CRANBROOK'S GREAT DAY

OVER 2500 VISITORS PARTICIPATED IN LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

Well, now, was it not a success and a big one. The day was fine, the program first class, and the crowd big enough to suit the warmest Cranbrook booster in the bunch. The people began to come in Saturday night and by Sunday night nearly every hotel was crowded. The train from the North Star branch was the first, and although many had come come Saturday yet the coaches were crowded. The train from the west was the next and not less than 350 came from Moyie, and other towns west. At 10.30 the train from the east arrived and it seemed when that great crowd got off that there was not much room for more. And what a happy, satisfied aggregation of humanity it was. Everyone was in good humor, everybody was smiling, everybody had a friendly hand grasp or a pleasant word. By 11 o'clock both sides of Baker street was a solid wall of humanity, while every verandah and second story window was crowded, all waiting for the big parade. And when the cheers started at the Royal hotel where hundreds were gathered, the participants in the parade received one grand ovation until the end had been reached at the station. The two bands, Fernie and Cranbrook, filled the air with delightful music, the piper was there to warm the cockles around the Scotch heart, the two companies of militia made a fine appearance in their bright new uniforms, the varied colored decorated floats and the handsomely dressed horses all combined to make a most pleasing picture. It was a great parade and one that will be long remembered. At the close the militia gave a drill on the square at the station that was witnessed by hundreds of people.

After the close of the militia drill followed the hose reel races between Moyie and Cranbrook. There were some delays, as Moyie had brought a light racing reel with them which made it impossible for Cranbrook to compete and use the heavy service reel, as the rules provided that all teams should run with reels of approximate weight. But the difficulty was adjusted by the Cranbrook team getting the C. P. R. yard reel and fixing that up for the race. Great interest was manifested in this feature and the street was jammed with people who waited patiently for the teams to appear. Cranbrook made the first run and when the time was given out as 25 and 4-5 seconds, there was a yell of joy, for everyone knew that if Moyie beat that they would be doing something. Within a few minutes Moyie's team was ready, and when the shot was fired they jumped forward as if fired from a cannon.

The time keepers say that they made the hundred yards to the hydrant ahead of the Crabrook team, but met with delay in the connection and consequent defeat, as their time was 27 and 2-5 seconds. But it was two pretty runs, as pretty as will ever be seen between hose teams. The hub and hub race followed, and it was exciting in the extreme and resulted in Moyie winning by about eight or ten inches. The time was 12 seconds. Both teams were satisfied, and the best of feeling prevailed. The winning of the wet test by Cranbrook means that the Harvie cup will stay in this town until the next meet, and if won once more becomes the property of the Cranbrook brigade. Moyie won the smaller cup and the $25 prize.

The first sport in the afternoon was the horse races and these were followed as rapidly as possible by the long string of events, but it was after 7 o'clock before the last event was pulled off. The crowd stayed until the end, very few leaving before the tug-of-war, and all concluded that it was a great day.

Many thanks are due to J. S. Carter, the district agent of the C. P. R. and the local officials, for the admirable manner in which the big crowd was handled. The trains were all brought in without confusion and at once the various crowds were placed on the right trains without any trouble. What is more the company did all in their power to secure the necessary coaches which was not so easy, owing to the demand for coaches for the ceremonies at Edmonton and Regina. The committee in charge had every reason to feel thankful to the C. P. R. for their courtesy and energy in handling the proposition.

GILL GETS TWO YEARS

THE DEFAULTING CLERK MUST PAY THE PENALTY.

For the second time within a little over a month James Gill, former bookkeeper and confidential clerk of V. Hyde Baker, of Cranbrook, came before his honor judge Forin yesterday on a criminal charge, says the Nelson News of yesterday. On the first occasion Gill was accused of stealing $500, money paid into Mr. Baker's office on the sale of some East Kootenay lands and received and retained by Gill. W. R. Ross appeared for the accused in this instance and made a strong plea for leniency. It was stated that restitution had been made and that the prisoner, who pleaded guilty, had a previous good record. Gill had run away from Cranbrook but had been captured and brought back for trial. The learned judge on this occasion allowed Gill to go on suspended sentence after lecturing him soundly on his gambling propensities.

Some resentment was shown over this treatment of the case, and six more charges of stealing were brought by Mr. Baker, the sums aggregating $558.80. Gill was again arrested, this time at Vancouver, brought back to Cranbrook and sent up for trial by the magistrate there.

The case came up a week ago last Monday, when Gill elected for a speedy trial and the hearing was adjourned until yesterday. W. R. Ross of Fernie, again appeared for the prisoner and put in a plea of guilty on his behalf. W. A. Macdonald, K. C., appeared on behalf of the private prosecution, V. Hyde Baker, also being in attendance.

His honor sentenced Gill to two years in the provincial penitentiary at New Westminster on each of the six charges, the sentences to run concurrently.

By good behavior Mr. Gill can reduce his time to about 22 months. He was badly broken up when he was sentenced, and afterward said that he did not care for himself, were it not for his family.

$100,000 FIRE AT FERNIE

ELK RIVER COMPANY'S MILL DESTROYED THIS MORNING.

Fernie, B. C., Sept. 7.—(Special to the Herald.)—The Elk River company's mill was totally destroyed by fire this morning involving a loss of $100,000 with insurance amounting to about $60,000. Fire broke out in the lath mill while night watchman was putting fire under the mill boilers. Before it was discovered it had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the mill, but the planer, machine shop and lumber in yard was saved. Nothing is known as to the origin of the fire as there was no fire near the lath mill. A light shower of rain was all that saved the rest of the property. This will mean the throwing out of employment between 250 and 300 men in the mill and bush. It is not known yet as to what the company will do in the way of rebuilding. The plant was one of the best in this section and had been completed a short time ago.

NEWS OF THE DISTRICT . . . . .

Taken From East Kootenay Papers.

FERNIE.

(From the Ledger.)

R. W. Wood left on Saturday for Portland and other coast cities.

Father Lepine, in charge of the Catholic church at Blairmore has been transferred to the Indian Reserve at Macleod and Father DeWilde, late of Louisiana takes his place.

J. Telford, C. P. R. roadmaster, left for Banff last night for a few days well earned rest. His place will be filled during his absence by roadmaster Sandstron, of Macleod.

Ross Bros. of the Elkmouth mill built a platform 100 feet long at that station on the G. N. for the accommodation of the public. The red tape process was too slow for them.

Herb Fullerton stopped at the Fernie a few days last week. He did good work at the fire rescuing horses from burning stables, tearing down small buildings and being generally useful all around.

T. Munroe, special constable in charge of the diphtheria patients at Elkmouth has returned. Dr. Higgins states that his patients have all recovered and the health officers have raised the quarantine.

Mr. Frank W. Worthington, of Elko, and Miss Margaret Mabel Todhunter, of Fernie, were united in the bonds of holy matrimony at Christ Church, Monday at 2 p. m., the rector, Rev. E. R. Bartlett officiating.

A visit through the residence district of this city will convince anyone that Fernie is enjoying a healthy growth. In every addition new houses are being constructed, and lots are being graded and beautified. These new buildings are being built to meet the increasing demand for additional homes, and bespeaks the prosperity that now prevails in the city.

We are again in receipt of a letter from Mrs. W. W. Tuttle dated the 23rd inst., in which she states that Mr. Tuttle has been battling with that dread disease, typhoid, with all its worst complications. The doctor in attendance said he had but one chance in ten, but at the date of the letter he had passed the danger point and Mrs. Tuttle states she hopes to be home with him in two weeks. Their many friends will rejoice to see Mr. Tuttle restored to health and both of them at home again in Fernie.

(From the Free Press.)

The Morrissey sawmill is running steadily now.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pollock visited the Portland fair this week.

J. H. Stevenson, the C. P. R. night operator, has been transferred to Moyie. A. P. Jones arrived on Wednesday to take the night service.

Mrs. Guess, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. R. Ross, for some weeks, left on Monday for her home in Texas.

Rev. A. Dunn has received a call from the congregation of the Presbyterian church at Kelowna, where he was stationed some years ago. The congregation of Knox church, as well as many others in this city will be very glad to learn that Mr. Dunn has decided to refuse the call.

The Elk Lumber company estimates its loss in the recent bush fire at $4,000, not counting the damage done to the green timber, which is comparatively light. Besides the camp buildings burned there were five new sets logging sleighs and 3,000 logs. The company has had a large force of men fighting the fires for many days. At Hosmer the company has spent $15,000 in constructing the camps, railway, and other equipment for handling logs and every precaution will be taken to prevent the flames from working devastation there.

Messrs. Pearson and Jewell left last week for the Boundary country where they expect to get a contract on the construction of the V., V. & E. Their grading contract at Coal creek will be completed inside of ten days' and their contract at Swansea a little while later when these outfits will be sent over to their new work.

W. W. Tuttle accompanied by his wife returned to Fernie from Riverside, Wash., on Wednesday. Mr. Tuttle is still very weak but is rapidly recovering. He made a stage trip of 40 miles to the nearest depot and stood the journey remarkably well. Mr. Tuttle had an attack of typhoid, and malaria fevers. Several times he collapsed, when his friends despaired of his life.

D. McRae has received a contract for four car-loads of electric light poles for the town of Indian Head and two carloads for the town of Frank, Mr. Birnie is busy getting out the poles at Morrissey. The forests of the Elk valley produce the best poles for such purposes obtainable anywhere and no doubt a considerable trade will be developed.

At the meeting of The Fernie District Game Protective Association held recently at Herchmer & Herchmer's office, H. W. Herchmer was elected president. Chief constable McMullin and city chief Walker were elected honorary vice presidents. J. S. T. Alexander was elected vice-president. Messrs. G. G. Moffatt, J. P. Carrick, W. A. Bleasdell along with the officers were elected an executive committee. This committee was empowered to frame rules and fix fees. It was agreed that all fines which any member of the association becomes entitled to shall be paid into the general funds of the association.

A report was brought to the provincial police at this place last week that the Stoney mountain Indians were invading the Flathead in quest of game. A. B. Williams, provincial game warden, came up from the coast and in company with R. C. S. Ranfall made a trip into the Flathead. Two mounted police came up from the prairie to accompany the party into the Flathead but they arrived two days too late. The party went in by way of Crows Nest. They saw no signs of Indians down the trail to the Flathead townsite. The second day they also saw no signs but on the third day they saw tracks of horses on the North Kootenay trail. They followed these to the head waters of the Flathead over the summit to Lodge Pole creek and thence down the Morrissey creek to the C. P. R. and they were then convinced that the tracks were made by prospectors.

MOYIE.

(From the Leader.)

J. Atwood and Miss Atwood are expected home to-morrow.

James Crosby has moved his store to the old post office storeroom in the Farrell block.

Mrs. G. A. King and daughter Nettie left Monday for Spokane, where Miss Nettie will attend school.

W. J. Atchison was up from Cranbrook this week mingling with his many friends.

The case against Joseph Neiderstadt has been postponed to some time in the latter part of the month.

P. F. Johnston's launch the "Oriole," landed here Tuesday from Nelson and is now the swiftest thing on the lake.

J. F. Armstrong, government agent, and J. H. McMullin, chief license inspector, were in Moyie on official business Tuesday.

Last Monday A. P. Macdonald and wife returned from a six weeks' visit through the east. They spent some time in Charlottetown, P. E. I., and were as far south as Washington, D. C., where Mrs. Macdonald has several relatives and friends.

It is rumored that a party of eastern capitalists have an option on the mill and timber limits of the Moyie Lumber company, and that in all probability the ownership of the property will soon change.

There are several bad forest fires near Moyie. The one on the west side of the upper lake in the timber limits of the Moyie Lumber company is dying out and the damage will not be so great as was threatened a day or two ago.

WINDERMERE

(From the Outcrop.)

It is to be hoped the Hon. Mr. Wells has not forgotten that he is expected by the management to have North East Kootenay well represented at the Dominion exhibition.

R. Ross, who had charge of the Windermere public school for the past three years, has given up that profession entirely and will enter into some other line of business. On Monday he left on the Ptarmigan and after spending a short while at the coast will go east to visit his home in Ontario, but hopes to return to this valley again. His numerous friends wish him success in whatever enterprise he may undertake.

R. Morland met with a very painful accident one day last week. He was at work on his ranch and was endeavoring to catch one of his young colts, and as he had done frequently before caught it by the tail, but this time the colt kicked at him and one foot struck him on the left eye. Fortunately, the eye was but little injured, although the blow bruised the flesh around it badly. Under Dr. Elliot's care he is rapidly recovering and will return to work in a few days.

Thos. Brown is now hard at work cutting a trail from the Columbia river up the Salmon river and across country to the canyon on No. 3 creek, where the new trail will join the present trail up that creek to the Lead Queen mine in which he is interested. He is being assisted by Wm. Bott. This route will shorten the distance from the mine to the river by about 10 miles and is the route the wagon road will eventually follow. Mr. Brown deserves much credit in this enterprise, as it is understood the government is not aiding in the work, and he can be depended upon to make a first-class trail.

When officer Cameron went up Toby creek last week and found the Indians who started the fire, he discovered they had in their possession two deer and one goat skin, consequently he laid a charge against Isaac, Louie and Moses for killing game out of season. They appeared before E. J. Scovil, P. M., on Monday, when the Indian policeman, Louie Storigan, acting as interpreter, asked to be allowed to talk. He said that last spring Indian agent Galbraith had sent for him and all the Indian chiefs to meet at Fort Steele. When they met Mr. Galbraith told them they were to tell all the Indians not to kill any game out of season unless they were hungry. If they were hungry they could kill any game, but they must not waste or sell any game. As the law says, resident farmers or Indians may kill deer for their own or families' use only, the charge of killing deer was withdrawn. Isaac pleaded guilty to killing the goat, but in view of how Mr. Galbraith was reported to have instructed the Indians the magistrate dismissed the case after carefully informing the Indians present that they were only allowed to kill buck deer out of season. It may be added that policeman Louie Storigan is considered very honest and the most intelligent Indian here and transacts all the important business for the two Reserves in this valley.

BLAIRMORE

(From the Times.)

T. Ede is having a large addition added to his building on Victoria avenue next to Dr. O'Hagan's residence.

C. E. Smitheringale, formerly of the Frank Paper, having disposed of his interests to Mark Drumm, left last Saturday for his former home at Slocan City, B. C.

The electric light poles have been placed in position on our streets and it is promised that the wires will be strung and the town lighted up by the last of this month.

Monday morning while Mark Drumm, editor of the Frank Paper, was sitting at his desk a gust of wind smashed the window hurling the fragments in his face. Mark had a tooth knocked out and received some severe cuts that required several stitches at the hands of Dr. Malcolmson.

FRANK

(From the Frank Paper.)

J. A. McIvor of Cranbrook is taking the baths at the Sanitarium.

Smith Bros. have been awarded the contract for building the new fire hall and will start work in a few days.

Jules Hurel, proprietor of the Morrissey hotel, which was destroyed by fire recently, is staying at the Sanitarium. He is accompanied by Mrs. Hurel.

Percy Quinn, the noted hockey and lacrosse player, is visiting Frank. Mr. Quinn was formerly one of the stars of the Montreal Shamrocks and is now president of the Winnipeg club.

We are informed by a neighboring publication that Alberta is about to "cast off her baby clothes and don long pants." All we have to say about it is, that she is a bold, brazen young huzzy to allow the mysteries of her lingerie to become public property.

GOLDEN NEWS

(From the Star.)

It is reported that Premier McBride is to be made a Doctor of Laws. Good. We've got a whole lot of laws in British Columbia that need doctoring.

The subject in the Methodist church at Cranbrook last Sunday was "The man who sees things." It is to be hoped Rev. Mr. Westman is not talking from experience. The man who sees things drinks an awful brand of liquor.

The deckhands working on the Kootenay Central are getting along well. About six miles from Golden a section is nearly ready for the rails. Another man will probably be put on next month to help rush the work.

A man in Cranbrook stole $500 from his employer and confessed to the stealing. Witnesses swore the young man's habits were good. Judge Forin did not consider the stealing of $500 a bad habit and therefore turned the thief loose.

By sending to Tim Eaton's sweat foundry for goods that can be purchased from local merchants, proves that you are not a good citizen of the town. Tim never has, or never will, contribute anything towards building up this community.

The many friends of F. H. Marsh, formerly accountant at the local branch of the Imperial bank, will be glad to hear that he has received the appointment as manager of the bank's branch at Cobalt, Ontario. Cobalt is the center of probably the richest mineral discovery of recent years.

O. D. Hoar has just received the appointment as assistant to Superintendent Douglas of the National Park. Mr. Hoar will be permanently in charge of Yoho valley district. He is the right man in the right place, and the government could not have made a better choice. He knows the mountains thoroughly and there's not a trail he has not packed his blankets over. Mr. Hoar is well known to the millionaire with his roll in the east, and to the prospector with his roll of blankets in the west. Here's to you, O. D., may your trail through Yoho be a smooth one.

OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD

Bran waste is one great difference between good and poor flours.

The food part of flour is "protein."

Protein makes bone, muscle and brain.—There is no protein in bran.

—bran is the outside part, the husk or "bark" of the wheat.

—bran is the part of the wheat which is absolutely without food-value to the human system.

—bran represents part of the difference between Royal Household Flour and whole-wheat flour or cheap, inferior flours that are poorly milled and not thoroughly purified.

No other flour in this country is so thoroughly and completely separated from the waste as is "Royal Household," because no other mills are so well equipped or exclusively devoted to the production of scientifically pure flour as Royal Household mills.

TOPOGRAPHY OF EAST KOOTENAY

The configuration of East Kootenay is not unlike the shape of a dog's hind leg. The flank—the widest part—rests upon the International boundary line. The knuckle—the narrowest part—is at the big bend of the Columbia river. The crook or hough commences where the Kicking Horse enters the Columbia and ends near the Bull river—where the flank commences. Its widest part on the International boundary line being between 80 and 90 miles.

Running north and south for nearly three hundred miles, flanked on the east and west by the towering ranges of the Rockies and the Selkirks, is the wide and beautiful valley through which flows the Columbia river to the north, and the Kootenay river to the south, to join waters again in West Kootenay. The valley is ten to thirty miles wide, and gently rises to the foot-hills along the main ranges, which are often bold and craggy and rise in lofty peaks.

This is partly correct and holds mainly true traversing the valley southward until St. Marys river is reached in Fort Steele mining division, when the mountains with their foot-hills recede, and a wide fan-like country opens out and stretches southward beautifully wooded, containing stretches of prairie land, undulating and rising higher in some parts so as to form even ridges of mountains. This part of the district contains some fine arable land, which is being rapidly occupied by farmers and ranchers. In it are the Tobacco Plains, which stretch away down to Montana, and St. Joseph's Prairie, where fine crops can be raised by means of irrigation.

This district is well watered by the Kootenay river and its eastern and western tributaries, and the Moyie river with its affluents. The Moyie river rises in the south-western part of Fort Steele mining division and flows eastward, when it makes a bend and flows southward across the International boundary line and joins the Kootenay river in Idaho on its return course north. The Southern British Columbia railway after leaving Cranbrook crosses over and runs down by the Moyie river and then rounds the lower end of Kootenay lake to enter West Kootenay. There are some fine timber limits and valuable mines in its basin. On its creek are some rich placer claims which are now being worked.

The most important tributaries that the Kootenay has from the east are the Elk river, which rises away far past the mouth of the Crows Nest Pass and drains a large area of country, and on it and its creeks are the great coal measures of South East Kootenay. The next important tributaries going north are Sand creek, Bull river and the famed Wild Horse creek. On the west side the most important affluent of the Kootenay is St. Marys river, which falls with the Kootenay near Fort Steele. It passes through the Kootenay Indian reservation. A few miles from its mouth, and lying in its valley, is the St. Eugene Mission—a Roman Catholic Mission for the conversion of the Indians.

A few miles north of Fort Steele the valley of the Kootenay appears to contract, and the mountains and foot-hills on either side are not so far apart. This continues right on to Canal flat, a distance of 50 miles. This is where the Kootenay emerges from out of the Rockies and flows on its outward western side southward. The headwaters of the Kootenay are about 60 miles distant, away up among the Rockies, and are alone upon the divide between East Kootenay and Alberta. In this long, narrow valley from the Canal flat northward to its headwaters, there are no settlers and the valley is still in its primitive condition. There are some fine grazing grounds and plenty of land suitable for cultivation. The Indians during the hunting season visit it and secure goats, mountain sheep and plenty of deer.

The headwaters of the Columbia river are in the Upper Columbia lake, close to the north side of the Canal flat. The Canal flat is a level stretch of land, about one and a half miles broad. It connects the two valleys. The Upper Kootenay and the Upper Columbia, which are practically one valley. This valley is continued away up to the big bend—a distance of 150 miles—which is the northern limit of East Kootenay, and where the river makes its great wheel for the south. The Kootenay emerges out of its lateral valley in the Rockies, flows past the headwaters of the Columbia and enters the southern continuation of the valley which extends away beyond the International line.

There is a marked peculiarity between the two portions of the valley, so much so that geologists affirm that the wafers of the Columb a must have flowed south at one time and that the original source of this river was the Kicking Horse river, which emerges from a lateral pass in the Rockies near Golden, a distance of over 100 miles, and flows into the valley and joins the Columbia at Golden. Not only is there a marked peculiarity in the two portions of the valley, but there is a great difference in the character of the two rivers. The Kootenay is a swift, rapid-running stream, with lots of "riffles"; whereas the Columbia in East Kootenay is a slow-moving turgid stream, meandering along its course, breaking into many branches bordered by marshes and swamps. This valley of the Columbia has been likened unto two troughs—a larger one, in which is the valley, and a smaller one beneath the bottom of the larger, in which the river flows.

Apparently, from the configuration of this valley, it must have been at one time, about the pre-glacial days, one great lake or a series of lakes, with its outlet at the south. The present tributaries of the Columbia in the Windermere and Golden mining divisions flow in a southerly direction to join the main river, which is flowing in a northerly direction. The northern end of the lake was close to the town of Golden and the obstruction here, originally some moving, or landslide, broken down by the force of the waters, gave a northern outflow, caused the waters to fall, the benches to appear and the formation of the big trough.

Another thing that has contributed to the northern outflow has been the formation of the Canal flat—a big gravel bed—formed by the washing down of the debris by the Kootenay river and Findlay creek. Findlay creek is a large swift rushing stream, flowing out of a western lateral valley in the Selkirks, almost opposite the Kootenay at Canal flat. It brings down a considerable quantity of matter and these two streams have formed the big gravel bed. The Kootenay river is only a few feet above the level of the Columbia lake. The southern outflow was thereby checked, and the waters when they rose to the northern level, flowed northward and the northern obstruction by the pressure of water was further reduced. This process was continued—the filling up of the southern end by debris—the lowering of the northern end by the pressure of water, until the change of flow took place.

The evidence of this change is specially marked at Dutch creek, the first big stream the Columbia receives from the west, where the old channel shows that the flow was south—and now the present channel has been deflected towards the north. The Spillimacheen river with its numerous tributaries is the principal stream the Columbia receives in East Kootenay. This stream drains a large area and flows in a lateral direction with the Columbia but in a diametrically opposite direction.

The other feeders of the Columbia on the western side are better known for the mineral claims that have been located on them than for any importance they themselves possess. The streams on the eastern side do not run a long course and the area drained by them are not extensive ones.

In Donald division the main feeders, the Blueberry and Bluewater, are on the eastern side; although it receives a feeder, the Beaver, from the western side. The only other topographical feature worthy of notice is the formation of the Kinbasket lake, where the river expands out into the lake about six miles long and a mile wide. The lake will be about 26 miles from the Big Bend where the Canoe river flowing from the Cariboo district unites its waters with the Columbia.

SHERLOCK HOLMES STORIES.

NEW SERIES OF THESE THRILLING DETECTIVE TALES.

The Free Press, Winnipeg, has secured for Western Canada the exclusive right to reproduce a new series of thirteen Sherlock Holmes stories by Sir Conan Doyle. For these stories it is understood the author has received the highest price ever paid for such literature.

When Sir Conan Doyle created the character of Sherlock Holmes he founded an absolutely unique type and nature of detective stories. Doyle made his detective a deductive genius and the style and nature of his adventures set the world a-talking. Thousands of people have grown to regard Holmes as a personal friend, and they would not willingly miss a single one of his adventures.

Each story is complete in itself, the first one appearing in the Weekly Free Press of August 16, entitled "The Adventure of the Blue Carbuncle," and one each week thereafter.

To introduce the Weekly Free Press to new readers a special offer is being made of 25c. to the first of January, 1906, which, of course, includes these stories. You ought to take the Weekly Free Press, but you cannot afford to do without your own local paper, therefore instead of sending 25c. to the Free Press better send 40 cents and we will send you the Herald to the end of the year as well as the Free Press, you, therefore, secure both papers to the first of January, 1906, by paying 15 cents additional.

A number of our readers have friends in Eastern Canada, the United States and even in the "old land" who are hungry for news concerning Western Canada. If you are too busy to write these friends letters what more acceptable gift could you send them than a copy of a leading Metropolitan Western Weekly and a leading Weekly such as the Herald.

This offer remains good until Oct. 1. Send in your subscriptions at once.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Greenwood Times editor complains of thefts of good things written by himself. Never mind a little matter of that kind. It takes two things to run a newspaper, brains and shears, and when an editor is short on brains he must perforce keep busy with the shears.

There is a movement started in Vancouver to stop the sale of Sunday newspapers. The men back of the movement do not object to the Monday morning newspaper, and yet the work on the Sunday newspaper is done through the week, with the exception of a very little labor Sunday morning, while nearly all of the work of the Monday morning paper is done on Sunday. Better progress would be made in matters of this kind if better judgment was displayed.

If reports are correct it would seem that the Cranbrook district is not the only one in the province represented by a Liberal that is being neglected by the government.

The majority of the voters and taxpayers of this district by their votes said that they wanted J. H. King as their representative. The government has virtually said by its action that since the taxpayers have selected Dr. King, and as he is not a supporter of the government, the taxpayers can have no returns for the taxes that they are paying. This is not fair to the district, it is not fair to the taxpayer, it is not fair to the miner, the prospector or the day laborer. This district is entitled to its share of public money expended regardless of politics, as the taxes are collected regardless of politics. The Herald would like to see the proposition treated in a business like manner, because it is a cold business like proposition. To treat it otherwise savors of ward politics and is belittling the great province of British Columbia.

It is about time the people of Fernie got together and secured fire protection. The last fire nearly burned the C. P. R. water tank. The coke ovens will be the next to go.

Cranbrook has a way of doing things that is a winner.

There were over 5,000 people in Cranbrook on Labor Day.

After all of this trouble between Japan and Russia, the signing of the peace treaty seems to have made a still bigger man out of Roosevelt.

The Herald would suggest a yell for the Cranbrook boosters as follows, partly taken from the Spokane yell:

What can you
For Cranbrook do?
I can boost
And so can you,
Open your eyes and look,
See the town, Cranbrook.

Young man, start an account in the bank. If you can get it up to $100 it may prove the basis of a fortune.

There is surely something wrong in Fernie. All of these fires can hardly be accidental. There is good reason to believe that a fire bug is doing overtime in that town.

A road up the St. Marys valley would be worth a lot to the people of this district and to the government. But as yet there has been nothing done in that direction but the giving of promises, and a road or a trail constructed of promises makes mighty poor traveling.

There should be no petty politics in the municipal management of Cranbrook. What the people want is a business management, and that is what they are going to insist upon.

A petty political grafter is an object of pity.

It looks as if there might be some warm news before a great while in the way of politics. When political disagreements come up generally hidden truths get out. The public always appreciate a situation of that kind.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE OLD MAN

SILENCE IS GOLDEN.

The man who speaks a dozen tongues
when all is said and done,
Don't hold a match to him who knows how to keep still in one;
The talker gets some good things here, things much to be desired;
The silent man gets these and more,
and doesn't make folks tired.
Oh, you can have life's good things brought right to you if you will,
Throw out your chest, put on a frown, and just keep still.

The man who's known as "silver-tongued" may fool folk for a spell;
Some few may take him at his word, believe all he may tell About himself for just a while; but soon he'll make a slip,
And he'll be nicely put away, knocked out by his own lip.
Oh, you'll get money on the bank and sovereigns in the till
If you'll put on a thoughtful look and just keep still.

Full many men are dead and gone who died for want of breath,
And many who while still on earth
have talked themselves to death;
Much sharper than a serpent's tooth is man's own reckless tongue
When hung inside an open face and all too loosely swung.
Close up your face and ope your ears and drink in to your fill This sage advice: Throw out your chest and just keep still.

In public life's few lower rounds are some who chew the rag,
And some from dewy morn till night
sail in and punch the bag
Because they like the sound of it; but list a while, you'll find
The louder is the noise it makes the more it's filled with wind.
Be good and hush and you will get a great reward, you will:
Throw out your chest and smile, or frown—but just keep still.

Diamonds have gone up fifty per cent. That means a big increase in the assets of the average editor.

Young ladies with a fondness for infantile admirers should be warned of an episode at a seaside resort this summer.

An engaging masculine of seven years became on exceedingly good terms with the belle of their particular hotel, a girl of about twenty years his senior. One day the charmer asked the swain to go bathing, and after the bath, as they returned to their bath-houses, the small man suggested a race to see who could dress first. They entered the bath-houses, which adjoined, and in a short time a youthful treble called, "Miss Ethel, oh, Miss Etael, I've got my stockings on."

A low contralto voice answered, "Yes, Robbie, so have I."

After a short pause the irrepressible again called, "Miss Ethel, I've got my shoes on."

Again came the answer, "Yes, dear, so have I."

Again a pause—then a triumphant voice shrilly proclaimed, "Miss Ethel, I've got my pants on."

The answering silence was oppressive.

The parent who fails to send his children to school when the opportunity is afforded, is guilty of a crime.

One nice thing about a celebration is the democracy that prevails. Everybody is on good terms with himself, and many differences are forgotten. As a result the world looks better and brighter.

A local liveryman who is a great wit in his peculiar way is author of this aphorism: "There is not a brilliant thought in a whole barrel of beer."

The size of the head has little to do with the ability of the man. It is not what goes in the hat that counts but what is in the head.

Here is a good story told by Tom Rookes, manager of the Fernie hotel. They were newly married and on a honeymoon trip. They put up in a sky scraper hotel. The bridegroom felt indisposed and the bride said she would slip out to do a little shopping. In due time she returned and tripped blithely up to her room, a little awed by the number of doors that looked all alike. But she was sure of her own and tapped gently on the panel.

"I'm back, honey, let me in," she whispered.

No answer.

"Honey, honey, let me in!" she called again, rapping louder. Still no answer.

"Honey, honey. It's Mabel. Let me in!"

There was silence for several seconds; then a man's voice, cold and full of dignity, came from the other side of the door:

"Madam, this is not a bee hive; it's a bathroom!"

While John W. Gates was down in Florida recently he met a great many people and it seemed as though every native had a military title, such as "major," "captain," or "colonel." One morning Mr. Gates said to a Southern gentleman:

"Say, Mr. Hillson, that gentleman you introduced to me last evening looked pretty young for a colonel, don't you think?"

"Who? Col. Leonard? Yes, he is kind of young."

"Was he in the civil war?" inquired Mr. Gates.

"No, I don't think so."

"In the Spanish war?"

"No."

"Well, how does he get the title of 'colonel,' then?"

"Oh, he's a colonel by marriage. You see, he married Col. Andrews' widow."

"IF WE KNEW A LITTLE MORE."

(Written for the Herald.)

We are children in life's garden but we think we're very wise,
And tho' flowers grow around us we,
too often, shut our eyes;
Should we let the flowers wither
while our wealth we try to store
If we knew a little more?

Should we value our importance if we only knew the truth,
Should we banish from our lives the foolish hopes and dreams of youth
Should we sneer and judge our neighbor as we've often done before
If we knew a little more?

Should we think ourselves superior if we only understood,
Should we look upon the seamy side
and turn away the good,
Should we hate the other fellow if we knew his heart was sore
If we knew a little more?

F. Clifford Harris.

Cranbrook, B. C., Aug. 28, 1905.

BEAT SAMSON'S RECORD.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 22.—To be attacked in the woods of the southern Oregon mountain wilds by three bears, each appearing in rapid succession, and to meet and slay all of them openhanded, such was the experience of John Blalock, a miner of northern Josephine county. Blalock operates a placer claim on Grave creek, near Leland, and makes regular trips to the railroad station for his mail and supplies. It was while on the way home from one of these trips that he met the three bears.

While passing through the heavy timber a large black bear appeared across the trail, and, squatting on his haunches, defied the miner to attempt further progress. Although he was not armed, he accepted the bear's challenge forthwith, using a heavy club. It was might against might, but the man and the club won the day.

Blalock then started on his homeward way, but had proceeded only a short distance when a second black bear, equally as big as the first and just as anxious for a fight, stood in his path. This one was also met and in due course suffered the fate of the first.

Blalock again took up his bundles, when No. 3, in the shape of a huge cinnamon, came as did the other two and stood in the miner's path. Though his strength was well spent, Blalock mustered the courage to meet the defiant cinnamon, and promptly began battle with increased vigor. It was a hard fight and a long fight, with much bloodshed on both sides, but again the man and the club won the day.

Eight Years Ago in Cranbrook....

ITEMS CULLED FROM THE HERALD OF THAT DATE

Judge Hutchison leaves for Winnipeg to-day on business of great importance. The judge will not reveal the name of the business, but the surmises of the people are all in one direction. One day last week with a dreamy faraway look in his eyes, he handed down his decision on a plain drunk in this way: "$10.00 or 30 days, and whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder." That same day he was looking at some carpet samples and heard asking the price of sugar, flour, etc., and arguing with Solicitor Herchmer and A. Scott that marriage is not a failure. But still he persists in keeping the object of his visit a secret.

A petition has been prepared and numerously signed asking the government to make provisions for a school and school house in this town for the winter. The requisite number of children are here and it would be a hardship indeed if a school could not be provided. The townsite company has signed their willingness to donate lots for the purpose, and there is little doubt but that the matter will receive prompt attention.

Harry Melton, the well known prospector and miner, has sold half his interest in the Homestake claim, five miles west of Cranbrook, to Mr. Nobles for $2,500.

Work was begun on Monday last, on Messrs. Scott and Hutchison's claim, the Canadian girl, which joins Mr. Melton's Homestake.

A car load of ice was shipped in from Wardner Sunday. And still there are people so blind that they will persist in saying that cumulative evidence of this kind cuts no ice.

H. W. Barnes, the omnipresent limb of the Fort Steele constabulary has a good eye for business. He inaugurated a stage line between Fort Steele and the metropolis last Monday, and what is more he will make it pay.

The Herald office has cut over $10,000 worth of paper on its paper cutter the past week. That may sound as if it was exaggerated, yet it is a fact. We have been cutting sheets of bankbills for the Canadian Bank of Commerce and since the job was finished the paper-cutter which has heretofore been reliable got cranky and has refused to cut common print paper.

Mr. Archie McVittie, the well known Dominion and provincial land surveyor has formed a partnership with Mr. John Hutchison. These gentlemen propose to do a mining brokerage business and will also devote considerable attention to real estate and conveyancing. They have in their hands now a number of improved and unimproved lots in Cranbrook, Tracy and some other towns as well as some fine ranches.

Landlord Ryan has gone to Calgary on business.

Jake Fink spent Sunday with his family at Wardner.

E. H. Small was in town Tuesday on his way to Moyie. He has been in the hospital for some time but is now about well again.

John Fink came over from Steele Monday to note the progress of the new store building.

Postmaster Beattie has rearranged his store so that Cranbrook will have one of the neatest post offices in the Kootenays.

J. G. Patterson, the junior assistant in the bank, arrived from Toronto on Monday, and Tuesday assumed his duties.

George Leitch returned from Coal creek Sunday, where he has been engaged in installing the machinery of the new saw mill.

R. G. Shier and Harry McVittie of Fort Steele, were among the visitors in Cranbrook yesterday. They express great faith in Dr. Watts new railroad for Fort Steele.

Wm. Blakemore, general manager of the Crows Nest Coal company is in the city arranging for the distribution of coal in this city. He is accompanied by Mrs. Blakemore.

Dr. Watt, the Fort Steele statesman, physician and public promoter visited Cranbrook Monday. Like all Fort Steele people the doctor enjoys looking at a railroad.

Ross Palmer, assistant postmaster at Wardner, was in town Wednesday arranging for the delivering of Wardner mail at Cranbrook for distribution to Fort Steele and other points.

Jay Usher was in town yesterday. It is needless to say where Jay hails from as everyone in East Kootenay knows him. His heart is as big as the Cranbrook roundhouse and he has a host of friends who appreciate the fact.

Cranbrook has a regular passenger train and the trouble of dodging around the yard looking for a train to go east is a thing of the past.

The work of laying steel is progressing at a rapid rate of speed. Last night they had reached a point twenty miles west of Moyie. If there are no accidents and no interruptions from other causes there is but little doubt that the rails will be laid to Kootenay lake by the 28th or the 30th of the month.

Freight is now being delivered at the new freight depot.

Work will commence on the depot building as soon as the lumber is on the ground.

There seems to be a little coldness between the C. P. R. and Moyie city. Just enough so that you can notice it. As a result a new town is being laid out at the lower end of the lake and Fred Smyth of the Leader is writhing with intermittent paroxysms of pain.

Last week M. J. Haney, manager of construction, and M. B. McLeod, chief engineer, arrived in the city on a tour of inspection. They visited the end of steel and also took a look at a portion of the route selected for the branch line to the North Star mine. Mr. McLeod went on west and Mr. Haney remained until today when he returned in his car.

NEW MANAGER

A. N. MOUAT BECOMES GENERAL MANAGER OF BRECKENRIDGE-LUND COAL CO.

Winnipeg Free Press: The announcement is made that Mr. A. N. Mouat has accepted the general management of the Breckenridge-Lund Coal Co., Limited, Lundbreck, Alberta. Their many friends in the city will regret to learn that this appointment will mean Mr. and Mrs. Mouat's leaving Winnipeg at an early date. Educated at the Royal High School, Edinburgh, Scotland, Mr. Mouat came to Canada in 1882, and four years later entered the service of the Hudson's Bay Co. His business ability was early recognized by the great trading corporation and his advancement was rapid. In 1891 he was made accountant in the Winnipeg branch of the company's business. In 1896 he was again promoted to the position of assistant to the manager. In 1897 he was called upon to organize a system for the handling of the extensive trade arising from the great rush to the Yukon and Alaska gold fields, and the following year was appointed inspecting officer, having a general supervision over the company's stores from Mattawa, Ontario, to Victoria, British Columbia, a stretch of country some three thousand miles in extent. This position necessitated a great deal of travelling and much arduous work. Since the retirement of Capt. Adams, last year, Mr. Mouat has filled the very important position of comptroller.

A keen, progressive business man, Mr. Mouat has had in all these years an exceptional opportunity of becoming acquainted with the commercial and general conditions of western Canada, and the directors of the Breckenridge-Lund Coal Co., Limited, are to be congratulated upon having been able to secure his services. The coal lands owned by this company are situated on the main line of the Crows Nest Pass railway. The large operating plant is rapidly approaching completion, and shipments will commence to be made early in the month. The new townsite of Lundbrek, owned by the coal company, has recently been surveyed and the lots will be offered for sale shortly after Mr. Mouat's arrival there.

The citizens of Cranbrook fully appreciate what the fire brigade boys have accomplished and what sacrifices they have made personally to bring the brigade up to its high standard, but there are not many who show their appreciation in a substantial manner. Last Monday this phase of the question was discussed by five citizens and as a result each promptly contributed $10 and a check for $50 was sent to Treasurer Rollins yesterday. Those citizens were F. C. Malpas, W. T. Reid, J. N. Harvey, L. B. VanDecar and Clapp & McDonald. That is the kind of appreciation that counts.

The exhibit of farm implements and machinery at the Spokane Interstate fair in October, will be larger than ever before. The management will place this exhibit near the grand stand where the dog show was situated last year. This is in recognition of the greater importance of this department. The largest manufacturing concerns find it to their advantage to exhibit farm implements at the Spokane fair. The attendance from farming communities is so large that they are enabled to show their implements to better advantage and to more people than in any other way. This year all the latest designs and improvements in implements, machinery, motors and engines will be shown.

FORTUNE SMILES ON THEM.

It is said that the company presenting Lord Lytton's beautiful stage story, "The Lady of Lyons" which comes to the Wentworth Hall, Friday, Sept. 15, has made the strongest kind of a hit and is doing an immense business. It remains to be seen how they will be appreciated here.

A CHALLENGE.

Sept 4, 1905.

The Hoag Brothers, of the Standard Lumber Co., were in the sawing contest at Cranbrook on Labor Day. They failed to be awarded the prize. They have nothing to say at this time as to the decision of the judges, but they are prepared to meet any two men in East Kootenay within the next 30 days for a contest, for any sum from $50 up. Any one desiring to accept this challenge can notify the Herald, and the Hoag Brothers will do all in their power to arrange a contest.

A GOOD ONE.

"The Lady of Lyons," which has been secured for one night at Wentworth hall, Friday, Sept 15, is headed by a young woman who for five years was a member of Henry Irving's superb company and who attracted an amount of attention from the critics that rarely falls to so young an artist.

The young lady referred to is Margaret Neville. It is said her method is easy, finished and gracious. She is extremely magnetic, refined in style, simple and unaffected in manner and charming in delivery of lines.

FIRE BRIGADE MEETING

THE BOYS TAKE FORMAL POSSESSION OF THE CUPS WON ON LABOR DAY.

There was a very pleasant gathering at the fire hall last evening. The meeting was called by Chief Fink and Assistant Chief Bradley for the purpose of saying good-bye to W. E. Towers, one of the brigade who left to-day for Vancouver, and also to take formal possession of the cups won on Labor Day. By 8.30 every member was present with the exception of Ira Manning, who is out of the city. Chief Fink called the meeting to order and expressed his regret that Mr. Towers was to leave and on behalf of the company wished him every prosperity in his new home. The prize money was then turned over to the brigade, after which remarks were made by Mr. Towers, Mr. Bradley, Mr. Fink and others, and credit given to Messrs. Bradley, Fink, Rollins, Roberts and Hayward for the good work they had done for the brigade and for the racing team. Then the following parody on "In the Good Old Summer Time," written by Mr. Towers, with the closing verse prepared for the occasion, was sung with a will and the cups filled and passed around. This closed a short but very pleasant session of the brigade.

THE SONG.

In the good old summer time,
In the good old summer time,
Fred Bradley had his boys in shape
To beat the Moyie time,
Tom Gallon and Macconnell led
The rest were right in line
To sprint to keep the Harvie Cup
In Cranbrook all the time.

Good-bye Moyie we must leave you,
Though it breaks our hearts to go
Something tells us of the finish
And we know it wont be slow;
When old Enie fires his pistol
And the leaders break away
Fred and Ira make the coupling
And Cranbrook wins the day.

Farewell to Moyie, farewell to you,
Don't look so mournful and don't look so blue;
Wait till next summer, then try your luck,
But you will never win the Harvie Cup.

PROF. HEPBURN'S DANCING CLASS.

Prof. Hepburn entertained a number of former friends and many new ones at Wentworth hall last evening, and enrolled a large class for dancing instruction. From indications it is quite evident that Mr. Hepburn will have a larger class this season than he had when here before. Mr. Hepburn will give two lessons a week and an assembly on Wednesday evening. Those who are unable to be present each night, private lessons will be given to make up the loss so that the full number will have been given at the close of the season. Great interst is manifested in the work as there are many who feel that it is an exceptional opportunity to learn the basis of dancing properly, and old heads, as well as young, are taking advantage of it. Instruction will be given to the juvenile class at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoons, and a special invitation is extended to the mothers to be present. Prof. Hepburn will also organize classes in Fernie and Moyie.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

Mr. Harold Nelson will open his fifth regular season under the management of Mr. C. P. Walker, at Winnipeg, September 4th, 1905, and will make a tour to the Pacific coast, appearing in the principal cities. He will present during the season, four royalty plays, new to Western Canada, starting with Otis Skinner's great play, "Prince Otto." Each play will be mounted and costumed in the elaborate manner usual with Mr. Nelson's productions, and a large and capable company has been secured. Mr. Clifford Lane Bruce, the talented and popular young actor, will again be seen as leading memberof Mr. Nelson's support. Mr. Nelson's company will appear in Cranbrook early in the season.

Reminiscenses of Old Timers

By Thos. McNaught

David Griffith, one of the old pioneers who came into East Kootenay in the year 1864 remained and still is in our midst, is one of the best known inhabitants in East Kootenay. He is still engaged in the mining business and formerly kept a store near the old town on Wild Horse creek and possesses an immense fund of useful information about the district of East Kootenay. The Miner had an interesting conversation with him the other day when he detailed many reminiscences of the past, some of which are now re-produced.

Mr. Griffith, as his name denotes is a Welshman, and was born in the parish of Rosally, near Swansea, in the county of Glamorgan in South Wales. His father was a farmer, and in his youth being imbued with the spirit of adventure he did what a great many youths have done—ran away to sea. He followed this seafaring life for six years, when at the end of that time another spirit of adventure took possession of him and he ran away from the sea.

In was in the year 1859 that the big excitement over discovery of gold in California took place, and in that year Mr. Griffith arrived in San Francisco in the good ship "England" of Liverpool with a cargo of welsh coal. Although the vessel was a sailing vessel and only carried a load of 1100 tons, she was considered a big vessel carrying a large cargo in those days. The gold fever was too much for Mr. Griffith and five of his friends, so they skipped for the gold mines. The excitement among other places was on Deer Creek on the Yuba, but it was general over nearly the whole of California. Griffith and his companions went up the Sacramento river in a boat and landed where the present Marysville is, at the junction of the Father and Yuba rivers and wintered at Rose's bar, called after John Rose, a Scotsman. This was 20 miles further up the river. There were no claims to take up. "You drove in a peg," he explained, and "took up a piece of ground and went to work with pan and rocker. We all shared together and had one purse in common."

In 1850 they went up the middle fork of the Yuba and commenced placer mining there. They cut a race to turn the water into it so as to leave the bed of the river dry. The operation was too much for them. They got plumb broke and lost all their savings, somewhere about $800 each. This unfortunate undertaking burst them up and they dissolved partnership, each one going his own road.

Mr. Griffith then landed at Downeville on the north fork of the Yuba He got there in August 1850, and made lots of money. "I cleared," said he, "$5,600 in about four weeks I had a partner but not one of the original five. He was an Englishman. I met him at Rose's Bar. He had a splendid piece of placer ground and took me in as a partner. I left there in 1851, nearly broke, all my savings gone, spent them as sailors and miners will spend money. I followed the excitement northwards." There was a continued succession of new discoveries which drew on the crowds but he did not strike British Columbia till June 1864. He was mining at Eureka when word came of great discoveries at Boise Basin in Idaho. He left with others to go there, but when he got to Walla Walla so great was the rush for Boise Basin and he decided not to go in because people were trooping there in thousands, so he determined to try his luck in British Columbia. He went in alone. Rumors had come of gold being discovered on Findlay creek in the Kootenay district so he detetmined to go in there. He spent his winter in Walla Walla and then set out from that place in the month of May 1864. He came in with a pack train which was loaded with merchandise and was going to a mining camp on speculation. Probably this was the pack train ordered in by Bob Dore after he struck the Wild Horse. The route taken was by Spokane, Bonners Ferry and up the Moyie River down to the Kootenay. The party arrived at Wild Horse Creek. Gold had been struck by this time and on their arrival they found a camp of between five and six hundred people. There was no ferry over the Kootenay. The party left the Moyie, crossed over St. Joseph's prairie, through Isadore's canyon and struck the Kootenay River about nine miles below the present town of Fort Steele. The horses were made to swim across and a canoe took over the members of the party.

On the same day that Griffith arrived there also came in Mr. John T. Galbraith. He belonged to a different party but was previously known to Griffith on the other side. The two parties encamped together on St. Joseph's prairie and followed each other in. Three days afterwards a ferry was put on the river and a trail cut to and from the ferry. The ferry was known as Galbraith's Ferry, but there were three proprietors: John T. Galbraith, Mirton Moore and Colonel Keller. Moore was one of the owners of the pack train.

When Griffith got into the camp he recognized Bob Dore as having seen him at Walla Walla. He saw him and his party leave but did not know where they were going. No time was lost in commencing mining and he and two associates took up a claim, which was nearly opposite Fisher Creek and about opposite his present residence on Wild Horse Creek. Since then Griffith has remained on Wild Horse Creek and seen all the changes that have taken place on the face of the country. There were no trails to speak of, far less any wagon roads or steamboats. There was an old trail on the Moyie—the Boundary Commission trail, which was constructed in those days when the international boundary line was being determined between the States and the Province, and was the way by which the members of the Commission got in their supplies. He saw the Lieutenant-Governor when he was constructing the trail in 1865. The changes have been great—the uprising of the town of Fort Steele—the building of wagon roads—the opening of steam navigation.

Wild Horse Creek remained good for many years but about the year 1870 it began to drop. All the shallow diggings were worked out and the Chinese were acquiring claims. There were as many as 250 Chinamen at one time in the camp, now there are about 100 still there engaged in mining. A big town sprung up, which was called Fisherville. It is now called Chinatown. There must have been at least more than 1,500 people there at one time. There were more business houses then than there are presently in Fort Steele.

The Gold Commissioner was Mr. Haines, who came in August, 1864. He was succeeded by Peter O Reilly. Although he had an Irish name he possessed a Saxon head. He came in in 1865. There were a great many commissioners. Mr. William Fernie was gold commissioner for some years. He was first constable, then recorder and subsequently commissioner.

Perry Creek diggings were struck in the fall of 1868 or '69. They were nothing like the Wild Horse creek diggings. The best claim would not average more than $10 or $12 per day per man. The Chinese worked there for ten or twelve years, but the white diggers did not continue long. Two seasons about played them out.

Then Weaver's creek followed Perry creek, which was struck in the summer of 1871. Palmer's Bar and Moyie river were also struck about the same time. But none of these diggings were up to Wild Horse. For the cents that come out of these diggings dollars would come out of Wild Horse.

There are still placer diggings on Weaver creek and Moyie river, but they are heavy diggings and expensive to work, but will be worked when capital becomes more abundant and labor cheaper.

"I have seen," said Griffith, "the uprising of Fort Steele. There was nothing there until 1887, but a ferry and a little store, the principal trade being with the Indians. The first hotel was built in 1889, still existing, called Steele house."

Quartz mining has only come into existence in the south part of East Kootenay within the last four years, and Fort Steele did not practically exist until then. It has grown with the quartz excitement and the quartz discoveries. No person had any desire for quartz claims. Gold was all the desire. If quartz did not possess gold it was considered of no use. All this is now changed.

There is no shadow of a doubt as to the prosperity of East Kootenay with its placer claims and its quartz claims. It only requires transportation which it is now getting and capital will soon flow in when it sees the great wealth that can be acquired by a sure investment.

WILL LIVE IN CRANBROOK.

Nelson Economist: It is understood that the appointment of P. E. Wilson as judge of the new judicial district in East Kootenay will be gazetted in October. His Honor Judge Wilson will take up his residence in Cranbrook.

DAWSON TO THE POLE.

AN EXPEDITION TO START FROM THE YUKON

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 22.—Advices from the north state that the people of Dawson have organized, with a membership of 200, the International Society for Polar Research and Experiment. The ultimate object, after ascertaining the most logical and practicable plans, is to launch an expedition for the north pole.

Governor W. W. B. McInnes of the Yukon Territory, Dr. Alfred Thompson, member of the Canadian Parliament; Judges Dugas, Craig and Macauley, the three highest magistrates of the Territory, Major Z. T. Wood, commander of the Northwest Mounted Police, members of foreign Consulates and others were patrons and occupied prominent places at the meeting at which the organization was effected.

The scheme was originated by Dr Anthony Varicle, a Parisian inventor and scientist, now in Dawson, who has spent some time in the Yukon and has made research and study of the subject of polar work.

A statement setting forth the plans of the expedition was given by Charles Macdonald, Clerk of the Territorial Court of the Yukon. Yukoners, he said, found many weak points in the methods of travel, equipment and composition of nearly every polar expedition of the past. In the Nansen expedition, he said, it was shown *by Nansen's own book that he under*stood little of equipping and handling long-distance expeditions.

"Yukoners handle them with much more simplicity, ease and skill," Mr. Macdonald declared. "Nansen worked in heavy skin robes and was immersed in sweat and then chilled in the ice thereof. Yukoners travel in the light parka and never permit themselves to sweat.

"Nearly every expedition sent to the arctic thus far has been composed of sailors, men who are useless on land or anywhere but aboard ship. Those not military were largely so. It is the object and plan of Dr. Varicle to draw the great contrast right here. He will have none but the most experienced mushers and travellers and none but the most experienced and best trained dogs.

"The question of fuel and sufficient supplies to carry the expedition across the ice is the sticker. Dr Varicle proposes to overcome this with an auxiliary expedition of mules. He can make the mules last 130 days or more by killing one every few days for food. The carcass of each mule killed will be converted into dog food.

"Dr. Varicle's plan is to start from Grantland and to dash overland, or over the ice, seven hundred miles to the pole, and then continue six hundred more to Franz Josef Land, straight beyond from Grantland, and to make the journey in one hundred and thirty days or less.

"Ships will make connections at both ends. Each ship will be equipped with wireless telegraph instruments, with which the travellers can communicate when within proper distance of the ship. The wireless will help to locate the ship without delay."

It is the plan to try out all experiments in the Yukon, with Dawson the headquarters this winter, and to get the expedition started next June.

THE LADY OF LYONS.

The forthcoming engagement in this city of Margaret Neville, the celebrated English actress in Lord Lytton's beautiful play, "The Lady of Lyons," will undoubtedly awaken a great deal of interest among our theatre goers, as not only has Miss Neville a splendid metropolitan reputation, gained during five years as a member of Sir Henry Irving's company, but the company surrounding her is one of exceptional merit. The engagement here will take place at Wentworth hall, and will undoubtedly draw a large audience.

Synopsis of Regulations for disposal of Minerals on Dominion Lands in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territory.

Coal.—Coal lands may be purchased at $10 per acre for soft coal and $20 for anthracite. Not more than 2 acres can be acquired by one individual or company. Royalty at the rate of ten cents per ton of 2,000 pounds shall be collected on the gross output.

Quartz.—Persons of eighteen years and over and joint stock companies holding free miner's certificates may obtain entry for a mining location.

A free miner's certificate is granted for one or more years, not exceeding five, upon payment in advance of $5.00 per annum for an individual and from $50 to $100 per annum for a company according to capital.

A free miner, having discovered mineral in place, may locate a claim 1500x1500 feet, by marking on the same with two legal posts, bearing location notices one at each end on the line of the lode of vein.

The claim shall be recorded within fifteen days if located within ten miles of a mining recorders' office, one additional day allowed for every additional ten miles or fraction. The fee for recording a claim is $5.

At least $100 must be expended on the claim each year or paid to the mining recorder in development. When $500 has been expended or paid the locator may upon having a survey made, and upon complying with other requirements, purchase the land at $1.00 an acre.

Permission may be granted by the Minister of the Interior to locate claims containing iron and mica, also copper in the Yukon Territory, of an area not exceeding 160 acres.

The price of a mining location shall provide for the payment of royalty at the rate of 2½ per cent of the product of the location.

Placer Mining.—Manitoba and the N. W. T., excepting the Yukon Territory. Placer mining claims generally, are 100 feet square; entry fee, $5; renewal yearly. On the North Saskatchewan river claims are either 50 or 100 feet in length, the former being 50 feet long and extending to the width of the river channel, or in the case of claims on dry ground, not exceeding 100 feet in length. Entry fee, $5; renewal yearly, $5.

Yukon Territory.—Creek, gulch, river and hill claims shall not exceed 500 feet in length, measured on the base line of general direction of the creek or gulch, the width being from 100 to 500 feet. All other placer claims shall be 250 feet square.

Claims are marked by two legal posts, one at each end, bearing notices. Entry must be obtained within ten days, if the claim is within ten miles of mining recorder's office. One extra day allowed for each additional ten miles or fraction.

The person or company staking a claim must hold a free miner's certificate.

The discoverer of a new mine is entitled to a claim of 1500 feet in length, and if the party consists of two, 1,500 feet in length, on the output of which no royalty shall be charged, the rest of the party ordinary claims only.

Entry fee $10. Royalty at the rate of two and one-half per cent on the value of the gold shipped from the Yukon territory to be paid to the Comptroller.

No free miner shall receive a grant of more than one mining claim on each separate river creek or gulch, but the same miner may hold any number of claims by purchase, and free miners may work their claims in partnership by filing notice and paying fee of $2. A claim may be held, held, and another obtained on the same creek, gulch or river, by giving notice and paying a fee.

Work must be done on a claim each year to the value of at least $200.

A certificate that work has been done must be obtained each year, if not, the claim shall be deemed to be abandoned, and open to occupation and entry by a free miner.

The boundaries of a claim may be defined absolutely by having a survey made and publishing notices in the Yukon Official Gazette.

Petroleum.—All unappropriated Dominion lands in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and within the Yukon Territory are open to prospecting for petroleum, and the minister may reserve for an individual or company having machinery on the land to be prospected, an area of 640 acres. Should the prospector discover oil in paying quantities, and satisfactorily establish such discovery, an area not exceeding 100 acres, including the oil well and such other land as may be determined, will be sold to the discoverer at the rate of $10 an acre, subject to royalty at such rate as may be specified by order-in-council.

HILL'S LATEST MOVE.

MAKES STRONG ALLIANCE WITH GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Tacoma, Sept. 4.—A special despatch to the Ledger from Chicago states that James J. Hill has made a strong alliance with the Grand Trunk Pacific railway and will extend his Vancouver, Westminster & Yukon railway to connect with the new Canadian transcontinental system at some point far north of Vancouver.

The new alliance guarantees a transcontinental line in Canada, much shorter than the Canadian Pacific and tapping the stronghold of that road on the Pacific coast. This has aroused the Canadian Pacific, which has purchased the Bellingham Bay & British Columbia road which extends to Sumas on the Canadian Pacific.

It is said to be the purpose of the company to extend the line to Seattle and to Spokane.

The alliance will make Vancouver the Pacific coast terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific and its important seaport town. The line will probably also build to Port Simpson. The Hill line will extend north through the fertile Squamish and Pemberton Meadows and to Quesnelle, Fort George and Fort McLeod.

DOUKHOBORS TO PRISON.

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—It has been decided that stern measures are necessary to cope with the element among the Doukhobors in Western Canada which has given the authorities so much trouble by nude cross prairie pilgrimages in search of a Messiah. Men of a party of these fanatics who divested themselves of all their clothing when near Yorkton, N. W. T., recently, have been convicted of vagrancy and sentenced to six months' imprisonment. Heretofore the police who are charged with the enforcement of the law and order in that part of Canada have been under instructions to deal leniently with the Doukhobors. It has been settled now that this element must be taught a severe lesson. Hence the commitment to prison.

Settlers of other nationalities will be scattered among them and the Doukhobors will eventually be assimilated with them.

WORK ON THE G. T. P.

Winnipeg Free Press: The Macdonald, McMillan Co. composed of western men, with typical western push, lost no time in getting to work on the Grand Trunk Pacific railway contract. The Macdonald, McMillan Co. have the contract for the first 275 miles of the transcontinental road, from Portage la Prairie westward. They received this contract on Wednesday night at Montreal. On Thursday morning, scarcely half a day after they were awarded the contract, the first sod on the new transcontinental highway was turned. Work was begun at a point about six miles north of Sidney station, and 300 teams are now busy at work near that point. Within a week or ten days they expect to have fully one thousand teams engaged on G. T. P grading. It is the intention to push the work just as rapidly as possible and men and horses will assemble along the line from all directions. It is hoped to have 100 miles of road ready for the rails this year.

A GOOD POSITION.

Calgary Eye-Opener: The Eye-Opener, from now on, will be independent, politically. This is owing to a discovery we recently made that there are just as many lobsters on the Conservative side as on the Liberal.

By this independence we mean that if a Conservative nonentity of small ability endeavors to shove himself to the front for the purpose of becoming somebody, we shall do our best to squash him into his native nothingness, while if we see an able Liberal of strong common sense, and with honest ideas of fairness towards the public as a whole, uninfluence by local prejudices, he shall have our support.

PROGRESS OF SPOKANE & INTERNATIONAL.

Bonners Ferry Herald: The work of constructing the Spokane & International is progressing slowly, owing to a scarcity of men. From Naples, twelve miles west of Bonners Ferry, to the Northern terminus of the line much grading has been done, but west of Naples, much of the line has not yet been even located. At the rate of progress so far made, it will be another twelve months before the road is completed. The bridge contracts have only just been let, and work on the bridges has not yet started. Mr. Skinner, a Spokane contractor, secured the contract for all the bridges on the line.

BELIEVES IN UNIONS.

Bishop Fallows, of Chicago, in a sermon delivered in St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church declared himself a firm believer in trade unionists, and said it was nonsense to affirm that the trade unionist infringed on the constitutional rights of the non-unionist, and added: "Unionism is the very salvation of labor; perish every effort to destroy it. The non-unionist is reaping the benefit of the sacrifices of labor of his union fellows, and he has a right to recognize the sacredness of his obligation to them."

RAILWAY WAR TO BE RE-OPENED.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 12.—In the sale of the Bellingham Bay & British Columbia railroad to the Canadian Pacific, negotiated by President H. A. Taylor, of San Francisco this week, the seven years' war between the Canadian line and the Great Northern has been renewed, and a struggle unequaled in railroading in the northwest is predicted by those connected with both roads.

When J. J. Hill sought a Canadian franchise for his Canadian branch through the Hope Mountain Pass he brought on the war. The Canadian Pacific viewed the new road as a usurper of its rights, and it was only after one of the most desperate fights ever recorded in the Canadian parliament that the franchise was granted. Then began a fight between the two roads, which lasted until last year, when Lord Strathcona, a heavy stock holder in both the Great Northern and the Canadian Pacific, brought about peace.

In the new deal the Canadian Pacific secures a line from Bellingham northward and eastward to Maple Falls and a survey from the latter place to Spokane. It is midway between the Great Northern, Canadian and American lines, tapping the richest territory the Hill road draws its traffic from. According to a prominent Canadian Pacific official, it is the intention of the Canadian Pacific to build the extension to Spokane and very probably southward from Bellingham to Seattle. If this course is pursued Great Northern officials, who refuse to be quoted, say the Hill lines in Canada will be extended into new Canadian Pacific territory, with the view of tapping the richest mineral and agricultural sections.

President Hill will arrive here in two weeks, and at that that time, it is said, he will make a trip to British Columbia, where he will look the situation over and determine what weapon he will use to offset the invasion of the Canadian Pacific.

JOHN OLIVER IS ON THE WARPATH.

Vancouver Province: Mr. John Oliver, M. L. A., noted far and wide as a most persistent smeller-out of allegedly suspicious transactions on the part of the British Columbia government, will ask at the next session of the legislature for the appointment of a commission to investigate all deals in land on Kaien Island, including the grant of 10,000 acres to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway company.

Mr. Oliver has had a great deal of experience with investigating commissions, and a great many people are always ready to back him up when he starts in to put the Government on its devence in connection with land transactions.

There have been many whisperings of recent months as to certain alleged peculiarities in connection with land deals on Kaien Island, and Mr. Oliver does not feel that the Government should unjustly rest under a cloud of suspicion. To throw full light into all land grants on Kaien Island Mr. Oliver will ask for the appointment of the commission. He will keep on asking till he gets it, as he did in the cases of the Columbia & Western and Kitimaat Arm land grant cases.

The legislature is expected to assemble the latter part of next January or early in February.

GREAT GROWING COUNTRY.

G. F. Pownall, of Fish Lake ranch, was in town last week for a short time. Mr. Pownall has put up over 125 tons of hay this summer and he has been very fortunate with everything that he raises on his ranch.

E. C. Smith, who has a farm on the other side of the Mission, was in town Saturday. He reports that crops are in fine shape and that he will have a big yield this year.

Fruit has done well this year in this part of the district. In fact it has been demonstrated beyond cavil that this part of the Kootenays can raise as fine fruit as can be raised anywhere in the province. And as a result of this there will be a great increase in planting of barious kinds of fruits here in the future. The market is an exceptional one, and it is right at hand and is a permanent one, offering therefor the best of encouragement for the raising of fruit.

RUSTLING "MAC."

Calgary Herald: M. McDonald, head of the firm of McDonald, Simpson Co., Limited, Calgary, has returned from Red Deer. Mr. McDonald has contracted with the council, for Hall, McNabb & Co. to at once erect a modern flour mill and elevator at this point. The mill will be 100 barrel capacity, and the elevator 40,000 bushels, both to be completed this fall. Hall, McNabb & Co. will commence buying wheat and oats just as soon as the ground is broken for their elevator, having secured suitable storage temporarily until the elevator is completed. H. H. Hall is moving his family to Red Deer, where he will manage the business for the firm. Mr. McDonald said his firm wanted also to erect a 75 barrel mill, and a 30,000 bushel elevator at Pincher creek.

CRANBROOK'S GREAT DAY

elaborate construction of the floats, the wealth of ideas, the artistic work displayed, and in many cases the unique originality, all combined to bring forth from the hundreds of spectators salvos of praise and enthusiastic evidences of appreciation in the way of cheers and hand clapping. This feature of the parade was one grand triumph from the start to the close. There were favorites from the particular standpoint of each spectator, and it was a difficult and delicate task imposed upon the judges to be called upon to render a decision with such an array of first class creations from which to choose.

The Co-operative Stores were given the first prize, and the probability is that the decision was won on the basis of the complete representation given of the business of the company. The float was 28 by 14 feet, with a high double dome top, beautifully decorated with the national colors and flags. The four distinct departments of the Co-operative Stores were shown in a very striking manner. The furniture was represented by a complete parlor handsomely furnished while at a piano sat a lady playing to a number of guests comfortably and naturally seated on easy chairs, divans, etc. The feature attracted a great deal of favorable comment. The other three departments of the company, the groceries, the clothing and the boots and shoes, were all shown by distinct rooms, where the various articles were being handled in the regular manner of trade. The float, as a whole, was a striking attraction and a credit to manager McFarlane's enterprise. The prize money received by the Co-operative Stores was divided between Misses Hucheroft, Cole and McNeil.

The East Kootenay Lumber company was given the first prize for the best lumberman's float. This had a moulding machine, mounted on a well decorated float and in actual operation, the propelling force being a four horse power gasolene engine and the boards were being pushed through the machine and turned out a complete moulding. The top was circular in form, like an immense Japanese umbrella, and by a piece of mechanism, this was kept revolving, the changing colors producing a most pleasing effect. The float and the idea was due to George Leitch and he spent some time to make the representation a success.

From a strictly artistic point to view the float put out by W. H. Wilson, the jeweler, was a pronounced success, and was loudly cheered all along the route. The basis of the design was a frame of lattice work six by ten feet, with a large circular opening on each side and a smaller one at each end. The colors were those of Cranbrook, blue and white, and the arrangement of the whole was harmonious and pleasing to the eye. Inside of the large openings at the side were bands of white chrysanthemums, while on the outer circles were a ring formed of souvenir spoons. Around the openings at the ends were circles of watches, thus giving a golden and silver effect to the float from any point of view. In the center hung a great wooden clock, and from this to the four corners were wires gaily decorated with bunting. Beneath this at an handsomely appointed table sat four little girls in white, the Misses Cowans and the Misses Deacons, serving five o'clock tea, while Master Cowan sat at the end handing out booklets. The conception of the float as a whole was beautiful in the extreme, and the delicate touches of art in its construction showed the handiwork of the gentler sex. Mr. Wilson is entitled to the credit so freely given him for his beautiful production.

One of the most costly and striking floats was that of Beattie & Atchison, the druggists. This one had to depend upon the decorative effects alone, as it was impossible to give a representation of the business in a display of this kind. E. H. Small is the artist who designed the float and that it was done well was evidenced by the warm praise it received from every one who saw it. The decorations were confined entirely to bunting and flags, but the float was a work of art and will be remembered by the crowds as one of the chief attractions of that magnificent parade. The team that drew it was one from the Standard Lumber company, and so handsome was the team and its dressing that it was accorded the first prize as the best dressed lumber team. Hugh McInnis had the team in charge and naturally felt proud of the result.

The Staples Lumber company had a float that attracted a vast amount of attention. It consisted of a pine timber 32 by 34 inches, 16 feet long, as a base. On this was a tamarack 24 by 24 inches, 14 feet long, and then a piece 12 by 12 inches, 12 feet long, another 8 by 8 inches, 10 feet long, a piece 4 by 4 inches, 8 feet long, and this pyramid surmounted by a piece 2 by 2, 6 feet long. The whole weighed over four tons and presented a solid representation of what this country can give in the way of lumber. This great load was drawn by eight as fine horses as were ever placed in front of a lumber truck, and they were driven by H. N. Becker who evoked all kinds of praise by the masterly manner in which he handled the ribbons. This display of timber has been placed along side of the railway track just north of the station platform and will be left there as an exhibit for the benefit of hundreds of people who will be passing through Cranbrook in the next year to come.

The King Lumber Mills had a display that attracted an immense amount of attention and all kinds of favorable comment. It was a fine piece of timber sawn, measuring 6 by 16 inches and nearly seventy feet long. To many who have lived right here in the midst of saw mills for years it was a genuine surprise to see a stick of timber of such dimensions, and some declared that it must be spliced. The piece weighed about two tons and was carried on extended trucks, while on each side was painted the name of the firm in large black letters.

"Scotty" McArthur, the second hand man, had two floats, and each were characteristic of "Scotty" as they were unique and strictly original. The first represented a fur trading post and showed a scene where Indians, live bears, and samples of various furs predominated, while at the head was "Scotty" feeding one of the bears. He was attired in buckskin with a red handkerchief tied over his head, and looked the early trader in every respect. Behind this rode two Indians attired in holiday garb, with all of the extra feathers, head gear, bear claws and other paraphanalia of the savage state. The other float was made up of boys playing drums and producing a noise that could not have been pronounced music divine. Several ponies led by boys completed "Scotty's" calvacade, and those from the east who had never seen anything of the kind were delighted, while everyone was more than pleased with the display.

W. T. Reid & Co., the dry goods merchants, had a float drawn by four horses. The float was decorated in a most attractive manner showing the various goods carried in stock by this well known firm, and their character. Carpets were laid, handsome rugs, draperies, etc., and all combined to form a very pretty picture of what Cranbrook can do in these later days in their way of furnishing the people the nicer things of this earth.

Fink Brothers had a float that represented their business in a most attractive manner. It was not a large one but it was complete in its appointments, and the details were carefully carried out. Especial attention was paid to the grocery department, but the boot and shoe and furnishing department was not overlooked. The decorations were of a kind that made a most pleasing impression upon the people, as they were tasty and appropriate in every way.

G. T. Rogers had a pyramid of good things on his float. Mr. Rogers has the happy faculty of arranging a float like he arranges his store, in a manner that will attract favorable attention. He used his own delivery rig and horses, and on the rig he piled in an artistic manner the various good things that he has for sale in the way of fancy groceries, and when he had the work completed he had a combination that caught the eye as well as appealing to the artistic temperament of the individual.

The North Star Lumber company had a complete lumber camp blacksmith shop that reminded many who saw it of the old poem of the village blacksmith. There was no attempt at artistic decoration, for that would have spoiled the effect sought. The picture was true to life, a practical blacksmith shop, with practical men doing practical work.

James Kerrigan, the brewer, had a complete bottling establishment with steam engine in full blast and all the pharaphanalia necessary to operate a plant of that kind. The force of men were kept busy bottling the product and so natural did it appear to some that there were many who made the suggestion to go into the nearest hotel and have something.

The Cranbrook Sash & Door Factory had a float that was typical of their business and every time it turned a corner those who had not yet seen it broke forth in hearty cheers. It was a lattice work with various designs carrying out the idea of their factory, with the initials of the company cut from wood and placed at the top. It was a fine piece of work and to the strangers in town it gave the impression that Cranbrook had an institution that was capable of meeting all the demands in that line.

McCallum & Co., the hardware people, with characteristic enterprise, had a float that told the story of their business in a most excellent manner. It was nicely arranged, and although many might say that it would be impossible for that line of business to make a creditable display on a float, Mr. McCallum demonstrated that it could be done and done successfully.

The Cranbrook Bakery was on deck with a small float that was nicely decorated and gave evidence of the enterprise of the proprietor, who secured for himself a good ad. and at the same time gave his help to the committee to make the day a success.

James Greer, the contractor, had a carriage with little Laura Richards dressed in pure white carrying a large bouquet of flowers and the Union Jack.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

Shake.

Good for Fernie.

It was a great day.

Everybody was here.

Those floats were beauties.

Moyie was here "like a duck."

All seemed to have a good time.

The weather clerk was all right this time.

There was no trouble and no conflicts.

A better natured crowd never got together.

The different vice-presidents did a lot of good work in their respective communities for the success of the day, a fact that is very much appreciated by the committee.

S. McDonald and Thomas Dorris made excellent marshals.

All roads led to Cranbrook on Monday and they were well traveled.

The hotels were filled to overflowing and every employee was kept busy.

Cranbrook will do still better next year. And that is saying a good deal.

"Welcome to Cranbrook" was on the banners and on every Cranbrook citizen's face.

Tom Rookes came down from Fernie and had a glorious time with his many Cranbrook friends.

What was the matter with the parade? One man said that it was the best he ever saw in Western Canada.

The outside press was represented by Mr. Wallace, of the Fernie Free Press, Mr. Mott, of the Fernie Ledger, and Mr. Smyth, of the Moyie Leader.

John Hutchison, the official caller, was the right man in the right place, and his clarion tones were heard all over the grounds. He talked through a megaphone, while some people were talking through their hat.

George Leitch did a lot of good work as the man in charge of the Caledonian sports. He understands this feature of a program and handled it in good style.

Mr. Steward worked hard to have the lumber events pulled off in good shape and he succeeded. His job was not an enviable one by any means but he stayed with it like a soldier.

Ed. Sproule, of Marysville, is a great sport, and he was a lot of assistance to the committee.

Neil McLeod Curran, of the North Star mine, was here with his family and he expressed himself as more than satisfied with the day's program.

Fred Smyth, of the Moyie Leader, said: "This is a great celebration and a wonderfully big crowd. Cranbrook has the faculty of doing things right and this day will give her a better reputation than ever."

W. S. Kay, customs officer at Fernie and formerly located in Cranbrook, said: "I am proud of the old town to-day. Cranbrook always did things right and her people have reason to feel proud of her record to-day."

Dan McNeish, of Elko, was here with Mrs. McNeish and the bairns. "You have a great day, a great crowd and a great program. Cranbrook is all right."

D. V. Mott, of the Fernie Ledger, was delighted with everything. He took special interest in the hose reel races and the evidences of interest manifested in both Moyie and Cranbrook by the people of those towns in their respective fire departments, appealed to him. "That is what Fernie needs and must have. Your equipment here in Cranbrook, when one stops to consider that it was all raised by the liberality of the citizens without town organization, is simply marvelous. Fernie could learn something by such a manifestation of public spirit. We have had disastrous fires that could have been largely prevented with a fire brigade and equipment like you have in Cranbrook. As to your celebration, it was par excellence. No wonder Cranbrook goes ahead. Your people work together for the success of anything undertaken. You have made a great name for your place to-day."

Captain McEvoy, of the Fernie militia, was delighted with the celebration and the town. "The way Cranbrook does things is a credit to her people," he said that evening. "There are hundreds of towns in the east as large as Cranbrook or larger that would never have done as well."

The North Star branch was well represented from Bayard to the North Star mine.

G. A. King, the Moyie vice-president of the day, was here with his family, and expressed himself as more than pleased with the celebration. Mr. King was a good booster for the day and his efforts were appreciated.

Mr. Wallace, of the Fernie Free Press, expressed himself as well pleased with the celebration and the program. He was especially pleased with the big parade and the floats of the business men.

Harry White, the affable secretary, had his hands full, but he never failed to meet every inquiry with a smile and the required information.

J. P. Fink, the president of the day, virtually got out of a sick bed to be present that day, and worked like a trojan for the success of the celebration.

The committee is under obligations to Mr. Grace, of the Prospector, for his efforts in advancing the interests of the day by his liberal advertising contributions and good words for the day. The committee also feel thankful to the Moyie Leader, the Fernie Ledger, the Fernie Free Press and the Nelson Daily News for the publicity these papers gave the day.

The Cranbrook band was a pleasing surprise to the people who were aware of the difficulties under which the organization has been laboring, as they have been practising only a short time and with only a few present each meeting. The boys gave good music and lots of it.

The C. P. R. Quadrille club gave the dance at the hall that evening and it was a great success as all of the dances of this club are. There was a large crowd present and all had a most enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Staples, of Bayard, were among the most enthusiastic spectators while the sports were in progress, and took a deep interest in the rock drilling contest. Their remarks on the day's sport were very complimentary.

F. G. White, who was with the Fernie militia companies, formerly of the Bank of Commerce staff here, said: "I always found Cranbrook a good town for sport, but this celebration is a surprise. Our boys have been royally used and had an excellent time."

"Moyie is more than satisfied," declared Dave Elmer. "In fact they're tickled to death."

"Cranbrook has outdone herself this year," said Hugh Cameron, the Moyie dairy man.

"It has been a thorough success and will do volumes towards placing Cranbrook in an enviable position with the people of the district for miles and miles around," were the remarks made that evening by J. F. Hucheroft, the Marysville philosopher.

"I came up here expecting to have a good time, but didn't think I'd bump into such a huge affair as this, think I'll stay over a few days and look around. This town must be all right."—R. Phillips, of Macleod, Alta.

J. Dover, of Nelson, one of the best boosters that town ever had, was in town most of the week. Mr. Dover says that he never saw the equal of Cranbrook's Labor Day demonstration in a town of this size, and that the parade would have done credit to a town of 10,000 people.

W. Barclay, of Wardner, was one of the pleased ones here on Labor Day. Mr. Barclay never misses that celebration and was better satisfied this year than ever before.

Tommy Gallon demonstrated that he was a runner. He came out first in the 100 yards open and had some hard competitors.

W. M. Harris won the hard race when he came out ahead in the half mile open. A. Elwell, was second, and the field was a big one.

THE SHOOT.

Fernie won the trap shooting contest and the scores were as follows:

Fernie—Wrigglesworth, 18; Wakelem 12; Pearson, 24; combined, 13. Total 67.

Moyie—Campbell, 18; Cameron, 13; Casey, 18; Large, 12. Total, 61.

Cranbrook—Grace, 16; Moffat, 15; Foster, 13; Pinkham, 20. Total, 64.

In the sweepstake of fifteen birds the winners were as follows: Pinkham, 13; Campbell, 12; Wrigglesworth, 11.

THE DRILLING CONTEST.

Great interest was manifested in the drilling contest and there were five teams entered. The friends of the different teams were on hand and did all in their power to encourage the men while at work. The results were as follows:—

Tomie and O'Brien, Sullivan mine, 35 inches.

McDonald and McNeil, St. Eugene mine, 37½ inches.

Mitchell Brothers, Stemwinder mine, 34 and 1-16 inches.

Rabichaud and Emanuel, Sullivan mine, 39 3-4 inches.

Evans and Leroy, St. Eugene mine, 39 and 5-8 inches.

This gave the first prize to Rabichaud and Emanuel, and the second to Evans and Leroy, by ¼ of an inch.

REDUCTION IN LIGHT RATES.

The electric Light company have decided to reduce the rates for light supplied through their meters from the first of this month, making the rate 20 cents per kilowatt hour, with cash discounts of 25 per cent off for residences and 15 per cent for business houses.

This new rate with the discount will effect a saving to dwelling houses of over 21 per cent from the old meter rates and should be welcome news to the light consumers.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL

Miss W. Cline and Miss Cline left on Tuesday for Winnipeg after a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. Cline.

R. L. T. Galbraith, of Fort Steele, spent several days in Cranbrook this week on business connected with some coal claims.

J. S. Taylor was the winner of the lucky number at Mighton's cigar store and got the ticket to Portland or a check for $27.

Hotel for sale—Hotel doing a good business, nicely situated, and can give possession at any time. Inquire at Herald. Btf

J. D. McBride returned to-day from the east accompanied by Mrs. McBride, who has been in the east for over a year for her health.

C. H. Pollen, C. M. Edwards, J. M. Pinkham and V. Hyde Baker were shooting at Bummer Flats last week and had some very good sport.

A jolly party of campers left last Tuesday for Moyie for a week's outing. It consisted of Rev. Sloat, Ira Manning, Chas. Johnson, A. Nicholson, Misses Hucheroft, Belleau, Adams, Cole, Nicholson, Mrs. Prest and Mrs. W. B. McFarlane.

F. J. Bradley and wife left this morning for the coast. They will spend some time in Vancouver and will also visit other coast cities.

The school trustees are anxious that all books of the school library be returned at once and hope that the parents will see that this is done.

The mining claims advertised in the last issue of the Herald were sold under the mortgage held by James Ryan and bid in for the amount of the claim.

D. L. Stewart and wife, of Rosenfeld, Man., stopped off on their return from Portland to visit with H. F. Stewart, the C. P. R. commercial operator.

W. T. Reid & Co. have had two handsome gold signs erected in front of their store that are beauties. Bradley & Co. are the artists who produced them.

Alex. an Indian, was thrown from his horse on the prairie last Monday night and badly hurt. The ambulance brought him to the hospital, where he was taken care of.

Mrs. C. J. Eckstorm and daughter Lucilla, of Lethbridge, passed through here last Friday on their way to Portland where Miss Lucille will enter school.

The mother of Dave Kaunamen, formerly of Lucan, Ont., is anxious to know the whereabout of her son, who formerly lived in this district and may be here now.

The big warehouse of the Co-operative Stores that is being erected on the lot across the street from the Catholic church, will be 75 feet long and 24 feet wide. It will be used for the storing of furniture.

T. Lebel and wife, of Pincher Creek, were guests at the Cranbrook hotel several days this week. Mr. Lebel says that wheat is the great crop now in his section of the country and that as a result there will be little hay cut there in the future.

Mrs. M. D. Holford has taken over the Wilga house from Mr. and Mrs. Hoadley and will have charge of that popular establishment in the future. Mrs. Holford is making quite a number of improvements and will put forth every exertion to please the patrons of the house.

Mr. A. C. Bowness and bride returned from the east on to-day's train. Mr. and Mrs. Bowness were married in Boston on August 28th. The bride and groom knew each other several years ago when Mr. Bowness lived at Kensington, P. E. I., and Mrs. Bowness has several old friends in Cranbrook who were former residents of the Island. Mr. Bowness was kept busy to-day receiving the congratulations of his host of friends in Cranbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Home and Mrs. Hamilton entertained a large number of guests last Tuesday evening at the home of the latter. Euchre was the program and six tables were filled. For about two hours the contest waged in a most interesting manner, the changing of partners giving the different guests an opportunity of meeting each other. At the close of the game refreshments were served and an hour of pleasant conversation indulged in. It was a most enjoyable affair and one that all present will recall with pleasing memories.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Leitch gave a large dancing and card party last Thursday evening at their commodious home in honor of Miss Rhoda who has just returned, and Misses Lou and Ella who are to leave tomorrow for Calgary to enter school. Mr. Leitch said that he was anxious to celebrate the gathering of his family as they had not all been at home at one time for several years. They were disappointed in the failure of A. K. Leitch arriving, as he could not get away from Jaffray. There is not a more hospitable home in this section than the Leitch's, and this was demonstrated again by the enjoyable time spent by everyone present that evening. Along the road leading to the residence fancy lanterns were hung to light the guest on his or her way, and on the lawn a large dancing platform had been placed which was lighted by a number of electric lights. The music was stationed on the front verandah, while the large living room was given up to those who preferred to sit and chat or watch the dancers. In other rooms were cards, while one room was set apart for the gentlemen and the enevitable cigar. Dancing was indulged in until about twelve, and then refreshments were served, after which dancing was resumed. It was late before the last guest had said good night, and it was with regret that any took their departure, as the evening had been a most pleasant one.

Fit-Reform

At their Zenith.

Never before have Fit-Reform Suits and Overcoats been so close to perfection, as at the beginning of this fall season.

The improvements in the methods of making, since Fit-Reform was founded, are reflected in the garments themselves.

Such style—such colorings—such exclusive patterns—such tailoring—such faultless fitting garments—cannot be duplicated elsewhere at anywhere near our prices.

Suits and Overcoats.....$12. to $30.
Trousers.....$3.50 to $7.50

This trademark identifies every genuine Fit-Reform garment.
