COWARDS ARE EXECUTED

Petrograd, Aug. 7.—Gen. Korniloff's prompt severity has saved all that was worth saving in the armies at the front. The corps first to set the bad example and lead the general exodus from the fighting lines was the Corps d'Elite of Guards, from Petrograd. Their commander, Gen. Maviesky, was among those who received Korniloff's order to fire on deserters, but he failed to carry out his orders.

Korniloff, in strict accordance with justice, sent Maviesky before the courtmartial for disobedience of orders, and he was sentenced to be shot. Russian history thus has a new precedent, for never before has a commandant of a guards corps undergone such shame.

The oldest guards regiments which Kerensky ordered to be disbanded for cowardice, will not be so treated. It is universally recognized that their historic names must live, even though they have passed through mud, like the rest of Russia during the last five months.

The regiments will be reformed out of worthy volunteers from the fighting armies.

A fighting general here says that the Russian armies will soon be as good as ever, under the same commanders where any of these still survive the experiences of the last five months.

Considering all things, it is worth noting how little progress the Germans are making in their absolute walkover. The 8th., army has extricated itself and, though still retiring, has none of the enemy any longer behind it. Moreover, unless the Germans can contrive to increase their numbers at once and very considerably, their situation is far from being enviable, if the Russian armies, say between Kovel and Brody, are capable of responding to the able leadership of Gen. Cheremisoff, one of the Siberian ironsides heroes.

A Portion of Canadian Law

This is published for the benefit of the few who think it is not necessary to assist a police officer in the execution of his duty when called upon: Section 167 of the Criminal Code of Canada says: "Every one is guilty of indictable offence and liable to six months imprisonment who, having reasonable notice that he is required to assist any sheriff, deputy sheriff, mayor or other head officer, in the execution of his duty in arresting any person, or in preserving the peace, without reasonable excuse omits to do so."

WILL CONCENTRATE AGAINST BRITAIN.

London, Aug. 8.—A dispatch to Reuter's, Limited, from Amsterdam says it is reported from a German source that Germany intends shortly to concentrate her submarine activity exclusively against Britain.

LIBERAL CONVENTION AT WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Aug. 7.—Premier Norris, of Manitoba was cheered to the echo when on opening the convention of western Liberals, with 1000 persons present, this morning he referred feelingly to the critical character of the times and declared it to be the earnest wish of every good citizen that the best interests of the country, regardless of political bias, should engage the attention of the convention. He was wildly cheered for several minutes and he continued at some length in a conciliatory spirit.

The platform presented a galaxy of Liberals who were received with vociferous cheers when they marched through the crowds into the hall and took seats on the rostrum. There was but one British Columbia man so honored, Premier Brewster. Among the others were Premiers Sifton and Martin, Hon. Frank Oliver, Chas Cross, J. G. Turiff, Hon A. D. Hudson, attorney-general of Manitaba, Hon. James Calder, of Regina and a sprinkling of lesser lights. Flags of the Empire and a big American flag decorated the stage with the tri-color given a prominent place.

At 10.30 Premier Brewster of British Columbia announced that the convention should proceed to organize. The convention, he believed, represented the very broadest Canadianism and he thought it was fitting that, as temporary chairman, there should be one who had done so much for western Liberalism, Hon. T. C. Norris.

Mr. Norris said the convention was one of representative thought and men. Only three or four members of the four western provincial governments were absent, and it was almost impossible to get any more complete representation from the provinces.

"There never has been a time in the history of Canada when Canada required service of such a high order as was the case today," Mr. Norris continued. "The convention was not called for merely partizan purposes, and while they represented the West, there was no prejudice against Eastern Canada; they must have 'Canada at large' at heart. If they started in with the idea not to be partizan or sectional, then they were on the right basis.

"The House of Commons is standing still in order to watch this convention and the whole of the Dominion was looking to the West for a lead."

"One of the most important things I am going to ask this convention is to create a win-the-war policy," said Mr. Norris.

"There never has been a time in the history of Canada when there was such a demand for unity. The spirit of win-the-war is covering all Western Canada. There will be no difference of opinion as to that, though there may be as to the measures to be taken. I have found nobody who wants to quit.

"If ever there was a debt that every Canadian owes, it is the debt he owes to the soldier who has given his life. Let us pass over sectionalism. Don't let our party feelings run too wide."

Alex. Henderson made a farewell visit to Cumberland last week end and left on Tuesday evening for St. John from where he will proceed overseas.

SIR RICHARD PASSES AWAY AT LONDON

After an illness of several months, Sir Richard McBride died Monday morning at his London home in his forty-seventh year. Lady McBride and his six daughters were at his bedside.

Although news had occasionly filtered through from London that Sir Richard was in ill health, his many friends in British Columbia did not realize the gravity of his condition until so informed through the news columns of the Victoria Colonist of Sunday, July 8, when it was announced, upon the receipt of cable information from London, that he was in a critical condition.

From time to time reports have been forwarded which indicated that, while Sir Richard was far from being in good health, his condition was improving, several of the latest bulletins stating that Sir Richard and his family contemplated returning to Canada at an early date. The news of his death, which reached the province Monday afternoon, therefore came as a shock to many of his friends, who had been hoping to see him again. Death was due to Grave's desease.

It is proposed to bring the body to British Columbia for burial, which will be under the auspices of the Provincial Government.

CONVENTION AT PARKSVILLE

Some forty delegates from the various Liberal Associations in the Comox-Alberni Federal Constituency met at Parksville on Tuesday, the 7th., of August, to nominate a candidate to contest the seat now held by Mr. H. S. Clements, M. P. His Honor, Mr. Wm. McInnes of Vancouver, was nominated, while the Rev. Thomas Menzies of Sandwick was nominated to take the place of McInnes in the event of his failing to accept nomination. Mr. P. P. Harrison, our local barrister, and general solicitor for the Canadian Collieries Dunsmuir, Limited, was strongly urged by all the delegates, with the exception of those from Courtenay and Comox, to allow his name to go to the Convention as a candidate, but he was unable to accept. Had he accepted he would have undoubtedly secured the nomination, as those desiring him to run were well in the majority. Mr. P. P. Harrison is by far the most prominent and influential Liberal in the district, and for the last ten years has done a great deal to keep the Associations alive. We think Mr. Harrison acted wisely in keeping out of the contest as our present member, Mr. H. S. Clements will undoubtedly win out in the event of an election as he is very popular with all and he has always served his Constituency in a manner which leaves no room for adverse criticism.

BREAK LINES OF CROWN PRINCE

Paris, Aug. 7.—French troops last night broke into the lines of the German Crown Prince on the Champagne front at three places, inflicting losses on the Germans and bringing back prisoners, it was officially announced today by the French war department. A Teuton attack between Avocourt Wood and Hill 304 in the Verdun sector, was driven off with heavy losses to the Germans. There were fairly violent artillery duels in the Bixschoote sector of the of the Belgian front and between Hurtebise and Craonne, north of the river Aisne.

The Matin's correspondent at the front telegraphs:

"The Germans have made up their minds to retake their lost second line at all costs. Even the Crown Prince could not throw away more men than are now being sacrificed around Ypres. On Wednesday night two divisions were deliberately hurled forward to regain a redoubt and the only result was the enormous losses inflicted.

"That the Germans are weary of battle is confirmed by an order found on a prisoner saying:

"I learn that many men are leaving their posts without leave on the plea of illness. Company commanders must see that this does not occur. They must keep up the morale of the men."

An amusing incident occurred on Tuesday. It was necessary to destroy a machine-gun position at the point of junction of the Allied armies. Mixed detachments of French and British were sent there. They accomplished their mission and took prisoners. Each side insisted that the other have the honor of taking back the captives. Finally they played cards to decide the matter.

Extends School Holidays

For dissimilar reasons, busy as well as idle school children all over the province will hail with pleasure the announcement issued this morning by the Department of Education that the public schools will not re-open until Tuesday, September 4, a week later than customary.

The Department decided on extending the holidays in order that the boys and girls who have been helping with the harvesting of the fruit crop might have the additional week in the orchards without losing time which the less patriotically disposed students would be using to advantage at their desks. The action was taken in response to direct appeals from the farmers of the province, who acknowledge having derived very great help from the young men and women—particularly the latter—who have set aside their wishes and have spent their holidays picking strawberries, raspberries, cherries and other fruit which has ripened to date. There have still to be harvested the apple and peach crops, and these coming latter part of the summer and early autumn, would have been he vy losses to most of the farmers had all the younger fruit-gatherers been withdrawn by the re-opening of school.

Can Your Hens For Winter Use.

"Canned chicken" may be made at home in your own kitchen out of the old hens that ought to be killed anyway. The method of operation for what is known as "Straight Pack" by the trade is very simple and is given in detail as follows by Dr. Robert Barnes, chief of the Meat and Canned Foods Division Health of Animals Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa:

Clean and cut up the chicken. Sort out the fleshy portions, such as the legs, thighs and breast. Break off the protruding portions of the bones in each piece. Pack these fleshy portions in a gem jar or other container, as closely as possible. Add salt and pepper. (About a teaspoonful of salt and ⅛ teaspoonful of pepper). Fill to within ¾ inch of overflowing with the liquid that comes from the balance of the chicken, process for preparing which is given below. Place in boiler or other vessel containing warm water and gradually bring to a boil. For pint jars boil 2¼ hours. For quart jars boil 3½ hours. For the balance of the chicken. Place in kettle and boil till the meat will strip free from the bones. Strip off all meat and pack in jar. Pour thereon the balance of the liquid in the kettle that has not been used in the first jar. If there is not enough liquid to fill the second jar, add water. Place in boiler as above, and boil as follows: For pints 1¾ hours. For quarts 2¼ hours. If desired, the whole of the chicken may be prepared the same as the last part. In all cases take care not to expose the gem jars to a sudden change of temperature. Also, after the jars have cooled off, examine the tops to see that the covers are airtight. During the cooking of the product, place the glass tops on the sealers but do not fasten them. Any steam or gas which may be generated will escape. As soon, however, as the process is finished, fasten the tops securely. While describing the method of canning, something should be said about the poultry to be canned. What is preferred are good, plump fowls, with a fair proportion of chickens, the bones of the latter giving a firmer jelly and lessening the danger of a soupy or slushy product. As a precaution against this condition, where the pack is straight fowl, gelatine may be, and often is used. So much has been said and written about the proper methods of starving, bleeding and plucking poultry for market that it is useless to go over them again. One can only emphasize the necessity of exactness in carrying out the accepted principles in connection with these points, which are just as applicable to poultry to be canned as they are to those intended for the market. There is another point which is important, although possibly its carrying out may detract from the appearance and effect the sale to an inexperienced buyer, namely, that all poultry intended for food, canned or otherwise, after being properly starved, bled and plucked, should be left undrawn and kept in a suitable temperature for a day or two in order that the chemical changes which follow the killing of the bird may have an opportunity to take place.

"We look to the resources of Canada, and to the indomitable energy of Canadians for an answer that will shatter Germany's threat of starvation," says Baron Rhonda, Food Controller of Great Britain in a message to Hon. W. J. Hanna, Food Controller of Canada.

The primary duty of a Food Controller in Canada and the United States, said Hon. W. J. Hanna in a recent interview "is to see that the men at the front do not suffer from want of food, and that our Mother Country and our European Allies should not suffer from want of food."

"Have you power to check prices?" Hon. W. J. Hanna was asked. "Certainly." "Are you going to exercise it?" "In the cases where we have the necessary data we will not hesitate to check prices," declared Mr. Hanna.

"The majority of people eat too much anyway," said Miss Eddie, professor of Household Science at the Manitoba Agricultural College, when discussing the Canadian Food Cantroller's suggestion that hotels and restaurants institute two meatless days per week. "And limiting hotel menus to two or three courses is a fine idea."

The Gentle Chauffeur

Major Harrison, of Chicago, was being congratulated at a luncheon on his ordinance forbidding chauffeurs to blow their horns in the crowded business sections of the city.

"Chauffeurs think," he said, "that they need only blow their horns and the pedestrians will leap out of the way. Let the chauffeur drive with care, remembering that the pedestrians' right is supreme.

"Why, if something isn't now done, the chauffeurs in their arrogance will be getting up a code for vedestrians to learn and obey—a code something like this:

"One toot: Throw a quick back headspring for the pavement.

"Two toots: Dive over the car.

"Three toots: Lie down calmly; it is too late to escape; but we will go over you as easily as possible if you keep very still.

"One long and two short toots: Throw yourself forward and we will save both your arms.

"One short and two long toots: Throw yourself backward and one leg will be saved.

"Four toots: It's all up with you, but we vromise to notify your family."

They All Do

An enthusiastic citizen, on the verge of a trip to Australia, was rejoicing over the fact and descanting on the pleasures to come.

"How delightful it will be," said he to his wife, "to tread the bounding billow and inhale the invigorating oxygen of the sea! The sea! The boundless sea! I long to see it! To breathe in great draughts of life-giving air. I shall want to stand every moment of the voyage on the prow of the steamer with my mouth open—"

"You probably will, dear," interrupted his wife encouragingly; "that's what all ocean travellers do."

A Play on Words

"The manager objects to your doing so much high kickin'."

"I don't care," said Millie Millicent, "I shall continue to exercise my right."

ON SAILIN'

SAILIN' is fine sport; ever try it? I know quite a lot o' people who made fine sailors till rough weather broke—and then; well, they sorter seemed to lose their interest in the fun. Others ag'in stuck it out, grinned and bore it, so's to speak They reckoned the game was worth the rough-an'tumble, the drenchin' and the sea-sickness. They're all of 'em good sailors t'-day.

There's no use whatever in tryin' to be a good sailor if you're jest a fair-weather one, not a bit. You've gotter make up your mind to stand most any kind o' treatment the big water sees fit t' hand ye.

If you set tight and take your medicine like a man you are goin' to win out. Sailin' is like everythin' else, includin' life. It takes grit to make a success of it.

ON WAR

SI Hubbard says that war 'twixt United States and Mexico is goin' to be a good thing fer us farmers 'cause it's going to boost the prices o' hay and oats and other farm products skyward. It's a leetle way war has, that, boostin' things sky high and it's not goin' to get a chance to do it to your uncle Jeb if he kin help it.

Si is an optimistic cuss and kin even see the bright side o' war, but I can't. War's hell all right enough and you can't make anythin' else outin it. Fer me, peace is the thing I most want to see restin' over the world right at this present day. Give me peace and lower prices fer my crops and let the war clouds drift upwards. What you say?

Her Complaint

The stout party had been in the boot shop for over an hour, and the patient shop assistant had had half the stock down for her inspection. She found fault with them all, until his patience became quite exhausted.

"These would suit you," he said, taking another pair down as a last resource. Still the lady was not satisfied.

"I don't like this sort," she said. "They have a tendency to get wider when they are a bit old."

"Well, madame," retorted the exasperated assistant, politely, "didn't you?"

A young barrister was defending an old convict on the charge of burglary, and consulted a veteran member of the bar who happened to be standing near.

"How much time do you think I should take up in addressing the jury?" he asked in a rather pompous manner.

"Take as long as you can," was the gruff reply. "The longer you talk the longer you'll keep your client out of gaol."

Mr. TAXPAYER!

A Few Illuminating Facts:

THE TAXPAYERS of a town are the Stockholders in that town. As such they should be vitally interested in its property. Unless the town pays them dividends in the shape of rising real estate values and increased trade, they are losing money on their investment. Insignificant street lights, like insignificant funds, pay insignificant dividends.

All other things being equal, the town with the WHITE WAY pays largest dividends.

It receives more favorable publicity.

It attracts more desirable residents.

Its real estate values rise faster.

Did you ever consider it in that LIGHT before?

Give Your Wife One!

THOUSANDS of wives and daughters run their own Ford cars. They use them for shopping, calling, attending the theatre, taking the children for a run in the country or to school.

The Ford is as easy to operate as a kitchen range, no knowledge of mechanical details being necessary. Inexpensive to operate. A woman can call around town all afternoon, or take a 25-mile spin in the country, at the minimum of cost for gasoline, oil, wear on tires, etc.

You couldn't give "her" a present she would appreciate more than this beautiful, modern car, with its stream-line effect, tapered hood and crown fenders.

THE BIG STORE

To the Ladies of Cumberland and District:

Never wear a Corset smaller than two inches less than your actual waist measure. If you do the corset will not correspond to your figure. Always insist on getting the right size.

Do not wear the same corset continuously. Alternate with another. Both will wear longer.

When putting on your corsets, never pull them together at top and bottom, leave a wide open space at waist-line. Have an equal distance from top to bottom in lacing before drawing loops at waist-line and over hips.

When taking off and putting on your corsets, always loosen the laces first; by doing this your corsets will give you better service.

Never bend from the waist-line when stooping; always bend from the hips. This will avoid breaking your corset.

Always ask for "La Diva" and "D. & A." non-rustable corsets. They are the most stylish and in every way the most serviceable models you can buy.

You can secure most of the latest models in these corsets by visiting the "Big Store," who are sole agents in the district.
