1930 Fall Fair Signal Success

Flowers, Cooking, Needlework Equal Best Ever Seen—Outdoor Attractions Please—Fair Great Financial Success.

The fellow who for the past two or three years has been in the habit of saying "the fall fair isn't as good as it used to be" had to change his tune this year, because the 1930 exhibition which closed on Wednesday was, with the exception of the fruit class, just as good as any of its predecessors, and in some of the classes very much better than many of them.

The usual opening exercises were missing this year, but a welcome change was the engaging of the Players orchestra to play throughout the afternoon in the main building. The music added greatly to the day's enjoyment.

Another change for the financial betterment of the show was the charging of an admission at the gate, as well as at the main building. The change in this respect gave 1930 fair one of the best admission intakes yet recorded.

The big day opened with the school sports at 10.30 a.m. with practically all of the schools in the valley represented and the championship shield going to Huscroft school for the second time in succession. At 1.30 p.m. the basketball teams from the Creston public and high school furnishing an exciting contist in which the former emerged winners by a score of 13 to 7.

The best exhibition of baseball Creston has seen at any of its fall fairs was provided by the teams from Creston and Kimberley in which Creston came through with a winb y a 9 to 4 margin. Creston played wonderful ball all the way through, the battery, F rtin and Watson, turning in their best performance of the year.

In the main building President Putman had an effective way of impressing on orchardists the wisdom of spraying and thinning with a display of ten boxes each from an orchard that had been given this attention and one that had not. Percy Boffey had an attractive display of the "Richared" Delicious, for which he is agent, and A. Bond of Canyon had on display samples of Stucco work that was much admired by all interested in building. Another main building exhibit that caught everybody's eye was the ranch display entered by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Moon, while usual interest also attracted to the school districts' display which was won by Erickson school, with Creston second

In the fruit section Percy Boffey captured a majority of the prizes in boxed apples, with P. R. Truscott's five box lot very much admired, as was also the boxes of pears and peaches shown by Sam Moon. In the plate section E. A. Penson was much to the fore taking home nine firsts and two second prizes.

T. M. Edmonson was back on the job and again demonstrated the fertility of the bottom lands—plus some knowledge of gardening—with a show of squash and pumpkins that took home the red tickets. His cabbage were also great as to size, although only capturing second place. Jas. Cherrington won the prize for potatoes, and F. J. Klingensmith was also prominent as a vegetable winner.

The flower show was the best ever seen at a fair, with Mrs. Edmonson, Mrs. G. Gartwright, Mrs. F. C. Rodgers and Mrs. Hayes taking a prominent part. and a special mention due Miss Betty Speer s who on a limitedentry captured two firsts in roses and pansies as well as a like number of second prizes.

In a very heavy entry in every section of the cooking class the honors at bread making went to Mrs. G. Nickel on Five Roses; Mrs. H. W. McLaren on Our Best; Mrs. G. Cartwriget on Purity, while the latter was awarded championship honors on apple pie, and Mrs. Hayes first on lemon pie. The Women's Institute won first in the large collection of cooking.

Mrs. Pridham won first on butter, and in the canned goods section Mrs. R. M. Telford, Mrs. Maxwell and Mrs. M. Young won a fair share of the prizes. The needlework class had a heavy entry, and notable winners in this class were Mrs. A, L. Cameron, Miss Hills, Mrs. M. R. Joyce and Miss Joyce Moore,

The outdoor exhibit was somewhat disappointing, with the exception of the cattle, which were quite up to the standard of other years, with the Comfort, G. Cartwright and Geo. Nickel ranches making a creditable show, and the latter's Jersey adjudged the best registered animal in the show.

Financially there is every reason to believe the fair will show a creditable balance. Secretary Murrell is now making up the list nf winners, which we hope to publish next week.

Creston Requires Six-Room School

Trustees to Ask Ratepayers for Additional $1500 for Sixth Room at Public School—Basement to be Used Temporarily.

Creston is to have a six-room public school. The decision to enlarge could not be escaped with this year's enrolment touching 210 and the School Act regulating the attendance per teacher at 35, and the final decision to ask the ratepayers for an extra $1500 to carry on this year was reached on Friday afternoon when the trustees had a conference with Inspector Capt. Manning at which he gave the board permsssion to fit up the basement for the extra classroom for one year only.

Ever since opening dsy the trustees have been giving practical consideration to providing the extra room and an effort was made to get a one year lease on the Parish Hall, but the monthly rental asked and the other demands made to assure the use of the hall for whists, dances, etc., did not appeal to the board, and with no other suitable quarters to be had the basement is to be made use of as a sort of last resort.

The district is fortunate in that the new steam heating plant will simplify the heating of the new room, and with the department payiug the full cost of the new desks all the board has to purchase is the blackboards and a desk, etc., for the teacher's use.

A meeting of the ratepayers is called for Saturday evening, October 11th, to vote the required $1500 of which $1050 (less the share paid by the department) will be required for teacher's salary, with the preference to be given to a local girl at that stipend.

The new board have adopted a progressive policy in joining up with the B.C. School Trustees Association which is in annual session at Vernon this week, for which point Trustee Jas. Cook left at the end of the week.

According to information reaching the trustees recent changes in the curriculm along with the ever increasing demand for accommodation at the high school, 1931 is almost sure to see a request for an extra room at Creston high school.

Report On Immigration

Saskatchewan Commission Submits Its Report On Immigration Matters

While some inflow of immigration must be permitted "if we are to maintain a biologically and economically sound condition of rural population," such immigration must be under strict control, effective checks and proper safeguards, provincial as well as federal.

This statement is the keynote of the report of the Saskatchewan Royal Commission on Immigration and Settlement submitted by Premier J. T. M. Anderson, and by him released for publication, Thursday, September 18.

Because the "reserves of unutilized land suitable for settlement in Saskatchewan are much less than is often assumed to be the case," the Commission argues that restriction of immigration rather than its promotion is essential at the present time. Consequently, it confines the greater part of its attention to ensuring that what immigration is permitted shall be of the most approved type and that those newcomers who penetrate the restrictive barriers shall have a reasonable chance of making good.

Upon the premise that rural population is a "sine qua non" so far as Saskatchewan is concerned, and upon decisions reached after a thorough study of the 52 volumes of evidence collected in the examination of 476 witnesses at forty sittings, one of which was held extra-provincially (at Winnipeg), and of a mass of pertinent data, the Commission bases a series of correlated recommendations creating a complete mechanism for the control of immigration and the regulation of settlement. Personnel of the Commission which began its work, January 30, 1930, and closed its public sessions, June 3, was: Prof. W. W. Swanson, chairman; P. H. Shelton, vice-chairman; T. Johnston, C. C. Neff and A. R. Reusch.

The Commission's recommendations are submitted under five headings: A—the Machinery of Control; B—Immigration Agencies and Their Licensing; C—Classes of Immigrants In a Broad Order Of Preference; D—Methods of Land Settlement and After-Care; and E—General Recommendations dealing with matters germane to the subject studied and designed to promote the development of the land and other resources of the province.

Saskatchewan being an agricultural province, the recommendations deal essentially and predominantly with agriculture and land settlement and, in the wording of the report, "attempt to lay down certain principles of control, intended to provide for the maximum freedom of immigration, limited by the legitimate desire of the people of this province to maintain a general standard of living satisfactory to their ambitions."

The Commission makes no recommendation with respect to a quota law. Definite prohibitions are recommended, however, with respect to single agricultural workers and members of non-agricultural groups, save, and except they have sufficient capital (estimated as from $1,000 to $5,000) to establish themselves either in agriculture or industry. The restrictions do not apply in the case of British migrants, and trained specialists "required in the establishment of industrial enterprises or technical institutes in the province," can come in without let and hindrance.

The Commission rules definitely against state-aided immigration with certain noted exceptions in the case of the settling of Saskatchewan residents on public lands, the repatriation of Canadians now domiciled in the United States, and of British immigrants, more particularly British school boys.

Among the safeguards, the Commission advocates a head tax to provide an insurance fund against indigency, and the provision of guarantees by licensed immigration agencies that settlers brought in by them shall not become a public charge within five years.

An alternative is suggested to homesteading which, the Commission recommends, should be discontinued.

Conferences Suggested

Declaring it obvious that "no provincial control of immigration is practicable except as it coincides with the policies adopted by the Dominion Government, which in turn must base these policies on the desires and needs of the nine provinces of the Confederation," the Commission recommends: "That an effort be made to call a conference between the representatives of the Government of Canada and of all the provinces, in the hope that from such a meeting might arise uniformity of opinion concerning an immigration and settlement policy." The Commission suggests that its report be submitted to that conference as the Saskatchewan Government's recommendations on the subject. Further, it is suggested that the proposed conference follow that of which intimation has been given between the Government of Canada and the Governments of the three Prairie Provinces on immigration matters.

The Commission also recommends that its report be submitted to a conference of representatives of the Provincial Departments of Natural Resources, Agriculture and Labor, the College of Agriculture, organized farmers and other interested bodies, invited representatives of the Federal Departments of Immigration and Agriculture, and the persons or corporations desiring to obtain licenses as immigration and colonization agents. It is suggested that this conference be held "at once," in order to deal with the details of immigration and settlement regulations envisaged in the report and to enable prospective licensees to adjust their plans in conformity with the expressed wishes of the Saskatchewan Government, pending the passage of enabling legislation where such is necessary.

Federal Advisory Board

Realizing that co-operation is essential between the provincial and Federal Governments to make controlled immigration effective, the Commission suggests the establishment of a Federal Board to meet from time to time to consider and recommend policies of immigration and settlement. This Board, it is suggested, should be representative of every province of Canada, each provincial representative being empowered to state the numbers and classes of immigrants required by his particular province.

Under the Commission's plan, primary control of all immigration activities of the province would be vested in the Minister of Immigration and Natural Resources, with a Provincial Council consisting of the Deputy Ministers of Natural Resources, Agriculture and Labor to control the flow of immigration and settlement in conjunction with the provincial representative on the Federal Board.

With provision thus made for determining the demand and limiting the flow, the Commission then recommends that, for purposes of supply and consistent with its avowed desire to encourage British immigration, a Saskatchewan Bureau should be established in London, England, with a representative of the Provincial Council in charge. This Bureau would handle all matters of immigration affecting the province so far as they can be supervised in London, and would also co-operate with other governmental representatives in matters affecting trade and commerce.

Affirming that "in many cases errors in past immigration policy have caused an influx of settlers not only not able to bear their share of public and social services, but who have become a charge on the public funds," the Commission states: "the cure for that, however, is, in our opinion, not to insist on a complete cessation of immigration, but on safeguards intended to provide that only as many settlers shall be admitted, only of such type, and only on such conditions, that our rural populations shall continue to expand, but only by the addition of those who may be expected rapidly to assume their share in the upkeep of social and public services."

The Commission, therefore, in the very limited immigration permitted under its recommendations, advocates a definite preferential sequence in relation to provincial immigration activities. It recommends that first efforts should be made to provide for the settlement on the land of persons now resident in Saskatchewan. Next, it suggests that the Dominion Government should aid, to the extent of one-half of their transportation expenses to Canada, in the repatriation of Canadians now resident in the United States to the several provinces from which they emigrated. Then, it recommends that every encouragement should be given to British immigration and that the British Government be invited to assist in devising schemes for such a movement and in providing financial aid for carrying them out. As stated previously, state aid with the noted exceptions, is frowned upon.

British Immigration

With reference to immigration of settlers from Great Britain, the Commissioners state: "We feel that no obstacle should be placed in the way of their free entry into the province, but that care should be taken, on the contrary, to extend to them such support as will aid them to achieve permanent success. It is, in our opinion, much to be desired that steps be taken to fit many more British-born to enter into our national life. We admit the apparent failure of some of the schemes so far tried for this conversion of city-bred people of Britain into capable Canadian farmers, but refuse to accept this as final. To take an excellent comparison, it is admitted that the plan of training men in Britain as farmers or farm laborers has not been successful, while, on the other hand, the method of assisted settlement known as the Three-Thousand Family Scheme, has in general been satisfactory, and has added a desirable group of settlers to our community."

OPEN SORES

HEAL IN QUICKEST TIME KNOWN

"Sores on leg, ulcers, for months. Doctors failed to heal. Then 'Soothe-Salva' healed them in few days." Jules Simard. "Soothe-Salva" heals boils, ulcers, boils, burns, scalds, eczema, like magic. All druggists.

While stating definitely that no single agricultural workers or members of non-agricultural groups should be admitted at present except on permission of the Provincial Council, the Commission suggest a specific preference when, in the opinion of the Council, there is room for immigration. First preference, in that event, is given to nominations by established farmers admitted under head tax as insurance against indigency and with proper safeguards as to numbers and treatment. Heads of families may be admitted on the nomination of immigration agencies where the nominee has a minimum of $250 capital upon landing in Saskatchewan, where proper safeguards as to head tax and after-care apply, and where the Provincial Council is satisfied as to actual opportunity for employment and housing. It is further recommended that immigration agencies be permitted to bring in "leasehold or partial payment purchase settlers" on condition that the agency provides the five-year guarantee to which reference already has been made.

Licensing Of Agencies

With regard to the licensing of immigration and colonization agencies, the report states that "there can be no question that the greatest agencies in the settlement of Western Canada in the past have been the two great railway systems and we fully anticipate that this condition will continue." The Commission, however, urges that the greatest care be exercised in the granting of immigration agency licenses and recommends specifically against societies not capable of carrying on actual settlement being permitted to operate as agencies. It states further that "immigration and land settlement as a whole should not be regarded as a proper source of profit for those who might be tempted to exploit the newcomer or to create a class of discontented settlers in the province."

The Commission places a high value on Canadian citizenship in its recommendations with regard to naturalization, the importance of which it stresses. It is urged that the Dominion Government be requested to compel naturalization of immigrants who have resided in Canada for a period of seven years. Education as a factor in the assimilative process comes in for some attention.

Touching on natural resources other than agricultural land, the Commission suggests that lands carrying merchantable timber be withdrawn from settlement and administered as forestry lands. It also favors a policy of afforestation, and urges the Government to consider the provision of better markets for pulpwood in districts where it is available and, if feasible, by the construction of a pulp mill.

The Commission also considered sympathetically, the relation of the mortgagor and mortgagee in connection with farm properties where the settler has encountered difficulties. One interesting recommendation, in the wording of the report, follows: "We have also considered the case of the farmer who, being a mortgagor, has had his economic position so impaired by a cycle of bad seasons as to be in danger of losing the fruits of many years of intelligent effort, and we have no hesitation in recommending that he be given security of tenure in such cases, on application to the Government and approved by competent authority, by automatic extension of the terms of his mortgage or other instrument of obligation, and we suggest the provision of statutory power to enable the Government to force this aciton where necessary in its judgment."

Recommendations In Detail

Complete recommendations of the Commission as incorporated and grouped in the report, follow:

A—Machinery

1. That an advisory Federal Board of Commissioners be created to consider and recommend policies of immigration and settlement, on which will be represented every Province.

2. That primary control of all immigration activities of the Province should be in the hands of the Minister of Immigration and Natural Resources of the Province.

3. That a Provincial Council of Immigration and Land Settlement be created consisting of the Deputy Ministers of the Departments of Natural Resources, Agriculture and Labour, of the Province, to control the flow of immigration and settlement.

4. That a bureau be established, representative of this Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, in London, England, to deal with all matters of immigration affecting this Province, as far as they can be supervised in London, and to co-operate with other Government representatives on matters affecting our trade and commerce.

5. That all matters affecting after care of immigrants settled on the land should be in the hands of the Minister of Agriculture of the Province, and that after care of non-agricultural immigrants should be in the hands of the Minister of Labour of the Province, acting upon information placed at their disposal by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement.

6. That it should be agreed that the representative of this Province on the proposed Federal Board of Commissioners should be empowered to state the numbers and classes of immigrants required by the Province.

7. That all Leases, Agreements of Sale, or Mortgages affecting land in transactions between a licensed immigration and colonization agency and a settler should be filed with and approved by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, and a suitable fee imposed.

B—Immigration Agencies

1. That any person, corporation or society desiring to engage in business as an immigration and colonization agency shall: (1) obtain a license to that effect from the Dominion Government; and (2) before being allowed to operate in Saskatchewan, shall obtain a Provincial license which shall impose upon such person, corporation or society, the obligation to submit all its activities in connection with land settlement to the supervision of the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement.

2. That no licenses should be granted to any person, corporation or society, except those, who, in the opinion of the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, are capable of entering on actual programs of settlement.

C—Classes Of Immigrants

1. That first efforts should be given to provide for the settlement on the land of persons now resident in this Province.

2. That no special measures are necessary to stimulate immigration to Saskatchewan of Canadians from other provinces.

3. That the Dominion Government should aid, to the extent of one half of their transportation expenses to Canada, in the repatriation of Canadians now resident in the United States, to the several provinces from which they migrated.

4. That every encouragement should be given to British immigration and that the British Government should be invited to assist in devising schemes for such a movement and in providing financial aid for carrying them out. We specially recommend assisted immigration of British school boys of school leaving age and over, under proper safeguards.

5. That with the exception of grants made by the British Government for the assistance of British settlers, grants made by the Dominion Government for the repatriation of Canadians, or grants made by the Province to assist in the settling of residents of the Province on public lands, and for Boy settlements schemes, no governmental financial aid to settlement be granted.

6. The Commission makes no recommendation with respect to a quota law.

7. That no single agricultural workers be admitted at present.

8. That domestics be admitted under proper control by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, and that measures be taken to encourage the reuniting of families.

9. That when, in the opinion of the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, there is room for immigration, preference should be given with proper safeguards as to numbers and treatment; first to nominations by established farmers and that immigrants should be charged a head tax intended to provide insurance against indigency, which, however, need not be applied in the case of British immigrants if after negotiations, the British Government prefers to contribute to this insurance on a basis proportionately to the contributions from other nationals, obtained through the head tax.

10. That heads of families may be admitted on the nomination of immigration agencies where the nominee has a minium capital of $250.00 upon landing in Saskatchewan, the proper safeguards as to head tax and after care applying; these nominations should only be permitted where the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement is satisfied as to actual opportunity for employment and housing.

11. That immigration agencies shall be permitted to bring in leasehold or partial payment purchase settlers as hereinafter provided on condition that the agency provide sufficient guarantees that the settler shall not become a public charge within a period of five years after admission. Such settlers should only be admitted for location in areas and on terms approved by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement. This is particularly desirable as a means of directing a flow of immigration from Great Britain.

12. That any immigrant, married or unmarried, having the necessary capital to establish himself in agriculture or industry, may freely enter the Province for the purpose of taking up land, or to establish himself in business.

13. That no other person be permitted to enter except by specific permission of the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement through this Province's representative on the Federal Board of Commissioners.

14. That where the foregoing regulations restrict the free movement of immigration to the Province they shall not be enforced against British migrants.

D—Methods Of Land Settlement and After Care

1. That a complete soil and economic survey of the Province be made, and that the conclusions arising from it, be used as a basis for future settlement policies and that all existing cases of location of settlers on unsuitable lands be brought to the attention of the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, and to land owning corporations in cases concerning them.

2. That this survey be applied first to the remaining Crown lands and to areas where it is believed that settlement has taken place on unsuitable land.

3. That immigration and colonization agencies be permitted to sell farms to immigrants in areas, in units and on terms only as approved by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement.

4. That immigration and colonization agencies be permitted to lease farms for not less than ten years to immigrants in areas, in units, and on terms, only as approved by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement.

5. That homesteading be discontinued and that the remaining Crown lands where immediately available for agriculture be sold (a) to residents of the Province; (b) to other Canadians; (c) to British settlers; (d) to other immigrants.

6. That the Government investigate the use of the lease method of disposing of Crown lands with a view to testing it.

7. That Crown lands found suitable for settlement but which require clearing, be cleared under Government auspices, and the cost of this included in the sale or lease price of such lands.

8. That land not suitable for agriculture but useful for ranching be leased for this purpose.

9. That blocks of land suitable for agriculture located in ranching areas be included in the ranching leases.

10. That efforts be made to transfer settlers now on lands unsuited for agriculture, or included in areas suited for ranching, to more suitable locations, under a system of government expropriation and compensation in respect to the latter.

11. That immigration agencies, railways, land and mortgage companies be invited to apply similar correction in the case of settlers located on lands leased or sold on partial payment terms by them.

12. That immigration agencies, railways, land and mortgage companies be invited to consider the transfer of settlers from land ownership to long term lease where experience has shown that the settler is not making reasonable progress.

13. That where a cycle of bad seasons has impaired the economic position of a farmer who is a mortgagor, he be given security of tenure by the automatic extension of the terms of his mortgage or other instrument of obligation.

14. We recommend to the Government consideration of schemes for the assistance of residents of Saskatchewan to settle on the lands of the Province.

E—General Recommendations

1. That the Dominion Government be requested to compel naturalization of immigrants who have resided in the Dominion for a period of seven years.

2. That all immigrants landing in Canada take oath to obey the laws of the country and that within a period of six months they should make application signifying their intention of becoming citizens.

3. That lands carrying merchantable growth of timber be withdrawn from settlement and administered as forestry lands.

4. That in view of the outstanding importance of taking full advantage of the gifts and capacities of newcomers as a contribution to our common life, special efforts should be made through the Department of Education and other public bodies to approach the question of assimilation in the most sympathetic attitude in order to win the confidence and co-operation of incoming settlers.

5. That the Government consider the rendering of assistance to the new settlers and others in establishing themselves: (a) by increasing the agricultural representative service and (b) by inducing experienced farmers to establish themselves in immigrant communities.

6. That unemployment relief as it becomes necessary should as far as possible, be obtained by the use of unemployed labour in opening land to settlement or otherwise developing our natural resources.

7. That the Saskatchewan Farm Loans Act be amended to permit progress loans to farmers engaged in clearing and breaking of land, through the establishment of a separate department.

8. That the Government consider the provision of better markets for pulpwood in districts where this product is available; if feasible, by the construction of a pulp mill.

"No," said Charmian, as seriously as a little girl would answer the important question of some elder, "I'm doing it to get the man. I'd marry him, Grandma, if we had to live in one of those old freight cars on the siding. I've been a long time knowing my own heart. I don't wonder you doubt me. I shouldn't blame Jim for doubting either; but—but I'm not cheating him, Grandma. I'm giving him—everything I have to give."

Jim cleared his throat, and, asked, to save Grandma from the tears he knew were imminent: "Have you forgotten my reputation as a shrewd business man? Why, Grandma Davis! I'm swapping myself for a wife, a house, and a grandmother—and you ask if Im getting the bad end of a bargain, I'm surprised!"

The words were light, but his husky voice betrayed him; and in another moment he raised Charmian to her feet and kissed her, a kiss that said far more than words to the old lady who gazed up at them.

"Well!" she declared, drawing a deep breath of happiness, "I don't think I was ever so glad but twice before—the day Father told me he loved me, and the night they put my baby in my arms. I'd borne two others that didn't live, you know, and I just couldn't believe that this one was all right. And he grew up to be Charmian's father! Come here, children, and kiss me, both o' you. I feel sort of like singing or saying my prayers, I don't know which."

There followed a joyful dinner. John Carter stopped in as they were sitting down, and Charmian insisted that he stay. She told him the good news and he kissed her again, "right under Jimmy's nose," as Grandma said, but without the devastating effects of the day before.

It was the doctor who helped the old lady back to her chair by the window, and who, when she spoke of his own happiness, said quietly: "Will you forgive me for not telling you before? You see, Grandma, it was all so horribly uncertain. If it hadn't been for Charmian I believe I'd have blown up! She was a trump to let me use her as a safety valve, and I'll never forget it. If she and my best girl aren't bosom friends at sight it will break my heart. But they will be. I'm sure of it; and now Jim Bennett knows I'm not a danger-point there ought to be some happy days ahead—for all of us."

Grandma chuckled.

"Well, sonny, if I'd been Charmian you would have been a danger-point, so I can't blame Jim for seeing you through green eyes. There've been times when I've been all mixed up in my mind wondering which of you I wanted for a grandson. I've even wished that Charmian was a sort o' female Brigham Young, so she could marry both of you!"

Later, while she dozed peacefully in her chair, Grandma was conscious at intervals that Charmian and Jim were ransacking the house, "planning what they'll do to it most likely," she mused happily, and dozed again. Not till she was rested and ready for whatever the afternoon might have in store for her, did they go out to send some telegrams and call on Aunt Salina and the Merrys.

"I going to send a message to my mother, and one to Aunt Sophie at the same time;" announced Jim, grinning. "I'd give a dollar to see their faces when those telegrams arrive. and if Charmian wishes to spread the glad tidings further—"

"Look here," Grandma reproved him, "you musn't start in being extravagant the first thing."

Jim laughed at her fears.

"What are a few telegrams at a time like this?" he replied magnificently. "Let me be reckless, Grandma, before I settle down into the state of matrimony," and Grandma couldn't suppress a smile.

"Can I tell Lizzie Baker if she drops in?" she asked as they were leaving.

"You may tell the world!" responded Jim with pride; and by the aid of the old mirror Grandma saw him kiss his Charmian again.

She drew close to the window then, watching them go down the street, and wondering a bit why they stopped so long looking at the law office where she had expected to end her days. She could not bear Charmian say whimsically: "I shan't live in you after all, little house. Are you sorry, I wonder?"

"It ought to be heartbroken," said Jim.

"It would make a beautiful playhouse," said Charmian. "I always thought it should be a playhouse."

"With Towser and Mouser to guard the door it would be a peach of a playhouse," agreed Jim. "Uncle George suggested that we sell it and have it moved away; but I guess we'll hold onto it—for future use!"

"Oh, Jim!" breathed Charmian, and squeezed his hand in the face and eyes of Lizzie Baker who was hanging a pair of stockings on the line.

Indeed, something in the attitude of the young people so aroused Miss Lizzie's curiosity that she dropped in on Grandma almost immediately, forgetting to take a measuring cup for the molasses she wished to borrow.

"Dear me suz!" she exclaimed when Grandma divulged the news. "I knew the minute I laid eyes on 'em that something was in the air. You tell Charmian that she can count on me to hem all her linen. I wouldn't offer if I didn't know that there's nobody in Wickfield can do it any better if I do say it that shouldn't. And to think that you're going to stay right here! It takes a load off my mind. It would have been more than flesh and blood could bear to see strangers livin' in the old Davis house, it would so. Dear me suz! there goes Luella and the deacon. Maybe they've made it up again. Do you mind if I run 'round and tell the Merrys? I dunno any one in town that'll be gladder about everything than them."

Only one other caller had appeared and that was the Merrys' Gypsy, who walked in the screen door that Miss Lizzie had carelessly left open, and deposited a dilapidated shoe at Grandma's feet, "for all the world," chuckled tthe old lady, "as if he knew we were going to have a wedding! I always said that Gyppy was a smart dog."

Now it was twilight, and a peaceful silence pervaded the old house. Main Street had grown quiet, and soon the neighbors would be going home after the days' work. What hadn't she seen from this window? Grandma was thinking. She closed her eyes, visualizing the pageantry of life that had passed before her: Babies carried proudly by on their way to christening. . . . . Older babies trudging sturdily to school on frosty mornings. . . . . Neighbors going about their daily tasks, yet stopped to wave a greeting as they passed. . . . . Young lovers strolling beneath the elms in enchanted moonlight; and friends like the old doctor borne tenderly to their resting places on a green hillside. . . . . Life! . . . That was what Grandma had seen from her shop window.

"Dear Lord, I thank Thee that I have lived to see this day," she murmured. And after a silence: "I was foolish to worry. Here I've been all stirred up thinking we'd got to leave the house where Father brought me as a bride—fretting about Charmian—wondering what she'd do when my call came and she'd be left alone. And then, right out of a clear sky, everything's all right! Charmian's babies will be born where she was born, and her father and grandfather before her. . . . . And I needn't worry about leaving her when I 'cross the bar'—not with Jimmy to dry her tears. Come to think of it, I ought to be ashamed to have had such doubts in a world where things mostly come out right. Why, I've been so downhearted it didn't seem hardly worth the trouble to live at all, except for Charmian; but now—" Grandma smiled happily at the thought, "now I declare I want to live enough longer so when I meet Father in Kingdom Come, I can tell him I've held our great-grandchild in my arms!"

THE END.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are harsh purgatives which cramp and gripe and leave a depressed after effect.

Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy.

A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, bile starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away. The stomach, liver and bowels are now active and the system enjoys a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red pkgs.

Cardston, Alberta—"I am fifty-eight years old and the mother of eighteen living children. We live on a farm and I am a very healthy mother considering that I have such a big family to work for. The druggist first told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have depended on it for many years. When I had this picture taken, the photographer was telling me about his wife's ailments and after I told him about the Vegetable Compound he went to the drug store and bought her two bottles."—Mrs. Bertha Sallenbach, Sr., Cardston, Alberta.

Little Helps For This Week

"Then shall we know, if we follow on to know the Lord."—Hosea vi. 3.

The task Thy wisdom hath assigned,
Oh, let me cheerfully fulfill!
In all my works Thy presence find,
And prove Thy acceptable will.
—Charles Wesley.

Let us remember that we are here each day to do each day's duty with uor whole mind, heart, soul, and strength. Let us live in the whole, not in the half. Then, when we go inward to reflect, we put ourselves wholly in that and find God's love and truth within the soul; and when we go outward to work or to social intercourse, we put ourselves wholly in that, and find God's presence and inspiration also there. So the inward world and the outward world may be equally filled and animated with the presence and the smile of our Heavenly Father.

—James Freeman Clarke.

Danger From Old Tires

Many Serious Accidents Have Happened When Blowout Occurs

The worst danger from old tires is from blowouts while we are travelling at a high rate of speed. Old tires blow out more quickly in hot weather at high rates of speed, for the reason that the heat softens the hold of the thinned fabric and by heating the air inside the tire increases the pressure. Given certain conditions a blown tire will turn a car over and cause serious injury and possibly death to occupants. Then there is the danger of losing control because treads are worn down. On a wet road a car with tires whose treads are badly worn is seldom under control at usual speeds. Skidding is not the only danger. Sliding forward with all brakes set is a common accident.

When Asthma Comes do not despair. Turn at once to the help effective — Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. This wonderful remedy will give you the aid you need so sorely. Choking ceases, breathing becomes natural and without effort. Others, thousands of them, have suffered as you suffer but have wisely turned to this famous remedy and ceased to suffer. Get a package this very day.

Wool Warehouses Remain Open

Arrangements Made For Benefit Of Saskatchewan Sheep Men

In order to accommodate Saskatchewan sheep men who have been delayed in the shipment of 1930 wool because of the early harvest this year, the wool warehouses at Regina and Portage la Prairie will remain open until November 1st, according to announcement by W. W. Thompson, manager of the Canadian Co-Operative Wool Growers' Association in Western Canada. Ordinarily the warehouses would close August 31st.

The Oil For the Farmer.—A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the farm house will save many a journey for the doctor. It is not only good for the children when taken with colds and croup, and for the mature who suffer from pains and aches, but there are directions for its use on sick cattle. There should always be a bottle of it in the house.

Bright Future For Gliders

Gliding from block to block to visit neighbors will be a popular form of transportation, replacing short automobile trips within 10 years, according to Howard Flanders, former secretary of the British Gliding Association. He predicts that gliders will be as common then as the very popular motorcycle is now in England.

Worms in children, if they be not attended to, cause convulsions, and often death. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will protect the children from these distressing afflictions.

Chili is the longest and narrowest country in the world. It runs about 2,800 miles down the west coast of South America, while its breadth is on an average between 40 and 100 miles only.

Minard's Liniment for Cuts and Abrasions.

"Did your little boy enjoy the party?" asked Mrs. Brown.

"I think so," sighed the little boy's mother, "He wasn't hungry till half-past five the next afternoon!"

Quick Action saves trouble, worry. Keep Douglas' Egyptian Liniment always handy. Stops bleeding instantly. Cauterizes wounds. Hair comes back. No scar remains.

Record Of World's Shipping

The new 1930-1931 edition of Lloyd's Register of Shipping includes a full record of about 88,000 steamers, motorships and sailing vessels of 100 gross tons and over that are owned by the various maritime nations of the world.

A centenarian of Glasgow attributes his great age to the fact that for the first 70 years of his life there were no motor cars and for the last 30 he has been confined to the house.

Minard's Liniment is a household friend.

BACKACHE

Wonderful relief from pain

Backache is one of those wearying complaints which bind all their victims together with a common bond of misery. And when any one sufferer from backache finds a sure remedy, fellowship prompts the quick report of that discovery to others. Here's a woman who has her friend to thank for knowledge of a remarkably successful treatment. Now gratitude compels her, in turn, to pass along the good news to you.

"I am writing to tell you of the great benefit I have received from Kruschen Salts. My friend, Mrs. H., had received so much benefit that she begged me to give Kruschen a trial, although at first I was doubtful, because I had tried so many things. At last, however, I tried some of her Kruschen, and, feeling hopeful, I purchased a bottle, and I can honestly say that before I had finished the bottle my backache was gone. I have suffered for years with kidney trouble and dreadful headaches, and now to be free from the pain altogether is wonderful."—(Mrs. C.)

A Wonderful Instrument

Heart beats and the sound of breathing have been sent from South America to Spain by a new instrument so clearly that doctors in Madrid have been able to diagnose the diseases of patients 6,750 miles away in Buenos Aires.

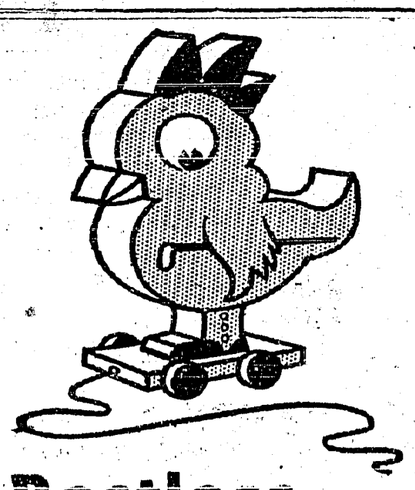
Changing Weather

affects your health if you are not protected. Minard's prevents cold and grippe; relieves rheumatism and stiff joints.

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

Practical Farming

British Royalty and peers are extensive landowners in Canada. The Duke of Sutherland has the greatest number of acres, with Earl Minto, the Prince of Wales, Lord Cheylesmore and others, following, and practical farming is practiced on all their holdings.



Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

CONSTIPATION ENDED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

writes Mrs. W. Walker. Thousands say constipation, indigestion, gas and overnight with "Fruit-a-tives". Complexion clears like magic. Nerves, heart quiet. Get "Fruit-a-tives" from druggists today.

Breaking of insulators may have dire results

Sending for a doctor, spread-an alarm of fire, or completing a business deal any or all of these may depend upon telephone service; but because someone, without realizing the seriousness of the act, has broken the insulators on telephone poles, the circuits are out of order and the important telephone calls cannot go through.

With this in view the Telephone Company is asking the co-operation of the public generally in preventing acts of destruction, which, although done in the name of fun, may result in the loss of life, property, or vast sums of money.

Deliberate breaking of insulators is a criminal offense, and prosecution will follow detection.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, SEPT. 26

Wynndel Fair Tomorrow

Adverting again to that homely maxim that "one good turn deserves another," attention is drawn to the fact that tomorrow afternoon Wynndel is having its first fall fair.

While the exhibition will not be on the extensive scale attempted at Creston it should be noted that the affair is being handled by the Women's Institute, an organization whose membership embraces most of the community workers amongst the ladies, and under such management it is quite safe to predict that the display will be well worth seeing, and with the proceeds to be used to help pay the cost of treatment for a child at the Queen Alexandra Solarium, the Wynndel fair has a two-day call on public support.

Ever since Creston has had a fair residents of Wynndel have given the local exhibition splendid support in every way and it is to be hoped the compliment will be quite generously returned tomorrow.

Needed Public Buildings

Now that the emergency session of parliament is concluded and twenty millions of dollars are available to take care of unemployment, papers are losing no time in acquainting representatives of how best some part of this sum can be spent to all round advantage in the districts the papers serve.

And in this great and good work the Review would remind W. K. Esling that Creston must not be overlooked. From the federal treasury direct Creston needs an appropriation for the erection of a postoffice building, and in co-operation with the provincial authorities Ottawa and Victoria can combine to the advantage of the latter by making available a sum not less than $30,000 for the erection of a provincial government building in which to house the forestry, public works, district agriculturist, registrar of voters, vendor, and to give more roomy and more modern quarters for the administration of justice.

In this latter direction local facilities are totally inadequate, and it can be safely stated that were all the officials housed in a government owned structure the rentals that will be saved would more than pay interest on the capital invested.

Undoubtedly Creston will have quite a serious unemployment situation to meet this winter and amongst the practical ways to meet the situation is to proceed along the lines enumerated above.

Trustees Set Example

The school board is to be highly commended in the action it has taken in sending Trustee Cook to attend the B. C. School Trustees' Association convention which is under way at Vernon this week.

In the way of taxation problems possibly the most serious one British Columbia has to face is that of the ever-increasing cost of education and this matter of adequately distributing the cost of maintaining school is one that the association has ever prominently before it.

The attendance of a delegate from Creston is particularly appropriate because, for its size, Creston is just now facing a jump in the cost of school operation that is on a par with any centre in British Columbia.

If, as seems inevitable, Creston must this year make provision for another room and another teacher in the public school, and in 1931 must handle the same situation in connection with the local high school, certainly immediate legislation to place the burden of educational expense on more shoulders than are now carrying their share of this expenditure will be most welcome.

Village Should Join

Now that the school board has set the fashion by joining up with the provincial trustee body, it is to be hoped the village council will not be slow in copying this splendid example and get into the B. C. Union of Municipalities, a similar sort of organization, that has accomplished much good work in the past in helping shape enlargements and amendments to the municipal laws of the province.

As it is only within the past seven or eight years that village incorporation has been possible, it can be seen that this municipal union has, of necessity, been chiefly concerned with protecting the best interests of the cities and district municipalities.

Now that villages are being incorporated with surprising frequency Creston in common with all the other villages should benefit measurably by participating in the deliberations of the municipal union and by having its requests for legislative consideration backed by such an influential body as the B. C. Union of Municipalities.

Empty Hours

William Lyon Phelps, professor of English literature at Yale University, has a thought-arresting article in one of the big United States magazines. He considers the character-revealing value of our leisure hours and the need of observing what we do with them if we are to have a real understanding of one another.

What does the average person do with his leisure? he asks. For, "except in the rare instances of creative work, it is leisure alone that reveals or betrays the man." Dr. Phelps goes even so far as to say that "the use of leisure eventually determines the fate of an entire community, or of an entire nation." He cites the fate of the Roman Empire, "destroyed, first, by too much leisure, second by the wrong use of it."

Throughout America nearly everybody works, if they can obtain employment, but the signs of the times seem certainly to indicate the coming of more leisure. Will the increased hours of leisure be empty or filled? And, if filled, what will be the character of their filling?

The writer, as a boy, worked ten hours a day, six days a week, at manual labor in a factory. There was little time for leisure, but he gained a portion of his education by snatching a couple of hours of study in the evenings. The 10-hour working day has passed. It faded away before organized labor's demand for "eight hours to work, eight hours to sleep, eight hours to do with as you like."

Now the 8-hour working day is gradually going into the discard. The growing demand of organized labor is for a 6-hour day and a five-day working week. It is contended that in this machine age, with the many mechanical marvels of today, one man, working much shorter hours, can produce more than it was possible for several men working longer hours to produce even a few short years ago. And it is true. And this development is given as one of the main causes of unemployment today. Hence, considerable force attaches to the demand for a shorter working day and fewer working days in order, if for no other reason, to provide work for a larger number of persons. Even on the farm, modern machinery is reducing the required number of hours and days of labor, and, consequently, in the number of men employed.

All this means increased hours of leisure. What are we going to do with them? Have you ever stopped to check up just what you now do with your leisure? "The real business of life is Life." Men and women live in their minds. If leisure means laziness, if leisure means only bodily pleasures, if leisure means only attendance at games and sentimental pictures, the mind stagnates and leisure becomes a detriment not an advantage, a curse rather than a blessing.

On the other hand if, by education and the increase of refinement, as Dr. Phelps says, men and women will make a profitable use of their increased leisure, the coming generations will be more civilized and more happy than at any previous period in their history.

It is within the compass of every person to become a "personality," to be in some degree different from others. The process is a mental one; the product the outgrowth of how the leisure hours are spent.

The happiest people, concludes Dr. Phelps, "are those who think the most interesting thoughts. Interesting thoughts live only in cultivated minds. Those who decide to use leisure as a means of mental development, who love good music, good books, good pictures, good plays at the theatre, good company, good conversation—what are they? They are the happiest people in the world; they are not only happy in themselves, they are the cause of happiness in others."

Telephones In Australia

Can Now Carry On Conversation Over Phone For Distance Of 3,000 Miles

The Australian telephone and telegraph system, operated by the Commonwealth Postal Department, is being rapidly extended and within a few weeks it will be possible for Sydney people to speak to Perth by direct wire, a distance of more than 3,000 miles. A commercial radio telephone service between London, England, and any Australian capital is now in operation, and within a few months the Commonwealth Government intends to establish a similar service between the Island State of Tasmania and the other states of the Commonwealth.

Poland Compels Citizens To Bathe Once a Month

It is reported in a Polish newspaper that a bill is now being drafted which will compel every Polish citizen to take a bath at least once a month. A bathroom in the house will be accepted as evidence that the residents make reasonable use of it, but those who have no bathroom of their own must carry bath cards which will have to be stamped monthly by an official as proof that a bath has been taken. Children under 10 and elderly people over 70, it is said, are to be excused.

Reduce the Acid

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are overstimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

A Remarkable Feat

Conversation From Airplane In Flight Covered Fourteen Thousand Miles

From an aeroplane 5,000 feet over Buenos Aires, Captain Lewis Yancey recently talked by radiophone with Sydney, Australia, thus telephoning from an aeroplane in flight over a distance of 14,000 miles, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. His conversation went by radio to a raidotelephone station in Buenos Aires, then by radio to Madrid. At Madrid the conversation was transferred to land lines of a telephone company which took it to the French border, where it was transferred again to other land lines and carried to the English Channel. A submarine cable took it to England, then other land lines carried the words to a radiotelephone station at Rugby. From Rugby the beam wireless carried the words to Sydney. The conversation was quite distinct.—Moose Jaw Evening Times.

BILL TO AMEND THE CUSTOMS ACT PASSES HOUSE

Ottawa, Ont.—The bill to amend the Customs Act in respect to dumping received third reading in the Commons, after a lengthy debate. It went on to the Senate. The bill extends penalties to imported manufactured goods as well as imported natural products dumped into Canada, and makes the wholesalers' and jobbers' prices in the country of origin the basis for deciding whether they are fair, instead of the manufacturers' prices.

The bill met with a great deal of opposition on the ground that it gave the Minister of National Revenue wide powers in regard to tariff impositions. Final protests were made by J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre), E. J. Young (Liberal, Weyburn), and John Vallance (Liberal, North Battleford). Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, was piloting the bill through the House, and defended the measure.

Mr. Woodsworth, in resuming the debate, protested against what he believed to be an attempt upon the part of the government to "rush through the House" a measure that should be carefully studied both by the House and by the public before it was dealt with. There should be time given to the public for an expression of opinion on such a "reactionary measure."

The prime minister had stated that he would remain in Canada rather than go to the Imperial Conference, if the present session was not ended in time to enable him to attend. It might be possible, said Mr. Woodsworth, that the Imperial Conference could get along without Mr. Bennett.

He did not agree with those who thought that the people "should take their medicine," for once this legislation was on the statute books it would be difficult to get it off again. The government was violating the right of parliament to protest against taxation.

The legislation before the House was intended to prevent a decline of commodity prices, said Mr. Young. The whole trouble with the country at present was that prices of other commodities had not declined along with farm products. This had reduced the purchasing power of the farmers and the only way to restore prosperity was to increase purchasing power. This could not be done unless commodity prices came down for there was no way of increasing farm prices.

Mr. Vallance declared the government's proposals regarding tariff affected every industry but one, agriculture. The farmers, he said, had to be content with promises.

Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, in a brief statement before the close of the debate, said the principle of the bill had been approved by parliament in 1922 and not until today had any protests been made. He believed it was necessary to the government's program to deal with the unemployment situation.

The bill was then given third reading.

Heavy Grain Shipments

1,771,000 Bushels Of Grain Loaded In One Day On C.P.R. Lines

Winnipeg Man.—From farm granaries east, west, north and south, over the net work of Canadian Pacific western lines on Tuesday, September 16, there poured into freight cars 1,771,000 bushels of grain for transit, an increase of nearly 200,000 bushels over the previous day, Manitoba district showing the greatest advance for that period. The report from J. G. Sutherland, superintendent of transportation, shows 1,079 cars inspected and 891 cars loaded.

Fine weather has facilitated the movement of grain with a consequent increase in storage in country elevators, at the head of the lakes and at the Pacific Coast.

Totals for the day indicate that marketing took 404,000 bushels from Manitoba; 609,000 from Saskatchewan, and 758,000 from Alberta.

May Stop Importation Of Russian Goods

Tariff Action Against Soviet Country Held Likely

Ottawa, Ont.—Importation of goods into Canada from Russia, believed to apply particularly to coal, may be stopped by order-in-council if an amendment to the Customs Act introduced in the House of Commons by Premier Bennett becomes law. The government proposed the insertion of a new section in the Act which will empower the governor-in-council to prohibit the importation of any goods from any country not a party to the Treaty of Versailles.

That the government had Russia in mind in framing the section was indicated by the premier in the House, later, although he did not mention that country. He said there had been much discussion in the country about imports from "certain countries where the whole population is engaged in the production of goods under the direction of the government."

Russia is not a party to the Treaty of Versailles under which certain obligations are imposed on governments to see that hours of labor and rates of wages conform to a certain standard.

Train Crash Proves Fatal

Brakeman Killed When Grain Trains Collide Near Sioux Lookout

Sioux Lookout.—One trainman was killed and another injured when two Canadian National Railway grain trains, en route to the Head of the Lakes, collided in the McIntosh yards, 80 miles east of here.

Leslie White, a brakeman, was instantly killed when struck by grain car trucks, which were hurled through the air, while Joseph Hunter, another brakeman, suffered a broken leg. Grain cars were piled up along the right-of-way and one of the engines was thrown clear of the tracks.

French Wheat Crops Poor

Should Estimate Be Correct Imports Will Be Heavy

New York.—The New York Times publishes the following special cable from Paris:

"The wheat crop in France this season will be so poor as to constitute a disaster, according to estimates made by Delphin Destombe, statistician of the Bourse de Commerce, who places the total crop at 56,500,000 quintals. Should this estimate prove accurate, France will be obliged to import 20,000,000 quintals to supply her needs.

British Cattle Men Alarmed

Canada Applies For Extension Of Quality Mark On Meat

London, England.—Canada's plan to make a mass attack on the British meat market and her official application for an extension of the national mark—the quality sign now reserved for home meat—to cattle exported from the Dominion ready for killing in Britain, is causing alarm among English and Scottish cattle farmers, according to the Daily Herald.

The seriousness of the situation is receiving the consideration of the National Farmers' Union. The national mark for beef has caused British housewives to insist upon British meat and has resulted in a higher standard of quality. Old Country farmers have been forced to produce a higher grade of cattle and they have benefitted substantially by the national mark privilege.

It is understood that the Canadian demand for the privilege of using this mark is based upon the fact that Irish cattle are already included, and the dealers who receive Canadian cattle are anxious for it to be extended to them.

The Daily Herald regards the Canadian attack on the British meat market as a blow to Lord Beaverbrook because it disproves his argument to British farmers that imports from Canada will not affect them.

Bootlegging Of Grain

Manitoba Wheat Pool Takes Measures To Stop Practice

Winnipeg, Man.—Active campaign against the "bootlegging" of grain by members of the Manitoba Wheat Pool continues, and now nearly four score actions are pending in the courts.

This week Pool officials have secured 13 interim injunctions against members who are alleged to have sold their grain to non-pool buyers. The Pool is claiming damages for non-delivery of the crop of its members, and at the same time is asking injunctions to prevent further "bootlegging."

Aid To War Veterans

In This Connection, Canada Takes Second Place To No Nation In the World

Winnipeg, Man.—In aiding her great war veterans, Canada took second place to no nation in the world, Col. W. C. H. Wood, president of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, asserted in an address to assembled delegates at the association's annual convention here. Banded together as they were in Canada, veterans had every chance of receiving generous treatment from the Dominion Government. Trend of legislation, Col. Wood added, seemed favorable to the returned man.

Referring to the world-wide movement for peace, Lieut.-Col. G. A. Wells, of Winnipeg, speaking at memorial services this afternoon, expressed the hope that the memory of those who sacrificed their lives in the war would not fade. Dead heroes of the conflict might be forgotten, he thought, in the driving endeavor to remove all traces of war.

Banks In Manitoba Will Assist Farmers

Are Acting On Suggestions Made By Premier Bracken

Winnipeg, Man.—Banks in Canada have already put into effect, to a considerable extent, suggestions made by Premier John Bracken for relief of farmers oppressed by adverse conditions now existing in the grain market. This is the statement of Premier Bracken. Representatives of the banks and of the Manitoba Government held a conference at the Legislative Building.

The Premier stated that the parley was held for the purposes of developing the market for the province's barley crop, improving the market for livestock and lessening, if possible, the number of workmen leaving the farms for the cities, where they might add to the ranks of the unemployed.

Ontario By-Elections

Elections Will Be Held In Nine Constituencies On October 29

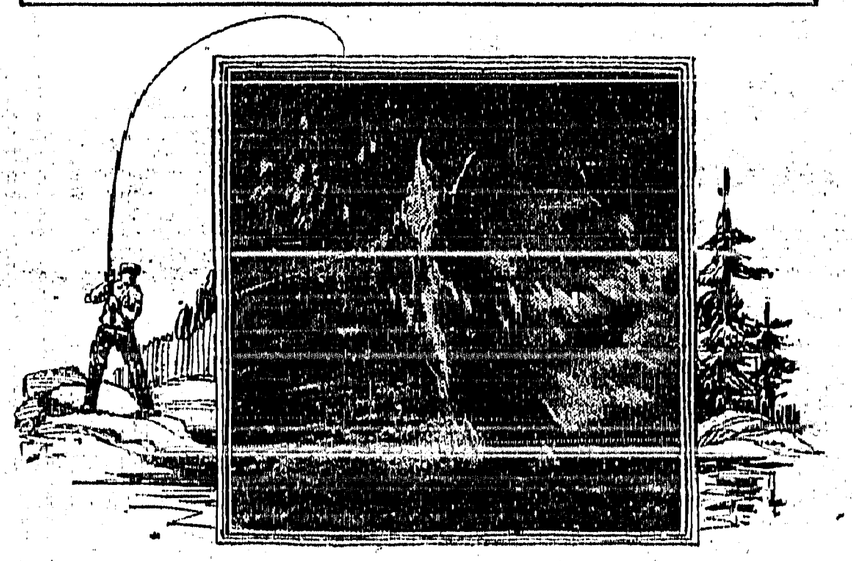
Toronto, Ont.—By-elections will be held in nine Ontario Legislature constituencies on October 29, following nominations October 18, it was announced recently, following a meeting of the provincial cabinet. These by-elections are necessitated by vacancies caused by the death or resignation of members and the changes made recently in the administration.

The constituencies affected are Waterloo South, Nipissing, Lanark South, Perth South, Algoma, Peel, York South, Brantford and Renfrew North.

Australian Flyer Killed

Sydney, N.S.W.—David Smith, one of the Australian airmen who made an unsuccessful attempt to fly to England in April, was killed when his machine hurtled earthward after his engine failed at an altitude of 150 feet. Smith jumped or fell into a garden and was picked up dead.

Game to the Finish!



When the talk is of game fish, the above picture of a typical Great Northern Pike, hooked at French River, Ontario, speaks for itself. Visitors and sportsmen from the four corners of the earth pour into French River Bungalow Camp each summer, over Canadian Pacific Railway lines, to holiday, golf, fish, swim and canoe under the guidance of Jack Strathdee, camp manager, who delights in showing neophytes where and how to land the big fellows. The above is a fair specimen of what luck may be expected. Game fish? Just wait till you play one!

MANITOBA ASKS FOR $2,000,000 TO PROVIDE WORK

Winnipeg, Man.—Two million dollars for Manitoba. This will be the plea of Premier John Bracken when he journeys to Ottawa next week to ask for his province a share in the $20,000,000 voted in the House of Commons for relief of unemployment in Canada. The Premier announced his "quota" with representatives of 60 urban, suburban and rural municipalities.

The session at the legislative building was the second of a series of four meetings to be held within a week. Premier Bracken conferred with representatives of the banks asking and receiving assurance of every effort to assist farmers worried by low livestock and grain values.

The selection of the undertakings which the Dominion would be asked to construct was a matter solely for the provincial government, declared Mr. Bracken. The cabinet will make its decision before he leaves for Ottawa. Completion of the Mafeking cut-off on the Canadian National Railway to The Pas and development of the Riding Mountain National Park will be requested, the premier mentioned.

During the six-hour discussion, it was stated that the unemployment situation in Manitoba was more grave than in most of the other provinces. Bridge and subway programs were pressed for by delegates from Winnipeg and St. Boniface. All projects would be given consideration in the government's proposal to the Dominion, the premier promised.

Winnipeg and the suburbs have difficulties which must be met separately from those of the rural delegates, the premier mentioned. In view of this fact, he announced that he will hold two sub-conferences before he leaves for the east. He will meet suburban and urban delegates and will confer with the executive of the municipal union on the agricultural situation.

At the opening of the conference, Premier Bracken stated that the government was prepared to increase its unemployment relief contribution from one-quarter to one-third of the project-costs, to parallel the one-third offered by the Dominion; to pay one-third—and possibly one-half—of the excess cost of winter unemployment relief work; and to pay 50 per cent. of interest charges on capital cost of work prematurely undertaken.

It was revealed that the city of Winnipeg has prepared a program of subway and bridge construction costing approximately $7,000,000, which it would submit to the Dominion Government as part of the plan to relieve the jobless, providing the provincial administration would bear its share in construction costs.

Jack and Jill

Cushion Sole Shoes for Children

By this Jack and Jill method of "visible fitting" there is no more guesswork; the child's foot can actually be seen in the shoe, and cramping of the little toes, that grow so quickly, avoided. Children thus fitted will not need arch supports and other appliances in later years. For never does a Jack and Jill shoe bind growing bones or muscles. Firmly constructed yet flexible as a glove, they allow the feet to grow unhindered. Sturdy and strong to stnnd the wear and tear of active youngsters, yet priced moderately. Bring in the children aud have them properly fitted.
