The City Council

The City Council held their regular session in the Council Chambers on Tuesday evening. His Worship, Mayor Harrison presiding, with Ald. Braes, Carey and Halliday present:

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

The Council received the following communication:

Gentlemen:—I beg to call your attention to the dangerous condition in which the buildings next to my property have been allowed to fall into. I consider that these buildings are a source of great danger, as the paper and cloth hanging from the walls and ceiling are very liable to catch fire and endanger all buildings in that part of the city.

I would respectfully ask your honourable body to find some means of either having these unsightly buildings removed or else put in a safe and sanitary condition so as not to be a detriment to the locality.

Yours Respectfully,
DUNCAN THOMSON.

The buildings referred to are the property of the Martin Estate and the Council instructed the City Clerk to notify the representatives of the Estate that he must effect the necessary repairs without delay, otherwise the City would do the work and charge the cost against the property.

In a communication the "Union of British Columbia Municipalities" requested the City Council to send a full representation to the annual meeting to be held in the City of Penticton on the 18th and 20th., September. This was received and filed.

Trade Licence By-Law was recommended adopted and finally passed.

LIEUT. L. L. GRANT RETURNING HOME

The Colonist, July 16th. says; —Word was recived yesterday by Mrs. Robert Grant, of 213 Vancouver St, that her son, Flight-Lieut. Louis L. Grant, of the Royal Flying Corps, is returning home to Canada after spending the past year overseas. Lieut. Grant is well known in this city and is the fifth son of Mr. Robert Grant, ex-M P.P. for Comox riding, and Mrs. Grant. He is a brother of Dr J.F. Grant and has three brothers in active service. Born in Cumberland 23 years ago, he has lived in Victoria for the past nine years and was educated at the public schools.

He enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps in December, 1916, at Vancouver, passing the tests under Capt. Lord Innes-Ker and Brig.-General Hoare. Before enlisting in the R.F.G. he worked for Dr. F.G. Keene as assistant.

On Feb. 4th he was admitted to the 24th General Hospital, Etaples, France. suffering from a nervous breakdown. Later he took part in the bombing of many important military positions and several months ago was invalided to England and has been convalescing in the Perkinsbull Convalescent Hospital for Officers, England.

ALLIED LEADERS WELL INFORMED

Paris, July 16.—(Havas Agency Dispatch.)—All news from the battlefront indicates that the element of surprise, a favorite German weapon, was a total failure Monday. The newspapers here point out the importance of that fact.

The French military chiefs, says Maurice Barres in The Echo de Paris, foresaw with wonderful approximation the date and location of the German effort and General Foch made all dispositions, so that the attack was launched under conditions favorable to the Allies.

The Matin declares that the French command was informed perfectly of the German preparations and knew on Sunday morning that the German troops had begun to use their reserve food supplies. This enabled the French artillery to deliver an intense fire against the Germans, with the result that the attackers were badly battered.

TWO TOWNS RE-TAKEN BY ALLIES

London, July 16.—American troops have recaptured Fossey and Fezancy, towns on the south bank taken yesterday by German troops when they crossed the Marne.

With the American forces on the Marne, July 16.—By the Associated Press, 11.10 a. m.—Reports from one end of the battleline to the other say that except for a few minor localities the great German offensive so far has been a complete failure.

German prisoners taken today say they are convinced their commanders have been beaten.

American troops shot down a courier pigeon carrying a message from a German divisional headquarters saying that the situation was serious east of Chateau Thiery.

PLANNED TO ADVANCE 12 MILES

London, July 19.—(Via Reuter, s Ottawa Agency). —A dispatch from a Reuter correspondent at French headquarters states that the first day of their offensive an advance of twelve miles along the whole front.

In crossing the Marne the German losses were appalling. Finally they threw over half a dozen pontoon bridges, two of which were thirty-five feet in width, and flung numerous troops across.

The French airman rained bombs on the concentrated troops waiting and the troops crossing the bridges, two of which were destroyed altogether.

The gains of the enemy were far less than on March 21 and May 27.

It is not at all clear that this is the main attack. It may be a diversion intended to draw the Allied reserves from Flanders to prepare the way for a German attack in that region. The sea or Paris must be the enemy' final aim. Consequently he probably will throw his whole strength in to the attack between Chateau Thierry and Rheims with a view to enlarging his base between the Aisne and the Marne for his attempt on Paris.

ON THE WAY TO BATTLE.

United States soldiers, now called by the French "Sammies," on their way through a French village to take part in the big battle where they have proved again to the world their ability to more than hold their own against the enemy.

UNFAIR CRITICISM.

Dear Miss .....,

Did you observe in the papers some little time ago a report of a Convention of the G.W. Veterans' Association, in which a resolution was (?)unanimosly passed condemning the work and organization of the "Y" among the boys out here? To me it appears to be a grossly unfair charge against the Association, entirely, at least from my experience, without foundation.

Such a charge, coming as it does from such a powerful and undoubtedly influential body, is to do serious harm to the "Y" and indirectly to other institutinos of like nature, and thus to all of us out here. I cannot say how glad I am that this lible, it is nothing more or less, was uttered after the close of the recent highly successful campaign of the "Y" in Canada for increased financial support. If it had been a couple of months earlier the loss would have been incaluable and we should have been the sufferers.

I am looking at it purely from the self-interest or selfish standpoint because I fully realize how much we owe to the "Y." It is a perfect Godsend to us fellows. This is not merely my own opinion on the matter. The resolution was much discussed among my own comrades and the general concensus of opinion was the same. To us it had all the appearance of a well-designed scheme by some malcontents to hinder and hurt the work of the "Y."

The "Y" pushes its canteens and shelters closer up to the Front here than any other institution I know of, and the Canadian "Y" is no exception. It pushes as far up as the Military authorities will permit and is to be found in all sorts of unexpected places, in dugouts, in old cellars in ruined villages within a thousand yards of the enemy, and even in the support trenches. There "the cup that cheers" is dispensed with unstinted hand free to all comers at all hours of the day or night. And until recently biscuits were as liberally offered, not to mention the indispensable "smokes." Many a night, when coming out of the trenches, I have stopped at their shelters for a short rest and a warm drink of tea befor pushing on over the other four to eight kilometres which usually lie between us and our billets. Completely worn out, and almost dead beat after a long tour "in" during which we have possibly only had one hot drink a day, that cup of tea and package of biscuits, finished up with a "whif," which we have probably all been short of several days ago, comes as a Godsend, refreshing us as nothing else can. We feel as new men. It is then that we bless the "Y."

Out of the line it is the games. Almost the first thing one thinks of when back in billets is the "Y" In the great majority of French villages where we are usually quartered there is absolutely nothing in the shape of recreation or amusement except the "Estimanets," and these, at best. are questionable. The "Y" comes to the reacue once more. They build a hut, or obtain the use of one from the military authorities, or put up tents, and immediately arrange for visits of the amateur concert parties and cinema shows which are alwaps free to everyone. Many a pleasant hour have I spent at such entertainments. That they are appreciated by all goes without saying.

There are other important points that I might mention. The Canadian "Y" by its organization through its canteens is enabled to supply us with innumerable Canadian home products such as canned fruits, biscuits, chewing and smoking tobacco and such like, which it is quite impossible for us to obtain otherwise. For that, alone, we are thankful to the "Y."

As to their spiritual activities, I need scarcely mention them. They are not forgotten. Neither are they forced upon us, and like everything else they are appreciated. As proof of that, one has only to attend any Sunday evening service held by the "Y." They are always well attended by the men, and the spontaneousness of the singing and the interest taken is easily discerned.

The Telephone is the Motorist's Best Accessory

The summer time is motoring time. Warm weather and fine roads entice the owner of a car to get away from the cares and worries of business. "I want to get away where I can't be reached,,' he says, but in his innermost heart he knows that wherever he goes the telephone is not far away. In fact, he instinctively relies on the telephone. The knowledge that it is always conveniently handy lulls his soul so that he completely enjoys his trip.

DEFILING THE FLAG.

As the war goes on and the casualty lists bring home our losses, we read of mobs forcing pro-Germans to kiss the flag. The crowd laughs and cheers, and the mob disperses with the smug feeling that it has done something finely patriotic.

In reality it has done the meanest thing a mob can do. The poor fool that it has manhandled is not cured of his disloyalty, but rather is confirmed in it by having suffered violence at the hands of American citizens; but that is the least of the evil that has been done. To those of us who are loyal that flag represents all that we hold dearest and most sacred in life. It is the visible emblem of our right to worship God as we please; onr right to free speech and a free press; our right to put whom we please into office, and to hold, ourselves, any office that we have the ability to attain. It stands for our right to make our own laws and to repeal them when they no longer please us. It is an omnipresent and indestructible memorial to the faith and courage and self-sacrifice of our fathers who died for it, and of our sons who are dying for it now. It is as dear as a sister, as beautiful as a mother.

And into the presence of that symbol of purity and noble sentiment you lead a traitor and force him to press his foul lips to its immaculate folds! The flag cannot resist, but how every fibre of it must shrink and revolt! It cannot repel the assault or protest against the insult, but forever after it must float a little less proudly, must carry itself with a little less lofty consciousness.—Youths' Companion.

To be allowed to kiss that flag is not a penance, but a privilege the privilege of patriots, patriots only. It is not for traitors.

BRITISH SOLDIERS PRAISED BY FRENCH

Paris, July 16.—Generous and enthusiastic praise was showered yesterday on the British soldiers who paraded through the streets of Paris in the Bastile Day parade on Sunday. Speaking of the impression made on the multitudes by the sons of Britain, L'Action Francaise said:

"To listen how crisply their heels struck the road in perfect step was like hearing the faint and solemn echo of the strains of Rule Britannia. Those magnificent specimens of Anglo-Saxon manhood rose above the line without spoiling it, and we may say without hesitation, because we know we shall be understood by our incomparable poilus, that it was Britain's troops, especially the Scottish soldiers, who produced the greatest impression. One must have seen them to have experienced a sort of magnetic influence which deeply affected all as they advanced, almost as if dancing, to the strains of the melancholy but inspiring bagpipes. As the kilted, bare-kneed, sons of Scotland swung by in perfect harmony of motion to the strains of Scottish airs, the great throngs along the line of march broke into shouts of "Long live Britain," "Long Live Scotland."

Between Your House and the Elements

The Paint Brush Forms The Only Real Protection

IF you neglected to paint your house in the Spring, make good the deficiency now—this very week—before the weather has further advanced its work of destruction. It is always extravagant to let a building "go to seed" for lack of a little paint; it is doubly extravagant for you to neglect the painting of it now, when materials are so high as to make your home worth nearly double what it was worth a few years ago.

Now, carry your painting economy farther than just "painting." Be thrifty on the actual job of painting—by using paint that lasts.

For true economy, use

B-H "ENGLISH" PAINT 70% Pure White Lead (Brandram's Genuine B.B.) 30% Pure White Zinc 100% Pure Paint

You can depend upon B-H "English" Paint for lasting service; it is especially economical because of its great "covering" capacity. Paint with B-H "English" paint this season—and your house is protected for years. A gallon of B-H goes so far that you'll buy less of it and yet do more with it. B-H English Paint is unconditionally guaranteed by its maker—unconditionally recommended by us, and we know paint.

We carry and recommend the following B-H products;

For Interior Finishing "China-Lac"—The Perfect Household Finish.

Staining the Roof "Anchor Brand Shingle Stains" in 19 different colors.

B-H Porch Floor Paint For Porch Floors, Ceilings, and parts exposed to the weather.

Plaster Ceilings and Walls B-H "Fresconette"—A flat tone oil paint.

Finishing the Floor B-H "Floorlustre," excellent for interior floors.

For Barns and Outbuildings. Imperial Barn Paint.

It will be a pleasant surprise to you to find the great difference in flavor between fresh ground coffee and coffee that has probably been ground from one to six months before. Prices are the same as ever for the present, at 35c., 40c., 45c. and 50c. per lb.
