Farmers Institute Plans Hatchery

Object of Hatchery is to Take Care of Replacements—Will Have Use of McAlpine Plant—Capacity of 8000 Eggs.

In keeping with the much-expressed demand among local poultrymen for a community hatchery that would be able to utilize their good breeding stock, it is interesting to learn that the Farmers' Institute has recently completed a preliminary survey of the flocks and are now arranging to operate a hatchery for the coming season.

The object of the hatchery is, in the first place, to take care of the replacement needs and, secondly, by promoting a sound breeding policy to establish high production flocks in the four leading commercial breeds. Eventually, it is hoped, the hatchery will be in a position to supply the outside market with standard quality chicks.

Hard times and low-price competition from large, commercial hatcheries has had a disastrous effect on the small, but genuine, breeder. Unable to meet their prices with his highclass stock he has been forced out of the business. The Institute plans to meet this competition, and will install mammoth incubators if the deal is successful this year.

For the local poultryman there are many advantages in securing chicks at home. He knows the quality of the stock they come from; he saves express charges and the mortality among the chicks is very much lower, which often makes all the difference between profit and loss. Those who last year sent out for chicks and were unfortunate enough not to get esther chicks or even their money returned would be protected from losses of this nature.

The Institute is fortunate in having an experienced poultryman, such as W. S. McAlpine, in charge of the field work and incubation. 2000 birds have been inspected and matings are being arranged. Breeding males are also on order, and will be loaned where required. The Rhode Islands, White Leghorns and Wyandottes are very well represented, but the number of Barred Rocks is small.

In commencing operations the hatchery will have a capacity of over 8000 eggs, Mr. McAlpine having generously turned over his plant to aid the project.

School tax notices are to hand this week and everyone is surprised at the rate being so high. A year ago it was 10 mills, and this year is cut to 8.5 mills. With the West Kootenay assessment added it was hoped the rate would be down to about 5 mills this year.

Creston Loses at Hockey

A pickup squad of Creston hockey players motored to Kaslo on Saturday and played the Kaslo team that night, losing by the narrow margin of 4-3. In the opening period Creston was at a loss for combination play and Kaslo sharpshooters sent the puck past Schade on two occasions. The second period saw Creston in the play all the way, and two goals were annexed on some accurate shooting by Fred Simister, on passes from Adam Robertson, the Creston right wing. In the third period Kaslo again went to the front notching a counter in the first few minutes of that round Penalties then came fast to both eams. In the final stanza Creston evened the count when H. Eddy scored, and overtime was required. In the last effort both teams put all they had into the game but Kaslo showed the better form clinched the game after about five minutes of extra play. Creston lined up as follows: Goal, C. Schade; defence, Jake Fritz and E. Christie; forwards, Adam Robertson and Fred Simister; centers, Jack Connell and Bob Currie. Substitute forwards, H. Eddy and Bill Bourdon.

Cranbrook Wins Both Contests

Ladies' Team Holds Winners to Close Score—Men Badly Outclassed—Girls' Slow Start Responsible for Downfall.

Creston teams travelled over slippery roads and through falling snow to Cranbrook last Friday, only to go down to their first double defeat this season. The ladies lost by three field baskets, 22-16, and the men were on the shortend of a 37-21 score.

Due to hard travelling some of the cars did not arrive until barely time for the game and, coupled with the lilliputian dimensions of the playing-floor, this contributed largely to the local defeat.

The girls finished the first half thirteen points down, with a score of 15-2. Making a gallant effort in the second stanza, they outscored the Redwings two to one but failed to get in striking distance of them. Nell Payne and Marjorie Levirs were the pick of the locals. The teams:

Cranbrook Ladies—Hailey 6, Stone 11, MacDonald 2, Gould, Spence 3, Williams, Dixon. Total 22.

Creston Ladies—Nell Payne 8, Olivi r 1, Martello 2, Armitage, Nora Payne, Lewis, Abbott, Moore, Levirs 5. Total 16.

After the first five minutes there was little doubt as to the outcome of the men's game The first half score was 17-9. Crawford and Corrie played a nice guard game, although badly handicapped by the smallness of the floor. The teams:

Cranbrook Men—Parker 18, Dixon, Backon 4, Muirhead 2, Brooks 8, Provenzano, O. Haley 5, E. Haley. Tot l 37.

Creston Men—H. Corrie 4, Holmes 2, Ross, Farris 1, Martello 12, D. Corrie, Crawford 2.

Kitchener

Miss Jessie White, public school principal, spent the weekend with Erickson friends.

E Driffil, C.P.R tie inspector, left on Tuesday for Canal Flats, where he will be employed for some time.

The dance in Hunt's Hall on Friday was fairly well attended. Walde's orchestra supplied the music.

A great improvement is noted in the street in town, the government snowplough opening up the road on Saturday.

Miss Hazel McGonegal was visiting her sister, Mrs. D. F. Putnam, an Erickson at the weekend, returning on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Putnam and son, Frank, of Erickson, were weekend visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Senesael.

Quite an improvement has been made at Kitchener Hotel. The beer parlor, kitchen and washroom have been remodelled The work was done by Axel Holmes.

World War Changed Everything

An article appearing in the daily papers quite recently told of a professor at Harvard University who had compiled a "table of wars," showing that there have been no fewer than 902 major wars since the year 500 B.C., and drawing attention to the fact that the World War, 1914-1918, was eight times "greater" than all the other major wars since 500 B.C. rolled into one. Stated another way this means that the four years of war, 1914-1918, was eight times greater than all the major wars combined in the preceding 2,400 years of the world's history.

If this calculation is even approximately correct it should help us to more fully appreciate the truth and force of the statement so frequently made that the financial and economic difficulties of the nations today had their origin in the World War, and that our troubles are not the result of the breakdown of the existing system because of the unsoundness or inherent weakness of that system, but that the cause is to be found in the destruction of 1914-1918 and in the new conditions and circumstances resulting from that colossal struggle.

To the World War, and the need and emergencies of that terrible contest, can be directly traced the speeding up of invention, the improvement of machines, and the urge to mass production, to which some people attribute much of the existing unemployment,—men replaced by machines. To the World War, also, can be directly traced the bringing of tens of millions of acres into production of various foods and other products then in great demand, and to the uneconomic and more or less artificial production of certain products in countries which prior to the war did not attempt to raise these things but imported them from other countries where their production was a natural process.

The World War, too, is directly responsible for the development of that spirit of narrow nationalism which has infected all nations, a narrow nationalism political in character but which has been developed along economic lines in order to promote and strengthen political nationalism. It is not necessarily the system under which the economical life of the world grew so amazingly and prospered so greatly in the last half of the 19th and first decade of the 20th centuries that is at fault; rather, it has broken down because of an outside force, the World War, which prevented that economic system from functioning for the welfare of mankind, and threw it completely out of gear.

That is to say, no matter what system had prevailed in 1914-1918 it could not have withstood the impact and upheaval of the World War and continued to function. Had any of the various new systems now being advocated for adoption to supersede the system which came down from the last century been the prevailing system in 1914 it, too, would have been shattered and the present outcry would be raised against it.

It is the World War that has changed everything, and that change must be met. It cannot be met in a single year, nor by the adoption of any one new system, whether it be political, economic, or social. The needed changes cannot be best and most quickly brought about by destroying existing foundations which inevitably would mean great loss and suffering, and more particularly so to those who even now are the chief victims of the depression. Rather there must be a multiplicity of changes, some small and seemingly insignificant, others large and outstanding, but all interlocked and having a bearing on each other and upon the whole.

The nations of the world now recognize the failure of narrow nationalism, both political and economic. They are all suffering from it, but they have not yet agreed upon a formula for its removal. Recognizing the disease, they are not yet prepared to apply a universal cure. Consequently, we find the nations as separate units devoting their energies to a solution of their own problems and difficulties regardless of the effect which their actions and policies may have upon other nations. On the face of it, this is but a continuance of extreme narrow nationalism, but the almost certain outcome must be a still more acute realization that the nations cannot live unto themselves alone but must come together, and work together for their mutual advantage if they are not all to crash together.

Narrow nationalism, born of war, can only end in war. And the next World War,—if it comes,—will far exceed in its magnitude and disastrous results to civilization even the great conflict of 1914-1918, tremendous in its repercussions as it has proven to be.

A Remarkable Invention

Ray Demonstrated In London, England, Does Many Wonderful Things

One of the most remarkable inventions of the age has been secretly demonstrated in London, Eng. It is a ray that will make flower-buds grow into flowers in a few minutes; take night photographs of objects several hundred yards distant; penetrate the densest fog, and cure a number of complaints.

The ray upon which its inventor, Mr. A. E. W. Batchelor, has been working for the past ten years, is causing tremendous interest in many British industries, particularly those connected with horticulture. A demonstration at the nurseries of a leading firm of seedsmen recently produced astonishing results. A pot of crocus bulbs which had not even begun to show signs of flower buds, and which normally would have taken several days to bloom, were placed in the radius of the ray. Within ten minutes their petals had appeared and spread themselves.

"It is possible, materially, to increase the yields of all crops," Mr. Batchelor said. "Clover, clover hay, cereals, roots and sugar beet can all be improved both as regards yields and food value. The maturing properties of the ray are shortly to be extended to fruit and vegetables so that strawberries and fresh garden peas and beans out of season are all within the realms of possibility."

One of the remarkable features of the ray is the ease with which it is claimed it penetrates darkness and the densest fog, clearly revealing objects at several hundred yards distant.

When She Lost 28 lbs.

She Gained Energy

This young woman's method of reducing overweight is evidently as beneficial as it is effective, and a letter she writes is therefore worthy of publication:—

"I am 24 years of age; height 5 ft. 5½ ins.; and a short time ago my weight was 28 lbs. above normal. I was listless and without energy. Now after taking Kruschen Salts regularly I have lost 28 lbs. in weight, and have much more vitality. Also I have a very good complexion and I do not have face blemishes of any kind. Surely this must be due to my having pure blood, and I attribute the fact to my taking Kruschen Salts."—(Miss) M. S.

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which would otherwise be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

Review Favourable Year For Royal Bank of Canada

STRONG POSITION MAINTAINED

Sir Herbert Holt, President, Takes Strong View That Canada Is Now Definitely on the Upgrade.

Morris W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager, Reviews Strong Statement.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Royal Bank of Canada marked the close of a most successful year.

Sir Herbert Holt, President, in his address struck an optimistic note when he stated that he considered that Canada was now definitely on the upgrade. Its progress, however, was being retarded by too heavy taxation and the cost of maintaining so many Governments in the country was rapidly becoming unbearable.

Morris W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager, in his address reviewed the outstanding features of the strong statement of the Bank. The feature of paramount importance in connection with the possible formation of a Central Bank, added Mr. Wilson, would be the quality of its management.

President's Address

Sir Herbert S. Holt, President, in moving the adoption of the Directors' Report, said in part:

The 64th Annual Report and Balance Sheet submitted to you to-day disclose the strong position of the bank. While Balance Sheet figures are somewhat smaller than those of a year ago, this reflects a falling off in international deposits rather than contraction of Canadian business. In fact, a notable feature is an increase in Canadian Demand and Savings deposits during the year. The liquid position is eminently satisfactory. As you would expect, the restricted demand for commercial loans, and the resultant increase in our holdings of less remunerative assets in the form of Dominion and Provincial Government securities, has combined with other factors to reduce profits. In April last, the dividend was reduced from 10 per cent. to 8 per cent., and the last three quarterly dividends have been paid at that rate. The improvement which has taken place in business during the last six months, has already had a beneficial effect on earnings.

Referring to the situation in Canada, the President said: "I am glad to say that since we last met there has been a distinct improvement in Canadian business. I have had the opportunity of seeing this country recover from depressions on various occasions during the last fifty years and the present movement appears to be taking place along the accustomed lines. As soon as world trade commences to revive there is an improved demand for Canadian raw materials. Canadian exports increase substantially, surplus inventories disappear and greater activity in the principal exporting industries provides additional employment with a consequent improvement in purchasing power and domestic trade. This has been the sequence of events in Canada during the last six months."

The Railway Situation.

Dealing with the situation of the Government railways, Sir Herbert expressed the opinion that the time for half measures had passed and that bold and courageous action was required. He felt that the views expressed at the last Annual Meeting that enforced co-operation between the two railway systems would not be a satisfactory remedy had been confirmed by the experience of the past year and is still of the opinion that the maximum of economy can only be obtained by some form of administrative amalgamation.

The President made a strong demand for a reduction of Governmental debts and pointed out that the cost of maintaining too numerous governments, Federal, Provincial and Municipal, was becoming unbearable. He said: "Greater activity in business will reduce unemployment, produce increased revenues, and a reduction in disbursements for public relief. Advantage should be taken of these developments to reduce debts rather than increase expenditures.'

Conditions In Other Countries.

In referring to conditions in other countries he expressed the view that the low point in the depression for most of the world was reached in the latter part of 1932, and since that time there has been a general increase in international trade. Reference to the United States was made as follows:—"While business in the United States commenced to improve about the middle of 1932 it later suffered a relapse due to their banking difficulties and the hesitation and uncertainty which precede a change of administration. Since last March quite material progress has been made. It is difficult to analyze the effects of their policies and impossible to prophesy the outcome. Their central idea that an increase in the price level must be obtained is sound common sense and is now quite generally accepted as such throughout the world. At our Annual Meetings of the last three years we have emphasized and re-emphasized the necessity for a higher price level. I see no reason why it cannot be achieved in due course."

In closing Sir Herbert Holt said: "At our last Annual Meeting I expressed the feeling that indications pointed to the initiation of a substantial recovery in 1933. This year it is possible to go one step farther and to venture the opinion that we are now definitely on the up-grade. If we deal intelligently with the main problems that confront us we can expect within measurable time a return of general prosperity."

General Manager's Address.

Mr. M. W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager, in referring to the position of the bank pointed out that liquid assets totalled $362,471,000, and were equal to 55.76% of public liabilities, compared with 52.86% of the previous year. A notable feature is that 24.26% of such liabilities is represented by cash and cash balances aggregating $157,699,000. He mentioned the further interesting fact that in Canada current deposits increased about $17,000,000 during the year and savings deposits were higher by $2,000,000.

In discussing the proposed central bank he recalled the hope which he expressed at the last Annual Meeting that the Government would see fit to have the project examined by a body of experts and said: "The Royal Commission on Banking and Currency which was constituted last summer could not have been better chosen. Under the Chairmanship of Lord Macmillan their sittings in all parts of the country were notable for the freedom with which all possible evidence was received and for the patience and tact displayed in dealing with the material submitted. While I do not agree with the Report in its entirety I believe that a properly constituted Central Bank can be developed as a useful adjunct to our banking system."

Note Issue.

Mr. Wilson expressed the strong opinion that the recommendations in the Report with respect to the gradual withdrawal of the note-issuing privileges of the Chartered Banks did not appear to be in the public interest. Retention of these privileges would not hamper the Central Bank in its efforts to control credit. In this connection he quoted an editorial which appeared in the London Economist to the effect that the Central Bank would not be in the least weakened by allowing the Chartered Banks to retain their present issues under the present restrictions. Mr. Wilson went on to say: "I think, therefore, that we should view the elimination of bank note issues not as a step which must inevitably accompany the creation of a central bank but as a separate matter entirely. The real question is whether the Government desire to have banking service maintained at many small points throughout the country or to appropriate the revenue of note issues for themselves. I believe that the gain to the Government would not offset the loss to the public through curtailment of banking facilities. Unquestionably there are many places which could no longer support a branch bank if note issuing privileges were to be withdrawn. The operation of a number of small branches at a bare margin of profit is characteristic of banking in this country. We have a system which in many of its aspects is native to the Dominion and prudence should prompt us to be very cautious in advocating fundamental changes."

In conclusion Mr. Wilson said: "At our last Annual Meeting I ventured to suggest that the prospect of further improvement in the coming year was very much more hopeful than it was the previous year. That prediction has been borne out by subsequent developments. For the first time in years an attitude of quiet but confident optimism is in evidence almost everywhere. Many problems still have to be solved but I have full confidence in the ability of Canada to share in the continued improvement in economic conditions which I believe lies ahead of us."

"A new word is wanted," comments a writer, "to signify the horrible noises now made by such things as pneumatic drills and motor-bikes." What's wrong with "jazz," for goodness' sake?

Miss Freda Thompson, who has just been granted a flying instructor's license in Australia, is the first woman in that country and third in the British Empire to hold such a license.

PREMIERS FROM WEST DENY ANY EXTRAVAGANCE

Ottawa.—Spokesmen for the four western provinces were understood to have cited facts and figures to show recent allegations of governmental extravagances on their part were unfounded as they addressed the Dominion-provincial conference.

The premier of one province west of the Great Lakes is believed to have made a comprehensive reply to criticism directed at the west and to have been supported by representatives of the other three regardless of party persuasion.

Critics of the west, it is believed were challenged to produce a single reputable banking or bond house which would not say the west had gone further than any other part of Canada in cutting governmental expenditures to meet the stress of falling revenues.

As to the charge that loan guarantees and advances made by the federal government to the western governments would not be repaid, the western spokesmen cited facts and figures to prove the contrary. Given dollar wheat once more, one westerner said, on three items of revenue alone the prairie provinces could balance their budgets and meet their obligations to the last dollar.

Another thing often forgotten, the conference is said to have been told, was that the western provinces for years had protested the bringing in of immigrants by the federal government. Now 65 per cent of the population on relief were people who had come to Canada within the last five years.

An analysis of the distribution of the Dominion governments expenditures on public works is believed to have been presented to show that the west got less than its equitable share on the basis of population. Figures on federal subsidies were cited with the same end in view.

Speakers at the session, it is understood, included Premier John Bracken of Manitoba, Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia, Premier J. E. Brownlee of Alberta and Hon. M. A. MacPherson, attorney-general and treasurer of Saskatchewan.

Cruising In Lifeboat

Norwegian Making Second Atlantic Crossing In Frail Craft

Halifax.—Somewhere in mid-Atlantic a frail little shell of a boat is plowing along between Africa and South America. Aboard is Alfon Hansen, with his dog and cat. The navigator is heading for Rio de Janeiro from Sierra Leon, in Africa. A postcard to a friend here brought word of his latest venture. Their craft is a lifeboat decked over and equipped with sails. In it the strange trio has already crossed the Atlantic once—from Hansen's native Norway to North America.

Would Not Change Matters

Washington.—Replying to a speech by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, Democrat from Illinois, that the St. Lawrence treaty would give Great Britain a "military avenue through the United States," Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, told the United States senate, Britain and Canada have every navigation right on the Great Lakes now that they would have under the new pact.

Informer Gets Prize

Toronto.—As a "common informer," Leslie Saunders, telephone employee, of Niagara Falls, was awarded an automobile won by William Mollison, bank clerk, in a draw held at a service club carnival last July. Mr. Justice Charles Garrow, in Osgoode hall, made the award.

Deputy Minister Of Labor

Ottawa.—The appointment of William M. Dickson as deputy minister of labor was announced officially here. His appointment dates from Jan. 1. Mr. Dickson has been private secretary of Hon. Wesley Gordon, minister of labor.

Trappers Are On Rations

Winter Trails To North Impassable And Supplies Are Delayed

Prince Albert, Sask. — Northern trappers and traders are on rations as overland freighters, balked by unprecedented difficulties of travel, are a month and a half late in arriving at Lac La Ronge and other trading centres.

Heavy falls of snow which came before frosts had provided a solid covering for northern muskegs have rendered heavily travelled winter trails impassable. Horses, floundering about in the slush, and drivers and helpers, wet to their waists have battled through only to the north end of Montreal lake, slightly more than half the distance to the principal northern point,

Fresh frosts harden the broken trail, but there still remains 70 miles, mostly over muskegs, to be broken.

Flour and sugar are becoming a rarity in many northern camps and trading posts were out of many of the staple commodities until aeroplanes, pressed into service in emergency, have commenced to bring relief.

Aviator's Strange Experience

Encountered Weather So Warm Grease Melted On 'Plane

Edmonton.—One more example of the almost unbelievable flying conditions pilots of the far north country must endure is cited by Pilot W. Leigh Brintnell, president of Mackenzie Air Services, on his return to the city after two flights into the Nahanni river country, northwest of Fort Simpson. On his second flight into the country, carrying a party of mining engineers, Brintnell took off from Simpson in weather nearly 70 below zero.

As the flight progressed into the mysterious Nahanni, land of the supposed "tropical" valleys, he flew into a "Chinook," a warm current which apparently swept in over the mountains from some part of the Japan current. Within a short time the air was so warm that heavy grease, plastered on the shock-absorbing springs of his ski-fitted landing gear, melted and ran down the undercarriage.

Garment Workers Strike

One Manufacturer In Toronto Says Demands Are Reasonable

Toronto.—More than 2,000 garment workers went on strike here, completely paralyzing the industry, with demands for higher wages and shorter hours which at least one manufacturer conceded were reasonable. But he said employers were unable to do anything without government intervention.

"The garment industry," declared S. Davies of the Davies Cloak Co., "needs someone like Roosevelt to step in with his NRA, take control, put a stop to cut-throat competition, stipulate maximum working hours and see that the workers get a decent wage.

"The situation is so widespread that government intervention is the only thing that will be any use," he said. "All the charges that workers make are true."

Shows Great Improvement

Bureau Of Statistics Issues Annual Review Of Employment

Ottawa. — Reflecting a steady march of workers back into gainful employment after long or short periods of idleness, the Dominion bureau of statistics has issued its annual review of employment covering 1933. A distinct upward trend, starting about April 1, is shown in the figures which are based on the payroll reports of some 8,140 employers.

In all, 146,900 people were added to the number of wage-earners in Canada by these firms from April 1 to Dec. 1. During that period the index number of employment (based on 1926 at 100) jumped 15.8 points or 20.8 per cent from year's low of 76.0 to 91.8.

Payrolls were increased in the prairie provinces by 13,600 and in British Columbia by 13,900.

OPENS CAMPAIGN

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has opened a speaking campaign to explain the aims of the National government to electors of the country. He will speak at Leeds this week.

Asks Stronger Air Force

Winston Churchill Pleads For More Adequate Protection

New York.—Declaring Great Britain is "girt about with many dangers," Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill called in an address in London for the building of a strong protective air force and full co-operation with the League of Nations.

A transcript of the address, made available in New York, quoted the former chancellor of the exchequer as saying:

"The hideous curse of war from the air has fallen upon the world, and I say to you, don't you think we ought to try to make ourselves as strong against attack from the air as our navy used to make us against invasion across the sea?"

Adopt White Baby

Chinese In Vancouver Legally Adopt Six-Months-Old Child

Vancouver.—Leave to adopt a six-months-old white boy was given a Chinese couple in supreme court by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald.

The foster parents are Lim Won, proprietor of a Victoria greenhouse, 42, and his wife, Lim Loo Shee, aged 28.

The boy will bear the name of Bryan Denis Lim, and will be brought up in the religion of his foster parents, who are Protestants.

Anticipate Change In Dollar

Parliament May Be Asked To Reduce Gold Content

Toronto.—The Toronto Globe in a special despatch from its Ottawa correspondent said parliament will be asked, according to belief in cabinet circles, to reduce the gold content of the Canadian dollar.

The Globe said: "The adoption by statute of such a lower gold content for the Canadian dollar would, undoubtedly, have widespread reaction. It would in due time reduce by one-third the burden of all indebtedness payable in Canadian currency, and would tend to increase prices of commodities in the domestic trade of Canada in similar proportion."

The newspaper said there was now agitation in favor of parliament fixing a new gold standard "of say, 14 grains or 15 grains of pure gold to the dollar."

The present statutory gold content of the dollar is 23.22 grains.

Stratosphere Flights Planned

Two Announced By U.S. National Geographic Society

Washington.—Plans for two new stratosphere flights with the largest balloon ever constructed, designed to reach an altitude of 15 miles, have been announced by the National Geographic society and army air corps.

The two ascents, scheduled for June and September, will seek to reach the greatest height to which it is practicable for a balloon to lift a man. The crew of the new stratosphere balloon will consist of Captain Albert W. Stevens, noted observer and photographer, of the air corps, and Major William Kepner, air corps balloon expert, with First Lieutenant Orvil A. Anderson, air corps, as alternate.

Will Eliminate Competition

Provinces Agree To Hold Fishing Seasons At Different Times

Winnipeg.—Agreements for elimination of competitive fishing seasons in the lakes of Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta were tentatively arrived at at the interprovincial fisheries conference called by Hon. J. S. McDiarmid, minister of natural resources for Manitoba.

Instead of fishing seasons of the different provinces being held simultaneously, it was agreed they should be held as far as possible at different times so wasteful flooding of the market would be eliminated.

BANK CRASH CAUSES TROUBLE FOR FRENCH CABINET

Facing a chamber of angry deputies, Premier Chautemps was forced to defend his regime from corruption charges as a result of the gigantic Bayonne Pawnshop swindle, while mobs rioted outside the Chamber in Paris. Boldly scoffing at the police assertion that Alexandre Stavisky, central figure in the bank crash, committed suicide, influential Parisian papers demand a full investigation of the case, known throughout France as "L'Affaire Stavisky". Already one Cabinet Minister, Albert Dalimier, Minister of Colonies, has resigned over his connection with the case, and Joseph Garat, Mayor of Bayonne, is under arrest. What the French people want to know is how Stavisky, a native of Russia, known to the police as an inveterate swindler and forger, was allowed to operate for years, perpetrating frauds that will cause a loss of $31,000,000 to investors. High political influence is hinted and sensational disclosures predicted.

NO CURRENCY WAR BETWEEN U.S. AND BRITAIN

London.—A secret mission to London recently by a member of President Roosevelt's "brain trust" was reported here as the basis of an informal currency agreement which may hold the pound around a $5 ratio.

Americans in close touch with official circles in London heard various reports that a monetary expert of the United States government came here soon after the resignation of Oliver M. W. Sprague as financial executive assistant to the secretary of the treasury on November 21.

The expert was said to have had conferences with Bank of England officials and to have arrived at an understanding about methods by which London and Washington would be kept informed of each other's policy. No formal agreement was proposed or deemed necessary, but the basis of the understanding was believed to be to let market trends take their course, with exchange equalization funds used to iron out fluctuations in currencies.

Highest authorities, meanwhile, gave assurance that rumors of an Anglo-American currency war as the result of President Roosevelt's revaluation were without foundation. Officials of the treasury and Bank of England were silent on the matter.

Earthquake Takes Heavy Toll

Report From India States 2,000 Killed In Disaster

Calcutta.—Reports of damage and loss of life far beyond original estimates flowed into Calcutta from all parts of India shaken in violent earthquakes on January 15. These unconfirmed reports indicated an estimate of 2,000 dead would not be excessive.

Known dead stood at 1,122 as officials awaited further word from stricken areas, particularly Muzaffarpur, Jamalpur, Patna, Bezwadas and Bankura.

Hundreds were reported killed in Muzaffarpur. Despatches said the streets were littered with corpses.

Relief was being speeded to cities which suffered most heavily from the quake. Tents and provisions were despatched to Jamalpur where 33 were killed and 130 buildings destroyed. The populace in the Patna district, fearing further shocks, was living in the open. In that region 56 were killed. Mild shocks continued but were nothing in comparison to the first one which rocked all India.

Seed Grain Is Mixed

Poor Quality Being Used In Saskatchewan Drought Areas

Saskatoon.—Seed grain used in the areas of Saskatchewan that have had crop failures is now poorer and more mixed than at any time in the history of the province, F. W. Townley-Smith, president of the Saskatchewan branch of the Canadian Seed Growers' association, warned members of the provincial body in convention here.

A special committee of the association is working on a plan to aid the grower of registered seed to sell his product, he announced.

General Currie's Horse Dies

Montreal.—Barely a month and a half after his master died, mourned by the multitude that knew him in war and peace, General Sir Arthur Currie's cherished charger—Brock—died unbeknown to anybody in his stall at Sir Arthur's brother's farm at Strathroy, Ont., it was learned here.

Endorse World Peace

Edmonton.—Endorsing every action assuring world peace, the United Farm Women of Alberta convention here cabled Hon. Arthur Henderson, chairman of the disarmament conference at Geneva, commending him for his work and urging continuation of all endeavors to prevent war

Thanks to the telephone the doctor came in time

Tom Henderson learned the value of the telephone when his wife took ill. The doctor was notified by telephone, and soon after he was at the sick woman's bedside. He was sent for "just in time," he told Tom.

Thanks to medical skill—and the telephone—Mrs. Henderson's life was saved.

"And I used to think we could get along without a telephone," said Henderson. "I know better now."

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, JAN. 26

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wickstrom OK's NRA

Snohomish, Wash.,
Jan. 8, 1934.

Editor Review:

Sir,—Well, we still are in God's country, as they are saying here, and it sure looks fine now. Had sunshine for a few days, and warm weather yesterday. We drove around this country, up around Lake Stevens, and have enjoyed the scenery. Greee grass growing after all this rain, and cattle feeding in pasture.

In December we had only a few decent days. Rain and rain. Farmers on the bottom or low land had a tough time. Some had to move upstairs in their houses; others moved out to some upland. The flood did not do much damage ere. Washed out a few here and there.

But these floods seem to fertilize the land. If there is a winter without high water, they claim it means a poor crop. So far I can see things are picking up very good here. People are getting work all over. Roads, bridge and construction work is under way and they are paying 50 cents per hour; six hour day, and five-day week.

Merchants say they had a brisker Christmas business this year than for two years previous, and I believe so, because we went to Everett the Saturday before Christmas to do some shopping but, O, boy, what a crowd. Every store packed to capacity, and looked like everybody had their arms full of packages going out.

We are figuring on going to Vancouver next Saturday to visit some of our former neighbors and friends, and suppose we will stay there a couple of weeks then come back here again for awhile; then hike back to Creston. When you are away in a foreign land just get a paper from your old home town, and that is what we are getting as you were prompt in changing our Review from Creston to our present home. Wishing you all a happy New Year. E. WICKSTROM.

PENSIONS RESOLUTION

Adopted by Creston Valley Post Canadian Legion

WHEREAS this meeting of veterans called by the Creston Valley Post, No. 29, branch of the Canadian Legion, considers that the present trend of pension administration is unsympathetic and unjust, and is obviously designed to accomplish drastic retrenchment in complete disregard of the rights and needs of pensioners.

AND WHEREAS the present activities of the Department of Pensions and National Health are causing serious hardship and distress among veterans and their dependents;

BE IT RESOLVED that this meeting of veterans promises its wholehearted support to its endorsation of any policy that the Canadian Legion through its Provincial and Dominion Commands may find it necessary to adopt in directing the attention of the Dominion legislature to the serious condition of affairs now existing among ve erans, pensioners and non-pensioners alike.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the federal member of parliament, representing this constituency, be asked to give his unlimited support in the next session of the Dominion Parliament, to any proposals that may be made by the Canadian Legion and kindred veteran organization that would tend to give Canada a more humane administration of pensions and greater consideration to the many difficulties of those who served the country in its time of need.

Thanks to the telephone the doctor came in time

Tom Henderson learned the value of the telephone when his wife took ill. The doctor was notified by telephone, and soon after he was at the sick woman's bedside. He was sent for "just in time," he told Tom.

Thanks to medical skill—and the telephone—Mrs. Henderson's life was saved.

"And I used to think we could get along without a telephone," said Henderson. "I know better now."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wickstrom OK's NRA

Snohomish, Wash.,
Jan. 8, 1934.

Editor Review:

Sir,—Well, we still are in God's country, as they are saying here, and it sure looks fine now. Had sunshine for a few days, and warm weather yesterday. We drove around this country, up around Lake Stevens, and have enjoyed the scenery. Greee grass growing after all this rain, and cattle feeding in pasture.

In December we had only a few decent days. Rain and rain. Farmers on the bottom or low land had a tough time. Some had to move upstairs in their houses; others moved out to some upland. The flood did not do much damage ere. Washed out a few here and there.

But these floods seem to fertilize the land. If there is a winter without high water, they claim it means a poor crop. So far I can see things are picking up very good here. People are getting work all over. Roads, bridge and construction work is under way and they are paying 50 cents per hour; six hour day, and five-day week.

Merchants say they had a brisker Christmas business this year than for two years previous, and I believe so, because we went to Everett the Saturday before Christmas to do some shopping but, O, boy, what a crowd. Every store packed to capacity, and looked like everybody had their arms full of packages going out.

We are figuring on going to Vancouver next Saturday to visit some of our former neighbors and friends, and suppose we will stay there a couple of weeks then come back here again for awhile; then hike back to Creston. When you are away in a foreign land just get a paper from your old home town, and that is what we are getting as you were prompt in changing our Review from Creston to our present home. Wishing you all a happy New Year. E. WICKSTROM.

PENSIONS RESOLUTION

Adopted by Creston Valley Post Canadian Legion

WHEREAS this meeting of veterans called by the Creston Valley Post, No. 29, branch of the Canadian Legion, considers that the present trend of pension administration is unsympathetic and unjust, and is obviously designed to accomplish drastic retrenchment in complete disregard of the rights and needs of pensioners.

AND WHEREAS the present activities of the Department of Pensions and National Health are causing serious hardship and distress among veterans and their dependents;

BE IT RESOLVED that this meeting of veterans promises its wholehearted support to its endorsation of any policy that the Canadian Legion through its Provincial and Dominion Commands may find it necessary to adopt in directing the attention of the Dominion legislature to the serious condition of affairs now existing among ve erans, pensioners and non-pensioners alike.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the federal member of parliament, representing this constituency, be asked to give his unlimited support in the next session of the Dominion Parliament, to any proposals that may be made by the Canadian Legion and kindred veteran organization that would tend to give Canada a more humane administration of pensions and greater consideration to the many difficulties of those who served the country in its time of need.

Marvels of the Human Eye

By F. M. CROWE, Optometrist-Optician, Calgary

NO. 6—ASTIGMATISM

We now come to a very common defect of the eye, one little understood by the public many of whom consider it a visible inflammatory condition or disease or that it is a temporary ailment, which is not so.

The simplest explanation of Astigmatism would be to describe it as an eyeball in which one or both refractive surfaces (Lens and Cornea) are not symmetrically curved. Try and visualize a perfectly round ball of glass from which you cut a slice. Now the Cornea of the eye should be as equally curved in all meridians as that slice of glass and when it is not, the condition is known as Astigmatim. It is usually congenital but may be acquired by a blow or result from a scar after an ulcer has healed. It is also considered probable that many cases of Astigmatism have resulted from undue pressure on the eyeball in infancy by the parent washing the child's eyes, also by the children rubbing their eyes in the horizontal direction in their "crying" years as it is usually in the horizontal direction that Astigmatism exists. An unsymmetrical (not uniformly curved) Lens is usually due to the muscles forcing it to assume a shape which will, as near as possible, offset or neutralize the malformed Cornea, in the interests of good vision.

We have seen that rays of light from any object, to be seen clearly and comfortably, must focus on the Retina and to do so must pass through symmetrically curved surfaces which you see is impossible where Astigmatism exists because the focus is a blurred line instead of a sharp point. The poor vision which would result from Astigmatism of moderate amount is often overcome by the above action of the Lens. The third motor nerve sends power to the Ciliary muscle (which controls the action of the Lens) and the Lens is forced into an unnatural shape in the effort to obtain a clear brain image. But imagine, if you can, the excessive amount of nerve energy used up by such eyes for say sixteen hours daily year after year. Is it any wonder such people eventually break down under the strain.

Some symptoms of Astigmatism are headaches, nervousness, irritability, loss of "pep", tilting of the head to see better, nausea, indigestion, chronic constipation and even St. Vitus' Dance. Different individuals are differently affected. The symptoms occuring in an individual depend upon the age, temperament, physique and occupation.

Strange as it may seem the discomfort experienced as a result of Astigmatism is not at all in proportion to the amount of error. In fact it usually bears the reverse ratio as we find the better the vision the greater the eyestrain where a small amount of error exists. It is estimated that normal eyes use about thirty-five per cent of the nerve energy of a normal body. How much is used by eyes that are abnormal? Could a body remain healthy under such circumstances? You answer.

We have no more reason to expect the eyes to be perfect than the features or any other organ. Neither are they so and few eyes are without some degree of Astigmatism. A small amount can be tolerated by many without discomfort especially in outdoor occupations, but the present age of excessive close work, study, reading for pleasure, strong electric light, moving pictures and "glare" from almost everything we look at, all tend to manifest the defects in the human eye. It is doubtful if our forefathers' eyes were any better or worse than those of this generation but they lived differently, ate differently, retired earlier, had plenty of soothing green grass and trees to meet their gaze instead of the reflections from city pavements and roads, auto radiators, store windows, etc. What artificial light they used was coal oil or gas, not electricity which is charged with rays harmful to the eyes.

Am I advocating a return to the old condition of things? By no means. I am merely pointing out that "eye-consciousness" and many ailments remote from, yet due to eye conditions, is part of the price we are paying for advancing civilization.

It has taken quite a time for me to tell you the worst. Now comes much better news. Science has again come to our aid in the form of instruments which, in the hands of a skillful optometrist, measures the amount and kind of Astigmatism and other eye defects — also machinery for grinding special lenses which when worn entirely neutralizes the effects of the abnormal conditions with resultant normal vision, normal amount of nerve energy used for the eyes leaving the other organs with their proper share. The unpleasant eye and bodily symptoms disappear, work is more efficient and life is enjoyed instead of tolerated.

Bridge Advice Costly

The Dayton News says an argument took place in a women's bridge game—as they often do. A technical question of cutting the cards was referred by two disputants to a New York bridge authority by telegram. The answer came quickly. Next day came a bill from the expert for $30. The women took it to a lawyer. He charged them $5 for his advice. Total cost, $35.

In the first eight months of this year 20,000,000 tons of shipping passed through the Suez Canal, a large increase over the same period of 1932.

It is estimated that if all the ice of Greenland and Antarctica should melt, enough water would be added to the oceans to raise their level 150 feet. This would drown out most of the world's great seaports.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 15.

Explanations and Comments

Receipts for Blessedness. verses 3-10. "Blessed"—with this word Jesus begins each of the "Beatitudes," as we call these verses, from Beati, Blessed, the word with which they begin in the Latin version. Blessed means something more than happy; it implies a deeper, holier joy. Happiness may seem to depend upon circumstances, upon what one has or does: blessedness always depends upon relationship to God, upon what one is. "Blessedness," writes B. C. Caffin, "is inward and abiding; outward prosperity cannot give it, nor can adversity take it away. It is like the depths of the ocean: the surface is changeful, sometimes calm and waveless, sometimes tossed hither and thither by the restless winds; while deep below there is ever the same changeless rest, silence and peace."

And who are blessed? The poor in spirit, said Jesus. "Poor in spirit" is in no sense poor-spirited; rather is it the truest manliness. The poor in spirit are the humble-minded, who are conscious of their need of God. "The gospel has never had any power with people who want nothing better than what they have, nor with those who, being greatly in need—as indeed we all are—have never known it. The gospel comes into the world, so the Beatitudes teach us, not through the door of pride, but the door of humility; not down the road of satisfaction but the road of longing" (Gains Glenn Atkins).

"The life that needs nothing, or thinks that it needs nothing, does not reach upward, and soon drops its connection with the Giver of all good."

Would Catch Sea Serpent

Deep-Sea Fisherman Submits Plan To Victoria People

George P. Wilson, experienced deep-sea fisherman of San Diego, Calif., has proposed a method of catching cadborosaurus, hero of many Victoria sea serpent stories.

Wilson advises use of raw meat or a large fish as bait. He suggests a barbed hook at least a foot long and six inches wide attached to 50 feet of half-inch steel cable, then 50 yards of one-inch manila rope. The rope would be attached to a 50-gallon watertight oil drum and another 50 yards of manila rope would lead to a second drum. The entire "line' would be trolled from a motorboat.

"Once caught," said Wilson, "Caddy would find his progress handicapped by two heavy drums if he had designs on the boat. If he dived and had sufficient strength to drag the barrels under, they would soon force him to the surface. In time, he would become exhausted and his captors could easily tow him ashore."

May Be Badly Printed

But Bible Still Retains Its High Place In Literature

The Bible may be as described by the Rev. Pearcy Dearmer, canon of Westminster Abbey in London, the worst printed book in the world. He complains that it is offered in forbidding form, with titles of essays and poems left out and chapters divided into verses of convenient length for parsing.

From the editorial and typographical viewpoint, there may be room for argument and perhaps some support of Canon Dearmer's criticism. Evidently he is not alone as witness several attempts to modernize the Bible in up-to-date vernacular and rearrangement of verses.

But from the circulation standpoint there is no point in the criticism. The Bible, if it be the worst printed book, remains also the most printed book, the most widely read not only as Holy Writ but also purely as a high peak in literature.—San Francisco Chronicle.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. At a party at an exclusive club Peter entertains Camilla's guests with impersonations. When the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the gaiety, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Avis is stunned and Camilla's mother likewise.

(Now Go On With The Story.)

CHAPTER XXVII.

Camilla's unshaken faith in Peter and her quiet resignation to any opinion or ultimatum, had mollified Mrs. Hoyt, somewhat. She did not disown her as a daughter or command her to leave the Hoyt household, but Camilla decided for herself that it would be the wiser course. She consulted with Rose about renting a small apartment at once.

"I have enough to live on for a few weeks, and I'll surely find work soon," she explained. She had met Rose downtown for the lunch hour and they were facing each other across a little onyx-topped table in a tearoom, when she told Rose about her marriage to Peter.

"So you're married!" Rose had reproached her. "That's no way to go into business—or marriage, either. You don't know what you are or what you want. Gee! kid, if I had your chance to be somebody—talent like you've got and a swell education—I wouldn't look at a man."

"As soon as I get work, Rose, I'll help you to go to night school for that secretarial course," Camilla promised generously.

"That's what I want, all right. And you won't see me hitching up to drag a truck after me, just when I get in form, either. Single harness for me and a light, fancy load behind that is mostly myself."

"You will forget all those resolutions if you ever fall in love, Rose," Camilla smiled kindly, with her own wisdom.

Rose waved the suggestion aside with a flourish of her fork. "I don't believe in that kind of love anymore than I believe there's a Santa Claus. But say, why do you want to live with me, now? Why don't you go and live with your husband, now that the secret is out?"

"Whether or not it's a secret, has nothing to do with that. Peter and I agreed to live apart until he is able to take care of me. That may be for a long time yet."

"That's goofy, I'll say. Why wouldn't it be better for you to shuffle your incomes and go fifty-fifty? Plenty of couples do that and manage to get along."

"And plenty of them don't. No, Rose, when a girl gives her best to her work for a salary and tries to keep house, she has to let down on one of them. Naturally, it's the housekeeping. As a wife, she fails; or at least, home becomes so unpleasant that the man and woman get to thinking it is each other they hate. No, until Peter can take care of me, what he sees of me will be my best. We shall only be together for pleasure, just as if we were lovers. That way, we always shall be lovers, and our happiness will be saved for the future."

"Oh, I see," laughed Rose, "you prefer being an occasional wife—something like those occasional chairs and tables they advertise to have around the house for extra use. They're there, ready to be used whenever they're needed. Handy that way, all right."

For an instant, Camilla resented her sister's comparison, then she laughed, also. "Put it that way if you wish I'll add to the metaphor. The occasional chair is not used so much as the old armchair and it stays newer looking and is treated with more respect. It is the guest chair. That is what I shall be to Peter—his guest-wife."

"Well, its' all right to be a guest and sit in a bright new occasional chair for an evening, but you sure do like to get home again and slouch down in the old armchair that knows every crook and turn of your disposition, even if it is worn to threads on the arms where yours have rested when you're tired."

Camilla was delighted with Rose's sudden burst of droll philosophy. How wise she was, in spite of her limited education and training. She would make a shrewed business woman without a doubt, and Camilla resolved that she would sacrifice if necessary, to assure her more training for the position of which she was capable.

"Peter isn't going to be much concerned with comfy armchairs or wives, either, for awhile," she continued. "Right now, he is so busy that he scarcely knows he has a wife. And that's what I'll have to do, to get work. I'll have to try harder, and perhaps just take any kind of work to get started. Happen to know of anything at all I could do?"

"Not a thing. If I weren't the only file clerk at Dawson's, I'd be afraid of my own job. Wherever two people are working at the same thing, there's a possibility of elimination these days. You should be glad you have it easy, and forget about hunting for a job that some other girl needs."

"There's nothing fair about that idea. Anyone who has enough ambition and ability to work, has a right to. And I want to leave the Hoyts right away. I want to start being independent, and I'll promise not to be a burden to you. Can't we look for a place on Saturday? Rents are lower now, and I've been noticing the food prices. It won't cost you any more than living at home and you've been wanting to leave. Ed and Henry can take care of the rest all right, and you know Ma told you to do as you wished."

"Oh, sure, I do want to get away, and live more like you do, Camilla. I was only thinking about you. I'm afraid you won't like it, after being used to having everything so grand."

"You just imagine it's grand, honey. You wouldn't think so if you could trade places."

"Well, I wish I could for awhile—that's all. I wouldn't be looking for trouble as you do. All right, then, I'll be seein' you on Saturday. If you have time, you might look around. If you see anything you like, it'll be okay with me. You know as well as I do what we can afford—you with nothing and me with eighteen a week, she shrugged.

Peter looked up from his work to discover Gus Matson standing in the doorway, grinning broadly. "Oh, hello!" he exclaimed. "Come in."

Gus sauntered into the room. "Quite a surprise to see me?"

"Yeah. Where have you been all summer?"

"Oh, around. Didn't think you wanted to see me," he dropped into a chair and glanced up surreptitiously.

"That's all over," Peter dismissed the past. "Sorry you made a fool of yourself."

"Hasn't a fellow a right to make love to a girl if he wants to?"

"Sure. But that's not what I mean, and you know it."

"Oh, well, all's fair in—"

"That was neither," Peter interrupted him sternly.

"Oh, yeah? Gonna start bossin' me again?"

"I should say not. I wouldn't consider the job again. Is that what you came here for, to offer me a chance to be your guardian again?"

"No — and yes. Fact is, I'm up against it, and I wondered if you could help me a little, Peter, you always were a good scout. I have some work promised after next month, but I gotta eat until then."

"While you finish your piece for the exhibit? It's the same with me."

"Exhibit? Who said I was working for the exhibit?"

"Aren't you?" surprised.

"No. Are you?"

"Why, yes—thought you had the same model."

"Say, d'you suppose I'm crazy enough to think I have a chance to win anything you enter?"

"I don't know, why not. Besides, it brings your work to the attention of the right people. That's the reason I'm entering. I'd like to win, of course, but I don't expect to."

Unusual Situation In China

Women Gain Prominence And Are Crowding Men Out

Women, from sing-song girls to university professors, are so much in the news in China that they are crowding the men out of the picture.

The Chinese, long accustomed to keeping their women behind the orchid door, now find them very much in the open. At dinner parties, balls, theatricals, sports events and all public and social functions Chinese women are very much in evidence.

General Han Fu-chu, Governor of Shantung, who is a militarist of the old school, is a convert. On a recent visit to Peiping he complained bitterly because officials here spent so much time in the company of women. But on his last inspection tour of his own province he was accompanied by two women propagandists. In all the cities and towns he visited he turned the women loose to tell their sisters to bob their hair and quit binding their feet

The increasing prominence of women in the news has revived the ancient Chinese legend of a land inhabited entirely by women. Research indicates that the land referred to in the tale was meant to be the Kurile Islands. The yarn has it that in the old days the Kuriles were inhabited by fisher-women who knew nothing about men.

New Type Of Kitchen

One Feature Is Cupboard That Becomes Dining Table

The American furniture industry opened its 20th annual show in Chicago with everything from bird cages to washing machines on display in the spacious Furniture Mart on Lake Shore drive.

Buyers will find the 1934 kitchen, a distinct innovation.

Besides the stove, cupboard and other appurtenances this kitchen has a "planning desk" wherein the housewife becomes the home executive.

Another novelty is the five-shelf cupboard that becomes a dining room table without even disturbing the dishes on the shelves.

Whiting said he expected the show to mark a revival in the industry.

Little Helps For This Week

I pray not that Thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that Thou shouldest keep them from the evil.—John 17:15.

In busy mart and crowded street,
No less than in the still retreat,
Thou Lord art near our souls to bless,
With all a Father's tenderness.

Only the individual conscience, and He who is greater than the conscience, can tell where worldiness prevails. Each heart must answer for itself, and at its own risk. That our souls are committed to our own keeping, at our own peril in a world so mixed as this, is the last reason we should slumber over the charge or betray the trust. If only that outlet to the Infinite is kept open, the inner bond with eternal life preserved, while not one movement of this world's business is interfered with nor one beat of its happiness represed, with all natural asociations dear and cherished, with all human sympathies dear and warm, we shall yet be near the kingdom of heaven. In the world, but not of it, not taken out of it but kept from its evil.—J. H. Thom.
