Curlers' Bridge Great Success

Cups and Trophies Presented—Bonspiel Winners Remembered—Flowers for the Most Useful Individual Players.

Hospitality and entertainment of a very high order was dispensed at the annual bridge and presentation of cups and trophies by Creston Curling Club at the Parish Hall on Friday night. President M. R. Joyce made a very capable master of ceremonies and the affair attracted the attendance of about twenty tables of bridge enthusiasts, the honors of the evening at at cards going to Mrs G. A. Hunt of Kitchener, who made ladies' high score, and Mrs. Linden W. Bell, who was a close second. The honors to the gentlemen fell to M. J. and Hubert Beninger.

After a sumptuous lunch the presentation of trophies took place. Mr. Joyce in characteristic fashion, sketched the history of the curling season, which had been the best winter for play since the game was introduced about six years ago. Along with a good season had come quite a wide distribution of the trophies offered for annual competition, an all time record being set up in the President vs. Vice-President contest which has been won by the former's rinks by a margin of only six points.

The Dr. Henderson cup was owarded President Jo ce for the year's keep in happy fashion by Dr. Hender on who gave some of the figures to show just how keen the competition had been J. S. Clowes presented the Imperial Bank cup, which had been won by the rink skipped by A. Weir. The Cranbrook Brewing Company cup went to Dr. Olivier, who had charge of the Craig rink in the cup competition. The presentation was made by Col. Mallandaine, who also presented the Fraser cup to the Joyce rink. which was won in what is known as the grand challenge. The cup donated by Fernie-Fort Steele Brewing Company went to the Boyd rink, and was presented by C. F. Hayes, who warmly complimented the Boyd quartett on the showing made, the rink annexing five games in successi n to gain possession of this massive piece of silverware.

Along with the more pretentious trophies the president with the able assistance of "Shorty" Millen, had for presentation to the members of the victorious squads, miniature cups made of a silver thimble with a safety pin on either side for handles, and mounted on black spools. These ingenious tankards made a novel souvenir and were in great demand by the winners thereof.

For the season's windup there was a local bonspiel and some very practical prizes were won in this section of the winter's play. The Craig rink received a box of apples donated by Frank Putnam as first prize in the spiel, and as runners up the Weir rink got four pounds of coffee donated by H. W. McLaren. The first primary prize of four pounds of tea donated by President Joyce went to the Chandler rink, and the second primary prize of four bread knives, given by R. M. Telford, went to the Joyce rink. The Chandler rink also annexed four bottles of machine oil donated by the Shell Oil Company. E. E. Cartwright, who graduated as a skip towards the end of the season was at the head of the quartette to win the four haircuts donated by Ted Winchcombe.

A new and popular feature introduced this year was the presentation of prizes to the players who, by popular vote, have been designated as being the most useful to their respective rinks. Handsoms floral remembrances were presented them and were won by F. Putnam, Gib. Sinclair, R. M. Telford and S. A. Speers. The flowers and the signal honor they typified were vigorously acknowledged by the former, and this feature, with the national anthem brought proceedings to a close.

Board Discusses Power, Publicity

Attendance is Biggest on Record—Still More Members Enroll—Will Launch Publicity Effort—Resolutions Adopted.

The biggest attendance seen at a board of trade meeting in many years was out on Tuesday night for the March session, which was in charge of president R. J. Forbes, and chalked up an attendance of 30. Another trio of members were accepted in Jas. Cook, E. E. Cartwright and G. Garretson.

For the select committee named to interview Col. Fred Lister in connection with redistribution, F. H. Jackson reported that the local member had expressed opposition to the elimination of Creston riding unless the number of members in the house was cut to 30. Col. Lister had promised to keep the committee posted on developments in this line but to date no word had been received.

Publicity matters were much to the fore and it was finally agreed to spend up to $75 in getting out an advertising pamphlet covering the whole distric . $50 was voted to get in on the Red Trail tourist pamphlet in which all likely towns between Nelson and Lethbridge will be represented in a pamphlet and road map, 20,000 of which are to be published and distri uted in the U.S. and Canada. Creston will also supply the engraving to be used in illustrating the front cover page of the pamphlet containing the report of the Associated Boards of Trade convention held here last May.

Resolutions were adopted to go forward to the proper authorities urging immediate conditioning of the K.K. north and south road, the payment of 5 cents a bushel bounty on all wheat produced in British Columbia, and asking the federal public works department at Ottawa to see to it that the new C.P.R bridge at Kootenay Landing does not interfere with navigation on the Kootenay River.

Goat River canyon development was discussed at considerable length. Reeve McFarland, Councillor F. H. Jackson, Chas. Murrell, C. F. Hayes, S. A. Speers, Dr. McKenzie and Guy Constable being prominent in expressing views in the matter, all of whom were agreed that West Kootenay Power & Light Company were not playing the game and Messrs. Hayes and McKenzie insisting that pressure be brought to bear on Victoria from every possible quarter to have the Water Act enforced in the particular respect of rigidly insisting that no matter who stakes the power that at the expiration of whatever time is given to commence development the permit to deve p be cancelled if work is not started and continuously proceeded with.

The matter was disposed of by the passing of a resolution to be forwarded the minister of lands and Col. Lister, calling their attention "to the unsatisfactory condition existing with respect to the hydro-electric development of the waters of Goat River for the purpose for which they were conditionally licensed to the South Kootenay Power Company." A copy of the resolution will be sent to the village council for endorsation and forwarding Victoria. Copy will also be sent the South Kootenay Company.

High School, Ladies, Men's Clubs Represented—E. Marriott is President—High School A and Chums are Week's Winners

Due to confusion rising out of the use of Park Pavilion the various basketball clubs decided to organize a central body, the Creston Basketball League, to handle their affairs. This league consists of two representatives from each group and is empowered to handle all finances in connection with the Pavilion, to arrange all league games, and to handle all disputes. The present league executive is composed of Miss Irene LaBelle and Mrs. Levirs, representing the women's club; Geo. H. Kelly and E. Marriott, representing the men's club; and Miss O. LaBelle and Mr. Levirs, representing the High School. E. Marriott was chosen chairman, and Mrs. Levirs, secretary-treasurer. It was agreed to pay all expenses for the public school teams out of revenue accruing, thus enabling the younger children to enjoy their sport without expense for light ank fuel.

In last week's game the High School A team continued its winning streak by beating the C's by a score of 18-12. For a short time the C's had things their own way, leading at half-time 6-4, but the third quarter saw the score tied, 10 all, and the last put the game on ice for the A's. The teams:

Collapse Of Wheat Market Not Due To World Surplus

There never has been a world surplus of wheat, according to Dr. W. W. Swanson, professor of economics at the University of Saskatchewan, in an interview at Regina, Sask. He expressed the opinion that the collapse of the international wheat market was from other factors, as the alleged surplus had never existed.

For this reason the economist expressed the view that those who wailed that dollar wheat would never return here were not taking into consideration that the price of wheat had been linked with the prices of other commodities, some of which had dropped to a greater degree than wheat.

As a ray of hope to the grain growers and others involved, he expressed the opinion that wheat prices are due to make a steady recovery, from a standpoint of its strong statistical position.

Dr. Swanson qualified the statement when he said: "The course of these prices, however, will be determined by an infinitely complex combination of factors, not the least of which will be the purchasing power of the pound sterling, the outcome of which no one can definitely forecast."

Coupons For Money

Farmers Solve Difficulty When Banks Refuse To Make Loan

"If the banks won't lend any money make your own money," farmer co-operators at Le Roy, Sask., say.

Last summer they had a cheese factory which had run several years ago but closed down when the price of wheat was high and farmers stopped milking cows. They also knew how to make good cheese.

They wanted to reopen and buy milk to make cheese but cheese is a commodity that is not immediately ready for sale, It must mature for several weeks.

They tried to borrow money from the banks on the security of their cheese, but banks are not interested in agricultural produce at present.

So they printed coupons paying 50 cents per 100 pounds of milk with promise of redemption when the cheese was sold. As the cheese was sold these coupons were redeemed and these farmer-financiers were able to pay themselves an interim dividend of 30 cents and a final payment of 17.9 cents per hundred that the farmers got for their milk. All of the coupons were redeemed within two weeks of the time the last cheese was sold.

NEIGHBORS TALK

"I am employed in a theatre and it is a problem to make ends meet, as I help support my mother and sisters. I like to dress well but haven't very much to spend on clothes. To give the appearance of variety to my slender wardrobe I change the colour of a dress or stockings as soon as the things become faded. I always use Diamond Dyes for the work — using them as dyes for dresses and as tints for stockings. I have always gotten such perfect results that our neighbors talk about the great number of new things I have.

"I learned about Diamond Dyes from our wardrobe mistress. She says she has tried all the dyes on the market but none do such splendid work and are so easy to use as Diamond Dyes. I understand they are the world's most popular dyes — and they deserve to be."

New Type Of Optical Glass

For Use In High Grade Telescopes and Field Glasses

Discovery of a new type of optical glass was claimed by Dr. E. Raymond Riegel of the University of Buffalo. The new glass was described as possessing "great resistance to weather and a high index of refraction." It was the first glass ever produced which contained bismuth, Dr. Riegel said. Development of the glass was completed in the Bailey and Sharp laboratories at Hamburg, N.Y. The glass was expected to be used in high grade telescopes and field glasses, as well as laboratory microscopes.

JESUS COMFORTS HIS DISCIPLES

Golden Text: "Peace I leave with you; My peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be fearful."—John 14.27.

Lesson: John 14 to 17.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 40.1-8.

Explanations and Comments

Christ the Comforter, verse 1.—The disciples were perplexed and troubled; their hearts were failing them as they approached the last crisis in their Master's life. It was faith in the Father that kept Christ serene and peaceful so near His end, and faith in the Father and the Son would uphold the disciples in that terrible hour. "Let not your heart be troubled," He said to them in their last talk together; "believe in God, believe also in Me."

"'Twas the Master Himsself who said it
To the sorrowful little band,
Facing an hour of darkness
That they could not understand."

Here lies the secret of an untroubled heart in the midst of troubled circumstances—faith in a living God and Saviour. Not a nominal faith in the existence of God, but an active, overmastering belief in His goodness and wisdom and in His overruling all things for good will keep the heart from despair in times of storm and stress.

Christ's Words About Heaven, verses 2, 3.—Separation was at hand, but there would be a reunion. "In My Father's house are many mansions, if it were not so, I would have told you [that your hope might not be in vain]; for I go to prepare a place for you." Oour word "mansion" meant originally a place of shelter, and the margin of the Revised Version has the translation "abiding place."

"Of course He would have told them. It was His nature to tell them everything it was necessary for them to know. He would not allow His friends to go on holding delusions when a word from Him would set them free. These men had in them an instinctive belief in the life to come. Like all normal and unspoiled men they believed that death is not the end. They looked forward to a life of larger scope and rapture than any this world can know. Jesus allowed them to nourish their expectations. He saw the direction in which their faces all were set, and He did not tell them they were swayed by an illusion. He let them go on thinking of heaven, hoping for heaven, working for heaven, and now that the end of His earthly life had come, He told them more plainly of the nature of this vast world just beyond the shadows."—Charles E. Jefferson.

"No force divine compels. For him who shares
Christ's way, for him alone
The Christ of Calvary a place prepares,
Iscariot makes his own."
—John Elliot Bowman.

Christ the Way, the Truth, and the Life, verses 4-7.—The disciples had at last grasped the fact that Jesus was to leave them, and their minds were filled with a sense of the magnitude of their loss. When Jesus added, "And whither I go, ye know the way," Thomas characteristically required fuller knowledge, exclaiming, "Lord, we know not whither Thou goest; how know we the way?"

The words of Jesus are rich in affirmations. In this Quarter's lesson we have heard Him say, "I am the bread of life," "I am the light of the world," "I am the door," "I am the good shepherd," "I am the resurrection and the life"; now we hear Him add, "I am the way, the truth, and the life." Moffatt's translation reads, "I am the real and living way." Jesus does not mean that He is first the way, then the truth, and then the life. The words "truth" and "life" explain in what sense He is the Way; He is the way to God because He is the Truth about God (the true Revealer of God) and the Source of the life that cannot die.

"Jesus our Redeemer is still the Way. A thousand things have gone, but that remains. It is through His death, and His rising from the dead, and through our daily fellowship with Him, that we walk Heavenward, and reach Heaven at last.

"Without the Way there is no going; without the Truth there is no knowing; without the Life there is no living; I am the Way which thou shouldest pursue; the Truth which thou shouldest believe; the Life which thou shouldest hope for."—Thomas A. Kempis.

New Synthetic Dye Records Hitherto Invisible Objects

A new synthetic dye which photographs hitherto invisible objects was reported to the Optical Society of America by Dr. C. E. K. Mees, director of research of the Eastman Kodak Company.

This dye, xenocyanine, when used in emulsion on a photographic plate, records very short waves of heat radiation as it were visible light. These newly-photographed radiations are infra-red waves much longer than anything hitherto rendered visible.

The new dye "sees" these waves out beyond 11,000 angstrom units. An angstrom unit is about one-two-hundred-fifty-millionth part of an inch. So this latest step into the invisible picks up waves a little less than a twenty-thousandth of an inch long.

Objects photographed with infra-red have the same appearance as those seen with visible light.

She felt that if only Judith could better comprehend Glyn's nature, she would not only be disposed to judge him less hardly, but, to a certain extent, would find healing for her own bitterness of resentment and hurt pride.

Judith was an unhappy woman, embittered by one of those blows in life which a woman finds hardest to bear. And Jean hated people to be unhappy.

So that it was with considerable satisfaction that she set out across the park towards Willow Ferry, crossing the river by the footbridge which spanned it at a point about a quarter of a mile below the scene of her boating mishap.

Judith welcomed her with unaccustomed warmth, and after lunch completely won her heart by a candour seemingly akin to Jean's own.

"I've been quite hateful to you since you came to Staple," she said frankly. "Just because you were — who you were. I suppose"—turning her head a little aside—"you've heard —you know that old story?"

Then, as Jean murmured an affirmative, she went on quickly:

"Well, it was idiotic of me to feel unfriendly to you because you happened to be Glyn's daughter, and I'm honestly ashamed of myself. I should have loved you at once—you're rather a dear, you know!—if you had been anyone else. So will you let me love you now, please—if it isn't too late?"

It was charmingly done, and Jean received the friendly overture with all the enthusiasm dictated by a generous and spontaneous nature.

"Why, of course," she agreed gladly. "Let's begin over again"—smiling.

Judith smiled back.

"Yes, we'll make a fresh start.'

After that, things progressed swimmingly. The slight "gene" which had attended the earlier stages of the visit vanished, and very soon, prompted by Judith's eager, interested questions, Jean found herself chatting away quite naturally and happily about her life before she came to Staple and confessing how much she was enjoying her first experience of England.

"It's all so soft, and pretty, and old," she said. "I feel as if Staple must always have been here—just where it is, looking across to the Moor, and nodding sometimes, as much as to say, 'I've been here so long that I know some of your secrets'," she added dreamily. "Those great tors watch us all the time, just as they've watched for centuries. They remind me of the Egyptian Sphinx, they are so still, and silent, and — and eternal-looking."

"You've not been on to Dartmoor yet, have you?" asked Judith. "We have a bungalow up there—Three Fir Bungalow, it's called. You must come and spend a few days there with us when the weather gets warmer."

"I should love it," cried Jean, her eyes sparkling. "I'm aching to go to the Moor. I want to see it in all sorts of moods—when it's raining, and when the sun's shinging, and when the wind blows. I'm sure it will be different each time—rather like a woman."

"I think it's loveliest of all by moonlight," said Judith, her eyes soft and shining with recollection. She loved all the beauty of the world as much as Jean herself did. "I remember being on the top of one of the tors at night. All the surrounding valleys were hidden in a mist like a silver sea, and I felt as if I had got right away from the everyday world, into a sort of holy of holies that God must have made for His spirits. One almost forgot that one was just an ordinary, plain-boiled human being tied up in a parcel of flesh and bone."

"Only people aren't really in the least plain-boiled or ordinary," observed Jean quaintly.

"You aren't, I verily believe." Judith regarded her curiously for a moment. "I think I wish you were," she said abruptly.

She was not finding the part assigned to her by her brother any too easy. It complicates matters, when you are deliberately planning a semblance of friendship towards someone, if that someone persists in inspiring you with little genuine impulses of liking and friendliness.

Jean herself was delighted with the result of her visit to Willow Ferry. She was convinced that Judith was a much nicer woman than she had imagined, or than anyone else imagined her to be, and when she took her departure she carried these warmer sentiments with her, characteristically reproaching herself not a little for her first hasty judgment. People improved upon acquaintance enormously, she reflected.

She did not go straight back to Staple, but took her way towards Charnwood on the chance of finding Claire at home, and, Fate, being in a benevolent mood, she discovered her in her garden, precariously mounted upon a ladder and occupied in nailing back a creeper.

Claire greeted her joyfully and proceeded to descend.

"I've been lunching at Willow Ferry," explained Jean, "so I thought I might as well come on here and cadge my tea as well!"

"Of course you might. Adrian has gone into Exeter today, so we shall be alone."

Jean was conscious of an immense relief. The knowledge that Sir Adrian was not anywhere on the premises seemed like the lifting of a blight.

Claire's blue eyes smiled at her understandingly.

"Yes, I know," she nodded, as though Jean had given voice to her thought. "It's just as if someone had opened a window and let the fresh air in, isn't it?"

She collected her tools, and slipping her arm within Jean's led her in the direction of the house.

"We'll have tea at once," she said, "and then I'll walk back with you part way."

"You're bent on getting rid of me quickly, then?"

"Yes"—seriously. "He"—there was little need to specify to whom the pronoun referred—"will be back by the afternoon train, and for some reason or other he is very unfriendly towards you just now."

"What have I done to offend?" queried Jean lightly. Somehow, with Sir Adrian actually away, it didn't seem a matter of much importance whether he was offended or not. Even the house had a different "feel" about it as they entered it.

"It's not anything you've done; it's what you are. I think, sometimes, that when a man is full of evil and cruel thoughts and knows he has given himself up to wickedness, he simply hates to see anyone young and—and good, like you are, Jean, with all your life before you to make a splendid thing of."

"And what about you?" asked Jean, her eyes resting affectionately on the other's delicate flower face with its pathetically curved lips and the look of trouble in the young blue eyes. "He sees you constantly."

"Oh, he's used to me. I'm only his wife, you see. Besides"—wearily—"he knows that he can effectually prevent me from making a splendid thing of my life."

The note of bitterness in her voice wrung Jean's heart.

"I don't know how you bear it!" she exclaimed.

"One can bear anything—a day at a time," answered Claire with an attempt at brightness. "But I never look forward," she added in a lower tone.

The words seemed to Jean to contain an epitome of tragedy. Not yet twenty, and Claire's whole philosophy of life was embodied in those four desolate words: "I never look forward!"

The world seemed built up of sadness and cross-purposes. Claire and Nick, Judith, and Blaise Tormarin—all had their own particular burdens to carry, burdens which had in a measure spoiled the lives of each one of them. It seemed as though no one was allowed to escape those "snuffers of Destiny," of which Blaise had spoken as he and Jean had climbed the mountain-side together. She felt a depressing conviction that her own turn would come and wondered whether it would be sooner or later.

CHILD need REGULATING?

CASTORIA WILL DO IT!

When your child needs regulating, remember this: the organs of babies and children are delicate. Little bowels must be gently urged—never forced. That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments; contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. You can safely give it to young infants for colic pains. Yet it is an equally effective regulator for older children. The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's own remedy. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

Chas. H. Fletcher.

When PAIN Comes

WHAT many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes the acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water neutralizes instantly many times that much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go, get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 50c a bottle—any drug store. (Made in Canada.)

Little Helps For This Week

"Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."—2 Timothy ii. 15.

One by one thy duties wait thee,
Let thy whole heart go to each,
Let no future dream elate thee,
Learn thou first what these can teach.
—Adelaide Anne Procter.

The consciousness of duty performed gives us music at midnight."
—George Herbert.

Do thy duty, and be at peace with God and thine own conscience. There can be no true peace for thee apart from the honest and daily discharge of those obligations, great and small, which come into thy life from the Creator, and which, rightly viewed, are angels of divine discipline. Thou hast too much to say about thy rights, and thinkest too little about thy duties. Thou hast but one inalienable right; and that is the sublime one of doing thy duty at all times, under all circumstances, and in all places.—Frederic R. Marcin.

CANADIAN WOMEN FIND DUSTING DISTASTEFUL

Dust cloths going into discard; Unpleasant to use; a bother to Wash.

APPLEFORD WONDER PAPER HAS GREAT VOGUE

Of all household tasks, that of dusting is the least appealing to the majority of women.

However, this condition, like many another connected with housework, is undergoing radical change. In a great many Canadian homes the women are discarding dust cloths entirely, and are using Appleford Wonder Paper instead, because it actually dusts—as it cleans—as it polishes, doing a better and much quicker job than the old dust cloth ever did.

This new, and extremely modern Wonder Paper, is made from clean rags, and soft paper pulp, treated in a scientific way with a high-grade furniture polish; and absorbs dirt instead of spreading it.

Appleford Wonder Paper comes in handy-size packages, twenty-five large sheets for twenty-five cents. You crumple a sheet into a soft wad and go over the surfaces requiring attention. Then when one side is soiled or worn, turn the Wonder Paper inside out. After you have given a quick and lasting finish to furniture and woodwork, you can still use Wonder Paper on the floors, if you wish.

And when you are through, there's no old duster to shake out or wash. Throw the soiled Wonder Paper away and you've completed the most tiresome part of housework in half the time and with half the effort.

Wonder Paper is made by the makers of the famous PARA-SANI Heavy Waxed Paper in the Green Box.

If you want to persuade a man to do something the best way is to talk to him face to face. But if that is not possible the best alternative is to use the long-distance telephone.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, MAR. 11

HOME BREW

Two overcoats were stolen from St. Saviour's church on Winnipeg street on Sunday evening. The coats were hanging in the cloak room and were pilfered during the sermon.—Penticton Herald.

The taker of those top coats was no amateur. From early training, or observation, he knew when the congregation would be fast asleep and conducted operations accordingly.

Quite a number of Creston friends will hear with pleasure of the continued prosperity of our former townsman, Clem Battye, who was in charge ot the Exchange packing shed at Erickson three or four years ago, even if a a little adversity flavors the incident that reveals his affluence. Says the Penticton Herald; "Mr Clem Battye reports the theft of a badminton outfit, a half-dozen dress shirts, cigarettes and other articles from his car, which was parked outside the school auditorium during Sunday night's concert." It is hoped nothing of a breakable sort was amongst those "other articles."

From time immemorial, or thereabouts, it has been customary to publish the names of those paying a last tribute of respect with wreaths, sprays, etc., but the Nakusp News is breaking new ground by informing as to gifts and their givers at weddings in that town. In looking over a quite long list of these remembrances at one of these happy events early this month, it would appear that the give-something-practical idea prevails as we noted the acknowledgments of a cook book and rolling pin amongst an array that ran quite heavy to cups and saucers, cake plates and bon bon dishes.

The Cranbrook Tribune is of the opinion that "Three good businessmen could conduct the business affairs of Canada for one quarter of what it is now costing." And diverting the argument to provincial affairs most everyone will agree that one average business man could conduct British Columbia's business much more efficiently and at less than 25 per cent. of the present overhead. In fact many people are quite convinced that it would be hard to find a less-than-average-ability business man who could do worse than the Tolmie aggregation of misfits and incompetents.

When one ventures the assumption that if Grand Forks can raise $45,000 for power development Creston should be equally affluent, one is at once told that Grand Forks is a real town as compared with Creston and can the more readily finance such an undertaking. Without debating this feature, the Review submits the 1931 production figures at Grand Forks as published in the Gazette. Last year that district had an output of 45,136 boxes of apples, 1150 tons of potatoes, and 250 tons of onions. If Grand Forks is getting by with that total of production back of it there is surely no good reason for the fear and trembling in evidence when Creston is rated as being capable of duplicating Grand Forks' effort. In connection with a power plant it would be well to remember that it is a proposition that pays its way right from the start and that no increase of taxes is necessary.

Even a cursory perusal of current issues of the weekly press convinces that spring has turned the corner and is headed this way. At Greenwood they already have the bluebirds and at least one meadowlark. At Grand Forks they pin their faith on spring's return with a healthy exhibit of skipping ropes and marbles at the public school. At Cranbrook Teddy Copper makes solemn affidavit that he saw a robin several days ago. Kimberley, which had a spell of robust below zero temperatures during December and January, has full bloom pansies to strengthen and confirm its faith that winter is not likely to linger in the lap of spring. But the strongest corroborative evidence to support the claim of winter being past hails from Nakusp where, according to the News, the winter sojourners at the local hardware store have quit their favorite nail kegs to revel in the sunshine on the post-office steps.

At the presentation of srophies at the curlers' bridge on Friday night Col. Mallandaine waxed enthusiastic in connection with the advertising Creston had received due to rinks invading Cranbrook and other towns for bonspiels and other games. Far be it from the Review to protest against any form of legitimate publicity, but there is another side to this story. At the time the rinks were away making a name for the club at the Selkirk bonspiel, Creston had a call from a Mr. Bremner of Calgary, interested in building a new hotel, and when some of the businessmen he interviewed assured him that this would be a good spot for a hotel as it would attract people from the prairies who wanted to get into a milder climate for winter, Mr. Bremner naively enquired if Creston curlers played on artificial ice, or the product of sub-zero temperatures. Shall we forget our oldtime banana belt boast, or soft pedal on the roarin' game?

My Wish for 1932

"May peaceful days be ours." (as expressed by Helen T. Carrington).

"Lord of our lands, and air and sea,
The mountains and the prairies, too:
May we this year pray to thee
To walk with us the whole year through.

"Let peace remain throughout the land
And bounteous may the harvest be.
Fill with employment every hand,
And so make all thy people free.

"And for ourselves, Lord, we would ask
Many cheery ways and thoughts sublime,
And finding good in every task
Be ours as onward speeds the time."

And let us remember to treat our neighbors as we, ourselves, wish to be treated, without deceit, detraction, backbiting or slander.
And let us remember that neither wealth, knowledge, pleasure, equity, beauty, or love can ever compare with the kindness of a real friend.
God make me worthy of my friends!

Erickson

Murdoch McLeod of Trail is a visitor here this week, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Klingensmith.

Spring must surely be headed this way. A number of robins have been seen here the past week.

There is a good demand for tickets for the bridge at the Parish Pall, Creston, this evening, under the auspices of the newly organized Erickson Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary.

Pruning is general in the Erickson district and prospects are for an excellent fruit crop this year.

Government surveyors have been at work at the corner opposite the Crisler garage, and it is expected the rather sharp turn there will be widened.

The many friends of L. T. Leveque will be glad to hear that he is recovering from a severe attack of rheumatism, which has kept him in bed for some weeks.

Mr. Mensinger is putting the finishing touches on the garage he is erecting next his (Blaine) store, and will be ready for business very soon.

C. W. Allan got back on Sunday from a two weeks' business visit at coast points. Mrs. Allan was a Nelson visitor to meet him.

Mr. Bush and Newton Fraser of Calgary, who are with Scott Fruit Company, Limited, spent the weekend in the valley, guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. VanAcKeran. Mr. Fraser was the firm's bookkeeper here last season.

Mrs. Geo. Strong of Calgary, Alberta, is combining business with pleasure on a visit to the district this week, and is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Strong.

In addition to a leading lady of unusual ability the Canyon dramatic club announce the discovery of two very fine low comedians, and everyone can look forward with confidence to a splendid evening's variety entertainment at the club concert later in March.

The Farmers' Institute had the last of their social evenings at the hall on Saturday night, which was attended by about 75 local residents. There was community singing, dancing, etc., with the most interesting feature supplied by Princip l Stephens who related some of the incidents of the campaign in East Africa in 1914.

Canyon Dramatic Club guarantee a real dramatic treat on Wednesday evening, March 23rd, when they present the rural comedy drama, "Deacon Dubbs," in the Canyon community hall at the very popular admission price of 35 cents. J. E. VanAckeran is in charge of the company and something even better than their "Poor Married Man," which made such a hit at the Grand three years ago.

October 5th Fall Fair Date

At a meeting of Creston Valley Agricultural Association on Monday evening it was unanimously resolved to hold the annual fall fair on October 5th.

After a lengthy discussion it was the general opinion that depite the depressed times the community spirit of Creston Valley was such that the fair would be supported better than ever.

Correspondence from outside points indicates that Creston fair is on the map and if Valley residents will give the exhibition hearty support it will be a success

Several new features are under consideration and people will be advised of these through these columns.

The Teachers' Association is working in accord with the directors and plans are being prepared for a school fair in connection with the exhibition, fuller particulars of which next issue.

Make a New Start

The winter of 1931-32 is passing,—it is almost gone. Admittedly, it has been a winter of trial, of hardship, of great difficulty, even of actual suffering for many. It has been a period to try men's souls, to test their faith and their courage. And tens of thousands have stood the test. The experience may have left some marks and scars, it has undoubtedly taught some bitter lessons, and these, in the long run, may not be without their value. At all events, it is to be hoped so. But the present, and pleasant, fact is that this winter of our discontent, disappointment and trial is almost over. For so much we can offer thanks.

With the ending of this winter, there is also a growing belief, becoming more and more general, that the worst of the so-called business depression likewise comes to an end; that from this time onward there will be a steady improvement, albeit slow and gradual. It is not to be expected,—nor indeed would it be desirable,—that there will be anything spectacular in this betterment, as there was at the beginning of the depression in the great stock market crash. The upward movement should be of a permanent character, and to be permanent it must be slow and gradual, with nothing of the mushroom variety about it.

However, during this winter people have been thinking as they perhaps never thought before, thinking seriously, thinking constructively. So many of the false props erected in the days when everything was booming collapsed, so many false gods were overthrown, so many unsound theories were exploded, so many bubbles burst, that people generally, including statesmen and politicians, great financiers and business executives, as well as the humble laborer and wage earner, have been forced back to acceptance of and reliance upon the tried and true in economics and the basic foundations of life. This, in itself, is a great gain and full of promise for the years that lie ahead.

One writer in a magazine devoted to business raises the interesting question as to the extent to which the ill-considered choice of a word has played a major part in producing the psychological atmosphere of our far from satisfactory business conditions. He says that if the person or persons who first gave currency to the phrase "business depression" had made the happier and more accurate choice of "business recession," it is conceivable that the general attitude toward our recent past, our still troubling present, and our probable future for some time, might have been distinctly different. While the two phrases might have the same literal meaning, each indicating that business had gone more or less away from a previous point of comfort and satisfaction, might we not have viewed the movement somewhat more cheerfully, more hopefully, had we thought of it as having merely "moved" than as having actually "dropped?" It is clear that "recession" is a much less fearsome word than "depression." Casually we picture things as coming back much more easily than as coming up, although the same forces may affect and govern either movement. From now on it would do no harm, and might do some good, in the effect upon ourselves, to think and measure business as having merely receded for the time being rather than as being in a hopelessly depressed state.

Apart from this, however, with the coming of Spring in each and every year all nature rejoices and takes on new life. The grass, the trees respond; all animal life feels invigorated; human beings are inspired with new hopes and animated with renewed energy. The dark days and long nights of winter give place to the longer days of bright sunshine and shorter hours of night. Everybody feels a desire to busy themselves about something useful and productive. Nature itself on every hand is aroused from its long sleep, anxious once again to produce and be fruitful.

We are now entering upon that time of activity and productiveness. It is ours to make the most of it, not in any foolish spirit of undue optimism, not expecting to work wonders, but with a cheerful hope and expectation that, with the winter of our previous discontent and hardship past, we are again placing our feet on the highroad to better times and in the direction of finer and more permanent and beneficial accomplishment.

It is now up to us as individuals to throw off the depression which has upset and unnerved us, which actually made cowards of some of us, and, realizing that it was rather a recession of former good times which took place, set ourselves energetically and hopefully to the task, not only of checking that recession, but of bringing ourselves, our businesses, our country, back to the more satisfactory plane upon which it has been our happy lot in former years to move and live.

Has Faith In Canada

Governor-General Has Conviction That Dominion Rests On Sound Foundation

Profound conviction that Canada rests on the soundest foundation any country can have, "a people whose character, whose heart, and whose outlook are fundamentally sound," was expressed by the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General, at a luncheon given in his honor by the Canadian Club at Halifax.

"With the first anniversay of my arrival only a few weeks distant, I am naturally tempted to look back on the events of the past 12 months," said his excellency in his address.

"I have met a good many thousand people, and they besides impressing on me individually that their own city is really the centre of gravity of the whole Dominion, have collectively impressed on me a profound conviction that the Dominion rests on the soundest foundation any country can have, namely, a people whose character, whose heart, and whose outlook are fundamentallly sound."

Talented Scotswoman Awarded Medal in Recognition of Research Work.

One of the four medals awarded for the current year to geologists of distinction by the Council of the Geological Society of London goes to a Scotswoman—Dr. Maria M. Ogilvie Gordon. This talented lady, who is a daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Alexander Ogilvie, Aberdeen, receives the high honor of a Lyel Gold Medal, together with £30 from the Lyell Geological Fund, in recognition of her researches on the structure of the Western Dolomites (Tyrol). Dr. Ogilvie Gordon studied at Munich University, and was awarded the Ph.D. degree with highest honors in 1900, when the degree was for the first time conferred by that University on women, says the Glasgow Herald.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Sourness, Gas and Pain. How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

The ministry of agriculture has recommended that Argentina farmers send exhibits of wheat and other products to the World's Grain Exhibition to be held in Regina, Saskatchewan, in 1933.

This decision was made at a conference of government agricultural officials seeking to increase the efficiency of Argentine farming methods and to open new export markets for the Argentine farmer.

FINANCES OF GREAT BRITAIN ARE IMPROVED

London, Eng.—Britain's improved financial condition was reflected in the announcement of Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, that British citizens again may buy foreign exchange.

Restrictions against the purchase of foreign exchange were imposed to protect the pound when Britain suspended the gold standard last year.

Asked whether restrictions against foreign loans would be lifted, the Chancellor indicated it would be "unwise for us to lend promiscuously overseas."

A cheer arose in Commons when Mr. Chamberlain confirmed that $150,000,000 of $200,000,000 borrowed in the United States last summer to bolster the pound, would be repaid.

The Chancellor added that a credit from French bankers of £20,000,000 ($69,600,000) for the same purpose had been reduced to £7,000,000 ($24,360,000).

Mr. Chamberlain recalled that an additional £20,000,000 of French advances last August were represented by treasury bonds to that amount in the hands of the French holders.

"We have no power to require them to accept payment before August," he said, adding that the original £80,000,000 ($270,400,000) obtained from loans remains intact and is available for making repayments.

The Chancellor said he desired to remove apprehension that repayment of the credits abroad involved a loss to British taxpayers.

"The necessity of acquiring foreign currencies with sterling at its present level involves an apparent loss which will be borne by the exchequer on capital account," he asserted. "This loss is at present offset by the enhanced value of our stocks of gold. Accordingly no burden is being placed on the current revenue of the budget."

The $150,000,000 repayment to the United States was final, the Chancellor said.

"The lenders have consented to return a proportionate part of the one per cent. commission as from date of maturity of existing bills," he said.

Less Pay For Operators

Commercial Telegraphers Asked To Take Ten Per Cent. Cut

Montreal, Que.—The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways Companies have notified the Commercial Telegraphers' Union that for one year commencing April 1, a straight salary reduction of 10 per cent. will be introduced in the pay of commercial telegraphers. The companies' decision has been communicated to the various locals. Seventeen hundred employees of the Canadian National and 1,500 C.P.R. employees are affected.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Wednesday, March 2, announced that effective March 1, the reduction in working time of three days per month without pay among general office staff has been changed to two days per month. This brings this class of employee approximately the same rate of wage reduction as has been applied to the running trades and clerks.

Asks For Definition

Ottawa, Ont.—What is a billion? This is the question which the senate of Canada is asked to answer. Senator Parent informed the senate that an English dictionary defined a billion as a million million, but added that this definition did not apply to the United States where a billion was a thousand million. Senator Parent wished to know which rule applied in Canada. The answer will probably be forthcoming in due course.

Oldest Albertan Dead

Lethbridge, Alberta.—Believed to be the oldest man in Alberta, Ahans Jenesen, of Aetna, a community near Cardston, is dead. He was 104 years old. He was born in Norway, emigrated to United States in 1887, and came to Alberta in 1897. Descendants of the fifth generation survive him.

Doukhobors For South America

Plan For Large Scale Settlement From Europe

Winnipeg, Man.—Plans for large scale settlement of Doukhobors from Europe in various countries of South America are under discussion at a conference of Doukhobor leaders and their agents here. Peter Veregin, patriarchial head of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, the official name for the Doukhobor sect, disclosed the nature of the conference to the Canadian Press.

He confirmed reports that negotiations are under way to acquire 1,000,000 acres of land in Colombia on which to settle 50,000 Doukhobors. This project, however, had nothing to do with the Doukhobor community in Canada, he declared. There was no thought of moving any Canadian Doukhobors to South America.

Far from any intention to move out of Canada, Mr. Veregin said his organization was purchasing more land here, building grain elevators for the use of their people and developing water powers to serve their settlements.

J. M. Hackney, St. Paul, Minn., president of the International Colonization Corporation which is negotiating the land deal in Colombia, is taking part in the conference. Another delegate is a man named Foster from Berlin, Germany. Mr. Veregin declined to name others but said representatives from London, England, and from Czecho-Slovakia were in attendance. The meetings will continue for several days. No details of the negotiations could be revealed until a later stage, the leader stated.

Alberta Premier Is Willing To Co-Operate

Would Discuss Plan To Cut Cost Of Maintaining Government Houses

Edmonton, Alberta.—Readiness to discuss with representatives of other provinces the desirability of some plan which would save the governments the cost of maintaining government houses, was expressed in the legislature by Premier Brownlee.

Some plan might be worked out along constitutional lines in a national way which would lead to a different system in connection with the office of the king's representative in the provinces, the Premier indicated.

He referred to the situation in Ontario, however, where the chief justice of the supreme court is acting as administrator of the province, no lieutenant-governor having been appointed to the vacancy in that office.

The legislature was at the time discussing estimates and had the items for expenses of the lieutenant-governor's office under consideration.

Decide On Valuation Of Empire Goods

Provisions In Preference Regulations Under New Import Duties Act

London, England.—The Board of Trade has revealed its preference regulations under the new Import Duties Act provided goods shall not be deemed to have been manufactured in the British Empire unless at least 25 per cent. of their value is derived from Empire materials or work done within the Empire.

Where a number of separate articles are included in one parcel or shipment, each article will be treated separately.

The value of manufactures will be based on their cost to the manufacturer at his factory or works, including the value of containers, but not including manufacturers' or exporters' profit.

Special Coal Rate Extended

Calgary, Alberta.—Coal men of Alberta were cheered by the news from Ottawa that the special $6.75 per ton freight rate to Ontario had been extended another year. The rate was scheduled to expire July 13, 1931, but its removal was delayed pending the outcome of decisions between Dominion Government officials.

Rescued From Snowslide

Sectionman Buried In Drift For Twenty-Six Hours

New Westminster, B.C.—Buried in an immense snow drift for twenty-six hours, John Peebles, 19, Kettle Valley railway sectionman, was rescued alive and is now recovering in hospital here. He is suffering from frozen hands and feet and from exposure.

Peebles was inspecting the track when the snowslide caught him and buried him under about eighteen feet of snow. All afternoon and night he battled vainly to fight his way out of his icy prison. Occasional air pockets helped to keep him alive.

When Peebles failed to return fellow workers suspected his fate and finally succeeded in digging him out, alive but unconscious.

Higher License On Radio Receiving Sets

Annual Fee Has Been Increased To Two Dollars

Ottawa, Ont.—The annual license fee on radio receiving sets will be increased as from April 1 next, to $2 per year, it was announced by Alfred Duranleau, Minister of Marine. This fee has been $1 per year in the past and the increase is expected to bring the annual revenue to nearly $1,500,000.

The minister also stated that an increase in the license fees for commercial broadcasting stations on a graded basis, was under consideration.

Anxious To Settle Reparations Problem

France Thinks It Has Become Political Question

Paris, France.—A growing desire to settle the reparations problem on the basis that it has ceased to be a financial question and has become primarily a political one, was reported in diplomatic circles.

Premier André Tardieu, who returned from the world disarmament conference at Geneva, had a conference with Leopold Von Hoesch, the German ambassador, and Andre François-Poncet, French ambassador, to Berlin.

No Foundation For Rail Merger Rumor

Royal Commission Report Will Not Be Given For Some Weeks

Ottawa, Ont.—Rumors to the effect that the Royal Commission on railways will recommend the amalgamation of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National with corporation management are not justified in the progress made by the commission studying the railway problem. There will be no report from the commission for some weeks, and unanimity in recommendation is highly improbable.

Lord Ashfield, one of the commissioners is in London, England, and the date of his return to Canada is indefinite. It is doubtful if parliament prorogues by May 15th, if the Royal Commission's recommendation or recommendations will be forwarded to the government in time for action this session. It is also quite apparent there are irreconcilable differences of opinion in the commission which will not make for speedy action.

Aid For Farmers

Bill To Provide Seed Grain Introduced In Manitoba Legislature

Winnipeg, Man.—Manitoba farmers in need of feed for their livestock and of seed grain, will be aided under a measure introduced in the provincial legislature by Hon. Albert Prefontaine, Minister of Agriculture. It is intended ta assist parts of the province stricken with total crop failure and will be speeded through all stages to become law at an early date.

The province will guarantee loans by banks to municipalities for the purchase of seed grain and fodder. Any possible loss on the loans will be shared on a three-way basis by the Provincial, Dominion and Municipal Governments. The bill, however, contemplates repayment of advances by farmers receiving relief.

So far, it was stated, the Dominion Government has not agreed to give the aid asked but it has offered to lend the province funds necessary for seed grain and fodder relief.

Dominion Note Advance Totals Twenty Million

Figures Given In House By Minister Of Finance

Ottawa, Ont.—The present total amount of Dominion notes advanced under the authority of the Finance Act to the banks in Canada by the Minister of Finance was $20,000,000, Hon. E. N. Rhodes stated in the House of Commons. The rate of interest being charged the borrowing banks was three per cent. and the lowest rate of interest charged the banks for such advances during 1931 was also three per cent., the Minister of Finance declared.

Joins Tariff Plan

Douglas, Isle of Man.—The Isle of Man joined Great Britain as a protectionist country when the Manx Tynwald court imposed a ten per cent. tariff on all goods except those on the free list of the United Kingdom's tariff act and with the addition of sugar, table waters and dried fruits.

CLASH OVER AIR FORCE DISMISSALS

Hon. J. L. Ralston (left) former Minister of National Defence in the King Administration, and Hon. D. M. Sutherland (right) Minister of National Defence, who clashed in the House of Commons debate on civil service salary reduction, when the matter of the dismissal of 166 officers and men of the Royal Canadian Air Force was discussed. Col. Ralston described the dismissal of the men as a breach of contract. Col. Sutherland defended the Government's action.

UNEMPLOYMENT NATIONAL CRISIS MAINTAINS KING

Ottawa, Ont.—The Bennett Government allowed its unemployment relief legislation to become "as dead as Julius Caesar" and "as extinct as the dodo" without offering an alternative scheme, Right Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, charged in the House of Commons.

Despite the Liberal Leader's many-sided attack on the Government's unemployment relief record, it gathered few supporters from the third party group. William Irvine, U.F.A. Wetaskiwin, announced the gingerites would refrain from voting on the want-of-confidence motion of Peter Heenan, former Minister of Labor. Although not agreeing with the government's policies, the group, he said, viewed the motion as pure party politics. A. W. Neill, Comox-Alberni, and Henri Bourassa, Labelle, the two independents, also said they would not support the Heenan motion.

Unemployment, said Mr. King, had become a national crisis. The government's remedial policy had failed, yet it offered no alternative. The only move it had taken was to propose a resolution to prolong for two months the life of the "blank check" legislation. But even this had failed because the act automatically expired at midnight.

"I believe this problem of unemployment," proceeded Mr. King, "is going to be with us, not only for several months yet, but I fear for possibly another year or two at least."

Establishment of a national commission to advise the government, was advocated by the Liberal Leader. It would represent labor, farmers, economists, municipalities, provinces, red cross and other organizations with special knowledge of conditions.

Parliament took official notice of the "bad cheque artist" when it considered a government bill to tighten the law aimed at this practice. Introduced by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, it stood for third reading after being passed by the House in Committee. Under it, a man who passed a cheque, knowing it would not be honored by a bank, would be prosecuted for securing goods under false pretences. The onus of proving himself innocent would be on the accused.

Use Panama Route

C.N.R. Steamships May Inaugurate Fortnightly Freight Service Between Montreal and Vancouver

Montreal, Que.—The Canadian National Steamships announced the possibility of a fortnightly freight service between Montreal and Vancouver via the Panama Canal this summer, and stated as a certainty that the "Canadian Britisher," the "Canadian Ranger," and the "Canadian Winner," would, as last summer, operate a monthly service over this route.

This intercoastal service, maintained between Vancouver and St. John, N.B., and Halifax in the winter season, "has opened Pacific coast markets which formerly were beyond the reach of eastern Canada manufacturers economically," the announcement says. Lumber from British Columbia and general merchandise from eastern Canada are the commodities carried.
