Seed 3000 Acres Reclamation Farm

For the first time in local history the Creston district is this year to have grain farming on quite an extensive scale. If favorable weather prevails about 3000 acres on the old Reclamation Farm on Kootenay Flats will be cropped principaly to wheat.

Breaking operations commenced on Monday. Two 38 h.p. tractors, each pulling a four-furrow gang plow, are at work. These are equipped with headlights and are working day and night and turning up at least 100 acres on the 20 hour work day.

Lawrence Bishop and Mr. Holben of Lewiston, Idaho, are in charge of the operations and in addition to ploughing equipment have also brought along discs, seeders, etc., and no time will be lost in following up breaking with seeding. Associated with these two men is the Kootenay Power & Development Company, Limited, which recently secured possession of the big farm. Getting the grain in is not likely to consume the time required where seeding follows prairie breaking as the sod on the Reclamation Farm is exceptionally mellow and friable—and in some spots it would look as if no discing would be needed.

The 3000 acres going into crop is situated at the north end of the farm between the farmhouse and what is known as Dutchy Ridge. This section can be handled with the minimum of interior drainage.

The company yesterday brought in a dragline from the Idaho side and are starting work at once to put in a drainage ditch at the south boundry of the cropped area. In addition to providing drainage the bank thrown up will serve as a dyke to shed any flood waters that may come in from the break in the original dyke at Porthill.

As soon as high water in the Kootenay River will permit the company are bringing in a dipper dredge, and will commence repairing the original dyke around the farm and quickly as possible will get on with breaking up the remaining 4000 acres of the farm and making it ready for crop in 1930.

PROOF OF DYES is in the dyeing!

Words won't dye a dress, or coat, or sweater. It takes real anilines to do that. That's why Diamond Dyes contain from three to five times more anilines than any other dye—by actual test.

It's the anilines in Diamond Dyes that do the work; that give the colors such brilliance; such depth and permanence. It's real aniline that keeps them from giving things that re-dyed look; from spotting or streaking.

Next time you have dyeing to do, try Diamond Dyes. Then compare results. See how soft, bright, new-looking the colors are. Observe how they keep their brilliance. Your dealer will refund your money if you don't agree Diamond Dyes are better dyes.

St. Davids, in Pembrokeshire claims to be the smallest city, in England, perhaps in the world. It is a village of three streets, containing barely a hundred houses, but it is technically a "city."

Although St. David's is 16 miles from a railway it is a popular holiday resort, owing ot its gem of a cathedral and its rugged cliff scenery.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS WIN GREAT PRAISE

Many Mothers Always Keep Them In the House

Thousands of mothers state that they knew of no other medicine for little ones to equal Baby's Own Tablets—that they always keep the Tablets in the home as a preventive of childhood ailments, or if sickness does suddenly grip their little ones they feel safe with such a remedy at hand.

Concerning the use of the Tablets Mrs. Donat Ploudre, Tingwick, Que., writes:—"I have nothing but praise for Baby's Own Tablets. They are the only medicine I have ever given my two little ones and I am glad to state that the Tablets have always kept them in perfect health. I feel so safe with the Tablets that I always keep a box in the house."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and thus banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fever and make the cutting of teeth painless. The Tablets are absolutely safe, being guaranteed free from all injurious drugs. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Clean Up Every Yard

The pupils of the schools should be thoroughly sold on the idea that they have a definite part in the work of cleaning up and painting up. Many a father will reward his boy handsomely for having the cleanest and neatest backyard in the neighborhood.

The girls will find a new delight in putting the flower beds in order, washing the woodwork, and otherwise helping mother to make the entire interior spick and span.

Every yard should have the weeds removed. The lawns should be mowed and raked, the shrubbery pruned, the hedges trimmed, and all rubbish carried away or burned.

If there are any little depressions in the yard which accumulate water, fill them up. A pool of stagnant water a foot square can easily give birth to a swarm of fever carrying mosquitoes.

Spanish Cream

- 1¼ cupfuls Borden's St. Charles Milk diluted with 1¾ cupfuls of water.
- ⅛ teaspoonful salt.
- ½ cupful sugar.
- 3 eggs.
- 1½ tablespoonfuls granulated gelatine.
- 1 tablespoonful vanilla.

Let the gelatine stand in the milk for five minutes, then scald the mixture. Combine the egg-yolks, sugar and salt with the scalded milk, and cook until slightly thickened like a custard. Then stir the mixture into the egg whites beaten stiff; add the vanilla. Turn into individual moulds which have been dipped in cold water and when set unmould and serve with light cream, or any preserved fruit.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

The Cost Of Corrosion

In a paper read before the Institution of Civil Engineers, by Sir Robert Hafield, on "The Corrosion of Ferrous Metals," the startling statement was made that, according to his estimates, 29,000,000 tons of steel were lost by rusting in 1920. At 20 pounds a ton this would represent for the year the huge bill of 580,000,000 pounds, to which might be added another 120,000,000 pounds spent on operations rendered necessary by the corrosion. These figures refer to the whole world, but, as the "Electrical Review" pointed out, the major part, say 450,000,000 pounds would probably have to be debited to the British Empire, a sum equal to nearly half our total war indebtedness to the United States.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE SUFFERING SERVANT OF JEHOVAH

Golden Text: "With His stripes we are healed."—Isaiah 53.5.

Lesson: Isaiah 52.13 to 53.12.

Devotional Reading: Revelation 5. 9-14.

Explanations and Comments

The Servant Of Jehovah.—Who is meant by the term? In the words of the Ethiopian eunuch (Acts 8.34), "Of whom speaketh the prophet this? of himself, or of some other?" Philip, to whom the eunich spoke, immediately took up the passage which we study today, and from it preached Christ.

Incidental allusions to the Servant of Jehovah are scattered throughout the second part of the Book of Isaiah, but the main passages are these: 41.8-20; 42.1-7, 18-25; 43.5-10; 49.1-9; 50.4-10; 52.13 to 53.12. What was the conception in the mind of the prophet? Was the "Servant" a personification, or a person? If a personification, was be the Israelitish nation as a whole, or the best portion of that nation—the righteous nucleus? The exiles in Babylon, or that part who remained loyal to Jehovah throughout all the trials of the exile and thus kept alive the true religion? If a person, was he ideal, or real? A prophet, or Hezekiah, or Jeholacham? Or was he one still to come, the promised Messiah? Each of these interpretations are ably defended by scholars.

"The very name 'servant' sets up a standard of life for individuals and nations. Those who would be great must become the servants of all. Jesus Christ is the only perfect illustration of altruism. Selfishness is the curse of the world. Christ brought help because he was the perfect 'Servant' of Jehovah, consecrated to unselfish service. And servantship and service must characterize every life that ministers to the health and strength of humanity."—John T. McFarland.

The Later Exaltation Of the Servant of Jehovah, 52.13-15.—In these last three verses of the fifty-second chapter of Isaiah, God is represented as the Speaker. (In 53.11, 12, He again speaks.) Behold, he exclaims, my "Servant," he who executes my will, shall deal so wisely as finally to be exalted. But just as many were astonished, because they could not understand His sufferings, His visage and form disfigured by disease; so when he is exalted he shall startle many nations, kings shall be silent with surprise when he is really known and understood. ("The word 'sprinkle' is difficult and obscure and perhaps not original. The Greek version reads 'many nations will marvel at him.'")

The Servant Of Jehovah a Man Of Sorrows, verses 1-3.—The prophet is now the speaker. "Whenever a 'we' is suddenly introduced into prophecy, it is always Isaiah that speaks, since the prophet takes the nation along with himself."—Delitzsch. Who hath believed our message, and to whom hath the arm of Jehovah been revealed? He refers seemingly to the revelation which he has made in the past, the substance of 42.1-4; 49.1-6; 50.4-9. "The tenses in verses 1-3 are past (prophetic perfect), the future being viewed as already accomplished. The implied answer to the question is 'No one.'"—Dummelow. The "arm of Jehovah" is a figure of speech for the work of Jehovah; the sending of the "Servant" is his work.

He was despised, and rejected of men; a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief. "What an Iliad of woes is condensed into these words!" And as one from whom men hide their faces he was despised; and we esteemed him not. Men turned their faces away from Him with loathing. Many see in these words a suggestion of leprosy, and refer to Job. 16.6

Why Cement and Plaster Need Painting

It is seldom one sees a cement, concrete, stucco, plaster or brick surface painted. It seems to be the general asumption that these substances are amply able to protect themselves from weather and other destructive conditions.

But that is a mistake. It is well known that cement is a moisture absorbent, and it isn't true that the moisture does not harm it. It is almost as important to prevent rain from penetrating the surface of these rough mineral outsides as it is to protect wood and iron from rain.

But just any kind of paint will not do. It must be a special cement paint having a chemical composition not affected adversely by lime or alkalies.

It is important that owners of commercial and manufacturing buildings, grain elevators, residences, garages, silos, etc., with absorbent outside surfaces, should realize the advantages of painting them—that they will last longer, look better and need fewer repairs after being so treated.

Many accidents happen from warming varnish and other mixtures that contain inflammable liquid. Almost every day it happens. "Happens" does not seem to be the best word to use, however, for it is discovered that such "accidents" (another wrong descriptive word), are usually the result of want of common horse sense.

Anybody should know that to place highly inflammable substances like turpentine and benzine by a hot or even warm stove is more than likely to cause an explosion. "She was heating a pot of varnish on the stove and it exploded." Of course it did; did she think it would simply boil over, like a pot of soup?—Painters' Magazine.

The Part Paint Plays

"Where poverty lives, there filth abounds." Someone wrote or said that a long time ago and it is quite true today. The solidity and prosperity of a town, or its poverty and shiftlessness, are indicated by its physical appearance.

"Paint and Pride Are Partners," is one of the slogans of the "Clean-up and Paint-Up Campaign," and it is a good one. "The greatest incentive to cleanliness is paintliness," is another true one.

Any community cleaning that lasts requires the paint brush even more thao the scrub brush. Walls and other surfaces which are properly painted, enameled or varnished, are washable. They are easier to keep clean.

Good paint and varnish reduce the labor of keeping clean, promote health, inspire pride of ownership, multiply the joys of living and increase property values. There is no better time to paint up than when you are cleaning up, and there's little hope of keeping your premises cleaned up unless they're painted up.

Pictures and Mirrors Give Finishing Touch

Pictures serve an admirable purpose in the decoration and furnishing of the small home.

By the very nature of their location on the wall they occupy none of the floor space that is so valuable in the small dwelling. If a little room has been rather crowded with furniture, pictures on the wall carry the eye upward and bring the attention from the lower part of the room to the upper, where there is a greater appearance of space.

Then, too, the subjects of the pictures may be chosen with a view to increasing the apparent size of the room. Pictures with a rather deep perspective give the eye a feeling of looking into the scene, down a corridor, into a valley, along a river, or otherwise creating an appearance of distance.

To do this removes much of the cramped feeling that invades a small room overcrowded with furniture.

The choice of color in pictures also will have much to do with the decorative scheme of the room, and the same effect of spaciousness can be created with the judicious use of mirrors.

"Come in," she called.

Donald followed Wainwright, his heart-beats peculiarly accelerated. For an instant he could not distinguish objects in the dim interior. Then his eyes rested on Connie, sitting demurely in the corner. She wore a gingham dress of blue, with white collar and cuffs. A dark belt was fastened snugly at her slender waist. Tiny high-heeled shoes peeped from below the hem of her skirt. Her beautiful hair hung down her back in a huge braid that fastened at the nape of her slim, round neck with a narrow black bow. She rose and crossed the room to meet him, her high heels making her lithe little body appear much taller. There was something fragile about her beauty, some of the colour gone from her cheeks, and just a hint of shadows under her eyes.

Donald held out his hand. "Good evening, I'm glad to see that you are better," he said awkwardly.

A slender, warm hand crept timidly into his, and his fingers closed on it gently as on a flower. He stared down at her, thrilled by her loveliness. She raised her eyes with their bewilderingly long lashes slowly to his face. With a sudden leaping of his heart, Donald realized that he was in love.

They talked desultorily while Connie sat timidly on the edge of the uncomfortable chair. She could not feel at ease in the high, narrow shoes and the enveloping skirts. And as she essayed to cross the rough floor wth an assumed air of ease, her ankle turned and she would have fallen had not Donald caught her in his arms.

As he raised her to her feet she blushed furiously, and he fancied he could feel the warm beating of her heart. With an embarrassed apology, she slipped from him, crossed to the table and lighted a candle. And presently he took his leave, Wainwright walking with him down the darkening trail.

Wainwright was in one of his brooding moods. For a few minutes he was silent. As they neared the bluff he spoke.

"After witnessing my daughter's distress the morning of the race I am afraid that you feel harshly toward me for allowing her to be placed in such a humiliating position. You have been exceedingly kind to us; therefore, I feel that I should relate the circumstances which have placed me in my present position. As I told you that day, I have allowed my pride to withhold from my daughter her inherited rights. I will be as brief as possible.

"My father, who took great pride in the family name, planned a political career for me even from the day of my birth. By natural taste and temperament I was quite unfitted for public life. I must have been a great trial to him, as from early boyhood I evinced a great love for the study of botany and ornithology. He would go into a red rage when he found me in the garden studying flowers under a microsope or stalking birds in the shrubbery.

"At college I was not a success, either socially or in my class. Always of a retiring nature, I did not enter social life or college sports, and the course of study set for me by my father bored me extremely.

"During my third year at college I met Connie's mother. Until that time no woman had entered my life, although my father had hinted his plans for my marriage as soon as I had finished my course.

"To me any flower shop, however small acted as a magnet. One day I stood gazing in the window of a tiny florist's shop on the Strand. A girl was kneeling among the flowers, and as she lifted her head our eyes met. She was like a golden lily. Her hair was like Connie's hair, and the blue of her eyes was the blue of the pansies she held in her hand. And her namee was Constance."

He paused for an instant.

"Her father, who had been a rector in a small parish in the south of England, died just previous to our meeting, leaving his motherless child without kith or kin. Lest I weary you I may say briefly that we were married. My father would not even grant me an interview, but wrote to me saying that marrying as I had done had barred me forever from his door. I did not care. I was happy—completely, supremely happy. I sold a small estate bequeathed to me by my mother, and we set out for British Columbia.

"Ah!" he breathed softly, "that voyage! We could not afford it, but we travelled first-class—it was our honeymoon and we were young. We had never been to sea before, and the novelty of it all wove a spell about us. As we walked the deck we talked joyously of our wonderful future in the mysterious Great West.

"Our first year in Vancouver was one of blessed content. There is no love that could be greater than ours. Clerical work was scarce, so I took any job that offered. I would come through all kinds of weather she home black with coal-dust or white with lime, and my wife would cry out merrily as she threw herself into my arms. We turned our hardships into jests."

A smile of infinite tenderness played about his eyes as memory recalled the golden days with the woman he loved.

"The next winter I was taken grievously ill. I lay helplessly on my back while my tender wife tramped from house to house teaching painting and music. Day after day made her daily rounds to keep us in the bare necessities of life, and pay the doctor's bills."

Wainwright's voice sank and almost failed him for a moment. Recovering himself, he resumed his story.

"She would come home at night, tired and worn, to fall asleep in a chair by my bedside, while I raved in a fever. She went without food to buy dainties for me. She never lost her cheery smile—but it killed her. She died giving birth to—to— Constance."

Tears rose to his eyes, and for a moment he covered them with his hand. With a great effort he continued.

"I became embittered, changed completely out of any semblance to my former self. I cursed my father. I cursed the world. I would have welcomed death, but as I looked down at the tiny mite by my dead wife's side, I knew that I must fight to live.

"A short time after, I received from my father a letter in which he asked my forgiveness. I was unfitted to make my own way in the world, yet my father had turned me brutally away. My wife had died from overwork and lack of food. I wrote to him in a black rage a letter that must have scorched his soul.

"For four years I eked out a miserable existence in the City. My health broke down again, and my doctor warned me that I must get to a higher altitudee. I learned of this place, turned everything into cash, and came here, bringing Connie with me.

"My sole income has been derived from writing articles on Nature for the newspapers and magazines. Several times my father has advertised in the newspapers, asking me to return. I read of his death two weeks ago. For Constance's sake, I am going to start for England tomorrow."

Wainwright's head drooped listlessly as he concluded his story. All energy, all strength of bearing, seemed to have gone from him. The bitter remembrances he had voiced had brought a look of mental anguish to his face. He stood staring mutely before him.

"I tried different remedies but they all failed to help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got relief. I continued the treatment and now I am completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Alvah McKinnon, Tatamagouche, N. S., Sept. 27, 1928.

At the first sign of it. Its Healing Qualities are Amazing. THE OLD RELIABLE.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

How far would you go to be sure of a better Oil-?

Knowing that a better oil means smoother performance, longer life, greater economy and bigger trade-in-value for your car, you'd probably go a long way to be sure of a better oil.

That's what Imperial Oil Limited did—went all the way to tropical South America for the crude out of which to refine Marvelube.

There's lots of crude oil available right at Canada's front door. If Canada's largest and most modern refineries had been able to evolve as good an oil as Marvelube from locally available crude they would have been glad to do so. Peruvian crude made a purer, carbon-free, fuller-bodied oil—an oil that meant better lubrication—so Peruvian crude was decided upon.

The decision set a new standard in motor oils. Aircraft operators, the most particular buyers of oil, are enthusiastic about Marvelube because it has given them a longer period of operation between engine overhauls, and a greater margin of safety.

You can enjoy the same benefits in your car, and there is a grade of Marvelube that is refined to meet the exact requirements of your car. Consult the Marvelube chart at good service stations and dealers everywhere.

Can only be compared with Cars costing far more!

In five years Chrysler has leaped to leadership because of the fact that Chrysler engineers have never left any detail of performance or car appearance to chance. They have pursued a deliberate policy of protection in mechanistic and arttstic design. Canada's Opportunity and Responsibility

It has been said times without number that Canada occupies a paramount and responsible position as interpreter of Great Britain to the United States, and of the United States to Great Britain. Such views have been expressed, not so frequently by Canadians themselves as by leading men in Great Britain and the United States.

Within the past few years the opinion has been expressed by leading citizens of the Empire and of China, Japan, and other oriental lands, that Canada, because of its geographical position and its rapidly expanding trade across the Pacific, likewise occupies a strong position as interpreter of the Orient to the rest of the Empire. Canada is popular in China and Japan as compared with the United States and European countries.

In the councils of the League of Nations this Dominion also stands high, and deservedly so. It is recognized by other countries, and more particularly the smaller nations, that Canada has no selfish purpose to serve through its membership in the League; that, on the contrary, the Canadian attitude is one of disinterestedness, based wholly in a desire to render service to mankind. The Canadian position in the League has always been for peace, conciliation, recognition of the rights of others, and, especially, not merely fair treatment but open generosity and sympathy for minorities.

Because of this unselfish attitude, Canadians are welcome in all lands, and the high opinion entertained for this country is proving a real asset to the business and commercial interests of the Dominion in the opening and development of foreign markets for Canadian products.

Now, one of the most influential men in India, Sir Rabindranath Tagore, the world renowned poet, outlines to Canada a duty which rests upon this young Dominion, not only to itself, or to a group of nations, but to wide world. Sir Rabindranath was a distinguished guest and speaker at the recent Conference of the National Council of Education held at Vancouver, and in his farewell message to Canada he gave expression to views which Canadians everywhere may well read, ponder over, and to which they should give heed.

"Canada," he said, "is too young to fall a victim to the malady of disillusionment and scepticism, and she must believe in the great ideals in the face of contradiction—for she has the great gift of youth; she has the direct consciousness of the stir of growth within her which should make her trust herself, which is the only sure way of trusting the world."

How true this last sentence! A man or a nation which does not trust himself or itself, but lives in an atmosphere of fear and suspicion, can never trust others.

Continuing, this great Indian savant said: "Let Canada feel the sacred dawn of her life, that the expectation of human destiny is upon her as upon other sister countries which have just entered into the cycle of their promise. Canada will have to solve for the salvation of man the most difficult of all problems, the race problem, which has become insistent with the close contact of communities that had their isolation for centuries in their geographical and cultural exclusiveness. Canada will have to reconcile the efficiency of the machine with the creative genius of man which must build its paradise of self-expression, reconcile science with religion, individual right with the social obligation that it must acknowledge. She must dream of the introduction of honesty even in politics, which is the self-interest of the nation, knowing that such interest can only have its sure foundation in international friendships. She must ever hope to be able to win the heart of the world by offering the best that she produces."

Although his actual knowledge of this country was limited, Sir Rabindranath said Canada possessed powers of character and material resources that would enable her to carve out a destiny free from "the fatigue that old civilizations suffer from in the shape of cynicism."

This is an inspiring vision of Canada's place in the world. It is one that calls for the best that every citizen, regardless of his race or creed, can contribute. And it is because the Canadian people of tomorrow will be a development of the cosmopolitan population of today that the Canada of the future will find within itself the ability, the sympathy, the international viewpoint, which will make possible such a great contribution to the future of mankind and the ultimate and lasting peace of the world, for, until the race problem is solved there can be no peace in any country, or in the world at large.

Guard Against FLU — Sore Throat The First Warning.

Few families will escape. This epidemic constitutes a real danger. Health authorities everywhere warn the public of the danger of the common cold. "Flu" usually starts with Sore Throat. Unless the germs are killed by some antiseptic treatment a serious malady may develop.

A simple treatment is to gargle the throat three times daily with Nerviline. The antiseptic properties of Nerviline quickly destroy the germs in the throat. Of course if the chest is sore Nerviline should be rubbed over the affected area—lots of rubbing—it can't burn a blister, but will bring out the congestion and break up the cold.

To prevent "Flu" or colds from gaining headway Nerviline will prove most effective. It is hardly necessary to point out that the bowels should be stimulated, and the system purged of all waste materials. For this purpose Dr. Hamilton's Pills are recommended. They act without griping or discomfort of any kind. This combination treatment of Nerviline and Dr. Hamilton's Pills will prove a very satisfactory prevention for Grippe, Flu, etc.

Ontario Man Inherits Title

Will Go To France To Take Possession Of Property

Count Richard du Manoir de Jauaye has lived for 25 years in one-half of a frame house in the village of Westmeath, near Pembroke, Ontario. All that time he has known he was next in line to the family estates and titles, together with the fine old Norman chateau. The property which has now fallen to the Count on his succession to the family title is situated near Bayeux and it is his intention to leave Westmeath for France and his ancestral home together with the Countess and their son and heir.

The Count, who acted as house painter and general handy man in the unpretentious village of Westmeath, was known as Richard Du Manoir. This is the second European title to be inherited by a Canadian within the past few weeks, the other case being that of the Earl of Egmont former rancher of Priddis, Alta.

FEELING TIRED AND DEPRESSED

Then Try the Treatment With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

It is good to be tired after hard work or play. Rest and food will banish that kind of a tired feeling. But to be weak all the time never to feel strong and vigorous, to be breathless at the least exertion, denotes a condition of ill health that must be corrected or worse results will follow. Such a condition the doctors term anaemic, and is caused by thin blood. For relief in this condition nothing else can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enrich and purify the blood, bringing new health and strength. Among those who have found new health through the use of these pills is Mr. G. E. Hooton, R.R. 4, Elgin, Ont., who says:—"For a long time I was greatly disturbed with pains in my back and felt tired and depressed most of the time. My blood seemed to be in a bad condition, so much so, that I slept poorly and scarcely felt like eating. I tried a doctor, but his treatment did not help. Then one day I read an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, describing a case much like my own and I decided to try this remedy. I took the pills for about two months, and the result was wonderful. I gained fifteen pounds in weight and felt like a new man. I know of nothing that will build up the strength like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have since recommended them to many of my friends."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., at 50 cents a box. Write today for a copy of the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood."

An Oil Of Merit.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is not a jumble of medicinal substances thrown together and pushed by advertising, but the result of the careful investigation of the healing qualities of certain oils as applied to the human body. It is a rare combination and it won and kept public favor from the first. A trial of it will carry conviction to any who doubt its power to repair and heal.

Strangled With Asthma is the only expression that seems to convey what is endured from an attack of this trouble. The relief from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is beyond measure. Where all was suffering there comes comfort and rest. Breathing becomes normal and the bronchial tubes completely cleared. This unequalled remedy is worth many times its price to all who use it.

Canada's Mining Advance

From a comparatively obscure position in 1900 with a production of less than $65,000,000, Canada is steadily advancing to the front rank of the mineral-producing countries of the world with a total production in 1928 valued at $271,000,000.

The indications of worms are restlessness, grinding of the teeth, picking of the nose, extreme peevishness, often convulsions. Under these conditions one of the best remedies that can be got is Miller's Worm Powders. They will attack the worms as soon as administered and they pass away in the evacuations. The little sufferer will be immediately eased and a return of the attack will not be likely.

The girl with a broken heart always manages to save the pieces.

Ready-Made Medicine.—You need no physician for ordinary ills when you have at hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. For coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchial troubles, it is invaluable; for scalds, burns, bruises, sprains it is unsurpassed; while for cuts, sores and the like it is an unquestionable healer. It needs no testimonial other than the use, and that will satisfy anyone as to its effectiveness.

Even a man of steel may lose his temper when he gets hot.

DEATH OF SIR CLIFFORD SIFTON, NOTED CANADIAN

New York.—Sir Clifford Sifton, K.C.M.G., K.C., prominent in Canadian public life for forty years, died in New York while sitting in a chair talking with his son, Harry. Accompanied by his sons, Sir Clifford left his winter residence at Daytona Beach, Fla., last Saturday, and was on his way to his home in Toronto when death overtook him.

Although Sir Clifford had been troubled with heart weakness for about two years, his health was fairly good until last fall and he was quite sick when he left Toronto in November to go to Florida for the winter.

Sir Clifford Sifton, K.C.M.G., K.C., of Toronto, Privy Councillor, former Minister of the Interior, whose death took place at New York, had been a figure of magnitude in Canadian public life for forty years. Born in Ontario, in 1861, he came to Manitoba when a youth with his father, the late Hon. W. J. Sifton, locating at Brandon.

A barrister at the age of twenty-one, Clifford Sifton became a member of the Manitoba legislature in 1888, and entered the Greenway government as Attorney-General in 1889, being only twenty-nine years of age. From that time onward he played a conspicuous part in the development of the West.

Sir Clifford was called by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the Federal cabinet on November 17, 1896, as Minister of the Interior and Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs. As Minister of the Interior he carried out a vigorous immigration policy, which added largely to the population of the Dominion. In the earlier period of his ministry he was specially charged with matters relating to the government of the Northwest Territories (now Saskatchewa and Alberta), and Yukon Territory, and all unorganized and outlying territories of the Dominion. He introduced and carried thorugh legislation at Ottawa giving responsible government to the Northwest Territories in 1898.

On account of a difference of opinion with the Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, over educational clauses of the Northwest Territory Autonomy bill, Sir Clifford resigned from the Government, February 27, 1905. He continued to be a member of the House of Commons until the General Election of 1911, when he withdrew and did not present himself for re-election. He represented Brandon, Manitoba, in the Dominion Parliament from 1896 until 1911, his first election to the House of Commons being by acclamation, following upon his call to the ministry at Ottawa.

Snubbed By Chicago Mayor

Thompson Sent "Collect" Cable To Young Australian League

Chicago, Ill.—Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson's political enemies were making the most of the official snub the cowboy mayor has extended to 160 members of the Young Australian League who plan to visit Chicago, April 22.

The youthful British subjects cabled Mayor Thompson that they were coming. Instead of extending them a welcome, Thompson sent them a "collect" cable saying that Chicago had many interesting sights. It cost the Australians $25 to learn that the Mayor, famous as a detractor of King George V., was not enthusiastic about their visit.

Commenting upon the slight editorially, the British American, published in Chicago, said: "We can scarcely believe Big Bill would be guilty of such stupidity."

The Australian delegates will be welcomed by the Association of Commerce, Rotary, and the English Speaking Union.

Japan Asks Clearer Wording Of Pact

Phrase In Kellogg Peace Pact Contrary To Constitution

Tokio.—Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese ambassador to Washington, has been instructed to obtain an understanding from the American government on the question of the phrase "their respective peoples" in the Kellogg peace pact.

This phrase is incompatible with the Japanese constitution, which stipulates that all sovereignty lies in the person of the emperor. The newspaper states that if America rejects the Japanese reservations then Japan will issue a statement explaining that ratification is impossible, but emphasizing that Japan fully approves of the pact's spirit.

The reservations, it is reported, suggest the deletion of the objectionable phrase, a revision, or a special explanation. Such a modification will require the consent of all the contracting powers.

Ottawa.—Hon. P. J. Veniot, postmaster-general, and the deputy minister, L. J. The new postal rate, it was explained, will facilitate communication betwen the countries and is the outcome of negotiations which have been carried on for some time between representatives of the two governments.

Report Is Satisfactory

Sir Henry Thornton Pleased With Record Of C.N.R.

Ottawa.—The special standing committee of commons on Canadian National Railway affairs held its first meeting recently, when General Fiset, Liberal, Rimouski, was elected chairman. Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, stated that the report of the railway showed the calendar year, 1928, was the most satisfactory of its history, both financially and from an operating standpoint.

Out of every dollar traffic receipts earned by the C.N.R., 17.64 cents was available for interest. On United States class 1 railways only 15.21 cents was available for interest. Sir Henry thought this was very satisfactory, particularly as many lines were in new districts.

To the question whether the increased receipts of the C.N.R. were at the expense of the Canadian Pacific, or attributable to national growth, Sir Henry said the net earnings of the Canadian Pacific attained a record last year.

"Therefore, I should say," Sir Henry asserted, "if I were a C.P.R. official, that the National is an asset to the Canadian Pacific. As a C.N.R. official, I consider the Canadian Pacific is an asset to the Canadian National."

"Then why not bring the C.P.R. down into Nova Scotia," asked Colonel Cantley, Conservative, Pictou.

"Well, the C.N.R. is not yet a Christmas tree," Sir Henry replied.

As to whether another large wheat crop was expected this year, Sir Henry explained it was impossible to forecast any particular year. However, there had been a steady and progresive increase in the quantity of wheat produced, extending over a decade of years.

He explained that it was generally considered that the Great Lakes had a sixty-year cycle of high waters and similar cycle of low wtaers which must be ascribed to the precipitation. Canada was entering on the wet cycle now and it might be prophesied that the greater rainfall would result in greater crops.

The heavy carryover of wheat would assure much business in grain carrying this year.

Colonel Geary, Conservative, Toronto, inquired if there had been any adjustments in railway rates. Sir Henry replied that rate reductions effective in 1928 had reduced the revenue of the Canadian National Railway by $908,000 as against 1927. Colonel Geary further inquired if there had been any let-up on the maintenance standard of the system and was informed that the reverse was the case, a constantly higher standard being adopted.

The minister of railways explained that the Hudson Bay Railway was not in the accounts of the National Railways. The C.N.R. was simply acting as the agents of the government in constructing this railway.

Offers Billion Marks Less

Germany Wants Big Reduction In Yearly Reparations Payments

Paris.—Germany's counter plan for paying her great war reparations, presented to the allied experts by Dr. H. Schact, chief of the German delegation, is understood to offer one billion marks less per year than the creditors demanded.

Payments would continue thirty-seven years instead of the fifty-eight years proposed by the allies in their memorandum. The German offer envisaged annuities beginning at 1,100,000,000 marks and rising to 1,450,000,000 marks.

Invention Failed To Work

Ogden, Utah.—When his parachute failed to open after he had cut loose from his balloon at an altitude of 250 feet, Glenn Austin of Jackson, Mich., was killed. Austin was the inventor of a contrivance which exploded a dynamite bomb to release the parachute. The bomb exploded a few seconds after he hit the ground.

Seeks Entry Into Norway

Oslo, Norway.—Refused entry into Germany, Leon Trotzky, exiled Russian Communist, is seeking permission to come to Norway. The government will take the matter under consideration.

GRAIN INSPECTION SYSTEM SAID TO BE ANTIQUATED

Ottawa.—Standard samples set each year by the chief grain inspector are frequently higher than the minimum set by the Grain Act, and on that account cargoes are graded lower than they should be. This was the contention of John Gillespie, dealers' representative on the grain standards board, whose evidence was continued before the agricultural and colonization committee of the house of commons.

This was the chief complaint, Mr. Gillespie said, against the inspection department. The whole inspection system was antiquated. For instance, barley was never graded No. 1 or 2, although there was lots of excellent barley produced. The Grain Act had been completely ignored for years. If the act were followed in setting barley samples it would benefit the growers.

In one case barley which weighed 46 pounds to the bushel had been refused No. 4 grade when the definition in the act did not require over 45 pounds. The reason given for refusal was that the carload was not as good as the standard sample in the hands of the inspector. This sample had weighed 49 pounds.

Hon. James Malcom, minister of trade and commerce, pointed out that there was an absurdity in the act in that conection. The definition for No. 4, actually required that the barley, to be so graded, should weigh less than 45 pounds.

In another case on appeal in regard to wheat graded No. 4, which the shipper thought should be No. 3, it was shown that it deserved the higher grade under the terms of the statute. It was refused that grade, however, because the standard sample was higher than it should have been to represent the minimum.

Millions of bushels of Alberta wheat were graded No. 4 this year when it deserved No. 3 because there were not different standard samples for that province, Mr. Gillespie contended. A volume of Alberta wheat had a larger percentage of green kernels than the Winnipeg sample, but in other respects was often superior. In any case he had never heard of complaints by Old Country buyers against a percentage of green kernels. This did not apply, of course, to wheat which was largely unripe.

The sentiment of pools, trade and producers, was that there should be different standards for Alberta grain. It was of a different type from the Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan, and no one sample could be made which would be representative of all the grain in the west.

There is no advantage in shipping to the United Kingdom grain of any better quality than the standard samples sent each year because no better price will be received by the producer Mr. Gillespie said.

Buyers on the European grain exchanges set the price each year on the basis of the samples sent over early in the season by the Canadian government. If wheat of better quality appeared later the Canadian farmer would lose, he claimed.
