GRAND CONCERT IN ILO ILO ON TUESDAY, APRIL 29

Artist Concert to be held in the Ilo Ilo Theatre when Miss Jennie Taggart and Mr. Frederic Taggart will Appear Before the Public of Cumberland.

MISS JENNIE TAGGART,
Prima Donna Soprano.

Arrangemetns are now complete for the concert to be given at the Ilo Ilo Theatre on Tuesday night, April the 29th, at 8 p.m., by Miss Jennie Taggart and Mr. Frederic Taggart, who are touring the Sound and Vancouver Island, giving concerts at various cities.

It represents a great stride in a musical direction that Cumberland should be included in the tour, but there cannot be any doubt that if Cumberland annd district, containing as it does a large percentage of music-loving people, is sufficiently made known of the advent of this concert, its success will be assured, and should the first concert be well attended others of a similar nature will follow next winter.

The two artistes hail from Scotland and are of very great repute here, as they are also generally in Great Britain. Miss Taggart has appeared in Covent Garden and The Thomas Beecham Opera, besides having sung in numerous concerts at the Royal Albert Hall and Queen's Hall, London.

She has taken leading solo parts in the Sheffield, Norwich and Bristol musical festivals, and was engaged as leading soprano soloist in the world tour of the Sheffield Choir (Dr. Henry Coward, Conductor.)

Press reports from leading American, Canadian, Australian and South African papers proclaim her a great artist. Coming nearer home the Seattle Post-Intelligencer says: "Miss Jennie Taggart may count an army of friends in Seattle."

MR. FREDERIC TAGGART,
Famous Scotch Baritone.

Her brother, Mr. Frederic Taggart, is a versatile artist, equally at home in grand opera, oratorios or ballad concerts. To have been solo bass in that magnificent cathedral, Glasgow, the second largest city in the British Empire, is an honor indeed. Press comments and personal knowledge of the singing of Frederic Taggart leads us to anticipate his performance here as that of a great singer, and the opportunity that is afforded the town of Cumberland and district must not be missed by any.

Mr. Andrew Dunsmore, organist of the Presbyerian Church, Nanaimo, travels with them as their accompanist.

Dance will be held after the concert in the Ilo Ilo Dance. Gents, $1.00. Ladies, Amusement Tax.

Joseph Naylor, who is reported to have received such a cold reception in the interior on his Big Union deal, returned to Cumberland on Thursday. Joe apparently has been able to live without work for a long time—evidently he wants to keep it up.

"The Better 'Ole" will appear at the Ilo Ilo Theatre on Tuesday, April 22nd. Special music and special prices. Children 25c. Adults, 55c. Box seats, 75c.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Rickson left for Vancouver on Monday.

"THE WAY OUT," AT THE ILO IL THEATRE TONIGHT

A really startling way out of the most serious sort of a problem is that shown in the newest Word Picture which bears the appropriate title of "The Way Out," and in which Carlyle Blackwell and June Elvidge are starred. Patrons of the Ilo Ilo Theatre will see what this way out was when they see this picture at this theatre on Monday, April 21st.

Every film fan in the city is urged to see "The Way Out," as it is an absorbingly entertaining film.

The story starts with the efforts of Mrs. Thornton, an ambitious society woman, to break off the engagement between her daughter, Alice, and Robert Barr, a successful newspaper correspondent. She is eager to have Alice marry a title, but is too shrewd toopenly oppose the engagement between the young couple.

Mrs Thornton uses an altogether innocent occurence to turn Alice against Robert and the mother is successful in doing this. She then takes Alice abroad to Paris, where Alice meets the Count de Jouiville and eventually marries him. But secretly she is still in love with Robert.

The scene shifts to a battlefield in France, and there Robert proves that he is all man and he assures Alice's happiness by his deed there.

You will enjoy this very fast-moving, very unusual film, from start to finish. See it.

Dr. Juhlin, who is now in this country to study our postoffice methods, was enthusiastic about the possibilities of the aerial mail routes. JOE NAYLOR IS TOLD HE IS NOT WANTED

NELSON, April 10.—On the ground that anyone holding "unpatriotic views is unfit to mold public opinion," Slocan District Board of Trade at Silverton passed a resolution that J. Naylor, member of the Central Committee of the One Big Union, shall not hold meetings in that district and shall leave it at once, according to a dispatch received by the Daily News. The meeting further resolved that "the matter of all such undesirable citizens being allowed entire freedom of movement be at once taken up with the Dominion authorities.

Naylor was told to get out of Cranbrook a few nights gao and at Trail was told that he was not wanted. Rossland also received him coolly, and although he came to Nelson and it was understood that he was to speak he has not done so, and it is believed that he has left the city.

At the last meeting of the Cumberland Volunteer Fire Department Chief Banks was appointed collector to collect all promised donations towards the new motor truck. The Firemen are anxious to clear off their indebtedness. The local Firemen complain that when the fire bell rings and the new motor urtck is out and ready to proceed to the fire a number of citizens jump into the truck to the disadvantage of the regular firemen. The motor truck is for the firemen only, especially in case of a fire.

BRINGING HOME AN ENGLISH BRIDE

The following is an extract from a daily newspaper of Yarmouth, England, giving a report of the marriage of Corporal Fraser Watson, of Cumberland, and Alice Lillian Buckle. It reads as follows:

At St. Nicholas Church was solemnized, on Thursday, 6th March, the marriage of Corporal A. F. Watson, (British Columbia), of the Canadian Forces, and Alice Lilian, third daughter of the late Mr. Ernest Buckle and Mrs. Buckle, of Palgrave Road, Great Yarmouth, and granddaughter of Mr. John Buckle. The bride, who was given away by her grandfather, Mr. J. Harris, wore a dress of ivory georgette and satin, also veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of lilies and narcissi. Miss Iris M. Buckle, sister of the brdie, who acted as chief bridesmaid, was attired in a pretty dress of light blue georgette and silk. She wore a hat of black and gold silk and carried a bouquet. Private S. Watson, of the Canadian Forces, brother of the bride groom, acted as best man. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. H. H. Thorns, rector of Rockland All Saints, near Attleborough. There were many useful wedding presents. Mr. and Mrs. Watson will shortly be leaving for Canada.

A representative gathering attended the Council Chambers on Friday evening, at the request of the Mayor to make arrangements for the celebration of the 24th of May. The Mayor presided, and the following were elected to take charge of the Day's sports: Hon. Pres., James M. Savage; Hon. Vice-Pres., Thomas Graham; Pres., D. R. MacDonald; Vice-Pres., Dr. Geo. K. MacNaughton; Secretary, Thomas Mordy; Treas., W. Willard. The various committees, sports ,programme, grounds, were appointed, and will meet again in the Council Chambers on Monday evening at 7.30 p.m.

REAL ENTERTAINMENT IN BAIRNSFATHER'S PLAY

"The Romance of Old Bill," as related in the film of "The Better 'Ole," is a stirring story containing a strong vein of humor and a message to all who see it. Old Bill is played by Charles Rock, in whose experienced hands Bairnsfather's character is admirably presented. The striking charm about these master studies is that they are so thoroughly unstudied. The characters reek—that is a sound word to use about the trenches—of truth. We see Old Bill, that philosopher of the trenches; Alf and Bert, those life studies in khakhi, the comedy of the uniform. Khaki and cachinations is the motto for "The Better 'Ole." It is better than any play. Only a percentage of people have seen the legitimate version. The screen version begins with a prologue in which we vision Rouget de l'Isle singing the "Marseillaise," we see the "Three Musketeers," of Dumas, "one for three and three for one." These dissolve into our modern trio of warriors—Old Bill, Alf and Bert.

Will be seen at the Ilo Ilo Theatre on Tuesday, April 22nd.

SATURDAY, APRIL 19th, 1919

People who don't mind their own business bring more misery into families, societies and churches than everything else. They turn the pleasant peaceful stream of good will into ground where angels would even fear to tread. Now, minding one's own business is the very best remedy for the itching ears that are never satisfied with hearing and the busy tongue that hurries to speak cruel words. Minding your own business will turn your attention to self, and you will forget to watch so closely the shortcomings of others; it will make peaceful homes, happy neighbors, and quiet consciences; and you will be able to realize and more fully comprehend the truth spoken in holy writ: "Blessed are the Peacemakers."

Young man! there is one thing you cannot do. You cannot make a success in life unless you work. Older men than you have tried it and failed. You cannot loaf around the street corner, smoke, tell stories and sponge on someone else without making a failure of life. You must learn a trade or get into some honest business. If you don't, you will become a chronic loafer, and there is no place in the world for loafers. The ripe fruit is at the top of the tree and you must climb if you get it or some smart man will pluck it from you. Do something no matter how small or how low the wages, it will be a starter. There is no royal road to success; will, grit and endurance are the qualities that lead to it.

Entitled to a Drink

A young man had sauntered carelessly nito the court room of one of New York's superior courts, eyed the judge through his glasses, and then taken a survey of all the attorneys. Then he walked up to the bar and poured out a glass of water.

The judge, who was nervous and testy, had observed the young man, and was not pleased with his appearance. The youth was just raising the glass to his lips when the judge roared:

"That water, sir, is for attorneys and other officers of the court!"

The glass dropped from the young man's hand; he started violently, turned red, then placed the glass on the table, and walked out of the court. The judge chuckled.

Half an hour later the young man entered the court room again with a roll of parchment in his hand. The judge glared at him savagely, but the young man never flinched. Finally, there was a lull in the proceedings, and he addressed the court:

"Your honor!"

"What is it, sir?"

"I wish to submit to the court my certificate of admission to practise in the supreme court and all other courts of this state," and he passed the parchment to the clerk.

"Well, what of that?" growled the judge.

"Now, your honor, having presented the proofs of my admission to the bar, I would move the court that I be permitted to drink from the official pitcher," and he calmly drained the glass of water he had left on the table.

MONTENEGRO TO BE PART OF JUGO-SLAVIA

Alexander, Prince Regent of Serbia, Supposed to be the New Ruler

At last a "modus vivendi" has been found whereby the heroic people of Montenegro will be united with Jugo-Slavia. This news is good and pleasing. Very little, however, has been said during this war about the race that fought the Crescent for centuries and has been guarding the shores of the Adriatic for decades, from Mount Lvocen, now again in possession of the brave Montenegrins.

The great Gladstone said long ago, that the people of Montenegro had proved their right to existence by their heroic exploits and fights for civilization. In order to appreciate the heroism of Montenegrins, it is necessary to know the country, because there are no roads to speak of, and yet at any time the "melting pot" was in danger the heroic soldiers of Montenegro fought the foe, any foe, that had the intention to invade the little country and thus endanger the Balkan peninsular as a whole.

Soon after Serbia's emancipation, Montenegro also became a princpiality, as a matter of fact, under the rule of her native Prince-Bishops of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. This mountainous country had preserved a certain amount of independence, even during the era of the Ottoman domination, while maintaining a constant warfare against the Turks in the eighteenth century. But the true emancipation began in the nineteenth century, when the worthy contemporary of Kara-Gorge, Bishop Peter I. Petrovitch (died 1830), stoutly resisted all Turkish attacks upon Montenegrin independence. The last Bishop, Prince Peter II., (died 1851), also of the house of Petrovitch, was the first Montenegrin ruler who succeeded by diplomacy in obtaining recognition for Montenegro as an independent state, and also in organizing the internal affairs of the country, which was at that time plunged into a state of anarchy by the mutual dissensions of unruly tribes. His successor, Danilo, proclaimed himself Prince in 1851.

The present King Nicolas Njegos ascended the throne in 1860. During his reign this little principality has increased greatly in prestige. In 1876 and 1878 Montenegro, in company with Serbia, fought Turkey. The outcome of it was that Montenegro's territory was enlarged and she obtained access to the sea.

Montenegro became independent "de jure" in 1875, and in 1910 was finally raised to the rank of a kingdom.

When, in 1912, the sound of the war bugle from the Balkans reached this city and province, many of these brave Montenegrins paid their fare from here to Montenegro to save their beloved country. Thousands of them passed through the city of Vancouver in 1912, and very few could be seen in measure less than six feet. They all went, as they said, "to save Gospodara Crne-gore," (to save the Master of Montenegro.) A great many of these fighters paid their own fare as far as from Alaska. Montenegro played a heroic part in those two wars, and made substantial territorial acquisitions which gave her a frontier in common with Serbia.

A great many rumors have been circulated about the "Gospodar" or Master of Montenegro, during the recent struggle. Yet not many have proved to be correct, in any case none to the detriment of the Montenegrin people. Whatever the accusations might have been, the unquestionable fact remains, that the old King-Gospodar, when declaring war against Austria-Hungary, said in his proclamation, and as in part, his answer to the cooks of the Vienna kitchen:

"Je tire l'epee pour la deliverance et l'union de tous les Jougoslaves."

Despite of this, some differences have been in existence between the subjects of Montenegro and the members of the Serbian Government. This, however, was used very much by the press of the Central Powers in order to divide more and more those two identical peoples.

Very much has been said recently about the sons of the old king, especially Danilo. I personally think that Danilo deserves criticism, because as a pure Slav, he married a German Princess. Yet he is not the only one who committed such a political mistake It has also been said that during the Russo-Japanese war he drank to the success of the Jpaanese. This is correct, because the Japanese were successful, and it was not only Danilo who expressed his admiration in this way.

As far as the other two sons of King Nicolas are concerned, while there might be some truth in such allegations, it seems very strange that the "Grand Cordon" of the Montenegrin Order is given to someone and accepted, as it has been stated the other day, and that the recipient should divulge matters concerning the private life of the old King and his sons. After all, whatever the mistakes of his sons might have been, they valiantly fought our common foes, the Germans, in 1912 and 1913, and even in 1914.

Furthermore, it seems to me an insult to the family of the old King Nicolas, inasmuch as this Order of the Grand Cordon was not refused by the recipient on account of the conduct of the King's sons.

This reminds me of a very clever remark made by the old King Nicolas a few years ago. One day while he was awaiting the arrival of a steamer which was to take him home from a trip abroad. As on such journeys he was accompanied only by his private secretary, and usually travelled incognito, it was nothing unusual to be introduced to him. On such occasions the conversation was usually on general topics. As the King was very anxious to start an import and export trade for his country, the person talking to him on this occasion asked him what, if anything, he exported from his country, Montenegro? "Daughters" was the reply of the old King.

He was perfectly right, for a few days afterwards he gave the Queen of Beauty of the Balkans, the Princess Helena, in marriage to the heir of Italy.

I wonder if Helena, now Queen of Italy, would not have become a target also for such accusations as were made against her sisters the other day? It seems to me that she was saved from being thus insulted, as her sisters were, just because she is the Queen of Italy.

The Montenegrin Government and the King are in Neuilly-sur-Seine, where they are fighting their case from "over there." It is possible that the old King contemplated another coup d'etat, and that accounts for his being at the present time in great disfavor with the overwhelming majority of his people. Yet all this has been settled the other day, when the old King submitted to the resolutions passed between the Jugo-Slav National Council on the one side, and the Prime Minister Pasich on the other.

The Montenegrins are Serbs and, like the Serbs of the Kingdom of Serbia, of Bosnia and Herzegovina, close kinsmen of the Croats and Slovenes, or the Adriatic provinces now called Jugo-Slavia. All these peoples wanted the union of all their citizens into a complete Jugo-Slav kingdom, or republic, as the case may be, stretching from the Italian frontier to Macedonia. The Old Man of Montenegro and the venerable King of Serbia have reached an agreement whereby the Prince Regent Alexander of Serbia becomes the new ruler of Jugo-Slavia, since this young man unites in his person the two dynasties, his mother being a princess of Montenegro. This was at first opposed by the old King on account of his sons, but all those difficulties are now removed to the satisfaction of all concerned.

PRESENTS

The London Cinema Sensation

"THE BETTER 'OLE"

By CAPTAIN BRUCE BAIRNSFATHER and ARTHUR ELIOT

This is not an ordinary motion picture—it is the greatest Cinema of the Day, carrying a message from the Brave Boys who spent four long and weary years in the trenches, at times under terrific bombardment, but always fighting with grim determination that final victory might be assured for the Allies.

"The Better 'Ole," is a different story of the great War—thre are no thrilling battle scenes, no hand-to-hand fightng, no artillery firing—you see the daily routine life of the lads who fought so gallantly for victory.

Old Bill, Bert and Alf, the three famous cartoon characters of Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, are famous the world over in "The Better 'Ole," and they are brought to life in the most wonderful motion picture of the war.

The secret of the story's wonderful fascination is its close and true analysis of the spirit which animates the men in the trenches, that spirit which keeps them cheerful under conditions almost indescribable. The army is full of Old Bills, Berts and Alfs, with their sorrows and pleasures—pleasures that make the very word seem a mockery—but true reflections of what the daily life of the boys has been "Over There." "The Better 'Ole" will do more than raise a laugh, and dim the eyes with tears at the pathos so piquantly drawn. It will make the people at home understand as never before why the Great War was fought to a bitter finish, and how much is due to the Berts and Alfs and Old Bills who stood as a living wall of protection for the people at home.

WHAT THE RETURNED MEN AT WHITBY MILITARY HOSPITAL THINK OF "THE BETTER 'OLE."

A SERGEANT: A darn good picture. The best I ever saw.
A CORPORAL: The most realistic version of life at the front that I have ever seen.
A GUNNER: Great! The last word in war plays, and I have seen nearly all war pictures produced.
A PRIVATE: Seen it twice, want to see it again. This is the picture for anyone that has a relative at the front.
AN OFICER: Never thought it was possible to reproduce on the screen life as you see it at the front. "The Better 'Ole" has accomplished this.
A NURSING SISTER: Wonderful! It will give the public an inside view of the life of our wonderful men. Advise everyone to see it.

Acclaimed by everyone who has seen this Production to be the Greatest Heart Interest Story ever filmed.

ADMISSION: Children, 25c. General, 55c. Box Seats, 75c.

TWO PERFORMANCES: First Show Starts 6.30; Second at 8.30 p.m.

"HANDS UP!"

The above-named serial is the one which the management of the Ilo Ilo Theatre have arranged with the Film Exchange to follow the "House of Hate."

"Hands Up" is a Western Feature—the first put on by the Pathe Company—with such an atmosphere, full of thrilling deeds, feats of horsemanship and hairbreadth escapes. The scenery is wild and rugged, as the play is staged in the mountains of Mexico and California.

Ruth Roland, one of the most famous and popular of all motion picture stars, after a year's vacation, is again taking one of the leading parts in this play. Other well known actors, such as Eastor Walters and George Gibbardt, are included in this, so the cast is a large and expensive one.

This is a Humdinger! It will keep you on the edge of your seat.

The first episode of "Hands Up" will be shown in the Ilo Ilo Theatre on Wednesday ,April 23rd.

ILO ILO ITEMS.

Another extraordinary picture will appear at the Ilo Ilo Theatre on April 22nd, known as "The Better 'Ole," an all-British wonder film from the famous stage success, "The Romance of Old Bill," now making a tremendous hit at New York, Toronto and Montreal. This is the first motion picture to depict the indefatigable carry-on spirit of the great British army, bringing to life those three famous musketeers: "Old Bill, Bert and Alf," in the greatest cinema of the day. This is not an ordinary motion picture—it is a message from the boys who spent long years in the trenches, under terrific bombardment, but always fighting with the grim determination that final victory might be assured for the Allies. Admission: General, 50c. box seats, 75c.

The Cumberland Public Schools closed on Thursday for the Easter Holidays, and will re-open again on Monday, April 28th.

Tonight's programme at the Ilo Ilo Theatre will be: Bryant Washburn in "Skinner's Dress Suit," the sixth episode of "Vengeance—and the Woman," and "A Stenographer's Trouble" a merry comedy of shorthand and flirtation, with an all-star cast, including Anita Stewart, Clara Kimball Young, Norma Talmadge, Lillian Walker, Dorothy Kelly, Flora Finch, Florence Turner, John Bunny, James Morrison, George Cooper, and Dick Leslie. A Big Show. Usual Prices.

On Monday evening the Cumberland Tennis Club appointed the following officers for the season: President, Dr. Geo. K. MacNaughton; Vice-President J. W. Cooke; Secretary and Treasurer W. G. Hassell. The Club will have the use of ex-Mayor Parnham's court for the season.

NOTICE.

Spring is here, and it is most necessary that all rubbish accumulated in back-yards and lanes should be cleaned up immediately, as now is the time when germ-carrying insects breed. This is especially necessary in view of the present epidemic in our neighborhood. This town is healthy; let us keep it so. Considerate and law-abiding citizens will nedd no other intimation.

Chief of Police.
