Canyon City

W. E. Searle, who has been working at the mine at Bellvue, Alberta, for the past five months, returned on Thursday last to spend the next few months on the ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Pochin and Miss Helen, have returned to Nelson, after spending Easter week on the ranch here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. VanAckeran returned at the end of the week after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Harrison at Fernie.

Bill Balchim, who has spent the winter on the Kemp ranch, left a few days ago for Calgary, Alberta.

Word has just reached here of the marriage at Crankrook early this month of Will Wickholm and Miss Mae Schmidt of Bellvue, Alberta. Bill has been working at Bellvue for some time and they will reside in that town. A host of friends here extend best wishes for a long and happy wedded life.

A unique idea has ceen evolved by the Canyon Farmers' Institute and it will be developed in Canyon hall on Thursday, April 23rd (St. George's Day) at 7.30 p.m. A banquet, toasts, songs, recitations—patriotic in the highest degree—are included in the splendid programme. Buy a ticket in time. These are 50 cents to adults and 35 cents to children. Proceedings will bring back memories of the old days.

Residents of this section were out in large numbers on Wednesdag afternoon last for the funeral of the late Master John Walsh, whose untimely death occurred at Nelson on Easter Monday. The body was brought to Erickson with the intention of bringing it home and having the funeral the following day, but when it was learned all funeral arrangements had been made for Wednesday the remains were taken to Trinity United Church, Creston, where service was held, and interment was at Creston cemetery. Rev. R. E. Cribb conducted the last rites and the pallbearers were Leonard Bond, George Foreman, Steve Bedry, Bud Browell, Raymond Humble and John Hoglund. In addition to the man who were out to pay their last tribute of respect the floral remembrances also bespoke the high regard in which the little fellow was held.

Those sending flowers were Family and Godfather, Canyon Sunday School, Canyon Public School Teachers and Scholars, Canyon Ladies' Aid, Mr. and Mrs. McRobb and family, A. A. Bond, jr.; Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Samuelson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Halstead, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gartland, Mr. and Mrs. E. Nouguier, Mr. and Mrs. Burns, John Nygaard and family, Gunnar Larson, Myrtle and Geo. Wickholm. From Nelson: St. Saviour's Church Sunday School, Rotary Club, Mrs. H. Green and children, A. D. Allan, Jean and Hughie Brown, Sibil and Harold Broadshot. Mr. and Mrs. Elvin, Trail.

Girls' Sewing at W.I. Bulb Show

Hem Stitching Towel and Apron Making—Backing Field Day for Valley Schools—Committee Reports Indicate Activity

A fancy work fair for children of Alice Siding, Erickson and Creston schools will be sponsored by Creston and District Women's Institute, and will be part of the annual bulb show, which will be held in the United Church hall on Saturday afternoon, May 9th, along with which will be the usual tea and sale of cooking.

This was decided at the April meeting of the Institute on Friday afternoon, which attracted an attendance of about 25 members, and was in charge of the president, Mrs. Hayes. At this meeting three new members were enrolled.

There will be three classes to the fair. Girls between six and eight years are to show a hem stitched towel. For girls from nine to twelve years the competition will be on a plain apron, and girls from 13 to 15 years, will display their skill on the make of a fancy apron. First and second prizes will be awarded in each class, and to expedite matters apron patterns of a uniform design may be had from Mrs. Cherrington. Mrs. Maxwell, Mrs. Lovestrom and Mrs. Mallandaine were named a committee to handle the tea and cooking sale.

For the School committee Mrs. Hendy reported purchasing a 12-foot bamboo vaulting pole for the use of Grade 8 athletics, and the committer has also restocked all the first aid kits at the school. For the committee on home industries Mrs. Stevens asked the members to have in mind competing in the Institutes' section at the Vancouver fair this year, in an endeavor to hold the cup won in 1930. The trophy has to be returned at the first of August at which time the fair will give the Institute a medal to commemorate their success last year.

Mrs. Mallandaine reported briefly on the legislation enacted at the 1931 session of the legislature. The Election Act has been amended to that it will be impossible for Doukhobors to vote, and the law has been amended so that people working for the government can now have their wages guaransheed. Mrs. Mallandaine also reported on an interview she and the president had with the Teachers' Association in connection with the 1931 schools' field day, and $5 was voted to help meet the expenses of the day. No money prizes will be given, but there will be cups, medals and prize ribbons.

Mrs. Edmondson reported for the committee on agriculture and stated that Mrs. (Rev.) Cribb had promised to give a talk on "Gardening in the Yukon."

CORPORATION OF THE

Village of Creston

Clean-Up Day

All owners, agents of owners, and tenants of property within the boundaries of the Village of Creston are hereby notified that has been proclaimed Clean Up Day on which date all yards and premises must be put in clean and sanitary condition.

All refuse, (except ashes and liquid) placed in cans, boxes or other receptacle, and set out handy to street or lane will be taken away free of charge by Village trucks the following day.

By order.

E. F. ARROWSMITH, Clerk.
Creston, April 15, 1931.

Prior to coming to Creston the Cribbs were in Dawson City for two years.

Mrs. Jas. Cook reported for the hospital committee, and amongst other things acknowledged donations of a dressing gown from Mrs. (Maj.) Henderson of Kootenay Landing; pillows from Mrs. Hilton, white rags from Mrs. Fleetwood and two members of the committee, and tinfoi from three or four residents of the village.

The Institute's supply of cups and saucers is somewhat the worse for wear and proving inadequate in view of the increased membership. A shower to replenish the cup and saucer stock will be held at the home of Mrs F. C. Rodgers on the afternoon of Wednesday, April 22nd, from 3 to 5.30, at which tea will be served and donations of this sort from members and friends of the Institute will be welcomed.

In connection with the birdhouse fair, the quilt raffled on that occasion, and which netted $21, was donated by Mrs. Cook and she was given a hearty vote of thanks on Friday for her very practical gift. The secretary will write the Crippled Children's hospital to enquire if it is in order to specifically apply the monthly tea money for the keep of the child sent the hospital by the Wynndel Institute.

Mrs. Rose was in charge of the entertainment features which included a recitation by Mrs. Maxwell, an organ solo by Mrs. Kernaghan, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Rose, with Miss Edith Crawford as accompanist. The tea hostesses were Mrs. R. Stevens, Mrs. F. Putnam and Mrs D. A. MacDonald, with the freewill offering amounting to $2.35.

Sirdar

Mr. and Mrs. George Cam of Nelson were Sunday visitors with Mrs. R. Dennes.

Principal Dixon of Sirdar school arrived back on Sunday from Vavcouver, bringing with him a bride, formerly Miss Joyce Herrin of Vancouver. They were married in Vancouver on Easter Monday.

Mesdames S. Pascuzzo, Talerico, Cherbo and Parento; and Messrs. P. T. and S. Lombardo went to Cranbrook on Tuesday for the funeral of the late Frank Provenzano.

Arthur Dibben left on Thursday for Trail.

Mr. and Mrs. John Laithwaite of Creston were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. R. Heap.

T. J. Crawford of Creston was a Sabbath visitor at Sirdar.

Mrs. Martin and Mrs. North were at Creston on Friday for the Women's Institute meeting.

Wynndel

Mr. and Mrs. E. Uri and family and Mr. and Mrs. R. Uri and family returned to Wynndel last week from Arrow Park, where they spent the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Egger and family left last week for Jasper, Alberta, where they will reside in future.

Mrs. Ogilvie of Harrop was a visitor with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs C. Ogilvie.

Miss S. Benedetti returned to Boswell on Friday, making the trip by auto with her brother, Louis.

Remember hard times dance on Friday, 17th, at Wynndel community hall Al. Fredericds' orchestra. The dance is under Athletic Club auspices.

Annual meeting of Wynndel Co-Operative Fruit Growers Association was held in the new hall on March 21st, with John Wigen in the chair. Minutes of last annual and general meetings were read and adopted. Financial statement and auditor's report was read and found satisfactory. By-laws amended last year were read and as the charge provides for election of three directors annually—the three elected in 1930 holding office this year—the following were chosen: A. S. Joy, J. W. Greig and Geo. Huscroft. These with E. Uri, John Wigen and J. G. Abbott will constitute the board for 1931 Correspondence read with regard to train service, crates, marketing, etc. Last year has proven most satisfactory both as to crops and prices. 19,728 crates of strawberries were shipped, and 29,875 pounds of jam berries Raspberries shipped were 2,125 crates.

Local Girls Win Musical Honors

Make Creditable Showing Piano Classes East Kootenay Festival —Dr. Olivier's Daughters Win High Honors Alberta Festival

The following piano pupils of Mrs. J. E. Johnston were successful at the East Kootenay musical festival at Cranbrook last week. Hazel McGonegal, playing with nine contestants, was awarded second prize, with 90 marks out of 100, losing the silver medal by one point. Hazel was told by the adjudicator that she was a player of great taste and showed depth of soul in the interpretation of her number.

In the duett, under 16 years, Margaret Henderson and Vera McGonegal made 85 points out of 100, and received second prize. Both of these players received a fine criticism from the adjudicator who remarked that he would have liked to hear these two play individually as they both showed remarkable talent

Edith Johnston won the silver medal taking first place in piano solo for girls under 12. In girls over 10 Edith was half a point behind the winner of the silver medal in this competition, and was awarded second prize. In his remarks the adjudicator stated that Edith showed promise of becoming a talented pianist.

In elocution Edith Johnston came within two points of winning the silver medal, her score being 189 out of 200.

In vocal solo, boys and girls, under 12 years, Tom Johnston scored 83 points out of 100.

Rose Olivier, with 182 out of 200 points, was first in piano for girls under 12 years, and in the piano duett she and Wilma Wheatstaff werd first in the class for girls under 12 years.

For violin, under 13 years, Lorraine Olivier was fourth in a class of eight, and was a member of the violin quartette that won second place Her sister Dorothy was placed second in special piano class for girls under 16 years.

In the class for girls over 16 years Evelyn Olivier scored a triumph, standing first with a showing of 198 points out of a possible 200, and in piano and violin ensemble she and Mrs. Amy Jones were second. Speaking of Miss Evelyn's piano triumph the Lethbridge Daily Herald says:

"Tuesday evening's session of the seventh annual Crow's Nest Pass Musical Festival in the Columbus hall, Blairmore, produced a great surprise to both adjudicators and audience alike, Miss Evelyn Olivier of Blairmore came within an ace of obtaining a perfect score in the senior special piano class for contestants over 16 years."

"Miss Olivier's rendering of the "Norweigan Dances" by Greig was perfect and received a maximum mark of 100 from the adjudicators, while in the second selection of the contestant's choice this brilliant pianist obtained 98. The preformance was so good that both Thomas Jenkins and Girgori Garbovitsky commented on it several times, the latter even extended an invitation from the platform for this young lady to join his symphony orchestra in Calgary."

CARD OF THANKS

A New Order Prevails

In the business and financial section of one of the most conservative (spelled with a small "c") papers in Canada we find the following paragraphs:

"That our present economic scheme is seriously at fault surely no reasonable person will deny. The existence of hunger and want in the midst of plenty—the fact that the existence of this abundance of supplies is itself responsible, at least in part, for our present condition, surely constitutes uncontrovertible evidence of our economic unsoundness.

"Argue as we may as to the respective responsibilities for the current depression of the various immediately contributory factors such as over-production and under-consumption of commodities, shortage of gold, hoarding of gold, demonetization of silver, tariffs, war debt, etc., the fact remains that our present economic system doesnt' work. It functions increasingly poorly even in 'good' times; its breakdown is immediate and shocking when bad times recur."

The fact that Big Business, our industrial magnates and captains of finance, as well as the workers, now recognize this fact is, perhaps, the most hopeful sign of all. There was a time when everybody everywhere accepted "bad times" as inevitable sooner or later. But not now. The world is at last coming to a realization of the truth that many of our economic ills are largely man-made, and, therefore, capable of both prevention and cure by man-made methods. Cure and prevention will not be brought about by any one magic formula, nor can it be accomplished over-night. The process of developing solutions may be slow and painful. We will probably have to discard many pre-conceived ideas, and accept policies formerly rejected as impracticable and utopian.

For example, there is a growing acceptance of the fact that the old idea of nationalism as opposed to internationalism must give way. The Great War has taught all nations at least one lesson, namely, that no one nation can live unto itself alone; that, on the contrary, each nation is dependent on other nations whether they like it or not. Recognition of this fact led to the creation of the League of Nations to direct the world's thought in relation to matters of peace and war. Deliberations of the League Assembly soon revealed that the issue of peace or war was not confined to the solution of racial problems, or the adjustment of boundary disputes, or the eradication of designs by one nation on another for purposes of gain and glory. The maintenance of peace, or the outbreak of war, was found to depend, in many cases, upon the illiteracy of a people, upon the social conditions under which they lived, upon their sharp contrasts of great wealth on the one hand and grinding poverty on the other, upon their ability to sell and buy what their necessities demanded they should buy. Hence the League of Nations today is scientifically studying every conceivable subject in relation to the welfare of all nations and races.

This lesson was not learned at once, and immediately following the Great War, nations everywhere adopted policies with a view to making themselves self-contained. Where one adopted policies to that end, others followed. Instead of recognizing and profiting by the lesson taught by the war, they ignored it and went to extremes. That is one of the outstanding reasons for and causes of the present world depression and stagnation in business. A man conceivably can live and eke out an existence on his own farm, refusing to have any relations whatever, business or otherwise, with his neighbors, but he will deny himself all the enjoyments, refinements, and many of what we now regard as the necessities of life. Never will he become prosperous. And so it is with nations.

As Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., told the recent Teachers' Convention in Saskatchewan, the world is facing an entirely new order. Instead of confining our thought and our policies to an extreme nationalism, we must become internationally minded. She declared that most people were internationally illiterate, and were not conversant with conditions existing in the world and the relation which one part bears to the other. People have not kept pace with the trend of the times, whereby the day of the self-contained and independent nation has given place to a new era of inter-dependence of nations. And because we have not realized how completely the world is inter-dependent, we are still trying to solve our problems with yesterday's methods. They won't work because the world has moved to a new condition; the old is gone forever.

We must take that lesson to heart, and govern ourselves accordingly. We cannot be prosperous if other nations are not. Their prosperity is absolutely essential to our own well being.

Find Centuries Old Trees

Discovery Is Made Of Ancient Buried Trees In Quebec

Quite recently some white birch trees which had been buried for centuries were discovered in the vicinity of the village of Riviere St. Jean, Quebec, by a field officer of the Topographical Survey, Department of the Interior. The remarkable thing about these trees was their state of preservation. Specimens were presented to the Forest Products Laboratories, Department of the Interior, at Ottawa, whose officers state that preservation was due to a surplus of water and a deficiency of air, conditions inhibiting the growth of wood-decaying fungi.

Good News For Aviators

Device To Keep Ice Off Wings Of 'Plane Is a Success

Victory was reported at Akron, O., over one of the aviator's most dangerous enemies—ice that forms on the wings of his aeroplane and sometimes causes it to be wrecked.

Through low-hanging clouds, at freezing temperature and an altitude of 2,000 to 3,000 feet, Charles Meyers, of Cleveland, piloted his aeroplane, which was equipped with rubber "overshoes."

The overshoes—pouches of a specially treated rubber fabric fitted over the leading edges of the 'plane and wings and struts—were made to "breathe" as the ice formed on them. As they breathed the ice crumpled away.

The inflation and deflation, which worked like a man's lungs, were created by a motor-driven air pump in the cockpit.

SAVED IMPORTED DRESS

"After a little wearing, a lovely green voile—an important dress—lost color so completely that it was not wearable. A friend who had admired it asked me why I wasn't wearing it any more. On hearing the reason, she advised dyeing it and recommended Diamond Dyes. To make a long story short, it turned out beautifully. I have a lovely new dress that really cost just 15c—the price of one package of Diamond Dyes.

"I have since used Diamond Dyes for both tinting and dyeing. They do either equally well. I am not an expert dyer but I never have a failure with Diamond Dyes. They seem to be made so they always go on smoothly and evenly. They never spot, streak or run; and friends never know the things I dye with Diamond Dyes are redyed at all."

Reciprocal Trade

Would Refrain From Advertising Dominion Products In Britain

Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, secretary for Dominion Affairs, was asked by a questioner in the British House of Commons to consider the advisability of refraining from further advertising Dominions' produce on Empire Marketing Board hoardings in Britain, "until a scheme is evolved whereby similar advertising of British goods can be shown in the Dominions."

The minister replied in the negative. The questioner, he added, "is asking me to agree to something that would be a violation of the bargain we have made with the Dominions. I am endeavoring to ask them to reciprocate in other ways, but to say that unless you do it we refuse to give you the effect of our part in the bargain, is rather wide."

An Unfamiliar Country

Few Canadians Know Very Much About Argentina

Canada stretches across the north half of North America. Argentina occupies the greater part of the southern extremity or "tail" of South America. Argentina's length from north to south is approximately two-thirds of Canada's from east to west. Its population is perhaps a million greater than Canada's. Its largest city, Buenos Aires, is three times the size of Toronto, and, with its 2,225,000 inhabitants, ranks as the world's eighth. They are (in millions of population): London, 7.74; New York, 6.93; Berlin, 4.01; Chicago, 3.37; Paris, 2.83; Osaka, 2.40; Tokio, 2.29; Buenos Aires, 2.22. Argentina has four other cities larger than Hamilton, Ont., ranging in population from 460,000 down to 170,000, whose names (Rosario, Cordoba, Avellaneda, and La Plata), are quite unfamiliar to the average Canadian reader. But the opening of the British Trade Exposition in Buenos Aires, and the visit of the Prince of Wales to Argentina, has drawn all ayes to that far and unfamiliar country.—Toronto Star.

Volume Of Eskimo Poems Just Published

Translated Into English By Arctic Explorer Should Be Interesting

Knud Rasmussen, the Arctic explorer, has sprung a surprise upon the world.

He has celebrated his return to civilization, after many years of wandering in the wilds, by publishing a volume of poems by Eskimos.

It will be interesting to see the poems in English. We may be sure Rasmussen has presented them worthily in print, for, with his European education, he has the advantage of being himself half an Eskimo, and so thoroughly understands his subject.

It seems natural for primitive people to talk of wild picturesque poetry, unrhymed, but full of beauty and imagination, such as we see fixed for all time in the musical names which the Red Indians gave to rivers and lakes and mountains in their native land.

It will be remembered by some that scholars have declared the Eskimo language contains only about two hundred words which should add greatly to the labors of the poets.

MILBURN'S HEART NERVE PILLS

Western Representatives:
HUNTER-MARTIN & CO., REGINA, SASK.

WIDER POWERS ARE SEEN FOR THE DOMINIONS

Ottawa, Ont.—Statute of Westminster has been approved by representatives of the nine provinces of Canada. A section of this proposed act, however, will contain definite safeguards of the Canadian constitution. This section, which was left to Canada to draft, ensures that the Statute of Westminster cannot repeal or amend the British North America Act.

This was the net result of the Dominion-Provincial conference which concluded here. An official statement, handed out after the conference, announced that a final draft of the Canadian clause in the Statute of Westminster was now in the hands of the provincial representatives. While approved by the conference, this draft would be taken home for submission to the provincial governments. Two weeks has been allotted for discussion by the provinces.

Now that the clause is under consideration which will set at rest any fears that the B.N.A. Act might be altered by the Statute of Westminster, the question of how the B.N.A. Act can be changed as the occasion for amendments develops is to be taken up at some further conference in which the Dominion and the provinces will take part. This was announced by Premier Bennett.

Many changes to the act, which is Canada's constitution, defining provincial and Dominion rights, have been made from time to time, but the parties are for the most part in agreement that where a change of importance is to be made, all the provinces must consent. The conference will seek to arrive at the most satisfactory method of making changes.

Adherence to the Statute of Westminster means widened jurisdiction for the Dominions of the British Empire. It provides that the Dominion may enact extraterritorial laws. It declares the Dominions will no longer be subject to British statutes unless they so desire. It repeals the Colonial Laws Validity Act. It gives legal approval to the claim of the Dominions to equality of status in the British Commonwealth.

If the provinces approve of the clause which was agreed on at the conference, the next step will be taken by the Dominion Government at the present session of parliament. A resolution or bill will be introduced expressing Canada's adherence to the statute. The Imperial conference of last year agreed that the Dominions should express their attitude toward the statute by August. If there is general agreement, the Imperial parliament will be asked to pass the Statute of Westminster.

Royal Grain Commission

Chief Justice Brown May Be Appointed To Represent West

Ottawa, Ont.—Chief Justice J. T. Brown, of the Court of King's Bench, of Saskatchewan, is likely to be the third member of the Royal Grain Commission to inquire into trading in futures. Chief Justice Brown would represent the prairie provinces.

Sir Josiah Stamp, eminent London (England), economist, has been named as chairman of the commission. The representative of the Grain Exchange will be W. Sanford Evans, Winnipeg, whose selection has already been approved.

President Of Rifle Association

Ottawa, Ont.—At the annual meeting here of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association, Lieut.-Col. D. R. Street, of Ottawa, was elected president. He succeeds Brig.-Gen. J. Duff Stuart, of Vancouver. Proposals for increasing the prize lists at the rifle matches to be held at Connaught Ranges next August were approved.

Chicago's New Mayor

Mayor-Elect Cermak Busy With Re-Organization Of Municipal Government

Chicago.—Speedy re-organization of Chicago's municipal government was promised by Mayor-elect Anton J. Cermak.

The new mayor will have a working majority in the city council, considerably enhanced by victories which accompanied his own success. Thirty of the city's 50 aldermen are Democrats. Nine of the 20 Republicans were classed as allies of Mayor Thompson.

"What are you going to do about Al Capone?" British reporters asked on the 'phone.

"I understand he is out of town," replied Cermak, "and my advice to him is to stay out for the next four years. He is under sentence here you know, and I suggest that he stay in Florida, that's where he belongs now."

Cermak laughed when the London writers asked about Thompson attack on the King.

"He didn't really fool you people, did he?" chuckled the mayor-elect. "No, he isn't really anti-British. The British vote is the smallest in Chicago, so he decided to pick on the British King. No, I haven't anything against King George or any other king."

Importance Of Wheat Conference

Robert Gardiner Says Hopes Of Western Agriculture Depend On Outcome

Calgary, Alberta.—Upon the outcome of the wheat conference in London, England, next month, the hopes of western agriculture depends, according to Robert Gardiner, U.F.A., president and leader of the Progressive group in the House of Commons. Much will depend upon the mutual arrangement for the division of available markets. The solution, he thought, would be an arrangement by Canada, United States, Russia, Argentina and Australia to permit orderly marketing of the export surplus of each of these countries to their mutual advantage. This, if developed, would involve development of centralized marketing from Canada, possibly under government auspices.

The other alternative would be a compulsory pool, Mr. Gardiner said, although he had been opposed to this method.

No Cancellation Likely

Serious Hardships Would Attend Reduction In Air Mail Service

Ottawa, Ont.—It is unlikely there will be any cancellation of existing air mail contracts it was stated on excellent authority here. The need for exercising economics in the post office department, coupled with the necessity for overtaking some of the $5,000,000 deficit with which the department completed the fiscal year, had given rise to the expectation that the government would reduce some of the unremunerative services, in which category the air mail service is understood to fall.

Cancellation of the contracts, however, would have entailed considerable hardship inasmuch as in the expectation of a continuance of the services, several companies had incurred large capital expenditures in establishing air transportations organization.

Borrowers In Difficulty

Montreal.—Farmers who have attended to business are all right, only the farmers who have borrowed money and now have interest charges to carry for having sought a short-cut to prosperity through a broker's office are in serious trouble, Senator D. E. Riley, High River, Alberta, rancher, said on reaching this city.

History Books Criticized

Toronto, Ont.—Accumulation of dates and facts in history text books had developed in students a hatred of Canadian history, declared W. S. Wallace, librarian of the University of Toronto, addressing Ontario Educational Association here.

Soundproof telephone booths have been installed at one California airport.

Projects For Churchill

Two Million Dollars Worth Of Building Material Being Assembled

The Pas, Man.—Two million dollars worth of building material is being assembled and plans are under way for the employment of 1,000 men for work on the 2,000,000 bushel elevator project at Churchill, terminus of the Hudson Bay Railway.

Material is being assembled in Winnipeg and 30 trains of 40 cars each will be required for the shipment of steel and equipment to Manitoba's seaport. Work on the elevator project will be well underway by July 1, contractors stated.

Churchill will have its first hotel this summer and the first test shipment of grain will be made from the port in September, according to Hon. D. C. McKenzie, Minister of Natural Resources. No "boom" conditions will be permitted.

Soviets Extending Air Service

Ambitious Civil Aviation Program Announced By Government

Moscow, Russia.—Coincident with the opening, May 1, of several Russian passenger and mail aero lines, the Soviet Government announced an ambitious civil air program. Some 13,000 student aviators are in training and a total of 172,000,000 rubles is budgeted for civil aviation in 1931. Plans call for extending the passenger and mail lines over 25,000 miles and installing fifty new aerodromes and 250 landing fields.

Doubts Quota Policy

British Miller Thinks Wheat Scheme Is Too Dangerous

London, England.—John Westgate, of Liverpool, who is an officer of the National Association of British and Irish millers, is inclined to doubt the report that the government is considering the imposition of regulations requiring British millers to take 15 per cent. of requirements from wheat growers in the United Kingdom.

No definite scheme has been submitted to the millers by any political party, he said.

"It is perfectly certain that no legislation is possible without the millers' agreement," said Mr. Westgate, in an interview with the Manchester Guardian. "The quota system is far too dangerous to be acceptable. And the English wheat policy at present is insufficient to constitute a 15 per cent. quota.

Anglo-German Conference

Matters Of Vital Importance Will Be Discussed

London, England.—Matters of the utmost importance in European policies will be discussed from June 5 to 9, when Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, of Germany come to England for a conference with Premier MacDonald and other British statesmen.

Among the questions expected to be considered are general disarmament, especially in relation to the Geneva conference early in 1932, and the Austro-German economic pact, but no topic of significance to European politics is likely to be barred.

Official British circles take very calmly the suggestion that other European powers had been somewhat ruffled by the exclusive nature of the conference.

Canadian Wins Medal

Honor Goes To Deputy Minister Of Department Of Mines

Ottawa, Ont.—A signal honor has been conferred on Dr. Charles Camsell, deputy minister of the Department of Mines. A cable from London announced that he had been awarded this year's gold medal by the British Institution of Mining and Metallurgy. One medal is awarded each year to the person, without regard to nationality, whom the institution decides is the most deserving.

Dr. Henry Greisa, Presbyterian missionary physician at Barrow, performed the inoculations.

ARGUE QUESTION OF RESOURCES COMPENSATION

Ottawa, Ont.—The amount of compensation to be paid to Saskatchewan and Alberta by the Dominion for alienation of their natural resources from 1905 to October 1 last, the date of return, may be decided upon by the same commission for both provinces. This suggestion, it is understood, was under consideration at a meeting between Premier R. B. Bennett; Hon. T. G. Murphy, Minister of Interior; Hon. M. A. MacPherson, Attorney-General of Saskatchewan, and Premier J. E. Brownlee, of Alberta. No official statement, however, was made.

Under the respective agreements between the Dominion and the two provinces, entered into more than a year and a half ago, the amount of compensation to be paid to Saskatchewan and Alberta for alienation during this period was not fixed. Commissions were to be appointed and, in the case of Alberta, one was named, but no such step was taken in regard to Saskatchewan. What the personnel of the commission would be if the same body is to function with regard to both provinces is uncertain at the moment, assuming that such a suggestion is acted upon.

Further discussion will take place on this point and in the matter of the turning over by the Dominion of certain records to these provinces. In addition, Saskatchewan has an appeal pending before the judicial committee of the privy council asking for an accounting by the Dominion in respect to the administration of that province's natural resources prior to 1905.

Reduced Railway Fares

Drastic Cut For Summer Week-End Trips Is Announced

Montreal.—Drastic cuts in fares on Canadian railroads for the summer week-ends were announced by C. T. Riddell, chairman of the Canadian Passenger Association, after a series of conferences. The new scale will go into effect May 1, and will continue through June and July. The new round trip fare from Friday noon till Monday midnight will be only one and one-quarter times the present single fare.

The reduction will be of special benefit to those passengers wishing to week-end in the country.

The present round trip fare for 100 mile journey is $6.20 and under the new week-end rate will be only $4.35.

The reductions will apply between all stations in Canada and will commence with the first week-end in May.

Cost Is Prohibitive

Winnipeg-Calgary Air Mail Letters $37 Each Is Report

Calgary, Alberta.—Air mail letters between Calgary and Winnipeg are costing on an average $37 each, according to statements made here by Dr. G. D. Stanley, M.P. for East Calgary, who has just returned from Ottawa.

Government investigations have revealed the prohibitive cost of the present air mail service, he said, and these surveys show that Calgary sends two letters by air for every one sent by Winnipeg.

Viscount Secures Motor License

Ottawa, Ont.—Viscount Duncannon, son of the Earl of Bessborough, lost no time on his arrival in Ottawa in securing his license to operate an automobile. The Governor-General and his family arrived at Rideau Hall shortly before noon. Four hours later Viscount Duncannon was at the office of motor license to secure his permit.

Hangar To Be Rebuilt

Winnipeg, Man.—Plans for rebuilding of the Western Canada Airways hangar here, destroyed by fire a short time ago at a loss of about $200,000, have been completed and tenders on the construction called for. The new hangar will be about the same size as that destroyed.

The telephone keeps them together

North, east, south and west—members of the family had scattered in all directions. They had enjoyed such a happy reunion, but now they were gone, their varied duties and interests taking them to widely separated points.

But actually they weren't going to be so far apart any more. They had promised to keep in touch with each other, regularly, by means of the long-distance telephone, agreeing that the "personal touch" of a telephone call was the next best thing to seeing each other.

After this the telephone will keep the family together.

Banquet Wynndel Hall Promoters

E. Uri, John Wigen, A .Spencer Given Public Expression of Community's Appreciation in Connection with New Hall.

An outstanding event in the history of Wynndel and district was that of Wednesday night last when a large number of the residents and a sprinkling of visitors foregathered to celebrate the erection of the fine new community hall and to pay a well deserved tribute of respect to E. Uri, John Wigen and A. Spencer to whom major credit is given for organizing and directing the plans that have resulted in the erection of the fine new hall.

The affair took the form of a banquet in the hall, and was sponsored by the K.K. Klub. A dainty supper was served. The tables were attractively decorated and the waitresses were adorned in white and yellow caps and aprons. The gathering was presided over by Tom Watson, and after all had done full justice to the excellent spread of good things to eat, the usual round of toast were proposed and responded to.

A hearty rendering of the national anthem was accorded the toast to "The King." This was followed by "O Canada," and then Geo. W. Taylor introduced the toast to "Our Guests," with which he sketched the growth of Wynndel and outlined the events leading up to the organization of the Recreation Company and erection of the new hall. On rising to respond Mr. Uri was greeted with a hearty rendering of "For They are Jolly Good Fellows," after which he replied in a few well chosen and appropriate remarks.

R. J. Forbes of Creston was entrusted with proposing a toast to the K.K. Klub, and expressed the opinion that Wynndel possessed the finest hall in the province, if not in the western provinces for a community of its size. He congratulated the Klub and community on the splendid community spirit and enterprise in making this possible. A. F. Rudd, president of the Klub, responded in suitable terms.

Rev. R. E. Cribb, Creston was associated with the toast and his jovial stories and remarks were well received as was evidenced by the hearty laughter. Sam Steenstrup of Creston in proposing the toast to "The Ladies," expressed the opinion that the ladies really were the ones responsible for the hall. This toast was suitably replied to by Mrs. Slingsby.

Community singing from the Kiwanis song sheet was the next item, and the various numbers were lustily rendered until a rooster invaded McDonald's Farmyard and disturbed his chicks, ending this part of the programme.

Next came a duett by Mr. and Mrs. W. Greig, jr., piano and violin, which was loudly applauded, and brought an equally popular encore. Jim Hulme favored with a solo, "When the Organ Plays at Twilight," which was well rendered.

The last item was a very amusing sketch under the direction of Mrs. R. Andestad, entitled, "Wanted, a Cook." Miss E. Towsen took the part of the lady wanting a cook. "Biddy," the Irish cook, was Mrs. R. Andestad; "Helga," the Norweigan cook, was Miss Olga Hagen; "Dinah," the nigger cook, was Mrs. Hackett; "Gretchen," the German cook, was Miss Z. Rudd; "Samantha," the American cook, was Miss D. Payette; "Hop Lee," the Chinese cook, was Miss B. Hulme. Mrs. Hunt advertises for a cook. Biddy arrives, but her cook "praties" was not to taste. Helga is far too pretty. Dinah quite too healthy. Gretchen cannot speak enough English, and Samantha too much American, while Hop Lee thinks he can make melican lady likee very much, but she is deaf to his appeals and decides to cook her own meals, even if it is only bread and milk, her only worry being, what would Harry say. The curtain brought hearty applause to this number.

The pleasant evening was brought to a close with a lively dance to music furnished by Al. Fredericks' orchestra, assisted by R. Andestad, C. Wigen and Bob Marshall, and Mrs. C. Wigen. Miss A. Hook sang the chorus of one of the dance numbers and was loudly applauded. The committee wish to thank all who helped make the banquet a success,

POTATO S EOR SALE—Half-ton good table potatoes, going at $1.25 per sack. George Hobden, Creston.

1930 Apple Sales 145,731 Boxes

Last Year's Apple Output One of Biggest—McIntosh Reds One-Third of Total—Wealthy and Delicious Each 14 Per Cent

With stored apples at Valley centres reduced to the point where the remaining surplus will be consumed locally, it is now possible to issue a statement covering 1930 production that can be taken as reliable and as accurate as it is possible to make any such tabulated statement.

With the exception of 1924, which was the Valley's banner year for tree fruit production, the 1930 apple crop is the biggest on record, accounting for a total shipping of 145,731 boxes, as compared with 121,144 for the 1929 crop year. For the same two years crabapples show a gain, but there was a drop in the outgo of plums and prunes, as well as pears the latter shrinking to 5870 boxes, as compared with 8596 in 1929. In the two years cherries were almost even, 7632 crates moving in 1930, as compared with 7442 in 1929.

The shipping of strawberries ast year is set down at 27,574 crates, as compared with 34,388 crates in 1929. Last year fifteen tons of strawberries were processed at Wynndel, which is slightly less than the quantity treated in 1929. The 1930 raspberry outgo is slightly better than the year previous, the figures being 6618 as compared wi h 6250 in 1929.

1930 vegetable production was much in excess of 1929. The past season records a shipping of 19,265 crates of ripe tomatoes, as compared with 12,686 crates in 1929. Cucumbers gained from 2130 to 4841 in the same period, and the sale of peppers rose from 7201 prounds to 13,132 pounds. Considerably more potatoes were also shipped. The cantaloupe marketed was also much higher than in 1929. Here are the totals in all lines:

	Crates.
Apples	145,731
Crabapples	3,592
Pears	5,870
Plums and Prunes	3,799
Cherries	7,632
Peaches	86
Strawberries	27,574
Raspberries	6,618
Loganberries	152
Blackberries	101
Gooseberries	1,170
Black Currants	789
Red Currants	135
Rhurbarb, lbs	3,663
Grapes	63
Tomatoes, ripe	19,265
Tomatoes, green	940
Cucumbers	4,841
Peppers, lbs	13,132
Cabbage, lbs	6,170
Potatoes, lbs	18,123
Melons	650
Beans, lbs	3,600
Peas, lbs	300
Carrots and Parsnips, lbs	1,767
Turnips, lbs	1,651
Beets, lbs	1,082
Lettuce, lbs	404
Asparagus, lbs	2,000

In connection with apple shipments a careful tab kept on varieties show that 33 per cent. of the 1930 export was McIntosh Red. Wealthys accounted for 14.7 per cent., and Delicious 14 per cent. The Wagener comes next at 10 per cent., Jonathan 6 per cent , and Rome Beauty 3 per cent. Winter Bananas and Northern Spy each accounted for 2 per cent. Cox Orange with a total of 230 boxes, Ontario at 142 and Yellow Newton at 298 are the lightest shippers in the apple class.

Council Fixes Clean-Up Day

Wednesday, 22nd, Date Chosen —Appoint New Poundkeeper —Make Offer Canyon Street Frontage—Pass Accounts $310

Fixing April 22nd as clean-up day, naming W. T. Bailey as temporary poundkeeper, and making Romano & Talerico an offer for 10 feet frontage along their property on Canyon street, were among the features of the business transacted at the April meeting of the village council Monday night, at which Reeve Jackson presided, and Councillors Edmondson and Henderson were in attendance.

The council agreed to let the Teachers' Association have the use of the fall fair grounds for a track eet to be held early in May, and Mr. Connatty will be written to asking for payment at once of a sum to replace the plate glass window in the town hall which one of the young Connatty's had the bad luck to break the latter part of March.

In their desire to widen out Canyon street the council would not be averse to securing a strip ten feet deep along a frontage of 827 feet of land ownek by Romano & Talerico. The owners submitted an offer to sell at $650, to which the council will reply stating they will be willing to pay at the rate of $500 per acre, and this ofier is open for 18 days.

1931 clean-up day was fixed for Wednesday, April 22nd, and on the following day the village will supply trucks to carry away the refuse, but will have nothing to do with ashes or liquid. Last year some householders put the ashes in sacks and had them hauled away, but this year the truck driver will be warned to be on the lookout for ashes put up in this or any other fashion.

W. T. Bailey has been named temporarily as poundkeeper and took over the work on Tuesday. March accounts passed for payment totalled $310. A grant of $50 was conceded the new pathological labratory at Nelson. The makers of the new bell are to be notified that its sound capacity is inadequate for the purpose and asking that it be exchanged for one that will fill the bill.

There was a letter from provincial police R. H. Hassard to which was attached a copy of a letter sent the Commissioner of B C. Police at Victoria, by Creston Valley Stockbreeders Association and which reads as follows;

"As the Village of Creston has no nuisance ground for their refuse, and whereas they dump same along the roadway along the flats, adjacent to Creston and where stock can have success to same, we deem it a menace to stock as in many cases they have been found to have an empty can on their foot. Also there is a possibility of poisonous things being dumped. We would suggest that they be compellek to provfde a suitable place, with a fence, to keep stock away from same."

The village has written A. E. Davies, road superintendent, for this district, asking for a report on the matter.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

No British Need Apply?

Editor Review:

Sir,—I had an interesting encounter with the general road foreman today when, with a neighbor, I called on him for a job at road work. He promptly refused, and when pressed for a reason for refusing a Canadian born taxpayer, a lifelong Tory, a job, when out of work, he said his orders from the Government were to give the foreigners work and to take none other.

This may be the reason certain Creston men are on practically the year around. They cannot stop to attend a neighbor's funeral for fear they would lose their job, as happened a Wynndel man, who is also Canadian born and a taxpayer. So this is the Tolmie administration.

When BABIES are Upset

BABY ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready?

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria.

THE RICH MAN AND LAZARUS

Golden Text: "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth consume, and where thieves do not break through nor steal."—Matthew 6.20.

Lesson: Luke 16.1 to 17.37.

Devotional Reading: 1 John 3.13-18.

Explanations and Comments

The Parable Of the Rich Man and Lazarus, 16.19-31.—We call this rich man of the parable "Dives," making use of the Latin word for "rich man." Dives was clad in purple and fine linen; his outer garment was dyed purple, and his inner garment was made from a sort of flax that grew on the banks of the Nile, so finely woven as to be almost transparent. "Purple and fine linen" is a phrase used to this day for luxury and ostentation.

"We remember with sorrow and compassion the idle rich, who have vigor of body and mind and yet produce no useful thing. Forgive them, Heavenly Father, for loading the burden of their support on the bent shoulders of the working world. Forgive them for wasting in refined excess what would feed the pale children of the poor. Forgive them for setting their splendour before the thirsty hearts of the young, luring them to theft or shame by the lust of eye and flesh. Forgive them for taking pride in their selfish lives." —Walter Rauschenbusch.

Lazarus (the name is a contraction of Eleazar, "Helped of God"), was a beggar who was brought to the rich man's gate, where he hoped to be fed from the crumbs that fell from the rich man's table. So helpless was he that even the dogs came and licked his sores. Wretched dogs roamed the streets and lived upon the garbage that was thrown out from the houses. The suggestion is that the dogs were kinder than the rich man, or else that they increased his misery by rasping his sores.

When the beggar died, he was carried away by the angels into Abraham's bosom. "'Abraham's bosom' is a Jewish name, not of heaven, but of an intermediate state of bliss, in which the souls of the just await the resurrection." In His parable Jesus made use of the well-known rabbinical fancies—angel bearers, Abraham's bosom, the two divisions of Hades, the separation and yet communication between them—but His doing so does not mean that He accepted these fancies for the truth. His purpose in His story was not to reveal the nature of the life hereafter, but to teach that retribution overtakes the sinner, and in doing this he deliberately adopted the picture language then current which admirably suited his purpose.

The rabbis said, "The fire of Gehenna has no power over the sinners of Israel, for Abraham descends and rescues them from it." In accordance with this thought, the rich man, who had also died, appeals to Abraham from his place of torment and begs him to send Lazarus to his aid, if only with water on the tip of his finger. But Abraham bids Dives to remember that in his lifetime he had had the good things while Lazarus had had the evil; now Lazarus is rewarded while he's punished.

The Terror Of Asthma comes like a thief in the night with its dreadful throttling, robbing its victim of breath. It seems beyond the power of human aid to relieve until one trial is made of that remarkable preparation, Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Then relief comes with a rush. Life becomes worth living, and, if the remedy be used persistently, the disease is put permanently to to rout. Take no substitute.

On Threshold Of Discovery

Dr. John Anderson, formerly of the London school of tropical medicine, died at Shanghai, China, after an operation, just when he believed himself to be on the threshold of a crowning achievement in his research into cerebro spinal meningitis. It is understood he succeeded a short time before in isolating the meningitis germ.

Your Home Medicine Chest. — Among the standard household remedies that should always be on hand in your home medicine chest, none is more important than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Its manifold usefulness in relieving pain and healing sickness is known by many thousands throughout the land. Always use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for relieving rheumatic and sciatic pains, treating sore throats and chests, coughs, burns, scalds, cuts, bruises and sprains.

Dream May Be Realized

Dr. Hugo Eckener, Zeppelin commander, bade America goodbye seeing realization of his dream of scheduled trans-Atlantic airship flights by 1933. In ten years, Dr. Eckener believes, two sailings a week in either direction will be made.

DEPRESSION

"I'm a different woman"

"Two years ago I began to get depressed, and everything was too much trouble for me. I was a misery to myself and everyone around me. I was advised to take Glauber Salts by my friends who said it was the same as Kruschen but it did me no good, so at last my husband got me a bottle of Kruschen and no one would realise the different woman I am. I have been taking Kruschen now constantly for two years. My daughter also would not be without it. I have got my neighbour to take Kruschen as well and she has found its worth as she feels a different woman."
—(Mrs. G. A. K.)

The commonest cause of depression is partial constipation—an insidious complaint because the sufferer is seldom aware of it. It means the gradual accumulation of body poisons which dull the mind, damp the spirits, sap the nervous strength and lower the whole vitality.

Kruschen Salts make constipation impossible. Therefore, if you keep to Kruschen you need never know the meaning of melancholy; never feel "nervy" or depressed.

Synthetic Air

Better Than Natural Air, According To Scientists

Science believes it can give mankind synthetic air to breathe that is better than the natural atmosphere, the American Chemical Society was told.

Professor J. W. Hershey, McPherson College, McPherson, Kas., said experiments have shown that life can be sustained more healthfully with a chemically concocted atmosphere, which can be manufactured and introduced in office buildings, airplanes and submarines, than with the nitrogen-oxygen that surrounds the world.

Experiments with white mice showed that in some cases they lived more healthfully in helium-oxygen than in nitrogen-oxygen, Professor Hershey said.

A strangely mottled discolorization which attacks otherwise healthy teeth of children in certain parts of the country, notably Texas, is due to the chemical element fluorine, according to R. V. Churchill, who described his investigations before the convention.

The fluorine discolorization, which apparenntly does not cause tooth decay but is located under the enamel, comes from the fluorine element sometimes present in drinking water, Churchill said.

Persian Balm is a sheer delight to use. Cools and relieves irritations caused by weather conditions. Imparts a rare charm and beauty to the complexion. Fragrant and velvety smooth. CHAPTER XV.

On a day some two weeks later, the unusual sight of Julie Nipps, clad in a blue sport coat of obviously modish cut, might have been seen on Main Street. She was pushing a go-cart in which sat little Martha, clasping in her arms the doll for which Halliday had sent to Boston, Julie felt proud both of her coat, and of the little girl, who wore a dainty pink gown that brought out the color in her cheeks. In a desire to display her finery she promenaded the length of Main Street's "shopping district," then turned to the north, and a less dusty thoroughfare. To all appearances she was "taking her time," which in Julie's busy life was something unaccustomed. She hesitated as she approached John Maxwell's fine old house, and at just that moment Mary Maxwell appeared in the wide doorway.

"Come in, Julie. Is that the little girl who's staying at the Halliday's? I want to see her."

Julie was not loath to obey. She was genuinely fond of Mary Maxwell, whose house-cleaning she had done for years. Mary was also fond of Julie, who was an unfailing source of amusement during the spring upset. She noticed the coat at once, and spoke of it.

"Aren't you looking pretty fine?"

Julie flushed with pleasure.

"Mis' Halliday give it to me. She said she bought it by electric light, and when she got home and begun wearin' it she found it didn't blend with her eyes. Them's her own words, Mis' Maxwell. Would you believe a grown woman'd be so silly? Yes, this is Martha. Shake hands with the lady, dearie—there's a good girl."

Martha drew shyly back, but at Mary Maxwell's smile she stretched out her arms.

"What a darling!" said Mary, lifting the little girl and seating herself in a comfortable rocker. "Come up on the porch, Julie, and rest a minute if you have time."

"Oh, I got time enough," replied Julie, accepting the invitation with all the ease of a free-born, small-town American. Mary once told her husband that if the President of the United States should invite Julie Nipps to dinner, she would go through the proceeding with no uncomfortable qualms as to her fitness. She seated herself now in John Maxwell's favorite chair, and proceeded to rock almost as rapidly as she talked.

"She's gone to Boston to see about opening up their apartment for the winter; and he's gone to Anton Bay to see an old aunt or somebody. He didn't go till after she left. Guess he didn't want her to find it out. So my time's my own till supper. Look out, Martha, you'll be breakin' the lady's beads if you pull on 'em like that."

"No, she won't," contradicted Mary. "They've withstood the hands of five children and seven grand-babies. Well, Julie, if the Hallidays go back to the city you'll be out of a job. Perhaps you'll do my fall cleaning if I leave it long enough."

"Well, now I'd thought o' that myself; but it seems they ain't goin' to take Martha with 'em. Maybe there ain't room in that flat, but it's my opinion that she won't have her. Anyhow, I'm to stay right on and be sort of caretaker for the house and little Martha too. It'll be some lonesome, but Mr. Halliday said he'd make the pay all right, and I will say he may have a long face but he ain't got a mean bone in his body. Sam Toomy's to come every day to fix the furnace and bring up coal and wood. I'll live like a lady. Say! I see in the Boston paper that his ma left him a pot o' money—him and his sister. I guess Mis' Halliday knew which side her bread was buttered on when she took him."

"Oh, Julie! you really shouldn't say such things. Of course she cared for him."

"Take it from me," replied Julie, unabashed at this reproof, "that woman don't care for nothin' but her complexion. And I'll tell you another thing, Mis' Maxwell, though I wouldn't say it if I didn't know you ain't one bit of a gossip: Mis' Halliday is one o' them women they call a vamp!"

Julie made this announcement with such fine oratorical effect that Mary Maxwell was forced to stifle a laugh, even in her amazement that Julie should agree with her own conclusions regarding Angela Halliday. She hid her smile behind little Martha's curls before she answered:

"Mercy, Julie! What a thing to say about your mistress!"

"Excuse me, Mis' Maxwell," Julie corrected, "but I never called nobody that yet, and at thirty-four years old I ain't goin' to begin. She's the lady I'm accommodatin'. I read in a magazine that that's what you call a person who helps out at a critical time, most any time would be critical if Mis' Halliday did the cookin'. She don't know salt from sody."

"She's an artist, you know," suggested Mary kindly. "Some artists aren't as practical as the rest of us."

"Well I'll tell the world she's practical enough to know what pleases a man, though she don't try extry hard to please her own. She's like them women in the movies, Mis' Maxwell, them that don't appreciate a good, steady feller when they got him, but is always runnin' after some other woman's husband. Now them Myers what visited her—he was about as handsome as a stuffed piller case, but he wore pants and was somethin' Mis' Halliday could make eyes at. One night——"

"Really, Julie," interrupted Mary conscientiously, "you ought not repeat these things, I——"

"Don't let that worry you a minute, Mis' Maxwell," broke in Julie. "You've been good as a mother to me ever since I lost my own. I ain't forgotten how you fixed me that elegant black dress for the funeral, and if I can liven you up with a little news about the Hallidays, why it's my Christian duty to do it. I was goin' to say that that puffy Myer man did for a time, but now he's gone and there ain't no one handy for her to make eyes at but Nick. I've known Nick Hastings ever since he wore short pants, and to see him sittin' on the veranda bein' made a fool of, gets my goat."

"What do you mean?"

Mary Maxwell threw her scruples to the wind as she asked the question; while Julie, enjoying the role of news-monger, spoke mysteriously.

"'Twas last night. Gay had run over to carry a glass o' jelly to Sadie Twichell. The babies were a-bed, and Nick was supposed to be lookin' out for 'em; but Mis' Haliday see him an' called him over. He'd gone for a walk—Mr. Halliday, I mean, and I was puttin' away the silver in the sideboard; that is, I'd been puttin' it away, and had set down a minute by the window. They was right outside and I couldn't help hearin' what they said."

"But, Julie, it's not honorable to listen to conversations that way."

"I wa'n't listenin'. I was restin' my feet. Mis' Halliday give me a pair o' pumps she got tired of, and they ain't properly broke in yet, so I set down by the window and slipped 'em off. And just then she give a sort o' call. It sounded for all the world like a bird, and I looked out and see Nick come through that hole in the hedge. They set down together outside the window and I heard her say: 'We both seem to be deserted, Mr. Hastings,' and Nick laughed and said: 'Then let's console each other. Isn't it a bully evenin' for September?'"

"Well, Mis' Maxwell, I started to move but I was afraid they'd hear me, and anyway my feet weren't anywheres near ready to be squeezed into them pumps. Besides, if Nick Hastings was goin' to do any consolin' I wasn't goin' to miss it. I ain't forgot how Gay trimmed a hat for me once when I was cleanin' Sadie Twichell's attic, and if Nick cuts up any monkey shines with Mis' Halliday same as that Myer feller did, he'll get a piece o' my mind."

Mary Maxwell, who had buried her conscience deep and was shamelessly listening, forced herself to say: "I am sure, Julie, that Gay wouldn't like you to speak that way about her husband. He's devoted to his family, and wouldn't harm them for a king's ransom."

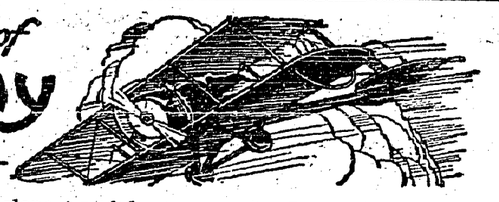
The ADVENTURES of CAPTAIN JIMMY and his Dog SCOTTIE



We had slipped down the burning slope, expecting every minute to be our last, then found ourselves falling into space. We shut our eyes, rather than see the fiercely burning furnace that we believed lay below—then suddenly I found myself choking for breath, deep down in the cool swirling depths of a mountain pool.

I fought my way to the top and found Scottie swimming in circles up there on the surface, looking for me with a most doleful expression on his whiskered face.

Above us the woods burned brightly, and down stream the river disappeared in a smoke filled tunnel of flaming trees. It was through that tunnel we must go if we were ever to get out. The air was alive with hot cinders — and the light was so uncertain that we had no idea whether the sun was shining or not.

When the water grew shallow I waded around slippery boulders, and crawled over ledges where the swift, white current pulled and tugged at my clothes and often swept me off my feet. It was painfully slow work for both of us. Scottie was clutched under my coat and I staggered along as fast as I could.

Soon the stream narrowed, and the rock ledges on either side rose to a height of twenty feet or more. It was a regular gorge. Up over us the woods were burning fiercely, but above the crackle and roar of the flames rose another sound—a sort of deep bass rumble like thunder that broke through a long drawn out note. Falling water and not very far ahead!

The current grew deeper and swifter, and the gorge continued to grow steeper and narrower. I clung to a ledge for support while I rested.

"Scottie, my boy, it's certainly lucky you know how to swim." He wriggled his stubby little tail as I spoke to him. "Just as sure as you're a funny looking Scotch terrier, you're in for a try at it. But how are you for swimming waterfalls?"

Sure enough. Not a hundred feet along, the stream dropped over a ledge. I crept as closely as I dared. Apparently the water fell twenty-five or thirty feet into a round basin and the gorge was considerably wider at that point. It looked for all the world as if some giant with an auger had bored this big hole in the rock, into which the water tumbled and hissed.

Suddenly, even as we stood there a few feet from the edge, there was a droning sound overhead, and in a moment more a 'plane passed, flying low. By the sound, it was good old Vickers, but the smoke was so thick we couldn't see a thing of it. I yelled at the top of my lungs and Scottie barked—but we might as well have been whistling in a hurricane in Greenland. Why, we could not even hear ourselves.

Slowly, step by step, we retraced our way back through the gorge. On a flat rock in the stream we sat down to think—the bank was too cool for comfort and the rock was none too cool. Taking off my leather jacket, I carefully cut the heavy leather into strips, using the sleeves and all. When fastened together these strips made a strong rope about ten or twelve yards long.

Now for a place to tie it at the head of the falls. I needed a log that could be wedged securely between the walls of the gorge—that would do it. Finally I found one the right size. Half floating it, I made my way towards the edge of the falls. One false move—and over I'd have gone! Carefully I worked one end into a crevice in the ledge. With one end anchored I pushed the other into place against the opposite wall of the gorge. Then I went back for Scottie.

From my shirt I made a sling. With one end of the rope twisted around my waist, I braced myself against the tree and lowered Scottie down. The rope just reached, and he climbed out on the side of the basin. My turn came now. I straddled the log, took a tight hold of the leather rope, and slipped over. The force of the falls was tremendous. The rope slipped through my fingers, and I spun dizzily around, and with a thump I landed in the shallow water at the edge of the basin. I climbed wearily out and there was Scottie watching me on the bank.

The stream widened as we went along, and the walls of the gorge dropped so that the banks were only a foot or two above stream.

The woods seemed to be getting lighter ahead. I pushed on faster—and there we were on the edge of the nicest little mountain lake you ever saw. Far up to the right the fire was rapidly working down to the lake. To our left, the woods were burning almost to the water's edge. We were hemmed in again.

Suddenly there was a scrambling in the underbrush—some heavy animal scratching through. Scottie remembered the bears and stood still with every hair standing straight out like a porcupine. The crashing grew nearer . . . .

New Radio Process Tested

Uses Only Enough Power To Operate Flashlight Bulb

A new radio process which uses just enough power to light a flashlight bulb, threw voices across the English Channel when it was demonstrated by the International Telephone and Telegraph Company. The device uses a half watt of power and operates on a wave-length of eighteen centimetres.

The aerials are less than one inch long. Conversation was clear and distinct. The process used a radio beam travelling in a straight line.

Little Helps For This Week

"Speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward."—Exodus xiv. 15.

Therefore think not the Past is wise alone,
For yesterday knows nothing of the Best,
And thou shalt love it only as the nest,
Whence glory-winged things to heaven have flown.
—James Russell Lowell.

Let us have done with vain regrets and longings for the days that will never be ours again. Our work lies in front, not behind us; and "forward" is our motto. Let us not sit with folded hands gazing upon the past as if it were the building; it is but the foundation. Let us not waste heart and life thinking of what might have been, and forgetting the "may be" that lies before us.
—Jerome K. Jerome.

As a vermifuge an effective preparation is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, and it can be given to the most delicate child without fear of injury to the constitution.

"Dr. Blank has a new car."
"I know it! I helped to pay for it."

When You OVER—INDULGE

EVERY man, woman and child will occasionally over-indulge. But don't suffer for your indiscretions. It's folly to do so when you can so easily sweeten and settle a sour, upset stomach with a little Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Hearty eaters have long since learned the quick comfort this perfect anti-acid brings. Smokers know how it neutralizes nicotine; brings back a sweet taste; guards the breath. Women know what it does for nausea—or sick headache. And when children have over-eaten—are bilious, constipated or otherwise upset—give them a little of the same, pleasant-tasting and milky-white Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

You'll be through with crude methods once you learn the perfect way. Nothing else has the same quick, gentle effect. Doctors prescribe it for indigestion, nausea, heartburn, gas, sour stomach and headache. It has been standard with them for over 50 years.

Insist on genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia; a less perfect product may not act the same. The genuine is always a liquid—never in tablet form—and the name Phillips' is always on bottle and wrapper.
