Athletic Club Gets Pavilion

Council Accedes to Request of Deputation—Will Have Building Wired—Fire Truck Ready—Pass Accouts Totalling $796.

Business coming before the November meeting of the village council on Monday night was disposed of with neatness and dispatch, adjournement being moved at 9.30 with the business of the session disposed of in very satisfactory fashion. Reeve F. H. Jackson presided, and Councillor Edmondson was the only other member of the board present.

The feature of the gathering was the receiving of a delegation from Creston Athletic Club, who were asking for the free use of the Park pavilion for the winter months for gymnasium and athletic purposes. The case was ably presented by W. J. Truscott and Geo. H. Kelly, the former, telling of the advantages of the gym., and assuring that the only reason free rental was asked was on account of any funds the club may amass being needed to pur chase new equipment. Mr. Kelly was equally eloquent in stating the case for indoor sports, such as softball, handball, indoor baseball and basketball. With the latter he believed there would be two or more teams from the junior, intermediate and senior groups. Use of the building for three nights a week was asked, and the council will concene the request provided guarantees are given that good care will be taken of the property.

Amongst the correspondance was a letter from Creston Power & Light Company assuring that they will stand all the expense of the proposed power plebiscite. C. H. Hare wrote asking for a street light at Alder street and the Public road at the north of town, but the request was not favorably entertained. Neither was the letter from Chas. Moore who is willing to accept $37.50 for a ten-foot deep strip of the frontage of his lot on Canyon street. The clerk will advise Mr. Moore that they will pay only their original offer of $25.

The accounts for the month, totalling $796, were ordered paid. In this is $278 for the improvements on Wilson Avenue, and when this was reached C. F. Hayes, on behalf of the property owners interested, expressed appreciat ion given their request for this work and assured the commissioners that excellent value had been obtained for the amount expended. The street is now quite the equal of any in town.

Councillor Edmondson reported that the Chevrolet truck recently purchased fr m Mr. Weisgarber has been fitted up as a fire truck and is ready for use. As a fire fighting utility it is well equipped and a bill from Steenstrup & Reed for $67 for equipping it was passed for payment.

It was agreed to spend up to $150 for wiring the Park pavilioa, the work to commence immediately. With this improvement the badminton club will rent the building for the winter at $10 a month. The reeve was given authority to purchase a wreath to be placed on the monument on Armistice Day, and the clerk will again write the minister of lands drawing attention to the fact that as yet no action has been taken to investigate the complaints lodged with him respecting the water supp y, as well as Goat River canyon development. The reeve was also given author ty to arrange for the installation of a telephone for sending in fire alarms.

The meeting was possibly the shortest of the present council's term, proceedings closing at 9.30 precisely.

Hospital Shower Marked Success

Contributions of Fruit and Vegetables More than Double those of 1930—Women's Institute Hospital Committee in Charge

Appreciation of Creston Valley Public Hospital was shown in practical fashion on Saturday afternoon when a total of 251 jars of canned fruit and vegetables, along with a sack of potatoes, and two Christmas puddings, were donated the hospital in the shower sponsored by the Women's Institute Hospital Committee.

The affair was held in the basement of the United Church, and in spite of the very disagreeable weather there was a fine turnout of ladies for the tea, which was in charge of the committee, Mrs. Jas. Cook, Mrs. R. Stevens, Mrs. Cherrington, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Mallandaine, assisted by Mrs. McKelvey, Mrs. F. C. Rodgers, and Mrs. E. Martin of Sirdar. Those contribut ng to this very worthy cause are: Mrs. Geo. Johnson, Mrs. Joyce, Mrs. Lowther, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. S. A. Speers, Mrs. Mallandaine, Mrs. Fransen, Mrs. Jas. Cook, Mrs. Fleetwood, Mrs. M. Young, Mrs. McKelvey, Mrs. Forbes, Mrs. Middleton, Mrs. W. K. Brown, Mrs. R. Stevens, Mrs. Barraclough, Mrs. Stapleton, Mrs. L. C. McFarland, Miss M. Millar, Mrs. F. C. Rodgers, Mrs. V. Mawson, Mrs. Palfreyman, Mrs. G. Cartwright, Mrs. M. J. Boyd, Mrs. Pridham, Mrs. Putnam, Mrs. Cherrington, Mrs R. Thurston, Mrs. L. McInnis, Mrs. Barner, Mrs. Haskins, Mrs. F. Clark, Mrs. Maxwell, Mrs. F. H. Jackson, Mrs. Edmondson, Mrs. S. Watson, Mrs. Telford, Mrs. Watcher, Mrs. T. Lacey, Mrs. F. Tompkins, Mrs. Archibald, Mrs. J. Arrowsmithl Mrs. W. H. Crawford, Mrs. T. Dickson, Mrs. W. J. Craig, Mrs. J. E. Johnston, Mrs. Olivier, Mrs. J. C. Martin, Mrs. Angus Cameron, Mrs. T. Goodwin. And Mrs. McCabe, Miss Pascuzzo, Mrs. Dibben, Mrs. North, and Mrs. E. Martin of Sirdar.

That the ospital continues to merit the support of the community may be gleaned from the fact that at a similar shower in 1930 total contributions were only 115 jars of fruit and vegetables.

It has been said, "It is our duty to give the dead a decent burial, but to care for the sick and suffering is angelic."

It will not be doubted that the best place to care for the sick and suffering is in a hospital, where there is everything needful for the purpose.

There may be a question as to the necessity for a hospital at Creston, but it is a long way to Cranbrook and Nelson when time and repose are the chief considerations.

Much money and energy has been spent on Creston Valley Public Hospital to make it as up-to-date as possible. Even one of the very best X-ray machines is installed.

Besides, it is an economic asset to the town.

Our merchants furnish supplies to the Hospital, and our local professional men render service to the community through the medium of the Hospital.

Were there no Hospital both of these advantages, and many others, would be lost.

To express regret after something sudden has happened will profit nothing.

Act now.

To clear the Hospital of $1500 liability—part of the debt incurred in remodelling and equipping the present Hospital building—you are asked to contribute by way of a Cash Prize Drawing Contest, with dance, tickets for which are now on sale.

Within the next few days canvassers will call on you and you are asked to aid the cause by buying generously. The tickets are 50 cents each. You are urged to buy a book of them at $5 and thus qualify for the Hospital Three Hundred Club, which carries with it hospital membership paid for five years.

This is certainly one of the very best causes you have ever been asked to assist and the Hospital directors feel sure you will give liberally and cheerfully.

A meeting of all interested in the children's Christmas celebration was held on Monday night, with Mrs. Nygaard presiding. Funds will be raised at a whist this evening, and a dance on December 4th.

Canyon residents are reminded that workers on the hospital drive will be on the rounds early in the week, Canyon has always shown a practical friendship for the hospital and are sure to continue the good work. Buy 'em by the book.

Mrs. Moberg, who has been a patient in Nelson hospital for the past two weeks, is making a satisfactory recovery, and is expected to arrive home next week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Clark (nee Esther Staples) who arrived a couple of weeks ago, have completed the purchase of the Kolthammer (Charlie Johnson) place, and Mr. Kolthammer has acquired what is known as the knob hill, opposite Huygens & VanAckeran, on which he will immediately erect a new residence.

Creston Observes Armistice Day

Splendid Turnout for Exercises at Monument — Appropriate Address—Dinner is Happy Feature—Dance at Night.

The best turnout of veterans seen at the Armistice Day exercises since the monument was dedicated was in evidence on Wednesday morning for the thirteenth anniversary of the termination of the Great War. The weather was ideal, but this favorable feature, combined with the fact that it was a public holiday did not help swell the crowd of civilians, which was hardly as big as last year.

The returned men paraded to the monument in charge of Sergt.-Major R. T. Millner and precisely at 11 there was the observance of the two minutes silence. Bugler G. H. Kelly sounded Last Post and this was followed by the laying of wreaths and floral remembrances on the granite pillar. Rev. A. Walker had an appropriate invocation, concluding with the Lord's Prayes, and the address by Rev. T. Scott was equally appropriate. He based his remarks on the text, "To what purpose is this waste." During the exercises the crowd joined in "O Canada" and "O God, our help in ages past." The reveille was sounded, followed by ',God Save the King", after which the veterans paraded to the cemetery where they decorated the graves of dead comrades.

The Armistice dinner was at the King George Hotel at 12.30 and was attended by practically all the men in parade, and in the evening the annual dance attracted a splendid attendance.

The informal sociability that prevailed after dinner was of very high order. Everyone present was under obligation to sing a song, tell a story, make a speech or contribute to the hall building fund. The outstanding effort was the highland schottische by Andy Sinclair to cornet music provided by John Finlay. Songs were contributed by H. Fortin, John Hall, Reg. Watson, G. H. Kelly and Frank Lewis, and the favorite story tellers were Col. Lister, R. Sinclair Smith and Stan. Watson. Space does not permit of a recounting of the able addresses by those who favored with talks befitting the occasion.

All arrangements for the day were in the hands of the Legion and they are to be complimented on the highly dignified observance the great occasion was accorded.

The Antidote For Fear

Courage, Confidence and Hope Needed By World Today

The curse of humanity has always been fear.

Fear dates back to the beginning of man.

Fear is the mother of hatred, the instigator of murder, the begetter of wars.

Fear is the enemy of sanity, the spoiler of judgment, the defiler of the soul.

Fear turns day into night and makes men walk in darkness.

Fear is the forerunner of distress, the foe to prosperity, the preserver of poverty.

Fear is the failure of the spirit, the triumph of the primitive over the civilized, the victory of death over life.

As individuals and as a nation we should cast fear from us.

Courage, confidence, hope—these are the antidotes—and the world has great need of them today. Fear is the thing that halts progress and creates difficulties, makes people hesitate where courage would see them through.

TOO FAT AT 22

Lost 19 lbs.—And Backache

"I am 22 years of age, and I weighed 163 lbs. I had pains in the back and head, I didn't care about anything. When my friend told me to try Kruschen Salts, I would not at first—I was sick of taking stuff. But since I tried Kruschen Salts, six months ago, I have lost 19 lbs., and feel a different woman, so I am very thankful to Mrs. —— who recommended Kruschen Salts."—Mrs. P.

The condition which caused this woman to put on weight was also the cause of her backache and headaches. The whole trouble was due to the internal organs failing to expel from the body, regularly and completely, the waste products of digestion.

The six salts of Kruschen assist the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day the wastage and poisons that encumber the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely. The backache and headaches disappear. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful and energetic—more so than ever before in your life.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THE FLAME

As a man may kindle a flame that glows
On a hearth in a cold, bare room
Till its dancing light, all color of rose,
Floods the place with its warmth and bloom.
He has lighted a spark in many lives
With the touch of his spirit's fire,
He has kindled the dream that through all survives,
He has quickened the high desire.

As a blaze with its glamour of ruddy light
Transfigures a room once bleak,
So the flame of his courage, clear and bright,
Brings the power the timorous seek.
He has brought into lives that were drear and cold,
Into doubting hearts of youth,
A gift which has solace for young and old,
The flicker of living truth!

The Lovely Waskesiu

New Waltz and Song Enjoying a Vogue In the West

Extolling the beauties of Waskesiu Lake, the national playground in Northern Saskatchewan, Mr. J. S. Brundige of Regina, has published a song entitled "The Lovely Waskesiu." A very delightful musical setting has been arranged by Margaret Lindsay, also of Regina, and the song has been dedicated "To those who have loafed and fished in the Canadian Northland." Words of the song are as follows:

I've wandered over eastern hills, I've trod the western plain,
And revelled in the beauty of the waving golden grain,
But nature holds a nobler gem the lovely Waskesiu.
O'er hill and dale and winding trail I'm coming back to you.

Thy face reflects the setting sun in many shaded sheen,
The woodland marks thy limits with a frame of softest green;
Thy waters croon a lullaby, soft as a Mothers' song,
That soothes to rest the weary mind, while childhood memories throng.

The flowers deck thy verdant banks, the aspens whisper low,
And shed a benediction in the silvery moonlight glow.
The northland calls her children home to lovely Waskesiu
O'er hill and dale and winding trail I'm coming back to you.

Explanations and Comments

Paul's Reception At Jerusalem, verses 17-19.—The leaders of the Church at Jerusalem received Paul cordially. James was in the company that greeted him, but Peter seems not to have been present. Paul came to them with a wonderful story of how the gospel message had been received among the Grecian Jews and Gentiles, and with abundant proof of their regard for the Mother Church in the collection which they had contributed out of their deep poverty. It is evident that Paul had thought this gathering of contributions from his Gentile churches to be "the crowning act," as Professor Ramsay declares, of his work in the four Gentile provinces of Galatia, Asia, Macedonia, and Achaia. Yet there is no mention of any expression of gratitude on the part of the receivers. The omission is pathetic to one who has followed with intense interest Paul's course and aim.

Apparently the apostles and elders of Jerusalem passed at once to what was uppermost in their own minds. The theological and theoretical overshadowed the practical in this early Christian group as they have done all too often in all the ages since.

A somewhat similar spirit reigned among the representatives of the Church of England in Africa a few years since. Missionaries were eager to tell of their labors and successes, but these High Churchmen said "Brothers, we hear that you have received at your Communion Table missionaries who do not belong to our sect."

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

— BY —

MARGARET PEDLER

Author Of "The Splendid Folly," "The Hermit Of Far End."

Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

"Thank God!" she heard him mutter. Then, aloud, reassuringly: "I've got my end of it all right. Now, can you catch hold of the strap and raise yourself a little so that I can reach you?"

Jean obeyed. A minute later she felt his arms about her shoulders, underneath her armpits, and then very slowly, but with a sure strength that took from her all sense of fear, he drew her safely up beside him on to the high ground.

For a moment they both rested quietly, recovering their breath. The Englishman seemed glad of the respite, and Jean noticed with concern the rather drawn look of his face. She thought he must be more played out than he cared to acknowledge.

Across the silence of sheer fatigue their eyes met—Jean's filled with a wistful solicitude as unconscious and candid as a child's, the man's curiously brilliant and inscrutable—and in a moment the silence had become something other, different, charged with emotional significance, the revealing silence which falls suddenly between a man and woman.

At last:

"This is what comes of stealing a day from Mrs. Grundy," commented the man drily.

And the tension was broken.

He sprang up, as though anxious to maintain the recovered atmosphere of the commonplace.

"Come! Having shot her bolt and tried ineffectually to down you in a ditch, I expect the old lady will let us get home safely now. We're through the worst. There are no more drifts between here and the hotel."

It was true. Anything that might have spelt danger was past, and it only remained to follow the beaten track up to the hotel, though even so, with the wind and snow driving in their faces, it took them a good half-hour to accomplish the task.

Monsieur and Madame de Varigny, a distracted "maitre d'hotel," and a little crowd of interested and sympathetic visitors welcomed their arrival.

"Mon dieu, mademoiselle! But we rejoice to see you back!" exclaimed Madame de Varigny. "We ourselves are only newly returned—and that, with difficulty, through this terrible storm—and we arrive to find that none knows where you are!"

"Me, I made sure that mademoiselle had accompanied Madame la Comtesse," asseverated Monsieur Vautrinot, nervously anxious to exculpate himself from any charge of carelessness.

"We were just going to organize a search-party," added the little Count. "I, myself"—stoutly—"should have joined in the search."

Weary as she was, Jean could hardly refrain from smiling at the idea of the diminutive Count in the role of gallant preserver. He would have been considerably less well-qualified even than herself to cope with the drifting snow through which the sheer, dogged strength of the Englishman had brought her safely.

Instinctively she turned with the intention of effecting an introduction between the latter and the Varignys, only to find that he had disappeared. He had taken the opportunity presented by the little ferment of excitement which had greeted her safe return to slip away.

She felt oddly disconcerted. And yet, she reflected, it was so like him—so like the conception of him which she had formed, at least—to evade both her thanks and the enthusiasm with which a recital of the afternoon's adventure would have been received.

CHAPTER VI.

The Magic Moment

Jean, surprisingly revived by a hot bath and a hot drink, and comfortably tucked up beside the fire in her room, was recounting the day's adventure to Madame de Varigny.

It was a somewhat expurgated version of the affair that she outlined—thoughtfully calculated to allay the natural apprehensions of a temporary chaperon—in which the unknown Englishman figured innocuously as merely having come to her assistance when, in the course of her afternoon's tramp, she had been overtaken by the blizzard. Of the stolen day, snatched from under Mrs. Grundy's enquiring nose, Jean preserved a discreet silence.

"I don't know who he could be," she pursued. "I've never seen him on the ice before; I should certainly have recognized him if I had. He was a lean, brown man, very English-looking—that sort of cold-tub-every-morning effect, you know. Oh! And he had one perfectly white lock of hair that was distinctly attractive. It looked"—descriptively — "as though someone had dabbed a powdered finger on his hair—just in the right place."

Madame de Varigny's eyes narrowed, and a quick ejaculation escaped her. It was something more than a mere exclamation connoting interest; it held a definitely individual note, as though it sprang from some sudden access of personal feeling.

Jean, hearing it, looked up in some surprise, and the other, meeting her questioning glance, rushed hastily into speech.

"A lock of white hair? But how chic! It should not"—thoughtfully—"be difficult to discover the identity of anyone with so distinctive a characteristic."

"He is not staying in the hotel, at all events," said Jean. "He told me he was at a friend's chalet."

"And he did not enlighten you as to his name? Gave you no hint?"

Madame de Varigny spoke with an assumption of indifference in her liquid voice.

Jean shook her head, smiling a little to herself. It had been part of the charm of that brief companionship that neither of the two comrades knew any of the everyday, commonplace details concerning the other.

"Perhaps you will see him again at the rink tomorrow," suggested Madame de Varigny, still with that note of restrained eagerness in her tones. "The snow is not deep except where it has drifted; they will clear the ice in the morning."

Jean was silent. She was not altogether sure that she wanted to see him again. As it stood, robbed of all commonplace circumstances of convention, the incident held a certain glamour of whimsical romance which could not but appeal to the daughter of Glyn Peterson. Nicely rounded off, as, for instance, by the unknown Englishman's prosaically calling at the hotel the next day to enquire whether she had suffered any ill effects, it would lose all the thrill of adventure. It was the suggestion of incompleteness which flavored the entire episode so piquantly.

No, on the whole, Jean rather hoped that she would not meet the Englishman again—at least, not yet. Some day, perhaps, it might be rather nice if chance brought them together once more. There would be a certain element of romantic fitness about it, should that happen.

"I don't think I am likely to see him again," she said quietly, replying to Madame de Varigny's suggestion. "He told me he was going away tomorrow."

Had it been conceivable, Jean would have said that a flash of disappointment crossed the Countess's face. But there seemed no possible reason why the movements of an unknown Englishman should cause her any excitation of feeling whatever, pleasant or otherwise. The only feasible explanation was that odd little streak of inquisitiveness concerning other people's affairs which appeared to be characteristic of her and which she had before evinced concerning the circumstances of Lady Anne Brennan.

Whatever curiosity she may have felt, however, on this occasion Madame de Varigny refrained from giving expression to it. Apparently dismissing the subject of the Englishman's identity from her mind, she switched the conversation into a fresh channel.

"It is unfortunate that you should have met with such a contretemps today. You will not feel disposed to dance this evening, after so much fatigue," she observed commiseratingly.

But Jean scouted the notion. With the incomparable resiliency of youth, she felt quite equal to dancing all night if needs be.

"Mais tout au contraire!" she exclaimed. "I'm practically recovered—at least, I shall be after another half-hour's lazing by this glorious fire. I wonder what heaven-sent inspiration induced Monsieur Vautrinot to install a real English fire-place in this room? It's delicious."

The Countess rose, shrugging her expressive shoulders.

Economic Conference Likely

Governments Would No Doubt Accept Invitation For Next Year

The London Times says that when Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada formally renews his invitation to hold the adjourned meeting of the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa next year, the National Government will certainly accept it. The suggestion is made, the Times added, that the meeting should not be held too early in the year, in order that all the governments of the Empire might have ample time to make their preparations.

An Oil That Is Prized Everywhere.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was put upon the market without any flourish over fifty years ago. There is nothing equal to it.

—Revelations xiv. 13.

Nay, rather act the part unnamed, unknown,
And let Fame blow her trumpet through the world
With noisy wind to swell a fool's renown,
Joined with some truth he stumbled blindly o'er,
Or coupled with some single, shining deed
That in the great account of all his days
Will stand alone upon the bankrupt sheet
His pitying angel shows the clerk of heaven.
The noblest service comes from nameless hands,
And the best servant does his work unseen.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Is it only those who are great, or those only who are splendidly good, whose works do follow them? God forbid. Are there not, as He Himself has told us, such little things as the widow's mite and the cup of cold water given for His sake? There is a greatness in unknown names, there is an immortality of quiet duties attainable by the meanest of mankind.

When
makes HIM FUSSY

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable is to see that little bowels do their work of carrying off waste matter promptly and regularly. For this nothing is better than Castoria, a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies and children. Castoria acts so gently you can give it to young infants to relieve colic. Yet it is always effective, for older children, too. Remember, Castoria contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics—is absolutely harmless. When your baby is fretful with teething or a food upset, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Be sure you get genuine Castoria with the name: the name:

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Arrow Creek Heard From

Editor Review:

Sir,—As you have seen by the Review of October 30th the Erickson school district meeting of the 26th, called for the purpose of deciding the question of transportation of the Arrow Creek children to Erickson school, resulted in no transportation.

I think a little light thrown on the spirit of this meeting might afford food for thought. Mr. Littlejohn appeared to be spokesman for the opposition, and everyone there must agree that he did himself, and party proud. He claimed to be responsible for having Arrow Creek inclnded in the Erickson school district. His reason for doing this was, so he said, "Erickson needed the assistance."

To my mind, he should not have told that, especially when he was fighting a one mill on the dollar raise on taxes, this slight raise being all that is necessary to provide transportation for eight months. He said he was opposed to this transportation on account of his principles.

The secretary of the school board stated at the meeting that this eight months transportation would cost each ratepayer one mill on the dollar of their assessment. Assuming the average land owner is paying taxas on an assessment of $2500, one mill on the dollar would mean a raise of just 25 cents each.

I think I am safe in saying that Arrow Creek has helped Erickson with over $2000 in the past twenty years to help Erickson children get an education, but I am sorry to say at this meeting Erickson declined to put up $100 to help educate Arrow Creek children. And this too, in spite of the fact that the school district treasurer stated there was enough money in the treasury to take care of this extra cost.

The chairman of the meeting produced a list of names of those entitled to vote. He read out the names, and it appeared that those from Arrow Creek, who were present, were not going to do much voting. One Arrow Creek resident, who had paid his taxes to Erickson school for twenty yesrs, and his 1930 taxes paid, did not have his name on that list.

In his letter last week Fair Play is asking for a statement in connection with the meeting. If this does not seem to be enough from Arrow Creek I will be pleased to go into more detaid on the whole situation.

The Hudson Bay Route

The recent successful voyage of the steamer "Farnworth" from Churchill to London, England, loaded with the first cargo of wheat from Western Canada's own seaport, and which voyage was made in the short space of sixteen days, marks an epoch in Canada's maritime history.

It is true that vessels have passed in and out of Hudson Bay every year for more than a century; it is even true that two rival navies entered the Bay, fought a battle there, and sailed out again. It is also true that the success attending the voyage of the "Farnworth," and its sister ship, the "Warkworth," was an outcome fully expected by Western people. The importance of this venture lies in the fact that it provided the final demonstration to Eastern Canada and the world that the West's belief in the feasibility of the Bay route, and its demands, extending for fifty years back, for the construction of the railway to the Bay were fully justified.

It has been proven that the Bay route can be made a commercial success; that the 1,000 mile shorter route from the heart of the grain growing prairies to the centre of the Empire is a practical route. But the fast, safe trips of the "Farnworth" and "Warkworth," through what had for years been regarded as the "frozen North," are not in themselves sufficient guarantee that the new route will become the important factor it should be in the economic history of Western Canada.

The Hudson Bay route is 1,000 miles shorter than any other route; it is feasible; it is practical; it can be made a success. But,—in order to be a complete success and to provide an adequate return to the people of Canada for the $50,000,000, more or less, expended on the railway, the port terminals, and for navigation aids through the straits, other things are essential. Unfortunately, some of these matters are tangled up in the controversies of rival policies of political parties. With these rivalries this column has no concern, but, speaking for the West, it must be said without any qualification that they cannot, must not be allowed to hamper the success of the Bay route.

Among the things now essential to the success of that route are:

(1) The lowest possible rates of freight on both outgoing and incoming shipments over the Hudson Bay railway, and this means the application in all its detail of the Crow's Nest Pass schedules to the Hudson Bay railway.

(2) The lowest possible rates of insurance on both vessels and cargoes utilizing the Bay route, and, in this connection, absorption by the Federal Government of any excess in such rates charged over and above those obtaining on other routes until experience demonstrates what the proper rates should be.

(3) The removal of any existing obstacles to the freest possible passage and entry of merchandise and products of all kinds from the more easterly sections of Canada and the markets of Europe into Western Canada by means of the Bay route and the port of Churchill, such removal of existing obstacles to be accompanied by every reasonable encouragement of such traffic. This is essential because no railway and no ocean-going vessel can quote low rates if it can depend on only a one-way traffic.

(4) Finally, it is important that certain branch lines of railway be built in the West which will have the effect of connecting up existing lines in the shortest and most direct way possible with the Hudson Bay railway. This can be done in the majority of cases with comparatively short cut-offs.

Some people advocate making Churchill not only a national port, but a free port. That may or may not be feasible. Such a decision would have an effect on the whole fiscal and economic systems of the Dominion, although unquestionably it would give a great boost to the Bay route and make its success assured.

The point of this article, however, is just this: The Hudson Bay route can, we believe, be made to realize the dreams of western people; it can be made a financial success as welll as a great economic and commercial enterprise. The opportunity and the responsibility now rests with the people of the West, irrespective of class or party, to work together in unison to achieve that result. Freight rates must be the lowest possible; insurance rates likewise; necessary railway branch cut-offs must be built; obstacles, if any, to movement of traffic removed; full encouragement for use of the route provided. All political parties have had a hand in the building of the railway and the opening of the route; all have a common interest in its success. So, regardless of party, all Westerners should work together to make that success an assured fact.

Russia and Germany

Soviets Have Good Reason For Not Stirring Up Revolution

For once the Soviet Government of Russia has been reluctant to play with fire in a powder house. On every earlier occasion when Russia's neighbor, Germany, passed through a difficult financia. situation, Russian agents were busy in Hamburg, Dresden, Berlin, and other cities, attempting to stir up revolution. In the present case Russia has apparently kept hands off, and one of the dispatches from Moscow suggests the reason.

Russia's chief interest today is the five-year plan. If this plan is to succeed, Russia must build up an export trade. One of the best markets for Russian exports is Germany. Revolution in Germany might endanger the five-year plan by depriving Russia of an indispensable outlet for the raw materials which she must sell abroad, in order to build up credit with which to purchase machinery and tools.

If the Soviet's policy toward Germany is any guide, the world has less to fear from Russia, seeking prosperous markets for her wares, than from Russia, starving and empty handed.

NEIGHBORS TALK

"I am employed in a theatre and it is a problem to make ends meet, as I help support my mother and sisters. I like to dress well but haven't very much to spend on clothes. To give the appearance of variety to my slender wardrobe I change the colour of a dress or stockings as soon as the things become faded. I always use Diamond Dyes for the work — using them as dyes for dresses and as tints for stockings. I have always gotten such perfect results that our neighbors talk about the great number of new things I have.

"I learned about Diamond Dyes from our wardrobe mistress. She says she has tried all the dyes on the market but none do such splendid work and are so easy to use as Diamond Dyes. I understand they are the world's most popular dyes — and they deserve to be."

Federal Government Will Share In Cost Of Construction

Approval by the special sub-committee of cabinet on unemployment relief of $1,250,000 additional expenditure for the Province of Manitoba, including the Federal Government's share in the cost of construction of a large auditorium in the City of Winnipeg, was announced by Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, and chairman of the sub-committee.

Federal Government commitments for the Province of Manitoba are now upward of $2,250,000, as compared with $900,000, which was the Federal allotment for Manitoba last year in addition to the necessary direct relief on an equal three-way basis between the cities, province and Dominion.

Life Insurance In Canada

Per Capita Record Surpassed Only By United States

A statement issued by the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau shows that in the first nine months of the present year a total of $367,223,000 of new paid-for ordinary life insurance was sold in Canada and Newfoundland.

This hardly indicates that Canada is broke.

What it does indicate is that if Mr. Bennett should be required to float an internal loan he ought to have no difficulty in raising an amount up to $200,000,000.

Incidentally, speaking of life insurance, the total of insurance in force in Canada at the present time is $6,500,000,000, or $650 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion. It is a per capita record surpassed by only one country in the world, the United States.—Ottawa Journal.

British Postal Notes

Post Office Department Says British and Irish Free State Postal Orders No Longer To Be Cashed

Due to the depreciated British pound, orders have been issued by the post office department that British and Irish Free State postal notes are no longer to be cashed. The order does not apply to post office money orders.

The explanation given at Ottawa is that postal notes are settled with London on a different basis to money orders, and involve the risk of exchange fluctuations. In any circumstances, the Canadian post office authorities have been inclining to the view that circulation of British and Irish Free State postal notes should cease in Canada and the present chaotic exchange situation appears to provide a suitable occasion for bringing the change of policy into effect.

These governments, however, on advice from Ottawa, have now ceased to issue postal notes for Canada, and will issue only money orders hereafter. The money order, it is stated here, does not involve any exchange risk.

The British exchange situation also has had repercussion on the circulation in Canada of British bank notes. The pound and ten shilling notes, it is uearned, are no longer being accepted by many of the Canadian banks.

Upset Telegraph Service

East African Natives Used Wires For Personal Adornment

Telegraph wire, in varying lengths, attached here and there to otherwise scanty clothing, means chic to the natives of Tanganyika and Kenya, South Africa, and as a result the capital was without wire service to the coast for more than 24 hours.

The demand for wire for sartorial purposes exceeded the available non-commercial supply, so the natives cut telegraph lines about 24 miles from Mombasa and took what they wanted. Cable messages had to be sent to Mombasa, and thence by train, until the damage was repaired. The delay was 16 hours.

Big Blueberry Crop

Shipment Of Blueberries From Kenora This Year Totalled 255,000 Pounds

One Kenora industry showed a remarkable increase this year, as compared with 1930. Blueberries shipped from Kenora this year showed an approximate increase of eighty per cent. over last year's shipments.

The 1930 blueberry crop was 145,000 pounds, or some 8,700 baskets, while this year the shipments totalled 255,000 pounds, or some 15,300 baskets. While the prices this year were lower than last year, yet the increase was even more marked, in the fact that there was always a market this season for the berries, a fact that is not always experienced in other years.

"RED" SECRETS ARE BARED BY POLICE OFFICER

Toronto, Ont.—For seven long years, a shabbily-clad, stockily-built German-Canadian acted as secretary of the Regina, Sask., branch of the Communist Party of Canada. For those seven years he shared the innermost secrets of the "legal" and "illegal" branches of the party, sat at the council seat, attended conventions, talked and corresponded with the leaders.

But this time, he had changed the ragged hand-me-downs for the scarlet and blue of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. It was the first time in 10 years, his comrades said, that he had worn the proud uniform of Canada's famous force.

His name was Sergeant John Leopold, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

For seven years he had been secretary of the Regina branch of the Communist Party.

He had won the post through hard work.

While a member of the party he was known, not as Sergeant Leopold, but as E. W. Esselwain.

He had entered the Communist Party in search of evidence to prove that it was an unlawful association, and that members of the party were parties to a seditious conspiracy.

The Communist Party in Canada, he testified, was a section of the Communist International since its formation. It had been represented at all congresses of the international in Russia. From 1921 to 1924 it was known as "The Workers." But, he said, there were two parties. One was the workers, which was intended to be legal. The second was the "illegal" or underground party. The parties were known as "A" and "Z" parties respectively. "Z" was the latter party which "carried on the illegal work of Communist International."

But in 1924, the "Z" party, at the direction of the executive committee of the Communist International, came into the other, the witness declared. Then the workers became known as the Communist Party in Canada, E.C.C.I., giving as the reason that while the "Z" party continued the work underground, it would not make that progress among the masses which was required "for the completion of its program."

Every member who joined the party, Leopold continued, took a definite pledge to subordinate himself to the decisions and directions of the Communist International at Moscow, and the Communist Party of Canada was controlled by the Moscow body. This was shown, he claimed, in the constitution of the Canadian party, and also in the constitution of the Comintern (Communist International).

He outlined the work of the nucleus—the "foundation of the party." This nucleus, he said, was composed of two or more members of the party in every mine, shop, store, lumber camp, shipyard, factory or other industrial concern, and operated secretly. The members of the nucleus were known to each other but not to the factory workers in general.

The main purpose of the party, he testified, was "to stir up discontent and strife; to foment and develop grievances, real or imaginary, and where none exist to create them."

The party, as a world-wide party, of which Canada is an integral section, "plans, by force and violence, to overthrow not only our own government but all other governments." Constant information of the progress of revolutionary efforts in other countries, as, for example, the revolution being conducted by the Chinese section of the Communist International, was furnished the Canadian party. "The Chinese revolution is our revolution," the Canadian party maintained, according to Sergeant Leopold.

Even the alleged code of the Communist party was outlined by the witness. When members of the "underground" party wished to communicate, a certain page of a publication was chosen. Numbers indicated the line and letter which was to be indicated, "5-7," for instance, meant the fifth line and seventh letter was to be taken.

Response From Eastern Canada Is "Remarkable"

People Doing Everything Possible For Needy On Prairies

Edmonton, Alberta.—Eastern Canadians are making a response to the need of straitened areas in the west that is "nothing less than remarkable and in every way immensely gratifying," states Rev. Dr. M. H. Wilson, superintendent of missions for the United Church in northern Alberta, who has returned from a meeting in Toronto of the home mission board.

Conditions in southern Saskatchewan, parts of northern Manitoba, and certain dried-out sections of southern Alberta have been put before the people of Ontario in particular, with the result that, besides many carloads of vegetables and fruit for points in Saskatchewan, some 50 tons of second-hand clothing have been contributed through United Church congregations and sent west for distribution in the three prairie provinces. This work is continuing.

In Alberta practically all the student missionary fields are closed for the winter. By way of meeting the particular needs of the coming winter, two United Church missionaries-at-large have been sent into northern Saskatchewan to minister to the large number of settlers who have moved into that area from the south, and three men have been similarly assigned to work among relief camps in various parts of the country.

National War Memorial

Impressive Monument 90 Feet High To Be Erected At Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada's national war memorial at Ottawa, which will be one of the most beautiful and impressive of its kind, is expected to be completed early next summer. Rapid progress is being made on the memorial, it is stated in reports from England, by the sculptors, the March Brothers and Sisters.

Ninety feet high, showing a colossal group of figures in bronze, exemplifying the heroism and self-sacrifice of the Canadian people, the memorial will stand in Confederation Park. Its erection will involve the removal of the city post office, the construction of a new railway postal terminal, and a new arrangement of uptown vehicular traffic.

Harvester Company Resumes Operation

Plants Have Been Re-Opened In Canada and United States

Chicago, Ill.—Officials of the International Harvester Company announced that it has resumed active operation in all its Canadian and United States plants. Several hundred men are back at work at wages ranging from 10 to 20 per cent. under the former rates.

Seniority rights, the officers said, will be observed in the re-employment and married men will be given preference. The new schedule in most plants increasing the week to four days will affect approximately 20 plants.

New Agreements Necessary

Before Ottawa Will Pay Increased Share Of Old Age Pensions

Ottawa, Ont.—Provincial governments have been notified by the Dominion that new agreements will be necessary before the federal treasury will proceed to pay 75 per cent. of the old age pensions instead of 50 per cent. which was the amount fixed under the old act. The new act was to start on July 31 and as it provides for payments each quarter, the first quarter is over and it is expected steps will be taken very soon to conclude the new agreements.

Tribute To War Dead

Montreal.—The engines of ships at sea will cease their throb on Remembrance Day in tribute to those who died in the war. Statistics Indicate Present Year Healthy

Cumulative Death Rate Both In U.S. and Canada 9.1 Per 1,000

Toronto, Ont.—The year 1931 has been an exceptionally good health year, according to life insurance statistics, the cumulative death rate both in Canada and the United States being 9.1 per 1,000. This is approximately one per cent. in excess of that of 1930, when the minimum rate for all time was registered.

Mortality for heart disease is two per cent. higher than in 1930. Tuberculosis is establishing a new minimum mortality record for all time, registering only 77 per 100,000 for the ten months, a decrease of 5.9 per cent. in the period of one year. Diphtheria death rate has declined 34.6 per cent. this year, a new low record. On the other hand, the cumulative rate for diabetes is considerably higher. The rate for cancer has also increased five per cent.

Thinks Will Unjust

Norwalk, Conn.—Mrs. Marion Oser says she will not join her brother, William L. Edison, in contesting the will of their father, Thomas A. Edison. "I think the will is very, very unjust," Mrs. Oser said, "but I will not fight it. The fight probably would run for years, and I do not think I could stand it."

Work For Train Crews

Enlarged Movement Of Grain Increases Employment On Railways

Calgary, Alberta.—Both Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways east and west have had to increase their train and engine crews to cope with the enlarged movement of grain in the past few weeks, it was announced here. The movement was reported to be considerably heavier than during the corresponding period last year.

Calgary office of the Canadian Pacific Railway stated that eight more train and engine crews than were required at this time last year were employed in the last few days to handle the freight service out of Calgary. A corresponding increase was announced by the Canadian National Railways, which stated that the movement was much above this period in 1930. The movement of grain between Calgary and Edmonton was estimated to have doubled in the last week.

Resigns Judicial Post

Mrs. Emily Murphy Gives Up Position In Edmonton

Edmonton, Alberta.—The first woman to be appointed to such a post in the British Empire, Mrs. Emily Murphy, who has held office here for 15 years, has resigned as women's police magistrate for the City of Edmonton. She also vacates the post of judge of the juvenile court for this city.

While resigning as an active police magistrate for the city, Mrs. Murphy will continue to hold her appointment as a police magistrate and judge of the juvenile court for the province of Alberta.

The retiring magistrate, widely known as "Janey Canuck" played an active part in the fight to have women recognized as eligible for appointment to the Canadian Senate.

U.G.G. Has Good Year

Heavier Handling Of Grain and An Operating Profit

Calgary, Alberta.—Reports showing heavier handling of grain and an operating profit for the fiscal year ended July 31, 1931, were submitted to the annual meeting of the United Grain Growers, Limited, here.

Payment of a 5 per cent. dividend, amounting to $159,056.49, was made and the surplus account was brought to a total of $803,337.95. Current assets were given as $3,131,667.16 against current liabilities of $1,714,487.83.

Prentiss Gilbert (left), the United States Consul at Geneva, and the first American to sit in the Council of the League of Nations, is shown leaving a League session with Lord Reading, Britain's delegate to the League and Foreign Secretary in the National Government. Gilbert was seated with the Council as an "observer" during the Sino-Japanese crisis.

LLOYD GEORGE HAS RESIGNED AS LIBERAL LEADER

London, England.—Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, outstanding member of the Liberal Party for more than 25 years, resigned his chairmanship and announced he would not accept any other party office.

He set forth his decision in a letter to Sir Herbert Samuel, which was made public just before a meeting of one section of the Liberal Parliamentary Party, at which Sir Herbert was elected to succeed the dynamic Welshman.

The Lloyd George letter and the election of Sir Herbert reflected the separation of the historic Liberal Party into three factions, two of which are reckoned among the supporters of the National Government.

These two are the Samuel Liberals and the group led by Sir John Simon, who was elected chairman of the "National Liberals." Mr. Lloyd George and three followers—all that remain loyal to him—are expected to take their seats in the opposition.

The Samuel Liberals were invited to attend the meeting but they didn't—thus emphasizing the split between them and the Samuelites.

The little group faithful to the resigned leader includes his son, Major Gwilym Lloyd George, his daughter, Megan, and Major Goronwy Owen. It is assumed they will continue to call themselves Liberals.

The future is uncertain for the man who, as head of the war-time coalition government, was almost supreme arbiter of Britain's destinies and now rules over four votes in the House of Commons.

For the moment he seems very much in the shade. Few political commentators believe he will remain there permanently.

"As you are aware," Mr. Lloyd George wrote to Sir Herbert, "I am completely at variance with the disastrous course into which the party recently has been guided. It may therefore ease matters, and at any rate save embarrassment to my friends, if I write to tell you that I am not a candidate for election to any office in the group.

"For the moment these causes have been overwhelmed by the calamitous folly of October, and any attempt to revive them will be met for some time with impatience and ridicule.

"That phase will soon pass and all true progressives then can resume the task out of which they were so regretfully manoeuvred."

Relief For Stricken Areas

103 Car Loads Of Fruit and Vegetables Contributed By Five Provinces

Toronto, Ont.—Five provinces have contributed a total of 103 car loads of fruit and vegetables to meet needs of people in the drouth-stricken area of southern Saskatchewan and part of southern Alberta. The cars have been despatched under the auspices of the Emergency Relief Committee of the United Church of Canada.

The largest number — 68 cars — have been sent from Ontario. Central Alberta has contributed 15 carloads, mostly of mixed vegetables to aid destitute people in the southern part of that province. Manitoba has sent five carloads of mixed vegetables, while from British Columbia 13 carloads of fruit have been shipped. Northern Saskatchewan has sent two carloads of grain products to the affected areas.

Each load is being distributed among 300 families, it is estimated.

London, Eng.—Creation of an Empire central bank to act as a clearing house for all central banks of the Empire is the chief recommendation of the report of the joint committee appointed by the Federation of British Industries and the Empire Economic Union.
