THE CRESTON REVIEW

VOL. XXVI — CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1935 — No. 24

Wheat Yields Are Satisfactory

Reclamation Company Acreage Yields Uniformly Good, Particularly at Wynndel—46 Bushel Average on Constable Land

The wonderful indian summer weather Creston is experiencing is very much to the liking of those operating on the Reclamation Farm and the dyked acreage of Creston Reclamation Company, Limited, and as at Thursday noon the shipping of grain from the elevator of Midland & Pacific Grain Corporation accounts for 22 cars of wheat, or about 35,200 bushels and there is still in storage at the elevator 55,000 bushels. Shipments so far have been exclusively to Vancouver.

Considering this is the first year for crop on the Reclamation Company land yields have been much higher than anticipated. Although the grade is somewhat below expectations it is still highly satisfactory. 30 per cent. has graded No. 2 and the balance from two down to a limited quantity of No. 6.

The grain trucks have operated steadily since the last of August and with continued fine weather harvesting will be over within the next two weeks. This district is about the most talked of grain growing centre in western Canada, and many from outside points have been visiting Creston to see the largest wheatfields in B.C.

Following a series of disastrous experiences with flooding of the Reclamation Farm since 1930 the operators of this big tract last winter rebuilt the dyke at the north end and by the middle of May had the north half of the property, comprising about 3000 acres, ready for crop. Crops on the farm are not quite as good as expected but an average of 30 bushels to the acre will be realized by most farmers. Apparently the frost took its toll on some of the farm wheat early in the spring, bringing the grade down to some extent. The crop is about all harvested and seven combines have been used quite steadily, each machine averaging 25 acres a day. Three trucks are required on the haul from each of the combines.

Of 2300 acres cropped on the Reclamation Company lands the outstanding yield is an acre on the W. M. Archibald yroperty which had a showing of 69 bushels, and Guy Constable, midway to Wynndel 46 bushels was realized as an average on 50 acres of Marquis wheat. Mr. Constable reports his highest acre going 53 bushel and his lowest 41 bushels to the acre which is a splendid showing for a first-year crop C. Ogilvie and E. Uri, at the Wynndel end, have also harvested exceptionally good crops, with the former showing 40 bushels and the latter 35 bushels. A. F. Rudd, G. W. Taylor and V. M. Vasseur had crops well up in the 30's.

Besides the wheat which is stored and being shipped from the elevator, private parties are also shipping. Messrs. Constable and Vasseur are loading at Creston and the Wynndel farmers are planning to load from eight to ten cars

While a large part of the crop was combined there were also binders busy on the Reclamation Company lands and the threshing rig from Huscroft has done the threshing. Guy Constable is also endeavoring to make people realize the profit in wheat by baling a large quantity of straw which will be shipped out for stable bedding.

With the crop almost off farmers are busy with plans for fall ploughing and seeding. W. M. Archibald is busy breaking another quarter section to be planted to fall wheat. Frank Putnam is also working three eight hour shifts breaking land in the vicinity of the ferry and will have it in crop in 1936.

New Postoffice Pressed Brick

Tenders Close Monday—Plans for Two-Story and Full Base-Structure 40 x 42 Feet — Provides A mple Accommodation

With the call for tenders, which are to be in by Monday, things are looking somewhat brighter for Creston securing its $30,000 postoffice building, which is to be erected on the lot on Victoria Avenue, immediately to the rear of the present postoffice.

According to the plans and specifications the main building will be of red pressed brick with marble trimmings, it will be 40 x 42 feet, two story high and a full size basement. The front will be similar to most large postoffices with double doors and led up to by a flight of 4 marble steps. All inscriptions over the entrance and name in the freize will be bronze lettering, specified in steel, iron and bronze work.

The basement is full size, with concrete floor and an 18-inch cement wall. The plans show it to have a fuel room, boiler room, janitor's work room, with the remaineer of the space for storage.

The building will be steam heated with a boiler of 2000 square feet of gross hot water radiation, and will be constructed with water legs six inches greater than standard boilers of this type to provide additional combustion space. The boiler is to be equipped with stoking and dumping grates, having an area of five square feet and is to be equipped with a mechanical stoker.

The first floor is to be fitted up with a vestibule having a tiled floor. From here you enter the main public lobby. Behind this, is quite a large space for the general postoffice work. The mail will come in from the rear through a special entrance

The lighting system on the main floor is shown as eight 150 watt lamps in the postoffic proper, two in the lobby and one in the vestibule. The outside entrance is also well lighted, with one light on either side of the door.

The second floor will be reached by a cement stairway enclosed at the rear of the building, giviug access to what is expected to be residential quarters for the janitor. On the top floor seven rooms are shown all modernly equipped, including plumbing. It is estimated eight months will be required to erect and fully complete the new building, although contractors agree this is a very generous allowance of time to complete the work.

Boswell

Mr. and Mrs Chas. Allan were business visitors to Creston, Saturday.

C.C.F. and Liberal rallies are scheduled for Boswell this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Peel of Cowley, Alberta, were visitors in the district at the weekend.

Mrs. Hunter of Lumberton is on a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kennedy.

T. Kunst is again driving his truck, and was a business visitor here at the weekend.

Exceptionally good reception was enjoyed over the radio for the world's series baseball games.

K. Wallace has been named deputy returning officer for Boswell poll. Eric Bainbridge is clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Gullett were business visitors to Cranbrook on Friday, returning the following day.

Frank Botteril of Erickson passed through to Nelson to take delivery of another public works department truck.

Rev. Clyde Harvey, who is back from a holiday in England, took morning Anglican service at the Memorial Hall on Sunday.

The Cecile Moore tie camp at Blue Point is working at full capacity. More men have been hired and it is expected that over 200 ties a day will be turned out.

Mrs. A. Malloy of Winnipeg, Man., who has been visiting here for the past two months, returned home on Friday. She was accompanied as far as Cranbrook by her daughter. Mrs. D. V. West.

Boswell badminton club has commenced operations. W. Mackie is president, with R Cummings, vice-president, and Gladys Richardson, secretary-treasurer. The club will play each Thursday evening at Memorial hall.

R. L. Clarke of Vancouver, chief of the federal B.C. fruit inspection work, made his last visit to Boswell in an official capacity, on Wednesday last, accompanied by R. Robertson, provincial horticulturist, of Victoria; fruit inspector F. H. D an and W. G. Littlejohn o Creston.

Wednesday last saw the commencement of operations at the Boswell apple packing shed. A. Hepher is at the head of an experienced local crew. McIntosh were the first variety to be packed, followed by Cox Orange. There is a very large crop of the latter variety, and it is expected the C.P.R. boat will come to Boswell and haul them to Procter for rail shipment.

W. K. Esling, Conservative candidate, addressed a large meeting in Memorial hall on Wednesday evening last, and gave an interesting review of the Marketing Act and other activities sponsored by the Bennett government. G. H. Morden of North Vancouver, who was with Mr. Esling also spoke. Mr. Esling was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hepher during his stay here. Mr. Morden was a guest of Mrs. Johnstone.

Lister

Birth—On October 6 h, to Mr. and Mrs. E. Stieb, a daughter.

Col. Lister shipped out another carload of baled alfalfa during the past week. It went to Procter.

The Young Pioneers had a successful dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pendry on Saturday evening.

John Huscroft reports the shipment of three more cars of baled alfalfa. Two of these went to Kimberley and the other to Trail.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Phillips have returned to Kimberley after spending a few days at apple harvest on their ranch at Lister.

The Lister Sunday school resumed operations on Sunday after a three months' vacation, and had a splendid opening day attendance.

For the voting on Monday R. T. Millner will be in charge of the ballot box, with Fred Powers as clerk. Voting is from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. local time.

Tom Mountford, who was the United Front candidate in Nelson-Creston in 1933, is advertised to speak at a meeting at the schoolhouse on Saturday evening.

The best attended political meeting seen here for some years was that of Monday night when the Reconstruction party had a rally. The speakers were Rev. F. H. Stevens and S. Herchmer of Fernie. The chair was taken by Frank Baker.

Harry Helme is busy with his truck taking out the apple crop for packing at Erickson and Creston. Amongst those sending in fruit are Fred Powers, from his own and the A R. Bernard ranches; Col. Lister, Mrs. Yerbury, Mr. Handy sides on the Geo. Jacks place, and R. Stevens.

Alice Siding

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Marshall and Mrs. Frank Martin left on Monday for a few days' visit at Spokane.

Ron. Gibbs of Penticton is here on a couple of weeks' holiday visit with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Ash.

Austin Beere spent a few days in Nelson on a visit with his brother, Harry, who has been a patient in the hospital there.

Orchardists are busy with the pick of winter apples and the harvest should be pretty well completed by the end of next week.

W. F. Armstrong and family got away on Thursday on a short business visit at Central Butte, Sask., and points in southern Alberta.

Tuesday night's wind blew with considerable force for a few hours, but the blowoff of apples is not serious. Delicious appear to have suffered the worst.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McMurtrie left on Wednesday for Victoria, where they will spend the winter. In their absence Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beere will take charge of the ranch.

Alice Siding hunters complain that the weather is too fine for getting the ducks and geese. Most of them plan to have a day off for the three-day pheasant season that opens Tuesday.

Big Masonic Gathering

The largest attended Masonic gathering ever seen at Creston was that of Saturday when the local lodge had their "International Night," which attracted a record attendance of visitors from Libby, Montana, Priest River, Sandpoint and Bonners Ferry, Idaho, and other points south of the line, along with quite a large delegation from Kimberley, the officers of which lodge had the privilege of conferring the Master Mason degree on a local candidate. W M. Jos. Giegerich and the other officers of Kimberley lodge showed great proficiency and were warmly complimented on their effort. At the close of lodge the company of more than one hundred adjourned to Trinity United Church hall for the usual dinner spread, which was followed by the customary toasts and responses to round out an evening that certainly made Masonic history in East Kootenay. Among the visitors from across the line were H. Rowland of Libby, grand master fo Montana; W. H. Curtis of Sandpoint, a past grand master of Idaho; B. Monks of Bonners Ferry, D.D.G.M. for northern Idaho, who were accompanied by the presiding masters of the lodges at Libby, Sa dpoint, Priest River and Bonners Ferry, and many individual members. Amongst the Canadian dignitaries were R.W. Bros. F. S. Ryckman and E. S. Shannon, of Fort Steele and Kimberley lodges, and past district deputy grand masters for East Kootenay Much favorable comment was heard of splendid table decorations and equally excellent dinner spread which was provided by members of Creston Hospital Women's Auxiliary.

Erickson Cider Plant Operating

Bell-MacDougall Products Have Installed Plant and Utilizing Surplus Apples—Report Good Demand for Product.

Creston Valley's long-wanted market f r cull and other surplus apples has been provided at the cider plant that is being operated at Erickson by the Bell-McDougal Products, in what is known as the Rosen building.

The firm consists of Wes. J. Bell and Colin MacDougal, both Erickson residents, who have secured the services of an expert chemist to take charge of the plant, which is quite complete and of the very latest design, but not quite large enough to take care of even their present business The plant is electrically operated, and every care is taken to maintain the best in sanitary conditions.

The cider press they are at present using has a capacity of 800 gallons daily. Discussing the new industry with the Review the partners annaunce they are in the market for all the apples obtainable. The very best variety for cider making, they state is the Cox Orange, with the McIntosh and Delicious next in order, followed by all the winter varieties.

The firm reports a good demand for their product wich is being put up in ten gallon kegs. They have inaugurated a special delivery between Erickson and prairie points and are giving the trade the very best of service. They announce the Erickson cider is on sale locally at the Lewis barber shop, and the plan is to put considerable quantity of it into storage for sale at Creston and valley points next season. In addition to its thirst satisfying qualities scientists are agreed that it is a health promoting beverage.

Messrs. Bell and MacDougall are so well pleased with the reception their cider is receiving that they are already planning a modern warehouse this spring with ample storage space so they can more expeditiously handle the apples, and enlarge their output.

Messrs. Bell and MacDougal are to be commended on their enterprize in establishing an industry that has every promise of a steady development and providing local orchardists with an outlet for a considerable quantity of apples that in the past have had to go to waste.

Change And Rest

During the past two or three weeks radio fans, no doubt, have become rather tired of listening to the pleas and plaints of the politicians who have been making the welkin ring with appeals for support for the candidates of their choice, with fulsome praise for the policies of their own party and thunderous denunciations of the fulminations, fallacies and falsehoods of their opponents.

It was not very long ago that the opportunity afforded the farmer in the country and the citizen of the small town or village to absorb political knowledge and information—and sometimes misinformation—was restricted to one or two meetings during the campaign in the little school house on the other side of the pasture field or in the hall over the hardware store.

It often meant that the country resident had an opportunity of hearing only one side of the political story. A heavy fall of snow, a deluge of rain, the necessity of remaining home to act as nurse to a sick cow or to entertain unexpected visitors—all these and many other things—intervened to make it impossible to attend a second meeting and hear what the opposition had to say.

All that has been changed now. The politician has discovered the radio and the ability it gives him to reach into the homes of the land and pour forth his message, willy, nilly, into the ears of willing and unwilling listeners alike. And he took advantage of this facility to the nth degree during the Federal election campaign. Never in the history of Western Canada has the radio been brought into requisition so extensively to preach the gospels of tariff, internal reform, social credit, currency changes and what not as the solution to the ills to which the country has been, is and will be, a prey.

If the country and small town voter in the past has had to make up his mind how to cast his ballot on a meagre diet of data and information and, as was said just now, sometimes misinformation, to-day this condition is entirely reversed, thanks to the radio. By this time the average voter, who has not deliberately "tuned out" too often, certainly cannot claim that he had no opportunity of studying the issues which have been presented "over the air" in great diversity and with much frequency.

It is quite possible, on the other hand, that he may have some ground for complaint that the diet has been too heavy, decidedly mixed, in fact, that he has been surfeited with so much information, partial information and misinformation that the issues, instead of being clarified became more and more confusing with succeeding broadcasts.

While the radio can be thanked for having done much to make available to the electors a great deal of knowledge, on the other hand as a disseminator of political platforms and policies and party propaganda it has some disadvantages.

One of the disadvantages is the tendency on the part of a considerable percentage of political radio lecturers to gabble their speeches at a speed comparable to the recent automobile record established by Sir Malcolm Campbell. To the listener at the receiving end it appears as though the speaker had back of his mind something like the following:

"I am paying, or the party is paying (as the case may be) a dollar a minute for this. I am only allotted ten minutes and for the luv of mike (short for microphone) I've got to jam as much across the air in that time as my breathing apparatus will permit and get the greatest possible value for the money."

As a result the gentleman on the receiving end is lucky if he is able to catch more than one sentence out of every three and to absorb more than one of every six.

The political marathoner appears to forget, too often, that what counts is what he is able to plant in a receptive mind at the other end and not the number of words that he can shout into the mike—poor Mike—in a given number of minutes.

The political expounder also seemingly too often forgets that he starts on his race with a serious handicap compared with the platform orator at a public gathering. The latter is able to point his remarks or to emphasize his periods with a shrug of the shoulder, a lift of the hands or a flash of the eye and these devices, used with discretion, help the speaker to impress his views on the listener.

To the radio speaker all these and other devices of gesture, and personality of appearance and mien, are denied and he must rely solely on inflection of voice, distinct articulation and pause, for effect, and if he does not make full use of these his message may be nearly a total loss.

After a few weeks of repletion of political dietary the average radio fan may well be pardoned if he heaves a sigh of relief as he twiddles the dials and finds seeping into his consciousness the pleasing strains of a first-class orchestra, the well modulated tones of the players in a radio drama or even the thump of the drums and skirl of the bagpipes.

A change is as good as a rest.

Striving To Reach Goal

Scientists Hope To Bombard Stratosphere With Speedy Rockets

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who mixes science with aviation, and Harry F. Guggenheim, the financier, gave the outside world a hint of the importance of ethereal experiments which may send rockets streaking into the stratosphere at super-speeds.

Tests at the desert laboratory of Dr. Robert H. Goddard brought Guggenheim's announcement that the Guggenheim Family Foundation would pour more funds into the enterprise.

The "important" problem of automatic stabilization of rockets in vertical flight already has been soived, it was reported authoritively and projectiles have been fired in preliminary work at speeds approximately 700 miles an hour.

Dr. Goddard explained the success of numerous tests in which vertical flight of the rocket had been maintained by a gyroscope.

Renewed aid of the Foundation assured Dr. Goddard that now he may set out upon his prime objective; to send the rockets, propelled by liquid oxygen and gasoline into the outer space with recording instruments for stratospheric data of significant value to aviation and meteorology.

From a sixty-foot tower Dr. Goddard would shoot his twelve-foot rockets to altitudes greatly exceeding those which balloons are able to reach.

With his rockets he hopes to pierce the stratosphere in regions more than 30 miles high, so imperative to science, where electrical phenomena including ionization and the reflection of radio waves occurs.

Astronomical photography without the interference of the earth's atmosphere would be another prized objective.

Sikorsky Flying Boat

British Firm Secure Manufacturing Rights For Aircraft

British Aircraft Ltd., has acquired manufacturing license rights to the Sikorsky clipper flying boat, officials of the United Aircraft Corporation report.

Beyond affirming that the deal had been made with the Manchester, England, firm, United officials declined to give information about the negotiation between British Aircraft and the Sikorsky Aviation Corporation, of Bridgeport, Conn., which is a United member.

United officials did not comment upon a report that the four-motored craft are desired for use in Australia-New Zealand mail, express and passenger service. Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, trans-oceanic flyer, was in Bridgeport recently during tests of the latest clipper ship His presence there lent strength to the report of the Australian-New Zealand venture.

Palestine Is Progressing

But Men Newcomers Outnumber Women Two To One

Zionism in one way leads the world, for in Palestine there is no unemployment. There is work for all in the great program of building and of wasteland reclamation now in progress. Money from the outside continues to pour in, and adequate funds are available. But it has run into an unexpected difficulty. Among the newcomers the men outnumber the women two to one. It is the same experience so many lands have had. There is an alarming shortage of wives for the young men. That happened in the early days of Virginia, when it was necessary to send shiploads of marriageable girls to bring society to its proper equilibrium. History may repeat itself.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

British Naval Program

Calling For Bids For Twenty-One Fighting Ships

Great Britain began calling for bids on 21 ships embraced by her 1935 naval building program.

Ten million pounds sterling ($50,000,000) will be required for the 1935 construction program, it was estimated. This program falls within the limitations of the Washington naval treaty and is designed to replace over-aged ships. The new ships will include three cruisers, nine destroyers, three submarines, one submarine depot ship, four sloops, one survey ship, and several smaller vessels.

Work on this program was expected to be spread over about three years Some of the fighting vessels will be built by the royal dockyards, and the construction probably will be in full swing by next spring.

Communication Boards

Japanese Railway Has New Idea For Helping Passengers

A new idea in railway comfort adopted in Japan would add greatly to our travel if it were adopted in this country. In every station blackboards are provided on which an inscription states: "Passengers desiring to communicate with friends expected later are invited to write messages." Here are some of the messages: "I waited half an hour, then took the 10.50 to Kyoto." "Can't go to-day; please don't be angry." "Have gone to restaurant, second floor." Evidently, trouble is suggested by this note: "My husband returned. Come next week."

SAYS ITALY IS PREPARED TO MEET WAR WITH WAR

Rome.—Benito Mussolini, his fists clenched, sternly pledged a mobilized Fascist nation to meet "war" with "war" if the League of Nations imposes military sanctions upon Italy.

High on the balcony of his Venezia palace, illuminated by flares, Il Duce spoke, he said, to "20,000,000" men mobilized in public squares throughout Italy.

"A solemn hour is about to strike in the history of the fatherland," Il Duce shouted.

His voice carried to 7,329 communities. Slowly, but forcefully, Premier Mussolini almost shouted each word with long pauses between them. Throughout there was the silence of an army on review, punctuated with the wildest cheering.

Benito Mussolini pledged his nation to meet force with force and to bear economic sanctions "with discipline."

"War," he said, "would be met with war." He said he did not believe "real French" or "genuine British" would execute sanctions against Italy.

"We will not pretend. To economic sanctions, we will reply with the discipline of our people. To military ones, we will reply with military action."

He declared: "Not only our army marches towards its goal, but 44,000,000 Italians are marching with the army."

Dramatically Mussolini pointed from his balcony to the monument of the unknown soldier.

He recalled "Italy's 600,000 war deaths" but told them that after war "only disillusion came."

"Black shirt men and women of Italy," said Mussolini, "I speak to 20,000,000 men and women. Not only our army marches towards its goal, but 44,000,000 Italians are marching with the army." He said Italy would respond to "war with war". He declared he did not believe that "the real French associate themselves with sanctions against Italy."

Musolini said that the league "instead of recognizing Italy's rights, talks of sanctions." As he spoke of the "real French", he said: "I refuse to believe that the genuine Britons will associate themselves with sanctions to protect a barbarous people."

Red, white and black posters bearing Mussolini's profile were displayed on buildings proclaiming Italy's preference for peace but her readiness for war with some blunt language directed at Great Britain.

"Italy loves peace," said these posters, "but not unless it is founded on justice.

"We have had friendship from the English people—sincere friendship, a friendship through a course of years. But to-day we find it simply monstrous that this nation which dominates the world refuses us a poor strip in the poor land of Africa."

Trouble In India

British Concentrate Forces In The Province Of Peshawar

Bombay.—Arrangements for some concentration of forces were made by the British government for India as a result of trouble in the northwest province of Peshawar.

Several army units have been ordered to stand by for orders. Their leaves cancelled, 800 officers have been ordered to return to active duty. The Somerset light infantry regiment was embarked for an unannounced destination.

The government, it was said, planned to introduce legislation making permanent the emergency ordinances issued several months ago.

Manitoba Road Program

Brandon, Man.—The hard-surfacing road programme is proceeding eastward at the rate of about one mile a day, and the contractors are nearing Chater. The No. 1 highway job between Sydney and Brandon will be completed this fall and if weather conditions hold good. There are some rumors that the governments are contemplating the hard-surfacing of No. 1 highway west to the Saskatchewan boundary, next year.

New Cancer Treatment

Kingston Doctor's Method Is Receiving Attention

Montreal.—A treatment for cancer, in which malignant cells are said to be digested by a method resembling the natural digestive processes of the human body, is described in the Canadian Medical Association Journal by Hendry C. Connell, M.D., of Kingston, Ont.

The Journal, official organ of the Canadian Medical Association, prints also a column editorial stating that Connell's work "cannot be lightly passed by."

His report described 29 human beings, all given up to die of cancer, injected intra-muscularly with his digestive fluid in May, June, July and August, this year.

Two have returned to work apparently well. Four died. The pain of five is completely gone. The pain of nine others is less. In a number of cases the cancerous growths appear smaller.

In about one-third of the cases little change is apparent.

Studying New Proposal

Winnipeg May Decide To Electrify Its Street Signs

Winnipeg.—Having taken a deep breath and blinked its collective eyes, Winnipeg's public utilities committee studied anew a proposal for renovation of city street identification—at a cost of $1,500,000. Although the cost left the committee agape, it did not definitely reject the proposal. The matter was referred to the city engineer for a report.

In brief, it was proposed Winnipeg erect illuminated signs, two to three feet in diameter, at all intersections. Street would be designated by blue lights; avenues by red, the names spelled in light easily visible to pedestrians and motorists.

It was estimated 15,000 to 20,000 intersection standards would need to be erected, at a cost of $100 per installation. An assessment of five cents monthly on every home would take care of the expenditure, the scheme's sponsors claimed, and the publicly-owned hydro system would gain $150,000 annual revenue.

Ship War Materials

United States Reports Munitions Shipped To Italy

Washington.—The government reported that comparatively minor exports of fighting equipment had been shipped from the United States to Italy but listed big shipments of material that goes into its making.

Secretary of State Hull, in whose department the new munitions control board functions, made available figures to show that only about $340,000 in arms, cartridges, aeroplanes and aeroplane engines were shipped up to Sept. 23 this year, of which $336,000 was in aeroplanes and engines.

Commerce department foreign trade figures for August, however, showed near record shipments of cotton linters, useful for explosives; scrap iron and steel; trucks which could carry troops, and tractors convertible into tanks. Most of the trucks went direct to Italian Africa.

Round The World Flight

Clyde Pangborn Contemplates Trip Over Northern Route

Bismarck, N.D.—Clyde Pangborn's contemplated non-stop world flight next fall, he said here, will be a 110-hour trip if all goes well, on a northern route.

"I'll skip Japan this time," he said, recalling two months spent in a Japanese prison in 1931 for flying over a fortified area without official sanction. Pangborn, now on a commercial flight, was en route to New York.

Will Retain Name

Halifax.—In future there can be no further objection, legal or otherwise, to use of the name "Presbyterian Church in Canada", Rev. Dr. Frank Baird of Pictou, N.S., told the maritime synod of the church. Dr. Baird, clerk of the synod, said court decisions had settled the argument, which arose when some Presbyterians entered the United Church of Canada.

ITALY'S DELEGATE

Here is a close-up of Baron Aloisi, Mussolini's delegate at Geneva, who is very much in the news at the present time.

Food Shortage

Enforce Regulations Against Food Hoarding In Germany

Berlin.—The shortage of butter, milk, lard and other basic foodstuffs became acute in Germany as authorities moved to replenish dwindling supplies and enforce regulations against food hoarding.

Long lines of shoppers formed at dairies and butchers' shops demanding milk, lard and other food. Police were stationed at the stores to see rationing regulations were enforced. During the last few days dairies have been rationing food, selling only a quarter of a pound of butter for each family.

The government arranged to import 500 hogs weekly from the Netherlands. A large order for lard also was placed with Dutch dealers. The last farm census showed 22,500,000 hogs in Germany compared with 25,000,000 a year ago.

Ceremony For Hindenburg

Body Of Field Marshal Now In Permanent Resting Place

Berlin.—The body of Former President Paul von Hindenburg has been transferred from a side tower of the Tannenberg memorial in East Prussia to a permanent resting place in the main tower of the great structure erected to commemorate the field marshal's most famous battle. The ceremony was carried out with great military pomp in the presence of Reichsfuehrer Hitler while the day—Von Hindenburg's birthday anniversary—was celebrated throughout the nation.

Not Admitted

Calgary. — Proposal that former soldiers of countries opposed to the Allies during the Great War be admitted to membership in the Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League, has been voted down by the Calgary branch of the legion. The resolution would have given Germans, Austrians and Turkish war veterans full privileges of legion membership.

Co-Operation Is Asked

Election Officers Requested To Send In Results Promptly

Ottawa.—Election officers should do whatever they can to aid The Canadian Press by promptly collecting accurate returns of the Dominion elections on October 14, said Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer.

"Every election officer and particularly every deputy returning officer and poll clerk should do whatever he can to furnish to the Canadian Press, newspapers and their accredited correspondents, as early in the evening as possible, accurate statements of the results of the vote at every polling station," he said.

Mr. Castonguay pointed out that when deputies complete their statements of the result at each polling station the information they contain is public property.

The chief electoral officer continued: "Every deputy and poll clerk as well as every candidate's agent should do what lies in his power to notify the figures to the press and to the candidate's organization with the least possible delay."

The chief electoral officer included in ballot boxes instructions to deputy returning officers to co-operate with the Canadian Press and its accredited correspondents and repeated these instructions to returning officers.

Conspirators In Revolt

Plot To Kill King Of Bulgaria Is Nipped

Sofia, Bulgaria.—Conspirators in a revolt which the government claimed it had nipped, planned to assassinate King Boris III., it was learned upon good authority.

There were no official revelations of details of the plot, that an attack was to have been made on the king as he appeared before his subjects to review a parade in celebration of the anniversary of his accession to the throne. Army officers were among a number of persons arrested.

Marching soldiers were to have been without ammunition, it was understood, and in the confusion following the attack the plotters hoped to take control of the arsenal and public buildings.

At the same time the capital learned of the conspiracy, it received a report from Burgas saying former premier Kimon Gueorguieff was arrested there, the second time he has been in custody this year.

Sofia was under a rule of bayonets with martial law declared throughout the country and the capital itself under a state of siege.

Livestock Men To Vote

Prairie Producers Will Give Decision On Marketing Schemes

Saskatoon, Sask.—Preparations are under way for a vote of livestock producers in Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba on proposed marketing schemes, the vote to be taken during the first week of December, the Saskatchewan livestock pool announces.

At a meeting of the executive from the three prairie provinces with Mr. Leitch, the chairman of the marketing board, held in Regina, it was revealed that details of the schemes for the three provinces were completed. It is understood that the schemes are practically identical except for the application to local conditions.

BRITISH LABORITES RESIGN

Sir Stafford Cripps, left, and Lord Ponsonby, right, who have resigned from the executive committee of the British Labor Party, in protest to the party's approval of the Government's policy in demanding imposition of sanctions against Italy if Ethiopia is attacked.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY IN FAVOR OF SANCTIONS

Brighton, England. — The British Labor party lined up in favor of the use of full League of Nations sanctions, even of a military nature, in the event of Italian aggression in Africa. By a margin of 20 to one the party supported the recent action of the International Trade Union Federation.

The decision of Great Britain's strongest opposition party was taken as press headlines told of the first alleged violation of Ethiopia's frontiers.

The vote, taken by a card ballot at the party's annual conference, showed 2,168,000 for sanctions to 102,000 against.

The vote was greeted with resounding cheers from the convention floor, which had been for a day the scene of a bitter contest by a relay of speakers.

Herbert Morrison, winding up the debate for adherence for the use of sanctions, asserted:

"Military sanctions cannot be ruled out. If they are ruled out you may weaken the power for peace of the league."

Salute From Crown Prince

See Denial Of Rupture With Fascist Movement

Naples.—Crown Prince Umberto emerged at the Italian mobilization as a staunch Fascist.

After listening to Il Duce's stirring speech, thousands of Neapolitans assembled at the royal palace and called for the crown prince. Umberto stepped to a palace balcony and as the throng cheered wildly gave the Fascist salute three times.

The Neapolitans saw in this gesture a final denial of recent reports of a rupture between the crown prince and Il Duce.

Flyers Go To Gibraltar

Thirty Men Added To Royal Air Force Detachment

Gibraltar.—Thirty British flyers have been added to the Royal Air Force detachment stationed here. The flyers arrived on the steamer Kaiser-I-Hind, on which Air Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham also was a passenger. Sir Robert, commander-in-chief of Britain's air defence forces, conferred with flying officers and then left on the same liner for Malta.

Faces Perjury Charge

Drumheller, Alta.—John Shalay of Newcastle, alleged to have falsely sworn he was a British subject when voting in the Alberta election August 22, was remanded for trial at the November sittings of the supreme court when he appeared before Magistrate L. O'Connor on a charge of perjury. He was freed on $2,000 bail.

Jap Officers Poisoned

Okayama, Japan.—The poisoning of more than 300 officers and men and a majority of the 39th infantry regiment, two of whom died, caused the abandonment of the divisional manoeuvres in which the regiment was engaged. The poisoning was attributed to the eating of octopus, considered a delicacy in Japan.

Retire Civil Servants

Edmonton.—Some 32 civil service members who have reached the age limit will be retired immediately, with but few exceptions, Premier Aberhart announced following a cabinet meeting. In a few cases, the officials will remain possibly a month to complete their work.

Investigator Is Stumped

Windsor, Ont.—Ald. O. E. Fleming, delegated over a week ago to investigate working conditions at the Windsor market, is stumped. Everything in the market books is written in Hebrew, said the alderman. Now we need a Hebrew expert.

C. F. HAYES, Editor and Owner

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, OCT. 11

HOME BREW

The story is told of the small boy just back from the Sunday school picnic being asked by his chum (who didn't go to the same church) as to how the thing came off, and received the reply that the day was a disappointment; there wasn't a black eye in the crowd until way after five o'clock. The story very aptly illustrates the present federal election situation in this district The oldest oldtimer cannot recall any previous campaign where so little interest has been manifest by the rank and file of all the parties, and an equal lack of pep in those who, in the past, have been active in directing affairs. This section however, does not appear to be any exception to the rule, if one may judge by the weekly papers. But while there is little outward and visible sign of interest it should not be assumed the average voter is not taking the matter seriously, and so much so in Yale that the Penticton Herald rises to remark, "that a great many people do not know today how they are going to vote on the 14th. and most of them will not make up their minds until they are in the polling booth."

Of course there is an exception to every rule, and in Kootenay East this is provided at Fernie where the Free Press in its last issue devoted all the space available on the front page to warn all and sundry against a bold attempt that it imagines is being made to defeat Hon. H. H. Stevens. According to the Free Press the Liberals, C.C.F. and Social Credit candidates are an unholy trinity whose sole and only object is "anything to beat Stevens." To local Liberals, at any rate, the Free Press' outburst is extremely amusing but may not be treated so lightly by the C.C.F. and Social Credit followers who are accused of being financed through the "big interest" to stay in the field and thus split the vote to such an extent that the return of Hon. H. H. Stevens becomes rather doubtful. It is very fortunate the campaign terminates at the end of the week. Were it to last much longer and the Free Press continue at its present high pressure we would greatly fear for the future mental well being of the otherwise level headed editor of the Free Press.

Residents on the lower side of the village, particularly, are wondering what's coming up with the C.P.R. which has still further disfigured the station property last week by cutting dowh some of the shade trees and removing the wire fence that formerly enclosed the modarate strip of lawn on the north side of the depot. Some three years ago about 100 feet of plank platform on the same side was done away with and a most unsightly fill of cinders put in to replace it. Considering the effort most other residents put forth to improve appearances of things around their business and residential properties in order to make the village the more presentable, it is hard to understand the absolute lack of consideration in this regard the big railway company accords Creston which is the best paying station on the Crow line, and a point where there is every expectation of revenues increasing.

The optimism papers in the fruit districts have been exhibiting in connection with the export market has come somewhat suddenly to an end—temporarily, at least. Although the abnormally light Btitish crop was still further reduced due to windstorms, anticpating good returns American exporters, particularly, have shipped very heavily, and with all rushing in a depressed market has ensued. And to aggrevate the situation it is stated British growers have been allowed to place the windfall apples on the market, taking whatever they coud get, and this has still further upset prices. The situation particularly concerns the Okanagan where this year they have large quantities of small size Jonathans that must go to export.

With announcement that Park pavilion will be ready for basketball by the middle of the month followers of the sport are getting curious to know just what progress has been made in arranging things to, if possidle, have Wynndel represented. From the outside it would seem as if both the executive and Wynndel are sitting tight, and doubtless both can put forward splendid arguments as to why it is up to the other fellow to make the first move, but that sort of thing isn't getting anywhere. To bring the matter to a head the league executive would be well advised to submit Wynndel the best possible offer it can make with a date for either accepting or rejecting. With a possible opening night just a week off there is no time to lose.

Sirdar

Baled hay from the flats is being hauled to Boswell by truck.

Daisy Rogers is at present a visitor with friends in Cranbrook.

Ed. Fabio was a business visitor to Nelson a few days this week.

Mrs. Talarico has as her guest for a few days Mrs. Romano of Cranbrook.

Domonic Lombardo was a business visitor to Cranbrook during the week.

Mr. Santo, along with Annie and Rosie Pascuzzo, were visitors to Creston on Friday.

Frank Lombardo has left for Trail where he will spend a few days with friends.

Gus Rochow of Kootenay Landing left on Sunday mornings train for Nelson on business

Tony Morabito of Creston is employed with a truck on the tie haul from the Moore Mill.

Arthur French of Creston is in charge of the cook house for the bridge crew at Boulder Creek.

Mrs. J. Talarico and daughter, Sylvia, were visitors to Creston on Monday. J. S. Wilson and son, Charles, were motor visitors to Creston at the first of the week.

Charles Lombardo, who has been spending a holiday at Tye, returned to his home here on Monday.

The Cherbo truck has been engaged all week hauling black soil from the Borosoto ranch on the flats to Sirdar.

Mr. Moncrieffe, contractor, was a business visitor to Atbara on Friday, proceeding later on by car to Trail.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cam of Nelson, who have been spending a few days at Sirdar, returned to Nelson, Saturday.

For the first time in many years the bottom is shown in places in the slough, denoting the exceptionally low state of the water.

A. Webb and son, John, who have been spending a vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Wilson have left for their home in Calgary.

An important land deal is reported in the disposal of the C. Neil Ranch near Kuskanook. The purchaser is a new comer from Montana.

George Cady of Nelson, accompanied by Mr. Moore, C.P.R. tie inspector, were here looking over tie loading operations at the Quarry siding.

Lorne Craig and Clarence Wilson were at Atbara with their trucks on Friday. Both are engaged hauling square timbers from Twin Bays to Creston.

The water as indicated by guage at Slough bridge reads 1.80, a fall of .60 for the week. The continuous hot spell is lowering the water at quite a rate.

George Sukeroff of Nelson was a business visitor to Atbara on Wednesday morning and expects to start up operations on a new timber limit shortly.

The bridge crew under Mr. McMaster has now taken up residence at Boulder Creek. This crew will be engaged on the steel work on the new bridge there.

A pigeon race from here to Kimberley slated for Sunday had to be postponed owing to a heavy pall of smoke hanging over the valley for several days past.

William Mackie of Boswell was here on Friday looking over the siding with a view to loading the Boswell apple crop from this point. He reports the crop a good one.

Mrs. J. S. Wilson, who has been visiting her daughters in Nelson and Okanagan Centre, returned on Tuesday bringing as her guests her little grandaughters from Nelson.

Those attending the show at the Grand Theatre, Creston, Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. J. Pascuzzo, Chas. Wilson, George Everal, F. Hamilton, Domonic Pascuzzo, Gino Bugara and Gus Rochow.

Fred Browell and party are hunting over the flats this week, many sportsmen from outside points are also enjoying good sport. The weather is rather too fine at present for good bags, although ducks and geese are plentiful.

The children in grade seven here have brought out the first edition of their school paper, the "Sirdar News." The set up and news contained therein reflects the greatest of credit on the children in their efforts to gain funds for a good cause.

A moose is reported to have been seen between Kuskanook and Atbara on several occassiods by several people, and was seen to swim the slough and make across the flats to Kootenay Landing. It is hoped that hunters will not bother the visitor.

Buys Dyked Lands

Bonners Ferry Herald: A deal was consummated this week whereby Frank Moens leased his 590 acre ranch in Drainage No. 10 to Farnam and George, F. McGlocklin for a five year term, immediate possession being given. Mr. Moens has recently contracted to purchase a tract of 320 acres of the Creston, B.C. reclamation project, embodying some 8,000 acres. The dyke work of the new district was completed this summer. He is moving his Diesel caterpillar to Caeston and plans to begin plowing this week. The Moens ranch in Drainage District No. 10 is one of the finest bottom land ranches in the district and in past years has produced record crops of wheat.

Miss Mellicrew is smiling again

Miss Nelly Mellicrew is a young lady who likes to "go places and do things."

During the time that there was no telephone in her home, because her parents thought they could get along without one, Miss Mellicrew was a very unhappy person. This was because most invitations come by telephone nowadays.

But Miss Mellicrew is smiling now, because there's a telephone in her home once more.

As this young lady pointed out to her parents:

"People without a telephone miss many pleasant evenings."

How About Wynndel

Editor Review:

Sir,—Might I have a little space this week for a matter which, I think, an expression of viewpoint may be of benefit to the cause of basketball.

It seems that Creston is rather anxious to have Wynndel in its basketball league the claim being more interest in the league and, of course, that means gate receipts.

I have also heard a little of the Wynndel side of the matter, obtained chiefly by questioning. Wynndel is operating its own league this year, with the aim of developing basketball and basketball players in Wynndel district. They had not worried greatly about Creston league until the subject was recently broached to them.

It seems that last year Wynndel club ended with a heavy deficit and were this year bent on clearing their debt by remaining out of the league, as last year transportation to Creston was a very big item of expense. The only way they could get Creston teams to Wynndel for exhibition games was by offering a (good time) dance and eats. Considering this I can readily see along the same lines as Wynndel players, and believe that were they to join the Creston league they should be given home and home league games so that they could have the chance on making the odd penny. It would be to the benefit of both places, as we need one another to get along. and the purpose of sport is friendship, not hostility. It certainly would not be very fair to Wynndel supporters to have a team in the league, yet not be able to see them at a home game. Could one call it a Wynndel team in such a case, and could they expect home support, so necessary for athletic success.

In Creston I hear where they offered to give Wynndel exhibition games at Wynndel in return for a league entry. Well, I am rather inclined to think, as I hear a Wynndelite express himself, "If we are not good enough for home and home games, we are not worth playing."

I sincerely hope that some of our sport enthusiasts will consider the matter and let us hear their views on the subject, even although my leanings are toward Wynndel.

TO THE . . .

ELECTORS OF EAST KOOTENAY

In view of the fact that I have such tremendous territory to cover throughout Canada I regret that I will be unable to return to East Kootenay before the election and meet you personally.

I have during the last five years endeavored to help you to the best of my ability, giving assistance to individuals, municipalities and Boards of Trade. The well being of those I had the honor to represent has always been foremost in my mind.

As you are aware I left the Conservative party because they would not go far enough in helping the workers, farmers and small businessmen of Canada, and it is to that task that I will devote myself during the coming years.

I have been asked by many constituencies in Canada to represent them, but I feel keenly my duty to East Kootenay and I respectfully ask your wholehearted support on October 14th.

Yours faithfully,

H. H. STEVENS.

Vernon and Kelowna auto owners are now buying gasoline at 36 cents a gallon.

Up to October 1st the Okanagan has sold 25 per cent. of its 1935 crop of McIntosh Reds.

In Drainage District No. 10, at Porthill, winter wheat has averaged4 5 bushels to the acre.

The parade of prize winning livestock at Armstrong fair last week was half a mile long.

For the first time over a considerable period there were no birds in Penticton jail one day last week

The Okanagan has about 40,000 boxes of Wealthies unsold. 30,000 of them are at Salmon Arm.

The Vernon News states that the Jonathan crop this year will be almost exclusively in the export sizes.

Capt. J. S. Blakely made the trip by plane from Radium to Cranbrook in 20 minutes one day last week.

After being closed for five weeks due an outbreak of infantile paralysis schools at Rossland reopened on Monday.

According to the Herald September was very dry at Bonners Ferry. The rainfall for the month was .15 inches.

Business at the tourist park at Cranbrook this year was so good that it was kept open two weeks longer than in 1934.

The Bulcan cannery at Vernon put up 16 per cent. less tomatoes this year. For the province the decrease is 25 per cent.

J. W. Gregory at Rossland has a plum, crabapple and Red Astrachan apple tree that has had a fruit crop for 30 years.

Bonners Ferry hears that the road between Porthill and Creston is to be widened to 40 feet, after which it will be oiled.

Bobbie Corrie Meets Sad Death

Young Son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Corrie Victim of Tragedy While Visiting Grandparents at Michel.

Death came suddenly to Bobbie, the 21-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Corrie of Creston on Sunday afternoon. The sad fatality occurred at Michel, where he was visiting with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A Corrie, his life being taken when the little fellow accidentally fell into a defect ive drain in the yard of a neighbor.

His grandmother had taken the little boy over to play in the yard and unknown to her a box had been placed over the broken drain. In the course of their play the child happened to move the box and instantly disappeared. Mrs. Corrie's cries for help immediatdely brought passersby to the scene but it was of no avail. The narrow 10-inch opening leading into the six-foot drain or tank made it impos ible to get down into the drain. The body was brought to the surface within about ten minutes time but it was found that life was extinct.

The body was brought to Creston and the funeral took place on Wednesday from Trinity United Church with Rev. A. H. Walker officiating, and the pallbearers were George Dodd, Arthur Dodd, Richard Avery and Desmond Truscott, and the esteem in which the parents and grandparentr are held was shown in the many out to pay their last respects and beautiful floral remembrances. "Bobbie" was a bright and lovable child and his taking at such a tender age under such sad circumstances evokes the deepest sympathy of a wide circle of friends for the parents and other bereaved ones.

A MAN IS KNOWN BY THE COMPANY HE KEEPS

Rub your eyes, then read it again—and don't forget it is from the Conservative Calgary Daily Herald.

Hon. H. H. Stevens has accorded "full endorsation" to the nine United Farmer members who are seeking re-election in Alberta.

Note particularly "Hon. H. H. Stevens has considered the splendid fight put up by the U.F. members for the past 14 years on behalf of the people."

And who are THE PEOPLE?

Surely the men and women who have converted the stump lands of Creston Valley into B.C.'s finest orchard district can lay some claim to consideration when roll call is sounded for the people.

And what is the "splendid fight" put up by these U.F. members?

Ever hear of a single one of them urging protection for the fruit industry, or any other Canadian industry?

Never a kindly word of the sort ever escaped their lips. They are 100 per cent. free trade in all commodities.

To show their contempt for B.C. fruit it is well known that in at least one of the prosperous post war years U.F.A. Co-Ops. brought in American fruit and paid the duty on it to give a practical expression of their hatred for the protected B.C. orchard product.

And to show their special contempt for Creston Valley fruit the annual U.F.A. convention at Edmonton, in 1919, refused to accept a presentation lot of 20 boxes of apples sent the convention dinner with the compliments of Creston Board of Trade.

And these are the legislators Hon. H. H. Stevens has given his "full endorsation for the splendid fight put up for the past 14 years."

And these U.F.A. candidates "have pledged their support to his (Stevens) Platform"—meaning Mr. Stevens has made a mutually satisfactory bargain with the U.F. free trade group.

Knowing Mr. Stevens is definitely commited to a policy of tariff reduction, and recalling that in his address at Creston, on August 9th, he ommitted any mention of the tariff what do you suppose he has offered these U F.A. members to secure their support? In view of his great silence here on the all-important matter of protection do you suppose the orchard industry is safe.

Contrast this evasion by Mr. Stevens with the very frank statement of Hon. R. B. Bennett, when he spoke here in August 1929, on which occasion the premier devoted fully 20 per cent. of his time to telling of the protection he intended to give the orchardists.

To put it mildly, Mr. Stevens is travelling in bad company and has forfeited any claim to support from those engaged in the orchard industry.

A man is known by the company he keeps.

STEVENS SUPPORTS U.F.A. CANDIDATES IN RURAL ALBERTA

Calgary Herald, Sept. 30, 1935.

Alberta members to the last Dominion parliament elected on a United Farmer ticket and aspiring to resume their seats again, enter the last two weeks of the election campaign bearing full endorsation of the Hon. H. H. Stevens and his Reconstruction party.

In a statement to the Herald today, James L. Acker, chief organizer for the party, speaking for his leader, indicated the Stevens stand in regard to rural ridings in Alberta. The endorsation extends to the U.F.A. members who for 14 years have sponsored the people's cause and supported Mr. Stevens in the last session.

The statement from Reconstruction headquarters in Calgary said:

"It is the policy of the Reconstruction party to place a candidate in every constituency where circumstances permit.

"With regard to Alberta, the Hon. H. H. Stevens has considered that the splendid fight put up by the U.F.A. members for the past 14 years in behalf of the people, and in view of the splendid support he has received during the last session of parliament from these members, he feels it would be inadvisable to place candidates of the Reconstruction party in opposition to these members. Particularly, in view of the fact that these candidates have pledged their support to his platform, and their hearty co-operation in giving effect to his legislative program when he is returned to power.

"On this basis the Reconstruction party in this province is prepared to endorse these candidates and urge upon the electorate to support them at the polls."

Discover Old Catacombs

Excavators In Poland Find Grim Relics Of Polish Revolt

Grim relics of the unsuccessful Polish revolt against Russian rule in 1863 have been found in a monastery at Vilna. Legend has always related that Vilna was honeycombed with underground passages, and recently researches were undertaken to find them. After several days' work tapping the floor of the 16th century Dominican convent the excavators found an underground passage beginning near the altar steps. Below was the old Dominican cemetery. Rows and rows of defunct monks lay in open coffins on slabs. In an adjoining chamber a ghastly sight greeted the explorers. Piled on each other in heaps were bodies of men, women and children, not decomposed, owing to lack of air. They were the remains of rebels who had hidden in the catacombs, been found and massacred by the Russians, and left where they had fallen.

China's Women Pirates

Terror Stricken Travellers Found They Were A Reality

China's women pirates, seldom seen but famous in song and story along the South China coast, were a grim reality to 300 terror stricken Chinese travellers who arrived at Amoy aboard the coastal steamer Lokiang. They and the ship were in the hands of two female buccaneers and 40 male subordinates for four days. The passengers and ship were robbed of $250,000 in cash and silver bars, and the pirates, after killing one passenger and wounding three, escaped in a small boat to a pirate stronghold. The victims said the female chieftains were a strange mixture of merciless outlaw and sentimental womanhood. Before escaping to shore they gave a brother of the slain passenger $70 "to provide a funeral" and $2.50 to each passenger "for transportation."

Praises Men In North

Well Worth Working For States Bishop Of The Arctic

Arctic citizens, white and native, of Canada are decent, law-abiding people, well worth working for, Right Rev A. L. Fleming, Bishop of the Arctic, a former rector of Saint John, N.B., said on his arrival in Winnipeg from the East over Canadian National Railways.

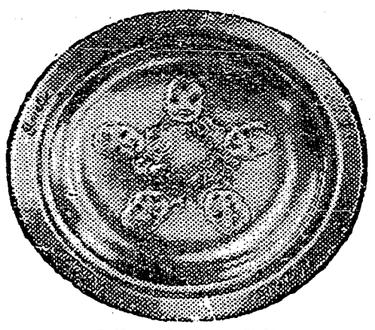
"I have a great admiration for the white man of the North," Bishop Fleming said, "not because he is a religious man. Some of them are. Many are not. But because he is a real man, facing hardships with courage."

The health of the Eskimo, due to a combination of causes, is better than it was. In the first place, missionaries, the Hudson's Bay Company, or the R.C.M.P., were all able to give out destitute rations in time of epidemic or shortage of food, and the Dominion Government would refund the expenditure. In the old days the natives simply died without care. Increase of hospitalization and better medical superintendance gave the natives a better chance at healthy survival. Trading and police post staffs had some knowledge of medicine which was available to the sufferer, where there was no hospital.

In Bishop Fleming's diocese, which includes all of Canada within the Arctic circle and dips down to the 54th parallel at Fort George, two hospitals are operated under his supervision, one at Pangnirtung, Baffin Land, and the other at Aklavik, at the mouth of the MacKenzie River.

Eskimo youth graduating from mission schools were being absorbed into the growing life of the North. But they "must be trained in the North," said Dr. Fleming. He told of boys from the Anglican residential school at Shingle Point, Mackenzie River, being taken on as apprentices in herding the reindeer recently brought to that part of the country. He saw a future for Eskimos in this work.

Dionne Quintuplets Bowl



Offered As Gift

A surprise gift offer which will interest every parent, every child and, in fact, everyone who has ever heard of the world-famous Dionne Quintuplets, has been announced. The article offered is a cereal bowl created in honour of the five little sisters and called the Dionne Quintuplets Birthday Bowl. Made of shining lifetime smartly designed in modern lines, and chronium, it is six inches in diameter, embossed inside with a charming sculpture of the "Quints". On the rim are engraved the names of the babies — Emilie, Annette, Marie, Yvonne, and Cecile. Besides being an ideal cereal bowl for a child, it makes a distinctive olive and celery dish or bon-bon dish.

Readers can obtain this delightful gift by sending two trade-marks from packages of Quaker Oats, plus fifteen cents to help cover postage and handling charges, to the Quaker Oats Company, Saskatoon, Sask.

Iron Jewelry Once Prized

Other Metals Replaced By New Discovery In 500 B.C.

Iron jewelry—not gold gems or diamonds—was most prized by the women between the Mycenean period and 500 years before Christ, Professor T. Leslie Shear, archaeologist of Princeton University, has discovered. In his excavations in the Athenian Agora or market place, Dr. Shear has unearthed many bodies of women bearing ornaments of iron, including necklaces, rings and bracelets. Dr. Shear's explanation is that iron had just been discovered about that time and replaced in vogue among the women ornaments of gold, bronze, copper and other metals.

Italian Soldiers Deserting

Hundreds Have No Desire To Fight In Africa

Ludwig Loring, in the New York Post says Italian soldiers are deserting to Switzerland, France and Yugoslavia by the hundreds. They have no desire to give their lives for their Fascist fatherland, preferring the uncertainties of a refugee's existence to the certainty of disease and death which awaits those who go to Africa at the Duce's command.

Nuovo Avanti (Paris) publishes interviews with a number of these deserters. "The troops leaving for Africa," says one, "have no faith in the Government's optimistic reports. The Government may deny that disease is ravaging the expeditionary forces. The soldiers know better. You will find a strong anti-war sentiment even among the Fascist faithful. In Milan I was given a leaflet urging young men of Italy to flee, to refuse to go to war. In one district, (Roverto) every soldier with whom I spoke was either indifferent or positively opposed to war. If running away were not a matter of money, hundreds of thousands would have made their way across the borders to evade conscription. . . ."

India Becoming Richer

Research Shows Standard Of Living Is Also Higher

India is growing richer rapidly, according to researches made by B. B. Sen, I.C.S., of Bombay, who has been Press Officer to the Government of Bengal The Government has just published his brochure in which he argues that the higher standard of living can be seen from the increase in the consumption of a large amount of articles imported from foreign countries as well as those of local production. The per capita consumption of cotton cloth in the beginning of the twentieth century was only 8.39 yards; it has now risen to 12.11 yards, an increase of over 50 per cent. He also points out that, while the average income has risen from 20 rupees in 1871 to 107 rupees in 1921, the rise in prices during this period has roughly been two and a half times. This shows, he says, that the real income of the mass of the people has been doubled.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

ISAIAH PORTRAYS THE SUFFERING SERVANT

Golden text: With his stripes we are healed. Isaiah 53:5.

Lesson: Isaiah 52:13 to 53:12; John 19:17-37.

Devotional Reading: Revelation 5:9-14.

Explanations And Comments

The Servant of Jehovah a Man of Sorrows, verses 1-3. Who is meant by the term ,the servant of Jehovah? Incidental allusions to the Servant of Jehovah are scattered throughout the second part of the Book of Isaiah, but the main passages are these: 41: 8-20; 42:1-7, 18-25; 43:5-10; 49:1-9; 50:4-10; 52:13 to 54:12. What was the conception in the mind of the prophet? Was the Servant a personification, or a person? If a personification, was he the Israelitish nation as a whole, or the best portion of that nation—the righteous nucleus? The exiles in Babylon, or that part who remained loyal to Jehovah throughout all the trials of the Exile and thus kept alive the true religion? If a person, was he ideal, or real? A prophet, or Hezekiah, or Jehoiachim? Or was he one still to come, the promised Messiah?

The Vicarious Suffering of the Servant of Jehovah, verses 4-6. It has been the burdens of others, not his own, that the Servant has suffered; yet we thought that he was stricken, smitten and afflicted by the hand of God because of his own sins, whereas his sufferings were caused by the burden of others that he was carrying—our transgressions, our iniquities. In the ancient world a great sufferer was thought to be a great sinner. Recall how the friends of Job repeatedly declared or hinted that his grievous sufferings were sent because of some hidden sin of his in the past; and how Jesus protested against the assertion that the men on whom a tower fell were sinners more than most men, Luke 13:1-5.

Arabs Form First Parliament

Nomads Of Near East Select Sheik As President

That the Bedouins, the Arab nomads of the Near East, have formed their first "Parliament," has been reported from Cairo, Egypt. Delegates from 75 Bedouin tribes, representing 1,000,000 Bedouins of Egypt, met under the presidency of Sheik El Arab S. E. Hamad El Bassel Pasha. They formed a committee to deal with such questions as the development of compulsory education among Egyptian Bedouins, protection of the rights held by Bedouins, the preservation and maintenance of Bedouin customs, and contribution to the development of intellectual intercourse between the Bedouins of Egypt and those of Arab countries.

A Colony Of Forgotten People

Families From Southern States Live In Amazon Jungle

The discovery in the Amazon jungle of a colony of "forgotten" people, descendants of aristocratic Southern families who migrated, by Dr. W. H. Haas, lecturer and Professor of Geology at Northwestern University, Chicago. Dr. Haas came upon the colony during one of his exploration trips up the Amazon. The colony is named Santerin, and is situated on the banks of the Tapa Jos River, a tributary of the Amazon. The settlement, Dr. Haas said, is 600 miles inland from the ocean. In the tiny village of about 300 people, Dr. Haas met a woman who had moved to the tropics immediately after the war between the States. "She was living in the past," he declared. "As I talked with her she seemed to forget her bedraggled clothes, her bare feet and her primitive surroundings. She recalled her father's extensive plantation back in Alabama, with slaves singing and working in the cotton fields." She told Dr. Haas that a number of Southern families, who were dissatisfied when their slaves were freed as a result of the war, moved to the Amazon basin, where slavery was permitted and where they hoped to begin life anew. But the hopes of these plantation owners were soon blasted. The moist climate was not fit for growing cotton and there was no market for other products. In the midst of dense forests and located so far from civilization, they could not make contact with prospective buyers. Many of the younger Southerners, dissatisfied with the poverty and ignorance of the village life, returned to the United States. The others remained to eke out an existence by growing pumpkins, cocoa and beans.

New Optical Apparatus

Instrument Just Produced Makes It Possible To See Heat

For a long time the electrical industry has been troubled on account of the heat generated by an electric-light bulb tending to rot the flex which suspends it. In consequence, the British Electrical and Allied Industry Research Association asked three young London scientists to find a remedy.

These scientists have been at work for nearly three years and have produced an optical apparatus which makes it possible to see heat. Looking at a suspended electric-light bulb through the instrument, one can see heat like smoke licking round the flex, just above the bulb.

The apparatus can also be put to other useful purposes, for instance, finding the best methods of heating and ventilating rooms, theatres or factories. With a small model of a room one can see the draughts and paths of heat.

A test made with a heated rod makes it look like a flaming brand. Even an outwardly cold hand placed against the instrument appears to be on fire, and one's breath, even in a well-warmed room, looks like a jet of tobacco smoke.

The Safety in Mines Research Board are already using the device for discovering the force and effects of explosives.

Resent Competition

Professional Beggars In Paris Want Protection Against Amateurs

Unfair competition is claimed by Paris beggars. With the approach of the tourist season, the official newspaper of French beggars—Le Journal des Mendigots—published a vigorous editorial calling on all professional charity-seekers to defend their interests against amateurs. This newspaper, which has a tremendous circulation among mendicants, points out that non-professional beggars are trying to crash the beats reserved for professionals. It demands that a united stand be made by all self-respecting members of beggardom against these "enterprising upstarts."

An Oxford don says that he has kept statistics for years and finds that no red-headed man or woman ever won a first in history at the university. If this is how he occupied his time it is surprising that anybody got a first, or even a pass.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR FIRST, MOTHER

Before You Give Your Child an Unknown Remedy to Take

Every day, unthinkingly, mothers take the advice of unqualified persons — instead of their doctors' — on remedies for their children.

If they knew what the scientists know, they would never take this chance.

Doctors Say PHILLIPS' For Your Child

When it comes to the frequently-used "milk of magnesia," doctors, for over 50 years, have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia — the safe remedy for your child."

Remember this — And Always Say "Phillips'" When You Buy. Your child deserves it; for your own peace of mind, see that you get it — Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Also in Tablet Form:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge.

Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nance writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adam boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Jack Nelson, Matthew Adam, and Nance go to the prairie home of Matthews' uncle for the ride, and after Nance and Jack leave for home, they are caught in a blizzard. Blinded by the swirling snow they collide with a bus full of school children, which was stalled across the road with its back wheels resting in a snow-filled gully. Their car being wrecked, Jack and Nancy stay with the children and do all they can to help. The next morning Jack sets out for help in the blizzard.

Now Go On With The Story

Tom Osgood, stripped to his overalls and cotton shirt, was putting his clothes on the boy who had given up Jack's coat. Without Tom's help, Nance told herself, she could not endure much longer. That boy was a hero! How many times had she seen him, when on the brink of dozing, pull himself together valiantly to help the younger ones. Why, he was drowsy now, poor darling! His task accomplished, he had slumped onto that huddled mass upon the floor. Oh, he mustn't go under! Not brave little Tom Osgood! Nancy dragged herself up, shaking the boy with all her failing strength.

"Wake up, Tommy! I need you! We must help these children. Don't go to sleep, Tom. . . . Keep fighting . . . fighting. . . ."

An hour later when the bus door snapped opened and Matthew Adam, his uncle, and two grim-faced fathers stepped fearfully inside, Nancy's fur coat was covering a mound of children, while the girl herself, almost too spent to realize that help had come, sat on the floor amid a drift of snow with only a child's thin sweater covering her thin silk underwear, nodding, nodding, as she rubbed mechanically at a small boy's frozen feet.

CHAPTER XIX.

Such events are "news" to the Associated Press. On the morning after that momentous blizzard James Nelson arose early, for Margaret was convalescing from an attack of flu, and the woman who had been coming in to help was also ill. Hence it devolved on Dad to get the family breakfast; but before beginning this unaccustomed duty he stopped to take in his morning paper.

Spring had come early to Edgemere. The air, James noticed, was almost balmy. He had a melodious whistle, and Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" was on his lips when, suddenly realizing that time was fleeting, he turned toward the kitchen.

"Hello, there!" greeted Phil on his way downstairs; and smiling, James tossed him the paper without looking at it.

"Take that up to your mother, Phil. She may like to glance at the news before I go. But come right back, sonny. I need a cook's assistant! And ask how much coffee I ought to use."

Margaret looked up happily as the boy entered her room.

"It's good to hear Dad's whistle, isn't it?" she said, recalling the long months when that cheerful sound was silenced. "I feel like a slacker lying here while he turns cook; but the doctor says I'm not to stir for another week. Thank goodness Aunt Louise will be out to-night! Don't stop to read the paper, Phil; and tell your father a heaping tablespoon—"

"Look here!" The small boy's eyes were bright with interest. "There's been a'nawful blizzard in Colorado! I wonder if it was near Cousin Columbine's."

Margaret reached for the paper, continuing almost automatically: "A heaping tablespoonful to every cup, Phil." Then as he ran to join his father, her eyes fell on these arresting headlines:

"TERRIFIC BLIZZARD SWEEPS COLORADO PLAINS. BUS FULL OF SCHOOL CHILDREN SAVED BY TWO YOUNG PEOPLE AFTER THE DRIVER, GOING IN SEARCH OF HELP, BECAME CONFUSED AND DIED IN THE STORM.

"Denver, Colo., March 27th. (AP) A story of heroism and self-sacrifice was enacted yesterday afternoon in a school bus stalled on the Colorado prairies, when Nancy Nelson, nineteen, popular sub-deb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Nelson of Boston and cousin of Miss Columbine Nelson, pioneer resident of Pine Ridge, Colorado, stripped to her underwear in order to put her clothes on children who were freezing to death before her eyes; while her brother Jack, seventeen, facing the storm in hope of bringing help, succeeded in reaching a distant ranch where he collapsed after giving news of the whereabouts of the missing bus. Without the heroic action of these two young people, sixteen children would undoubtedly have perished. Frantic parents—"

Margaret read no further because her hands were shaking so that she could not see the type; but she managed to call, a call that somehow startled her husband; and at that very moment the front door bell rang.

John set the coffee pot on the stove, and said: "You answer that bell, son. I'll see what Mother wants."

Margaret was lying back against the pillows, her face colorless. One hand still clutched the paper, and a limp gesture told her husband he was to read it. He sat on the bed, and, strangely, his daughters' name stared up at him as he took the sheet, even before he saw the headlines.

". . . Nancy Nelson . . . stripped to her underwear . . . brother Jack . . . collapsed. . . ."

"It's a telegram!" cried Phil, bursting into the room in great excitement. "Maybe it's from Cousin Columbine asking me to visit her. Open it quick, won't you? Why—what's the matter? Is Mother sick again? Gee! there's the telephone. What'd it have to ring for now?"

As he sped away, his father stared down at the yellow envelope. For a moment it seemed as if he could not face its contents. Then, bracing himself inwardly, he tore it open, eyes seeking the signature before he read:

DON'T BE UNDULY ALARMED BY REPORTS IN PAPERS STOP BOTH WILL HAVE BEST OF CARE AT HOSPITAL STOP JACK MAKING GOOD FIGHT AGAINST PNEUMONIA AND ALL POSSIBLE BEING DONE STOP TELEGRAPH IF COMING STOP WILL WIRE AGAIN AT NOON AFTER TALKING WITH DOCTOR STOP AM PROUD OF OUR CHILDREN COLUMBINE NELSON.

Margaret, watching his tense face, cried out: "Is—is it—"

"Not that!" James broke in quickly. "Not that, dear!" and read the message, his voice trembling. Then the small boy was back, calling as he ran up the stairs: "It's Aunt Lou on the telephone. She wants you, Dad. Where's that telegram? Was it—"

When James returned five minutes later there was a bit more color in Margaret's face, and Phil, avidly perusing the story, lifted his head from the newspaper to exclaim. "Gee, Daddy! Jack wasn't wearing any socks! He'd put 'em on a little feller that was freezing. And Nance had given her stockings to some one too, and her dress'n her fur coat and everything. She had one o' the kid's sweaters over her slip. She got unconscious soon as they found 'em. One of those Adam fellers got there first. They'd been to his uncle's ranch and got caught in the blizzard on the way home and collided with that bus. It says they showed un—unbelievable heroism; and the driver was found a mile off the road under a snowdrift. Nancy's legs are frozen to—"

He ceased abruptly at a warning glance from his father.

"That's enough now, Phil. Louise had seen the paper, Margaret, and was rather worked up—for Louise. Another teacher will take her classes and she'll catch an early train out here. I'll stay until she comes, dear. She asked if we were going to Colorado, but—"

"I—I feel as if I must, Jim," said Margaret weakly. "If Jack has pneumonia he—he's grown so fast that—"

"The last letter said he'd gained twelve pounds," the little boy reminded them, "and Nancy said he'd never looked so husky."

"I know, but . . ."

Her lips trembled, and James interrupted: "I understand how you feel, Margaret; but it's impossible for you to travel now. This flu's so treacherous if one gets up too soon. But I'll drop everything and go myself unless the next telegram is reassuring. I promise that."

"Is pneumonia a very bad thing to have?" questioned Phil soberly.

"Pretty bad," Dad answered, thinking that should Jack not weather it his mother could scarcely reach him in any case. "Now close your eyes, Margaret, and I'll bring some coffee. You'll feel stronger when you've had something to eat."

Louise Nelson said afterwards that she spent that entire day answering telephone and door bells. The news spread fast; and friends and neighbors responded anxiously. A number of Nancy's schoolmates called up from town, as well as some of the far-famed "boy friends." There were calls from Exeter asking if Jack was as badly off as the papers intimated; and it seemed to the distracted woman that she had no time in which to cheer the invalid.

Cousin Columbine was better than her word, the second message arriving almost an hour before promised. Louise called her brother's office and read it to him.

"It's addressed to you, Jim: She says: 'Doctor thinks things look rather better, and considering how far away you are, advises you not to start immediately. Jack doing as well as can be expected. Nancy suffering greatly but her courage is good and will increase as weakness wears away. Letter follows this, but will write and wire daily for the present. Shall stay near Glockner Hospital so address me there'."

"Then Dad won't go?" asked Phil, hovering near as his aunt telephoned.

She shook her head.

"Are they both better?"

Aunt Louise nodded because speech came hard. The message was hopeful, yet she seemed to read something between the lines. Pneumonia, she thought, sometimes travels faster than a railroad train. Was that why the doctor advised Jack's parents not to come?
