Co-Op. Picnic is Largely Attended

Gala Day for Youngsters with Races—Free Ice Cream and Lemonade—Annual Outing is Popular and Here to Stay.

Customers and friends of Creston Valley Co-Operative Association from all points in the Valley turned out in large numbers for the annual picnic which was held at the second bend of the Goat River on Wednesday. For those without transport cars in abundance were provided from the stores at Creston and Erickson and this service was quite generously patronized.

Everyone came with the well filled baskets and after the noon spread a committee comprsed of Mersrs. H. Young, T. Goodwin, W. J. Truscott and J. M. Craigie took charge of a great array of races and other athletic features, at which the winners were:

The site chosen provides an abundance of shade and fairly good bathing facilities and this latter feature was much enjoyed. By unanimous vote of the ladies Teddy Haskins and Ern. Penson were chosen to handle the tea and coffee urns and they certainly provided an excellent brew both in quantity and quality. In addition there was no end to the supply of free lemonade and ice cream, with which latter the youngsters, particularly, cooperated a full 100 per cent.

The Co-Op. picnic has now firmly established itself as one of the few outstanding events in the community and the good time dispensed this year was fully np to the standard of any of its predecessors.

Council Discusses Highway Matters

Buying Ton Calcium Chloride to Abate Dust Nuisance—Government Refuses Help Repair Canyon Street Rock Road.

Highways were much in the limelight at the August session of the village commissioners Monday night at which all councillors were present, and the chairman, F. H. Jackson, presiding.

The subject came to the fore in the corespondedca in which the department of public works apologized for the admitedly poor condition of the North and South highway but said improvement was out of the question while the Winlaw firm continued operating their sawmill three miles east of town.

In reply to a request from the commissioners that the department rip up and repair the hard surfaee road on Canyon street from the postoffice to the Presbyterian Church, the council was informed that there was no appropriation for this work, which is estimated to cost $900—of which the village pays 25 per cent.—and that nothing could be done this season. The clerk will again write the district engineer asking for reconsideration and urging immedicte action before more of the hard surface road machinery is shipped from here.

A letter was read from Nelson council stating that the city had found calcium chloride most effective in abating the dust nuisance, and Creston will buy a ton of it from Nelsen for immediate use in the business section. It is a material that is spread by shovel, about two pounds to the square yard, which disolves and disappears over night.

The inspector of muniripalities informed the council that all C.P.R. right of way, with the exception of the station, and possibly the section house, were liable to taxation, and this was confirmed by the provincial assessor at Nelson. The latter will be written to seeking a copy of the assessments on the properties interested, and when it arrives the village will make a similar levy.

Chairman F. H. Jackson reported fully on his trip to Victoria on water maters. He had been able to have but a very brief interview with the minister of lands, who had requested that the whole situation be presented him by letter. This has been done and a copy of the letter was read for the approval of the other commissioners.

There were three bids for the work of replanking and otherwise repairing Park Road bridge. W. Morrow put in a tender at $750 for the work complete, which was accepted. J. Strobil asked $995 with some extras for caps and footing, while Hendren & Son bid $1180 for the work with extra charge for caps and footing.

Mr. Morrow will be asked to have the work completed in advance of the fall fair, September 25th, or otherwise to defere starting until after the exhibition.

Property owners on Wilson Avenue complain of a nuisance caused by the plugging up of the water pipe from the station residence which finds an outlet further along the street. A letter is to be sent to W. B. Martin, local agent, asking that the matter be remedied immediately.

Accounts for the month totalling $203 were ordered paid and it was agreed that the annual installment of $500 and interest on the purchase of the fail fair grounds should be mads at once. This maks a total of $1000 paid on a purchase price of $2500.

In connection with the electric light Chairman Jackson said that H. S. Amon, who held the 20-year franchise, was expecting to close a deal with the Canadian Utilities Company of Calgary to assume this obligation. It is now stated that Boundary Creek has been abandoned as a source of power supply, but that a Deisel engine will be utilized until such time as power from the Goat River Canyon is available. The chairman is of the opinion that Mr. Amon will make good on his agreement, but also insists that unless there is considerable activity in the matter of getting the light, no extension on the agreement would be given. The agreement expires at September 1st.

The clerk announced the receipt of $603, the village share of 1929 provincial motor license fees.

Culpable Negligence

It is becoming, to an ever increasing extent, one of the responsibilities of governmental authorities to protect people against themselves, not only for their own sake, but for the sake of others whom, in one way or another, the first named endanger. One of the latest developments in this direction is joint action by the Dominion, Provincial and municipal authorities to lessen the possibility of accidents at level railway crossings. Such crossings are always dangerous, but with the advent of the motor car, and the speed mania of reckless drivers, the death and accident toll has mounted alarmingly.

In nearly one thousand accident cases reported to the Board of Railway Commissioners during the past year, there was danger of loss of life or damage to property because of negligence at highway-railway level crossings. Of these accidents 369 were reported on the lines of the Canadian National system, and railway officials have carefully classified these. It was found that more than forty per cent. of the accidents were caused by some form of downright negligence on the part of the motorist.

Of the huge total of accidents, no less than 325 were cases where vehicles broke or damaged crossing gates which had been lowered; 23 where drivers ignored signals and drove right through gates; 36 cases where drivers passed right ahead under gates which were in process of being raised or lowered; seven cases of driving on to crossings opposite gate which had been lowered; five cases where drivers under the influence of liquor crashed into gates; while three accidents were due to pedestrians climbing over or under gates.

In other words, all these accidents were the result of a wilful disregard of the means of protection provided by the railways. But in their insane desire for speed motorists were responsible for a large number of accidents which were the outcome of what is classified as "inexplicable negligence." Some of the almost incredible performances of careless and reckless drivers are listed as follows:

Fourty-four motorists drove into the sides of moving trains.

Thirty-eight drove into the sides of standing trains.

One driver parked on the railway lines while he had a sleep.

One tried to drive between two railway cars while switching. He was unsuccessful.

Twelve parked on or too near the railway tracks.

Seven went for a drive along the railway tracks—they met express trains.

One driver left his car on the tracks to search for something he had dropped on the road. When he returned there was nothing left of the car.

One driver stopped on the railway tracks to adjust his load.

Eleven found too late that their brakes needed relining.

This amazing record shows that not only are many accidents at crossings due to sheer negligence and in no way excusable, but they also serve to indicate the nature of the problem of "educating" drivers of motor cars guilty of such insane conduct. Warning signs and even physical barriers such as crossing gates are no sure guarantee against accidents due to such carelessness.

There appears to be but two methods of putting an end to such accidents. One is to do away with level highway-crossings altogther by carrying highways either over or under the railway tracks. This is a highly expensive business, and is not possible in a country of such immense distances as Canada. It can be done at crossings in all urban centres and at points where traffic is exceptionally heavy, and to this task the Federal Government through the Board of Railway Commissioners, working in co-operation with Provincial Governments and municipal authorities, has decided to bend its energies, the cost of obliterating these level crossings being distributed among these several governmental bodies.

The second course is to licence all drivers of motor cars and to make it an offence for anyone to drive a car unless he or she has such a licence, and to immediately cancel the licence of any person found guilty of negligence, carelessness, and recklessness in handling a car. Such persons are a danger not only to themselves, but to the public at large, and in the public interest should be denied the right to drive such a potential engine of destruction on the public highways as the modern powerful motor car.

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

New Midget Auto

Will Be Sold Through Mail Order Houses For $200

The New York Times says negotiations are under way for the large scale production of the new "baby" auto which would be sold through the mail order houses for $200.

The car is the invention of James B. Martin, of Garden City, N.Y.

The feature of the car is that it has no axles in the usual sense of the word, each wheel being independently mounted in the reinforced body. Rubber "aviator cord" is used in the suspension of each wheel instead of a spring.

The new car has a wheel base of sixty inches, compared with 102½ inch wheel base of the smallest car now being produced in the United States. Mr. Martin said his invention will do 50 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

He declared he planned to have it shipped in a weather proof packing case with a hinged door which may be used as a garage.

NERVE TORTURES

A Condition From Which Both Men and Women Suffer

Hardly any condition of ill health causes more real suffering than a shattered nervous system. And often, unfortunately, but little sympathy is shown for the sufferer, from the mistaken notion that the nerves can be controlled. Men and women with nerves out of gear often become irritable and are blamed for ill temper, when it is not their fault. Their poor health is the cause. The tired, over-busy wife and mother, whose household cares have worn her thin, the breadwinner whose anxieties have worried him until he is really ill, are among the nerve sufferers who become run-down. Their nerves, like all bodily organs, need rich, red blood. In all such cases the best and simplest treatment is a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which enriches the blood and builds up the nervous system and brings good health and cheerfulness. Mrs. M. Cross, Richmond, Que., tells how this medicine ended her nervous troubles. She says:—"I have suffered from nervousness and dizzy spells, and the hundred and one things which in such a condition make life a misery. The first thing I found to help me was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Under the use of this medicine I found my nerves grew steadier ,the dizzy spells grew less frequent, and I became brighter and more cheerful. I took the pills for some time and found that they enrich the blood, build up the nerves and are a fine medicine for both old and young."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Life Of Motor Cars

The average life of an automobile is stated to be seven years, although not many persons run their cars that long. The auto plainly is not in the class with horse-drawn vehicles which it displaced, as regards length of years. The old buggies and cabs frequently were longer-lived than their owners, and their maintenance cost was little more than the price of axle-grease...Montreal Gazette.

PER CAPITA SALE OF LIQUOR IS IN EXCESS OF $10

Ottawa, Ont. — Liquor sales in 1928 through provincial government stores totalled $107,694,384—rather more than $10 per capita over all Canada.

Figures on the liquor traffic in Canada, covering sales in eight of Canada's nine provinces, were released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Government control is in effect in all provinces excepting Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia.

Total government revenue from the liquor traffic during 1928 amounted to $72,560,501.

Of this amount, $49,805,291 rolled into Dominion coffers, while the remainder $22,755,201 accrued to the provinces. Actually, the latter figure does not include all profits of liquor control boards.

Less than one-third of Saskatchewan's total liquor board revenues appears under ordinary revenue, while more than $400,000 distributed to municipalities does not show in British Columbia's.

Ontario and Quebec record by far the highest revenue totals among the provinces, their combined total aggreating two-thirds of the Dominion's aggregate. Ontario's revenue amounted to $8,130,390, and Quebec's to $7,000,000. Alberta with $2,765,009, and British Columbia with $2,752,229, are next, though the former total actually includes the revenue for 15 months.

No single province among the remaining ones showed a revenue for 1928 amounting to more than $1,000,000. Manitoba, however, had a total of $926,163, and the totals would have been much larger but that the breweries in that province are permitted to sell beer direct to permit-holders. Other provincial revenue totals are: Saskatchewan, $600,000; New Brunswick, $335,027; Nova Scotia, $244,391.

Seven provinces are represented in the figures of gross sales reported by provincial liquor control boards—Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia being omitted. Ontario's total is double that of the next highest, Quebec, amounting to $48,995,591 of the Dominion aggregate of $107,694,384. Quebec is next with $24,229,624. British Columbia and Saskatchewan are the only other provinces whose sales grossed more than $10,000,000, the former reporting $13,956,910 and the latter $11,708,534.

British Atlantic Fleet

Now Becomes the Greatest Single Fighting Force In the World

London, Eng.—The Atlantic fleet becomes the greatest single fighting force in the world by the decision of the Admiralty to recall five battleships of the Queen Elizabeth class from Mediterranean waters to home ports and the Atlantic fleet.

The transference of the battleships, not only an important change in distribution of the navy, but an entirely new departure in British naval policy, means the balance of power is removed from Malta and Gibraltar to the Atlantic.

The Atlantic fleet will consist of 14 capital shops, among them the two most powerful vessels in the world, the Rodney and Nelson, and the largest battle cruiser in the world, H.M.S. Hood.

The Queen Elizabeth vessels are approximately 30,000 tons, armed with eight 15-inch guns. These five will join the two Nelson class vessels, the Hood, the four Iron Duke battleships and the battle cruisers, Renown and Repulse, to make the most formidable fleet assembled on peace time duties in the world.

To Halt Liquor Smuggling

Federal Government To Co-Operate With U.S. In This Connection

Ottawa.—The Dominion Government is studying ways by which it can more effectively co-operate with the United States in the suppression of liquor smuggling across the border. The question was again brought before the cabinet at a recent session.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Premier W. L. Mackenzie King said. "Since United States have become active themselves in preventing liquor smuggling, it seems appropriate that further measures of co-operation should be considered by the Canadian Government." The prime minister indicated there might be an announcement in a few days of new regulations in the way of co-operation in suppressing the traffic.

New York Opposing Italian For Mayor

Tammany Hall Fighting Election Of Congressman La Guardia

New York.—There are 392,225 foreign born Italians in New York City, and 410,721 whose parents were foreign born. That's one reason why Tammany Hall is snapping into action, depolying its forces and getting set for a devastating fight against Fiorella H. La Guardia, who was grudgingly handed the nomination for Mayor of New York at the Republican city convention.

Congressman La Guardia is a formidable campaigner. His verbal attacks can raise blisters like the bull whip. For months he has been indefatigably at work, fanning up his Latin legions, from bootblacks to bank officials.

New Manitoba Industry

Plant To Manufacture Explosives May Be Built Soon

Winnipeg. — The Manitoba Free Press publishes the following:

"Rapid development of mines in northern Manitoba has led Canadian Explosives division of Canadian Industries, Limited, to purchase approximately 1,000 acres of land in the vicinity of East Selkirk, 18 miles north of Winnipeg, upon which to erect an explosives plant. The enterprise involves an investment of approximately $750,000.

"Date of construction of the plant is contingent upon mining developments, but if is expected that work will begin early next spring and the plant will be producing before the end of 1930."

Patrol Ship Returning

Ottawa. — The Canadian patrol ship "Beothic," has reached the northern apex of her summer voyage with the Department of Interior's 1929 expansion. She reached Bache Peninsula, Ellesmere Island, the most northern police post and post office, on August 3 and is now heading south, bringing out Inspector A. H. Joy, of the Canadian Mounted Police, who recently completed a northland patrol of 1,800 miles.

The "I'm Alone" Case

Eminent Counsel For Canada and United States To Act As Arbitrators

Ottawa.—Canada has elected Eugene Lafleur, D.C.L., LL.D., K.C., eminent counsel of Montreal, as Canadian arbitrator in "I'm Alone" case. The government of the United States has appointed Willis Van Devanter, associate judge of the Supreme Court of the United States, as its member.

Announcement of the selections was made simultaneously in Ottawa and Washington.

At the same time, the Department of External Affairs at Ottawa, announced that John E. Reed, K.C., of the Nova Scotia bar and legal adviser of the department, had been appointed Canadian agent in the case.

Counsel for the Dominion of Canada in the case are W. N. Tilley, K.C., of Toronto, and Aime Geoffrion, K.C., of Montreal.

At the Department of External Affairs it was announced recently that there would probably be a lapse of some time before the arbitrators in this famous case actually open sittings. Counsel for both parties will have to get to work on the case, and there must be an exchange of pleadings, which may occupy considerable time.

Not until the preliminaries have been disposed of will there be a definite decision as to the place or places where sittings will be held. It has been taken for granted that some of the sittings at least will be held in Washington, but there is a possibility that there will be others, possibly some in Ottawa.

Eight Killed In Riots

Jute Mill Strikers In Calcutta Clash With Police

London, Eng.—Calcutta despatches to The Daily Mail said eight persons were killed and 20 injured in a fight between jute mill strikers and watchmen and police at Naihati, 240 miles north of Calcutta.

A strike has been in progress for several weeks in the area after workers protested introduction of the sixty-hour week.

Forty per cent. of the looms in the Calcutta area are stopped, and about 12,000 workers made idle.

British Airship May Be Zeppelin's Rival

Hope Machines Nearing Completion Will Be Much Faster

London, Eng.—Cabled reports from Lakehurst that the Graf Zeppelin's successful trip to America probably would be followed with establishment of a regular trans-Atlantic air line brought considerable speculation in London morning papers as to the possibility of British competition.

Greater speed or at least a cut in elapsed time of the trips was held to be a necessity for success of such a line and the hope was expressed that two British giants now nearing completion, the R-100 and R-101 would prove much faster.

Sir Dennis Burney, M.P., head of the company which built the R-100, in a talk with the Daily News opined that the Graf's time did not give margin enough over fast steamers and an airship to be successful must be able to do a trip in sixty hours outward and 48 returning. This would imply a cruising speed of 90 miles an hour.

Mr. Malcolm said that the new commission would make its own selections for the posts of assistant commissioners after it was appointed.

The resigning members of the grain commission are: Chief Commissioner L. H. Boyd, K.C., and Commissioners Matthew Snow and James Robinson.

The new board will also consist of three commissioners, but four assistant commissioners will also be appointed.

ANGLO-EGYPTIAN DRAFT TREATY WELL RECEIVED

London, Eng.—British military occupation of Egypt, except for the Suez Canal zone, is abandoned and other important and far-reaching reforms agreed to in the new Anglo-Egyptian draft treaty, details of which were issued from Downing Street by the foreign office.

The proposals are a great advance on anything hitherto offered as settlement of the Anglo-Egyptian problem, being considered even more favorable than was the draft treaty of 1927, which was rejected by the Egyptian Parliament under the influence of the followers of the Nationalist leader Zaghoul Pasha. The agreement, which Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, has negotiated with the Egyptian Premier, Mohammed Pasha Mahmoud, in a general way follows the lines of the abortive treaty of two years ago, but makes important concessions to Egypt.

The British occupation will cease and British troops will be withdrawn to the Suez Canal zone.

The British Government will use its influence to induce other powers to consent to the abolition of the capitulations of extra-territorial rights and will assist Egypt to become a member of the League of Nations.

Further, Great Britain recognizes that the protection of foreigners in Egypt is a matter devolving solely upon the Egyptian government. The protection of minorities was one of the "reserved" points of the British Government two years ago, but it is now admitted that this will be exclusively the concern of the Egyptian Government. The variations of 1927 will give Egypt a greater measure of real independence rather than ever before proposed.

The most important concession on Great Britain's part is the withdrawal of British garrisons to the canal zone. This was refused in the negotiations with Sarwat Pasha two years ago. Sir Austen Chamberlain, then secretary of state for foreign affairs, held out this as a possibility ten years hence.

Mr. Henderson in a note to Prime Minister Mahoud, stipulates that these new proposals must first be approved by the newly elected Egyptian Parliament before they can be submitted to the British Parliament for approval and embodied in the treaty.

Canadian Authoress Dead

Native Of Winnipeg Well Known To Public Few Years Ago

Chicago, Ill.—Mary MacLane, a successful author 15 years ago, died August 6, in a lonely room on the fringe of Chicago's black and tan belt. She was born in Winnipeg, Man., in 1881.

Author of "I, Mary MacLane," "Men Who Have Made Love To Me," and other romantic writings, Miss Mary MacLane had virtually disappeared. It was some time after her death before it was realized that she was the Mary MacLane whose own romantic adventures as set forth in her books had stirred the imaginations of the reading public of a few years ago. No one was at her bedside as she died. Her body was found by the proprietor of the small hotel where she had lived for the last four years. Her death, a doctor's certificate said, was due to natural causes.

Miss MacLane's retirement about six years ago was believed to have been caused by disappointment. It came after the sale of her new books had fallen off and financial reverses set in. Ill-health added to her troubles.

Drops Freedom Of Seas Issue

Toronto.—A special dispatch to the Mail and Empire from Washington says: President Hoover has dropped the freedom of the seas issue out of his disarmament program, not only on the theory that it does not jibe with the Kellogg anti-war treaty, but because he believes naval parity with Great Britain is the only real guarantee of freedom of the seas.

Pity the Pastor's Family

When it comes to getting spiritual sustenance at the minimum of expense the diocese of Kootenay is not the only one where economy is the watchword. At Winnipeg last week, on the occasion of the 48th biennial synod of Rupert's Land, one Canon Heeney was quite plain spoken on money matters, informing the august assemblage that the Church of England in those parts "was allowing the clergyman to go badly dressed, their wives and children poorly clothed and half-starved, in order that the laymen may be fed with the gospel of Jesus Christ." Now we know why the minister's son—and but a handful of other people's sons all across Canada—do not take kindly to entering holy orders.

Control Might Have Helped

A couple of weeks ago we took occasion to question the wisdom of the Victoria administration doing away with the committee of direction on strawberry marketing. It is gratifying to know that our opinion is shared by the Penticton Herald, which in its last issue gently lets down the government in this fashion: "In view of the large crop, it is doubtful if anything that could have been done this season would have saved the berry growers of British Columbia from low prices. It is reasonable to assume, however, that they would have been some better off had they been given the steadying influence of the committee of direction which functioned last season but failed to accomplish much owing to adverse weather conditions. A control committee would have cut out consignments which blew the prairie market up in short order this season. It. is a safe bet that next season the majority of berry producers will be willing to re-establish orderly marketing."

From Rossland has come the announcement that the town has a noteworthy new industry in a brand new greenhouse 12 x 50 feet, which is to keep the town year round supplied with vegetables. From now on W. K. Esling, M.P., and Editor Elletson of the Miner will surely know their onions.

It is presumed to have been part of the cutlery used on the steamer Alberta, which plied the Kootenay River thirty years ago, and undoubtedly was stuck into "Scotty's" pocket as he was leaving the eteamer by some Irish friend. Guards Against Gas Explosion

New Invention Works Danger Signal and Fans Away Fumes

After the numerous gas explosions which have occurred recently in London, it was only to be expected that something would be invented to make this possibility of explosion a thing of the past. And now we hear of a little device which does away with any danger of gas escapes.

This wonderful little invention is not very impressive to look at, being just a little cylinder shaped, instrument only about seven inches high, which can be fitted wherever there is a possibility of leaking. But it only needs the very minutest escape to set this gallant litle sentinel in action, when it works a danger signal, gets in touch with the nearest telephone exchange, and informs those in power of the exact locality of the escape.

Not content with this warning, the trustworthy little cylinder sets in motion an electric fan to keep away the fumes!

Wilbur B. Huston, a youth from Port Madison, Wash., was named the winner of the Thomas A. Edison competition for choice of a protege and follower in the footsteps of the inventor.

The forty-nine contestants — one from each state and the District of Columbia—were lined up on the lawn of the Edison home in Llewellyn Park as the announcement was made by Dr. S. W. Stratton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was chairman of the committee of judges.

Dr. Stratton was high in his praise of the boys, who participated in a gruelling examination on subjects ranging from morals and ethics to science.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as is the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand, the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mothers' best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Explanations and Comments

The Proclamation Of Cyrus, Ezra, 1.1-4.—Cyrus is called king of Persia because he was of Persian descent and Persia was the most important of his conquests; originally king only of Elam, he conquered Media, Persia, Lydia and then Babylonia. It was in the first year of his reign in Babylonia that God stirred up his spirit to the gracious thought of allowing the exiled Jews to return to their own land. Cyrus' own ulterior motive was, no doubt, to secure the gratitude of the Jews and to build up in Judea a friendly buffer nation between himself and the Egyptian power.

By heralds and by written official documents Cyrus sent a proclamation throughout all his kingdom—as far as Media, Josephus adds. It was his policy to claim the favor of the gods of every people, and he began his proclamation thus: "All the kingdoms of the earth hath Jehovah, the God of heaven, given me; and He hath charged me to build Him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah" (See Ezra 6.3-5). "For an outsider he came to a wonderfully sure understanding of the sort of justice that would be pleasing to the Lord of the Jews."—F. J. McConnell. The desire of the Jews to return was religious rather than patriotic; the restoration of the temple was their main object. Cyrus did not order their return, he merely decreed that they might return and build the house of Jehovah. And he further decreed that the native Babylonians as well as the Jews who remained should help the returning Jews with silver and gold, and with goods, and with beasts, as well as with voluntary gifts for the temple.

The Response To the Proclamation, Ezra 1.5-11.—The majority of the Jews preferred to remain in the land of their exile, but the hereditary rulers of the tribes of Judah and Benjamin (some also from Ephraim and Manasseh, 1 Ch. 9.3), prepared to depart, and their neighbors strengthened their hands with gifts, as Cyrus had directed.

WINDOLITE The Improved Glass Substitute

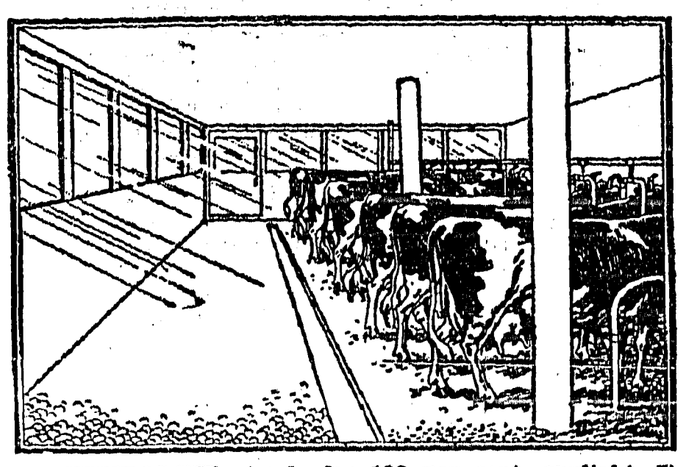
MADE IN ENGLAND



WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent. sunlight. It makes light but strong windows for cattle sheds, dairy stables, poultry houses, brooders and all out buildings. It is economical, unbreakable, flexible and is easy to cut and fit. It is now being successfully used for sunrooms, verandahs, schools, factories, hospitals, sanitariums, hot beds, plant coverings and greenhouses. It keeps out cold—will not crack or chip,—cuts with an ordinary pair of scissors and is easy to fit. WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls any length but in one width of 36 inches only. A square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 14 ozs., while a square yard of glass of ordinary thickness, weighs about 135 to 120 ozs. The improved WINDOLITE requires no varnish. WINDOLITE is made in England.

Price $1.50 Per Square Yard, f.o.b., Toronto.

COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's universal disinfectant and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass we are artificially excluding these vital health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

The Singing Fool

By HUBERT DAIL

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Marcus, the famous Broadway producer, takes a party of four to Blackie Joe's New York night club. Al Stone, Blackie's chief comedian and singing waiter, is desperately in love with Molly, the ballad singer, but she scornfully rejects him. Then she goes to the Marcus table and tries to ingratiate herself with the great producer. In a despairing effort to touch Molly's heart Al goes on the floor and sings a love ballad he has written for her. The song is a sensation and Marcus calls for Al and offers to buy it. Meanwhile Molly has made up to Al and the latter refuses to sell the song unless Molly is allowed to sing it as a headliner in a Marcus revue. Marcus consents. Grace, the cigarette girl, who is deeply in love with Al, is in the background.

CHAPTER VIII.

As Al heard Marcus's words he turned quickly and beamed on Molly. He realized he had won—Marcus would not only take the song, but he would make Molly a headliner. Tears of excitement and gratitude filled Molly's eyes. After all, she was not a woman of stone; she did appreciate the gallant stand her singing waiter had made in her behalf.

Now Al became aware of a clatter behind him, in front, and all around. The crowd saw him at Marcus's table and refused to be cheated of its encore. The applause was deafening, the customers were pounding on the tables, and their voices came in monotonous, insistent, rising chants, "We want Al, we want Al, we want Al!"

Al rose and looked around.

"You'll have to give them another," said Marcus, smiling. "Have you any more songs ready?"

"Yes, I have others," Al replied. Then he saw Blackie approaching.

"Can't you give them something else?"

Al nodded and Blackie advanced to the center of the floor.

"Lad-ies and gentlemen" — his powerful voice filled the room — "Mr. Al Stone, the world's premier singing waiter, is going to entertain us with another number of his own com-pos-i-tion in response to the insistent demand. I wish to thank you in behalf of Mr. Stone and the club for the rousing re-ception you have given him."

Again Al advanced to the piano, drew from his pocket a number of ballads, and selected "I've Got a Rainbow Round My Shoulder." Could he put this one over too? Yes, he was sure he could — so quickly is self-confidence born as soon as success is once achieved. And, true to his feeling, he swept through the song to another triumphant conclusion, while Molly's eyes remained fixed on him in rapturous adoration.

. . . . Now the night was ended at Blackie Joe's—Marcus and his party had gone and the last of the other customers had vanished too. Waiters were hurriedly piling chairs on tables, scrub-women appeared with buckets and mops, lights were dimmed.

In a tiny dressing room at the back of the building, Grace, the cigarette girl, had taken the tray from her shoulder, balanced her accounts for the evening and slipped into simple and inexpensive blue serge dress.

Generally Grace had a good natural color, but this morning the pale sunlight, slanting through her dressing room window, revealed her face as dead white. So she put on more rouge than usual, to accentuate the brave front she felt she must assume. Yet as she pulled her tight-fitting little blue velour hat down over her dark hair and slipped into her coat, these words were beating in her brain:

"He's in love wih Molly—and he means to marry her!"

Over and over again the words sounded, like a dirge. And they seemed to take on rhythm, the rhythm of "Always," the love ballad Al had sung to Molly.

Grace heard footsteps in the hallway and turned to confront Blackie Joe. There was good old stout Blackie, gazing at her with kindly eyes. Finally he said:

"How do you feel, little one?"

"Oh—so-so."

She couldn't say she felt splendid; she didn't have the strength to say it, and she knew Blackie wouldn't believe it.

"Listen, Grace," suggested Blackie, "don't take things so hard. I know how you feel toward Al; don't you think I've been watching you and sympathizing with you? But you're beating your head against a stone wall."

"I know it." Grace tried desperately to keep her lips firm. "I've thought things all out—I realized tonight there wasn't a chance for me. But I can't stop loving him just because he loves Molly."

"You can't now, at this moment, maybe," answered Blackie, "but you'll be able to, soon. You're only a kid, and you'll find someone else. I know—I was once a kid myself. With me it was on with a new one and off with the old one every month or two."

"That may be true of you," said Grace, wearily, "but I think I know myself. I'll bet you I never love anyone but Al—I know I won't."

Blackie laughed, came over and patted her on the head.

"But don't you tell Al about that!" continued Grace, with passionate emphasis. "I don't want him to know how I feel toward him—it would spoil his happiness. And, above all things, I want Al to be happy! He's been wonderful to me—why, he's the best, kindest, best-looking man in the world. Promise me you'll keep mum about me, Blackie?"

"Not a word, kid," said Blackie reassuringly.

"I know how he feels towards me," Grace went on. "I'm just like a younger sister to him. I wish him all the happiness in the world—I know he'll be leaving us. I've lost out forever and—that's that."

"Don't be too sure," Blackie remonstrated.

"What do you mean?"

"I don't mean nothin' except — well, forever's a long time."

Grace rose and moved listlessly toward the door.

"Thanks for taking an interest, Blackie. See you tonight. So long."

"So long." Blackie looked after the sagging little figure that was usually so lithe and vibrant with vitality. He shook his head sadly.

Grace, passing through the serpentine corridors, heard voices—the voices of Al and Molly. They were talking in Molly's dressing room. She did not mean to listen, yet she stopped as she heard Al say enthusiastically:

"We can't lose, Molly. Marcus will sign us up tomorrow and we'll move over to the bright lights and the big money. Then we'll get married. That will be the happiest day of my life, darling!"

"Yes," came Molly's eager voice, "we'll get married and we'll go to the very top. Al, I've always known you had it in you. When I heard you sing tonight I was sure!"

The faint flicker of an unbelieving smile crossed Grace's face, but she made no sound. Then came Molly's voice again:

"We'll leave this dirty hole cold—right away—tomorrow."

At this, Al paused. Then he remonstrated.

"So soon, Molly? That wouldn't be fair to Blackie. He's done a lot for you and me. It's true I thought of quitting tonight, but that was because I believed you didn't love me. And I couldn't stand the thought of staying. Now its different; let's give Blackie some notice, be square with him the way he's been with us. After all, he's had faith in both of us."

"Oh, all right," agreed Molly grudgingly, "but I hate this tough place."

Suddenly Grace ran in the other direction, through the corridors, across the deserted cabaret room, down the dark, shabby steps to the sunlit street. Her heart was thumping madly and she wanted to get as far as possible from their voices. Her woman's intuition made her fear for Al's future with Molly; something in the girl's insensitive attitude and words horrified her.

She hurried along the narrow streets toward her lodging house in the Village, several blocks away. Her thoughts were full of Al and her love for him; she realized that if she didn't reach home quickly she would burst out crying on the street.

When she stood in her bleak, shabby, lodging house bedroom, and confronted her reflection in a mirror, she cried passionately:

"That girl's no good! She'll never make him happy! And, oh, I love him so! I would have worked so hard to help him!"
