CRANBROOK HAS THE MINERALS THAT MAKE THE MONEY

Legislative Assembly, Apr.-16

BIGGEST VICTORY OF SUMMER CAMPAIGN

Combles, the Pivotal Point Guarding Bapaume and Peronne, Falls to the Allies, Who C apture Many Men and Great Quantities o f Supplies.

London, Sept. 27 — Combles, the stronghold of the Grmans guarding the approach to Bapaume, has fallen before the terrific allied assault, and is now entirely cleared of the enemy.

Allies Incontestable Masters

Paris, Sept. 27.—The capture of Combles, with its great booty, completes what is regarded by military experts here as one of the most brilliantly executed oporations of the summer campaign. The whole front attack from Martinpuich to the Somme has been thrust forward uniformly for more than a mile. Military observers declare that the fullness of the success proves that the allies are incontestable masters of the situation.

Since September 15 the Germans had brought up three fresh divisions against the French front and the same number against the British.

On the twentieth they made a desperate effort to retake Bouchavesnes. Not only did they fail but five days later, the allies resuming the offensive, hurled back their line in spite of the fact that the considerable advantages of Terrain were considered to be with the Germans.

Many Prisoners Are Taken

London, Sept. 27.—Between 3000 and 4000 prisoners were taken by the British in the Monday and Tuesday fighting on the Somme front, according to a delayed portion of General Haig's report of Wednesday night. "The battle continued violently during the day over the whole front between the somme and the Ancre. Our troops were successful everywhere, carrying out their attacks most brilliantly", says the report.

French Capture Wood

Paris, Sept. 27.—A brilliant attack east of Vermandovillers has succeeded in capturing a strongly fortified wood, according to the French official statement.

Capture of Thiepval

London, Sept. 26.—Both Thiepval, at the northwestern end of the British tine and the fortified town of Gueudecourt, northeast of Lesbauefs, have fallen into the hands of the British. Around the former place many hard battles have been fought since the inception of the great entente offnsive on July 1. General Sir Douglas Haig's men, after capturing Thiepval, drove on eastward and took the Zoolern redoubt, a strongly fortified position which lies between Thiepval and the bend in the British line at Courcelette.

Spend Your Money At Home For The Sake Of Economy

If You do This Regularly and Persistently You Will Materially Help to Build up the City in Which You Live, Besides Greatly Benefiting Yourself in the Long Run

How many of us stop to consider that every penny that we send out of our city means thousands of dollars' worth of injustice to us, not only collectively but individually. How many of us realize the great need of business men, business houses and manufacturing concerns in our city? How many of us realize that the only means of building our city up as a business centre is to trade at home, in every line that is obtainable and so place our funds in the hands of merchants to dispose of in ways and means by which we would be able to buy anything from soup to nuts in our own city. We have but very few manufacturing concerns here at present, where we have plenty of room for such concerns and plenty of men desirous of starting something. If we could only promise these men our support.

It is true that we all try to get as much for our dollar as we can, for we realize the full value of our money when we as an individual have the spending of our money but we do not think of the merchant at home, who is willing to give us full value for our money, if we put him to the test.

Charity begins at home. Why not adopt this method of thinking that we shall receive something for nothing if we trade outside. It is all very fine for the big eastern houses who are strongly in favor of mail order service, firms who want our patronage and seek the same by issuing catalogues, with descriptions and prices that are, they say, eastern prices, but who pays? We pay their price for any articles that is listed in their catalogue regardless of who pays postage, but can we not buy the same article at home at the same price.

A mail order system is very detrimental when we think of those who live in the city and send their money out. No person who reads this should think that an attempt is being made to dictate as to how or where he or she may see fit to spend their money, for it is everybody's privilege to suit themselves, but let everyone use a little judgment when doing their purchasing and so form their own conclusions as to whether they can or cannot do as well, if not better in the long run, if they trade at home.

We don't see the big eastern mail order houses coming west to open a departmental store, to offer us any such bargains as their catalogues picture. Why do they not come west, if they can offer us better value for our money than we can get at home? If they could do so they would not hesitate for one minute, but such a move is out of the question, for quality is quality. If they wish for our trade why not let them come here to get it; why should we go so far to do our shopping when there is no need of it?

RESCUING THE WOUNDED

Claire Patmore Tells of Exciting Rescue under Fire in Which Three were Wounded in Bringing Out One.

The following letter has been received by Mr. Chas. Patmore from his son Claire in the Trenches:

Dear Dad—After the incident I told you about in my last letter the Canadians spent a week preparing to show Fritz what happens when you monkey with the bee's nest. We were busy making our temporary line inhabitable. On the morning before the attack four of us went up to the front line to lay out piles of shovels and sand bags to be carried "over." From eight to twelve in the morning we walked up and down the parapet with our arms loaded. Fritz must have wondered what was doing. About eleven he started shelling us and we finished under difficulties. That night we went up again to follow up on the heels of the charge and consolidate. We dug "junk holes" for ourselves and waited. We went over at our forty-five a.m. and cleared the German trenches with the bayonet. I got a slight nick in the cheek with a bayonet. Everything was pandemonium and we couldn't do anything so we lay low till dark, digging one another out when the trench was blown in. As it got dark the German artillery opened up with a vengeance. We had an awful time getting out, but we got through and flopped into the blankets, soaked to the skin and caked with mud.

It seemed only a moment when I was wakened again. Four of us were to go back in for a wounded engineer of another section. It was almost daylight. We were all in, and stiff from laying down. The other three were new men and scared stiff and the bombardment had developed into a barrage. Things looked cheerful. Soon we were into it and the exploding shells made conversation impossible and sometimes a chunk of shrapnel would hit our helmets making our ears ring. We finally reached our old front line and stopped waist deep in the mud for a breather in the protection of the parapet. Here two of the boys got cold feet and with the other boy (a little Irishman)' I started the worst part of the trip. Here the ground was in a rich soupy condition with the barbed wire trod down under the surface. When we got through to our man we saw that we would be unable to bring him out without assistance and I went back for the others. I found them and bullied them a bit till they went back with me. We got our man on the stretcher and hoisted him out onto the parapet. Here cold foot No. 1 got it in the shoulder. As soon as we lifted on the stretcher we sank to the waist so we just had to slide it along a few inches at a time. The shells kept landing around us and burying us all in the mud. The barbed wire would catch us around the waist and chest. Then cold foot No. 2 got his and the Irishman and I had the job to ourselves. It was broad day when we got the stretcher behind a little piece of parapet in the old trench. As we were about to go back for the other two the Irishman got it in the back and I had to get them out alone. When I finally got them into shelter I started back to the billets for help. With five volunteers I went in again. Our three boys were all right but the stretcher case was buried under about a ton of sand bags but we got him out alive.

The snipers make these daylight jobs kind of rotten. You can imagine how it would get on one's nerves to have a bullet plunk close every couple of minutes and not be able to get away or get into cover. We passed a lot of German prisoners coming out. They were all good looking, husky young fellows. Their clothes looked nice and clean while our fellows were so muddy you could hardly tell a kilt from a pair of pants, and the Germans had clean white shirts on.

Thanks to the excitement on the right we are having a quiet time now. Last week I was in again and things were so quiet I was quite nervous. I suppose everyone over there is figuring how much longer the war will last. It looks good for another year or so to me, so cheer up.

OVER $38,000 TO WAR LOAN

The sum of $38,300 is Cranbrook's contribution to the last Canadian War Loan, this amount being subscribed through the local banks.

Ottawa reports that the cash subscriptions to the war loan recorded by the department of finance up to midnight Saturday, totalled $169,000,000. This includes the $50,000,000 subscribed by the chartered banks. When it is considered that any $100,000,000 was called for, some idea of the success of the loan may be gained.

"I am confident," said Sir Thomas White, finance minister, "that when the subscriptions now in the mails are received, the total will be $180,000,000, and probably more. 95 per cent of the subscriptions are Canadian. The number of subscribers may reach 30,000. The lists closed on Saturday and no further subscriptions can be received."

RELIEF OF BELGIUM IS A SACRED CAUSE

Relief of the Belgians, never in need of argument, remains today as it has been from the beginning of the war, a great and sacred cause, writes Arthur Manson in the Sydney Morning Herald.

The words "sacred cause" should leave an impression in the mind of every Canadian who reads them. The relief of the suffering, starving women and children of Belgium, trodden under the iron heel of the German conqueror, should be as sacred to Canada as the giving of men for the army that is to work out the salvation of civilization. In fact the relief of Belgium is on the same plane as the raising of military units. One is to save the mother country and the other is to lend a hand to a sister country, which made possible the saving of a mother country.

The sending of food to Belgium is a sacred duty that must not be slighted. Seven million of the mothers, wives and children of our fellow soldiers are starving. We have food in plenty, money in abundance, and we must send a part of this to help feed Belgium, which has neither money nor food.

The small amount of two dollars and fifty cents keeps a Belgian family one month. On account of Mrs. King's absence for the next five weeks send donations to the Herald Office or to the Treasurer Central Belgian Relief Committee, 59 St. Peter St., Montreal. Donations will be acknowledged through the Herald.

THE MAN BEHIND" IS SAFEST

Len Leveque Would not Want his Battery to Use Him for a Target Even if he Were 10 Miles Away

The following letter has been received by Mr. F. A. Dunn from L. T. Leveque who enlisted in the artillery and is now "Somewhere in France."

This is the place where all heavy batteries are sent to test out their shooting ability; they are then given their guns to be used at the front. Poor shooters get small calibre guns, those who shoot well get the Big Boys. All I need say is that we got the Big Boys, you will know the rest. I only wish I could describe them to you, but, as you know, that is quite impossible at this time. All I can say is that they are big enough and the Krout eaters will find that out to their own sorrow when we get there.

I had to pass several tests and examinations and came out well enough that I was appointed to the rank of Bombardier; must say, though, that it is no child's play, the work is hard and the concussion from the guns is rather jarring at times. At the same time I would much rather be behind them than ten miles in front of them when our battery is shooting, especially so if they had spotted me for their target.

Promotion in this service is necessarily slow, not at all like the infantry. In addition to knowing the infantry work, we have to be absolutely familiar with all the machinery in connection with the guns, be able to figure range, elevation, deflection for wind and atmospheric pressure and a hundred other things. However, the work is very interesting and in spite of all must say that I like it very well.

We are leaving here inside of 36 hours for—? We will be there three or four days. From there to "Somewhere in France", or Salonika, no one here knows yet our ultimate destination but we all will know long before this reaches you as we will be "there", wherever that me be, and "at them." Needless to say, we will all be glad to go, the training part is alright and interesting when you do not know the work, but once a fellow does know the work it gets to be rather monotonous.

My old friend J. E. M. (Mac) has been transferred to the Field Artillery at Shorncliffe; must say that I miss him very much, but it was at his own request, he did not care for this class of service. Went to see him two weeks ago to-day; he was very well, and getting along fine.

Well, old pal, I don't think I will be able to accompany you on the annual deer hunt this year, but will be thinkin of you and the good old times pretty often when the season comes along. Here's wishing you the very best luck.

Please convey my very best regards to all and the old boys; would like to write to them all but writing letters when in the army is a strenuous proposition to say the least.

Give my very best regards to Dr. King and tell him also that I wish him every success in the coming contest, understand you have elections in B. C. this month. "Here's Good Luck." Oh say, before I close must thank you ever so much for your kindness in sending me the Cranbrook Herald; have received two copies and enjoyed them thoroughly.

ANNUAL MEETING

The second annual meeting of the St. John Ambulance Association was held in the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, September 19th, 1916.

The president, Miss M. E. Paterson, having called the meeting to order, in a few well chosen words gave a very interesting account of what the Association had accomplished during the past year. Miss Paterson referred to the serious loss they had sustained in the departure for the East of Miss Christie, their ex-president, who always took an active part in the work, and was ever ready to devote her time and talents to the welfare of the organization.

The President, on behalf of the St. John Ambulance Association, extended the warmest thanks of its members to their sister society, the I. O. D. E., and also to the other ladies in Cranbrook and the District, who had devoted so much of their time and energy to the cause, the Cranbrook Herald, and those who had generously made cash donations. The President made special mention of the great assistance given to the Association by Miss McLeod, who so kindly gave so much of her time distributing wool, and keeping account of the pairs of socks as they were brought in.

The Secretary-treasurer, having read the minutes, which were adopted as read, gave the following report on the work of the past year:—

Articles shipped: — 1423 pyjamas, night and day shirts, surgeons gowns, etc., 1700 mouth wipes, 511 pair socks, totalling 3634 articles.

The sum of $783.81 was deposited to the credit of the Association during the year of which amount $114.75 was donated in cash, the balance being raised by teas, dances, raffles, etc. The same was expended as follows—yarn $148.25, prisoners of war fund, $20.00; Belgian Relief Fund, $20; McCreery Bros. $118.68; W. D. Hill, $60.95; Overseas Club for Tobacco for Soldiers at Christmas $57.75; J. D. McBride $3.04; Fink Mercantile Co. $2.60; L. Clapp $6.60; C. Emslie $8.40; P. Burns & Co $2.30; King Lumber Mills $8; R. C. Carr $3.75; Cranbrook Jobbers, Ltd. $26.17; Cranbrook Drug & Book Co. $5.35; the Beattie-Murphy Co. $16.10; L. P. Sullivan $8.80; City Transfer & Warehouse Co. $10.25; Cranbrook orchestra and Baldwin Bros in connection with dance Dec. 31st $49, sundry accounts $62.14; St. John Ambulance Hospital, Etaples, France $100 balance in bank $45.68.

The President then called for the election of officers for the ensuing year. The following officers were elected:

Honorary president, Mrs. J. H. King; President, Miss M. A. Green; Vice President, Miss J. Dewar; Secretary-Treaesurer, Miss H. Harrison; Executive Committee, Miss D. Drummond and A. McLennan.

Before the conclusion of the meeting a unanimous vote of thanks was given to the retiring president for the very capable manner in which she had performed her duties, and the hope was expressed that Miss Paterson, who is leaving on an extended holiday on account of her health, may enjoy a quick recovery and speedy return.

KEEP TO THE RIGHT

GRAND FORKS, B. C., Sept. 26.—That British Columbia should adopt the 'Keep to the Right' rule of the road the express rates on cream in this province should be placed on the same basis as Alberta and that the completion of the transprovincial highway should be proceeded with, were asked in resolutions passed at Grand Forks by the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia in annual convention.

The boards asked in another resolution that it should be made an offence for any holder of an agreement to purchace land from the crown to alienate the land before having secured a crown grant.

H. C. Brewster is asked to select as minister of mines a member from one of the Kootenay-Boundary constituencies and it is urged tha research into methods of treating British Columbia ore be continued.

Anothr resolution demands the abolition of patronage and the establishment of a complete civil service system and it is also urged that road work be taken out of the arena of party politics.

It is recomended that telephone companies be compelled to build future lines along trunk roads and to establish pay stations every 10 miles. The boards reaffirm their adherence to the principle of public ownership of telephones.

THE QUESTION OF RECRUITING

The departure of twelve men on Tuesday to join the Forestry Battalion at Calgary, making 25 from Cranbrook within the last few weeks, all recruited from the lumber mills or the mines in this district, again brings home the fact that unrestricted recruiting is interfering seriously with the industrial life of the country. We have no desire to discourage recruiting and draw attention to this matter from a purely patriotic standpoint. Men are undoubtedly needed at the front to carry the flag of liberty to victory, but it is quite necessary at the same time to keep the wheels of industry turning at home, and keep up the steady stream of ammunition and supplies without which no modern battle can be won. We believe there are still numbers of men eligible for military service who are not indispensible to the industrial life of the country, and whose absence would not interfere with production in any line, but under the present system they are being left while those actively engaged in the work of production, such for instance as mining and lumbering, are being enlisted.

Canada has promised a half million men. We are still a long way from that number and only by proper and systematic methods can they be secured without seriously crippling the industry of the country. For the sake of the good name of Canada the half million promised must be raised as soon as possible, but it would be poor patriotism and a source of encouragement to the enemy to hang on a little longer if in the raising of that number the country's industrial life were even seriously threatened. We must show that we can raise the half million, and still be strong enough to raise more if necessary.

ANOTHER YEAR OF WAR

Published statements of leading soldiers and statesmen as well as the private advices from soldiers at the front all bear out the opinion that the war will last a year or more yet. The German military machine is by no means crushed yet, the resources of the Teutonic allies in men, money and munitions are by no means exhausted and the determination of the nations to fight to the bitter end in the hope of ultimate victory has not been materially shaken.

Wounded soldiers just returned from the front agree that the captured German soldiers, while glad to be taken prisoner to get out of fighting, refuse to believe that the German army can be defeated. They believe that the big offensive now being waged by the Anglo-French forces on the western front will be of short duration and that the German army is more than a match for all the forces Russia can bring against it. With the German war office press service keeping the men fed up on this sort of stuff, it will take more than one crushing defeat to make Fritz realize that he is a beaten man. With a supreme confidence in the German super-man, and in himself as a unit in the great military machine, the German soldier will be hard to convince of the hopelessness of his undertaking. As the German armies are forced to shorten their lines and change their tactics so as to conserve their resources, these actions will be explained as strategic moves to insure a greater victory later on. So long as this confidence is maintained, his morale will not be broken, and so long as his morale is unshaken, the German soldier will be a hard man to beat. Even when he is forced back farther and farther and his confidence in ultimate victory is shaken, the Teuton will fight desperately to preserve the soil of his fatherland from invasion. So from this point of view there can be little hope of speedy victory.

On the other hand, if the men at the front become fully aware of the suffering, privation and hardship being borne by their wives and families at home and if they become convinced of the truthfulness of the Socialist's contention that the war is one started by a lie and continued by lies, he may lose his spirit and become a much easier opponent to defeat.

But, as Premier Biand of France, said in addressing the Chamber of Deputies this week, "we must not indulge in an excess of optimism because of the recent successes. It would be harmful should we diminish our activity in the conviction that victory can no longer escape us. Let us coolly face the truth. The enemy is still powerful. He will defend himself desperately to the end. He can be crushed only by repeated blows."

While we believe final victory is assured, we must also believe that it can be achieved only by keeping at it and everlastingly at it until the enemy is totally crushed.

INSTEAD OF "PUNKIN JUICE", BREWERIES NOW MAKE FRUIT JUICE

The following may or may not be of solace to the brewery interests of British Columbia. We clip from the Kansas City Times:—

"In the campaigns for prohibition in Oregon and Washington the liquor interests pointed to the big brewing plants which would be closed, and the hundreds of men who would be thrown out of work if those states became dry, and that argument had influence with many voters. But prohibition came in both these states and this is what happened:

"You have seen in The Star a page advertisement of 'Loju', a new fruit juice. This is a product of the breweries of Oregon and Washington.

"Leopold F. Schmidt, founder and owner of great breweries in Olympia, Salem and Bellingham, saw that prohibition was coming. He believed in the future of fruit juices and he organized a company and before the prohibitory law went into effect he stopped making beer and equipped his three brewery plants to make 'Loju', the juice of ripe apples. The new fruit juices were liked by the public, the demand grew, the business prospered and now, instead of being closed, the three breweries are running at full capacity and more men are employed than formerly. And these men have the pride of knowing that they are in a clean business which is a benefit instead of a curse to mankind."

GERMAN-AMERICANS' LIMIT

(Montreal Herald)

The Germans who have gone to the United States have become Americans although they have not lost all the original sin of Germans. Hundreds of thousands of them would do anything for their fatherland—except live in it. They will sing about it; they will plot and scheme for it and betray the United States for it; but they will never be real out-and-out Germans again.

LOSE NO SLEEP OVER CHANGE

(Creston Review)

While interested parties, largely, bemoan the beating the government received—and, of course, it is to be deplored the opposition will not be stronger numerically the general public will hardly lose any sleep over the change—it's a bit too unanimous to be worthy of any post mortems. In Canada it has invariably been found that a government fresh from the people is more progressive than an administration of a dozen years standing.

Canada parted company with Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1911 and, barring the bringing into prominence of Sir Sam Hughes, few will care to say the country is the worse for the change. Lord Kitchener passed off the scenes as the military genius of Britain but the Allies go right on winning. Manitoba is equally prosperous under Premier Norris as it was under Sir Rodmond Roblin. Without doubt British Columbia will be equally fortunate under premier-elect Brewster and his associates—at least that is the way the electors have sized the matter up, and the people can generally be trusted.

THE LIQUOR QUESTION ONCE MORE

(Vancouver Standard)

Behind the Speaker's chair in the legislative building at Victoria is a narrow stairway which leads to a bar, where all manner of liquors are dispensed to members of parliament.

Many a drunken legislator in the days of the past staggered down that stairway to be present in the house to vote upon a bill which he knew nothing about—oftentimes a bill which saddled millions of debt upon this province.

Drunkenness was the great curse of the last legislature, and through it all we never had a word of protest from that pious dental expert from Vancouver. His prohibition mania struck him just before election time.

We sincerely hope that whatever may happen to the prohibition legislation before the Province, that Premier Brewster will strike one blow for "safety first" and abolish the barroom in the legislature. We believe it would be quite as fitting to have a bar behind the pulpit in every church in the Province as to have such an institution running full blash at all hours within the sacred portals of parliament.

KOOTENAY BOUNDARY SHOULD HAVE PAPER MILL

(Nelson News)

Port Arthur is to be the site of a new pulp mill. It owes this industry to the rapid growth in the demand for paper which has occurred since the war began and European supplies were either cut off or the supply reduced to almost vanishing point by shortage of ship tonnage.

There should be a pulp mill in Kootenay and Boundary. Supply of the right kind of timber is ample; cheap electric power can be secured; a market is right at hand in this province and the adjacent prairie provinces and across the Pacific is a grea demand for the exportable surplus. Coast mills cannot anything like meet the demand from the Antipodes while there is a rapidly growing market for paper in the Uniaed States and South America.

The people of Kootenay and Boundary should take steps to urge upon outside capitalists the possibilities for

THE NEW BRITISH SPIRIT

(New York Tribune)

Sadly, grimly, the British are going about their work. There is no hymn of hate in their resources; they have no "Marseillaise"; theirs will be a slow, silent but relentless action What you have to feel and see is millions of men who are at last awake to the fact that at that life means to them nationally, morally spiritually, has been threatened. After the tradition of his race and the fashion of his nation the Englishman—millions of him, has now gone out to kill and be killed until the work that is to be done is done. Once that spirit was clear in England,then those of us who believed that all that America as well as all that democracy held best in the world was at stake in this war could afford to roll up the war maps and put aside the battle reports. The incidental changes would mean nothing and will mean nothing "They came so slowly," the Frenchman told you of his allies six months ago, but in saying this he added out of his race conciousness of half a thousand years of Anglo-French conflict, "but when they do come they will never stop."

DAUGHTERS OF THE EMPIRE

The proceeds of the collection from Mrs. Henshaw's lecture amounted to $34.50. This, together with a generous check from Mrs. Dr. Green enabled the Daughters of the Empire here to send $65.50 to Mrs. Sillitoe in Vancouver for prisoner's bread.

The regular monthly donation of $5 was also sent, subscribed by the following named and collected by Mrs. A .A. MacKinnon for prisoner's bread: Mrs. Robertson 25c, Mr. T. Austin 25c, Mr. J. BUILDING SHIPS FOR B. C.

James Carruthers, of Montreal, well known shipping and grain man, is spending a few days on the coast. He and his associates, among whom are J. W. Norcross, Montreal; M. J. Haney, Toronto, and R .M. Wolvin, Winnipeg, have entered into an agreement with the Wallace Shipyards in North Vancouver by which the latter will build them a number of vessels. One of the vessels, which will be used in the overseas carrying trade from this port, is now well under way. The project owes its inception to the Shipping Act passed at the recent session of the legislature. Ten vessels will be built for the eastern syndicate immediately, and others will be contracted for later on. —Toronto Saturday Night.

REVIVAL IN MINING

(Special to the Herald)

Invermere, B. C., Sept. 25.—The mining industry has again revived amongst the low grade producing properties of the Windermere Mining Division and the Nettie M., and Paradise properties are both now making shipments to the Trail smelter. The Paradice is a very large proposition and is at the moment employing about twelve men. It has not been working previously for over ten years but up to that time a large amount of work had been done upon the property. Other prospects which are receiving attention are the Isaac and some unnamed holdings.

Every man going on active service must make his will and file it according to military regulations. It is found that many fail to do this, so in militia orders just issued, commanding officers are instructed to see that each man in his respective unit attends to this at once.

SEES IN ROUGE END OF FEMININE BEAUTY

Stop desecrating the fair face of nature, declares Dr. William P. Cunningham of New York, who rises to warn all womankind that unless the rouge and powder are dropped dermatitis will destroy all their beauty.

This is about the last word from the doctor. He made up his mind that, if women won't stop powdering their cheeks and their arms and even their alabaster backs for the sake of [illegible] and thereby also defy fasion, they must be made to stop from sheer vanity. He holds the mirror up to artificiality in a way which shows he believes his mission is a serious one.

All the details are in the current number of The Medical Record, where the physician has discussed the matter frankly, and here and there one may dwell on the high lights "It is a curious commentary," says Dr. Cunningham by way of epigram, "on the whole wretched business as men emerge from savagery they cease to adorn themselves with paint, women begin to resort to it. The skin of the habitual user of cosmetics, when it is possible to get a glimpse of it at all,is dry, harsh and coarse. Its natural lines are deepened by the precipitation into them of the solid constituants employed. From prolonged use of its delicate fabric it takes on the repulsive aspect of precocious degeneration, so that at 30,when a woman's comliness should be in full luxurience the bloom and rondure of youth gives way to the seamed and haggard mask of menacing senility.

"The skin, which has been put to such unnatural uses, has been made a mere parchment backing for the decorators brush. It has long been in the sunlight, and feeling the reviving influences of the heaven-born breezes clogging, clammy messes until the vitality has been squeezed out of it."

Dr. Cunningham proceeds to show how in his oppinion, at least, woman gets the worst of life, for although both men and women are inclined to eat and drink too much, only women paint their faces and distort their bodies with corsets.

Feeling that he cannot really accomplish anything in stopping the wearing of corsets, the physician takes up the matter of cosmetics.

"The wan and hagard hue of the unpainted actress," he says, "is in startling contrast with the tinted Venus flaunting her manufactured charms in the glare of the spotlight. We wonder at her marvellous pulchritude, forgetting in the fascination of the moment the sordid manner of its production. Yet sometimes this actress has a keener appreciation of things than her lay sister, and confines her facial decoration strictly to the demands of her business, thereby limiting the damage to her integuments to a very material degree."

Dr. Cunningham, ceasing from his attentions to the "Mind the Paint Girl," reflects on what he has seen on the aids of beauty all about him, for he says that this foolish practice in applying cosmetics is so prevalent in every community that it is almost universal.

"Not only," he adds, "are the completed results in evidence in ballroom, parlor, church, and public conveyances, but even the method of application is brazenly displayed by certain shameless habitutes in utter disregard of the comment of onlookers. You and I have seen a woman powder her nose in a street car. We have seen her rouge her cheeks as boldly. As to the finished works of art that flaunt their pink and white enamel in haughty defiance of adverse opinion thep are so numerous as to arouse only a languid repulsion."

Dr. Cunningham on the strictly professional side, warns woman about the dangers of the mineral dyes, and especially against such powerful substances as arsenic, antimony and lead salts, which appear in many of the beautifying preparations. Wood alcohol, he insists, is employed in some of the vaunted mixtures.

"Our gravest warning," he concludes, "against the poisonous effects of these would be flat and impotent were it not for the fortunate circumstance that injury to the health is accompanied by injury to the complexion. The dread of this direful possibility should give the painter pause. Fashion inculcates a calm contempt for every argument based on physical well-being; its only argument is physical well-seeming. Every opposing contention, no matter how serious and well sustained, is airily waved aside as wholly inconsequential."

Dr. Cunningham is a well known dermatologist connected with the Skin and Cancer Hospital and also with Harlam Hospital.

Some Goats

Jim's son is The Kid. Jack's son is also The Kid. But neither Jim nor Jack is a goat or any man's goat, or possesseth a goat. Yet hath either of the twain a goat; and Jim longs to capture Jack's goat, even as Jack longeth to get the goat of Jim. But if Jim gets Jack's goat he is not enriched thereby, nor can he add the goat of Jack to his flock. So, by equal reasoning, if Jack gets Jim's goat, he is not ahead one goat over and above. And if by simultaneous action, and on the same mortal spot, Jim captures Jack's goat and Jack cops, swipes or acquires Jim's goat, neither is to be debited one goat or credited one goat. It is equally clear that if Jim's kid gets Jack's kid's goat, and Jack's kid's goat——Aw, go to ——!.

A LEGAL STORY

A young man in Chicago had lost his aunt. He seemed so dejected thereby that a friend, aware of the true situation, asked:

"Why do you look so sad! You never seemed to care for the old lady."

"I did'nt," said the youth dolefully "but I was the means of keeping her in a lunatic asylum for a number of years. She has left me all her money and now I have got to prove that she was of sound mind."

Doris, aged 12, was alone in the house when a visitor called to see her mother.

Doris smiled hospitably as she held the door open wide.

"Oh, Mrs. Browne", she said brightly, "mother will be so pleased; she hoped you'd come this afternoon."

Mrs. Browne beamed at the warmth of the welcome.

"Is that so, dear?" she asked."Then your mother is at home?"

"Oh, no", answered Doris, just as brightly, "she's gone out shopping and won't be home till late tonight."

The post office department of Canada has been notified by the British post office that many parcels sent from Canada to prisoners of war in Germany are being received in London in a damaged condition.

It is stated by the British post office officials that parcels from the Dominion have frequently to be repacked before they can be forwarded to Holland for transmission to Germany. The British post office adds that in most cases the damage appears to be due to the fact that the parcels were inadequately packed by the senders. As a consequence of this contingent the department at Ottawa has issued another of the several warnings already published, pointing out to senders of parcels that unless they are securely and properly packed they will be refused.

GIANT JAM GIFT

Don't forget our "Giant Jam Gift" for our men in the trenches and hospitals in Europe. We hear that both the price and scarcity of sugar in England will greatly curtail the jam supply this year. The jam must be boiled well—until it is thick—and put up in the Emprels Tins, which can be had at the Red Cross rooms, Baker St. Those who do not wish to make jam can give money to pay for the tins. The jam will be called for on the 10th of October to be packed and shipped. We all should feel the pleasure and benefit of working in unity for a big result.

At the weekly Red Cross meeting it was decided by the ladies that they should raise funds by giving a dance on the 11st of October. This affair will be quite unique and we hope to see a large crowd—not only from town but from Cranbrook, Wasa, Bull River and other points. The dance will be held in the Band Hall at 8.45 p.m., and in the Masonic Hall there will be refreshments ready during the whole evening, also booths with lemonade, candy and other dainties. There will be palmistry booths where fortunes will be told by clever readers for the small price of 25c. Last but not least cards and card tables will be available at the price of 40c a table. KEEP UP CREAMERY OUTPUT IN THE FALL

Suggestions to Dairymen of Manitoba Applicable to B. C. Also.

The output of Manitoba creameries and cheese factories is, at the end of August, holding up very satisfactorily. Furthermore, the prices of dairy products are exceptionally high and give every promise of continuing so; for instance,the creameries have no trouble at the present time,in disposing of first grade butter at 32 cents.

The exceptionally favorable market conditions, coupled with the fact that there is an abundance of food, should ensure a good make of butter during the fall months. Will this be the case, or will it not? The critical period is practically on, or at least rapidly approaching. In previous years there has almost invariably been a rapid decline in the output of our creameries o soon as inclement weather sets in or we had a few cold nights. The last annual report from the creameries showed that 83 per cent of their output was made during the six summer months and only 17 per cent during the six fall and winter months. This difference was due, in no small measure, to the conditions prevailing during the fall months. Letting the cows drop away unduly in their flow of milk during this season of the year, a material shortening of the cow's milking period, and practically no production during the winter.

Such a decline in production can be avoided if the simple precaution is taken to house the cows during the cold nights and inclement weather and feed them that is necessary to supplement the pastures. The drop in the output of our creameries during the early part of last fall was very sudden and very marked, and it is sincerely to be hoped that this will not repeat itself this year. We can easily prevent it; let us do so.—J. W. Mitchell, dairy commissioner for Manitoba.

LAUNDRY CHANGES HANDS

The Cranbrook Steam Laundry has changed hands this week and commencing on Monday next will be under the management of Mr. P. Baine, connected for some time back with the Cranbrook Cleaning and Dye Works. Mr. Baine is a practical laundryman himself and will take personal charge of the work and see that all work is turned out promptly and satisfactorily. The old machinery is now being overhauled and some new machines will be intalled to take care of the work properly.

The new firm will run a modern sanitary laundry, all white help, and by prompt and courteous service and satisfactory work hope to get an increased share of the laundry business of the city. They pay a living wage to their help, work regular hours, wash every piece of laundry in a sanitary manner, and the money paid to the Steam Laundry will all be put into circulation again in this same district, and not sent overseas as in the case of much of the money spent with other laundries. We bespeak for the new management the consideration and patronage they deserve in their efforts to build up a live industry in the city, and one which if properly patronized will mean a considerable addition to the industrial payroll of the city.

NEW COMPANIES TO OPERATE MINES

Molly Gibson (Burnt Basin) Flotation Goes Through—Trail Company to Buy Quatsino Properties

The British Columbia Gazette contains announcement of the incorporation of two new mining companies. The Molly Gibson Burnt Basin Mining company has a capital of $1,000,000. Its head office is at Rossland. The Coast Copper has a capital of $1,000,000 with head office at Trail. One of its objects is to purchase from Maurice W. Bacon and William E. Cullen 31 mineral claims and equipment and an option on 14 other claims and equipment, all in the Quatsino district of Vancouver Island.

A PUPIL OF THE EMPIRE

A British officer's note and comment on the British Empire: "British East Africa, January 1916.—It's a rum show this! One of the South African generals who's arrived has brought with him a suitcase which he captured during the South African war from General Smith-Dorrien and which he's now going to return to him. Really the British Empire is a wonderful machine and far too fine to be lost to the world, when it can show such incidents as this."

NEW ANGLO-FRENCH GAINS OF IMMENSE IMPORTANCE

London, Sept. 27.—The Capture of Thiepval by the British and Combles by the combined Anglo-French forces announced in the latest official communications is regarded here as the most important success on the western front since the opening of the present offensive.

The stronghold of Combles was expected to fall. For weeks the process of encirclement has progressed by the British on the north and west and by the French on the south and east. But the capture of Thiepval which was announced too late for comment in the papers, has proved a genuine surprise.

Thiepval's fall gives to the Anglo French the whole line of low hills which runs to the plain upon which the town of Bapaume is located.

Meanwhile Sir Thomas is organizing his headquarters staff at the capital. The great majority of the associate directors will be civilians of high standing, the purpose being to collect the required information apart entirely from the recruiting efforts of the department of militia.

Terry the Provincial Poultry Expert from Victoria, acted as judge of the poultry classes; Mr. P. E. French, assistant provincial horticulturalist acted as judge of the fruit exhibit and in this he was assisted by Mr. W. T. Macuon of Ottawa, Ont., Horticulturalist of the Department of Agriculture. Mr. O. B. Richards acted as judge of the live stock. Mesdames Thatcher and Richards acted as judges for the exhibit of ladies' work.

After the close of the first day a banquet in honor of the judges was given at Hotel Invermere.

A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY

What's the use of sighin',
Lettin' go your grip?
Why not put some stiff'nin'
In your upper lip?
Get some ginger in you,
Don't set round and whine,
Rustle up your shirt sleeves,
Stiffen up your spine.

Fortune's like a woman,
She will surely frown
If you try to court her
With your mouth turned down.
Why not try a whistle,
Just a bit of song?
Daylight sure is breakin'
Though the night be long.
—Florence Janes Hadley

NO INSURANCE FOR HIM

An Old Country farmer lost his barn last year by fire. They said at the time that he was insured for more than the building was worth, and that he was not sorry to see the old shed destroyed. Unfortunatery for his hopes however the insurance people took advantage of an option in their policy and replaced the barn instead of giving him the money—greatly to his disgust. Not long afterwards the traveling agent of a life insurance company came into the village, and, among others, solicited the old man to effect an insurance on his life. "No, no!" said the farmer; "I should feel as if I were agoing to die to-morrow". "Well", said the agent, facetiously, "if that is the case, take the assurance on your wife." "You don't catch me there, either," chuckled the old man:: "I know the way of you insurance chaps; you would just go and give me another old jade even worse than the first."

"My son," said the father impressively, "suppose I should be taken away suddenly, what wouldbecome of you?"

"Why", said the son, irreverently, "I'd stay here; the question is, what would become of you?"
