VOL. XXII. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1930 No. 37

A. L. Palmer Heads Curlers

R. M. Telford is Vice-President—Close Year with Satisfactory Cash Balance—Water Trouble Ended—$10 Membership Fee

There was a representative and enthusiastic turnout of devotees of the roarin' game for the annual meeting of Creston Curling Club at the town hall Monday night. The retiring president, M. J. Boyd, was in charge of proceedings, with H. W. McLaren, doing duty as secretary.

The treasurer's report showed the year closed with a balance of $9 on the credit side after all operating expenses had been met, these latter including the lowering of the water pipe line that supplies the rink to a depth that will prevent freezing. About $125 was expended last season in buying poles, wire and transformer and installing electrical connection with the town system, much of which is expected to come back to the club in the sale of this equipment to Creston Power & Light Company, Limited.

Last season the club had a membership of 35, and while the season was short it had been possible to play off all the competitions and award the cups a d trophies at the usual bridge at the close of the season. The officers for 1930-31 are:

President—A. L. Palmer.
Vice-president—R. M. Telford.
Secretary-treasurer—Dick Chandler.
Executive—C. H. Hare, M. R. Joyce, Dolf Weir.

The foregoing will also comprise the ice committee and they were authorized to spend up to $100 in securing a caretak r for the year. The membership fee was fixed at the usual $10 to be paid before play commences.

The secretary was provided with names of a few firms and individuals to whom he will write suggesting the club would not be averse to accepting a cup of some other trophy for annual competition.

It was agreed that another meeting would be held just prior to the rink opening at which skips for the year will be elected. Before adjournment the usual vote of thanks was tendered the retiring officers for much good work done in a rather trying season to provide a year's curling that was appreciated by all the members.

'Talkie' Movies Christmas Day

Talkitone Sound Equipment Due First Week December—Installation to be Rushed for Grand Opening at Yuletide

"Talkie" movies for Christmas at the Grand Theatre are now assured, unless something at present unforseen should happen.

A Talkitone machine, anufactured and guaranteed by the Radio Corporation of Amercica, has been purchased, and shipment from Winnipeg, Manitoba, is promised the first week in December.

As soon as the equipment arrives a R.C.A. engineer will be on hand to take charge of installation, which is expected to occupy less than ten days, so that a premier showing on December 25th may be confidently looked for.

The Talkitone secured is the same type as that specially selected and used in the mov ing picture censor's office at Vancouver. It is backed by a ten-day guarantee by the R.C.A. but Manager Rodgers is planning to have installation complete a few days prior to Christmas so that a thorough tryout can be given, and in case this machine proves unsatisfactory another will be secured that will give the talking and musical effects satisfactorily.

In addition to the new machine a new sound screen will be be installed, which not only gives a brighter picture but assures that picture and sound features will come across simultaneously.

Creston Boasts Public Hospital

Charter of Incorporation Has Arrived—Hospital Becomes a Community Institution — Up-to-Date in all its Appointments

Creston and district can boast of having its own quite commodious and fully modern hospital, and at a meeting of all interested at the town hall on December 10th the permanent board of management will be elected for for the next twelve months.

The hospital is a fully 100 per cent. community undertaking, the certificate incorporating it as Creston Valley Hospital, to be managed by a board of 14 directors to be elected annually, along with one director named by the village and another by the government, which latter makes a grant to help with the hospital upkeep, as does also the village in connection with patients from within the village area.

The hospital is located in the former residence of Matt. York, which has been entirely remodelled to make it suitable, and everyone who has inspected the place or been a patient there is loud in praise of the institution throughout.

It is equipped with two X-Ray machines, one of which is just about the most complete of its kind to be had. The surgical instruments and operating table are fully modern, and it has 11 beds. One of the rooms has been furnished throughout by the Women's Institute and excites the admiration of all.

In full co-operation with Creston Board of Trade the hospital was opened about three and a half months ago by Dr. J. Olivier of Blairmore, who suprintended the rebuilding of the York resedence and brought here the full equipment of the private hospital he had in that town.

That the hospital has given satisfaction is indicated in the fact that to date 60 patients have been taken care of, accounting for 480 patient days, and has been managed by temporary directors in Col. Mallandaine, Reeve F. H. Jackson, G. H. Kelly, Geo. Johnson, J. S. Clowes, Frank Putnam and R. J. Forbes.

With the arrival of the charter the hospital is now a public institution in which any doctor can make full use of the equipment in taking care of his patients, and patients entering it are free to take treatment from any doctor they may choose.

To the meeting to fully organize work all are invited and during the coming week $1 membership tickets in the hospital will be on sale and everyone who holds one of these will be entitled to vote at the election of the board of directors on December 10th.

Dr. O. Lillie' Death, Saturday

Practised Dentistry Here Since 1922—Figured in Educational Affairs and Professional Life of Eastern Ontario in Early '80's

After an illness extending over more than a year, and w ich included several weeks' stay in a Calgary hospital, death on Saturday night claimed Dr. Orlando Lillie, at the age of 72 years.

Deceased was s native of Lyn, Leeds county, Ontario, who in 1880 graduated from Albert College, Belleville, Ontario, and two years later opened business colleges at Brockville and Cornwall, Ontario—the first commercial schools to be established in that part of that province.

In 1890 he graduated in dentistry from Toronto University, and practised his profession at Brockville and Westport, Ontario, until 1916, at which time he came west and was associated with his son, Dr. Roy K. Lillie, in an extensive dental practice at Blairmore and Coleman, Alberta. Finding the altitude not agreeing with his health, deceased came to Creston in 1922 and following his profession until a little over a year ago, when failing health necessitated his giving up active work permanently.

The funeral took place on Monday with a family service at the house, followed by a service at Trinity United Church, both of which were in charge of the pastor, Rev, R. E. Cribb. Following the service at Trinity Church the remains were shipped to Calgary, Alberta, with E. Cartwright, Jas. Compton, R. J. Forbes, John Sherwood and J. W. Robinson officiating as pallberarers. In that city interment took place in Burnsland cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

The late Dr. Lillie was married in 1889 to Laura E. Manhardt at Brockville, Ontario, and his widow and one son, Dr. Roy Lillie of Blairmore, Alberta survive, along with two brothers in eastern Canada, and a sister in Iowa.

At Creston deceased was actively identified with the activities of Trinity United Church, particularly the Beaver Brotherhood, in addition to which he was treasurer of the local branch of the Canadian Bible Society. He was a Mason, and in politics a staunch Liberal.

In addition to the many who were out to pay their last respects on Monday morning the floral tributes eloquently bespoke the high esteem in which deceased was held, and Mrs. Lillie and son have the sincere sympathy of all in their bereavement.

Amongst those remembering with flowers were: Family, Dr. and Mrs. Olivier, Mr. and Mrs. G. Cartwright, Trinity United Church Ladies' Aid, Beaver Brotherhood, Creston and District Women's Institute, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Comfort, Mr. and Mrs. Compton, Mr. and Mrs. Kernaghan, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Kelly, Mrs. Fransen, Mr. Mrs. Jas. Cook, and Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Joyce.

Unemployment Relief Policies

Unemployment not only casts a sinister shadow over the world today, but the substance of the thing has hundreds of thousands, even millions, of men, women and children in its grip. Admittedly the situation is a serious one, first, because of the actual suffering entailed thereby, but also because it is causing men to "see red," as the saying is, and lose faith in all established and orderly methods of government, society and business. The tendency is to repudiate economic truths, and to try experiments with almost any hair-brained proposal that may be advanced. Here lies the real danger for the future, because many of the suggested remedies would result in a state of affairs far worse, and cause more suffering, than the condition they sought to improve and cure.

One suggested temporary remedy for present unemployment that undoubtedly finds support in many quarters is the substitution of handwork, manual labor, for machinery in prosecuting relief works. For example, it is reported that one large United States city is developing a program of winter work that will substitute pick-and-shovel brigades for machines, the object being, of course, to give work to a larger number of men. The same suggestion is being advanced in connection with municipal relief works throughout Canada.

The question is: Should we deliberately abandon our labor-saving devices and revert to the painfully slow methods of yesterday in order to provide jobs for the unemployed? Is it wise to do so, and, in the long run, are the unemployed benefitted thereby? The subject deserves close study.

Without doubt, a good deal of work can be manufactured by substituting primitive manual methods for more efficient machine-processes, remarks the New York Journal of Commerce. Indeed, by some systematic elimination of our modern labor-saving devices, it goes on, we could speedily reduce any modern industralized community to a condition which would require the full-time effort of every able-bodied person to prevent wholesale starvation and death from exposure. But, without carrying the policy to any such lengths, is the suggestion good in any way?

In one of our prairie provinces where much road work is being carried on as a means of providing employment, decision was reached to build a certain road without use of machinery and solely by horses and manual labor. Objection was raised by some people that by using machinery for certain phases of the work, a greater mileage of good road could be constructed for the same money while giving employment to just as many men because of the greater mileage involved. This view was rejected, no machinery was used, and the work proceeded. A total of five miles of graded road was the result. Now it is realized that with the same number of men given work, practically the same expenditure of money, and the use of a certain amount of machinery, three times that mileage could have been constructed. The farmers of the district who were given relief work on that road would have benefited more from fifteen rather than five miles of good road, while in the years to come they must pay their share of the taxation necessitated by this relief expenditure. They gained nothing temporarily, and will lose in the long run.

Fifty men digging a trench for a sewer or other pipe line with pick and shovel will accomplish just so much in a day, but the same fifty men working in conjunction with a trench-digging machine will accomplish several times as much, and with little more expense. Or fifty men cleaning snow off sidewalks with shovels will only do a fraction of the work that the same fifty men following after snow-ploughs will do, yet the same number of men will be given work and practically the same expenditure of public funds be required.

There should be no hasty assumption that the elimination of machinery in carrying out unemployment relief works is wise, or that more work for the unemployed can be thus provided. It does mean, however, that less will be accomplished for the money expended, and for this economic loss everybody, including those at present unemployed, will have to pay through taxation in the years to come.

Other suggested remedies have more to commend them, as, for example, the proposals in Great Britain and Germany to raise the compulsory school attendance age by one year, thus keeping some hundreds of thousands of children in school for a longer period instead of having them forced into employment replacing others now at work, or merely added to the ranks of the idle and out-of-works. There is something constructive in such a policy, benefiting the coming generation of workers, and raising the whole educational standard of the nation.

So, too, is there much to be said in favor of the suggestion that the present six-day or five and a half-day work week be reduced to a five-day work week, or that the present 8-hour day be reduced to a 7-hour or even a 6-hour day. As the head of one of the greatest industrial corporations in the world today recently pointed out, the greater the amount of leisure time enjoyed by the workers of the world, the larger will be their demand for the things necessary to the enjoyment of those leisure hours, thus creating a greater demand than ever for the production of the things they require. Thus would more men be employed, more goods produced and purchased, a higher, rather than a lower, standard of living created.

Not Good Publicity

Stunt Flying Does Not Help Aviation In Any Way

In the Preakness, N.J., airport on a recent Sunday, 5,000 people were watching the marvels of skill in flight when an airplane driven by veteran Alden H. Russell, went into a tail spin and crashed, injuring Russell seriously and his one passenger fatally. More than these two men were endangered; the crash came within 300 feet of the massed spectators. In Toronto at about the same time a pilot and two women passengers were burned to death in a low crash after stunting.

The friends of commercial aviation in view of the number of such fatalities, may well ask themselves what kind of publicity will most benefit their young industry: the plaudits of the crowd gathered to risk their own lives in seeing reckless pilots risk theirs, or the story of the really remarkable advance that is being made in aviation with a purpose. For, almost unnoticed along with all this dangerous stunting the carrying of air mails and passengers goes on with comparative safety, which should be if attention were not constantly diverted from it by fatal accidents in exhibitions, most encouraging.

It ought not to take a major accident with a hundred people killed by a 'plane out of control to open the eyes of aviation authorities to the necessity of curbing the practice of recklessly showing off what wonderful things can be done in the air—with luck, which does not always attend the venture.

Guard the Baby Against Colds

To guard the baby against colds nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a mild laxative that will keep the little one's stomach and bowels working regularly. It is a recognized fact that where the stomach and bowels are in good order that colds will not exist; that the health of the little one will be good and that he will thrive and be happy and good-natured. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canada and Empire Reforestation

Canada is yearly playing a bigger part in Empire reforestation. Fifty-three per cent. of the tree seed exported has gone to Great Britain, forty per cent. to New Zealand, and the remainder to Australia, Ireland, and other parts of the Empire. During the past ten years the British Forestry Commission has planted 140,000 acres of softwoods, the greater part of the seed used coming from Canada.

Cause Of Asthma. No one can say with certainty exactly what causes the establishing of asthmatic conditions. Dust from the street, from flowers, from grain and various other irritants may set up a trouble impossible to irradicate except through a sure preparation such as Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Uncertainty may exist as to cause, but there can be no uncertainty regarding a remedy which has freed a generation of asthmatic victims from this scourge of the bronchial tubes. It is sold everywhere.

Western Canada Sugar Production

About 24,000 000 pounds of sugar will be produced this year from sugar beets grown in Southern Alberta. About 14,000 acres of beets were under crop this year. The centre of the industry is at Raymond.

Requisite On the Farm — Every farmer and stock raiser should keep a supply of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil on hand, not only as a ready remedy for ills in the family, but because it is a horse and cattle medicine of great potency. As a substitute for sweet oil for horses and cattle affected by colic it far surpasses anything that can be administered.

Meat Consumption In Canada

The per capita consumption of meats in Canada last year was: beef, 676,906,352 pounds or 60.09 pounds per capita; pork, 798,633,774 pounds or 81.52 pounds per capita; mutton and lamb, 70,511,238 pounds or 7.20 pounds per capita.

New Railway Construction

C.P.R. To Commence Work At Once On Saskatchewan Branch Lines

Immediate work on a hundred miles of new rail construction in Saskatchewan is foreshadowed by D. C. Coleman, vice-president of western lines, Canadian Pacific Railway, in announcing the award of four grading contracts which form a portion of the company's advanced construction programme recently referred to by E. W. Beatty, K.C., chairman and president of the company. The contracts are for the completion of the line from Nipawin to Henribourg, 20 miles; Rosetown to Gunnworth, 20 miles; Medstead to Meadow Lake, 35 miles, and from Hamlin, northeasterly, 25 miles.

Drug Ring Smashed

United States Federal Agents Make Thirty Arrests

Thirty arrests in seven cities, and seizure of drugs valued at $25,000, were reported by United States federal officers who for six weeks have worked under cover in an effort to smash what they described as an "international drug ring—one of the biggest and most powerful in the United States."

The secret government agents caused the arrests in Syracuse, Buffalo, N.Y., Utica, Albany, Troy and Schenectady. The coup was said to have been engineered by narcotic officials at Washington and New York.

Three were taken into custody in Syracuse Saturday night, Nov 1, after undercover men, who had gained the confidence of several of the men, said by them to be members of the ring, were lured to Syracuse with invitations to a "wild party."

A NEW FARM POLICY PROPOSED BY GOVERNMENT

Toronto, Ont.—A Dominion agricultural policy is proclaimed by Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture. On the occasion of the opening of the Royal Winter Fair, the minister enunciated important policies, adopted after three days' deliberation of the provincial ministers of agriculture and to be known as the "national agricultural policy."

Declaring that at the present period of depression new and drastic steps in the right direction should be taken, and insisting on the necessity of co-operation throughout agricultural Canada, the minister introduced four measures designed to remedy the situation and bolster "Canada's chief industry." They are:

1. The introduction of better blood in herds.

2. The scientific use of home grown products for herd feeding purposes.

3. Careful study of the science of marketing.

4. The prevention of implantation and spread of poultry diseases.

One of his ambitions and reiterated policies, said Mr. Weir, was to find some machinery by which every farmer throughout the country could be made aware of the changes in agricultural methods and of the improvement in farming conditions. This he had discovered, he said, as the result of the conference with provincial agricultural leaders.

"It has been agreed that the provincial departments of agriculture and all the machinery at their service, will transmit and interpret to the farmers of Canada every possible advance or policy which the Dominion Department of Agriculture, after consideration and consultation, will consider beneficial to the farming population as a whole. This, of course, with the least possible delay and at the lowest cost."

Decrease in the cost of production and scientific production—that is the production of market requirements—were two fundamental principles that had not been lost sight of.

The minister made a brief analysis of his four major propositions. Considering the difficulty the average farmer experiences in procuring a first class sire, whereby he might improve the blood of his cattle and the general usefulness of his stock. Mr. Weir undertook to supply free of cost to any group of energetic and deserving farmers a sire to be used during a period of two years. This, he thought, would eliminate expense, and a useless waste of time and energy and encourage one of the more necessary and wholesome steps in the raising of profitable and sound stock.

Because of present conditions, the minister foresaw a very definite increase in pork production during the next few years. This he did not advise, but felt that because of the inevitable trend, steps should be taken to direct that increased production. In his opinion, this would be best done by supplying farmers with breed sows of the fine bacon type at cost and at half transportation price. This would eventually mean that the right quality of bacon could be procured for home consumption and exportation with substantial remuneration for the farmer.

Advocates Free Port

Portage la Prairie, Man.—Proposal that Churchill, the West's sea harbor on Hudson Bay, be declared a free port of entry for British goods, was made by Hon. R. A. Hoey, acting premier of Manitoba, at the annual convention of the United Farmers of Manitoba. He considered that such a move would tend measurably towards the establishment of the West's agriculture on a permanently profitable basis.

May Withdraw From League

Santiago.—Chilean government is considering withdrawal from the League of Nations, believing itself to have been slighted by the larger European members. Rejection of Chilean candidate for seat on the world court bench is one cause for forthcoming withdrawal, it is said.

To Stabilize Wheat Prices

Advocate Measure To Restore Confidence and Ameliorate Western Conditions

Portage la Prairie, Man.—Organized agriculture of the prairies stands four square back of the premiers' pilgrimage to the east to seek Dominion government aid for the west. In annual convention here, United Farmers of Manitoba gave their endorsation to the premiers' mission to gain Dominion assistance in restoring confidence and in ameliorating conditions in the west.

Already United Farmers of Alberta and United Farmers of Canada, Saskatchewan section, have taken a stand in favor of fixed prices for wheat by means of Dominion intervention, admittedly the object of the prairie premiers' journey to Ottawa. The Manitoba body, however, erased all mention of price fixing from the resolution which it approved unanimously.

Though Manitoba farmers adopted no policy on "pegged" wheat prices, as advocated by George H. Williams, president of the Saskatchewan body, they decided to send a representative to the interprovincial conference in Saskatoon. At this meeting, the matter of stabilized grain prices by government intervention will be considered.

The Manitoba delegation will be bound to no specific move with regard to steps to be taken at the meeting.

In the course of open debate on the question, Mr. Williams stated that United Farmers of Ontario and the Canadian Council of Agriculture would be represented at the meeting, as well as prairie farm body delegates. The Manitoba convention approved the action of its directors in deciding to send a delegation to the Saskatoon parley, scheduled November 26 to 28.

Exhibit Of Choicest Products

Varied Display Seen At Royal Winter Fair In Toronto

Toronto, Ont.—The choicest of Canada's agricultural products and the bluebloods of her cattle, domestic animals and poultry were on display here, when, without any ceremony or speech-making, the gates of the Royal Winter Fair were opened to the public. Housed in the buildings at the Canadian National Exhibition Grounds were hundreds of horses, livestock, poultry, foxes, and cats and dogs, seeking glory in their respective classes, while in other buildings were aisles and aisles of fruit, flowers, dairy products, seed grains—the best Canada and the United States has to offer.

Perhaps the most varied show was the great display of apples, entered for competition by farmers and associations from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia. The displays consist of boxes of apples packed for shipment and placed one box beside the other, 10 crates high and 25 crates wide, forming a great glistening sea of red and green.

The show was officially opened by Sir Robert Borden, when the former premier addressed the throng in the huge Coliseum.

Decrease In Fall Grain

Interesting Report Issued By Dominion Bureau Of Statistics

Ottawa, Ont.—The area sown to fall wheat in Canada for the season 1931 as of Oct. 31, 1930, is estimated at 894,000 acres in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This represents a decrease of 148,000 acres, when compared with the total of 1,042,000 acres sown last year.

The condition of fall wheat on October 31, is reported as 96 per cent. of the ten-year average, against 88 per cent. on the same date in 1929.

The report also deals with fall rye, showing that 944,000 acres have been sown to this grain. A decrease of 19 per cent. from the total of 1,116,000 acres sown in 1929. The condition of fall rye was reported on October 31, as 98 per cent. of the ten-year average. The condition on the same date last year, was 90 per cent.

Wheat Acreage Should Not Be Reduced

Would Be Economic Fallacy Is Opinion Of H. S. Fry

Toronto, Ont.—Reduction of acreage seeded to wheat by farmers of western Canada, in an effort to cut down production and thus limit the exportable surplus of stocks, would be an economic fallacy, in the opinion of Harold S. Fry, of Regina, chairman of the general publicity committee of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference, which will be held in Saskatchewan's capital in 1932. Mr. Fry is also publicity director of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

According to Mr. Fry, Canada produces in largest quantities the world's best hard spring wheat and ranks as the world's greatest exporter of wheat. He held it paramount that Canada maintain this supremacy. Either by finding new markets for wheat, lessening the cost of production, finding new uses for wheat—or a combination of all three.

Ottawa, Ont.—Interviewed here Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, said:

"I have no particular comment to make upon recent rumors and reports relating to the Canadian National Railways other than to say that the administration has not the slightest complaint regarding its treatment by the present government and has no apprehensions with respect to the future. We have good steady jobs minding our own business and trying to operate the railway. There does not seem to be any immediate reason for undue excitement."

Further development of the system now made possible the transmission of 9,120 words a minute for a single pair of wires.

Independence For India

Voice Of Islam Heard At Round Table Conference In London

London, England.—India's round-table conference heard a voice from Islam in a demand for complete independence.

"I do not come to ask for Dominion status," exclaimed Muhammed Ali, one of the famous Ali brothers and a leader of the all-India Moslem League. "I do not believe in the attainment of Dominion status. The one thing to which I am committed is complete independence."

The Hindus and the Moslems alike challenged the Conservative view, expressed by Lord Peel, when the former secretary of state for India declared Dominion status had not been promised as an immediate gift, but had merely been pointed as a goal by the present Viceroy of India, Lord Irwin.

"I want to go back to my own country," Muhammed Ali declared, "only if I can go back with the substance of freedom in my hand. Otherwise I will not go back to the slave country. You will have to give me a grave here."

"We will be satisfied with nothing less than full responsible government," insisted Dr. B. S. Moonje, head of the Hindu Mahasabbas, or protection society.

Heavier Imports Of Salmon

Make a Santa Claus visit by telephone

Haven't you ever envied the speed at which Santa Claus travels, visiting homes in the space of a few hours? If you could only move as quickly at Christmas time what a lot of places you'd visit. However, your friends and relatives are scattered far and wide, and unfortunately you can't be everywhere at once. So many places, so many people, but only one of you.

There's a way out of the difficulty, and yon needn't possess magical powers. The long-distance telephone travels at almost Santa Claus speed. You can sit down at your telephone and within a few moments be connected with a far-away dear one. You'll be surprised and delighted at the number of Christmas visits you can make in a very short time.

Yahk Badminton Team Victorious

Win Two to One in Total of 37 Games—Smaller Quarters and Low Ceiling Handicap Locals Yahk Club Hosts at Supper.

Yahk badminton talent, which made such a good showing against Creston in the inter-town contest at the Parish Hall on November 14th, had things pretty much their own way at the return games at Yahk Friday night, the home players carrying off 25 of the 37 games played, and on points margin they were in the lead by about 60.

Creston has no alibi to offer for the beating handed them but a look at the scores reveals that the Creston talent were not quite at home away from home in the opening rounds of all the series, and this is attributed to the fact that at Yahk the playing space is smaller than at Creston, and the ceiling of the hall is much lower than at the Parish Hall Once Creston talent got accustomed to the abbreviated surroundings they were not slow to hit their stride. Saskatchewan Municipalities Take Advantage Of Government Assistance

Six Saskatchewan rural municipalities were provided with combination seed cleaning outfits, under arrangement with the Provincial and Federal Governments during this, the first year of operation of the scheme, according to Hon. Under the plan the cost of the machines is shared by the two governments; the municipalities supplying the engine, the housing and transportation equipment.

A Mother's Anxiety

About Her Delicate Daughter

"She seems to be fading away," said an anxious mother recently about her daughter. Thousands of mothers could say the same thing. Their daughters endure a trying life robbed of all vitality and brightness. Their cheeks are pale; their eyes dull; their step languid and every movement tells of shattered health. If neglected their suffering grows more acute till decline sets in.

If your daughter complains of weariness; pains in the side; weakness; headache or backache; her appetite is uncertain and her spirits low—anaemia is the cause. She needs new blood. Give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once for these pills actually renew and enrich the blood. They make sickly girls well and happy; improve the appetite and bring back all the charm and brightness of perfect health.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

May Not Be Practical

Value Of Reading Machine Yet To Be Proved

A new invention from Berlin is a "reading machine" which will project printed pages upon a screen, enabling either a family or an entire audience to read together. The projector greatly enlarges the picture, permitting several pages of normal size reading to be reproduced from a film the size of a postal card. Whether this invention will be of any practical value remains to be demonstrated. The inventor declares it will revolutionize the publishing of books, since one of these small films can take the place of several books.

Persian Balm is unrivalled for promoting feminine loveliness. Tones and rejuvenates the skin. Makes it exquisitely soft-textured. Makes hands flawlessly white. It was once supposed that the northern lights of Arctic regions could be smelled as well as seen.

Certain morbid conditions must exist in the stomach and intestines to encourage worms, and they will exist as long as these morbid conditions permit them to. To be rid of them and spare the child suffering, use Miller's Worm Powders. They will correct the digestive irregularities by destroying the worms, conditions favorable to worms will disappear, and the child will have no more suffering from that cause.

C.P.R. Hotel For London

Arrangements Have Been Made For Securing Suitable Site

Announcement was made by E. W. Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, of the acquisition of a site for the hotel proposed to be erected by the company in London, England. Mr. Beatty's statement follows:

"After protracted negotiations, the company has succeeded in securing a hotel site in London, facing Berkeley Square and Bruton Street. The block is a substantial one, containing approximately 77,000 square feet in area. Negotiations for its acquisition are just about completed, and when possession is secured, which will not, however, be for some months yet, the work of construction will commence. In the interim, the company's engineers and architects will proceed with the preparation of preliminary plans. The hotel, when completed, will contain a minimum of six to seven hundred rooms."

DO YOU SUFFER WITH HEADACHE?

So easy to get quick relief and prevent an attack in the future. Avoid bromides and dope. They relieve quickly but affect the heart and are very dangerous. They are depressing and only give temporary relief, the cause of the headache still remains within.

The sane and harmless way. First correct the cause, sweeten the sour and acid stomach, relieve the intestines of the decayed and poisonous food matter, gently stimulate the liver, start the bile flowing and the bowels pass off the waste matter which causes your headache. Try Carter's Little Liver Pills. Druggists 25c red pkgs.

Winter Service Arranged

Mail Will Be Carried Into North By Air More Frequently

Arrangements for an air mail service into the Mackenzie River district through the winter of 1930-31 have been made by the Post Office Department, according to an announcement in the November supplement to the Canada Official Postal Guide.

The air mail service will supercede all previous mail services to this area and will effect more frequent and speedy communication than has been possible in the past. The frequency of delivery will be increased to more than double, and the time will be reduced to less than half.

The mail service between Herschel Island, Y.T., and Aklavik, N.W.T., will be performed by police patrol. Rae will be served irregularly by police patrol from Fort Resolution.

ZACCHAEUS THE PUBLICAN — A BUSINESS MAN CONVERTED

Golden Text: "The Son of Man came to seek and to save that which was lost."—Luke 19.10.

Lesson: Luke 19.1-10.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 15.

Explanations and Comments

The Resourceful Onlooker, verses 1-4.—When Jesus was passing through Jericho, a great crowd assembled to see Him. The rich Commissioner of Taxes, or chief publican, Zacchaeus by name, being short of stature, realized that he would be unable to see Jesus. And no doubt the hostile crowd elbowed off the hated tax collector. He was, however, a determined and resourceful man, and ran on ahead of the crowd and climbed up into a sycamore tree by the side of the road by which Jesus would pass.

"Zacchaeus ran before, we are told. Sometimes a man reveals the secret of his strength in some apparently insignificant deed. The forcefulness of the will of Zacchaeus lies not especially in the fact that he climbed the tree, but in the fact that he ran before. He anticipated Jesus. He saw which way Jesus was to pass, and made preparations for the best view.

The Self-Invited Guest, verses 5-7.—When Jesus reached the sycamore tree He looked up and saw Zacchaeus, and at once called him by name, and said unto him "Make haste, and come down; for today I must abide at thy house." His "must" was that of a shepherd who would care for a lost sheep. When Zacchaeus dropped down from the branches with great joy and hastened homeward with Jesus, the people began to murmur saying, "He is gone in to lodge with a man that is a sinner."

The Conversion Of a Business Man, verses 8-10.—"Think of Zacchaeus on the morning of that day! He was the chief among the publicans and he was rich. Full of guilty gains and entirely impenitent. In the far North the quicksilver freezes in the thermometer, which of course ceases to register, and the instrument is useless; but let the temperature rise, and the quicksilver becomes at once nimble and useful. That morning in Zacchaeus the moral quicksilver was frozen, and most likely it had been for years; he, however, no sooner stood in the white, fierce light of embodied righteousness than the quicksilver thawed, conscience acted, and the publican was convicted" (W. L. Watkinson). Not a word had been said about his speculations; yet in the presence of the righteous Lord he voluntarily and promptly made a clean breast of it.

"Ere God forgive the guilt
Make man some restitution."
—Browning.

Zacchaeus used the present tense as a vivd way of asserting his future course of action: "Behold, Lord," he said, "the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have wrongfully exacted aught of any man, I restore fourfold."

"He moved on slowly, reaching Nick's gate and looking up at a doorway beautiful despite its peeling paint. There was no sign of Gay. In Bakersville most men come home at noon, and at eleven-thirty their wives are in the kitchen. With the unerring instinct of one born and raised in the community, John Maxwell made his way toward the side door.

He saw then, that Gay was in the orchard, hanging some diminutive pink garments on the line. Her task done she glanced across into her neighbor's garden, where, still clad in crisp blue linen, Mrs. Halliday was superintending the setting-out of plants. Glancing up, she caught Gay's eye, and bowed. There was nothing friendly in the act—nothing akin to the greeting she had tossed across the square to Nick, a few hours earlier. John Maxwell's grey eyes hardened. Then, as Gay caught sight of him, he smiled.

"Mr. Maxwell! What brings you out this morning?"

"Only the spring. Couldn't seem to settle down to work, and Nick gave me leave to take a holiday."

Gay laughed and said: "Will you stay to dinner with us?"

"Not today. Guess you have enough to do, cooking for your own three boys. Nick's still a boy to me, you know, if he has been married long enough to acquire a family. Do you like your new neighbors, Gay?"

They had reached the porch, and the girl sank down wearily, glancing at the pocket of her dress, which was held at one corner by a safety pin.

"I hope you don't think I use pins instead of needles for my mending!" Her glance strayed to the trim blue figure across the hedge, and her color rose. "It's Sonny does it. He can just reach my pockets and he will pull at them. Sometimes he tears them when I can't stop to mend."

She was silent for a minute before she said, in answer to his question: "You asked about the Hallidays? I hardly know them. Nick called one night when I was laid up with a headache. He says they're very pleasant. She's an artist, and they're fixing the house beautifully. It makes me crazy to fix ours; but everything takes so much money. There's Sonny calling. He's just waked up, but baby's sleeping. Do wait and see him, Mr. Maxwell."

"Yes, I'll wait. I want to poke 'round your pansy bed. Most all ours got winter-killed this year."

But when Gay had gone John Maxwell didn't move toward the pansies. He sat on the steps, watching the blue-clad figure opposite. The flush that had mounted to Gay's cheeks as she glanced at her new neighbor, had not escaped him; nor had the tired lines beneath her eyes.

He wondered if it were only the children who had caused Gay's lack of sleep. Was it possible that Nick, the steadiest fellow in the whole world, was making a fool of himself over another woman? Stranger things happened every day, and Nick was only a boy—a boy who had never quite had his fling.

John Maxwell understood. He himself, had married at twenty-one. He remembered a time some four years later, after the advent of the second baby, when life had seemed a good deal of a treadmill. But there had always been Mary. Never for a moment had he looked at anybody else. Surely Nick——

"Here's my big boy, Mr. Maxwell."

Gay stood in the doorway, Sonny, fresh and sweet in a pink romper, in her arms. For a moment the tired lines had left her eyes, and only the pride of motherhood was there. John Maxwell, many times a grandfather, thought he had never seen a sweeter picture. He stretched out his arms, and with a delighted cry the boy went to him.

"He wouldn't do that with everyone," said Gay. "He's rather shy."

"I think he remembers my last visit, as well as my watch charm that always fascinates the youngsters."

The caller had seated himself upon the steps again, and given the boy his watch. Sonny stared at it a moment soberly, then held it to his ear in a way that made them laugh.

"He looks more like his daddy than he did, Gay."

"I've noticed that. I love a boy to look like his father. It's strange, Mr. Maxwell, but Nick wanted a little girl. I thought a man always wanted a son; and Nick's such a man's man, too. But I honestly think he was disappointed, especially when the second baby wasn't a 'little sister'; though he wouldn't change either of them now," she added, smiling.

"Daddy?" asked the child, looking up questioningly at his mother.

"Nearly time for him," Gay answered, and smiled tenderly. "Daddy's the first word he said, Mr. Maxwell. I remember feeling the least bit hurt! And Nick's such a wonderful playmate that he adores him. I——"

She stopped because the boy had uttered a delighted squeal. He wiggled away from John Maxwell's knee, while the watch, forgotten, hung limply by its chain. Nick was coming! With swift, unsteady feet the child ran to him; and with a sense of genuine relief the president of the First National Bank saw that his paying teller had no eyes for the lady across the hedge. He stooped with outstretched arms, and lifting his small son high, kissed the top of his bright head—hugged him a moment rapturously, and settled him on his shoulder as he came forward.

"A pretty sight, that," said John Maxwell softly.

But Gay did not speak. She had arisen, and was watching her husband with an intensity not quite natural in a wife of four years standing. The blue figure in the adjoining garden was also watching; though Nick was serenely unconscious of an audience. He came nearer, grinned, and said: "So this is how you take a holiday, Mr. Maxwell—calling on my wife? Mind if I kiss her? It's a sort of habit I've acquired."

"A good habit," said John Maxwell quietly. "Don't stop for me!" and the fact did not escape him that as Nick obeyed, Mrs. Halliday, shrugging as if disgusted at this display of family affection, turned away.

"Damn her!" said John Maxwell below his breath.

He said it again when he was in his private sanctum at the bank that afternoon. Nick had insisted that he stay to dinner, and as they started back to work, Mrs. Halliday appeared on her front porch. She didn't speak, but her smile was so intriguing that Nick stopped; exchanged a few words about the garden; presented Mr. Maxwell as his "chief," and, at a subtly expressed hint from the lady, promised to step over after supper and survey her peony plants.

"I've been hard at work in the garden all the morning," she apologized prettily, with a glance at her spotless linen gown. "If you'll forgive my appearance now, I'll promise to look less disreputable this evening."

"You look," Nick instantly replied, "like a part of the garden itself," which bit of gallantry brought a sudden, satisfied light to the woman's eyes.

The walk to the bank was, on the whole, silent. It was as they turned into Main Street that Nick said, as if it were something he'd been considering: "Queer, isn't it, how some women can work in a garden, or 'round a house, and look so confoundedly neat? Now Gay——"

John Maxwell snorted angrily.

"Neat! My dear boy; that woman never set out a plant in her whole life! She stands about looking pretty, and ordering some man to do the dirty work. Take care, Nick, that she doesn't take to ordering you!"

Nick stared at the frowning visage of his old friend; then laughed and said: "To do her dirty work?"

"There are all kinds of dirty work, my boy," answered John Maxwell, so soberly that Nick exclaimed: "Good thunder! Mr. Maxwell, you don't think——"

"I don't think anything," broke in the older man hastily, already fearing that his indiscretion might put ideas into Nick's head. "I don't think anything except that you'd better take care of Gay. She's got hollows in her cheeks."

They had reached the bank, and without another word its president marched into his private room and slammed the door.

"Damn her!" he said for the second time that day.

Yet, when he cooled off and thought it over, he realized that he had no grounds whatever for his suspicions. As he had said to Gay, Nick was still a boy, though he had shouldered a man's responsibilities. Why shouldn't he enjoy talking with a pretty woman? John Maxwell smiled at the thought that he, himself, was not averse to doing so! Should he blame Nick because Gay seemed tired and listless? Most young mothers were, being unused to broken sleep and sudden loss of freedom. He remembered when Mary had looked like that—and his two daughters as well.

TOO MUCH ACID may be causing those frequent headaches

WHEN there's too much acid in your stomach, you must force yourself to work, and even pleasures are too great an effort. Appetite lags; the digestion is poor; the whole system suffers.

Laboratory tests show an acid condition is due to errors in our modern diet. But you need not wait to diet your way out of the trouble! Take a tablespoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

This will neutralize the excess acid instantly; make you feel like a new person in just a few moments.

Take a little whenever heartburn, sick headaches, nausea, flatulence, indigestion or biliousness show the digestive system is becoming too acid. Whenever you are taking cold or feel sluggish, weak, constipated. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia has a gentle laxative action.

Delightful to take. Endorsed by physicians for 50 years and prescribed everywhere for men, women and children. The genuine is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. It always bears the name Phillips' for your protection.

Little Helps For This Week

"Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."—Galatians vi. 7.

God will not seek thy race,
Nor will He ask thy birth;
Alone He will demand of thee,
What hast thou done on earth?
—Persian.

And they who sowed the light, shall reap
The golden sheaves of morning.
—James Russell Lowell.

The present life is the seed-plot of the future state, and the harvest which we reap in eternity is the same in character and quality as that which now we sow. Every thought we think, every word we speak, every action we perform, every opportunity of service neglected or improved, is a seed sown by us, the fruit of which shall multiply either untold miseries or myriad blessings in the eternity into which we go.
—William M. Taylor.

Peevish, pale, restless, and sickly children owe their condition to worms. Mother Graves' Exterminator will relieve them and restore health.

If everyone ate his food uncooked, says a European scientist, the normal span of life would be 140 years instead of 70.
