Winter Apples Moving Rapidly

Packing Sheds Work Overtime to Make Prompt Shipment—Winter Varieties in Demand—Movement Mostly Household

With the trade advised at the weekend on prices for all varieties of winter apples full crews at both the Exchange and Long, Allan & Long packing sheds have got in considerable overtime in the endeavor to roll cars within 48 hours of orders being received—and if the unlikely should happen, and the demand hold steady for the next two weeks, both firms are confident every apple in the valley will be shipped by the middle of November.

With Long, Allan & Long the Jonathan season is closed. All of that variety has been shipped by them, but the Exchange will be rolling this variety until the end of the week. 90 per cent. of the Jonathans will go export this year, with the crop about up to estimates.

With the winter varieties some portion is going out to Fancy grade, but only as ordered. Delicious in the export sizes 163 to 215 in limited supply is being held for the overseas trade, but to date fully 75 per cent. of the winter varieties, and this includes Delicious, Spies, Wageners, Winter Bananas and Romes, are rolling household.

Anjou, Winter Nellis and Cleargeau pears figure in the outgo this week but the tonnage in these is not heavy. For the most part selling is light beyond Moosejaw, Sask., with an occassional car into Winnipeg. In order to compete with Ontario the stabilization board has given its ok to bulk shipping to all points in Manitoba, and this is proving popular with the jobbers who are drawing supplies from the Okanagan, Creston houses nos being interested, as yet, in the bulk deal.

Certainly no one on the prairies can complain of the high price of boxed fruit on the list released by the stabilization board on Friday, and which is in line with the Okanagan list. At 75 cents f.o.b Creston the wholesaler can choose from Wagener, Spies, Winter Banana, Baldwins, Ontarios, Kings, Grimes Golden and Snows. Jonathan, and Delicious are 80 cents. Romes, Spitz and Golden Delicious are 85 cents. This is for the household pack, and growers are advised to add 15 cents to these prices when selling to truck or to retailers.

In wraps the Delicious prices are: Extra Fancy, 96 to 138, $1.30; and in the 88's and larger the price is $1.10 In Fancy, 96 to 138 the price is $1.15, and in the 88's and larger, $1. Delicious Cee's are 85 cents.

N. & S. Highway Before Board

Some Members Would Execute Right About Face on Old K.V. Route—Decision in November—Otherwise Quiet Session

An even dozen members were out fo the October meeting of Creston board of trade, which was in charge of the vice president due to the absence of President W. L. Bell, who was at a meeting of the stabilization bsard. of which he is chairman, that evening.

The outstanding piece of business was the submission of a motion moved by Guy Constable and seconded by F. H. Jackson, that the board rescind its previous resolution asking that the North and South highway be built along the old K.V., and now petition the government to put the highway via Canyon, Camp Lister and across the Lister-Rath turnpike to the U S. boundary about two miles east of Porthill. This right about-face in board policy was none too cordially received and it was finally agreed to leave the matter over till the November meeting, and in the meantime a copy of the resolution has been mailed the membership.

In connection with the committee appointed a month ago to devise ways and means of easing the hospital financing problem, the chairman of the committee reported progress and promised a definite report for next month. There was a letter from the Hospital Women's Auxiliary notifying that Mrs. C. H. Hare had been named as the Auxiliary member on the committee.

For Armistice Day the board will buy its wreath from the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, who had a letter soliciting the business. A motion also prevailed that the copy of the constitution of the board be placed in the village vault. Supt. Farris of Creston Electric Company thanked the board for its letter of appreciation of the company's effort to beautify he vacant lots next the power house.

Crows Nest Pass Coal Company, Fernie, wrote notifying that it had acted on the board's letter asking that the company appoint an agent at Creston, and had secured H. S. McCreath as selling agent, and advised that fuel users would find its calcium washed lump coal very fine fuel.

Hoop League Elects Officers

Harry Miller is President—130 Played Game Last Season—50 Juniors—Total of 72 Games Played—Teams Pay $9 Entry

Representatives from the ten teams entered in Creston Basketball League were in executive session on Thursday night making arrangements for the 1933-34 season and selecting officials to handle all features of the league activities. Harry Miller was chosen chairman with Mrs. Levirs taking the minutes.

Applications were approved from four men's teams as follows: Cardinals, Centipedes, High School and Imperial Groceteria, as well as half a dozen ladies quintettes: High School Reps., Highfliers, Creston Motors, Creston Review, Follies and Pharmacy.

The report of the secretary and treasurer showed that 1932-33 had been a very active season both as to local league games as well as matches with out-of-town aggregations. Last season Creston talent had played men's and ladies' teams from Cranbrook and Bonners Ferry, a ladies' team from Troy, Montana, as well as the East Kootenay champions, Natal Pirates. Return games had been played at Troy and Cranbrook. Another notable encounter was the burlesque contest staged for Creston hospital benefit, which had netted that institution $50.

The financial statement showed the league had closed the season with a balance of 28 cents. Some statistical information showed that a total of 72 games had been played, 48 of which were in the regular schedule and nine in the playoffs. There were nine senior and five junior teams in action a year ago, accounting for a total yf 130 players, 50 of which were junior boys and girls.

Fire Prevention In Saskatchewan

Hon. James F. Bryant Gives Some Information About Fire Prevention In Saskatchewan

As minister in charge of the Fire Prevention Act and the Prairie and Forest Fires Act of the Province of Saskatchewan, I take the opportunity afforded by the Fire Prevention Week to bring to the attention of the people of Saskatchewan the necessity of greater caution and care on the part of the majority of the people of Saskatchewan in order to prevent loss of life and property by fire.

Reliable statistics show that over a periad of ten years, 407,000 fires in Canada have destroyed property valued at over $402,890,192 or an average of over $40,000,000 per year, and that during the same period 3,514 lives were lost in burning buildings or over 351 lives per year, and in addition 9,067 persons were seriously injured by fire. These figures do not take into consideration our losses in property and lives caused by forest fires.

In the year 1932, there were reported in Canada, 47,853 fires with a property loss of $42,193,815.00. That, however, was not the total cost of fire. To it must be added the incidental cost of insurance protection, and the cost of maintaining municipal fire departments and water supplies for fire extinguishing. Including these items, Canada last year incurred an unproductive expenditure of over $100,000,000 through fire, or roughly $200 for every minute of the year. Capitalized at five per cent, this represents the gigantic sum of over $2,000,000,000 which is only a little less than our National Debt. If devoted to programmes of constructive effort instead of being wastefully dissipated, such a sum would go far towards the amelioration of many of the social and economic ills from which we are suffering at the present time.

Reliable statistics show that over 80 per cent. of the fires which occur originate either directly or indirectly through inexcusable ignorance and neglect, and are therefore preventable and that the exercise of reasonable prudence and care would reduce the losses by fire in Canada to the comparatively insignificant losses in other countries.

While we spend millions yearly to equip and maintain fire fighting departments for the purpose of putting out fires after they start, and our fire departments in personnel and apparatus are admittedly superior to those of Europe, only a few thousands are spent to prevent fires from starting. It would seem as if we were attacking the problem from the wrong end to a great extent. The best time to deal with a fire danger is before a fire starts, that is, by the adoption of such preventive measures as will make it almost impossible for a fire of any consequence to develop. That is how the problem has been largely solved in Europe and as a result very low insurance rates prevail in European countries.

It must be borne in mind, that fire insurance rates for a country or community are based on fire losses previously incurred in that country or community. The fire losses govern the amount the insurance company must collect from the public in fire insurance premiums, and the higher the losses from fire, the higher the insurance premiums paid by the public.

It is gratifying to note the success which has attended the Fire Prevention Campaign of the Government in the last four years. In 1929 Saskatchewan lost by fires, exclusive of forest and prairie fires, the sum of $4,859,670. In 1932, the Saskatchewan fire loss amounted to $1,673,741 or about 34 per cent. of the fire losses in 1929. In 1929 there were only three provinces in Canada where the fire losses were greater per capita than in Saskatchewan. In 1929 Saskatchewan fire losses amounted to $5.60 for every man, woman and child in the Province. By 1932, the Saskatchewan fire losses were reduced to $1.82 per capita, as compared with $5.60 per capita in 1929, and Saskatchewan occupies the proud position of having the lowest per capita fire loss of any province in Canada. We believe that our Fire Prevention Schools, our Fire Prevention Campaign through the schools and homes of the province, in which preventive work Saskatchewan led all the provinces of Canada, has contributed very materially to this marked reduction.

The results of our Fire Prevention Campaign and the tightening up of our fire inspection work has brought a great deal of gratification and satisfaction to those engaged in fire prevention and to the Fire Insurance Underwriters. I desire, as minister in charge of the Fire Prevention Act, to thank all who have taken part in this campaign which has produced such splendid results. I thank the Fire Commissioner and the officials of my department engaged in this work, the Fire Chiefs, the School Trustees, the teachers and the pupils of the schools and also the parents who so heartily co-operated with the children in their study of fire hazards and how to prevent them.

In addition to the fire losses already referred to we have suffered loss through forest fires and here again there has been a marked improvement in Saskatchewan during the last four years. In the year 1930 the control of forest fires was under the Dominion Government. Provincial control started in 1931. The number of fires in the forests during the last four years are as follows:—1930, 335; 1931, 191; 1932, 121; 1933, 54 to date.

The total forest area burned over is as follows:—1930, 390,423 acres; 1931, 181,907 acres; 1932, 81,363 acres; 1933, 26,000 acres, as compared with 390,000 acres in 1930. The total loss in the forests was as follows:—1930,; $485,068.00; 1931, $117,189.00 1932, $75,810.00; 1933, the amount of loss is not complete to date but is very much less than in 1932.

The cost of forest fire suppression is as follows:—1930, $62,464.00; 1931, $16,445.00; 1932, $5,902.00; 1933, estimated cost $1,600, as compared with $62,464.00 in 1930 under Federal Government control.

We attribute this reduction in the fire loss partly to the wet weather but to a great extent to the tightening up of the fire regulations and the amendments which we have made, providing for strictest control of fire in the north country.

A great many of our fires during the early part of the season are due to settlers starting fires for the purpose of clearing up their land. With the burning permit system in force, the field officials of the Government have been able to control to a considerable extent the losses occassioned from this cause. Settlers are requested to make every effort to see that in burning their slashings the fires do not escape to adjoining lands, and the assistance of the field officers of the Department of Natural Resources may be called upon when required for instruction as to the proper handling of fires.

The radio system operated by the Government in Northern Saskatchewan in connection with its forest protection force has proven most satisfactory in providing communication between remote settlements and lookout towers. The greater part of northern Saskatchewan and the forest area is under direct observation from lookout towers and the occurrence of fires is noted very quickly, same being reported by radio to the local officer of the Department, who may be assisted by additional fire fighters who are transported by 'plane with equipment and supplies when required.

The great hazard in the matter of forest fires is the settlers who have taken up land adjacent to and in many cases right alongside forest reserves and licensed timber berths. In an effort to clear the land for cultivation they too often carelessly resort to burning of the young growth, and the dead and down timbers in the season of the year when the timber is dry. To guard against this the forest fire regulations have been revised and amended so as to require a settler to obtain a permit from the Forest Ranger or Fire Guardians. This regulation will be vigorously enforced and all settlers and others within sound of my voice are urged to comply with the regulations and warned that failure to do so will be followed by prosecution. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been appointed fire guardians in addition to the regular fire rangers.

As minister in charge of fire prevention, I urge upon the citizens of Saskatchewan that at such time as may be found most practicable:

1. All dwellings and their surroundings be carefully inspected by their occupants and all conditions likely to cause or promote the spread of fires removed.

2. All public buildings, stores, warehouses and factories be inspected and cleaned of rubbish in order to reduce fire hazards and maintain health and safety.

3. All hotels, theatres, asylums, hospitals and institutional buildings be inspected and provision made for all changes necessary to protect the occupants from danger in the event of fire.

4. Fire drills be held for the children in all schools, for the inmates of all institutions and for the employees in all large stores and factories in order that a greater degree of safety may be ensured by acquainting the occupants with the best and most expeditious mode of exit in time of danger.

5. Special instruction on the subject of fire prevention be given by the teachers and by municipal officials in the schools and that such appropriate literature as may be made available be distributed to the pupils.

6. Boy Scout leaders give instructions to the troops under their control as to the best means of co-operating with municipal fire departments in the prevention and extinguishment of fires and especially as to the desirability of qualifying for the Fireman's badge.

Ninety per cent. of the fires are avoidable because they are caused by carelessness. In 1932 the fire losses in Great Britain amounted to just over one dollar per capita, as compared with a $4.06 per capita fire loss in Canada. Every Canadian should make an effort to cut down these losses, and to think and work in terms of fire prevention, not this week only but fifty-two weeks in every year.

"THESE HARD TIMES"

"The hard times and scarcity of money makes it more important than ever to economize. One way I save on clothes is by renewing the color of faded or out-of-style dresses, coats, stockings, and underwear. For dyeing, or tinting, I always use Diamond Dyes. They are the most economical ones by far because they never fail to produce results that make you proud. Why, things look better than new when redyed with Diamond Dyes. They never spot, streak, or run. They go on smoothly and evenly, when in the hands of even a ten year old child. Another thing, Diamond Dyes never take the life out of cloth or leave it limp as some dyes do. They deserve to be called 'the world's finest dyes'!"

Devotional Reading: Ephesians 2: 13-22.

Explanations and Comments

The First Foreign Missionaries Chosen and Consecrated, 13:1-3.—In the Christian Church at Antioch there were prophets and teachers, men of special ability and inspiration. Among them was the energetic and lovable Barnabas. Others were Symeon the Black—doubtless an African, and Lucius of Cyrene (the province in North Africa lying next to Egypt), who was perhaps one of the Cyreman evangelists who had founded the church at Antioch (Acts 11:20); Manaen, who was a foster-brother of Herod the tetrarch (Herod Antipas, son of Herod the Great), and seemingly a person of some special prominence, and, finally, Paul. Apparently the historian intended Paul's place at the end of the list to be emphatic, just as was Barnabas' at the beginning of the roll. These five leaders were evidently Grecian Jews.

"We know nothing of Symeon, and Lucius, and Manaen, and yet it is good to have their names, for they remind us of the host of faithful witnesses of the truth who stood back of the Christian movement, and encouraged its leaders to carry on. George Eliot, in one of her fine talks, speaks of the faithful who are not famous.' What should we do without them? All great causes demand great leaders. Without Paul and Peter and Barnabas the early Church would have been as an undisciplined army without officers, or as a rope of sand; but Niger and Lucius and Manaen were needed as surely as Barnabas and Paul."—The New Outlook.

While the Church at Antioch under the leadership of these five men, was carrying on its services of worship, prayer and fasting, an advance movement was initiated under the direction of God. It is probable that the prayer of the Church was "waiting upon God for special guidance on a matter already occupying their thought; this matter was surely the question of a forward movement into the Roman Empire."

"The method of God is not different today from that which prevailed in the past. In our time a church convention, after due consideration of qualifications and opportunities, decides to send missionaries to some promising field, and on the minutes of the session it is recorded as an action of the body that has exercised its consecrated wisdom in the transaction. If the writers of the apostolic age had been chronicling the event, they would have mentioned that the Spirit said to the Church: Separate me these men for the work to which I have called them. Both records would be true, but the second would be in greater harmony with all the facts. We have not yet learned to write the story of the Church, or the proceedings of Christian bodies in such vivid and vital terms." — The Christian Century.

A patient's gratitude to a distinguished English doctor who performed three major operations on him in 19 days and saved his life, has resulted in a gift of $125,000 to the Middlesex hospital, enabling it to establish what is called the first X-ray diagnosis department in the world.

The patient is W. H. Collins, of Wexham Park, Buckinghamshire, and the medico is Dr. Alfred Edward Webb Johnson, surgeon to the hospital.

Wake up your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

You are "feeling punk" simply because your liver isn't pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. Digestion and elimination are both hampered, and your entire system is being poisoned.

What you need is a liver stimulant. Something that goes farther than salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum or roughage which only move the bowels—ignoring the real cause of trouble, your liver.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt, young and beautiful commercial artist, and Peter Anson, a struggling sculptor, meet in an art class and fall in love. She is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family, but is not to share in their fortune when she comes of age. They are faced with the problem of "marriage or career' and Camilla does not want to tie Peter down when he has so much promise as a sculptor. At an art school dance, Gus Matson, Peter's roommate, who is jealous of Peters success, takes Camilla out on the lawn to tell her "something she should know about Peter."

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIII.

"Well," began Gus, exhaling the smoke of his cigarette, noisily, and turning toward Camilla. "You sure do get to know a guy when you live with him. And I'm tellin' you now that Peter is not good enough for a sweet little kid like you. He has a dozen skirts after him all the time, like the moths around that light over there. Why? Because he kids 'em along and makes each one think she's the berries for him. D'you know how he's payin' his way through school? On the money he gets from rich dames like you! Has he touched you for a payment yet?"

"You are despicable," Camilla told him in a deadly calm voice. "I don't believe a word you are saying and I refuse to listen any longer!"

"Oh, yeah?" his laugh was ugly. "I'll bet you are beautiful to look at when you're mad like that. I told you I'm crazy about you and I meant it. If Peter is good enough for you, so am I—" and before Camilla was aware of what was happening, his arms were holding her like a vise and his mouth was seeking hers while she struggled violently to free herself.

From behind them, a doubled hand struck out swiftly against the side of Gus' head and sent him sprawling upon the ground. At the same time, another arm grasped Camilla's shoulders and prevented her falling from the force of the blow that separated them.

"Did he hurt you, dear?" Peter was breathing hard, with anger and exertion.

"No, but I hope you have hurt him." She was trembling, too, with anger. "Not because of me but for what he was saying about you."

"I heard enough," Peter said curtly, "which doesn't matter." But I'm sorry I am responsible for introducing you to such a bum.'

He walked around the bench and stood above Gus, who rolled over then and put his hand tentatively to his bruised jaw. Peter assured himself that his victim was only stunned, stood up and adjusted his own tie and clothes, and took Camilla's arm.

"Shall we go back to the party and forget this unfortunate affair? Glad I came out here to look for you. I missed you and had already lost one dance with you, so I suspected something was wrong." He was trying to dismiss the incident and sound casual, but his voice still shook uncertainly. "I know you wouldn't voluntarily cut the dances you had promised me."

"But, Peter, he said those terrible things about you!" She was still trembling with her own resentment, and wondered how Peter could dismiss the thing so calmly.

"But you don't believe them, darling?" he asked quietly.

"Of course not!"

"Then, that's all that matters. You know, the world has so many people in it that there just have to be some like that—ungrateful and jealous and malicious. But time is too precious to waste even thinking about them. From now on, we'll just forget Gus. People like that just hang themselves with their own rope. He can shift for himself, as he did before I took pity on him. At least, that's one load off my mind!"

Peter Was Breathing Hard From Anger And Exertion.

"Do you mean," Camilla was incredulous, "that you have been keeping Gus—?"

"Most of the time, he shrugged indifferently.

"And he could say that!" she exclaimed with dismay. "Well, this world surprises me a little more every day—the people, I mean."

"Sure, the world is fine. It's the people—regular hodge-podge. Interesting, though," he added thoughtfully. "Every good or bad surprise I have over human nature makes me feel a little bit wiser and more able to cope with it in general. As Tennyson said, 'I am a part of all that I have met'."

"Oh, Peter, you're so fine yourself," she told him with loving admiration, "that you can find some good in everything."

He pressed her hand that was tucked into his arm, as they walked slowly back to the auditorium. "That's because you think so, honey," he told her with characteristic modesty.

* * * * * *

The last balloon had escaped ceilingward, many of them were deflated and had dropped to the floor which was strewn with confetti, serpentine dangled limpy in mid-air, and the orchestra had crooned goodnight.

Again, they were waking through the park, arm in arm. It was that witching hour when the young moon rides high and gloriously, when the air is sweetly caressing and the sounds of the night whisper and echo mysteriously like conspirators of romance. The moonlight stretched a silver path across the lagoon, down which tiny ripples rode gleefully with the breeze. Somewhere, a pair of birds had just finished the building of their nest and twittered sleepily, and an adventurous frog gave a frightened croak and leaped into the water with a thudding splash.

Camilla chuckled softly. "Poor thing! Perhaps he was on his way to see his girl friend and we frightened him so he never will have the courage to try again."

"Too late, anyway, to start out adventuring," Peter laughed. "He should be taking her home, as I am—and wish I didn't have to," he added softly, drawing her closer with the arm that held her.

"You don't wish that more than I do, Peter!"

"Precious! But that's not the worst of it. Lord knows how many more years I'll have to be taking you home and leaving you,' forlornly.

"Not years, darling!"

"It will be, unless things happen a lot faster than I have any right to expect."

"But why do things have to happen—before we can have each other?"

"So I'll be able to take care of you, of course. Sometimes," he sighed heavily, "I'm afraid that never will be."

"Why, you dear, foolish thing, you talk as if I were going to be a burden to you!"

"Never that!" he protested. "But, you know—"

"I know nothing about letting you take care of me, Peter, this is the day of women's freedom, you know, freedom from the bane of idleness that makes them burdens to men. You don't have to take care of me, just because you love me."

"And that is just why I do want to take care of you. That is the test of a man's love, whether or not he wants to cherish and protect a woman. It's all right for women to be free and independent—free to escape from the guardianship of men if they wish. But when a woman falls in love, she goes right back to the beginning of things again— service and submission and dependence. She can't escape it. And the man who loves her in the right way, wants to take care of her, to endow her with his worldly goods. It is part of his vanity."

"Of course, but all of that is in our future, dear, and for people whose situation is different from ours. I'm talking about us, now. Why should you grieve and worry over not being able to provide for me, when you should be giving the best of yourself to your work toward success?"

"But what else can I do?" Now that I've found you, I can't forget you—not for a minute. Oh, Camilla, I need you so—"

He stopped abruptly to kiss her. "How can we go on like this—for years?" his voice yearned.

"We can't," she whispered, "and we'll not."

"What do you mean?" he demanded.

I ask Thee for a thoughtful love,

Surely none are so full of cares or so poor in gifts that to them also, waiting patiently and trustfully on God for His daily commands, He will not give direct ministry for him, increasing according to their strength and desire. There is so much to be set right in the world, there are so many to be led and helped and comforted, that we must continually come in contact with such in our daily life. Let us only take care that by the glance being turned inward or strained onward we do not miss our turn of service, and pass by those to whom we might have been sent on an errand straight from God.—E. Charles.

Professional Writer Of Speeches Has Office In London's Famous Strand

Entitled to a high place on the membership list of the club of queer trades is surely the professional writer of speeches who occupies a skylighted office in London's famous Strand. His enterprise and originality have at all events brought him success, for since his idea was first put into practice, a few years ago, he has written hundreds of speeches on the most diverse subjects. Titled and professional folks of all sorts apply to him. For the most part, however, his clients' requirements are of a more ordinary nature, and consist of demands for after-dinner speeches, and addresses for bazaars, presentations and similar functions. Then the writing of political speeches at times also forms a considerable part of the nimble speech-writer's activities; and on many occasions he has been called upon to write both "for" and "against" the same party and subject.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, OCT. 20

Review Well Read Overseas

It is refreshing, indeed, to have a card from J. T. Oakley, who is at present in England, who tells us that he is keeping closely in touch with affairs in Creston Valley by reading the Review each week at the office of B.C.'s agent general in Londoff.

And still more gratifying is the word from Mr. Oakley that, judging by the wear and tear shown by the weekly papers in the agent general's reading room, visitors to the office appear to be just as keen to read about Creston as any of the other districts in this province.

Apples at a Cent Apiece

If the wholesale and retail selling agencies on the prairies are as considerate of the buying public as the local stabilization board has been in fixing prices on the winter varieties of apples the consumer should have no complaint this season as to the cost of this fruit

With the price of Wageners, for instance, set at 75 cents, and with a 19 cent freight rate, the jobber in Lethbridge can take these into stock at, say, $1 a box. If they, in turn, are passed on to the trade at a margin of 15 cents, which is the spread fixed by the board in setting the price as between wholesaler and retailer, then the latter might reasonably be expect d to offer his customers this well known variety at about $1.50.

Assuming the household will run about 150 to the box the ultimate consumer will be getting a very desirable all round apple at about one cent each, which certainly is not extravagant even in days of enforced economical shopping.

Other 'New Deals' Failed

It is to be hoped that our readers will not be carried away with the idea that because adherents of the old parties have broken away and organized a new party, and talk rather glibly of a new deal, that something new will really happen in provincial government affairs—and as per promises so easily passed out.

Voters should not forget that less than a dozen years ago England had exactly the same line of assurance from the Labor party but when it came into power it was no better than its predecessor and lasted not more than three years.

About 1920 the province of Ontario tried the United Farmers, who were just as lavish as the C.C.F. in guarantees of a new political deal, but Ontario repudiated the U.F.O. in the regulation four years. Alberta has another of these "new deal" governments in the U.F.A., but things in that province are even worse than they are in B.C., while as to the morality of the men who were supposed to give the neighboring province the new and better era, Alberta is not at all proud.

In this contest it will be found good business to forget party and mark your ballot for the man who is best qualified to serve this district, on which point there is admittedly little room for argument. Vote Putnam.

Hinchliffe Hits Independents

In Similkameen, South Okanagan and Salmon Arm, where three former members of the Tolmie cabinet are endeavoring to stay in public life by offering themselves at "independent" candidates, newspaper reports indicate that they are finding the going very tough, and are compelled to spend so much time with explanations that don't explain their great betrayal of at least a one time popular, if uncapable, leader, that they are making little headway trying to put over the "new deal" they, too, would give the province.

The indifferent reception they areg etting will come with satisfaction to Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, minister of education, who, some months ago, when asked if he, too, would seek nomination as an independent, is quoted as saying:

"It is far more important to me that I retain my self-respect than that I should obtain a nomination. Every person who has the least conception of what honor means would despise me, and what is far worse, I should despise myself were I to desert my leader on the eve of battle. What is even still worse, I should be loathed, and I should loathe myself, were I to desert my leader at such a time in hope of improving my chances of obtaining a nomination. To be compelled to carry in my mind to the end of my life the knowledge that I had deserted my political leader at the commencement of a political battle in order to save my political skin, is far too big a price to pay for a nomination, even in the city of Victoria. I, for one, do not intend to pay it. I am supporting the policy of Dr. Tolmie, and the more difficult he may find it to put his plan into effect the more I shall feel obligated to assist him"

Nature Lends a Hand

In connection with the selling of the Okanagan's tonnage of McIntosh Reds it is just possible that nature is on the side of the "cent a pound" movement.

Experience has demonstrated that in the average year the British market will not absorb more than 25 per cent. of this variety due the excessive size of the Macs.

Latest reports on the 1933 crop would indicate that this variety is not showing its usual size and that for this year possibly 50 per of the crop will be in the export sizes and if this per centage can be disposed of overseas the Okanagan may find itself unable to supply the demand that is expected to show itself within a few days.

Okanagan is Hopeful

Okanagan papers to hand at the end of the week would indicate that up to the present growers in that district are ot unduly worried about the slow demand for apples in general, and McIntosh Reds in particular, which latter variety is piling up in alarming quantities for this late in the season.

The Penticton Herald has compiled shipping figures for 1932 and 1933 up to October the 8th, on which date a year ago there had been a total movement of 56 per cent. of the crop, whereas to that date this year the total shipping was just 31 per cent.

On "other varieties," apart from McIntosh, the movement in 1932 was 8 per cent. whereas this year it is but 3 per cent. These figures are for the entire Okanagan and are compiled from returns by the Cartel in 1932 and stabilization board figures for 1933.

In accounting for lessened sales the Herald points out that the season is later, that there is no buik shipping this year, and winds up with the observation that "general reports indicate that the domestic conditicns are improving and we may look for an extensive movement of apples between now and the Christmas season."

Basketball Play Starts To-Night

Six Teams in Ladies' Section—Four in Men's—League Games Tuesdays and Fridays—First Half Schedule Ends December

The following scheduld is to be completed by Christmas. A new schedule will be released for the spring season. The first of the two teams mentioned in each case is the home team and must furnish a scorekeeper and timekeeper for the game. These must be competent officials. The captains of the two teams must decide on a suitable referee at least one day before the game. The referee is at liberty to appoint his own umpire if he wishes to act with one. The person named in brackets after each date is the executive member responsible for opening the hall and collecting receipts. In any case where that member is unable to perform the service himself he must see that a suitable and responsible person takes his place.

Games will be played every Tuesday and Friday throughout the season. In the ladies' section, 30 games will be played, each team meeting each other team twice. In the mens' section, 18 games will be played, each team meeting each team three times.

Girls Winners; Boys Defeated

Creston High School Basketball Talent Divides Honors with Kimberly—Girls Win Easily—Boys' Game is Close Contest

Two years ago an inexperienced team f girls from the Creston High School braved the winter roads to Kimberley. Playing their very first game on an indoor court, they went down to defeat by the overwhelming score of 24-6. Last Saturday night, with five members of that same team still playing, they reversed the decision when they swapped a game, but out-classed Kimberley aggregation by a score of 30-4

Hampered by the slippery floor, the obviously nervous youn rsters from the mining town were outplayed by a team which put up a splendid exhibition of basketball. The local girls were a little weak in their shooting, but in passing, fast-breaking and organized plays gave one o the best displays seen on the local floor.

From the first whistle the High Reps. dominated the play, three nice baskets by Mary Abbott, one each by Irene Bourdon and Nell Payne, and a free throw by Agnes Crane, giving them an 11-0 advantage at the end of the first quarter. The second quarter saw three more points added on a nice field basket by Ruth Hare and a free throw by Mary Abbott.

After half-time Kimberley started off with a rush, which culminated in a field goal by W. Beattie, but Creston countered with baskets by Irene Bourdon and Yvonne LaBelle to end the quarter 18 2 In the final stanza, Creston girls again ran away, especially after the Kimberley girls had the misfortune to lose their centre on personals. Nell Payne added two field goals and a free throw to her count, Agnes Crane two field goals, and Molly Moore broke into the scoring with a field basket and a free throw.

The second game was a close struggle from the first whistle to the final gong. It had been freely predicted that the local boys would be swamped by Kimberley, due to their youth and inexperience, but it was a ding dong battle throughout, with Creston leading by 3 points with only five minutes to go.

The first half saw Creston lagging behind with the score 13-10. Checking was rough, due largely to the slippery floor, and shortly after the mid game break Allan Speers, the local captain, was benched on personals. Unperturbed, the Creston boys ran up a score to 16 13, taking advantage of the breaks like experienced players. With five minutes to go, Kimberley rallied so successfully that they scored 7 points without reply.

For the locals' Jack Payne showed remarkable speed and scored 10 points, but was ably supported by his team mates. Jim Downes played a steady game at guard. For the Kimberley boys, McLeish and Davies played a brilliant game. The teams.

Kimberley girls—Chambers 2, Shannon, Beattie 2, Davies, Thompson, Thomason, Sweeney: Total 4.

Creston girls—Bourdon 4, LaBelle 2, Payne 7, Hare 2, Crane 5, Moore 3, Lewis, Abbott 7: Total 30.

Kimberley boys—McLeish 9, Thompson, Pearson 4, Davies 7, Motek, Minney, Howie, Orr: Total 20.

Creston boys—Telford, Payne 10, Maddess 4, Bevan, Speers, York, Downs 2: Toeal 16.

Ease Pain, Headache in Few Minutes

For Quick Relief Say ASPIRIN—When You Buy

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia . . . the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

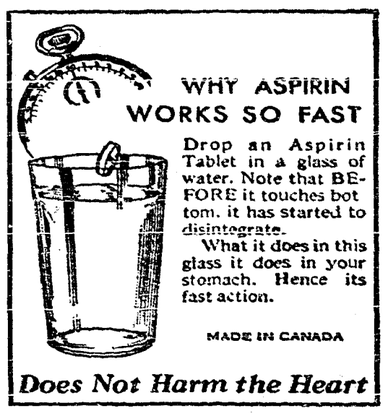
Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which an Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. An Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, be on guard against substitutes. To be sure you get ASPIRIN'S quick relief, be sure the name Bayer in the form of a cross is on every tablet of Aspirin.



Does Not Harm the Heart

A Time For Thought

Winter approaches and the year progresses steadily to its close. The major activities of this great western agricultural land are rapidly being completed for another season. The hours of daylight are becoming fewer, the days shorter, and the evenings and hours of darkness longer. As Nature thus works out its annual changes, man, too, alters the routine of his life. As his activities on the land become lighter, he rises later in the morning and retires to rest later in the evening. And he employs those evening hours in ways not possible to him when physically tired out from a long day's labor in the fields.

In the late Fall and Winter months thousands of people in Western Canada devote themselves to reading, to study, to forms of recreation, to community gatherings, which are not possible during the strenuous months of plowing, seeding, harvesting and threshing. The Fall and Winter becomes the time for self-improvement, for checking up of oneself, for planning for the future.

Possibly, because of the very nature of the times through which the world is now passing, with a multitude of, as yet, unsolved problems; because of difficulties to be overcome which are taxing the resourcefulness and testing the courage of everybody; because of the danger of feelings of despair overcoming hopefulness and faith,—because of such a world condition it is probable that people will do even more thinking and study than in times past.

Unquestionably people are thinking, perhaps as they never thought before. Admittedly, there is much loose thinking, reckless thinking, by some. There are others who, perhaps, imagine they are doing some real thinking but who, in reality, are allowing others to think for them and are merely adopting the thinking of others. But many others, probably the vast majority of people, are thinking for themselves, thinking seriously, and earnestly studying, and will continue to do so in even more earnest, serious fashion during the next few months.

Few investments, says one writer, are so sure and profitable as the effort to equip oneself in the four fundamental accomplishments:

1. How to think accurately and comprehensively.
2. How to express thought in talking and writing.
3. How to work skilfully with the hands.
4. How to take one's place among men.

The next four or five months will provide a golden opportunity for many of us to make such investments. As we read a newspaper, magazine or book, and obtain entertainment therefrom, the opportunity is likewise ours to think out for ourselves the wisdom or foolishness of the thought expressed or ideas advanced by the writer for the time being engaging our attention. It is an opportunity to test the accuracy and comprehensiveness of our own thinking.

Or, as we listen to some speaker over the radio, to an eminent clergyman, a man well known in public life, an outstanding figure in the financial or industrial world, a great scientist, inventor, traveller, author, or social worker, and as we glean information, and hear definite opinions advanced, we, of course, advance our knowledge and are entertained. But we will have missed a real opportunity for self-advancement if, at the same time, we fail to ponder over and analyze what we hear, and bring our own thinking apparatus into full play, and apply the test of our own serious, concentrated thought, to the views expressed and the ideas advanced.

It is well to be a good listener, a consistent reader, but it is better to be a student. Let us absorb from others; in that way information is gained and knowledge advanced. But let us be something more than a sponge which merely absorbs. Let us train ourselves to sift the true from the false; the good from the evil; that which is strong from that which is weak; selecting that which is constructive from that which is purely destructive.

There is much to criticize these days, and destructive criticism is about the easiest thing in which any person can indulge. But there is also much to commend and applaud. War with all its horrors and suffering is to be condemned,—condemned as the peoples of the world have not yet seen fit to condemn it,—but even in the days of war there was nevertheless developed attributes of character of the finest and noblest type. The present economic depression is a world tragedy. Its evils must be mitigated, and a repetition of it prevented as far as it is humanly possible to prevent something over which man alone has not complete control. But out of the depression there is slowly, but surely, arising a greater conception of man's relations, duties and responsibilities toward his fellow man.

There is a better way of life for every individual, for every community and nation, for the world. It will be brought about, and the new era ushered in, not by some tremendous upheaval, not by a rapid overthrow of what now is and the equally rapid substitution of something else, not by the efforts of any one man, or party, or nation, but by the individual efforts of all combining to one great common end. The man or woman who does his or her own thinking, deep, serious thinking, and who applies their own God-given powers and energies to the particular task which confronts them, will be the real creators of, and leaders in, the new era that is dawning.

Now is the time for every person to fit himself or herself for the great work now at hand and ahead.

London's New Lighting Scheme

Famous Buildings Will Be Floodlighted On Certain Occasions

Canadian visitors to London this winter will find town a much less gloomy place than they had been led to expect, states Douglas Webster, London Correspondent of the Regina Leader-Post. A lighting scheme has been planned and will be carried out this winter which will rid London of its reputation of a city of dark and gloomy places.

Famous buildings such as the clock tower of the Houses of Parliament, the National Gallery, Westminster Abbey, and St. Paul's Cathedral will be wired for floodlighting and illuminated at certain times.

The London society has the plans in hand. Its intention is to flood-light certain buildings frequently and especially on such days as have national significance. The cost will be borne privately.

The project was first mooted by the Incorporated Association of Architects and Surveyors some three years ago. Nothing same of it then. Today the London Society has the matter well in hand and it is hoped that the first display of floodlighting under the society's auspices will coincide with the British Industries fair which takes place early in 1934.

Although this floodlighting is designed to boost the Industries Fair the scheme will not stop there. The Royal Society intends to make it a permanent feature of the London season.

DEPRESSED BY ACUTE ACIDITY

There can surely be no doubt about the effectiveness of a remedy for acidity that can give such permanent relief as in this woman's case:—

"I suffered for many years from acidity in various forms," she writes. "At last it became so acute that every morning I woke with a gnawing pain and a great depression of spirits. I tried Kruschen Salts, and the effect was magical. The pain subsided and the depression lifted like a cloud. I have taken the daily dose of Kruschen ever since. That was about five years ago, and the Kruschen does not lose its effect."—(Miss) E.M.H.

Kruschen is so effective with acidity because it neutralizes acid, takes all the torment out of it, and gently expels it from the system. And by stimulating your organs of elimination to perfect regular action, Kruschen will prevent this harmful acid from ever accumulating again. After that you'll experience no more misery after meals.

Report Col. Fawcett Is Alive

Reports were received at Rio de Janeiro, that the British explorer, Colonel H. P. Fawcett, and his son, who have been missing eight years, are alive in the jungle.

A despatch from Cuyada, Matto Grosso, to the newspaper "Anoite," quoted Arao Bezerra, a planter in Paranatinga, as saying that an Indian woman told him two white men were being held prisoners by Cuicuru Indians in the Xingu district, a 45-day journey from Paranatinga.

Similar reports have not been confirmed.

Japan's Activities In Pacific

Writer Claims Japan Intends To Put U.S. Out Of The Picture

"Japan is now definitely and methodically preparing to put the United States out of the west Pacific picture by force, as she did Russia in 1904," said Upton Close, author and lecturer, who passed through Victoria after a trip to Japan and Hawaii.

"When President Roosevelt authorized resumptnon of building of the United States navy, the Japanese gave up hope of bluffing and persuading the people of the U.S. to withdraw from the Pacific," he said. "Japan now means business."

The author said he was banned from Manchukuo because of his criticism of Japans activities in that state.

"The Japanese people have been propagandized to the point where they will now not permit any ruling clique to abandon the campaign for domination of China and the Pacific," he asserted. It was high time the people of North America ceased to be deluded by Japanese Government officials who declared war with the U.S. was "unthinkable."

Foresee Maritime Towns Moored In Atlantic

Forerunner Of Many Others Likely To Rise In North Sea

A vast uncharted island, forerunner of many others which will give to the world a new race of island dwellers, is said by a Berlin correspondent likely to rise shortly in the North Sea. A time in the near future has been visualized when there will be maritime towns moored in the middle of the Atlantic and complete with luxury hotels and landing grounds for aircraft. Fast airplane services will be begun from the mainland and in between the island communities, aerodromes, with powerful wireless stations, will be built. Then will come the health seekers. Week-enders will discover this new world on their doorsteps. The islands will have their trees, flowers and gardens. The sea will be harnessed to provide electricity, and the wants of the communities will be supplied by cargo carrying aircraft from the mainland.

More Work Under N.R.A.

Expect One Million Or More Have Been Re-Employed

Possibility that the count now being plotted in the United States by the N.R.A. may show re-employment of 1,000,000 or more persons in excess of present estimates is being held out by statisticians to Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator.

They have calculated that the actual count of noses by direct solicitation will reach tens of thousands of employers who do not report regularly through ordinary channels and may show that between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 persons have found work since the low mark of last winter. The present accepted figures, based largely upon reports to the labor department by industry and upon trade union estimates, run to approximately 2,500,000.

Pictures Made Of Cloth

Work Of Finnish Artist Resembles New Type Of Oil Painting

Pictures made of pieces of cloth chosen for their colors and stuck to a flat surface are on exhibit in Montreal, the work of a Finnish artist, Elsa Meri-Kallio. There are landscapes, flower pictures and even a few figure subjects, in which scraps of woven stuffs have been used to produce the effect of flesh painting. Silk, muslins and all kinds of textiles are used and a great deal of patience and skill must have been required in working them into pictures to gain some striking effects which are quite surprisingly like many of the newest types of oil painting.

SOLID OPPOSITION TO RE-ARMING FOR GERMANY

Geneva, Switzerland. — Chancellor Adolf Hitler, of Germany, confronted with staunch opposition to re-arming from the United Kingdom, the United States and France, was forced into a position of deciding whether to accept transformation of the reichswehr without immediate possession of war materials.

In a swift moving climax of the day's disarmament developments, the United States joined Great Britain and France in a united position against an increase of German arms.

It was revealed in French circles that the United States representative, Norman H. Davis, told Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour that American opposition to re-armament had been made clear at Washington.

Indications were that slow but steady progress was being made toward a solution of disarmament problems despite difficulties still existing on practical points between France, Great Britain and the United States.

M. Paul-Boncour was immensely pleased at the American attitude. France has always been opposed to any German re-armament proposal. At a three-power parley, Great Britain through its foreign sevretary, Sir John Simon, took a decisive stand in the same direction.

Indications continued that adjustments will be made in a spirit of conciliation which will satisfy Germany, ciliation the British Government is known to oppose allocation of military aeroplanes.

It appeared that the British position against re-armament had become even more rigid than that of the French.

Rail Workers Warned

Must Not Wreck Machinery Of Industrial Disputes Act

Montreal, Que.—Warning that railway employees should take no action to wreck the machinery of the Industrial Disputes Act was given to members of the Brotherhood of Railroad and Steamship Clerks by Lynn B. Spencer, K.C., chairman of a board of conciliation appointed to hear a dispute between the brotherhood and the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The chairman's warning came after he had granted the request of Frank Hall, vice-president of the brotherhood, for postponement of the hearing. Negotiations between the running trades and the two Canadian roads made the postponement necessary, argued Mr. Hall.

Had Clause Changed

Geneva, Switzerland. — Germany won a victory on the Jewish question in forcing the League of Nations Assembly to reject a clause in a resolution German delegates felt was aimed directly at their government's treatment of Jews. As adopted, the measure expressed the hope all countries regardless of whether they signed treaties relating to minority groups, should extend treaty benefits to their minorities.

Landslide Buries Nineteen

Tegucigalpa, Honduras. — Official reports from a village 30 miles east of here said 19 persons were buried alive in a landslide which struck the village of Apolopi. The reports said a portion of a hill descended upon the village. Many houses were destroyed. In the same district the Tholoma river flooded houses and plantations, drowning some people and numerous cattle.

Better Understanding

U.S. Minister To Canada Speaks At Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont.—"I want no green baize cloth on our council tables and no jockeying for petty advantage," Hon. W. D. Robbins, United States minister to Canada, told the eighth annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at the annual banquet of that body here. Mr. Robbins was one of the guest speakers, together with Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The United States envoy assured his hearers he would do everything in his power to bring about complete understandings between Canada and the United States.

J. H. Woods, of Calgary, a past president of the chamber, voiced the appreciation of the gathering for the addresses.

The convention devoted sever l hours to an open discussion of ways and means by which government expenditures might be curtailed.

Three suggestions emerged from the discussion. One was that the national committee appointed last year at Halifax be allowed to continue its campaign of education for government economy.

Another was designed to establish a committee which would work with these various administrations for the purpose of eliminating duplication in their respective spheres, while a third was a straight resolution looking to the appointment of a small committee whose duty would be to prosecute a campaign for the lowering of government expenditures.

Railway Wage Dispute

Believed Press Comment Not In Interest Of Either Side

ontreal, Que.—The interest of both sides would best be served if negotiations continued in camera and if no attempt was made by the press to gauge the tenor of the meetings, it was stated at the conclusion of recent negotiations between the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways and the railroad running trades.

As far as could be learned the position is stationary, both the men and their employers persisting in their respective opinions. The men claim an additional 10 per cent. wage cut is unjustified; the companies that it is made necessary by adverse economic conditions affecting the roads.

While these negotiations were proceeding, the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks made their submission to a board of conciliation in rebuttal to the case submitted some time ago by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Huge Air Liner Wrecked

Caught Fire From Explosion And Seven Burned To Death

Chesterton, Ind.—The scattered bits of a giant twin-motor transport 'plane—one of its massive wheels hung suspended from a tree—was all that remained of a New York to Chicago ship of the United Air Lines that carried its seven occupants to a flaming death.

Just what happened when the all-metal ship with a top speed of more than three miles a minute crashed to earth in flames about five miles southeast of here, probably never will be known, but witnesses said they heard a terrific explosion.

Five of the bodies were recovered, but none was taken out alive as the heat of the flames kept back farmers who flocked to the scene.

Due to the complete break-up of the 'plane and the wide area over which the wreckage was strewn any attempt to discover the cause of the tragedy probably will be difficult, but officials of United Air Lines said they were launching an immediate and thorough investigation.

U.S. Recovery Plan

Sir Josiah Stamp, British Economist, Says N.R.A. Not A Success

London, Eng.—Sir Josiah Stamp, the economist, claims that American production had fallen off despite efforts o fthe N.R.A., especially in the construction field.

He asserted some industries were showing no signs of improvement and that creation of public employment was a definite failure. He expressed the opinion that the N.R.A. was increasing costs but not purchasing power. He added:

"America might succeed in spite of herself because of her youth and vigor."

Only Three Needed

Washington.—Repeal of prohibition in the United States swept into its final stage with every indication that the 18th amendment will be voted out of the constitution on Nov. 7. On that day six states will ballot on repeal. Approval by only three is needed to cancel the prohibition amendment.

War In The Air

British Flying Boat Armed With Heavy Gun

Felixstowe, Eng.—The air ministry's base here harbored the first service aircraft in the world to be armed with a heavy gun firing high explosive shells.

First of four flying boats being built at Brough, Yorkshire, for the Royal Air Force, the machine was flown here on its maiden flight. In the war and later years aeroplanes were unable to carry anything heavier than a machine-gun, although heavy bombs, of course, have been standard equipment on bombers for many years.

The new machine's armament includes a gun capable of firing 1½-pound shells, and three machine-guns, the whole installed on what is virtually a 17-ton flying gun platform travelling at 132 miles an hour.

The long-standing problem surmounted by the builders of the new aircraft was that of providing for the recoil upon an aeroplane of the heavy gun. Intensive trials will now be given the craft, after which, with the other of the quartette, it is expected to form a squadron to be stationed at Malta.

Time Cut By Forty Hours

Kingsford-Smith Made Fast Trip From England To Australia

Wyndham, Australia.—Wing Commander Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith clipped more than 40 hours from the England-Australia flying record when he landed here to the cheers of a mighty throng of welcomers.

The famous airman, hero of a Pacific crossing and numerous other flying feats, left England with the declaration that he was not out to set a new mark.

London, Eng.—The breaking of the England-to-Australia flight record by Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith was such important news in London that it dwarfed such matters as war debts and disarmament.

News of the Australian's success was wired to Sandringham for the information of the king, who has taken a keen interest in the flight.

Visible Wheat Supply

Heavy Increase Shown Over This Date Last Year

Ottawa, Ont.—Canadian elevators bulged with 235,170,472 bushels of wheat on October 6, it was reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This was an increase of 7,655,939 bushels from the previous week. A year ago, the visible supply was 210,932,689 bushels.

Canadian wheat stored in the United States consisted of 6,541,114 bushels, compared with 11,028,622 bushels a year ago. Wheat in transit on the Great Lakes consisted of 5,290,618 bushels, compared with 6,082,030 bushels last year.

United States wheat in Canada was shown as 2,991,168 bushels, compared with 8,318,062 bushels last year.

More Cold Storage Foods

Ottawa, Ont.—With the exception of eggs, pork, fish and apples, all food commodities in cold storage on Oct. 1 showed an increase over the corresponding period last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics announces.

DEFINITE SIGNS OF ECONOMIC RECOVERY NOTED

Ottawa, Ont.—Reduced taxation and sound financial policies are the only means of lightening Canada's present burden and of bringing about an era of balanced budgets, J. MacLeod Clarke, secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, told the eighth annual convention of that organization. His report noted with satisfaction that federal and provincial budgets had been reduced in the current fiscal year by some $50,000,000.

The secretary reiterated the Chamber's willingness to assist the government in the selection of a personnel for a national committee along the lines of the May committee in the United Kingdom to bring about necessary reductions in governmental expenditure.

With regard to unemployment insurance, the recommendation was that the Chamber take no further action in the matter "other than to watch carefully any legislation which may be proposed to this end, with a view to assisting in the drafting of laws which will be sane and sensible."

Fire losses were reduced in 1932 from 1931 and a helpful sign was that in the last year 88 per cent. of the losses were covered by insurance, an increase of eight per cent. over the previous two years.

Thirty-five boards or chambers took part last year in the contests to prevent fire losses held by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. For cities over 50,000, Toronto won the silver shield. Kenora, Ont., was winner for cities under 15,000, with Prince Albert, Sask., second.

Increasing interest was also shown in the report submitted to the convention for the health and safety contest. Winnipeg won the class one for cities of over 50,000 population and Vancouver second.

Slow return to normal economic conditions is being reflected in the greater confidence and more hopeful outlook of the Canadian people, said A. O. Dawson, executive chairman of the chamber.

It was a "definite improvement which has in the main been sustained," said Mr. Dawson, possibly the most important feature of the recovery being the narrowing gap between Canadian farm products and the prices of manufactured goods.

Manufacturing activity has been quickened. Pig iron production made some progress during the second quarter of the year, while producers of automobiles, textiles and boots and shoes have been "extremely active" and more favorable markets are now looming in the United States and in the United Kingdom for our newsprint and lumber respectively."

The unemployment situation had been bettered to the extent of 200,000 formerly idle men finding employment since April.

Evidence of improving foreign trade was seen by Mr. Dawson in the fact Canada had recovered fifth place among the world's exporters.

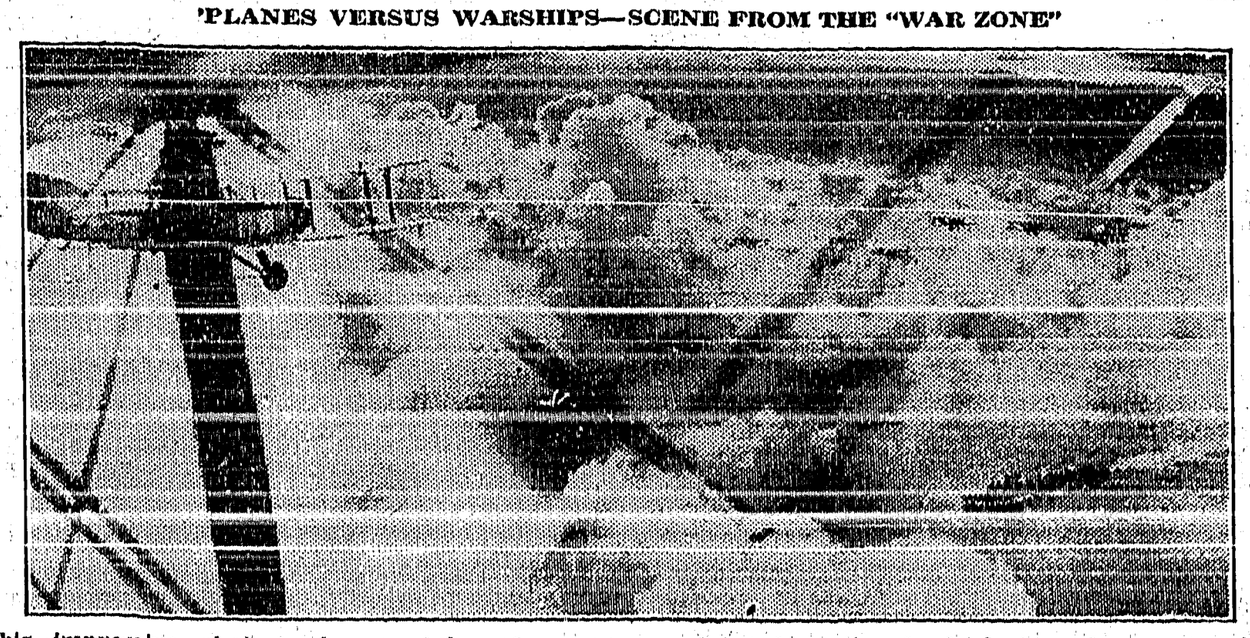
Mr. Dawson listed "some of the problems that still press us," as follows: Taxation weighing heavily on business, an unsatisfactory railway situation, farmers' dissatisfaction with meagre returns for long hours and hard work, unsatisfactory wages to industrial workers "which must surely lead to trouble," and curtailment of church, hospital, educational and charitable activities as a result of curtailed revenue.

The importance of conditions in foreign lands should not be over-looked, continued Mr. Dawson. Definite advancement on the road to normalcy was evident in the United Kingdom and the international co-operation brought to bear recently toward the solution of the wheat problem had aroused hope that "international agreement may be extended to other natural commodities in the near future."

Want To Settle

Calgary, Alberta.—Aetna Life Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn., holders of $100,000 of city of Calgary bonds on which Calgary refused to pay New York exchange upon maturity last January, has made overtures for settlement at current lower exchange rates, it was disclosed by Mayor Andrew Davison.

'PLANES VERSUS WARSHIPS—SCENE FROM THE "WAR ZONE"



This impressive photograph was taken from an aeroplane above the clouds, looking down on an incident in the British aerial-naval manoeuvres that took place recently off the Firth of Forth. The Royal Air Force attacked the British Navy and interesting "battles" resulted. Looking through the clouds a warship can be seen, while hidden from it by clouds hovers a bombing squadron.
