strike into the broad highway.

Free! No more toiling over ledgers in that stuffy corner of the First National Bank! No more horrible deceit when he got a raise, for fear his uncle would claim it for added board. No more stifling of natural impulses. How had he endured those years?

"I've been a slave," said Nick, pausing beneath an ancient apple tree, "but I'm a slave no longer. I can conquer the world!"

Then, because he knew he was behaving like a foolish little boy, he laughed at himself, and reaching up, picked a of spray apple blossom, breathing deeply of it.

"May!" he exclaimed. "May in New England — and I'm free! Gee! how I've longed for just this moment —longed to start out with no cares or responsibilities—without even a destination, and all my possessions in a blue bandanna! As Gay would say ——"

He stopped, suddenly, at an amazing thought. He had forgotten to say good-bye to Gay! What a cad he was —especially when she was alone in the world like himself. He might send her a postcard—but no, that wasn't fair. Gay had always sympathized with his dreams and encouraged him to believe they would come true, as they had. In these last busy days of settling affairs, he had—forgotten her.

"I'm an ungrateful scoundrel," he told himself; and though it meant retracing his steps, and the risk of passing Selina Smith's back windows, he faced about immediately, and was rewarded by the sight of a pink-clad figure bending above some budding jonquils. Nick whistled softly, and, starting up, the girl faced him.

"You're off—so soon?"

The color that pounded in her face might have come from her sudden change of attitude, or from emotion. Nick never saw it, so wrapt was he in his own affairs.

"I'm off," he echoed. "Did you suppose I'd stay here mourning my dear late uncle? Don't look so shocked, Gay. I needn't pretend to you, need I, that I'm bereaved?"

"I'm not shocked," the girl protested instantly, "only surprised. I've been thinking every day that you'd run in——"

"My dear, I've been deep in—packing."

He laughed, proudly displaying his handkerchief and stick.

The girl laughed too, and said: "Where are you going?"

"Where?" Nick looked at her reproachfully. "Have you shared my plans so sparingly all these years, Gay, that you ask that question? Where indeed! To the ends of the earth!"

He threw both arms wide, as if tn embrace the universe, and Gay smiled: a wistful smile that caught at something in his heart which hitherto had remained untouched.

"I wish I were a man, Nick."

He answered, his eyes devouring her sweet girlishness: "You're pretty nice as you are. I don't think I'd want you changed, Gay; and I don't believe you would change, if you could."

She sank down on the grass beside the jonquils, and, as if he had forgotten his haste to be away, Nick sat beside her, his hands clasped round his knees.

"No," she said honestly, "I wouldn't change, of course; but it must be wonderful to start off as you are starting, Nick. Do you suppose I, too, don't long to go 'to the ends of the earth?' Do you imagine I like living here with Sadie Twichell, and sewing on other women's clothes in order to pay my board?"

Nick looked at her, his brows drawn into a frown.

"Do you know," he admitted, "I never thought of it. It's because you're a girl. Somehow one doesn't expect a girl to go a-gypsying, though why she shouldn't—Gay," he broke off suddenly, "what pigs men are!"

She laughed.

"One would hardly call you that, Nick, after the way you stuck by your Aunt Nettie."

"But I am," said Nick, still frowning. "I came to say good-bye to you," (his honesty made him want to reveal the fact that in selfishness he had almost forgotten the farewell, but his kind heart forbade the disclosure that he knew would hurt her), "I came to say good-bye, never thinking that you, too, might long to do what I am doing. I'm ashamed of myself, Gay. What must you think of me?"

"I think," she said, meeting his eyes soberly, "that you're getting just what you deserve—a good time. What do you think of me, to imagine for a moment that I don't rejoice with you? Nick, you're only a boy, and you've never had much fun. Why shouldn't you be a little thoughtless? I—I believe I'm glad you are!"

He stirred, a bit uneasily, while Gay added with an understanding smile: "I mustn't keep you. I know you're chafing at the bit."

She arose, leaning down to brush an imaginary something from her skirt; and as he got to his feet she stretched out a friendly hand.

"Good-bye, Nick. The best of luck to you."

He took her hand, squeezed it hard, and lifting the stick and bundle, said, with a gaiety that was a little forced: "Well, I'm off. I'll drop you a postcard from California, or Alaska, or Timbuctoo, or wherever I happen to land. Good-bye, old friend."

He found it unaccountably difficult to meet her eyes, so didn't meet them. But he got away. He got as far as the stone wall that divided Miss Sadie's land from Selina Smith's. Then he turned, though even as he did so something warned him that it is dangerous to look back. He turned squarely about, his hand raised in a last salute.

Gay was standing just where he had left her, but it seemed to Nick that all the buoyancy of youth had dropped from her. She was leaning against the gnarled trunk of an old apple tree, with the jonquils at her feet and the pink, sweet blossoms all above. In her pink gown she should have looked the embodiment of spring; but in reality she drooped, like a flower plucked by some ruthless hand and left to die. Nick couldn't bear it. He tossed his stick and bundle, emblems of freedom, to the ground, and strode back; while Gay, pulling herself together, ran to meet him.

"Did you forget something?"

"Yes," said Nick. "I forgot the best friend a fellow ever had. Gay, listen. You'll think me crazy, but—why don't you come along?"

"With you?"

Her eyes widened at the amazing proposition.

"Why not? It would be bully. I ——"

Fortunately for Gay there was a rustic bench behind her. She sank down breathlessly, while Nick, with a cautious glance at the hedge that hid them from Selina Smith, took the place beside her.

"We could have the time of our lives," he urged. "I've always done things alone, but with you along——"

Gay found her tongue.

"I believe you are crazy," she said sternly. "What would people think? They'd say——"

"Oh, Lord!" Nick interrupted, with a characteristic grin, "I meant, of course, that we'd get married first."

"Get married!"

He laughed at her amazement.

"Why not? It's been done before. We're both of age, you know. Why shouldn't we?"

"But—you don't love me."

"Nonsense! I love you a lot. Always have. Of course, if I'd bore you ——"

HOW ONE WOMAN LOST 47 POUNDS OF FAT

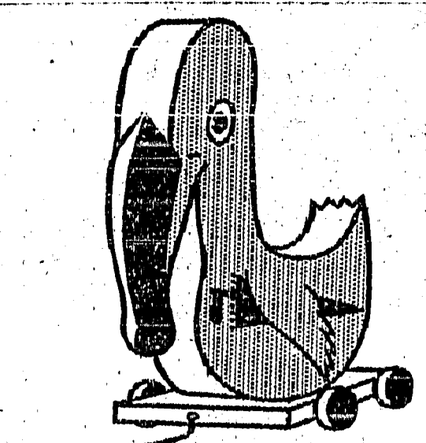
"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it."—Mrs. S. A. Solomon.

"P.S.—You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter but truly I feel so indebted to you for putting out such wonderful salts that I cannot say enough."

Wealthy residents of the ill-fated city of Pompeii had houses consisting of as many as forty rooms.



for ANY CHILD

WE can never be sure just what makes a child restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as your child has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't, you should call a physician.

After Thirty-Three Years

Bodies Of Arctic Explorers In Excellent State Of Preservation

The bodies of Salomon August Andree and his two companions, according to the dispatches, were in an excellent state of preservation when they were found on White Island in the Arctic Sea, although it has been thirty-three years since they disappeared. This curious refinement of cruelty in the frigid parts of the earth, to preserve for years the appearance of life even in death, has made its impression on the human imagination long before now.

We recall a short story many years ago about a couple who went to the Alps on their honeymoon. The man fell into a crevasse and the guides were unable to recover his body. The girl, frantic with grief, consulted scientists as to what she could do. They told her that the glacier moved a few inches a month; at the end of fifty years, perhaps, it would move far enough to make possible penetration of the crevasse. So for fifty years she waited. And at the end of that time the body was recovered, and she by now an old, decrepit woman, was permitted to look at the body of her husband. It was perfectly preserved, and she saw the handsome boy she had married fifty years before.

The Third Emigration

Russia Worried Over People Who Will Not Come Back

The Russian Government is considerably worried over what has been designated as the "third emigration." The first emigration was that of the Socialists and anarchists in czarist days. The second was that of the one or two million Russians who fled to all parts of the world from the bolshevist terror. The third is that of the "nonreturners," soviet citizens appointed to diplomatic or other posts abroad who refuse to go back home when so ordered. The penalty for such refusal is death and confiscation of goods.

The third emigration is a striking indication of the conditions of tyranny prevailing in Soviet Russia. When government officials, presumably selected for their special zeal in the cause, desert the ship of state in considerable numbers there is reason to believe that the soviet system ought to be confined to Russia.

The Poor Man's Friend.—Put up in small bottles that are easily portable and sold for a very small sum, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil possesses power in concentrated form. Its cheapness and the varied uses to which it can be put make it the poor man's friend. No dealer's stock is complete without it.

Is Fond Of Music

Ramsay MacDonald Listens In On Radio Broadcast Programs

Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of Britain, is a great lover of music.

Speaking at the jubilee of the Guildhall School of Music in London, England, Mr. MacDonald said he had enjoyed many Sunday afternoons listening to the broadcast of Bach's church cantatas from the school.

"I confess that whether I am at home in my quiet peaceful house in Hampstead or down at Chequers," the Prime Minister's official residence, he continued, "I make it a rule to issue an order—and I am not given to that very much—that there shall be no engagement, no interference, no business, but that my friends and I shall retire to a quiet corner and spend a very inspiring, comfortable, and peaceful half-hour listening to the broadcasts."

No Room For Argument

At an exhibition of paintings, recalls Sih John Ross, former Lord High Chancellor of Ireland (in his reminiscences, "Pilgrim's Scrip"), this conversation was overheard between two women who were looking at a picture, "The Dance of Salome":

"Now, what's that, Maria?" asked one.

Maria (glancing at catalogue): "Solomon dancing for Herod."

"But he never done it, Maria!"

Maria (tartly): "He musta done, else he couldn'ta been photographed."

He—"If your father catches me eloping tonight I wonder what he'll say to your mother?"

She—"He'll probably say 'Sh-h'!"

Caught Disease On the HANDS!

Skin disease threatens us every day. Invisible germs of blood-poison, eczema, etc., are waiting to infect the least cut or sore place. The money you use carries germs—you get them on the handles, rails and straps of the trains and street cars, and in a score of other ways.

Solely through Zam-buk, Mr. Henry C. Davis, of South 17th Street, Kansas City, U.S.A., has just escaped a virulent type of eczema, contracted, he suspects, through use of public towels.

"I had medical advice," he says, "tried in addition all sorts of so-called eczema remedies, without finding the hoped-for relief. Zam-buk treatment soon gave positive results. It took away the painful irritation and quickly purified and healed the deep troublesome sores."

Little Helps For This Week

"Blessed are they that keep my ways."—Proverbs viii. 32.

And oh! in my exceeding weakness,
Make Thy strength perfect; Thou art strong;
Aid me to do Thy will with meekness,
Thou, to whom all my powers belong.

If thou will but go on with thy duties, desiring to love—in such cases the desire of loving is love in His sight,—the irksome dullness and dryness is the thorn in thy flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet thee. But fear not; God's grace is sufficient for thee; His strength will be made perfect in thy weakness. Only set yourself in earnest to obey His voice. Say to Him, night and day, "Behold the servant of the Lord! be it unto me according to Thy Word."

—John Keble.

Feed Skim Milk

Feeding tests at the Cap Rouge Experimental Station of the Dominion Department of Agriculture show that it pays to feed laying hens skim-milk. Five years tests show that with a basal ration of grain meal, shell and vegetable feeds, hens fed skim-milk laid more eggs and gained more in weight than hens fed beef scraps. Incidentally the cost of skim-milk is just one-ninth that of beef scrap.

Daughter Is Stronger Now

"My daughter Catherine is fifteen years old. She was very irregular, often sick at her stomach and had to stay in bed two or three days at a time. One of your booklets was sent to us by mail so I got her a bottle of Vegetable Compound. Catherine has been taking it regularly and she is gaining in weight and every way. I told the neighbors and four other girls are taking it with good results."—Mrs. Clarence Jenkinson, Box 14, Thornloe, Ontario.
