Players' Orchestra Opening Concert

Orchestra Numbers are Loudly Applauded—Soloists Heard to Splendid Advantage—Succeeding Musicales' Succes s Assured

Creston Players' orchestra made its first appearance at the Grand on Tuesday evening before an audience that comfortably filled the theatre, and on all sides the Players and assisting artists are being complimented on the excellence of the programme submitted.

Notwithstanding the fact that the orchesta played under some disadvantage in that the conductor, T. Goodwin, was unavoidably absent, and the musicians were temporarily in charge of Ted Staples, the whole dozen orchestra offerings were splendidly received. The Players have an excellent string section with such experienced artists as Mrs. Lister, Mr. Whimster and Principal Stephens of Canyon, and Lionel Moore a young local violinist, who also gave a good account of himself Tuesday evening. Dick Chandler, cornet; Geo. H. Kelly saxaphone, and Ted Staples, piano, were the other members of the musicale septette, and their work was of equally high order.

The orchestra offerings were all numbers that the audience appreciated on first acquaintance judging by the unstinted applause. The marches, however, were the big favorites, "Let's Go" having to be given a repeat in the seconed half of the programme. Sharing the honors with the marches were the Dutch dance, "Wooden Shoes," and the waltz, "Sweet Dreams."

Mrs. Lister has never been heard to better advantage in uiolin solo work than on Tuesday when she offered the Fifth Nocturne by LeBach, and for an encore played Caprice Danseuce. Mrs. Geo. H. Kelly was equally popular in two vocal numbers, "The Little Damosel" and her encore, "Willie's Prayer" Mrs. Kernaghan and Miss Jeanne Hall were the accompanists of the evening, the latter playing with Mrs Lister.

After Tuesday night's successful debut Creston is to be congratulated on having an orchestra of the excellence of the Players, who on the merit of their initial effor can look forward with confidence to a still more generous patronage on their next appearance.

Local and Personal

The long streak of indian summer weather come to an end on Sunday when the Valley was favored with about half an inch of rain and colder mornings and evenings, although not so severe as predicted by Foster.

In the absence of Mrs. Jenner, pianist at the Grand theatre, on Saturday, due to illness, the music for the show was provided by an electric radio orthophonic Victrola supplied by Creston Drug & Book Store. The change was much appreciated, the records reproducing organ, orchestral and band selections being heard to particularly good advantage.

The Exchange packing shed at Creston and Creston Growers packing shed operations at Erickson wound up for the season on Tnesday. The pack of apples is completed but two or three of the girls are still packing pears. Due to a much cleaner crop this year the number of boxes of wrapped apples is on a par with 1928 when the crop was heavier but of poorer quality.

Eighteen tables of players were in evidence at the birthday bridge whist put on by Creston and District Women's Institute on Friday night, the high score prizes going to Mrs. W. H. Kemp and P. W. Willis of Cranbrook. The second prizes went to Miss Bumstead and Kieth Littlejohn. Consolation honors fell to Mrs. Twigg and Ben Crawford. The cash intake was about $40.

It was won by Principal Stallwood's room in September. At the close of the year the room winning it most times will get a special prize—a picture if won by one of the junior divisions, and some suitable textbook if secured by a senior division.

Gymnasium work which is being carried on for the young people of the community in Trinity Church basement under the direction of Sam Steenstrup is proving exceptionally popular, with about 40 boys taking instruction every Monday night, and 25 girls each Wednesday evening. In the space available trapeze work and standing and chiropractic exercises are all that can be taken until such time as more equipment can be secured. Larger quarters would also be appreciated by the young athletes.

A Valuable Report

The annual report of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia, which covers its activities for the past year and the proceedings of the last annual meeting held at Nelson has just come to hand.

The booklet with its splendid illustrations of various industries conjoined with the valuable statistical information appertaining to the Kootenays is well worth study.

The annual address of President Noble Binns of Trail is very interesting and covers the whole field of the progress and development of the Kootenays during the past year.

Board of Trade Commissioner Fred Starkey of Nelson files a report which fairly bristles with facts concerning all the larger and varied industries, including as it does metals, lumbering, water powers and telephone lines, public works, fruit and agricultural industry, freight rates, etc., as well as a general resume of general statistical conditions of the whole dominion.

Want of space precludes us from quoting the valuable statistics, suffice to say that congratulations are quite in order not only to the publishers but to the executive of the board for its magnificent effort in getting out such a compendium of matters vital to the well being of Southern British Columbia as well worthy of the nine boards of trade represented by delegates at the 1929 convention and which by the way is well named the "Kootenay Parliament."

In this connection it is gratifying to note that the representatives of the Creston Board of Trade took an active part in the deliberations and it is with a good deal of satisfaction that we note that Mr. C. O. Rodgers very ably presided over the sessions of the Associated Boards, of which he is vice-president, owing to the unavoidable absence of the president, who was absent on account of illness.

Mr. Rodgers received many warm eulogies for the efficient manner in which he handled the many intricate problems which came before him. President Mallandaine of the Creston Board was also quite prominent in bringing several resolutions before the convention.

The next annual convention will be held at Cranbrook, B.C.

Bright metal packages keep it always fresh.

The National Value of Radio

When the automobile began coming into use 25 or 30 years ago, it was looked upon as a luxury for the rich, another means of providing for their entertainment and catering to their enjoyment, but not to be regarded as a new means of transportation for the great masses of the people. Yet within the short span of a quarter of a century the automobile has revolutionized our habits and modes of living, until today the family that does not own a car is the exception, rather than the rule. At first it was the common practice to criticize the farmer who bought a car; now it is recognized as a practical farm necessity. What was to be a plaything of the rich has become the most popular means of transportation, and is seriously challenging the railways as carriers of freight for the shorter hauls. The automobile, too, has altered all preconceived ideas in road-building and the value and necessity of good roads.

Within even more recent years has come the discovery of the radio. This, too, was accepted at first as more or less of a plaything, something to provide pleasure in the form of musical entertainment in the home. Its value in this respect, especially in rural homes, and in towns and villages not enjoying the advantages which the large cities possess in the way of concerts and theatres, was quickly appreciated. Then came the broadcasting of grain and other market quotations, weather forecasts, live news bulletins, and information of general interest and value to the rural dweller, hours and days in advance of the time he would otherwise receive the same. As a result, within recent years, radio has been installed in tens of thousands of homes.

In a very notable way the value and influence of the radio has been extended in the last two or three years through the linking up of a number of stations through which programmes of exceptional merit are made available to all parts of the continent, even the world. One such chain after another has been created, but beyond one or two attempts, — notably the Diamond Jubilee broadcast from Ottawa, in 1927,—Canadian listeners-in have not had the benefit of Dominion-wide Canadian programmes, but have had to depend largely on United States stations.

All this is now changed, and this year Canada is being favored with Dominion-wide broadcasts, sponsored by large Canadian corporations, equal in every respect to the best that is presented in the United States. These Canadian programmes are now available several nights every week and the finest symphony orchestras and artists of the large Eastern Canadian cities can be heard in Western Canada homes. Not only so, but some of the outstanding musicians of Great Britain are being brought to Canada to broadcast over these Canadian chains.

In the past when outstanding statesmen like Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald visited Canada, a comparative small number of people in Ottawa, Toronto or Montreal had the privilege of hearing him. On his recent visit to Ottawa, when he was the guest of the Government of Canada, at a tate dinner, hundreds of thousands of Canadians from Halifax to Victoria, listened to his inspiring address in the Houses of Parliament. His plea for international goodwill and world peace, his insistence that these could only be achieved through a "will to peace" on the part of the people themselves, was listened to by hundreds of thousands, and received by them as a direct personal message, couched in homely language, and reinforced with all the sincerity of which Mr. McDonald is capable. In other words, the Prime Minister of Great Britain was enabled to talk, not merely to President Hoover and Premier Mackenzie King, but to untold millions of people in the United States and Canada.

The national, yes, international, value of such addresses cannot be correctly estimated. The radio has become one of the most powerful factors in breaking down the suspicions, the ill-will, the fears, which exist and develop across international boundary lines. The fact that statesmen can thus appeal direct to the masses of the people, their own and those of other nations, must prove a tower of strength to the cause of true democracy and better world understanding.

Even so, the radio is still in its infancy. What wonders it will yet unfold to us in five, ten or twenty years, can hardly be imagined. It may bring improvements so vast, including television with the broadcasting of moving pictures and current happenings, and other developments as to make the radio achievements of today seem very crude indeed.

Who Invented Eye-Glasses

No One Really Knows Where Credit Should Be Given

Many million persons use them, but do not know who invented them.

Who did invent spectacles? This was one of the hardest questions which faced the recent London Congress of Spectacle Makers.

W. E. Hardy, one of the organizers of the congress, said that many years of study have been devoted trying to find out who first made eye-glasses.

"It is thought," he said, "that the credit may be given Roger Bacon, the English philosopher and scientist of the 14th century, but the situation has been complicated by the recent discovery of lenses in an old Carthaginian sarcophagus.

"There is no proof, however, that these lenses were used for defective sight; they may have been burning glasses. Spectacles came into general use in this country after the invention of printing."

A New Musical Device

"Theremin" Has Tonal Quality Similar To Cello Or Violin

Now you can be a musician without ability.

All that is necessary is to hum a tune, wave your hands over a gadget created by the Radio Corporation of America, and you get a fine musical effect.

The new device is called the "Theremin" and has a tonal quality similar to the cello or violin. It was displayed at opening of the radio world's fair recently, having a place in the exhibit because it is operated by two antennae.

LIFE WAS A BURDEN

Health Restored Through the Use Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"I am writing to express my gratitude for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me," says Mrs. W. J. Dowling, Tottenham, Ont., and further says: "I was so badly run down that I felt that life was a burden. The doctor said my trouble was due to poor blood, but his medicine did not help me. My face was sallow, my lips bloodless and at the least exertion my heart would palpitate so violently that I would have to lie down. My feet and legs would swell and cramp, and all my friends thought I was in a decline. In this condition I was urged by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got three boxes, and to my delight, by the time I had used them I began to feel better. I got a further supply and kept on taking them. Daily I felt myself growing stronger. The color returned to my cheeks and lips and I felt a new interest in life. To sum up I can now say that I am feeling fine, for which I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I strongly recommend to all weak girls and women.

A useful book, "Building Up the Blood," will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price 50c. Try them today.

A Dangerous Stunt

In England "wing-walking," a "stunt" among airmen of leaving the cockpit of their planes and walking along the wings, is liable to cause a great strain on the smaller machines. The Air Ministry have announced that if the practice is not stopped, it will be prohibited.

Corns cripple the feet and make walking a torture, yet sure relief in the shape of Holloway's Corn Remover is within reach of all.

Demonstrates New Form Of Rejuvenation Operation

American Surgeon May Throw Light On Eternal Quest For Youth

Man's eternal quest for youth held the attention of a group of surgeons attending the American College of Surgeon's clinic recently, after Dr. V. D. Lespenasse, Chicago, demonstarted a new form of rejuvenation operation. Although the college has not given official sanction to this type of surgery, the operation is causing comment.

Phlebophlebostomy, meaning "vein to vein" in the surgeon's vernacular, forms the basis of Dr. Lespenasse's new techique. The surgeon joins certain veins in the lower abdomen, causing the blood to follow a different course and thus, it is claimed, revitalizing the glands. The operation does not involve the transplanting of glands or the use of glandular extracts.

Dr. Lespenasse, in 1922, performed a rejuvenation upon Harold F. McCormick, prominent Chicagoan. The surgeon said that his method had passed the experimental stage and has been used on many patients..

Dr. William A. Osborne, Melbourne, Australia, dean of the faculty of medicine and chairman of the cancer research committee of the University of Melbourne, was amongst those awarded honorary fellowships.

Business Not So Good

Wheelbarrow manufacturers, meeting in Chicago the other day, admitted that their business had dwindled to little more than the export trade and decided to make only 22 models instead of the 168 varieties they had been producing. One trouble has been that the wheelbarrow has no sport model.

Made North-West Passage

Attempt Of Hudson's Bay Fur Trading Ships Was Successful

Three ships engaged in the fur trade and owned by the Hudson's Bay Company have between them forced the dreaded northwest passage, according to news reaching the Hudson's Bay Company offices at London, England. The ships are the "Bay of Chimo," "Fort James," and "Fort MacPherson. The "Bay of Chimo" left Vancouver last July and sailing through the dangerous Behring Strait, reached Point Barrow on July 24, and Cambridge Bay on South Victoria Island on August 25.

Last year the schooner Fort James, under the command of Captain Bush, sailed from Montreal and having wintered in the ice, began with the coming of spring a long fight to reach King William Land. Thh vessel was joined there by the "Fort MacPherson," which cruises within the Arctic Circle as a supply ship for trading posts and exploration purposes. The Fort MacPherson had sailed from Cambridge Bay, the farthest point reached by the "Bay of Chimo."

In this way, three vessels contracted to do what would have been impossible for one alone to accomplish. During the winter, locked in the ice, those aboard the "Fort James" endured great hardships and for most of the time were actually prisoners in the frozen waters. It is thought that the successful attempt to force this passage may mean that skins will be brought more quickly to Britain than in the past. An official of the Hudson's Bay Company declared that it remains to be seen whether such a journey is a commercial proposition. If this proves to be the case, the dangerous voyage from Vancouver through Behring Strait will be avoided.

High Grade Crop

According to the manager of the Canadian Wheat Pool, which markets the larger percentage of the wheat crop of Canada, most of this year's crop is grading No. 1 and No. 2, and there is so little of the lower grades passing through the elevators that hardly enough of grades 4, 5 and 6 can be found to make up composite samples for grading purposes.

Her Little Boy Was Very Ill With Summer Complaint

Mrs. Ray Fisher, Lebret, Sask., writes:—"For over a month, last summer, my little boy was suffering from summer complaint. He got so bad there began to be traces of blood in his stool, and anything he ate would not stay on his stomach very long. He became so weak he could not stand up. A neighbor recommended

"Discouraged and in despair I sent for a bottle, not expecting any more benefit than from the many other medicines I had used, but to my surprise I noticed a change after he had taken a few doses, and before the bottle was half used he was the same happy, healthy boy he was before he took sick."

Needless Pain!

Nowadays, people take Aspirin for many little aches and pains, and as often as they encounter any pain.

Why not? It is a proven antidote for pain. It works!

And Aspirin tablets are absolutely harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; they do not depress the heart.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regard neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism as something you must endure. Only a physician can cope with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to an Aspirin tablet for relief.

Aspirin is always available, and it never fails to help. Familiarize yourself with its many uses, and avoid a lot of needless suffering.

ITALIAN MINISTER TO CANADA MAY BE APPOINTED

Ottawa.—The appointment of an Italian minister to Canada was forecast in cable despatches received here, that Agostino Ferrante Di Ruffano, Italian consul-general here, would soon be transferred to Philadelphia and that he will be succeeded in Ottawa by Count Delfino Rogeri Di Villanova, counsellor and senior assistant at the Italian embassy in London, England.

The despatches forecasting that Italy would ultimately follow the example of the United States, France and Japan by appointing a minister to the Dominion has caused considerable interest in government circles. Some time ago there was a similar report with respect to Germany. The Department of External Affairs would make no official comment with regard to either report. However, there is a general impression that Canada's diplomatic services abroad will be extended. Germany and Italy appear as likely countries with which Canada would next exchange ministers.

Marquis Ferrante, in an interview, said that he knew nothing of reports emanating from London that his government would appoint a minister to Canada. "It is quite possible," he is quoted as saying, "but it may not be for some time yet."

Nothing To Worry About, Newspaperman Tells Easterners

Toronto.—"The spirit of the west is steady and hopeful," said Thos. Miller, of the Moose Jaw Times, here for the meeting of the directors of the Canadian Press. Mr. Miller is a well-known western newspaper man and was a charter member of the Western Associated Press when it started in Winnipeg, 22 years ago. Also he farms himself on a considerable scale, being interested in three sections, nearly 2,000 acres, under cultivation in Saskatchewan.

"This is not a bad economic crop for the west," he said, "with 250,000,000 bushels of high-grade wheat. There was a great saving in operating cost, because we did not import a single harvester, farmers garnering the crop with their own labor, the combine harvester now widely in use being in part responsible. Of course, there are cases of individual hardship, some farmers not even saving seed, but these are being taken care of by municipal and farmers' organizations, and it is unlikely it will be necessary to ask Ottawa for financial help as was the case some years ago.

"We expect to get higher prices, and the sentiment of the west is behind the Wheat Pool in refusing to sell at bargain rates, proof lying in the fact that farmers not in the pool are also holding wheat for a rising market.

"Looking to next year, there were good rains east of Regina a fortnight ago, but not in the Moose Jaw district. The astonishing thing this season has been the remarkable showing on summerfallow seeded to spring wheat, where not a drop of rain fell throughout the growing season, and yet a six to 12-bushel crop was reaped. Our prairie soil is not like your soil down here, because when we get rain it goes into the ground and deos not wash away. It is a remarkably open season, and we may get good rains yet, but if we do not there will be snow and frost seepage in the spring and good rains in May and June will put the crop on its feet. But it is too early to talk about the 1930 crop. Tell people in the east there is nothing to worry about in the prairie west."

New Claimant For Earldom

Third Man Is Disputing Claim Of Alberta Rancher

London, England.—The dispute over the right to the earldom of Egmont, and the extensive estates near Ringwood, in Hampshire, has been complicated by the appearance of a third claimant, namely, R. Power, retired optician of Haydock, Lancashire. He claims to be a descendant of Hon. Philip Tufton Perceval, a brother of the fifth earl, Frederick Perceval, of Priddis, Alberta, is at present disputing the earldom with James William Perceval, 66-year-old baker of North London. The Alberta man was believed to be the heir presumptive during the late earl's life and on the death of the earl came to England, and for a brief time occupied the estate.

Less Unemployment In Britain

Montreal.—While unemployment is still a serious question in Great Britain, it is not so manifest as one might expect, according to A. T. Weldon, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways who has just returned from a trip abroad. The country as a whole, has the appearance of growing prosperity.

Will Be Guest Of Honor

North Battleford, Sask.—Premier J. T. M. Anderson will be the guest of honor at the annual rally sponsored by the Board of Trade, which will be held here Tuesday, November 12. More than 2,000 people attended the function last year when farmers from all parts of the district came in for the day's entertainment.

Relief Fund For Miners

London, England.—The fund for relief of distress among the families of unemployed coal miners has been reopened for the coming winter. Various grants have already been allocated and altogether about $2,500,000 will be spent. The distribution of relief will take the form entirely of clothing.

GEOLOGIST RETURNS FROM NORTH

Fears for the safety of Geoffrey Gilbert, above, geologist with the Dominion Explorers, have been allayed by the news of his arrival at Fort Simpson. He was to have been picked up by the MacAlpine party and for a time it was not known whether he had been forced down with them or was awaiting their arrival. "Punch" Dickins brought him and three others out during an unsuccessful flight to locate the MacAlpine party.

Believes Draft Satisfactory

Manitoba Cabinet Discusses Agreement For Return Of Resources

Winnipeg.—Tentative draft agreement for transfer of natural resources will probably be atisfactory to Manitoba, believes Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior. The Dominion minister conferred with members of the Manitoba cabinet on the first occasion for informal discussion of the draft.

With certain modifications suggested at the conference, the draft was considered to meet with the approval of the government. Every member of the cabinet was present, with the exception of Premier John Bracken, who is absent in the Old Country. Application of the Manitoba Power Company for extended pulpwood limits is to be considered at a conference to be held on Mr. Stewart's return from the west.

Plans For Convention

Dominion Breeders' Association To Meet In Regina Next Month

Regina.—Preliminary arrangements for the convention of the Dominion Breeders' Association, to be held in Regina, on March 24 to 28, 1930, were given attention by the Saskatchewan Livestock Board, at a recent meeting.

A committee to take charge of these plans was appointed. It consists of C. M. Learmouth, J. G. Robertson, D. T. Elderkin, and R. A. Wright.

These Canadian Breeders' Associations meet in Toronto customarily, having met in the west previously only once. That was in Calgary a number of years ago. They are meeting in Regina, in 1930, on the invitation of the Saskatchewan Livestock Breeders and the Regina Board of Trade.

To Take Over Branch Lines

Statement Made That C.N.R. Will Operate Cranberry To Sherritt-Gordon Branch

Winnipeg.—Announcement is made that the branch line from Cranberry to the Sherritt-Gordon mine at Cold Lake will be taken over by the Canadian National Railways at the end of October.

It is expected that when the branch is taken over there will be a tri-weekly passenger service to and from The Pas and a daily freight service.

H. MacLean, president of the Dominion Construction Company, stated that work on the branch had been completed well ahead of schedule.

Local mining men believe that the taking over of the line by the C.N.R. will lend great impetus to mining in Northern Manitoba. Work on many promising prospects have been held up, they state, because of the exorbitant cost of taking machinery into the Cold Lake mining area by winter trails.

Renews Arts Competition

Eight Prizes Are Again Offered By Lord Willingdon

Montreal.—Lord Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada, has informed Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University, by letter of the renewal of the Willingdon arts competition, inaugurated last year. Eight prizes in all are offered with a view of furthering and encouraging cultivation of art and literature. Four prizes of $100 each are offered for competition in music, two in literature of $100 each, one in painting of $100, and one prize in sculpture of $200.

Freight Rates Hearing

Board Of Railway Commissioners To Consider Cases East and West

Ottawa.—Two important hearings before the Board of Railway Commissioners will likely take place this fall, when the request of the maritimes for lower grain rates over the transcontinental railway and that of Alberta in connection with coal rates will be presented.

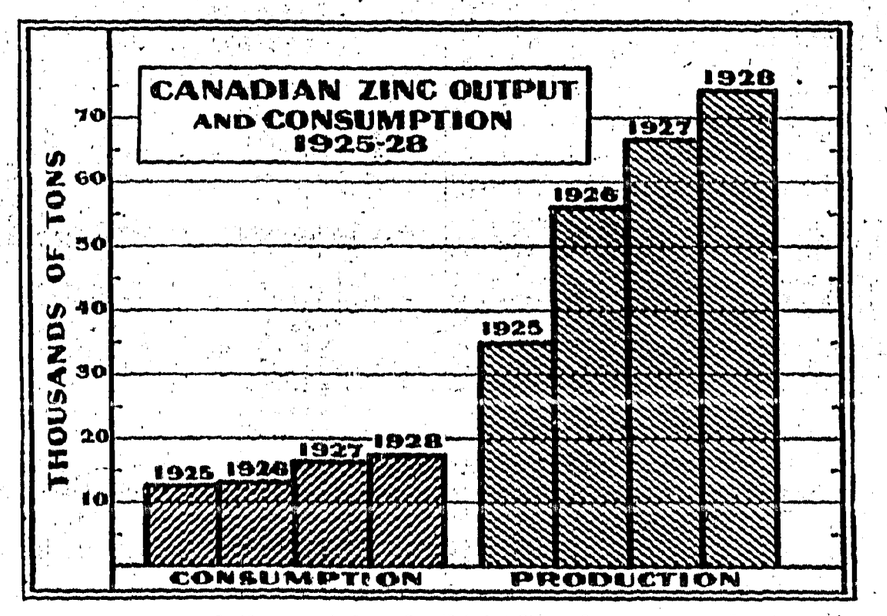
No dates have yet been fixed for these hearings, and as yet no formal application has been received from the maritime provinces. It is expected, however, that these will be set within the next day or so.

League Receives Notes

Geneva.—The secretariat of the League of Nations has received from the Canadian Government for registration and publication, copies of notes exchanged August 2 and September 19, 1928, by Canada and the United States with reference to an agreement for the exemption of shipping companies from income tax.

Ottawa.—A 17-year-old Indian boy showed modern agriculturists how to do their stuff recently, and won first prize in the international plowing contest against 369 opponents. George Barlow was the winner. He owns a farm, which he bought himself at Middleport.

ZINC PRODUCTION IN CANADA



Zinc is one of the metals of which Canada now produces a heavy exportable surplus, the last few years having witnessed a rapid increase in the spread between domestic production and consumption. According to figures published by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics, the Canadian output of zinc last pear amounted to about four times the domestic consumption. British Columbia accounts for much the greater part, with Quebec as the other main contributor. Incidentally, the growth of production has converted zinc from a minor to a highly important item in Canadian mineral production, the value of the output last year exceeding ten million dollars.

GRAIN STORAGE CRISIS BELIEVED TO BE NOW OVER

Winnipeg.—The grain storage crisis has passed. Yawning bins at country points contain more than enough storage space to accommodate the unmarketed portion of the 1929 crop. Farmers' deliveries are falling off and are being balanced by the movement to the lake head. And lake head bins are being kept level by grain boats steaming steadily eastward.

Attentive observers of the western storage situation regarded these omens with relief. They looked back on a car-rationing move during the first half of October by both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific railways; they remembered the fear a month and more ago that Port Arthur and Fort William elevaters might soon be filled to overflowing and that the yards would be crammed with loaded grain cars.

Just 60,000,000 bushels of wheat remain to be hauled to the country elevators by prairie farmers, it was estimated. And aggregate country storage on October 23—after a drop for the second successive day following continued rise for weeks — stood at 86,640,000 bushels. The bins still have capacity for more than 72,000,000 bushels, allowing range for 12,000,000 bushels of undelivered grain in addition to the wheat.

With grain deliveries falling off at present, it is considered only a matter of time before movement to the lake-head will show a corresponding drop. Handlers of the grain are desirous of having no more grain at hand in terminal elevators after the lake shipping season closes in November than is necessary to accommodate their winter needs. It is more economical storage in local elevators to the greatest possible extent.

Urges Free Speech

Best Way To Deal With Communists Says Miss McPhail

Toronto, Ont.—Miss Agnes McPhail, Canada's only woman member of parliament, in an interview referring to trouble between the local police and Communists, said:

"My opinion of the way to deal with the matter is to let the Communists have free speech. In the words of some one who spoke about Hyde Park, in England, Queens Park might be a real safety valve for Toronto exuberant Communists. The police have been making themselves the laughing stock of all thinking people. It is the silliest business I have heard for some time."

Sails To New Fields

Galli-Curci After a Big Season To Tour the Orient

Regina.—Madame Galli-Curci will sing at The Armouries, Regina, on Wednesday, November 6th, before she sails to a new field, almost the final one on the globe that her rare voice and personality have not already charmed. The diva's tour of the cities of Japan and China, with concerts also at Manila, in the Philippines, starts in February and ends in early summer.

For a number of years letters have been coming to Messrs. Evans and Salter, managers of Madame Galli-Curci, insisting that the diva be spared by America long enough to tour the Orient. It wsa exactly the same, this long and positive insistence, before the diva made her tour of the British Isles, and later made a still more extended singing journey to Australia and New Zealand.

This season again starting in early October, the famous singer is booked solidly in concert for November and December. Again in January and the opening of February she is engaged for her usual opera appearances at the Metropolitan. Then comes the Galli-Curci tour in lands on which the sun rises first.

The Chinese Free Masons of the World in their convention at San Francisco pledged $100,000 for a peace temple in Shanghai.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, NOV. 1

Survival of the Fittest

Commercially speaking, the publishing of weekly newspapers in the smaller centres of British Columbia may now truly be classified as among the hazardous occupations of the times.

Less than six months ago for excellent financial reasons the long established Greenwood Ledge was compelled to discontinue publication and a sort of merger was effected with the Grand Forks Gazette.

This month comes word that the Summerland Review is discontinued and has been absorbed by the Penticton Herald,

In taking over the Review the Herald has this to say: "Recent history of small town weeklies has shown very clearly that conditions have changed greatly within the past decade or two. Automobiles, radios, movies and so on have completely altered the aspect of everyday life, both socially and in commerce. Increasing expense in the printing business has made it plain that only papers in the larger and more centrally located fields can survive. Residents in the smaller communities expect a newspaper of a size and quality which the village weekly cannot provide."

An Institute Opportunity

In persuing an excellent summing up of the year's activities of the local Women's Institute, as presented at the conference in Nelson early last month, one is struck with the attention that has been paid to helping crippled children and beautifying the cemetery.

With this zeal on behalf of the unfortunate youngsters, and in making presentable the abode of those who have been gathered unto their fathers, everyone is in full accord, But from now on, why not a little action in making things a little more worth while for those of the younger generation of this district.

Just at present an effort is being to carry on non-denominational gymnasium work in a local church basement, which, in addition to being too small to handle a class of 38 boys and some 28 girls, is inadequately equipped—and is no place to attempt undenominational effort in a town that is overflowing with sectarianism.

Our information is that for posibly $300 a prospective gym. building could be nicely equipped, and fees paid by the young athletes would most likely pay the rent. And with assurance of electric light before the month is out the same building would most likely serve for basketball.

If the Institute is looking for an excellent local objective we seriously commend to their consideration substantial backing in providing equipment for the successful developement of gymnasium effort.

HOME BREW

The usual year-end statement of Creston Board of Trade covering fruit shipments of the preceding twelve months will be looked forward to with some unusual interest this year. According to the official estimate the Valley started off the season with a prospect of 120,000 boxes of apples but due the prolonged dry spell these figures were, in August, reduced to a total of about 90,000 boxes. Enquiry last week at the Rodgers box factory elicited the information that over 125,000 apple boxes had been sold prior to the end of September and orders were still coming in. In this output, of course, is the supply required for Kootenay Lake points, but these quantities are not at all large. Too, it is worthy of note that where attention has been given to proper cultivation apples are showing remarkable size considering there has been hardly more than an inch of rainfall since about June 20th.

On Sunday afternoon there was a motor crash that did about $200 of damage at the rock point on the Canyon side of the high level bridge accross the Goat River, and this is by no means the first of such mishaps of like or less serious consequences. Some time ago the Victoria Colonist advised that an appropriation would be available once the tourist season was over for road widening between Washout Creek and Kuskanook, and the Review believes it would be good business to aunex a few dollars from such a grant and give the Canyon bridge rock point long-needed attention. Judging from reports on the proceedings at the Legion annual meeting there are a number of returned men who would appreciate employment right now.

Next Friday evening the voters in this section will have opportunity to give Dan McLean, Liberal candidate in West Kootenay, the once over, as he will appear here with Hon. J. H. King, minister of health and S.C.R. at a public meeting at the Grand. Since his nomination about five months ago Mr. McLean has been visiting all points in the riding and is completing this initial tour with a call at Creston. At such centres as Revelstoke, Trail, Rossland, Nelson and others where there is a considerable labor vote Mr. McLean has met with splendid receptiona and grows more confident every day that when polling takes place next year W. K. Esling is due to experience a retiremeut from public life pretty much on a par with that accorded the unbeatable Dr. Rose in this constituency in 1921.

In the matter of sending five dollar bills into the United States—a practice so much in disfavor with Hon. R. B. Bennett the C.P.R. is knowingly or wittingly playing a part that looks like poor business. A local resident tells us that it costs $22.50 to ship a Chevrelet truck from Kuskanook to Nelson, while a touring car of much the same size is carried for $7.50. By rctual test it has been found that on the expenditure of $2,50 for gasoline, plus the loss of one day, and board and lodging enroute, the auto trip can be made via Priest River, Idaho, to Nelson at an expenditure of about $11 reckoning $5 for the day, $3 for travelling expenses and $2.50 for the gas. Why the big transportation company makes this discrimination between pleasure and business transportation vehicles is hard to fathom. Usually the perference is the other way on.

Assuming that the tonnage handled by the Associated Growers is pretty much on a par in the several districts in the province, a recent half-millian dollar distribution on the 1929 appie, pear and onion crop gives a goood idea as to how extensive the fruit growing industry really is—comparatively speaking, of course. When this melon was cut it is announced $158,927 was paid out through the Vernon branch; $140,631 through Kelowna local;; $76,183 at Penticton; $44,856 at Salmon Arm; $10,101 at Grand Forks, and $9,338 to locals in the Kootenays. In fignring out the territory covered by the locals in the Kootenays the Boswell-Creston Valley district must be excluded. Growers in these latter districts are paid independently through the sub-central at Creston.

Clinic With X-Ray

Dr. A. S. Lamb, travelling provincial health officer and tuberculosis specialist, held a chest clinic in Creston on Sunday and Monday. A number of cases were examined and X-rays taken where necessary. The Tranquille Tuberculosis Society have provided a portable X-ray and a public health nurse to assist in these clinics, which are held at intervals in all the larger centres of British Columbia. All expenses incurred in the use of the X-ray and by the nurse are paid by the Tranquille Tuberculosis Society with funds raised by the sale of the Christmas seal.

Canada To Be Well Represented At Fair To Be Held February 17th To 28th

The Deputy British Trade Commissioner announces that the sixteenth annual British Industries Fair will be held next year from February 17th to 28th, inclusive, at London and Birmingham, England. The two sections are complementary to one another, the whole forming the British Industries Fair.

The London section of the fair, which is organized by the British Government Department of Overseas Trade, will be held for the first time in its new home at Olympia. Canadian buyers who have visited the fair in the past will remember that for the last few years it has been held at the White City, in London. Owing to the growth of the fair it has been found that the White City buildings are not now suitable. It has therefore been decided to move the fair to Olympia, which is being especially enlarged for the purpose by the addition of a four-story building. The new building will not actually be completed until the 1931 fair, but two floors, in addition to the existing building, will be ready for occupation by February next. By means of bridging the galleries and other reconstruction work, there will be ready for the forthcoming fair a large two-story building which is believed to be the first of its kind and size in the United Kingdom. Up to the 12th of August last, 800 United Kingdom manufacturers had applied for space at Olympia. Although no definite number is available, it is believed that the applications for space at Birmingham have been made by approximately 500 firms.

The Empire Marketing Board, which is organized under the auspices of His Majesty's Government, will again stage a representative exhibit of food products of the Mother Country, the Dominion and Colonies, and also of the raw materials of the Empire. This exhibit will be given a prominent position on the ground floor of the existing main hall at Olympia. In addition to this there will be a separate exhibit by the Canadian Government, and it is anticipated there will be a representative Canadian Manufacturers' section.

Many Canadian buyers are expected to visit this great national fair. The most prominent British firms in all lines of manufacture will be exhibitors. The exhibits are grouped by trades, so that a buyer can go to any section in which he is interested and inspect it without wandering over the whole of the fair building to discover any particular article or firm.

Canadian buyers who visit the fair each year have on numerous occasions drawn attention to the time which they have saved by a visit to the fair. By such a visit they avoid the necessity of having to travel over the United Kingdom to purchase from the various manufacturers in whose goods they are interested. The schedule of exhibits in both the London and Birmingham sections cover practically every article of United Kingdom manufacture. Full information can be obtained from the British Trade Commissioner, 703, Royal Bank Building, Winnipeg, who will be glad to issue invitations on behalf of the British Government to business men who contemplate making the trip.

Extra Rich Milk Is Used In Famous Bohemian Cake

Practical foreign recipes are always of interest to the housewife anxious to vary the menu. This molasses cake is decidedly different, and yet is easily made if you have extra rich milk on hand. Borden's St. Charles is particularly satisfactory, because it is twice as rich as ordinary milk, taking the place of cream in a cake of this kind. It never varies in quality; consequently you can count on uniform results in every kind of cooking.

Bohemian Molasses Cake

2 cups sugar.
1 cup molasses.
½ cup black coffee.
2 eggs.
1 teaspoon baking soda.
¾ cup Borden's St. Charles Milk.
2 cups flour.
1 teaspoon ginger.
Cloves.
Cinnamon.
Allspice.
½ lb. raisins.

Cream together half a cup of butter, a cup of sugar, a cup of molasses, half a cup of black coffee, two yolkes of eggs, and a teaspoon of baking soda, dissolved in one-half cup St. Charles Evaporated Milk. Then add two cups of flour, a teaspoon of ginger, a dash of cloves, cinnamon and allspice, also half a pound of raisins, if desired. Bake rather slowly.

When done and cool, cover with icing as follows: Beat the two whites, pour into them, beating constantly, syrup made by boiling a cup of sugar with a fourth of a cup of Borden's St. Charles Milk.

RESPECT FOR RIGHTFUL AUTHORITY

Golden Text: "Let every soul be in subjection to the higher powers." — Romans 13.1.

Lesson: Mark 12.13-17; Romans 13.1-14; 1 Peter 2.13-17.

Devotional Reading: Matthew 5. 13-20.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Teaches Respect For Law, Mark 12.13-17.—The Pharisees had resolved to compass the death of Jesus. How could they accomplish this? They decided to attempt to ensnare Him in His talk, so that they could report something He said as treason, and thus secure from the Roman Governor His death sentence. Craftily keeping themselves in the background, they sent certain Pharisees and Herodians to Him with that object in view. The Herodians were the court party, a small class who resented the Roman rule, but favored the kinship of the house of Herod and meant to be on good terms with the government at any cost. This alliance of Pharisees and Herodians, who hated each other, shows how great was their common hatred of Jesus.

"Teacher," the deputation began, "we know that Thou art true, and carest not for any one; for Thou regardest not the person of men, but of a truth teachest the way of God." By this preamble they meant that the question they were bout to propound was a dangerous one to answer, but they knew He was not afraid of consequences.

Then came the question His enemies wished Him to answer. "Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar, or not? Shall we give, or shall we not give?" Caesar was the title given to all Roman emperors; the reigning emperor at this time was Tiberius. The tribute was the yearly tax levied on individuals by the Roman Government. Whatever answer Jesus might give would arouse hostility to Himself, the questioners thought: for if He said that it was lawful to give tribute, the people would condemn Him; and if He said that it was not lawful, He could be reported to Pilate as a rebel.

"Bring me a denarius, that I may see it," Jesus commanded. Strict Jews would not carry a denarius, for they held that the emperor's image upon it savored of idolatry, but one was easily obtainable from the money changers. When it was brought to Him Jesus asked, "Whose is the image and superscription?" "Caesar's," was the answer. "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's." And then Jesus quickly added, "And unto God the things that are God's." While discharging the duties imposed upon them of human conditions, men must never lose sight of the duties imposed upon them by their relationship to God.

And they marvelled greatly at Him, at the ease with which He gave an answer that was irrefutable and at the same time evaded the difficult position into which they had thought to put Him, and at the way in which He turned the question away from the realm of politics into that of religion.

COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THE sun is the all-powerful life producer, Nature's universal disinfectant and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally.

Medical research has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective among the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease and debility.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that by using glass we are artificially excluding these vital health-giving rays. Therefore, the invention of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that it is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays, and that its use has a most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, enabled for the first time to have healthy light instead of darkness in their sheds.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last six years completely revolutionized gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, has greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

The Singing Fool

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club wins fame as a composer of popular songs. He marries Molly Winton, a ballad singer, and makes her famous too. Molly and Al have a baby, Junior, whom Al adores. When Junior is about two years old Molly elopes with John Perry, Al's best friend, taking the baby. For a week there is no trace of them. Al, completely broken by the blow, visits his partner Billy Cline, at the Club Bombo, and declares he must sell out. He is through with Broadway. Just then Al learns from a newspaper article that Molly is at a New York hotel, preparing to sail for France that afternoon. He rushes to the 'phone.

CHAPTER XIX.

"No," said Molly o the maid, "you go on packing—I'll answer."

She picked up the receiver to hear Al's voice.

"Molly, is this you? Is it true you're sailing today?"

Molly's eyes grew cold as ice as a look of intense irritation crossed her face. She turned to Perry, putting her hand over the transmitter, and whispered, "It's Al." Perry started, then Molly answered into the 'phone.

"Yes, it's true. I decided to sail today."

The full force of her cold determination was conveyed to Al in those words. But his voice came vibrating back against her ear.

"Please, Molly, you must let me see Junior before he goes. That's all I ask—you won't refuse that!"

Again Molly signaled quickly to Perry, pointing to Junior. The racketeer jumped up—so Al was trying to spoil their game! Perry made a quick gesture of disapproval and Molly turned back to the 'phone.

"There's hardly time" she said. "We're leaving shortly."

Then it seemed to her that Als voice hardened a little, too.

"The boat sails at six Molly—that gives you time. Remember you've taken Junior from me—and you know what he means to me! He's the only thing I have left to live for. I'll be with him only a few moments—you must grant me that!"

Al waited in an agony of suspense, while Molly did some quick thinking. She knew Al could make trouble for her if he wanted to do it. She didn't think he would, but if she refused this last request he might suddenly turn ugly toward her. She decided to conciliate him. Besides, for a wonder, she suddenly felt just a trifle sorry for him. After all, he had been an awfully good sport during the three years of their marriage, and he did adore Junior.

Then she became aware of Perry's agitated figure; he was pacing up and down in front of her, gesticulating for her to refuse. But she turned to him and said in low firm tones.

"We must do this for him, John. It won't hurt us. And he's been so decent to me."

Perry made a reluctant gesture of acquiescence.

"Do as you like. But you can't afford to have him come here."

"No, of course not." She turned back to the 'phone. "I'll have Junior at the 96th Street entrance to the Park in half an hour."

As Al heard her crisp good-by his face was illuminated with joy at the prospect of seeing his son. It would only be a few moments, but it was something—to hold Junior close once more and hear his baby voice. Al glanced at his watch, then remembered Billy Cline, who was waiting mutely nearby.

"She consets, Billy! I'm to see Junior in half an hour! Now I must hurry along."

Cline wrung his hand and Al picked up his hat and coat.

"We'll go over these accounts later," called Cline as Al hurried away, but Al gave only a hurried wave of the hand in agreement. His thoughts were concentrated on the meeting with his son.

Cline looked after him, shaking his head sadly. It seemed to him that the downfall and complete collapse of Al Stone was imminent all because of Molly.

"If I were in Al's place," thought Billy, "I'd certainly try to nab that woman at the boat and get the child back. But no, he won't do it. He thinks how it might put a stigma on the baby. And I think he loves Molly too much, even now, to do it."

The night club owner gave a sigh, sat down at his desk, and began to go over the accounts of the Club Bombo.

. . . . Al boarded a taxi and reached the 96th Street entrance ten minutes later. He still had a twenty minute wait, but he wanted to be on the spot ahead of time for this, the most important appointment of his life. He paced nervously up and down, peering at every limousine that passed. Then, as so often happens when there is so much at stake, imaginative and imaginary fears began to possess him.

What if Molly had lied to him, what if she were stringing him along and even now was hurrying with Junior toward the boat? But just when this fear had become so intense that he thought he couldn't endure it a moment longer, Molly's blue Rolls-Royce approached, came to a stop and the door swung open. Molly wasn't in it; a strange nursemaid stepped out, leading Junior by the hand.

Al rushed forward to clasp his boy in his arms.

As Junior saw Al approaching his little arms opened wide. Then he felt himself caught and lifted high, with his face against his daddy's cheek. Why this was just like home, when his daddy came in at dinner time, to rush into the nursery first thing and embrace him. Yet it was different, in a way, and the sensitive child felt it. His daddy was silent for a long moment as he pressed Junior close to him.

The little boy thought he was crying. . . . . But no, Al held him at arm's length and whispered, with radiant face:

"It's wonderful to see you again. Did you miss daddy, Junior?"

Junior nodded. "Awful much. I asked muvver were you was. I asked her all the time."

Again the quick clasping of the little warm body in its heavy blue overcoat. Then Al carried Junior toward one of the benches that stood by the park entrance.

"Let's sit down here, Junior. We can be all alone."

Junior sat on Al's lap, looking up into his face. During these few precious moments Al wanted his child all to himself, out of earshot of the nurse-maid. There she was pacing up and down beside the car, keeping a sharp eye on Junior and his father.

"She's been told to watch me — told I might steal him," thought Al.

How pink Junior's cheeks were and how lovely his curls, escaping in profusion from under his funny little Breton cap. He sat with his tiny, sturdy legs, in leather leggings, spread far apart, studying his father's expression, as if seeking the answer to some question that was bothering his baby mind. Yes, there was something about Junior, a sudden gravity, that convinced Al he knew vaguely that all was not well with the Stone family. It was just a feeling with Junior and he had no words that really expressed it, but he said soberly:

"Daddy, I've missed you lots."

"Have you, Junior?"

"Yes, I have. I wisht you was goin' wiv muvver and me."

Al turned his face away quickly, as if he were studying intently something far down the street. He didn't want Junior to see his expression of extreme unhappiness, and for a moment he could not speak. But as he gained control of himself he said:

"Do you, Junior? So do I. You can't know how much daddy longs to go with you."

"Why can't you go, then?"

Again the sudden staring down the street and the quick return of daddy's warm, loving eyes.

"Because, Junior — well, it's something you wouldn't understand. You'll know some day. . . . . But you'll never forget daddy, will you? You'll never forget that daddy loves you every moment and thinks of you and sings to you."

"Never," said Junior, with the certitude of a grown person and a solemn wag of his head. Then he asked:

"Do you feel bad, daddy?"

Al stiffened his quivering lip and managed to summon a smile.

Anglicising Foreign Names

Many Lose Their Dignity and Become Quite Commonplace.

Foreign names of musicians and composers always seem to be somewhat imposing and sonorous. When they are Anglicised they appear to lose much of their dignity, and become quite commonplace. Guiseppe Verdi becomes in English, Joseph Green, Wagner becomes Cartwright, Bach becomes Brook, and Weber, Weaver. Some names are less common when translated, and while Strauss, or Straus, is one of the commonest names in Germany, its translation is Nosegay, which is quite unknown here. Handel means trade or commerce; Haydn, heather; and Himmel, heaven; Loewe is lion; Cherubini, a little cherub; Rossini, the small red one; Schumann, shoe man, presumably the cobbler; Schonberg, beautiful mountain; Tito Mattei was simply Timothy Matthews, or he would have been so had he been an Englishman with an English name.

An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent colds, or if it does come on suddenly their prompt use will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

British Census Takers Do Work Thoroughly

Chief Appointed To See That No One Escapes Count

Giant maps are now being prepared for the use of census takers in England and Wales, in 1931. These maps show every street and alley and court in the land and the whole country is split up into 50 areas. A census chief is appointed to each section, and has the responsibility of seeing that nobody escapes the count.

Even the gypsies and the vagrants on the road are "trapped" on census night by policemen specially detailed.

With 40,000,000 persons due to be counted, the census form goes into every house, every workhouse, every hospital, every prison and every casual ward and lodging house.

Important information will be extracted from the figures which will shed a light on the constantly changing conditions of the lives and habits of the nation.

Giant British Airship

Trials Of the R-101 Said To Be Most Successful

Great Britain's giant new dirigible R-101, largest in the world, has been granted her "air worthiness" certificate after her successful 300-mile flight.

The anxiety which was felt in many quarters about her navigability, before she went into the air, is said now to be entirely dispelled. The experiments made in her construction are considered a success.

It was stated that the initial trip was probably the most economical ever made by a dirigible so far as gas is concerned.

Experts looked forward to flights soon of the R-100, sister ship, and comparable to the R-101 in size and probable performance.
