Erickson

Birth—On October 11th, to Mr. and Mrs. Melt Beam, a daughter.

Lee Heric of Yahk was a weekend visitor with his family at the ranch.

Donald Funston arrived early in the month from Australia and will probably spend the winter here with his uncle, John Hall.

Keith Hester of Alice Siding is a visitor with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kemp at present.

The Fuller brush man was making the rounds of Erickson homes at the middle of the week with his line of brooms, brushes, etc.

The rather severe frost of Saturday night and Sunday morning has brought to an end the season's shipping of cucumbers, tomatoes, pick ers, peppers, etc.

The Blaine store, opposite Crisler's garage, opened for business at the first of the month, carrying a line of canned goods, groceries, candies, etc.

Mrs. W. H. and Miss Joan Kemp and other friends were motor visitors at Bonners Ferry on Wednesday last.

Mrs. Geo. Cartwright and daughter, Mrs. Peck of Edmonton, Alberta, were Spokane visitors last week.

Quite a number of Erickson hunters were abroad in the fields at the middle of the week taking advantage of the tnree-day pheasant shoot.

Badminton Club Reorganizes

The annual meeting of the Badminton Club was held in the Parish Hall on Wednesday last with a large turnout of members. The retiring secretary, Mrs Telford, reported a very successfu season with the balance s eet showing a small credit balance after all expenses had been paid. The officers for the coming season were elected as follows: Mr. E. Whitfield, president; and Miss M. Hamilton, secretary-treasurer.

The Club will meet for play in the Parish Hall on Monday and Wednerday evening from 7.30 to 11 p.m., and Thursday and Saturday afternoons from 2.30 to 6 p.m.

As the Club has only one court it is necessary to limit the membership, therefore anybody wishing to join should apply as soon as possible.

HOSPITAL "SHOWER"

The Hospital Committee of Creston and District Women's Institute are having a Canned Fruit Shower in aid of the Creston Valley Hospital in Trinity United Church basement, Creston from 3 to 5.30 p.m., Saturday, October 18th.

Donations of Canned Fruits and Vegetables. Jams, Jelly, Pickles, etc., will be gratefully appreciated.

Sirdar

Mr. and Mrs Jas. Wilsod returned on Sunday from a week,s visit with friends at Cranbrook and Kimberley.

R. Dennes, who has secured a position in Nelson, was visiting with his family here at the weekend.

Mrs. Cam is a visitor here from Nelson this week.

Mrs. Henderson left on Monday for Winnipeg, Man., where she is to meet her daughter, who is expected trom Irelanb.

Mrs. C. J. Neil and son, Clifford, were visitors at Nelson a few days last week.

Mrs. Rickard and son, Neil, of New Jersey, who have been visiting the former's uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Neil, for the past six months, left on Monday for Los Angeles, Calif., where they expect to spend the winter.

Jas. Cook of Creston was a visitor here at the first of the week, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. North.

Wyndel

Mrs. Gelette, who has been on a visit with her daughter, Mrs. S. Benedette, returned to her home in Lethbridge, Alberta, last week.

Miss A. Davis, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Cornwall at Riondel, returned home on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Robson left on Friday for Trinidad, where they will spend the winter.

Rev. A. Garlick of Creston will be here for Anglican Church service on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Harvest festival was held in St. Paul's Church on Sunday morning. There was a splendid turnout and an address appropriate to the occasion was delivered by Rev. R. E. Cribb.

The first signs of winter were in evidence at the first of the week. Snow is quite prominent on the hills.

A very successful chicken supper was served in the old schoolhouse on Saturday evening under the direction of the Women's Institute, the proceeds of which go towards the community hall. Six large tables were set and nicely decorated by the special helpers who used the fall flowers and autumn leaves to good effect. The supper was promptly served to all as they came in and all present claim it was a very fine spread. The intake at the door was in the neighborhood of $70.

Lister

Bert Yerbury and B. R. Bohmer arrived home from Cultus Creek on Friday, at which point they have been working on a road into the Bayonne mine. The appearance of snow has stopped operations.

Rev. R. E. Cribb will be here for United Church service at the usual hour on Sunday afternoon. His subject will be, "Shall a Man Pray."

Harry Demchuk is just back from Claresholm, Alberta, where he has been helping with harvest and threshing for the past three months.

Ed. Smith, Alf. Letoille and Aug. Klein, who have been on a road crew at Grey Creek, arrived home on Monday as work has been shut down.

An Easthope stump puller has just arrived at Creston and, we understand, has been shipped in by the department from Merville to be available to Lister settlers for land clearing purposes.

Bert Yerbury is in charge of a crew of four men. Alf Wellspring, W. P. Edwards, Herb Sparrow and Franh Lewis, who are at work on improvements on the North and South highway near Porthill.

R. V. Willcox of Salmon Arm, inspector for the federal poultry branch R.O P. work, was here on Monday on an inspection of the Fred Powers poultry farm. 50 birbs were banded for the R. O.P. class and it is expected that a little later another 50 may also be entered. These are all White Wyandottes.

Hay baling operations are in full swing at the John Huscroft ranch where some 80 tons of alfalfa are being bundled for shipment to the Cousolidated Mining & Smelting Company farm at Marysville Harry Helme has also contracted to supply a dozen tons which will be baled next.

Canyon City

A. A. Bond left on Sunday for Nelson where he has secured a plastering contract, and expects to remain for the next few weeks.

W. Cook, who has been working at Powell River for some weeks past, has returned to his home here, and will probably remain for the winter.

The bridge near the Wearmoth ranch is receiving some needed repair attention. More fill is being put in order to shorten the length of the rebuilt structure.

Apple harvest in this section will be completed this week if the weather is at all favorable.

Rev. R. E. Cribb had the best turnout of the season on Sunday afternoon for the harvest thanksgiving service in the United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ridd are here from Heatherdown, Alberta, to spend a couple of weeks at the ranch before going back to Antross, Alberta, where he will again be employed this winter. Their son, Will, is at the technical institute at Edmonton, where he has just commenced a two year course in motor mechanics.

The home of Mrs. L. W. Stephens was the scene of festivity on Saturday evening when about 35 Canyon ladies met to "shower" a bride elect of the month, Miss Elsie Bateman. A diminutive bride and groom in the persons of Leona Browell and Jrmmy Bateman presented gifts, which they drew in a decorated love ship made by Mrs. Browel, Mrs. Niblow and Mrs. Stephens. The bride suitably responded to the call for "Speech." Mrs. F. Knott played the Wedding March and also a piano solo, and Mrs. Kolthammer and Mrs. Stephens contributed vocal solos. Lunch was served by Misses Helen and June Browell, Holly Bond, Edna Hickey and Myrtle Wickholm, bringing to a close a happy evening.

J.F. Rose, Pioneer Dies Suddenly

Passes After Alighting from Auto Trip to Ranch—First C.P.R. Agent at Creston—Prominent in Liberal and Masonic Circles

A link that effectively connected Creston of 1930 with Creston of the days shortly after steel arrived in the very late nineties, was abruptly severed Wednesday afternoon in the sudden death of John Franklin Rose, who expired suddenly on alighting from his car to inspect some work that was under way on his ranch just about two miles north of town.

Deceased, whose health had deen none too robust for the past eightesn months, but who had been feeling much better of late, had driven to the ranch and it would appear had stopped the engine of the auto and had just nicely got out of the car when he was seized with a heart attack, and expired almost instantly. The men in his employ rushed to his aid but life was extinct before they had reached him.

The late Frank Rose, as he was familiarly known, was a native of Eastern Canada, being born near Brockville, Ontario, and at the age of sixteen started work for the old Grand Trunk Railway as assistant agent, and was later made station agent at Camlachie, Ontario, near Sarnia, later going to Dublin, west of Stratford, and then to Malton, east of Toronto. He gave up railroad work for about a year, when he was in the grocery trade in Sarnia, Ontario, but about 1898 he went back into railroad work, coming west to Medicine Hat, Alberta, in which district he did relief work for a time, and 1899 he was named agent at Creston, being the first regular station master here, with ticket, telegraph and express office, as well as freight shed all under the one roof of a none too spacious box car. He remained in C.P.R. employ until about 1908 when he went permanently into fruit growing on his 20-acre ranch north of town, which he had developed while still with the company. He married in 1885, Mrs. Rose, who survives him, sharing the pioneer life with him, arriving at Creston shortly after her husband had assumed charge here.

When co-operative fruit marketing was commenced at Creston the late Frank Rose was first president of the old Creston Fruit Growers Union, Limited, and was equally prominent in the affairs of the Farmers' Institute, both in its educational work as well as its trading department. He served in the earlier days as a school trustee, and was a charter member and past master of Creston Masonic Lodge. Almost since the opening of the Presbyterian Church here he has been on the board of management, and no gathering of Liberals was quite complete without the attendance of the late Mr. Rose, who for years was preaident of the Liberal organization. In the early days, and even up till a dozen years ago, deceased, who was a singer of more than usual ability, and his wife who is talented both as pianist and vocalist, took a prominent part in all entertainments both in the village and district, and with such a varied experience in all departments of community activities it can well be assumed that the passing of Frank Rose will be mourned by a very wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

Pending the arrival of his only brother, Rainy Rose, of Medicine Hat, Alberta, funeral arrangements have not been completed but it is expected burial will take place this afternoon with service at the house at 4.30)upon arrival of the westbound train, and interment in Creston cemetery. The Masonic Lodge will have charge of the funeral.

Attitudes Of Mind

It is reported in a daily newspaper that some doubt existing as to which side of the international boundary line between Canada and Maine a certain old lady's farm was located, surveyors were employed and the decision finally reached that it was on the United States side. "I'm so glad!" exclaimed the old lady, "Canadian winters are so severe."

Travelling from the United States to Canada on one occasion, the writer overheard a passenger remark just after the train had entered Canada: "The air is so much sweeter and purer now that we are back in Canada."

Climate to these people was an attitude of mind, but, nevertheless, very real. It leads one, however, to wonder whether many people do not approach many of their daily activities, not on a basis of actualities, but from some purely mental reaction.

On the day following the general election of July 28 last, a merchant in one of our Saskatchewan cities,, a strong Conservative by the way, declared that his business had already greatly improved. He overlooked the fact that two fairly large conventions then in session in the city might have added somewhat to his day's sales. No, it was an attitude of mind with him,—business had improved over night because the Conservatives had won the election.

It is the same with many in respect to hard times. Some people whose salaries, or wages, or other sources of income, are the same now as they were in the boom days, or even greater, but whose cost of living is much less, due to lower commodity prices, "feel" harder up than many who actually suffer, they become terribly pesssimistic and continually harp on the blue ruin aspect of things and how difficult they are finding it to make ends meet.

Without in the least discounting actual conditions, it is safe to say that with many people hard times is an attitude of mind, superinduced, maybe, by fear of the real thing, rather than the thing itself. Unfortunately there are many who are faced with truly hard times and have concrete problems to solve and difficulties to overcome, but there is a multitude of others who are no worse off today than they ever were but who "think" they are. They are largely responsible for cultivating and disseminating ideas that conditions are much worse than is actually the case.

The influence of mind over matter is a well authenticated and recognized fact. Records in doctors' offices contain scores and hundreds of cases of people who, having nothing the matter with them, imagined there was something wrong and by constantly and morbidly dwelling on their imagined ills actually did become chronic invalids.

There is, too, that state of mind wherein people develop suspicions of others without any cause or evidence to support such suspicions, but, having become suspicious of another, every word and act of such person, however simple and innocent, only serves to confirm and intensify the suspicions of the former.

Such attitudes of mind are to be deplored, and their cultivation to be guarded against by every individual. The harm done through constant thinking of unpleasant and evil things, and the harboring of thoughts of suspicion of others, or even of weaknesses in one's self, is almost incalculable. It spreads like a miasma through society polluting the life of whole communities.

Fortunately, the reverse of this is also true. The cultivation of clean, kindly and noble thoughts, the development of feelings of confidence in and goodwill towards one's neighbors, creation of the habit of looking at the bright rather than the dark side of things, also spreads through society and uplifts and brightens the lives of all persons with whom such a sane and happy individual comes in contact.

Jamaica Buys From Canada

Is Grateful For Tariff Preference On Fruits and Vegetables

Canada is getting all kinds of business that formerly went to the United States because of Jamaica's gratitude to Canada for recent tariff preferences, according to L. T. Kennedy, prominent business man of Kingston, Jamaica, who was a recent visitor in Montreal.

"We in Jamaica are very grateful to Canada for her preference in fruits and vegetables, and as a result, millions of dollars worth of business which formerly went to the United States is now being diverted to Canada. We buy a great deal of flour from you, among other things," he said.

Unemployment Relief

Separate Unit Of Labor Department Will Deal With Details

A separate unit will be established in the Labor Department to administer the details of the $20,000,000 fund for dealing with unemployment relief. It will operate under the Minister of Labor who will have associated with him in the work the Minister of Railways and Minister of Public Works. Harry Hereford, of Ottawa, will be in charge of this unit with the title of Director of Unemployment Relief. He was formerly in the Labor Department as registrar under the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act.

Maple Sugar Industry

Production of maple syrup and maple sugar in Canada in 1930, had a value of $5,250,620. Of this amount, 2,185,379 gallons of syrup accounted for $3,869,107, and 8,208,276 pounds of sugar for $1,381,513. The average price of the syrup was $1.77 per gallon and of the sugar 17 cents a pound.

Wealthy For a Day

Girl Student From Copenhagen Enjoyed Herself In Berlin

Miss Maiken Borring, a student of medicine from Copenhagen, Denmark, experienced being a millionaire for a day in Berlin. She had won first prize in a contest sponsored by the Danish daily, "Politiken," which meant that she was permitted to spend one day in Berlin with all bills, no matter how high, paid by the paper.

There was one condition, however, Miss Borring was not allowed to acquire anything which might be of value to her after her role of millionairess expired.

She therefore found the task of spending money somewhat difficult. A visit to Prof. Albert Einstein, an airplane spin, a drive about town in a costly limousine, sumptuous meals at the most expensive Berlin restaurants and attendance at a theatre comprised her day's "extravagances."

Pale People Are In Peril

Some Form Of Nervous Breakdown Always Threatens Them

Pale people are almost always nervous. Paleness denotes lack of blood and too little blood usually results in jaded nerves, sleeplessness, headaches or neuralgia.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are different from most other medicines—it is impossible to take them and not feel better. Their whole mission is to make rich, red blood. This new blood strengthens the nerves and gives vitality to the whole body. Concerning them Mrs. G. Cook, Bloor Street, Toronto, says: "Two years ago I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a nervous breakdown with the result that I have been well and strong ever since."

You can get these Pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canada Playing Valuable Part

Vancouver Expert Will Lay Rails For Bermuda's First Railway

Canada will play a valuable part in the construction of Bermuda's first railway, which is hoped will be completed within a year or so. Louis McDonald, of Vancouver, expert in road beds and track laying, has gone to Bermuda oboard the C.N. steamer "Lady Somers," after engaging ten men in Montreal to follow him later to Bermuda. The Vancouver expert has been 35 years in the business of rail laying. He served under General J. W. Stewart in the 12th Railway Troops during the world war and is now working with Belfour, Beatty and Co., London, England, builders of the new railroad.

Women and Asthma. Women are numbered among the sufferers from asthma by the countless thousands. In every climate they will be found, helpless in the grip of this relentless disease unless they have availed themselves of the proper remedy. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has brought new hope and life to many such. Testimonials, sent entirely without solicitation, show the enormous benefit it has wrought among women everywhere.

His Nightly Message

This often repeated nightly message which his chauffeur delivered to Sir J. Bickerstaffe was on the latter's funeral wreath: "The fire's dying out; the water is nice and hot; the windows and doors are bolted; the mouse traps are set and there are no mice. Good-night, Sir John."

If Miller's Worm Powders needed the support of testimonials they could be got from mothers who know the great virtue of this excellent medicine. But the powders will speak for themselves and in such a way that there can be no question of them. They act speedily and thoroughly, and the child to whom they are administered will show improvement from the first dose.

Parachute For 'Plane

A parachute for an aeroplane, designed by Dr. J. T. Parr, a dentist of Oakland, California, is released by pressing a control lever. This opens a trap-door in the upper wing and the parachute is shot out. The 'chute swings the 'plane and pilot slowly to earth, and has a landing speed of about 15 miles an hour.

STUDY QUESTIONS OF INTEREST TO THE DOMINIONS

London, England.—In a room of the House of Lords, the committee headed by Lord Sankey, the Lord Chancellor, opened consideration of two constiutional questions of wide significance to the dominions.

The first is the establishment of the Empire tribunal of appeal which was mentioned in last year's report of the committee on operating of Dominion laws. The second problem is that of the nationality of British subjects domiciled in the dominions. Linked with the second is the further question of whether a married woman, upon her marriage to an alien, is to be enabled to retain her nationality.

Official communiques on the committee's progress only give the trend of the discussion in barest outline, although it is officially intimated that on neither point has anything approaching a definite decision yet been reached.

Hon. Maurice Dupre, Canadian solicitor-general, who represents Canada on the Sankey committee, took the view, it is understood, that the Empire tribunal should be constituted from panels representing Britain, the Dominions, and India, as occasion arises, rather than having a permanent body. In the event of a dispute between two units of the British commonwealth, the court should be representative of each party to the dispute, with a neutral president, chosen either from Britain or from one of the other dominions in the opinion of Mr. Dupre.

In accordance with its unreserved acceptance of the optional clause of the court of international justice, the Irish Free State wishes to reserve the right to appeal to the Hague if it so desires. Britain and the Dominions, except the Irish Free State, signed the optional clause with the reservation that appeal to The Hague would not be made in case of disputes between members of the British commonwealth.

Discussions on the subject of nationality revealed a cleavage of opinion. The point at issue is one which received preliminary consideration by the heads of delegates at their meeting at Downing Street, namely, whether there shall be one common British nationality for the whole commonwealth or seven separate nationalities, those of the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the Irish Free State and India. South Africa and the Irish are pressing for a straight nomenclature. The British—and they are said to be receiving the wholehearted support of New Zealand — are pressing for the recognition of one British nationality only for the whole commonwealth.

Hon. Maurice Dupre, it is understood, favors a compromise which would retain the wider British nationality while linking it with the nationality of a particular dominion. To a Canadian travelling abroad it is felt the arrangement would be of special advantage. He would not only possess his Canadian citizenship but would retain the wider British nationality which would give him the protection of the British consular services. The greatest difficulty in this plan would lie, perhaps, in the choice of a convenient term. "The title of British-Canadian" has been suggested, but there has, as yet, been no formal proposal along this line. The present indications are that Australia is likely to support the Canadian position.

Work On Bay Line Satisfactory

No Foundation For Criticism Says Minister Of Railways

The Pas, Man.—Returning here from his first trip to Churchill, a journey made at this time partly because of charges that the seaport project was not proceeding as speedily as it might be, Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways and Canals, declared that criticism is unfair and unfounded, and that the undertaking is going ahead in an extremely efficient manner.

The minister said that it is the government's intention to open the route in September, 1931, for tests in both export and import shipments. Unforeseen circumstances may change present plans, but it is hoped that the late government's plan to open the route in a commercial way next autumn will be carried out.

He stated he was especially pleased with the excellent roadbed to the seaboard, and he also paid tribute to George Kidd, superintendent at Churchill, and his staff for their efficient handling of the entire scheme. To his mind, an immense amount of work has been accomplished, reflecting great credit on both the department of the interior and the C.N.R.

Schooling Still Being Opposed By Doukhobors

Few Radicals Are Making Trouble In British Columbia

Victoria, B.C.—While internal disorders have been reported in interior Doukhobor communities, the problem of the Doukhobor school attendance has been virtually solved, except for a few radicals, according to Hon. Joshua Hinchcliffe, Minister of Education.

These reports show that the community Doukhobors have adopted Canadian education so enthusiastically since the opening of the fall term that their schools are full and in some cases must be enlarged.

About 40 children of radicals altogether are absent from their classes. This is a small proportion of the school population, but it is sufficient to create a problem.

It is understood the Department of Education plans action to force all these children to be educated.

Aids To Beauty Costly

Statistics Show $250,000,000 Yearly Spent In United States

Washington, D.C.—Two thousand tons of rouge, 4,000 tons of face powder, 6,000 tons of bath salts, 25,000 tons of vanishing, nourishing and other facial creams, 9,000 tons of complexion soap, 26,000 tons of skin lotion and more than 50,000 tons of cold cream assist the people of the United States in annually maintaining that schoolgirl and schoolboy complexion. These aids of beauty cost $250,000,000 a year. The "Beautician" business in the United States is worth $1,000,000,000 annually and ranks among the first ten, according to C. C. Concannon, of the Department of Commerce.

Preference For Canadian Goods

Canadian Chambers Of Commerce Suggest That Farmers Diversify Operations

Toronto, Ont.—If the Canadian consumer will give preference to Canada-produced commodities, and if the farmer will diversify his operations sufficiently to produce articles for which a good Canadian market is available, then there will be a marked improvement in the ration of the grower's return.

This is the conclusion reached by the agricultural committee of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce, and placed before the convention of that body here.

Returns From North

Winnipeg, Man.—R. G. O. Johnston, reputed to be Canada's farthest-north drill operator, has reached Winnipeg from working on a claim 300 miles north of Churchill, Man., on Hudson Bay. He was a member of the party held up for two weeks by equinoctial gales while coming down by boat from the claims.

One Hundred Men Put To Work On C.N.R. Line Between Melville and Watrous

Saskatoon, Sask.—One hundred men have started work on the Canadian National line between Melville and Watrous. A stretch of 28 miles, commencing five miles east of Melville, will be torn up and the 85-pound rails replaced by 100-pound rails. This work is part of the 140-mile program recently announced by the Canadian National Railways.

A. M. MacGillivray, district engineer, C.N.R., stated that the reason for the change was on account of heavy traffic over the line and the large type of engine now used by the company. Laying the new track will not interfere in any way with traffic, according to Mr. MacGillivray.

Air Minister Made Will Before Flight

Lord Thomson Bequeathed Everything To His Brother

London, England.—On the eve of the departure of the R-101 on the dirigible's tragic voyage toward India, Lord Thomson, Minister of Air, prepared a will bequeathing all of his possessions to his brother, Col. Roger Gordon Thomson.

The document, witnessed by two officials of the air ministry, read:

"I am setting out on a flight for India and in case anything happens to me I leave all of my property and possessions to my brother, Col. Roger Gordon Thomson."

Lord Thomson ordered that the will be locked in a safe, and that it should be destroyed should he return.

Japan Seeks Increased Trade With Canada

Japanese Minister Makes Plea In Address At Toronto

Toronto, Ont.—A strong plea for increased trade between Japan and Canada was made by His Excellency Hon. I. M. Tokugawa, Japanese Minister to Canada, in an address before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce here. The organization were guests of the Ontario Government at dinner.

The Japanese people realize that if Canada thinks her rising industries need protection, "it must and will be done," the minister said, after outlining the growth of trade between Canada and the Orient since 1913. "They realize that every country has a right to regulate its own economic policy. They do not and cannot seek any modification of such policy of any foreign country. They merely desire to discover if there are any articles produced in Japan which have not come so far, but have the possibility of finding their way into Canada in future, or those which may possibly come to Canada in larger quantities than in the past."

Authorities Must Work Together

Co-Operation Is Only Way To Solve Transportation Problems

Kelowna, B.C.—S. L. Squires, of Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Good Roads Association, in addressing the annual convention of the Good Roads League of British Columbia, here, said that it was essential for federal, provincial and municipal authorities to work together to solve transportation problems. He outlined how good roads were changing the national and even political life of Canada.

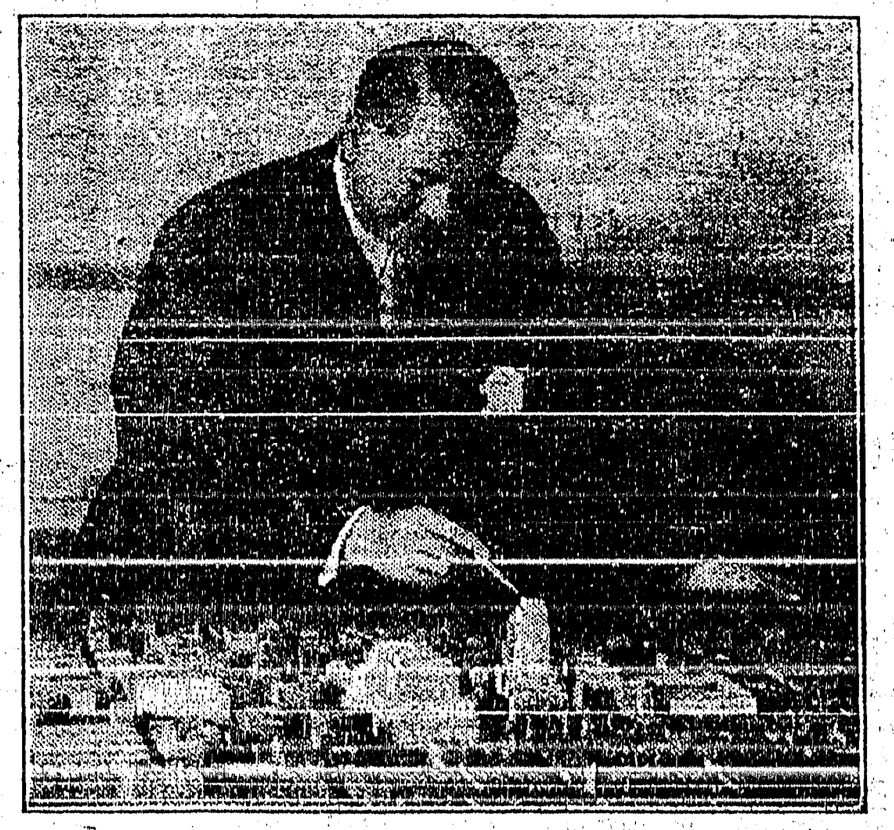
"Good roads," he said, "are bringing about a better national understanding and are having a greater effect on the business life of Canada than any one realizes. Distance is now measured by time and not miles, and East and West are becoming better known to each other by means of fast autos and improved roads."

Mr. Squires strongly opposed use of commercializing roads in competition with railways, although he recognized that railways secured added business through improved highways.

Mapping the Moon

Mt. Wilson, Cal.—Mapping the moon by a new type of astronomical survey has been begun at Mt. Wilson Observatory. An adaption of aeroplane map making photography gives views equivalent to swinging the astronomical cameras a few thousand miles out into space to get more directly above side areas of the moon's face, something impossible from earth.

Plans Canada's Finest Terminal



Sir Henry Thornton, Chairman and President of the Canadian National Railways, inspects the model of the $50,000,000 terminal which his company has started to build at Montreal. The building to which the railway president is pointing is the proposed central passenger station and office building in the heart of the theatre and business district of Canada's metropolis. The plans provide for electrification of all passenger lines entering the terminal and make adequate provision for long distance and rapid transit traffic as well as for development of freight facilities which Montreal will need during the coming years.

MORE SUPPORT FOR AVIATION IN CANADA IS URGED

Toronto, Ont. — "Governments should refrain from carrying out aerial work which rightly belongs to commercial aviation—notably aerial survey," said Gen. J. J. MacBrien, president of the Aviation League of Canada, in speaking before the Canadian Chambers of Commerce here. "Experimental, development, exploration duties and advanced training provide plenty of work for the government machines," he said.

Among other suggestions made by General MacBrien for the assistance of commercial aviation were:

Progressive government policies, Dominion and provincial, needed so that commercial operators and manufacturers may plan accordingly.

Organized airways, which include up-to-date airports. The airways system of truck and branch lines should be energetically developed.

Substantial support should be given to Canadian aircraft manufacturers as it is most important the industry should be firmly established.

Small companies should be encouraged to amalgamate and branch transport lines should be entrusted to them. Commercial schools should be supported by an allowance for certificates issued.

Aeronautical education and research should be established. Any educational institution not providing facilities within its scope for its students to gain a knowledge of avia- will be considered behind the times and unprogressive.

General MacBrien outlined the present regular aeroplane routes in the Dominion, and predicted that within two years the present jump from Ottawa to Winnipeg would be bridged by air mail.

Favors Submarine Venture

Stefannson Thinks Wilkins Expedition Will Succeed

New York.—Vilhajalmur Stefannson, Arctic explorer, arrived on the liner "Majestic" with the statement that the submarine is safer and more practical than the aeroplane as a means of reaching the North Pole.

Mr. Stefannson, who has been lecturing for three months at Cambridge University, expressed the belief that Sir George Hubert Wilkins, his first aide on the Arctic expedition of 1913-1916, will successfully negotiate his under-water venture to the polar cap.

The explorer corrected a popular belief that the Arctic seas are filled with deep-reaching icebergs and said there were none within 400 miles of the pole.

"The human race has centred its activities on the northern part of the globe," he said, "and will continue its growth and population in that area. In this development there must be assurance of food and supplies, and if Wilkins demonstrates that a submarine may successfully negotiate the polar cap, then frozen Canada, around Hudson Bay, Russia and Siberia, become new fields for man's exploitation."

Majority Of Women Voters

Women Voters Greatly Outnumber Men In England and Wales

London, England.—Woman has, indeed secured the last word. The registrar-general has announced there are now 362,000 more female voters than men in England and Wales.

The city of London proper is the only metropolitan district containing more men than women electors. In South Kensington the women outnumbered the men by more than two to one.

Curiously enough, women voters are relatively fewest in the working class areas.

Welland Canal Damaged

St. Catharines, Ont.—Downbound traffic through the Welland Ship Canal had to be diverted to the old canal which was still being used for upbound traffic, as the result of extensive damage to two valves at Lock 7, at Thorold. Excessive air pressure on the valves is blamed for the accident, which will cause considerable delay to traffic through the canal.

A telephone can get you there first

Getting there first is a vital factor in business. Of what importance is the quality of your product or the strength of your sales argument if your competitor reaches the buyer first and makes the sale before you get there?

That is why so many successful business men are finding the long distance telephone a great asset. While others are writing letters or travelling in person, they use the telephone and get there first.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, OCT. 17

Building for the Future

In connection with educational affairs everyone is ready to admit that a great mistake was made when the first two-room public school was erected. It should have been designed and built so as to carry an extra story. And when the two-story addition was put to it exactly the same thing should have been kept in mind.

At that time, probably, there was not as much optimism prevalent as to Creston's future as now obtains and in view of the prevailing belief as to still further expansion it is to be hoped that when plans are made for the new high school extension the district is almost sure to have to provide in 1931, the blunder in connection with the central public school will not be repeated.

If, as now seems certain, Creston must next year provide two new rooms for high school purposes it should be seen to that their construction will be such that they will carry a top story.

With school population all through the valley on the increase it is just too bad that a consolidated high school can not be created and the 1931 building campaign be on a scale to provide for the high school attendance that will have to be taken care of in the very near future—with or without consolidation.

Remember the hospital shower on Saturday afternoon at the United Church basement. Donations of canned goods, jams, jellies, pickles will be gratefully received by the hospital committee of the Women's Institute.

Cash receipts for September at Creston office of the provincial police established a new record, the intake being $1420, as compared with $1288 for September, 1929. The increase is due a greater demand for hunting and trapping licenses.

Apple shipping has been pretty much at a standstill the past week as the board of direction are refusing to let the winter varieties move until Monday in an effort to clean up the McIntosh Reds which are moving slower than usual at Okanagan points.

Dr. Lamb, provincial inspector of hospitals and tubercular specialist, will speak at the hospital "shower" in the United Church basement on Saturday afternoon. The hospital committee of the Women's Institute are serving tea. Dr. Lamb speaks prompt at 4 p.m.

Ths new room at the publib school commenced work on Monday morning with Miss Marion Learmoth in charge and seating accommodation provided for 35 pupils, most all of which was occupied. Grades 3 and 4 will receive instruction in this new division.

Mrs. John E. Johnston wishes to announce that she has opened a class in pianoforte playing and theory; also elocution. Pupils prepared for festivals and examinations as desired. Toronto Conservatory aud Royal Academy, England. For particulars phone 36 F.

Rev. R. E. Cribb had large congregations at Wynndel, Canyon and Creston for the United Church harvest thanksgiving services at the three appointments. The edifices were specially decorated, Trinity Church, Creston, presenting a most attractive appearance.

The Creston Valley got a timely boost in last week's issue of the Family Herald and Weekly Star, a paper with a tremendous circulation all over Canada. The article was by Miriam Green Ellis, the western Canada representative of that paper, who was here in June gathering the necessary material.

Missers Meldrum, Wade, Hobden, Holmes and Learmonth of the school teaching staff, assisted by Mrs. (Dr.) Henderson, school board chairman, did the honors gracefully and in very practical fashion on Friday afternoon when the ne room at the public school was thrown open for inspection and quite a number of the parents were on hand to give the new classroom the once over. Tea was served the visitors and a free-will offering of $16 was received for the benefit of the school library.

About fifteen tables of players turned out on F iday night for the court whist drive given by the Junior Auxiliary of Christ Church, with the attendance of ladies most prominent. High score prizes went to Mrs. Jas. Cook and Mrs. A. A. J. Collis, while the consolation honors were awarded Mrs. Stapleton and Ivy Connatty. In book title guessing contest first prize was won by Phyllis MacDonald.

Business was disposed of with promptness and despatch at the special meeting of the ratepayers of Creston school district on Saturday night at which funds to run the new public school room had to be voted. J. W. Craig occupied the chair and it took less than fifteen minutes to adopt the necessary motion uo raise an additional $1100 for school purposes this year. Before adjournment Trustee Jas. Cook gave a brief but businesslike report on the recent trustee convention at Vernon, which he attended.

WHY FAT MEN STAY FAT

"The trouble with me, and I guess this applies to 99 out of every 100 men who are putting on weight, I didn't have the energy or "pep" to keep it off. Lost all interest in any healthy activity and just lazed around accumulating the old pounds, until I got that "Kruschen feeling."

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves.

This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape, and fill you with vigor and tireless energy.

As a result, instead of planting yourself in an easy chair every free moment and letting flabby fat accumulate, you feel an urge for activity that keeps you moving around doing the things you've always wanted to do and needed to do to keep you in good condition.

Kruschen Salts are the up-to-date Fountain of Youth. Take one-half teaspoon in a glass of hot water to-morrow morning and every morning — be careful of the foods you eat — take regular moderate exercise—then watch the pounds slide off.

Weekly Newspaper Publishers Meet

Fourteenth Annual Convention Of Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, Saskatchewan Division

At their fourteenth annual convention held at the Saskatchewan Hotel, Regina, the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association (Sask. Division), elected Walter Ashfield, Editor of the Grenfell Sun, as president for the ensuing term.

H. G. Sheldrake of North Battleford, the retiring president, was chosen as honorary president; A. King, Rouleau, vice-president; S. J. Dornan, Alameda, secretary-treasurer; while the following were elected to the executive: S. N. Wynn, Yorkton; E. P. Hodgins, Vanguard; J. J. Zubick, Kerrobert; J. Scott, Whitewood; H. Berryman, Blaine Lake.

Several instructive addresses were given during the sessions. Mr. T. A. McInnis, of the Bureau of Publications, gave an interesting talk, and Hon. J. F. Bryant spoke on the subject of Saskatchewan's Resources. The members of the association were the guests of the Saskatchewan Government at a banquet on Thursday evening, Oct. 2. Following the banquet an informal dance, sponsored by the Toronto Type Foundry Co., was greatly enjoyed. At noon on Friday, Oct. 3, the members were tendered a luncheon by the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, and on Friday evening the Weekly Newspaper Association banquet was held at which the newly-elected president presided. It was decided to hold the 1931 convention at Regina.

Expansion Of Dye Industry

Discovery Of Synthetic Dyes Has Been Wonderful Help

In the dyestuffs industry there was what may be called the Woad epoch of dyes which lasted until little more than half a century ago. The colors used in textiles and many other industries were natural products coming from plants or animals or minerals. It is an old story with a modern lesson that the scientific curiosity of Perkins, an Englishman, led to the building up, from the waste products of the distillation of coal, of artificial dyes more brilliant than Tyrian purple, more lasting than saffron and indigo, and without limit in their shades and tones. The discovery of pure research, led, although not in this country, to the founding of an industry invaluable to world not only for its primary output but also from the circumstances that it has required, created, and supported an army of research chemists. The labors of these men enabled Germany not only to secure almost a monopoly of the production of dyestuffs, but also to take the lead in the discovery and marketing of synthetic drugs, and, in the hour of her need, to thwart the endeavors of the Allies to deprive her of munitions of war. — The London Times.

Saskatchewan Wheat Pool

Nomination papers for the annual election of Saskatchewan Wheat Pool delegates are being mailed out from the Head Office at Regina. Nominations will be accepted up to 6 p.m. on Tuesday, November 4. As soon as possible after the closing of nominations, ballots will be mailed out to all Wheat Pool contract-signers in the sub-districts where two or more candidates have been nominated. The closing date of the election has been set for Tuesday, December 2.

A Huge Undertaking

Building Of Sydney Bridge In Australia Requires Much Skill

The central arch of Sydney Bridge in Australia has been closed and it is expected that 18 months will elapse before the bridge is open for traffic. Construction by the British firm of Dorman, Long & Co., it is the largest arch bridge in the world. The contract price was £4,217,721, but the total cost will probably exceed £6,000,000. There were provisions throwing on the New South Wales Government the extra cost due to rises in wages, which have been large.

In planning the bridge it had to be considered that more than half the total traffic of Sydney, the chief port in Australasia, had to pass under it. The bridge had to give headroom and clearance to big ocean liners. The central arch is a single span of 1,650 feet, and there is a clear headroom for shipping of 170 feet at low water. The top of the arch is 440 feet above the water, exactly the same height as the highest point on Hampstead Heath, and 75 feet higher than St. Paul's Cathedral. With its approaches the bridge is 3,770 feet long. The total width of the deck of the bridge is 160 feet. It carries four lines of electric railway, in addition to a 57,-foot roadway and two footways. There are 37,000 tons of steel in the arch construction and 13,000 tons in the approaches or a total of 50,000.

Especially recommended in cases of roughness or chafing caused by weather conditions.

Catering To Visitors

Windermere, England, Bans Sunday Civic Sports To Boost Scenery

To boost its scenery and also give city employees a holiday, Windermere, England, has decided that all municipal tennis courts, putting greens and golf courses be closed on Sunday. Those in favor of sports on Sunday afternoons said that records showed that the clergymen and residents of Windermere used to watch football being played after church on Sunday, but the city council decided that visitors should go to Windermere for scenery and solitude.

SIMEON AND ANNA — THE INSIGHT OF THE PURE IN HEART

Golden Text: "Blessed are the pure in heart; for they shall see God." — Matthew 5.8.

Lesson: Luke 2.25-39.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 84.1-7.

Explanations and Comments

Nunc Dimittis, 2.25-32. — At the time of the birth of Jesus there was living in Jerusalem a righteous and devout (the Greek word means literally "God-fearing") man named Simeon, who was looking for the coming of "the consolation of Israel," for the promised Messiah. "It is striking to observe how the description of Simeon's character expresses the aim of the whole Old Testament revelation. All that was meant by the preceding long series of manifestations through all those years was accomplished in the man. For hearken how he is described—'just and devout,' that is the perfection of moral character, stated in the terms of the Old Testament; 'waiting for the Consolation of Israel,' that is the ideal attitude which the whole of the gradual manifestation of God's increasing purpose running through the ages was intended to make the attitude of every true Israelite—an expectant, eager look forwards, and, in the present, the discharge of all duties to God and man. 'And the Holy Ghost was upon him,' that, too, in a measure, was the ultimate aim of the whole revelation of Israel. So this man stands as a bright, consummate flower which had at last efflorescence from the roots; and in his own person, an embodiment of the very results which God had patiently sought through milleniums of providential dealing and inspiration." — Alexander Maclaren.

The Holy Spirit had revealed to Simeon that before he died he should see the Lord's Anointed. "Some inward monition, which he recognized to be of God, sent him to the temple in the expectation that at last he was to see the Lord's Christ." When the parents brought in the child Jesus, Simeon took the Babe in his arms and blessed God and spoke the beautiful words which have received the name of "Nunc Dimittis, the first two words of the sentence in Latin.

Simeon's Words To Mary, verses 33-35.—Simeon blessed Joseph and Mary (Joseph fulfilled here the part of a father), who stood there marvelling at his words, and to Mary he said, "Behold this Child is set for the falling and the rising of many in Israel"; some will reject Him and "fall," while some will accept Him and "rise" to a high spiritual life.

Good Recipes

Smoothness Of Texture In Recipes That Call For Milk and Sugar

Do you ever have difficulty in getting a smoothness of texture in recipes that call for milk and sugar? Good recipes obtain wonderful flavor and consistency through the use of Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk. The milk and sugar are thoroughly combined (almost pre-cooked you might say) so that results are obtainable that could not be expected if you mixed the sugar and milk yourself. Having the milk and sugar already blended is a great advantage. Aside from saving sugar—and the trouble of mixing—there is the certainty of a finer flavor to the dish. The condensed milk combines quickly and easily with all other ingredients —binds them closer together — and gives the recipe a smoother texture. Another advantage of condensed milk is its convenience. One can keep several cans on hand as it keeps perfectly, so there is no such thing as running short, but rather a certainty of pure, fresh milk whenever it is required.

As a vermifuge an effective preparation is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, and it can be given to the most delicate child without fear of injury to the constitution.

Marvellous Yield Of Oats

Alert to the possibilities of "Marvellous" oats, William White, farmer of the Alert district, southeast of Biggar, Sask., has reaped a marvellous yield. From an experiment plot of four and a third acres, he threshed 121 bushels to the acre. The oats weighed 42 pounds to the bushel. The land was new breaking on an old pasture field. Neighbors threshed the grain, measured the plot and verified the yield.

Plenty Of Wheat

George Kabel, 67-year-old Illinois farmer, estimates that he has threshed enough wheat during the past 60 years to make 118,820,000 loaves of bread. His average has been 30,000 bushels a year.

Flaky Pie Crust

The secret of making good pie crust is: "Use Purity Flour—and keep the dough dry!" Try this recipe—for 2 shells:

3 cups Purity Flour 1 cup lard
¾ teaspoon salt 1 cup cold water.

METHOD: Mix the flour and salt, cutting in half the shortening until the mixture is like fine meal, gradually adding exact quantity of water but not a drop more. Use less water, if you can, and the pie crust will be even flakier.

Turn out on board very lightly sprinkled with Purity Flour, roll about ¼-inch thick. Spread balance of shortening over dough, fold over three times and roll again to required thickness. Bake in hot oven (450°).

PURITY FLOUR

Immediate Relief for INDIGESTION

WHAT most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. Food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention, it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate with no harmful after-effects.

Once you learn this perfect way you'll never deal in any other manner with the headaches, gas, bloating, nausea, dizziness, indigestion, biliousness, etc., due to an over-acid stomach and bowels.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips'. It is always a liquid; never made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' on the bottle. All drug-stores—50c.

"Do you know," he broke in prosaically on this sober reverie, "I'm almost famished. No" (as she turned a surprised face to him), "don't say it. I know it's only eleven-thirty. I know it's not time to eat; and I don't care. Thunder! Gay, I've lived all my life by rules. I hate 'em. From now on, unless you make a nice tame house-cat of me, we'll eat when we're hungry; that is," he added, grinning, "if we can arrange to be hungry at the same time!"

"Otherwise," smiled Gay, her fears vanishing before his carefree grin, "I infer that we'll eat when you're hungry."

Nick laughed, but refused to answer this awkward question. Instead he said, stopping the car: "Here's a brook and a pine tree, so near that we can easily keep an eye upon the flivver, though no self-respecting tramp would consider stealing it. Say! you don't mind eating early, do you?"

The girl laughed at this tardy return to manners.

"What am I, to decree when I shall eat, if my lord and master . . ."

"Gosh!" Nick interrupted fervently. He raised awed eyes to heaven. "She calls me her lord and master! But" (with a sudden dropping to earth), "you can cut out that line of talk, Gay. It's mediaeval. Call me 'the boss,' if you must; but not your lord and master. I'm at home in jumpers, but I'd look a fool with an ostrich feather in my cap."

"I'm not so sure of that," Gay contradicted, regarding his clear-cut profile critically. "One of those three-cornerd hats, you know, with a plume resting on your shoulder. . . . ."

"Glory!" gasped Nick, staring at her. "Have you lost your mind, Gay? Come on; let's eat. It's lucky you brought along that lunch."

To her surprise Gay found that she was hungry. They devoured Miss Sadie Twitchell's chicken, with all the greed of childhood days. Indeed, after feasting on the drumsticks, Nick was obliged to wash in the convenient brook.

"Clean?" he questioned, turning a dripping countenance upon her; and Gay, laughing, dried his face on a paper napkin. But when he suggested wading, and confessed a yearning to build a dam, she hesitated.

"The water's like ice, Nick; and besides . . . ."

She was thinking that they were still some miles from that place where one procured a license and got married, "all in an hour"; but Nick sighed resignedly, and for a moment his face clouded.

"When I planned this trip, Gay," he explained, "I vowed I'd do every darn thing that came into my head; yet I begin——"

"You begin," she interrupted, a little catch in her voice, "you begin by asking a girl to marry you. I suppose that just 'came into your head,' but it changed—everything. Oh, Nick, I don't want it to change things! I want all your dreams to come true. Build that dam if you want to terribly, and—and wade. I'll wade with you. I'd really like it, Nick. I——"

In her contrition she was pulling at his shoestrings, but he caught her hands, holding them with gentle firmness.

"Why, Gay!" His voice was tender. "I believe you're almost crying. What a dear goose you are! And why should it matter if things are a little different than I planned? Don't you know that I love having you along?"

"Really, truly, Nick?"

She lifted a sweet, flushed face, and he smiled into her eyes.

"Really, truly, Gay." He bent to her, then straightened up abruptly. "And you were right to squelch my kid desire for wading. There's something better ahead of us today."

He gave her hands a reassuring squeeze, and lifting the empty basket, threw it with careful aim into the car.

"Let's be off," he said, with all the enthusiasm she could desire. "I refuse to speed. I want to enjoy everything we see. By three o'clock we should reach State Line, and then. . . . ."

He gave her a comical glance; a curious blending of affection and amusement, as if he were not yet quite ready to be serious about the future.

This was Nick's great adventure, thought the girl tenderly—his quest for the freedom he had never known. Not by word or look must she dim his happiness. She wondered, as mile after mile slipped by and he showed no sign of the nervousness she felt herself, if he realized the enormity of the step they were about to take. Only once did he mention it, and then to quote laughingly when a tire went flat: "'Needles and pins, needles and pins, when a man marries. . . . .' You see Gay, what you've brought me to. But for you I'd be on my trusty feet." Yet he whistled cheerfully as he worked, and said, as they started on their way: "We're a half hour late at the goal, my dear, but why worry, so long as we're together?"

But it was after four o'clock when they drew up before a shabby wooden building which flaunted a sign reading: "Josiah K. Miller, Justice of the Peace."

Nick stopped the car, but for a minute he did not stir. He sat there, arms folded, looking straight ahead, till Gay said gently: "Nick, it—it's not too late now if—if you want to . . . ."

"Back out?" smiled Nick. He faced her, and something in his eyes made her heart race. "I don't desert my bride at the altar, Gay." He grinned. "Doesn't look much like an altar, does it?"

His eyes were raised to the window below which hung the sign. Then, before she could speak, he was out of the car, giving a little brush to his clothes as if in a desire to appear well on this occasion.

"I'll just run up and see if this is right, though I believe the town clerk usually perches near a Justice in these Gretna Greens. I never got a marriage license before, Gay, and it may take time. If I'm longer than you expect, don't worry. I shan't go back on you! My dear girl, you look solemn as a funeral. Cheer up — the worst is yet to come!"

He turned away, then hesitating at the dingy doorway, came back to say: "Of course you know, Gay, that I was only trying to brace you up? There isn't going to be any 'worst' about it, either for you or me."

It seemed to Gay, waiting nervously outside, that he was a long time gone; yet when she saw him coming, she felt, with womanly inconsistency, a sense of panic. The street was almost deserted of passers-by, but he came near and spoke softly.

"I've got the license, and the Justice is waiting for us. I——"

"Nick," broke in the girl suddenly, "couldn't we go to—to a minister?"

He laid a comforting hand on hers.

"I'm afraid not, dear. There's been a lot of publicity lately about underage couples getting married here. You look about fifteen, Gay, and I'm no Methuselah! The parsons have been forced to shut down on these hasty weddings—that is, they won't do it without some sort of investigation. And we haven't time for that, though I hate like thunder to ask you to come up here."

"Is—is it an awful place?"

Nick smiled.

"I haven't seen it. The town clerk offered to act as witness and tell the Justice we were here. Come, dear. We mustn't keep him waiting."

Gay stepped onto the sidewalk, glancing down with apprehension at her dusty shoes.

"Do I look a sight?"

"You look all right to me, Gay, and that's all that matters." Then, with a sudden understanding of her mood, he added: "You look great! I bet that town clerk will expire of envy!"

So it was with a laugh that they started up those dingy stairs that were to lead them they knew not where. The echo of that laughter was on their lips when Nick opened the door bearing the name of Josiah K. Miller; but it died at their first glimpse of the room beyond. It was, thought Gay, with a sense of suffocationfl so much worse than she'd expected! The dust of the stairs and hallways seemed to penetrate the very atmosphere, Josiah K. Miller, his beard stained profusely by tobacco, slouched in a chair behind a roll-top desk. The town clerk, a dapper little man wearing a red necktie, stood by the window, whistling, with strange cheer, the Miserere from Il Trovatore. Before a typewriter sat a slovenly, gum-chewing girl, who yawned widely at Gay's approach, and removing the gum stuck it on a corner of the table; while the town clerk, with a smirk that struck terror to Gay's heart, remarked jocosely: "Ah, here's the bride!"

He hummed lightly a bar or two from Lohengrin.

Gay's hand went to her throat, as if to stifle the revolt that choked her. She couldn't be married here. She threw an appealing glance at Nick, but he was speaking to that dreadful man behind the desk. Loathing the whole scene she lowered her eyes, only to behold a tin spittoon as evidently in need of attention as was Josiah K. Miller's beard. It was too horrible!

Then something steadied her. She glanced up to meet the benign gaze of Abraham Lincoln, looking down from a steel engraving above a dirty marble mantel. She thought (and laughed of herself later), "If Lincoln can stand it, I guess I can!" Then she felt Nick's hand upon her arm, and the Justice, slouching to his feet, began to speak.

"Do Not Hesitate to Try It"

"Your Vegetable Compound is a good medicine. Anyone who is in poor health should not hesitate to try it. When I was taking the Vegetable Compound I tried the sample Liver Pills I found in the package. I have taken them every night since and I can feel myself improving. I am so thankful for the good they do me that I have told several women about it."—Mrs. G. W. Posliff, 263 Huron St., Stratford, Ontario.

Her Three Children Troubled With Diarrhœa

Mrs. Leo Lapointe, Laurier, Man., writes:—"My three youngest children were very bad with diarrhœa. I tried all kinds of remedies, until a kind old lady told me to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I got a bottle right away and started giving it to them, and the next day the diarrhœa had stopped altogether. Now I will know what to do when any of my children are troubled that way again."

KEEP THEM HAPPY BY KEEPING THEM WELL

It is natural for children to be happy, active and full of fun. When they are fretful, fussy and disinclined to play you may be sure something is wrong. Almost invariably that something lies in the digestive tract.

It is to meet the need for an absolutely safe corrective of childhood ailments that Baby's Own Tablets have been designed. They gently regulate the stomach and bowels and thus drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and allay teething pains. Concerning them Mrs. W. E. Forsyth, Dover, N.B., writes:—"I would not be without Baby's Own Tablets as I know of nothing to equal them for fretful, fussy babies who are troubled with colds or sour stomach."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Radium Ore Discovery

Deposits In Ontario May Yield Sufficient To Supply the British Empire

Belief that there are deposits of radium ore near Wilberforce, in Haliburton County, Ont., capable of supplying the needs of Canada, and possibly of the whole Empire, is expressed by Dr. G. E. Richards, head of the enlarged X-ray department of Toronto General Hospital. Dr. Richards is director of a company interested in the project.

He asserted that investigations over a period of three or four years had uncovered an apparently extensive deposit which averaged 186 milligrammes of radium per ton of ore treated, a higher average than in the radium-bearing ore of the Belgian Congo, at present the world's chief source of supply.

A Curious Coincidence

It is an interesting historical fact, that although the Duchess of York is a daughter of a Scottish peer, she has a considerable amount of English blood in her veins, as her surname—Bowes — indicates, and, curiously enough, she is herself descended from the first Duke of York there ever was—Edmund of Langley, a son of King Edward III.

Remarkable Crops

Good Yields Of Grain Reported In Lloydminster Area

Some remarkable crops have been gathered in the Lloydminster area this year, running from 40 to 50 bushels to the acre in the case of wheat, and from 90 to 100 bushels in the case of oats. There has also been quite an active sale of farming machinery this year, one machinery agent stating that he had sold more threshing outfits this fall than during the past three seasons.

DON'T SUFFER WITH DANGEROUS INDIGESTION

Do you suffer after meals with a belching, from sour and acid stomach? Many believe they have heart trouble and tremble with fear, expecting any minute to drop dead. This condition can be prevented, likewise relieved.

Take Carter's Little Liver Pills after meals and neutralize the gases. Sweeten the sour and acid stomach, relieve the gas and encourage digestion.

The stomach, liver and bowels will be cleansed of poison, painful and dangerous indigestion disappears and the system enjoys a tonic effect. Don't delay. Ask your druggist for a 25c pkg. of Carter's Little Liver Pills.

Little Helps For This Week

"God is our God for ever and ever; He will be our Guide even unto death."—Psalm xlviii. 14.

Thy way, not mine, O Lord,
However dark it be,
Lead me by Thine own hand,
Choose out the path for me.
Not mine, not mine the choice
In things, or great, or small.
Be thou my guide, my strength,
My wisdom, and my all.
—Horatius Bonar.

We want a guide who knows us, whether we be self-willed and over-confident, or despondent and over-sensitive, or worldly and aspiring. We want a guide who knows our frame and pities us, is not vexed with our ignorance or mistakes, but is tender towards us and patient. We want a guide who values character, and knows how to train while He guides; who guides for the purpose of training, sometimes into very hard paths, but profitable for the soul.

—Theodore Dwight Woolsey.

She sings in a high clear soprano and also in a deep rich contralto voice, and is advertised as a "wonder" girl. There is a complete change of programme and of personell this year. The usual high standard of clear, bright, wholesome entertainmeut is assured. The Georgian Singers appear on Thursday night in the United Church, Creston; and on Friday night at the community hall, Canyon.

Vancouver Province: The many friends of Miss Louise Webster, formerly of this city, will be interested in the news of her wedding which has reached here from Cape Town, Southn Africa, where she was married on August 16 to Mr. Norris A. Dumbleton. The ceremony was performed in Cape Town Cathedral by the dean, and the bride was charming in a French embroidered gown of light beige georgette, with motif of tiny roses at the back of the high waistline. Her picture hat of crinoline straw was trimmed with matching net and filmy flowers, and she carried a sheaf bouquet of hyacinths and carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Dumbleton spent their honeymoon motoring in the Cape, visiting friends at George, Port Elizabeth, Durban and Johannesburg, before proceeding to their future home in Northern Rhodesia.
