Work of Dyking Flats Commences

Reclamation of Overflowed Area at Creston Under Way on Big Scale—8000 Acres Involved—Working Three Shifts.

Reclamation of the overflow lands at Creston has commenced. With huge tractors and dirt-moving machinery roaring a twenty-four-hour day defiance to hitherto uncontrolled waters of the Goat and Kootenay rivers, a start has been made on the building of the fourteen miles of dyke that will when completed, enclose 8,000 acres of the most fertile land on the North American continent.

Thirty ears ago. citizens of Creston watched the pioneer settlers hewing what are today splendid fruit ranches out of the solid forests. This land was costing up to $150 per acre for the clearing alone and meant, in many cases, land that was costing $300 per acrr to get ready for the plough. Right below the village lay thousands of acres of level grass land, fertile, ready for cultivation, and perfect for every agricultural purpose save for one real difficulty For six weeks in the middle of each growing season this land was covered with excess water. backed up from Kootenay Lake.

These citizens, quite a few of whom are still in business in Creston, dreamed dreams of controlling, by some means, that short period of overflow. Being practical men they commenced action, formed a Board of Trade and started a thirty-year bombardment of government officials, provincial, national and international. Incredible as it seems, the citizens persisted against disappointment after disappointment, in a continuous effort to make the legislative side of "Reclamation" possible.

Meanwhile, science as applied to the perfecting of dirt-moving machinery, has been making tremendous strides. Less than six months ago the final object to "Reclamation" from the point of view of the citizens, was removed by the approval of an agreement on the part of the Dominion government. Less than one year ago, at the Coulee dam on the Columbia River in Washington State, a method of moving dirt was perfected which will make the reclamation of the Creston overflow lands not only feasible from an engineering point of view, but decidedly practical.

On August 28th of this year a group of Creston citizens, by reason of concessions granted by dominion and provincial governments were able to sign a contract for the building of the reclamation dykes. This contract was made with Creston Dyking Company, Limited. In barely over two weeks' time the company has assembled and put into operation sufficient machinery to complete the work before next high water and with a reasonable margin of safety.

Just in passing and for the man who likes his figures, it is interesting to note that the combined weight of these machines is in excess of one hundred tons, and the value in excess of $55,000 00.

The intere ting part of the equipment consists of two Isaacson dirt movers, which are the latest thing in dirt moving and dyke-building equipment These machines can best be described as glorified scrapers, which are hauled by 75 horse power Allis-Chalmers track-type tractors, and operated and controlled by powerful hydraulic machinery. Glorification consists in the fact that these scrapers are mounted on six huge pneumatic tires, and pick up and deliver ten full yards of dirt at every trip to the dyke. The value of these machines for dyke-building purposes lies in the economy with which dirt can be moved and in the fact that the dirt is pread on a thickness of about four inches at each operation and then packed by the full weight of each unit. When it is stated that the weight of each unit loaded is about forty tons, the value of this system of dyke-building becomes obvious.

The entire project will be in charge of Walter H. Heath, a dyking engineer with a life-time experience in dyking work on the Mississippi River and in the southern states of Texas and Louisana.

Mr. Heath knows his dykes; not only lives and thinks his work, but talks in terms of dirt moving. It's new and mighty sweet-sounding langurge to the people of Creston. Such terms as "core-ditch," "drag-line," "cat skinner," "borrow-pit," "bulldozer," "blademan" are being heard on the streets everywhere. Mr. Heath's favorite expression as, "A Mississippi dyke—everything but the Niggers and the mosquitoes."

It is well worth while to figure what this means. First of all, remember that the Creston dyke does not have to withstand moving water It means a solid clay dyke, free from sand or gravel, free from tree roots or rubbish of every kind, free from grass and all vegetable matter Th s solid mass of packed clay has a core extending below ground surface from four to eight feet, is up to sixty feet wide at the surface of the ground. t n feet wide at the top. and six feet higher than the highiest water that has occurred during the past thirty years.

Dreams come true. Dreams not only of the citizens who see Creston doubly prosperous and doubly desirable to the home builder, but dreams coming true to the stockman and local rancher who sees the possibilities of farming on sound and and sensible basis. Eight thousand acres of rich, humus overflow soil made available for cultivation by means of a dyke properly built for a century of permanance.

Canyon City

Grover Kifer was down from Canal Flats for a weekend visit at his home here.

R. F. Borett, representative of the B.C. Tree Fruit Board, has made a number of visits to the district the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Knott and K. Knott of Erickson are spending the week at Fairmont. where the latter is taking treatment at the well known sulphur springs.

Rains of Friday and Monday, with cooler weather prevailing, were just what was needed to put the color in the apples. Even the Wealthys seem to have benefitted.

Miss T. Walker, R.N., of Carnduff, Sask., who has been a summer visitor with her sister, Mrs. L. Craig, left at the first of the week to take duty at the Royal Jubilee hospital, Victoria.

A number of the members of Trinity Church Young people's society, Creston, took the service here on Sunday afternoon. Next Sunday it is announced O. M. Samuelson will be in charge.

Raymond Humble, George Niblow and Bob and Jack Hale had a place on the all-star baseball team that trimmed the classy Creston Athletics at Creston on Sunday afternoon. It was a pitchers' battle in which Niblow bested Cherrington. The score was 7-4.

Wynndel

Mrs. J. Woods of Twin Bays is here on a visit with her sister, Mrs Carl Wigen.

Miss Ruth J y, who has been employed in Nelson, arrived home last week.

Mrs Ogilvie of Harrop, who was visiting her son, Clarence, returned home last week

The September meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. J. G Abbott.

Miss Alice Davis, who has been holidaying with her parents, returned to Trail last week.

Miss Dorothy Payette has returned to Vancouver after a three weeks' visit with her parents here.

Mr. and Mrs. Cuell of Calgary, Alta., are visiting their daughters, Mrs. E. Wall and Mrs. R. Eakin, jr.

Wynndel Women's Institute September meeting will be held in the Church Tuesday, 18th, at 2.30 p.m

In the absence of Rev. A. Walker the United Church service on Sunday morning was conducted by Trinity United Young People of Creston.

Miss E. Reid returned from Nakusp, where she visited er grandparents. Mrs. Mosley accompanied her to Wynndel, on a visit with her daughter, Mrs. R. Url.

The first real rain for many weeks fell on Friday and together with the high wind of Saturday, cleared the valley of smoke which has been long present. Monday there was a heavy hail shower, and some lightning.

FOR SALE—Five heavy work horses suitable for ranch work or logging, will consider a trade for a milch cow. Can be seen at the John Bird ranch, Lister.

Favor B.C. Pool Littlejohn Directs

Growers Practically Unanimous for One Pool—Littlejohn Well Backed for Local Representative on Central Control Board

W. G. Littlejohn will be the representative of Creston valley on the central board that will control the marketing of B.C.'s 1934 fruit crop, and for this season Creston valley will pool its products in the one big (or Okanagan) pool.

This was the decision of the very largely attended growers meeting in Trinity Church hall on Tuesday night, at which W. G. Littlejohn, chairman of the local stabilization board presided, and was featured by a talk by R. F. Borret of Kelowna. who arrived here on Sunday to take temporary charge of the district in seeing to it that all the features of the new Natrual Products Marketing Act are lived up to.

Mr. Borret's talk was informal, taking and answering questions from those present as he went along, and at the conclusion of his address and from the answers given questioners everyone was convinced that the new marketing act is complete in every detail in assuring orderly marketing for the benefit of the growers.

He defined what constitutes a commercial shipper, grower-shipper, trucker and some other agencies through which fruit might be offered for sale. Most of the questions had to do with the trucker and it was pointed out that of the 22 cents a box the trucker has to deposit with the board before he can leave the valley, two cents was for operating expense and the 20 cents went into the equalization fund. As yet the per box charge to other shippers had not been set, but all must pay the 2 cents. Truckers must now submit to their fruit being inspected the same as other houses. Mr. Borret announced truckers pould be subject to check up at Yahk and Crows nest as well as here so there was little chance of them evading the new law

In case a packing house refuses to take from the grower all of his fruit, the board will see to it that some other shipper handles it, or the stuff will be taken care of by the board so that the grower is fully protected.

For local representative on the central board 11 were nominated, but only five allowed their names to go on the ballot, These were W. G Littlejohn, T. Wilson, W. L. Bell, J. B. Holder and A F Rudd of Wynndel. There was a total vote of 87 and 35 of these were for Mr. Littlejohn, who was declar d elected amidst considerable enthusiasm Mr. Littlejohn thanked those present for this show of confidence and assured his one ambition would be to work for the best interests of the growers and the valley first, last and all the time.

The vote in favor of the central pool was announced at 67 to 4 in favor. Three views were presented in this connection. John Hall favored sending a couple of delegates along with Mr Littlejohn to the Okanagan to bargain as it were, for more definite terms. W. A. Pease and J. Handley were strong for a valley pool to include the territory as far as Kootenay Lake. Those sponsoring central pool cited losses a local pool would incur through having no storage and having to sell apples early and thus get no advantage of the higher prices that would prevail later. It was hoped, too, by going in the big pool that at an early date this district would be given full advantage of the favorable freight rates Creston enjoys but which, at present, are not cashed in on.

At the conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the retiring stabilization board members, Messrs. P. Boffey, Hilton Young, J. B. Holder, E. E. Cartwright and W. G. Lrttlejohn for the services so well and cheerfully rendered.

Now that organization work has been completed in connection with the local handling of marketing matters it will be well to direct attention to some clauses of the Marketing Act tnat will be of interest. In reading these growers the should have in mind that term "local board" to the central board of control or head office.

Clause 16. The local board shall appoint a representative from the Main Line district and a representative from the Eastern districts, which representatives shall be nominated by the growers in their respective districts. The duties and remuneration of these representatives shall be determined by the local board.

Clause 19. To require a shipper or grower to furnish to the local board from time to time complete and accurate records and estimates of any such product which he has or will have for marketing, and as to the time or times at which the same shall be available.

Clause 26. To require a grower to register his name and address and to furnish the local board with the description and quantity of the different products grown by him and of the acreage upon which such products are produced, at such times and in such form and containing such information as the local board may direct

Although Mr. Littlejohn has been appointed, yet his duties are not clear y known until he meets the board at Kelowna and the whole situation is passed upon. In the meantime he is gathering all possible data that will aid him in discussing all matters with the board.

Also he is endeavoring to make Mr. Borret as conversant as possible with the various aspects of the situation and the various problems as they apply to this district which it is hoped, Mr. Borret will embody in his report to the board, which should greatly aid Mr. Littlejohn in anything he may present for consideration.

Sirdar

Haying was completed just in time to escape the rain.

Mr. Brady of Creston was a visitor to Atbara on Sunday.

T. Rogers, who has been in Calgary for a few days, has returned.

James S. Wilson was a business visitor to Kimbeley during the week.

Miss Gwen Wilson is a visitor with Mr. and Mrs. VanAckeran at Canyon.

Mrs. J. S. Wilson and son, Charles, were motor visitors to Grey Creek on Saturday.

Clarence Wilson of Wynndel has been here with his truck hauling coal for domestic supply.

The water as indicated by guage at Slough bridge reads 3.40 a drop of 0.16 for the week.

Mr. Bainbridge, who has been in Carmangay, Alberta, for some time, arrived home last week.

Mrs. Robert Stewart is at present in Cranbrook was an out patient at St. Eugene Hospital.

A. Lombardo, who has been employed with the Borosoto haying outfit at the Lewis ranch, has returned to Sirdar.

Owing to rain the weiner roast sponsored by the bridge crew was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Rogers.

Frank Hamilton of Kootenay Landing left on Saturday by stage for Golden where he will spend a week with relatives.

Mr. Borosoto, who has beed here the past two weeks getting in hay for his ranch, left for Trail at the beginning of the week.

The detour, over which the traffic will be diverted during the construction of the highway leading to Atbara switch, is now completed.

Abe Goodman was a business visitor to Creston at the beginning of the week. L. Anderson was a business visitor at Creston on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Koliman feft for the coast by train where Mrs. Koliman will undergo an operation. Mr. Koliman will return in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harlow and baby, who have been visiting in Sirdar for the last two weeks, left for their home in Nelson at the end of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. VanAckeran and Miss Ethel VanAckeran, Misses M. McGee, Grace Bottomley, Phonse Huygnns and George Connell, were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wilson on Friday evening.

Among the business visitors to Creston at the beginning of the week were Jas. Manarino, Jas. Passcuzzo and Mrs. Colombo. L. Miller and P. Johnston of Kuskanook were business visitors to Creston at the end of the week.

A meeting of the Sirdar softball club was held on Thursday evening for the purpose of forming a tennis club. It was decided to postpone action in the matter until spring. The name of the softball club was changed to Sirdar Athletic Club. It was decided to go ahead with badminton. The election of officers for the Athletic Club, embracing all sport activities, were: President, D. Pascuzzo; vice-president, R. Heap; secretary-treasurer, Miss Annie Passcuzzo.

The Cartwright-Putnam packing shed began the season's operations on Tuesday. A new grader has been installed. Three packers and three sorters are the staff to start with.

Council Defers By-Law Action

Getting More Information as to Trade Licenses and Hours of Work for Barbers—To Collect from Transient Traders.

The September meeting of the village council Monday night was about the most uneventful of the year. Reeve F. H. Jackson presided, and Councillors Comfort and Murrell were in attendance. About the only definite action taken was in connection with the payment of accounts, and a decision to have the regular meetings of council for the next six months commence at 7.30 instead of eight o'clock.

Even the correspondence was light. The C.P.R. superintendent at Nelson promised to have the engineer confer with the council on his next visit in connection with Coun. Comfort's proposal for a track elevation to give a connection from Canyon street to Fifth street in the vicinity of the water tank.

The Stockbreeders' Association wrote complaining of the nuisance ground on the flats. Refuse was being scattered in all directions in that neighborhood, with scant attention paid to getting the waste material inside the fenced area. The association will be told the town will give the matter its serious consideration.

The proposed new trade license by-law which was due for first reading this month was stood over pending the gathering of certain specific information from other municipalities. The hours of work by-law which the barbers have asked to be changed was also stood over. The council will get a line on the Minimum Wage Act amendments before consenting to any revision.

The accounts passed for payment totalled $411, and were featured by bills for labor and lumber on the new sidewalk on Fourth street The necessary motion was passed giving the handyman full authority to collect trade licenses from transient traders in town, and will be allowed a remuneration of ten per cent on all revenues collected.

There was a report on the recent dairy farm premises inspection, which included reports of visits to farms at Erickson, Lister and Wynndel, as well as Creston. Nine inspections were made in the village and one of these was given Grade A rating, three were grade B, two others were designated "private," and the balance unplaced.

Kitchener

Wesley and Willard Blair, who have been employed on the prairie, arrived home on Friday.

W. A. Cranna returned from Penticton on Tuesday last, where he has been visiting his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Putnam, and son, Frank, of Erickson, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. C. Senesael.

Carl Anderson, Chas. Bush and son, Denis, spent the weekend at their home at Kitchener. They are employed at Glenlilly.

Mrs. Wm. Jones of Califoronia, who has been visiting Mrs. G. A. Hunt, left on Friday for Nelson, where she is visiting her parents.

Lewis Anderson and Claude Simpson, were at Creston on Sunday, where they figured on an all star baseball team that trimmed Creston Athletics 7-4.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderso, and daughter, Betty Lou, of Trail, who have been visiting Mrs. Anderson's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Sid. Abar returned home Saturday.

Uniform Price System Advocated

Introduction of a uniform price system throughout Canada as a means of distributing whatever benefits result from protective tariffs and of equalizing production costs, was advocated by J. D. McKenna, St. John, N.B., publisher, in a recent submission to the royal commission investigating Nova Scotia's economic situation.

Urging equalization of wholesale prices of all protected goods manufactured in this country, Mr. McKenna contended that Montreal and Toronto virtually monopolized whatever benefits resulted from protective tariffs. Eighty-five per cent. of manufactured goods came out of Ontario and Quebec, he said, and, because costs of the finished articles included all the taxes imposed by governments, provincial and federal, it followed that people of other provinces purchasing those goods, had to "pay not only their own taxes but theirs as well—and that comes to a pile of money."

His scheme to equalize costs and to standardize prices throughout the country, involves absorption by manufacturers of freight charges, a process with which many in Western Canada would be prone to agree. This, Mr. McKenna claimed, would permit manufacturers to place their products on the market at a uniform price—the same in Halifax, Regina and Vancouver as in Toronto and Montreal. Press despatches note that at the close of his presentation, Mr. McKenna was complimented by Prof. John Harry Jones, of Leeds University, England, who, noted as an economist, is chairman of the commission.

The contentions and proposals of Mr. McKenna are by no means new to Western Canada. Least of all are they new to a certain small group of Saskatchewan economic students which, for two years or more, has quietly been conducting inquiries along similar lines, with a view eventually of sponsoring a plan which might be adopted as a "Western Policy". This group has concentrated its attention upon the price structure, seeking to determine what inequities exist with it, noting more particularly the effects upon it and upon the purchasing power of the prairie provinces of freight, tariff and taxation costs.

The former favorable disparity in wage and salary scales as between Western and Eastern Canada having disappeared under stress of economic conditions, or being noticeable only in reverse, the Saskatchewan group has been seeking something to compensate the loss. Though prices of manufactured goods had fallen, the drop was commensurate with the drop in prices of farm products, and seemed to be determined largely by the reduced purchasing power of consumers in the West. Somewhere within this price structure, it was felt, lay certain factors which, if equalized or removed, would effect much-needed adjustments. Hence came the attack upon prices.

The Saskatchewan group has laid stress on the fact that, while freights and tariffs have increased farmers' production costs, they have received no compensation from manufacturers of consumers' goods, nor have the advantages accruing to the industrialized areas been distributed as, it was thought, they should be. From this it was argued that, as consumers, prairie farmers were encouraging a system which tended to centralize industry in the Toronto and Montreal areas, which areas derived direct benefits from local taxes payable by the industries and from circulation of the payrolls of such industries. This system, it was contended, placed the West under toll both at home and in the East.

It was felt, therefore, that, inasmuch as these advantages were accorded the manufacturing areas of the East, there should be some compensatory factor, some method of distributing benefits, to all parts of Canada in the price structure. That is to say, while goods might cost a little more in the area of their manufacture, they would cost a little less in the area of their consumption. And inasmuch as the principle already is applied in the case of nationally-priced products, the proposition at first sight appears fair and just. The West will watch eastern reactions to the proposal made by Mr. McKenna, with considerable interest.

Not Very Profitable

Abraham Lincoln Made Very Little From Law Practice

When Abraham Lincoln was elected president of the United States, his bank balance aggregated $601.44.

The original ledger showing his account now is on display in the Springfield Marine bank at Springfield, Illinois, where Lincoln was a depositor from March 1, 1853, until his death. His account after his death was continued by his administrator, Judge David Davis, of Bloomington, Ill., being finally closed on May 22, 1867.

The ledger in which his account appears is displayed in a glass and wrought-iron show case. The ledger is turned to a page on which is written in fine script the name "A. Lincoln" and the entries on the page bear out the certainty that his income from the practice of law was meagre at times.

Value Of The League

Exerts An Immense Force In The Prevention Of War

There is probably not a single country in Europe where the common people would blindly follow its leaders into war, if called upon to do so. All the nations of the word have in fact formally renounced war as an instrument of national policy; and the machinery of the League of Nations exists for its prevention. It is quite certain that, if war were imminently threatened, or were actually to break out in one quarter, resort would be made to the League, whose power of collective action, even if never yet fully utilized, is potentially immense. Its mere existence has undoubtedly acted as a deterrent at least upon the lesser nations and upon those which are not removed by oceanic distances from Geneva.—London Times.

Wheat Situation Hopeful

Supply For 1934-35 More Closely Related To Probable Demand

The crop year 1934-35 is commencing with the general wheat situation not without its hopeful aspects, the Dominion bureau of statistics states.

The supply of wheat available for the present cereal year has been greatly reduced by virtue of a second successive crop disaster in the United States, the certainy of a low yield in Canada, a sharp reduction in production in many European countries and the prospects of a small crop in Australia. These developments combine to produce a situation where the available supply of wheat is more closely related to probable demand than at any time in recent years, the bureau said.

According to the United States department of agriculture, production of corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye and flaxseed are expected to be the smallest in 30 years.

Border Cuts Off Hospital

Free State Board Has To Cross Line To Inspect It

Derry Port sanitary board has just held a remarkable meeting, the members leaving Northern Ireland to go into the Free State to deal with the business for which the meeting was summoned.

The board crossed the border in taxis to inspect its hospital at Ballyrattan, near Moville, in County Donegal, a hospital which has never had a patient since its opening thirteen years ago. It was built to deal with cases of infectious disease on vessels coming to Derry, but before its completion, the border had been created, with the result that the board was left on one side of the border and the hospital on the other.

No solution of the situation has ever been devised and the board decided to effect repairs to the institution, the chairman remarking that "the present state of affairs cannot go on forever."

It Could Be Done

Midland Gardener Used Only Waste Water For Plants

At the Midland Bank Horticultural Society's show it was remarked that the winner of seven prizes exhibited blooms watered entirely with waste-water, bath-water, basin-water; at any rate not fresh tap water, of which he proudly boasted that he had not used a drop in his garden during these months of drought.

It can be done. Therefore it ought to be done—as King Edward was fond of remarking mainly of things that were not done in his time. Do not ask us ,please, how to get or convey bath water. Either find out, or don't use any water. A moral maxim for horticulturists. — London Daily Mirror.

Switzerland Heads List

Leads All Countries In Annual Consumption Of Milk

Statistics released by the Department of Agriculture show that Switzerland leads all other countries of the world in the annual consumption of milk, with 280 quarts per person.

Second place for this distinction is shared by United States and Germany, each of which boasts of 220 quarts per person. Canada ranks next with 200 quarts.

The figures on other large milk-drinking nations also computed annually and per person, are as follows: Great Britain, 120 quarts; France, 100 quarts, and Chile, 30 quarts.

CORN PRODUCTS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Corn, which grows abundantly on this continent and in the West Indies, is perhaps one of the most widely used grains. Apart from being a common food in the form of meal or cereals, the kernel when opened, is found to have three parts: the outside, or husk, the small oily germ, and the mass of white material which is mostly starch.

One bushel of corn gives approximately one pound of oil which is refined and sold as a vegetable fat for cooking. The less refined grades are utilized for soap making or for the production of glycerine and nitroglycerine.

Starch from the corn is made into corn starch, for cooking, and into laundry starch.

Another important use of this grain is in making corn syrup which is a widely used product. Corn syrup is made by converting the starch in the corn into a sugar, known as glucose, through treating it with acid in large pressure tanks under fifty pounds of steam. This treatment changes the starch into the thick sweet substance which we know as corn syrup.

From corn also is extracted a type of gum, which is used in place of rubber to some extent. "Red rubber" erasers and sponges may be made from this substance. It is also used in the manufacture of rubber soles for shoes.

Outer husks of the corn and some residue of the oil products are made into cattle food, adding still another to the many products of this common grain.

HITLER DECLARES REVOLUTION IN GERMANY AT END

Nurnberg, Germany.—Adolf Hitler, dictator of Germany, declared here: "The National Socialist revolution is ended. It has fulfilled all its hopes."

This declaration he made at the annual convention of the Nazi party, through Robert Wagner, Baden Nazi district leader, who read the proclamation.

Der Fuehrer said revolutions which took a permanent character resulted in anarchy and chaos and merely served the purposes of greedy politicians, and that an evolution had to come to bring about better conditions.

The German leader said the German way of life was fixed for the next 1,000 years, during which time there would be no further revolutions. He described the German regimes of the past 60 years as run by international freebooters and pothouse politicians. He declared later generations would exalt the accomplishments of the Nazi movement as the "German miracle."

Then he turned to the recent plebiscite, and stated:

"If foreigners imagine the 4,000,000 'No' voters constituted a dangerous opposition, they are privileged to smile. . . . Our next attack will demolish the opposition."

Hitler reiterated that Germany while insisting on her own right, wanted peace and friendship with others.

He took up the subject of religion, saying: "We have endeavored to reconcile the religious confessions with the new state. As far as the Protestants are concerned, we are determined to weld them all into one great evangelical reich church.

Concerning the Roman Catholic Church, he said: "Despite lapses on both sides, we shall arrive at a sincere and honorable understanding."

Hitler concluded with a statement that the program was to consolidate the party organizations such as the Schutz Staffel, or picked guard, and the storm troops, into one solid bloc purified of all elements that were not heart and soul with them, to win over all those who still held aloof.

Customs Officers Seize Opium

Tins Concealed In Third Class Stateroom On Liner

Vancouver. — Opium valued at $6,000 was seized by Canadian customs officers on board the Canadian Pacific steamship Inner Empress of Asia here.

The opium, contained in 200 one-tael tins, was concealed in the false bottom of a wardrobe cupboard in a third class stateroom in the after part of the ship.

One-tael tins have seldom been seen here, most of the opium seized being contained in five-tael tins. Authorities believe the drug was intended for either Honolulu or Manila.

It was the first opium seizure here in months. No arrest has been made.

Frost Damages Oats

Prospect Of Seed In North Is Not Promising

Prince Albert, Sask.—Frost has taken its toll of oat fields in northern Saskatchewan and the prospect of seed for the 1935 crop is anything but promising, R. R. Tooley, chief supervisor of the Soldier Settlement Board, Saskatchewan branch, stated here.

The quality has deteriorated in some districts to such an extent it is unlikely farmers of the north will have a surplus for seeding the 1935 crop, Mr. Tooley said.

Oppose Emigration Plan

Weymouth, Eng.—Delegates to the Trades Union congress were warned by J. McLeod, Canadian delegate, against emigration schemes "put forward by some members of the House of Commons." He declared such schemes would be "fraught with difficulties, privations and want" unless there was provision for substantial government grants covering a period of years.

St. Lawrence Waterway

Matter May Be Taken Up In Next Session Of U.S. Senate

Hyde Park, N.Y.—Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the New York power authority, after a talk with President Roosevelt, predicted re-submission of the St. Lawrence waterways pact with Canada to the next session of the United States senate and its ratification.

He has just returned from the northwestern states.

He issued the following statement after his visit with Mr. Roosevelt:

"The project will be re-submitted at the January session, and I am confident construction work will get under way in the spring. The Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river are perhaps our most valuable natural resources, and they will be fully developed and utilized in the public interests, for both power and navigation purposes, as an integral part of the public works program.

"The present Roosevelt administration will build the St. Lawrence project, and thus give the United States a new seacoast 3,800 miles in length, placing Chicago, Milwaukee, Cleveland, Detroit, Toronto, Superior, Duluth and other great inland cities on deep-water, and give the northwest 1,000,000 horsepower of the cheapest electricity in the world."

Need Larger Army

U.S. Secretary Of War Says Present Force Is Inadequate

Raritan Arsenal, N.J.—Secretary of War George Dern said the United States needed a larger, more effective regular army.

The secretary, who came here for the concluding four days of the army's war game manoeuvres against an imaginary enemy invader, said he thought the regular army was not adequately equipped at present, and advocated increasing its strength from 125,000 to 165,000 men.

"The army," he said, "is sadly in need of modernization and mechanization. At its present size the army is not large enough to perform all the peace time tasks assigned to it."

Heard The Program

Manager Of Arctic Post Gets Radio Reception From Steamer

Montreal.—"Oh, yes, we heard your speech and also the piccolo," said the manager of an Arctic post of the Hudson's Bay Company to its governor, Ashley Cooper. "The piccolo," Mr. Cooper said, in telling of the incident to a local service club, was a bagpipe broadcast. Mr. Cooper has just returned from visiting the company's northern stations in the steamer Nascopie. During the trip he broadcast addresses and a piper played reels on the bagpipes.

Criticizes Paintings

Toronto.—George Leroux, official representative of the Academie des Beaux Arts, Paris, France, criticized the paintings by Canadian artists who originally comprised the "group of seven" during a visit to the Canadian National Exhibition art gallery. The French artist said the paintings were unnatural and lacked the spirit of love.

To Test Sobriety

Moscow.—An instrument to test sobriety, called an alcoholometer, has been introduced to police stations in Soviet Russia. The suspect is required to breathe through the neck of a glass tube, filled with colorless liquid, for 15 seconds. If the suspect is sober, the liquid becomes pale red; if drunk, a cloudy grey.

Use Canadian Coal

Ottawa.—For the purpose of encouraging greater use of Canadian mined soft coal, the Dominion government has restored the 99 per cent. drawback on imported bituminous used for cooking purposes providing the coke manufacturers use 35 per cent. Canadian coal.

Market For Bacon

Toronto.—Canadian farmers who could supply the British market with a continuous supply of high quality bacon had unlimited opportunities; Canadian National Exhibition directors were told at a luncheon by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, high commissioner to London.

FIRST WOMAN PILOT

Mrs. Amy Johnson Mollison, the first woman appointed as regular pilot of a transport plane on the London-to-Paris route, explains that she took the job for experience in all-weather flying in preparation for a London to Australia flight this fall.

In Favorable Position

Canada Is Friendy In Relations With Other Countries

Montreal.—While abroad there is little cause for "cheerful spirit", Canada is in a favorable position, its relations with other countries being friendly, the committee on international relations reported to the Canadian Bar Association in annual convention here.

At present, the report notes, the whole world is faced with a situation in which members of each of the many groups are discussing how best to destroy one another. Each of them is silently conscious that both defender and aggressor in any conflict will be destroyed as a likely result, without any assurance that one group or nation will emerge clearly dominant, the report contends.

Call Of The Clouds

Col. Bishop, War Ace, To Take Up Flying Again

Montreal.—The call of the clouds has once more gripped Canada's ranking wartime flying ace, Lieut. Col. W. A. Bishop, V.C. After an absence of 12 years from active flying, he has decided to climb back into the cockpit. He is now taking instruction at the Montreal Light Aeroplane Club field preparatory to regaining a pilot's license.

Col. Bishop, however, is only going into flying again for personal reasons. He wants to be able to commute between Montreal and his summer home in Muskoka, Ont.

Women Out Of Industry

Mussolini Plans To Replace Men In Jobs Held By Women

Rome.—Benito Mussolini was reported planning to take all women workers out of Italy's industry.

Two reasons it was reliably learned, influenced Il Duce in his decision.

Jobs, he holds, interfere with what he believes to be woman's primary duty, the building up of families and the increase of Italy's population.

The positions women hold should be filled with men, thus decreasing unemployment and raising the morale of the people.

An editorial in Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo D'Italia of Milan, tended to confirm the report that he will move to eliminate woman workers.

Deal With Health Matters

Would Hold Special Conference With Provincial Representatives At Ottawa

Victoria.—A special conference of provincial representatives at Ottawa to discuss health matters is being considered, Hon. G. M. Weir, British Columbia provincial secretary, stated here. This province is particularly interested and would support centralized control for dealing with major health problems.

Dr. Weir stated B.C. is paying $700,000 a year for the health bills of persons from other provinces.

Try For New Record

Sir Malcolm Campbell Plans To Speed At Five Miles A Minute

London.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, Britain's auto speed king, disclosed at a luncheon here that his plans were about complete to make another assault on his own world automobile speed mark at Daytona Beach, Fla., in January. It was there he set the present standard of 272.108 miles an hour a year and a half ago. Since then he has remodelled Bluebird, his racing car.

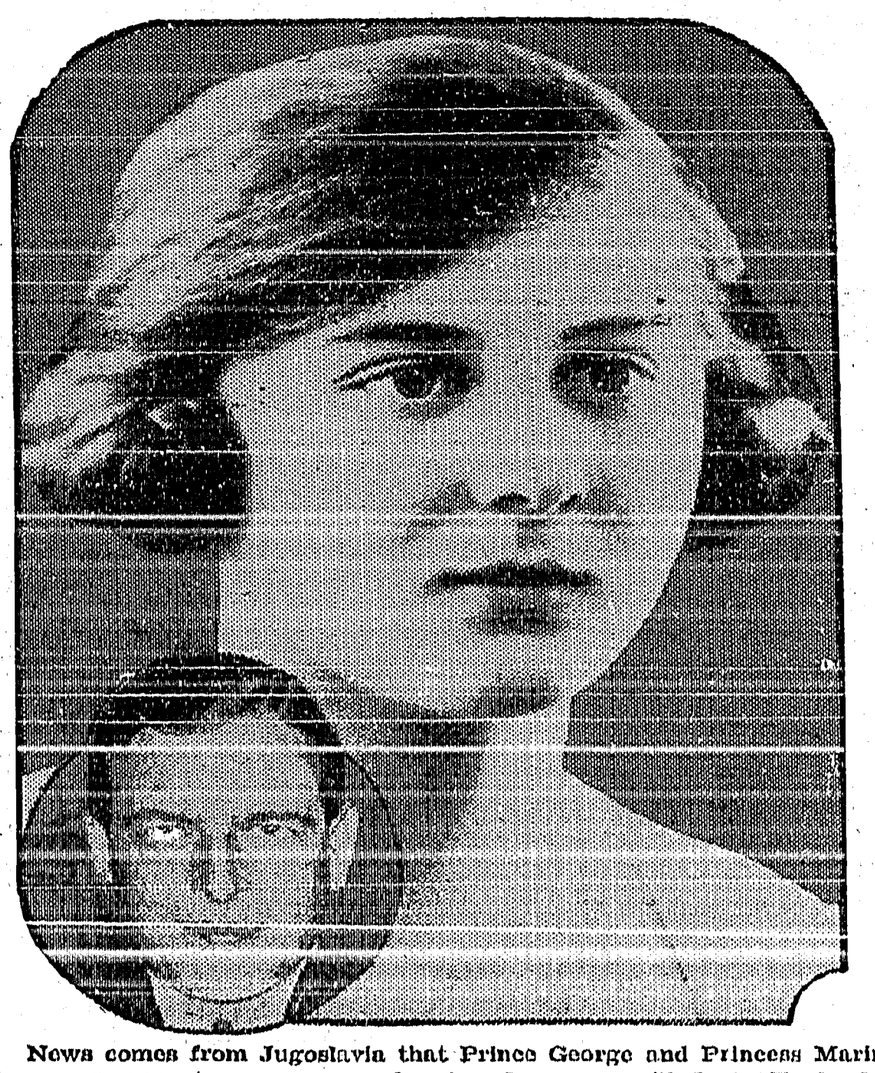
His goal is a speed of 300 miles an hour—five miles a minute.

Rests With Membership

Socialist Party And C.C.F. Taking Vote On Merger

Vancouver.—The proposed merger of the British Columbia branch of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and the Socialist Party of Canada will rest with the general membership. The C.C.F. provincial council has decided to submit the question to a referendum of members of each constituency body. The vote will be taken as soon as possible and a return must be made within 90 days.

PRINCESS MARINA TO FLY TO ENGLAND



News comes from Jugoslavia that Prince George and Princess Marina, whose engagement was announced a few days ago, will fly to England to receive the blessing of King George and Queen Mary. The 27-year-old Grecian Princess and her British fiance, are shown above. It is expected the wedding will take place at Westminster Abbey some time in December.

A DEMAND FOR CANADIAN WHEAT IN UNITED STATES

Winnipeg.—With a shortage of Durum wheat in United States becoming more and more apparent, demand for Canadian Durums by United States mills reached a season's peak on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange with the movement south of the international boundary approximating 500,000 bushels. Such exports total about 1,000,000 bushels covering the last two weeks.

Recently top grades of Durum wheat were commanding a 32-cent premium over the September future at both Duluth and Minneapolis, while Canadian Durums were quoted at 17½ cents over Winnipeg October option. This brings the Canadian Durums quotation to approximately $1 a bushel which despite the 42-cents-a-bushel duty and 2½ cents-a-bushel handling charges still makes the Canadian grain considerably under the United States price.

The United States Durum price at Duluth was $1.28½ per bushel plus a 32-cent premium making a total of $1.60½.

Bulk of Canadian Durum wheat is grown in Manitoba and supplies of this variety are being quickly cleaned up.

U.S. Textile Strike

Two Men Killed And Many Wounded In Disorders

Washington. — Rioting and death suddenly punctuaetd the gigantic United States textile strike even as capital and labor prepared to lay their grievances before a board of President Roosevelt's choosing.

Two men were killed, another was near death, more than a score were wounded by bullets and clubs as a wave of violence surged through the strike-torn mill towns of Georgia and the Carolinas.

Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the textile strike committee, blamed "management and reactionary public officials" for the bloodshed. He warned that a continuance would awaken "all the bitterness that can be aroused" in the ranks of the textile army.

France Has Suggestion

Wants To Collect Large Sum From Germany For Saar Valley Mines

Paris.—France, conceding the Saar valley may vote to become a part of Germany, has suggested Germany start figuring now how to pay for $100,000,000 worth of French mining properties in the territory.

In a note to the League of Natoins France asked that the league avert trouble after the Saar plebiscite next January by having Germany make proposals relative to payment for the French holdings. France intends to collect "in gold".

Scott Accepts Post

Toronto.—The provisional committee of the Canadian corps council, organized following the veterans' reunion here early in August, has received acceptance of the honorary presidency of the council from Archdeacon F. G. Scott of Quebec, "beloved padre" of the Canadian forces overseas.

Would Build Pulp Mill

Vancouver.—Possibilities for a sulphide pulp mill on the British Columbia coast are being investigated by R. O. Sweezey, Montreal financier, for British capitalists interested in supplying England with raw material for artificial silk and paper manufacturing, he said here.

Flagship Leaves Vancouver

Vancouver.—H.M.S. Norfolk, flagship of the British West Indies fleet, sailed from here after a four-day visit, bound for her base at Bermuda and thence to England. She is due at Bermuda, October 17, and will return to England the following month.

Turkey Would Join League

Geneva.—Turkey has decided to present herself as candidate for the League of Nations council seat to be vacated this month by China.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, SEPT. 14

HOME BREW

Whatever other faults local dairy operators may be charged with, no one can truly accuse them of being profiteers. Following a dry season, with the inevitable increase in the cost of feeds, other towns are a ready experiencing a rise in milk prices. At Rossland the price is now 12½ cents a quart, while at thrifty Kaslo the housewife is being taxed the same price for the lacteal fluid. And what there is to say about milk will also go for bread. the price of which has been revised upward in more than a few places. With milk at 11 quarts for a dollar, and bread at four loaves for a quarter, Creston is certainly getting two of the necessities of life at what looks like bargain prices at present.

Unless there is really somethiug to the old saying, "All signs fail in a dry season," orchardists would appear to have good reason to look forward with pleasure ble anticipation to the returns they will receive from apples this season. Even the gloomy dean of Okanagan journalists, W.S.Harris, of the Vernon News, sees good times ahead. Says the News: "Twelve hundred cars of apples have already been ordered for export. Thus nearly 1,000,000 boxes are already disposed of with more orders to come from the same quarters. The indications are that Ontario will be a more important customer than usual because nearly half the apple trees of that proviuce were ruined or damaged last winter. Another outcome of Ontario's short crop will be decreased competition from that source on the Prairies."

At the first of the month every subscriber whose paper was in arrears, or whos subscription has just expired, was favored with an account and a "Just Between Ourselves" appeal that we are hoping will not be overlooked. Individually these "duns" r.present only a couple of dollars, but with about a hundred of them going out it means $200 of 'outside' capital that we can use to splendid advantage. So far the response had been satisfactory, and we hope the good work will be kept up till all are heard from. It isn's very often the Review makes an appeal of this sort, and when we find it necessary to do so the situatiou is urgent. 'Nuf sed.'.

All Shippers of Fruit Must Must Carry a License

Contributed.

It is generally known throughout the province of B.C. shippers, grower-shippers and truckers of fruit have to carry a license. The question arises, how much is the license. The shipping license is a dollar. The license then brings the shipper under the rulings of the B.C. Tree Fruit Board.

As laid down in the plan a shipper means a person who markets a product. In the case of a grower who markets his own products he comes under the grower-shipper cla s and must conform to the regulations of the board.

His license of a dollar entitles him to trade himself. He then has to pay, as all others have to pay, a levy of 2 cents a box for the covering of the board's expenses. He has also to advance an equalization fund which has not yet been set by the board. This fund is for equalizing the pool. He has to conform to the grading regu'ations and live up to all the rulings of the board, and he has at all times to account to the board for the prices as set by them. There is nothing to stop him from trading with the trucker or for selling his fruit to anyone only he must charge the trucker the price as set by the board. No one can break the board's prices unless they make up the difference out of their own pocket. The grower-shipper is called upon to account to the board for all prices and levies.

The storekeeper who takes fruit from the grower for a store bill immediately comes under shippers class and must take out a license, by so doing he has to conform to the regulations of the board in respect to the price and general rulings.

Storekeepers should not accept fruit from growers who are under contract to a shipper.

A trucker who deals in fruit must carry a license. He is not entitled to buy from anyone other than a grower-shipper or shipper. He is certainly not entitled to buy from a grower who is signed up to a shipper. If he is caught he will have to pay the 22 cent levy. This also applies to the very small growers who have from one to two acres of fruit. The grower who has a very small acreage, for instance, one half an acre up to two acres, will save himself a lot of trouble if he signs up to some shipping organization. If by any chance a trucker buys from a grower who is not signed up and who is not a grower-shipper then the trucker has to pay a 22 cents a box levy. In the case of a trucker who comes in from the prairie with meat, the grower must trade on the basis of the pool price as set for the variety and grade of apple by the board, he must then account for the number of boxes he trades in his statement to the board.

A commercial shipper has to account to the board for all prices as well as anybody else. On no account can he cut prices at the grower's expense. The whole scheme is based on the fact that no one can cut the pool price unless he makes up the difference himself.

Anyone sending l.c.l. shipments on a commercial scale must take out a license which costs a dollar. The license is for the protection of the grower. It protects him from illegal practices. No one can trade in fruit without a licence and the license brings the trader under the jurisdiction of the B.C. Tree Fruit Board. In the event of a shipper breaking a regulation of the board, the board has the power to cancel his license altogether.

No more consignment, no more slashing of prices, means protection for the grower.

Kaslo is paying $1 for eight quarts of milk.

Macs Feature Apple Business

Movement Slow at Present—Buyers Waiting for McIntosh Starting Tomorrow—Possibly 6000 Wealthys Still Unsold.

With Saturday set as the opening date or McIntosh Reds to roll, activity this week around local packing houses has principally to do with this variety. There is some movement in mixed cars but the outgo is light. All the Wealthys are now in and it is estimated about 6000 boxes of there are still to go out.

Packing houses report the color on Macs to be quite satisfactory and with the change in the weather that came at the weekend there is good reason to hope the color will be up to the standard of other years when the bulk of the crop is moving. If anything the size is better than usual and so far this week the pack has been running heavy to Fancy. Possibly 30 per cent. of the Macs already in are in the preferred export sizes.

McIntosh prices were announced at the first of the week, as follows: 113s and larger, wrapped, $1; loose, containers extra, $27.50; 123s to 138s, wrapped, $1.10; 150-180 wrapped, $1.15. Cees—138s or larger, household, 75 cents; loose, containers extra, $22.50; 138s or larger, wrapped, 85 cents; 150-180, wrapped, 90 cents.

Boswell Cox Orange are now moving. Two cars will be out before the end of the week, and the balance of the crop, which will run to four cars, will have moved before the following week is out These are all going to export.

Just at present indications are that McIntosh will move largely in household. So far the prairie demand has been heavy to unwrapped and with conditions on a par with 1933 it is hard to see an increased buying in the better grades. If, as is stated, Ontario is having a short apple crop, the trade in Fancy will improve and there is every reason to expect a better export deal than ast year.

Junior W. A. Workers Confer

Mrs. Solly of Summerland Chief Speaker—Satisfactory Reports Submitted—Have Presentation—Local Hospitality Praised.

The third conference of girls' branches of the Woman's Auxiliary in Kootenay Diocese was held at Creston on Saturday. Proceedings opened with corporate com munion at Christ Church at 8.30 a.m., with Rev. M. T. C. Percival a celebrant. After this service, leaders, delegates and members had breakfast at the rectory.

At 10.30 all were registered and received badges from the registrar, Miss Kate Payne, at the Parish Hall, which was decorated appropriatley for the occa ion. The regular morning session was at 11 o'clock, opening with a hymn and prayer, with Miss Margaret Stapleton as organist. Minutes of the previous confeteuce at Penticton, last year, was read by the acting secretary, Miss Margaret Blinco, who also gave a short address of welcome to the diocesan secretary, Mrs. H. A Solly of Summerland, and delegates from other branches. Mrs. Solly replied in suitable terms.

Correspondence was next dealt with, and then Mrs. Solly gave a talk, elucidating the why, what, how, who, when and where of the W.A. work, which m de quite clear the manner in which this great work can be carried on in each branch.

Adjournment was taken at noon to the church where prayers were conduct d by Rev. H. McMoraine of Michel, after which all sat down to dinner at hhe Parish Hall. After the dinner Miss Wade was presented with a gift from the Creston girls' branch in appreciation of her splendid service as leader.

Immediately following a simple but impressive service in the church six new members were enrolled in the intermed iate branch of the girls' W.A. These were Phyllis and Thelma Lowther Barbara Cartwright, Edith Johnston, Mary Wat on and Dorothy Klingensmith

The afternoon seesion, at which visitors and members of the senior W.A were welcomed, opened witn the reading of reports for 1933 from all branches. These were particularly interesting as they related fully the different methods in which each branch worked towards a common goal.

After a dis ussion of the reports, Mrs. Solly gave an enlightening address on the "Aims and Purposes of the W.A." and the pledges whereby they are fulfil led. This was followed by discussion and questions.

The sessions were concluded with a vote of thanks proposed by Miss Vera DeLucca of Michel to the Creston branch for their hospitality.

Mrs Solly thanked Mrs. Percival foi assistance and hospitality. and Miss Margaret Blinco tendered Mrs. Solly a hearty vote of thanks for he conduct of the sessions, and her helpful addresses.

The votes of thanks were suitably acknowledged and the final act of the conference was prayers by Rev. M. T. C. Percival, which was followed by supper. This is the first of these conferences to be held in Creston since the organization of the Girls' W.A. in 1929, and was thoroughly appreciated by all, and can be recorded as a great success and inspiration.

Alice Siding

Miss Alice Carr, who is on the telephone central staff at Fernie, is holidaying here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Carr.

Mr. Husband has been on the sick list and mail delivery has been in charge of Mr. Simpson.

Billy Constable, who has been in quarantine for scarlet fever the past few weeks has returned to school.

Miss Bessie McDougall of Creston spent a few days last week with Miss Elsa Willis at Lakeview.

Mrs. G. Stace Smith is having the water piped into her house from the source of supply on the W.A. Pease ranch.

Frank Travis and Bob Parkin have been up at Lakeview locating a site for the residence the former will build on his property there.

Mr Blaine, water rights branch engineer, of Nelson was here on Tuesday and had a conference with the proposed irrigation district committee of Messrs. Schade, F. Simister, Nickel, Constable Compton and Payne. He made it quite clear that government engineers were not allowed to make surveys of this sort, and advised them to contact the provincial government to see what prospect there was of securing funds to do such a work before making any pe manent plans.

W. H. Hilton had the bad luck to lose his new barn and about 20 ton of hay, along with a quantity of apple boxes, in a fire that broke out suddenly about midnight on Saturday. Spontaneous combustion is a likely cause of the blaze as the structure was a mass of flames when first noticed. A telephone to Creston brought out the chemical engine, which did good work in keeping the flames from spreading to the house. The loss is severe as the winter's feed supply has been lost.

Local and Personal

By practically unanimous vote valley orchardists at Tuesday night's meeting voted to pool their crop this year with the Okanagan.

September meeting of Creston Valley Hospital Women's Auxiliary will be held Thursday, 20th, at 3 p.m., at Trinity United Church hall.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. John got away at the first of the week on a holiday visit at Vancouver and other coast points. They will be away two weeks.

Mrs. Solly of Summerland, who was here for the Junior W.A. conference on Saturday, was a guest of Mrs. Percival at the rectory during her stay in Creston.

Mrs. J. Johnston, teacher of piano, theory and elocution. Pupils coached for festivals and examinations, Toronto Conservatory and Associated Board, London, England. Studio, Hillside Road, Creston.

The balance of the machinery required for dyking work on the flats will be in today and operations will be in full swing by the first of the week. It is expected work will be pushed 24 hours a day.

Out of the recent one million dollar loan from the dominion government it is expected $25,000 will be made available for highway betterments in the Nelson-Creston riding. Assistant public work engineer Stevens of Nelson, was here in this connection on Tuesday.

R. F. Borret of Kelowna arrived on Sunday with the authority from the B.C. Tree Fruit Board to enforce all the provisions of the new Marketing Act. He has been paying special attention to truckers and has had great success in having these outside traders conform to the new regulations.

What Does Your Handwriting Tell?

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)

(All Rights Reserved)

Handwriting analysis, to be accurate and helpful to the writer, must be based on lengthy research and a painstaking regard for basic values.

I am repeatedly asked if there is anything magical about character reading from handwriting. So I am taking this opportunity of again stressing that when I make an analysis of a specimen of hand writing, I am not literally taking a rabbit out of your best hat, in the approved conjuring manner!

It may seem to the lay-person that, for a Grapho-Analyst to give what turns out to be an accurate analysis from handwriting, is to perform a regular magician's trick—a sort of Houdini cum Maskelyne cum Thurston device.

Nothing could be further from the truth. It is simply a scientific evaluation of the indications revealed to the practiced grapho-analystic eye by the handwriting specimen. When you go to a doctor, and he tells you that you have a certain organic ailment, you do not imbue him mentally as a magician. You know that his medical education, his training, his research and his practice, have all coalesced into an ability to diagnose ailments. He himself will not regard himself as infallible; he may, quite possibly, call in extra-medical advice from his confreres.

And even if, as on occasion doctors do, he makes a mistake, you do not stigmatise medical men as quacks. . . . Because doctors have not yet found a cure for cancer, you do not hesitate to go to a medical man when you are suffering pain, or feel that you have some physical derangement.

Grapho-Analysis, like medicine and surgery, is still searching for hidden truths about its own science. It is making tremendous and rapid strides. But do not damn it because, sometime in the past, you have been dissatisfied with one particular member's analysis.

I have been asked of what practical value is it to people, to have their handwriting analysed. As well might one ask what use is it to a salesman to learn how to become a better salesman; or a business man to know more about his business; or a nurse to gain a better understanding of, and more tolerant sympathy with her patients.

For, as all these are sensible suggestions, so is it just as essential for you to Know Yourself. Grapho-Analysis shows you not only your general characteristics, but hidden tendencies that may burst into characteristics at any time.

It shows you where are your faults, and thereby gives you a chance to correct them. And it always puts a person on the path to greater personal understanding, and enables one to get more from others.

Here are a few brief extracts from analyses made for readers:

E. C.—There is a frank, generous and sympathetic nature revealed. One who longs for affection, but is sensitive to praise or blame; too sensitive, perhaps. You have a strong desire for intellectual companionship, and have a love of the beautiful in nature or art.

T. A.—Your writing shows that you have an enquiring turn of mind; you wish to get at the bottom of things, but you are inclined to be a little forgetful about those things in which you are not interested and to slight them. Don't let this grow.

A. W.—You have a material nature, and are likely to consider your own interest at all times, before responding to appeals from others. You are not inherently generous. Do not let this tendency develop into "tightness" or "meanness".

Do you want a personal analysis of your own handwriting, showing your faults and virtues? It will probably amaze you with its revelations of your character, and may open the door of opportunity to you. Send a letter in your normal writing, and state your exact birthdate. Enclose with 10c coin (for each specimen) and 3c stamped address envelope to: Lawrence Hibbert, Grapho-Analyst, c-o Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave., E., Winnipeg.

Racial Prejudice

Britisher Says Canadians Will Find Strength In Union

Citizens of the Dominion be they of French, English, Jewish, Swedish, Irish or Scottish ancestry were warned against racial prejudice and urged never to forget that first, last and always they are Canadians. Reminder that "you will find strength in union," came from Rt. Hon. H. A. L. Fisher, former minister of education in Great Britain and warden of New College, Oxford, speaking at a civic luncheon in Montreal tendered the official delegates of Great Britain, France and the United States to the quarter-centenary Jacques Cartier celebrations.

Colonization Finance Corporation

Inspection Trip To The West By Officials Of The Organization

Mr. Louis L. Lang, of Galt, Ontario, president of the Colonization Finance Corporation, stated on arrival at Winnipeg, "This is the second inspection trip made by myself, but is the first trip which is being undertaken jointly with executive officers of member companies associated in the work of the Colonization Finance Corporation. My colleagues on this inspection tour are, Mr. J. F. Weston, vice-president of the Colonization Finance Corporation and managing director of the Imperial Life Assurance Company; A. N. Mitchell, general manager of the Canada Life Assurance Company, and W. H. Somerville, general manager of the Mutual Life Assurance Company. We are interested in the farm management program of our corporation because we realize what improvement to agriculture means to Eastern Canada as well as to the business interests in the West. This year marks the fifth year of the operation of our corporation. Beginning in 1930 with 25,000 acres under the supervision of two farm managers, we have at present a field staff of fifteen farm managers and assistant farm managers covering all of Manitoba and Eastern Saskatchewan. The zone farm managers' headquarters are at Winnipeg, Carman, Portage la Prairie, Brandon, Killarney, Deloraine, Virden, Birtle and Dauphin in Manitoba; and Oxbow, Moosomin, Weyburn, Indian Head, Yorkton, and Canora in Saskatchewan. These men have under their supervision 1,763 farms, totalling 602,382 acres. About 70% of these farms are occupied and operated by their farmer owners;—the interests of our member companies being represented by mortgage or an agreement of sale. Only 30% of the farms are operated by tenants. One of the objects of our work is to assist farmers to retain the farms they are at present operating by co-operating with them in any improvements which are possible, and also to make it possible for a substantial number of tenants to purchase the farms which they are at present farming under lease. The farm management service supplied by the Colonization Finance Corporation covers at present all of the arable land in Manitoba from the International boundary north to township 38, and the Eastern part of Saskatchewan as far as Regina. On July 1st we established a farm management zone in the Swan River area, the only district we had not covered until this year.

The object of this inspection trip for my associates and myself is to inspect the work which is being carried on, to note how it is being regarded by the individual farmers and the communities and districts in which we operate, and to give us the necessary information with which we can formulate a policy for the future of this work, which I believe to be worth while. As rapidly as conditions warrant, and as qualified men can be obtained and trained for farm managers, we hope to open new zones. The necessary attention to detail and the cost of this work are naturally limiting factors.

While Mr. Somerville and I have met most of the farm managers last year, I am particularly pleased with the conference arranged at Clear Lake in the Riding Mountain National Park which will give Mr. A. N. Mitchell, and our Vice-president Mr. J. F. Weston, an opportunity of meeting and sizing up our men in the field.

There was one change made in our personnel during the year, Mr. O. S. Longman, zone manager at Indian Head, was appointed Field Crops Commissioner for the province of Alberta and he was succeeded by Mr. W. C. McKillican, former Dean of the Manitoba Agricultural College whose zone we shall visit. Our trip last year took us through Southern Manitoba, particularly that portion affected by the drouth, and Southern and South Eastern Saskatchewan. This year we have planned to visit the eastern portion of the Red River Valley; we shall visit the Portage plains and the Minnedosa and Neepewa districts, and we expect to visit the Swan River Valley. We shall be accompanied by Mr. W. R. McConnell of Regina, by a number of our loan managers in the West, and officials of our corporation. In Saskatchewan we expect to visit farms in the Canora, Yorkton, and Indian Head zones. We shall bring our Colonization Finance Corporation inspection trip to a close at Regina, after which some of our party are returning East while others are proceeding westward on business of their respective individual companies."

ISAIAH CONTRASTS FALSE AND TRUE WORSHIP

Golden text:
Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord?
And who shall stand in his holy place?
He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart. Psalm 4:3, 4.

Lesson: Isaiah 1:1-31.
Devotional Reading: John 4:20-24.

Explanations And Comments

The Perverseness of God's People, verses 1-9. "The Great Arraignment" is an apt phrase given to this chapter by Ewald. God's chosen people have rebelled against him. Even the dumb animals, the ox and the ass, are responsive to their masters, but the people of Judah do not consider their Lord. This perverseness has brought punishment upon them, and it is only because of Jehovah's mercy that they have escaped the fate of the people of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Outward Signs of Religious Zeal Do Not Deceive Jehovah, verses 10-15. The prophet Isaiah now hears in spirit the remonstrance of his audience, Delitzsch thinks. "They would fain represent the accusations which he had just uttered as unfounded, by appealing to their exact observance of the divine law; but in opposition to this ground of self-vindication which the prophet has read out of the hearts of those impeached, he but proceeds to prove the divine arraignment which begins in verse ten."

"Hear the word of Jehovah, ye rulers of Sodom," the prophet cries; "give ear unto the law of our God, ye people of Gomorrah." By addressing them as "rulers of Sodom" and "people of Gomorrah," he reminds them alike of their wickedness and of their danger. The "law" to which he bids them give heed, is the inspired discourse he is about to deliver.

"What unto me is the multitude of your sacrifices?" saith Jehovah: "I have had enough of the burnt-offerings of rams and the fat of fed beasts; and I delight not in the blood of bullocks, or of lambs, or of he-goats." Their altars reeked with the blood of sacrifices, but it was all an expression of religiousness, not of religion.

The Nature of True Worship, verses 16, 17. "Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your days before mine eyes." "Wash you, make you clean" are figurative words for repentance and amendment. Recall David's cry after his great sin: "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me."

"Cease to do evil; learn to do well." It is not enough to cease from sin. True worship consists also in right living, in service for others.

Silence Zone

Motor Horn Order Gives British People A Chance To Sleep

An "anti-honking" order to motorists during sleeping hours has proven so successful in London that the ministry of transport has decided to extend it to every city, town and "built-up" area in the country.

Thus England will become a vast silence zone between the hours of 11:30 p.m. and 7 a.m. so far as motor horns are concerned.

Gliding tests are to be made by German air pilots over the South Atlantic.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter. Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. After a party at an exclusive club, when the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the gaiety, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Camilla urges Peter to accept some of her earnings to help him along, but Peter refuses and they quarrel. After Camilla has gone from the studio, Avis Werth calls and persuades Peter to accept a loan of $1,000. Peter finishes his exhibit and asks Avis and Camilla for suggestions as to a name for it. Camilla suggests "Eager Youth," and Avis "Inspiration". Peter adopts the latter title and Camilla, heartsick, goes to Peter's studio for quiet and to think. Peter and Avis follow later, and as the lights are turned on, see the statue has been shattered to pieces. Avis accuses Camilla of doing this, and Camilla, stunned by the disaster, and hurt and horrified by the accusation, faints.

At Camilla's suggestion, Peter enters as his exhibit a statue he had sculptured especially for her as a wedding gift. They named it "Land of Hope".

Camilla's advertising campaign and Tiny Tots broadcast was a great success, and Mr. Hoyt expressed his pleasure and surprise on learning that Camilla was the author and artist who was so ably stimulating business for his company.

Peter's exhibit was awarded the Paris scholarship, and he prepares for his journey to France. After the ship's departure from New York, he is on his way to his cabin when he meets Avis Werth. During the voyage Avis tells Peter that Camilla smashed his scholarship exhibit in a fit of temper, and he believes her. Meanwhile in New York Gus Matson calls on Camilla and confesses it was he who destroyed Peter's model.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER LX.

A peremptory summons from Mr. Hoyt on the day after Gus Matson's visit, took Camilla to his office in a state of trepidation. Had something unusual happened? Was he angry with her for her presumption and deception? Had his pleasant attitude at the broadcasting station been only a masked act, for the sake of his pride? It would be like him, perhaps.

She approached the inner office almost with a feeling that the man whom she was about to meet was a stranger to her. But his greeting was cordial enough — even affectionate. Her fears vanished.

"I've been wanting to talk to you my dear. You gave me the surprise of my life the other day."

"Was it very wrong of me to deceive you, dad?" she appealed wistfully.

His eyes twinkled as she never had seen them before. "I'm mighty glad you did. You proved to me what I always suspected that you could do. Even when your mother opposed your ambition to take up commercial art, I held a secret conviction that you could make good. With your determination, I could see that any encouragement from me would be superfluous, and only antagonize your mother more." He exchanged with her that look which she remembered so well from her childhood, a glance of understanding which made words useless.

"Nothing could have pleased me more than the way you have developed. I will admit that I never should have dreamed of placing my business promotion into your inexperienced hands, much as I believed in you. So I engaged efficiency experts and paid a large fee to an advertising agency to handle the campaign. And, after all, it fell right into your inexperienced hands, and you pulled us to victory. It only goes to show that the wisest of us haven't so much judgment, altogether, no matter how big we think we are. Well—that is just a little of life's irony."

"It would be worse than irony if I hadn't made good," she reminded him with a timid smile.

"But you did!" he dismissed the matter with a wave of his hand, and demanded abruptly, "But what about Peter? Are you going to let your marriage fail, now that you have succeeded in your career?"

"Oh, no!" Camilla denied. "You know why I did not go abroad with Peter. We are living according to our original contract, of course."

"What good will your contract be a year from now?"

"Why—Peter loves me, dad!"

"I don't doubt it. I know he does. But when people love each other and are married, they should be together; at least, for most of the time I tell you, Camilla, I feel it my duty to advise you from a man's standpoint. Your place is with Peter in Paris, or wherever he is."

"But he can't take care of me and he won't accept my help. He is terribly proud."

"Of course. But what about Avis Werth?" he released another bomb. "Do you know that she is on the same boat with Peter?"

"Yes, but—"

"That is no coincidence," he interrupted, sternly. "Camilla, I may as well confess that I've kept a pretty close watch over your private affairs since you left us. Your happiness is my deepest concern. I did not like your marriage plans when I first learned about them, and this separation has made them preposterous. I tell you I won't stand by and see your life ruined. It will be, if you lose Peter. I know what he means to you—you may not think so," his voice lowered and he seemed to be projected for a moment into a distant past, "but I, too, know what love can mean. But you will lose Peter, if you permit this thing to go on—at least, you will lose the Peter and the love with which you began so confidently."

"Oh, I do wish so much to be with Peter," she confessed. "But he won't have me, under the circumstances."

"Is there any objection to your living apart in Paris, and seeing each other often, as you did here?"

"I suppose not. But I can't leave my work and live there on nothing."

"Listen to me, my dear. If necessary, there always could be someone found to fill your place in your work, but not in Peter's life. And that is not even necessary. It will be a simple matter to find someone to take over your radio programs, even someone whose voice so resembles yours that the public never would recognize a substitute, if that is more advisable. You have started the programs personally. Now, there is no reason why you can't pack up the rest of your work and take it right over to Paris with you. That will solve the problem of present existence. You can provide for yourself very well, but I also make the requirement that you and Peter are to take a comfortable studio, large enough to accommodate the work and privacy and temperaments of two geniuses," he smiled slyly, "and live together. You will discover what happiness is, then."

"But Peter won't live that way when I have the advantage over him. He hasn't even a start in Paris yet."

"As for Peter, I have managed some other things which may mollify his wounded pride," Hoyt continued placidly. "I have arranged for a large replica of his exhibit group to be given a prominent place in this city, but he never will know who promoted the movement. You will guard the secret for his sake. It is not philanthropy—I was only given the hand of destiny for starting the movement.

"As for your future, my dear child, you are my sole heir to the fortune which you have salvaged. However, that is not a new idea. I always expected to bequeath the bulk of my estate to you, but I purposely insisted when your mother took you that I should not acknowledge you as an heir, so that you would be forced to prove yourself. I had confidence that you would, which increased as you grew older. That you accomplished it through your own efforts to reclaim my business, is another one of those inexplainable twists of fate. But I advise you," he warned her with twinkling eyes, "that you had better not tell your proud Peter you are an heiress. Let him be surprised when the time comes, and he has made good for himself."

The tears were falling, unheeded, down Camilla's face while he talked: and when she left, a more perfect bond of paternal affection and daughterly respect was not to be found anywhere. Camilla Hoyt had entered into her rightful heritage, by character and effort.

The pandemonium of a steamer landing at Cherbourg, was in full swing. Passengers who had been waiting with varying degrees of waning patience to land, were released in a single file down the gangplank. Peter followed Avis, who turned to him often with a smile or a word of confidence.

"Have you got everything?" she asked him, with the air of an habitual traveler prompting her charge.

"Guess so," his reply was laconic. But he felt as if he had left something very valuable aboard the steamship, something which he could not go back to recover. It was not there. It had escaped somewhere into the void of lost ideals and illusions. He felt older, hurt, broken; but he faced the new future resolutely.

Following Avis with eyes that were almost unseeing he jostled against her as she stopped abruptly in front of him in her descent. He looked up inquiringly, to follow her eyes which were riveted upon something she saw on the pier. His own eyes stared as if he were seeing a mirage.

Surely, it could not be true. That couldn't be Camilla standing down there, waving at him, her deep black eyes so prominent in the little white face. But it was! His heart leaped and pounded. All the old emotion, the ecstatic rapture of the springtime, surged back into his empty being and filled him with remorse. How could he ever have doubted her? Even from here, he could look into her shining eyes and know that she never could have betrayed him as Avis had said she did. His smile leaped down to meet hers, and his hand waved wildly. He almost trampled over Avis in his eagerness to reach her, oblivious of everything else in the world. They clung to each other desperately. Ten days had been an eternity of separation.

"But how—?" he wondered, when he could speak.

"I arrived yesterday. I flew to New York, and came on the fastest boat that sails the seven seas," breathlessly, "but I'll tell you all about it, later. Let me see you through the customs, first."

"Darling, are you real?" he squeezed her arm.

"Real enough to remember the French I need right now."

"Then you are—you!" he admitted with delight.

Avis was so shocked and bewildered that all she wanted to do was escape. Neither of those two united lovers had even remembered her existence. She hurried away to lose herself in the weaving throngs. "Well, that is—that!" she observed wryly to herself. "You can stir a man's emotions, but you can't make him love you like that!"

Did Not Always Pay

Skyscrapers Have Often Proved To Be Costly Publicity

Raymond Hood's death stirs discussion of architecture functional and architecture decorative, of the skyscraper stark and the skyscraper softened down. There remains the bigger question of what future awaits the skyscraper in any form. How many years will it be before the builders set out once more to outtop their neighbors' towers? Or has an era which began about twenty-five years ago with the Singer Tower and the Woolworth Building come to an end with the Empire State and Rockefeller Center? The death within a short time of Cass Gilbert and Raymond Hood may be symbolic.

Even before the great crash and the great depression the skyscraper was under suspicion from the standpoint of sound economics. It did not always pay for itself as a renting enterprise. A large part of the return was supposed to be in advertising. But for that purpose a skyscraper had to be more than tall. It must be taller or tallest. People were not erecting high buildings but higher buildings, primarily for the world to look at and talk about and only subsequently for people to dwell in. The economic collapse has turned this into very costly publicity.—New York Times.

Little Helps For This Week

"He that abideth in me and I in him bringeth forth much fruit." John 15:5.

"Let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us." Psalm 90:17.

As some rare perfume in a vase of clay
Pervades it with a fragrance not its own,
So, when Thou dwellest in a mortal soul,
All heaven's own sweetness seems about it thrown.

Some glances of real beauty may be seen in their faces who dwell in true meekness. There is a harmony in the sound of that voice to which Divine love gives utterance, and some appearance of right order in their temper and conduct whose passions are regulated.—John Woolman.

I believe that no Divine truth can dwell in any heart without an external testimony in manner, bearing, and appearance, that must reach the witness in the heart of the beholder and bear an unmistakable, though silent, evidence to the eternal principle from which it emanates.

Need Of A Dominion-Wide Organization Is Stressed

The need of a Dominion-wide organized movement to found a Canadian performing right society for the benefit of Canadian composers was put forward at Toronto by John M. Elsom at the dinner of the Canadian College of Organists. The college was urged to give its support to an effort which is to be made to found such an organization.
