THE CRESTON REVIEW

VOL XX. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, JANUARY 25, 1929 No. 47

Trinity United Church Annual

Financially and in many other respects reports submitted at the annual meeting of Trinity United Church on Wednesday evening last showed 1928 to have been the best year in the congregation's history. The gathering was presided over by the pastor, Rev. R. E. Cribb, and there was a large turnout of members and adherents.

The report of session was presented by Fred Lewis, who drew attention to the revision of the membership roll during 1928 when all members who had moved away or who had failed to be present at communion services had been struck off and today's membership stands 75, with 235 adherents. During the year the records show five baptisms, five marriages and five deaths.

The financial statement submitted by Frank Bunt showed receipts from all sources of $2364, and with all running expenses met there was a substantial balance. During the year $300 had been paid off the church debt from the building fund. According to a statement submitted by Dr. Lillie the year's rental from the basement was $90.

Miss Lorna Lytle reported for the Sunday school which has had an average attendance of 72, and has a staff of eight teachers and collections were $125. There are 28 students in the Bible Class who contributed $65, and 10 are enrolled in the home department.

Mrs. Lillie submitted the financial statement of the Ladies' Aid which accounted for an intake of $750 of which $255 has been spent on the manse and $250 applied on the church debt.

Mrs. Kernaghan reported for the Women's Missionary Society that had held regular monthly meetings and had raised $65 and contributed $56 to the missions of the church. For the Young People's Department Miss Edith Cook reported an intake of $90 from which contributions had been made to the organ and maintenance and extension funds of the church.

Miss Edna Holmes was elected recording steward, and the 1929 stewards are Frank Bunt, Victor Mawson, E. E. Cartwright, Herb Gobbett, R. C. Phillips, Harry Smith and Verne Cook. Mr. Cartwright was named to replace the late John Blinco on the trustee board.

Resolutions were adopted expressing appreciation of the services of the late Mrs. E. N. Holmes and the late John Blinco, both valued workers in the congregation who had died during the year, and letters of condolence will be forwarded the families of the departed.

Before the close of proceedings a resolution of protest against the establishment of a liquor store at Creston was passed and has been forwarded the Liquor Control Board. At the close of the business of the evening refreshments were served by the ladies and the hour of sociability rounded off one of the best annuals in the congregation's history.

"Slumberland" Popular, Creston

Due to the severe cold dip that was ushered in on Friday morning the attendance at the musical fairy play, "Slumberland," presented by a company from Wynndel at the Parish Hall, that evening drew only a fair turnout, but those present were certainly treated to a most enjoyable juvenile variety show, the audience showing particular appreciation of the national dances in which Misses Betty Hulme, Bertha Gelette and Ethel Towson showed unusual ability for amateur performers. The coon sextette was equally well received, and Mrs. A. Hindley's rendering of "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," was given a well deserved encore. The adult members of "Slumberland" all showed up well and the children were equally proficient. Those taking part were:

Phone Company Change Feb. 1st

On and after February 1st if there are any compliments to pay or complaints to register in connection with the local telephone service it will avail little to pay respects in either regard to the present manager, T. J. Crawford. At the first of the month the telephone passes into new control, although the new owners will continue to operate under the old name of Creston Power, Light & Telephone Company, Limited.

The new owners are Kootenay Power & Development Company, Limited, whose executive is President, Guy Constable; vice-president and managing director, A. F. Smith; secretary and treasurer, H. H. Radford. This company is the successor to Kootenay Pulp & Paper Company, Limited, and was organized last midsummer.

Although telephone operation by the new company will not commence until February 1st, the new owners have been in control for some weeks past, and during the past four weeks have put in a new pole line that will serve every section of the village. About 200 new poles have been erected, and gives the company about four miles of pole line within the village boundaries. 40 foot poles are used in the business section, and 35 foot poles in the other sections.

In addition the company have temporarily rebuilt the line to Porthill and have made the necessary connection so that phone conversation can now be carried on with Bonners Ferry and Spokane. The rebuilding of the Porthill line was necessary in order to give the company connection with its power plant at Boundary Creek.

About $5000 has already been spent in new construction and on work that has greatly improved the service within the past month, and future developments include either a new switchboard for Creston or a thorough overhaul of the present switchboard and building it up to 200 phone capacity. If a new one is installed here the old switchboard will be installed at Wynndel where a new central is to be established. There will also be a switchboard at Porthill and a telephone service given residents in that district. The new company is incorporated in Idaho as well as British Columbia.

In Creston's business section the company's plans call for doing away with the unsightly mass of wires that now adorn the poles. Shortly there will be installed paper insulated wires and these will be carried in a lead sheaf cable of 100 circuit capacity—a cable, we are told, that is not more than 1½ inches in diameter.

Two electricians are now permanently on the staff to take care of complaints and installations, but the officials of the company state that with the end of January work on the telephone line will temporarily cease in order that every available man can be employed in putting in the transmission line on the Creston-Porthill link of the company's electric light and power service, as well as in the village. The company's intention is to put the electric light and telephone wires on the same poles, the telephone wires being carried below, about five feet from from the power line.

No date is being set for the inaugurating of the light and power service in Creston. The company assures that construction is being pushed and that if the necessary supplies come along as promised not very many weeks will elapse before the "juice" is available. In sofar as the village is concerned the company announce that they will have an electrician available to commence house wiring at the first of the week.

With the passing of the telephone into the hands of its new owners, local control of Creston's pioneer public utility ceases. Telephone service in Creston Valley was inauguated in 1908, with a total of six phones, and the Mercantile Company store staff handling central. W. H. Crawford was the company's first president; Guy Constable, secretary treasurer, and the late G. M. Benney, the late Joe Wilson, and the late P.B. Hope completing the directorate. From a half dozen users the system has grown to about 100 today.

CLARA BOW in "RED HAIR"

Lister

Rev. R. E. Cribb of Creston was here for United Church service on Sunday afternoon.

The severe weather on Saturday cut down the attendance at the Community Society bridge drive that evening. There were five tables of players, and the prize winners were Mrs. Chas. Huscroft and John Hewitson.

Harry Powers of Cereal, Alberta, who has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. John Bird for the past two weeks, left for home on Monday.

The most severe weather change of the season occurred on Monday night, when from a comparatively mild spell the mercury dropped to 14 below zero by morning.

Board of Trade Annual Banquet

About forty of the more prominent citizens of the Valley graced the Creston Board of Trade annual banquet on Tuesday evening, which was held in the Beninger cafe. The affair was a splendid success in every way; and not only that, but it brought everyone directly interested in the welfare of the Valley in contact with the splendid progress in the way of production, maintained by actual figures for the past fourteen years. The address of President Mallandaine bristled with details and facts of the entire export and production of the Valley in all lines during the past year.

The dinner spread, as put on by the hostess, Mrs. Beninger, was first class in every respect and ample justice was done the good things by all present.

The proceedings were greatly enhanced by the musical selections of Messrs. Cribb, Goodwin and Truscott. The toast list was as follows:

The King.
The Province—R. S. Bevan and R. B. Staples and R. E. Cribb.
Song—W. J. Truscott.
The Village—G. Johnson and J. Cherrington.
Trio—Rev. Cribb, T. Goodwin, W. Truscott.
Industries—C. W. Allan and C. O. Rodgers.
Agriculture—C. B. Twigg and T. Goodwin.
The Ladies—F. Levirs and B. B. Stallwood.

All the speeches were well rendered. Particular emphasis was laid on the necessity of encouraging home industry, and the working together of a united benefit of all the various industries. It was also suggested that the time was opportune for the organization of a poultrymen's association.

A very clear cut address was given by C. O. Rodgers in response to the toast of industries. He is vice-president of the associated boards of trade as well as a member of the Creston board, and in his remarks expressed the hope that the people stand together to help their own industries and their own people by endeavoring by every means possible to encourage those who are trying to build up Creston.

The meeting unanimously re-elected all last year's officers. Hearty votes of thanks to the president, vice-president and secretary were carried enthusiastically.

Ellen Dow Auxiliary Elects

Reports presented at the annual meeting of the Ellen Dow Auxiliary of St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church showed that the senior girls organization had been active during 1928, the treasurer's report showing a donation of $31 to the mission funds of the church as well as sending away supplies to the church's hospital missionary effort. The officers for 1929 are: President, Olive Greer; secretary, Hazel Hopwood; treasurer, Jean Henderson; supply secretary, Jean McCreath. A very hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. H. S. McCreath, the 1928 leader, who has retired, and a successor will be chosen at the regular meeting in January.

At the annual meeting of Creston Board of Trade on Tuesday night all the 1928 officers were re-elected as follows: President, Major Mallandaine; vice-president, C. W. Allan; secretary, R. J. Forbes.

Western Canada in the Spotlight

The attention of people in all parts of Canada, and, in fact, of the world, will be directed to the prairie provinces of this Dominion during the next few months in a way and to an extent probably unprecedented in the history of any country, by reason of the applications to the Dominion Parliament for charters to build many hundreds of miles of railway in the northern portions of Manitoba, Saskatchwan and Alberta.

Both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways are asking Parliament for power to enormously extend their lines into the north country, and both announce their eagerness to proceed with the work of construction with the least possible delay. There is the keenest kind of rivalry between these two giant systems for rights into certain sections of this territory, with the result that a battle royal will take place at Ottawa when Parliament assembles.

One thing emerges quite clearly from the situation that has developed with almost startling suddenness, and that is, that, despite all former statements and predictions to the contrary, the railway managements of Canada are now convinced of the enormous wealth of natural resources in the more northerly portions of Canada and of the success of the Hudson Bay Railway and Hudson Bay route to the markets of the old world.

There had long been a suspicion in the minds of many Western people that the former opposition in Montreal and other Eastern centres to the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway was based, not on their professed scepticism as to the feasibility of the route, but because of their belief that the route would prove to be an unqualified success, with all the upheaval which the opening of this short route from the heart of the prairies to the markets of the world would cause in existing transportation conditions, rates, and routing of traffic.

Examination of the plans of the railways, as thus far outlined, indicate a reversal of formerly held views that the people of Western Canada should be served by lines running east and west, with all the tremendous production of the prairies moving out either to the Atlantic or the Pacific seaboards, and all our imported products coming in through the same ports. Now, both of the great railway companies appear to be determined to connect up their east and west lines by short branches here and there and the construction of great north and south main lines, all stretching hundreds of miles north of existing settlement and heading towards tidewater in the north. A veritable railway revolution is in prospect.

This declaration of absolute confidence in the northern half of these prairie provinces, and in the Hudson Bay outlet, evidenced by the willingness of the biggest financial men in Canada interested in the C.P.R. to expend tens of millions of dollars in northern extensions, will attract the attention of the whole world and will constitute he greatest publicity this section of the Dominion has ever received.

Regardless of the decisions reached by Parliament as to division of the northern territory between the rival systems, and the respective zones to be allotted to each, the result will be to roll back the map of Canada hundreds of miles. The old reproach and weakness of Canada that it consisted of a narrow strip of more or less settled territory extending thousands of miles from the Atlantic to the Pacific along the Canada-United States boundary line, is to be removed. To the Dominion will be given great depth as well as great width, and what for centuries has been looked upon as barren wastes of extensive territory, but of no value, will become a storehouse of treasure, the devlopment of which will add enormously to the population and wealth of the Dominion, providing new avenues of employment, and diversified employment at that, for the people of Canada.

Simple Precautions Against FLU Sore Throat — — The Danger Signal

Health Authorities Point Out The Necessity Of Treating The Simple Cold At Its Beginning

Nearly every case of "Flu" starts with a simple cold. At first the throat is sore—often just a little hoarse—soon the infection goes lower—then the chest is affected. A safe plan is to gargle the throat three times daily with "Nerviline"—this will keep the throat free from germs. If there is any sign of tightness in the chest, rub on Nerviline—every drop will penetrate deeply—congestion will be relieved—the cold will break up quickly. Many a dangerous case of "Flu" can be avoided by this simple home treatment.

Of course it is always wise to take some relaxing medicine, and for this purpose immediate results will be secured from Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they purge the system of impurities and carry off a lot of disease—breeding wastes.

This combination treatment of Nerviline and Dr. Hamilton's Pills is very effective for Grippe, Influenza, Bad Colds, etc., and can be relied upon to give very satisfactory results.

Alberta's Peer's Estate

Estate Of Earl Of Egmont Estimated To Approximate One Million Dollars In Value

That the estate to which the Earl of Egmont, of Priddis, Alta., has fallen heir, will approximate one million dollars is an estimate made at Calgary with his assistance.

The bulk of the estate comprises Avon Castle, the family seat at Ringwood, Hants, and 1,309 acres surrounding it.

Some $40,000 has been spent latterly in improving the land and the residence, declared the new earl.

In addition, he says, there are investments in stocks and shares and in war bonds amounting to a large total.

A STOMACH RESTORER

Good Advice From One Who Had Suffered Much

Discomfort after eating, gas pains in the intestinal tract, pains around the heart, sour risings in the throat called heartburn, are common symptoms of dyspepsia. It is a condition often neglected until it has done permanent harm, yet the treatment is simple. The great contributing cause to this trouble is thin blood. Good blood and plenty of it is required by the stomach to function properly. If the blood is thin the stomach becomes sluggish, food lies undigested, gas forms causing pains, often around the heart. Instead of getting nourishment from the blood the system gets poison. The proper treatment is to enrich the blood, and there is no other medicine can do this as promptly or as effectively as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The sole mission of these pills is to make new, rich, red blood, which reaches every organ and nerve in the body, and thus not only banishes indigestion and dyspepsia, but also all other troubles having their origin in weak, watery blood.

The splendid results following the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is shown by the case of Mrs. Lucy A. Cushing, a former resident of Kempt, N.S., but now living with her son at West Bethel, Me. Mrs. Cushing says:—"I have no hesitation in strongly recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For years I was a great sufferer from indigestion. Always after eating I suffered from pains in my stomach and other distressing symptoms that accompany this ailment. I tried different doctors while residing at my old home and also at West Bethel, but without getting relief. I was advised by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did so and I must say that I am feeling very grateful ever since to the good friend who gave me the advice. I soon found the pills helping me and by the time I had taken nine or ten boxes I was completely restored to good health. Though I am now in my 76th year I am feeling as well and smart as I did at 35, and am enjoying life once more."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Speakers At Dinner Of Canadian Society

U.S. and Canadian Senators Guests At Function In New York

The Canadian Society of New York helped to strengthen the North American entente cordiale by bringing together as their guests at their annual dinner two senators, one from the Canadian Upper Chamber, Hon. C. P. Beaubien, K.C., and the other from the United States House, Hon. Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio. The speakers dealt with the aspirations of the two countries.

Senator Fess frankly discussed the two chief issues now agitating thhe Congress, the Kellogg treaty and the new cruiser program, and he readily supported both. The United States, he declared, should not put any obstacle in the way of the effort to banish war.

Senator Beaubien reviewed the development of Canada in recent years and painted a glowing picture of the Dominion's future.

"Canada, with a vision quickening and widening, has remained sober-minded, fairly traditional, and, I think I can add, hardworking and still law-abiding and God-fearing," he said.

Shows Canada's Loyalty

London Paper Expresses Appreciation Of Reverse To Penny Postage

The London Sunday Times in an editorial headed "Canada leads the way," welcomed the increased British immigrant quota as emphasizing the practical loyalty of Canadians to their British stock, but fears that the proper advantage may not be taken of it in Great Britain. The newspaper quotes further encouragement both of propaganda and finance. The Sunday Times also expresses appreciation of the penny postage and finds in it "a signal proof of Canada's strong imperial sentiments."

After urging Hon. Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, to follow Canada's example the Sunday Times advocates a common empire stamp which, it states would have a real psychological value as a symbol of imperial unity.

Kellogg Explains Treaty

The Paris pact for renunciation of war commits none of the signatories to it to go to war in defence of any country attacked in defiance of the treaty, Secretary of State, Frank B. Kellogg, informed the Senate committee on foreign relations during the recent hearings. He added that Canada made it plain that the dominion would not be a party to the treaty unless that was understood.

APPROVE NEW RURAL SCHOOL PLAN IN ALBERTA

Edmonton.—Approval of the Baker rural school plan, sponsored by the Alberta government, was voiced by the convention of the United Farmers of Alberta here. A vote, taken on the questions, favored approval of the Baker system by 206 to 161. According to the resolution the convention favored raising funds by grouping rural school areas in one district under a flat mill rate on assessed valuation.

Hon. Perren E. Baker, minister of education in the Alberta government, was the most prominent figure in the discussion on the system which bears his name. In the midst of a debate he was summoned into the argument at the request of the farm delegates. After outlining his system, the minister of education answered queries on the matter until the program was halted. According to the projected system, the province would be divided into 20 divisions of 15 school districts each. Chairmen of the district boards to form a general board, which, with the minister of education, would supervise rural educational matters in Alberta. Selection, placing and payment of teachers under the Baker plan, would be handled by the general board.

In the discussion on the Baker idea "government by proxy" was quoted as a name for the proposed mode of rural educational supervision. It was claimed that, regarding single taxation areas, "none would stand for a blanket tax assessed by a bureau of the government."

In answering his critics, Mr. Baker denied the "bureaucracy" and "government by proxy" allegation and stated that matters would be governed by appointed representatives of the ratepayers. He estimated that the increase in taxation necessary o pay for the better supervision the new system would involve, would be covered by a three-quarter mill increase over the entire rural area. And he contended that the new plan would place experts in charge of the allocation and selection of teachers.

Farm Loan Board

Ottawa.—While no announcement has yet been made as to the personnel of the farm loan board who will act with Dr. J. D. C Drury, former premier of Ontario and Beaudry Leman, president of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, will be named.

Woman Leads Defence In Murder Trial

Praised For Plea in Old Bailey, But Failed to Receive Acquittal

London.—Miss Venetia Stephenson failed to secure acquittal at the central criminal court of the first man she had defended on a charge of murder, John Holmy Ward, aged 24. The jury without much delay returned a verdict the prisoner was guilty of the murder of his grandfather, a bookmaker, who was found with his skull fractured in Pimlico. But she received the warmest congratulations upon her case for the defence from Mr. Justice Humphries.

Miss Stephenson eschewed any attempt at rhetoric. "I am fighting for this young man's life and if words fail me it is because I appreciate the responsibility that rests on me," she said.

Miss Stephenson, however, used carefully chosen sentences when she passed to a review of the evidence, urging the manner in which the accused's grandfather met his death was consistent with the younger man defending himself from attack by the elder.

"I know you will not let sympathy for the dead over-ride justice for the living," were her last words. "This is the most solemn moment of my life and I leave this young man's life in your hands, with a prayer that God might lead you to the right conclusion."

His Lordship in summing up said it was difficult to accept the theory of self-defence.

Railroad Wreck Was Caused by Drunkenness

Roumanian Train Crew Responsible For Death of Fourteen Persons

Turnuseverinu, Roumania. — Railroad inspectors said that drunkenness on the part of the engineer and crew of the Bucharest-Temesevare express cost the lives of 14 persons. In addition to the fatalities about two score passengers were injured at Pruniscoru, near here, when the express crashed into a local train which had been derailed.

The express was plunging along at 55 miles an hour in the dead of night when the crash occurred. The engineer of the express, which was heavily laden, was apparently blind to all signals. In their excitement over the derailed local train station officials apparently forgot about the onrushing Bucharest express, which ploughed into the passenger coaches of the local train like a catapult.

GERMAN PLAN FOR NEW CRUISER IS PUBLISHED

Berlin.—Publication by the London Review of Reviews of the text of a secret memorandum in which General Groener, German minister of defence, defended the necessity for the construction of a new battle cruiser has caused considerable consternation in government circles here.

As the memorandum was known only to cabinet members and a restricted number of persons official quarters are at a loss to explain how the "leakage" took place and an investigation has been ordered.

It is considered in Berlin that there is no doubt the London publication was from the original text and the indignation of the press is increased because the memorandum was withheld even from members of the Reichstag, who are determined to interrogate the government on the "scandal."

London.—Wickham Steed, editor of the Review of Reviews, said that the Groener memorandum he had published is "perfectly authentic and was not stolen."

"It reached me in an ordinary way through a channel that I trust and I satisfied myself as to its authenticity. They can make all the investigations they like as far as I am concerned."

Discussed Problems Of Egg Marketing

Canadian Producers' Association To Take Matter Up With Government

Toronto.—Egg marketing problems were discussed at the annual convention of the Canadian Producers' Association here. In view of the unprofitable situation which has confronted the dealers on account of surplus supply it was decided that a committee be named to take the matter up with the Dominion government. W. S. Cameron, Toronto, president of the association, suggested that the committee be representative of dealers, exporters and producers.

Alfred McCann, of Cheltenham, Ont., urged that advertising calculated to insure the consumption of eggs should be undertaken by the government.

Mr. Cameron in his presidential address, stated that the season had been a profitable one for the egg producers but on the average it had been unprofitable for the dealers. Consumption per capita in Canada had risen from 16.06 dozen in 1924 to 29.67 in 1927, and he expected the 1928 figures to show more than 30 dozen per capita.

hin Out the Wealthies and Jonathanss

At this time of year when growers are starting to prune their chards it might be as well for em to study the result of the esent condition of affairs as ought out by selling through derly marketing means, governed it is by the laws of supply and mand, and be guided accordingly.

Last season there were restrictions put on such varieties as Wealthies and Jonathans which if more drastic in the near future will mean a tremendous loss to growers f such varieties. In other words he province produces a surplus of hem in a bumper crop year, and here is difficulty in distributing he volume by means of the regular hannels throughout the prairie provinces.

From the grower's point of view hese varieties demand a lot of his abor in pruning and thinning and t might be as well where they are planted in rows thirty by fifteen feet apart, to thin them out to standard distances, thirty feet by thirty; it would h lp to increase the quality and size of the fruit on the trees left, and render it easier to operate the orchard.

Opening up the rows allows the sun and air to gain better access to the trees, helps the coloring of the fruit, besides furnishing more open space for the growing of cover crops to maintain a ready supply of humus.

Under our present conditions a limited early supply of good size apples will meet with a ready sale, and if the grower cannot obtain such on his soil or exposure, he should aim at growing greater quantities of later varieties which will keep longer. Once the McIntosh comes on the market the price of all the earlier varieties drop more or less, even in spite of the presence of higher color and greater size at the end of their picking season.

To obtain size in fruit a ready available supply of nitrogen must be present in the soil, which is supplied in the cheapest manner by maintaining a cover crop, preferably a legume, as a source of humus through decomposition.

Some restrictions this season were put on the McIntosh, but as long as the grower prunes judiciously and keeps his trees open, he has less trouble in controlling scab and securing better color by picking time. He has nothing to fear from competition in this variety from the major portion of the Okanagan, as our cool nights in September readily develops the color in this locality.

This spring, then, when starting operations in the filler planted orchard don't be afraid to open up the rows by cutting out some of the earlier varieties, as now is a good time to aim at maintaining standard distances between the trees.

In regard to new varieties the Red Rome Beauty should receive your favorable consideration. The per centage of Rome Beauty apples produced in this valley is low at present. Most of the carload lots that go out to country points are mixed, consisting of four or five varieties. It is to the grower's interest to keep in touch with those in charge of his shipping organization and learn what the discriminating public demands, which changes from time to time, and be guided accordingly. THOUSANDS OF MOTHERS USE NO OTHER MEDICINE

Baby's Own Tablets Are the Ideal Remedy For Babies and Young Children

Canadian mothers are noted for the care they give their little ones—the health of the baby is most jealously guarded and the mother is always on the lookout for a remedy which is efficient and at the same time absolutely safe. Thousands of mothers have found such a remedy in Baby's Own Tablets and many of them use nothing else for the ailments of their little ones. Among them is Mrs. Howard King, of Truro, N.S., who says:—"I can strongly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to mothers of young children as I know of nothing to equal them for little ones."

Modern Books Short Lived

The life of modern books is much too short. When a good novel comes out it has its time of triumph, which seldom lasts beyond a year. After that it falls out of discussion, and instead of regiments of readers there are none at all. In July 200,000 people may be seeking a book and talking about it, and even reading it, and then with the first frost the matter is dropped entirely. When a popular success begins to decline it falls faster than an albatross.

"Flu" "Flu" "Flu" It Is Everywhere

DANGEROUS PNEUMONIA MAY FOLLOW UNLESS A GOOD RECOVERY IS MADE

With so much Grippe and Flu about, no one can afford to neglect even a simple cold. For a real protection against "Flu" many experienced nurses advocate the following simple treatment.

Put a saucepan containing one pint water on the stove; then add one-half teaspoonful of Catarrhozone, and bring to a boil. Bend over the steaming water; wrap a towel over your head so that it also covers the pan. Let the steam rise so you can inhale it. Breathe in the vapor deeply. The healing fumes of Catarrhozone will quickly disinfect your nose throat and lungs. Flu germs are destroyed.

You can prevent Grippe, Flu and Influenza by using Catarrhozone. It is healing soothing, safe and efficient. To stop colds, sore throat, or Catarrh, nothing is more satisfactory than Catarrhozone. Even to sit in a room with Catarrhozone Vapor rising from a pan of boiling water is a wonderful protection to children and over-comes all sorts of winter coughs and colds. All druggists sell Catarrhozone, 50c. a bottle.

First American Forest Law

Was Written In Massachusetts Colony On March Twenty-Ninth, 1626

The Pennsylvania department of forests and waters at Harrisburgh recently conducted an investigation revealing that the first American forest law was written in the New Plymouth Colony, in Massachusetts.

"Orders agreed on several times for the general good of the Colony:

"It was decreed by the Court held on the 29, of March Anno, 1626, That for the preventing of which inconveniences, as does, and may befall the plantation by the want of timber, that no man of what condition soever sell or transport any manner of works or frames, for houses, planks, boards, shipping, shalop, boats, canoes or what so ever may tende to the destruction of timber aforesaid."

Miller's Worm Powders not only exterminate intestinal and other worms, but they are a remedy for many other ailments of children. They strengthen the young stomach against billiousness and are tonical in their effects where the child suffers from loss of appetite. In feverish conditions they will be found useful and they will serve to allay pain and griping in the stomach, from which children so often suffer.

Will Burn Ice

Burning out of ice on the St. Lawrence River will be attempted by Dr. Howard T. Barnes, of McGill University, with whom the government has made an agreement from the department of marine and fisheries, the purpose being to free Montreal harbor from the grip of winter earlier than usual and to prevent the flooding of the country between it and Sorel.

WEIGHING OF FOOD

You have suffered the annoying experience of having stringy foods wedge between your teeth; and you wonder what can be done to remedy it.

Normally, teeth should be tight together with rounded contacts as when two marbles touch; but through tooth decay and from teeth "drifting" this contact is lost.

The food then "jams" between the teeth and is held there until released—with what results?

Also this impacted food material presses upon the soft underlying tissues, until they become irritated and inflamed. Thus injured, they lose their "tone" and fall an easy prey to the microorganisms that caused diseases.

Then follows the destruction of this wedge shaped tissue between the teeth; a "pocket" is formed, which, becoming infected, results in the progressive destruction of the supporting structures of the teeth, which are then lost.

You see then, what grave damage can result from so simple a cause.

Now, the remedy. It is not the tooth-pick, which, through its indiscriminate use, may do further harm, and which at best provides but temporary relief.

But, where this "wedging" is first noticed, the insertion of a filling in one or both of the involved teeth to restore the contact, will clear up the trouble.

This may even necessitate the removal of a faulty filling already in place but far better this than to suffer the prolonged discomforts from "wedging" food, with its train of grave consequences, should it go unchecked.

Must Keep Drama Clean

Bransby Williams, English Actor, Deplores Modern Tendency

"I am ashamed of the way in which the stage is being run in the United States, Canada and Great Britain," Bransby Williams, English actor, said in addressing the Brockville Rotary club, adding that, for the sake of the rising generations, the stage has got to be kept clean and the pictures "must be kept cleaner." In moving-picture theatres, he said, boys and girls are today reading titles that are despoiling the English language, and on the stage itself there appears to be no longer room for good, clean, beautiful plays, while the bookstores are full of questionable reading matter.

THE HOLY SPIRIT

Golden Text: "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God."—Romans 8.14.

Lesson: Joel 2.28, 29; Luke 11.9-13; John 3.5-8; 14.16; 17,26; 15.26, 27; 16.7-15; Acts 2.1-21, 32, 33; Romans 8.1-17,26,27; 1 Corinthians 12.1-13; Ephesians 1.13, 14; 3.14.21; 4.1-6, 30.

Devotional Reading: John 14.25-31.

Explanations and Comments

What the Holy Spirit Will Do, John 16.7-11.—Jesus told His disciples that it was expedient for them, it was for their advantage, for their best interests, that he should leave them. How could it be best for them to lose the daily companionship of their Lord and Master? Jesus gives the answer: "For if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I go, I will send him unto you." The Greek verb from which the Greek noun Parakletis, Paraclete, is derived, means to call, to aid; the noun, therefore, stands for one who is called to another's aid, whether to comfort (comforter), to plead his cause (The Advocate), or to help in some other way (The Helper). The word Comforter used here for Parakletos, means One who strengthens, upholds, rather than One who consoles.

The Holy Spirit is (1) the continued life and presence of Christ Himself. While He was present with the disciples in the body, His humanity obscured in a measure His divinity. When the Holy Spirit took His place he revealed Christ to them, made plain all the spiritual truth of His teachings (verse 13). They knew Him better after He had left them. (2) While Jesus was with them, they were weak men, unable to stand alone. After He went away and left them as witnesses to carry on His work, they became towers of strength, wonderful leaders of men, who continued to do all that He began both to do and to teach. (3) By leaving a few, Christ became the Companion of all. While He was on earth He was with a few men in a small land; now He is with all, everywhere, at all times. He is the universal Spiritual Presence.

"He to His own a Comforter shall send.
The promise of the Father, who shall dwell
His Spirit within them, and the law of faith,
Working through love, upon their hearts shall write
To guide thm in all truth."—Milton.

When Pain Comes

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Andy took the wounded bird from her hand. " 'Ow did it 'appen, Connie?" he asked tenderly.

Connie was as open and unaffected as the wild birds of the forest. She was as capable of hating as she was of loving. Her eyes were laughing eyes, and the soul that looked out of them a merry soul, but she had a temper, and under sufficient provocation her blue eyes could take on a dangerous glow.

She now turned like an enraged lioness on the foreigner. "He killed it with a stick!" she cried furiously. "You brute, you cowardly brute. . . . ." In her rage her voice became incoherent. With hands clenched and with breath coming in short gasps, she moved nearer to the object of her hatred. In her hysterical anger her voice rose almost to a scream.

"You cur, if I were a man I'd—I'd lick you!"

The cry came to Donald's ears, and he was off up the trail like a deer.

"Go ahead, I'll follow," responded Gillis.

Andy looked down on the mother goldfinch as it lay in his hand. He felt the quick throbbing of its heart grow fainter and fainter. One wing was broken and its white breast was stained with blood. The bird's head drooped lower, and a film settled over its bright eyes. The beautiful wings stretched rigidly, and it gasped convulsively, sending a tiny stain of crimson from its mouth that felt warm on his palm.

Andy's face became colourless. His hand shook violently as he placed the dead bird tenderly on the ground. "Connie dear," he said, in a voice that trembled, "I ain't a whole man, but 'ere's where you see 'arf a man goin' into battle to give all he's got."

He removed his coat and threw it from him. Through a rage-mist Andy saw the grinning foreigner throw up his arms in an absurdly unscientific posture of defence. Like a mad cat, Andy launched himself straight at his husky opponent. The grin was wiped from the big man's face by Andy's compact fist, as it smacked resonantly on the end of his thick nose with a snap like that of a whip, and with a skilled force that brought blood.

Andy's years of training boxers now stood him in good stead. He well knew that a small man would stand little chance in long range fighting, and he kept well inside the larger man's wild swings. With his blond head tucked against his adversary's body, his fists worked like pistons; he kept sending short jolts to the body that brought heavy grunts every time they landed.

Connie was delirious with excitement.

"Hit him, Andy! Hit him! Good! Good!"

And then she groaned as the big man's hand found Andy's throat and flung him to the ground. Little Andy was up immediately, but stepped into a swinging fist that caught him over the eye and sent him sprawling. Undaunted, he came to his feet, waited warily for an opening, and again sprang under the big man's guard.

Andy's fist shot up in a ripping uppercut that was judged to a nicety, catching his opponent on the point of his chin with force enough to send him rocking on his heels, and before he could recover himself the same fist, accompanied by its mate, beat a tattoo on his solar plexus.

In desperation the bewildered man wound his arms about the little Australian and lifted him high in the air. Like a game bulldog Andy hung on. Though his feet were off the ground, he clung to the big man's body like a leech.

Again the big hands felt for Andy's throat, and he was flung six feet to strike with a thump that shook every bone in his body. Connie cried out in fear as he narrowly avoided a brutal blow aimed at his head.

Andy's sense of British fair play had received a rude shock. "As Methusalem said," he panted, as he came to his feet, "when in Bohunkia do as the Bohunks do."

"Take that, Spaghetti!" he shouted, as he kicked the foreigner viciously on the shin. While the latter leaned over in pain, Andy shot a well-directed uppercut to his face. The big man sat down, a dazed look in his eyes.

Breathing heavily, Andy's adversary came to his feet, picked up his hat, and with arms wound about his head beat a hasty retreat. Andy was after him like a hornet, sending stinging blows through his vulnerable guard. Donald and Gills stood with mouths agape to see Andy administering a sound thrashing to a man twice his size. Right to the edge of the woods he relentlessly pursued his fleeing enemy.

Andy's head was held at its usual cocky angle, and he assumed a swagger as he retraced his steps, but his short legs wobbled and he sank dizzily to a stump.

"I brought 'is blinkin' meat-'ouse down, Connie," he gasped.

Andy's florid face took on a deeper magenta, and he blinked hard to hide certain signs of emotion. He afterwards admitted to Donald that he was no "sweet sixteen," and that it was the first time that he had ever been kissed in his "bloomin' " life.

Connie wet her handkerchief in the cold water of the creek and bathed his face with tender care.

She showed Donald and Gillis the nest with the motherless birds, doomed to die a premature death by this act of wanton cruelty, and pointed to the tiny bird on the ground, for whose untimely end Andy had taken a well deserved and summary vengeance. Connie choked as the lovely male bird flew to a stalk of goldenrod near its dead mate and sent out its throaty warble.

"Dear, dear, dearie," sang the goldfinch in a plaintive, questioning note.

"You darned little buzz-saw!" said Gillis tenderly.

CHAPTER XIII.

Renwick announced that Robert Rennie's daughter and a party of girl friends were to visit Summit Lake the following week, and carpenters were set to work erecting cottages for their accommodation.

A few days before her arrival Donald was both surprised and pleased to receive a cordial letter from her in which she said that she was looking forward with pleasure to the coming holiday, and that she would deeply appreciate anything he might do for the entertainment of her friends.

As always, her father spared no expense in providing for the comfort and pleasure of his daughter. That week a car containing a motorboat, canoes and six saddle-horses was run in on a side-track at the mill.

Connie learned of the coming event through Donald as she was watching with keen interest the unloading of the spirited animals.

"You will enjoy yourself next week, Connie," he said gaily. "Miss Rennie is coming with friends. We'll have rides, picnics and dancing.

"Is Miss Rennie rich, Andy?"

"An 'ole barrel o' dough."

"Is—is she beautiful?"

"I've 'eard so, Connie."

A short pause ensued while she searched the pockets of her overalls and produced several neatly folded papers. She extracted one, pressed it smooth, then passed it to Andy.

"Does Miss Rennie dress like that?"

"I think so, Connie."

"Oh! She must be wonderful, then!" said Connie earnestly.

She moved closer to Andy, unfolded another page, and spread it on her knee.

Andy bent his blond head close to the one of gold. A startled look crossed his features and his brows bobbed up and down. It was a full-page advertisement of ladies lingerie. The highly coloured illustration of a lady, partially dressed, achieved its object of arresting the eye, while the remainder of the space was occupied by articles of apparel similar to those adorning the lady's graceful form.

Andy coughed. "Er—yes, Connie."

"All at one time?"

"Sure—sure," mumbled Andy.

Connie stared. "Why, there must be nearly a dozen pieces. How is this fastened?" she questioned as she pointed with a slender brown finger to one of the engravings.

Andy took a quick glance. "Buttons."

"And this?"

"And this?"

COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's universal disinfectant and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass we are artificially excluding these vital health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

V. Paulson of the Kootenay garage, Cranbrook, was a business visitor at the Creston branch this week, and attended the Board of Trade banquet on Tuesday evening.

Total collections at the Creston office of the Provincial police for 1928 were well over $7800, and of this amount $4859.00 was paid for auto and auto drivers' licenses.

61 cases were tried by Magistrate Mallandaine in Creston police court during 1928, and fines totalling $592 were levied. No serious crime, however, was encountered.

For 1928 the Valley had a net gain of 27 in population. There were 43 births, and 16 deaths. Boys were much more in evidence last year than girls, there being but 17 stenographers amongst the newcomers.

In last week's report of the annual meeting of Creston and District Women's Institute an error was made in stating the officers. Mrs. J. E. Hayden is the 1929 vice-president; not Mrs. Jas. Cook as reported.

Every property owner in the Valley got at least one letter on Thursday last, when the provincial tax notices were received. In Creston village where the school tax is paid to Nelson the school rate is just over 12 mills for 1929.

According to official figures only ten marriage licenses were issued at Creston during 1928. This is about the poorest showing Cupid has had for some years past. The United Church pastor tied the nuptial knot for half of these.

The prolonged mild spell the Valley has enjoyed this winter was broken suddenly with a blizzard out of the north on Friday morning, and a touch of six below zero Saturday a.m. It was 13 below on Wednesday, and 10 below on Thursday.
