TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

Thousands of Dollar's Damage.

Four Men Injured.

At about a quarter to seven Friday morning last, an explosion took place in a powder shed, in the rear of John McNevin's boarding house, on Dunsmuir Avenue, causing the wreck of several buildings and badly damaging others; nearly all the glass and sashes were blown out of the business portion of the city. Campbell Bros., general store McNevin's boarding house and L. Mounce's private residence being very badly wrecked Fortunately there was no loss of life. The contents of several of the dwelling portions of the buildings on Dunsmuir Avenue were almost totally destroyed; glassware and furniture being one mass of ruin. The cause of the explosion is not known, some say that a boarder ignited a match with his foot and coming in contact with some loose powder causing the explosion, but nothing definite can be learned. The shock was felt for miles and many thought that the explosion was in No.6 mine. It is impossible to estimate the damage, as yet, in dollars and cents, but it will run well into the thousands. The names of the injured men who were in wash house adjoining the powder shed are Alex. Armstrong, badly cut about the face; J. Wilson, head cut and hip hurt; J. Hamilton, head cut; John Baird, arm broken and head badly injured.

* * *

It is high time that the civic authorities of Cumberland took steps to prevent the storage of powder and dynamite in larger quantities than that allowed by law in or near private dwellings. Twice now, have explosions taken place in the centre of the city, one about two years ago, in the rear of the Waverley Hotel, in which one man was killed and considerable property more or less damaged. The explosion of Friday was of a much more serious nature, causing great loss of property and serious injury to business. The citizens of this city are not happy in the thought that they may be blown to kingdom-come at any time, therefore it is up to the authorities to see that life and property are protected from that source of danger. It is a source of congratulation that the explosion was accompanied by no loss of life. Another source of danger is the allowing of boys on powder delivery wagons.

VERDICT OF JURY IN THE LATE EXPLOSION ENQUIRY

That the explosion which occurred in the powder house, at the rear of McNevin's boarding house, in the city of Cumberland, on on the morning of Oct. 16th, 1908, was caused by the ignition of black powder on the floor of the powder house, How the powder was ignited, we are unable to say.

We recommend, first, that the Explosive's Act should be enforced as, according to evidence given in the enquiry held as to the cause of above explosion, the Act was being broken with regard to the amount of explosive stored in the city limits.

Second that the miners hold a meeting to consider the idea of obtainidg their powder at the entrance of the different mines. John, Cunliffe, Foreman, Thomas Jordan, H. Creech, John W. Horbury, Peter McNevin, David Daniels,—James Abrams, Coroner.

At the mass meeting held last evening at Council Chambers to consider the powder question, R. H. Robertson, one of the speakers said as owner of the Vendome hotel, he would not allow any powder about those premises, as he would rather see it idle than have it blown up.

CITY COUNCIL

The City Council held a special meeting last evening, there being present Aldermen Campbell, McLeod, Bate, McDonald and the Mayor,

The business of the meeting being the powder question.

It was moved by Ald. Bate, sec. by Ald. McLeod that the Provincial Act be enforced and those having powder on their premises exceeding that allowed by law, be given twenty-four hours notice to have it removed.

Mrs. E. Bickle and family left by Thursday's boat for Vancouver.

The Occupant in the Rear.

"Is there a young lady by the name of Evans living in this house?" inquired the strange woman of the timid appearing man at the front door.

"Yes," responded he, with a suddenly respectful and serious demeanor. "The younger she, tenor of this house, ma'am, you'd best step round to the rear door and knock gently, ma'am."

"I did, but no one answered."

"Ah, that, didn't you notice a sign on the door in the shape of a neat placard?" asked the man in tones of awe and admiration.

"Yes. The placard said 'Out.'"

"Then she's out. That's her sign, ma'am."

"Do you know when she will return?"

"No; we never know that, ma'am. In fact, she comes and goes whenever she takes the notion and wants none to interfere with her doings or habits in any way, shape or manner, ma'am."

"She's rather a mysterious and independent sort of person, I take it?"

"Well, rather. You see, ma'am, she's our cook!"

When Japan Cleans House.

The unexpected Japanese guest smiled at the dismantled drawing room, made his way carefully between a broom and a pail of water, and, kicking aside a bar of soap that had nearly overturned him, he said:

"You call this a housecleaning. Well, in Japan we'd call it nothing. We are required by law over there to have four housecleanings a year that are, indeed, housecleanings. Everything goes out in the street. Everything down to the bare walls must be taken from every Japanese house four times a year and set out upon the sidewalk; then all must be thoroughly cleaned. Last of all, government officials come and disinfect and fumigate the cleaned dwellings and the cleaned possessions. Japan is a strange sight on these four annual cleaning days. With all the furniture piled outside you'd think the Japanese lived in the streets instead of indoors."

Inspector Dick arrived by Wednesday's boat.

A. H. McCallum of Hornby was in town last week.

Mrs. J. Abrams left by Thursday's boat for Vancouver.

Mrs. A. McMillan arrived from Denman by Friday's boat.

Mr. J. M. Wright representing M. W. Waitt & Co, Ltd. of Victoria and Vancouver, dealers in Musical instruments, came up by the Queen City on Monday, and is paying the City and district a business visit.

Lots of work for carpenters and glaziers.

T. A. L. Smith was a passenger from Hornby by Friday's boat.

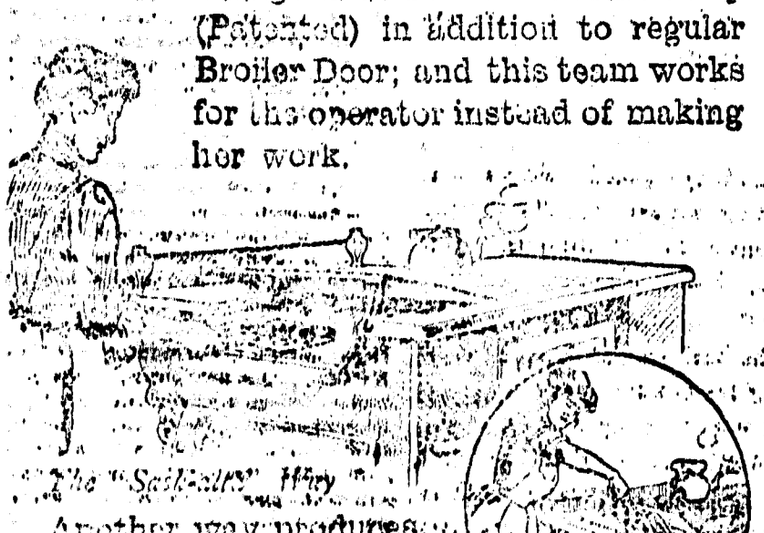
STETTLER PARTLY WIPED BY FIRE

Winnipeg, Oct. 29.—A large section of the town of Stettler, Alberta, was wiped out by fire this morning, including the Grand Union Merchants National hotel, twenty stores, the post office the Merchants' Bank. Leslie Mills was asleep and was burned to death. The loss was a quarter of a million covered by a heavy insurance.

Sask-alta Steel Range

BROILING MEAT & TOASTING BREAD.

One way produces evenly broiled meat and evenly toasted bread without taxing the patience of the housewife. This way is represented by "Sask-alta" Range. The reason: "Sask-alta" Range has an Automatic Lift Top (Patented) in addition to regular Broiler Door; and this team works for the operator instead of making her work.



The "Sask-alta" Way

Another way produces unevenly broiled meat and unevenly toasted bread and taxes the patience of the housewife. This way is represented by most ranges. The reason: Some Ranges have only a Broiler Door, others have a contrivance like that illustrated in top small drawing; both of which enjoy the distinction of tiring the arm that holds the broiler and tiring the eye that directs the arm.

A Magistrate Investigates Zam-Buk

Says it is a wonderful Healer and does more than is Claimed for it.

No household remedy in existance has won such glowing tributes from people in high places as has Zam-Buk. Mr. Roger F. Perry, Justice of the Peace for British Columbia, tested this famous balm, and this is what he says of it:

"The Pavilion,
"Goldfields, B. C.

"To the Zam-Buk Co.,

"Gentlemen,—After a very fair trial I have proved Zam-Buk eminently satisfactory. In my case it cured a skin rash of five years standing which no doctor had been able to do any good for.

"I would certainly encourage any person to keep Zam-Buk in their home. It truly does even more than you claim for it. For my own part I would not now be without it in the house. Yours very truly.

(Signed) "Roger F. Perry,
"Justice of the Peace for B. C."

Zam-Buk differs from ordinary salves and embrocations, for while these mostly contain animal oils and fats, Zam-Buk is purely herbal.

It soothes and heals cuts, sores, ulcers, eruptions, boils, eczema, chafing's, rashes, etc. In the household it is the handiest possible remedy for burns, scalds, children's injuries.

It instantly cleanses any wound to which it is applied; prevents festering, inflammation or blood poisoning. It cures piles, varicose, ulcers, and fistula. All druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box or from the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 6 boxes for $2.50.

Soldiers in Battle.

Those who have taken part in a battle have confessed that were it not for the shouting and the noise they would lose their nerves and run away. There is always an interval of cowardice in the soldier, but it is quickly overcome, and he fights grimly, unmindful of impending death. Bands were, of course, invented to raise the spirits of soldiers. Martial music, whether from the drum or the bugle, has done a great deal in saving campaigns. Nobody can fight in a cold blooded manner, and in the excitement of a general engagement the most nervous of fighters recover wonderfully.

OLD CLOTHES IN AFRICA.

The Natives Often Make Dreadful Mistakes With European Attire.

The "ol' clo' man" is a familiar figure in American streets, and one by no means without picturesqueness, but no American dealer in old clothes has established a business of such extent of interest as that of John Hyman of London, whose specialty is to purchase showy costumes and discarded military and official uniforms for disposal in the orient and Africa.

Even the retiring lord mayors of London have become almost by official tradition his customers, and the cocked hat, gold laced coat and knee breeches at which during one season London has gazed with awe in the famous pageant of the lord mayor's procession are likely the next season to delight the eyes of darkest Africa upon the proud person of a darkest African.

"I have visited most of the great oriental bazars and watched our goods being purchased," says Mr. Hyman. "I have seen blacks solemnly walking around with waistcoats buttoned behind, instead of before and even men wearing ladies' costumes. I have seen enormously big fellows in clothes so small I could not imagine for the life of me how they got into them or how they could get out again unless the stitching gave way."

The Prince de Joinville when off the Gabun coast once received on his ship an official visit from two chiefs, father and son, who, must, one would think, have been Mr. Hyman's customers. They were known as Big Denis and Little Denis, and each owned for ceremonial occasions a military uniform.

That of Big Denis was a French general's, which his wives managed to get him into. That of Little Denis was a hussar's, and its intricate cut, numerous buttons, straps and buckles and painfully small size proved quite too much for him. He sent the prince a despairing message begging help, and a relief party of delighted midshipmen was sent to dress him and bring him aboard.

They fulfilled their errand; but, with the mischievousness of their kind, they so tightened every fastening of his overtight attire that the poor youth was nearly bursting with combined pride and suffocation when he arrived, and it was evident he could never be got out of his unwonted finery by any method less drastic than cutting him out.

Still, no manner of wearing a complete costume ever equals in comic effect some of the savage combinations of unrelated items. One venerable African chief in received his European guests with an antiquated evening shoulder cape of pink flowered satin and spangles worn about his waist as an apron, while his white wool was martially crowned by a military helmet.

Still another conducted important negotiations with an exploring party clad simply and impressively in a lady's large Gainsborough hat, a pair of cavalry boots and a necklace of glistening tin ornaments used to decorate Christmas trees.

Aid For the Explorer.

"Peary," said a geographer of Chicago, "never started on one of his exploring expeditions without receiving by mail and express all sorts of packages from cranks—cowhide underwear, tea tablets, medicated boots and what not.

"Peary once told me that George Ade a few days before the start of one trip wired him to expect an important package by express.

"The package came. It was labeled: 'To be opened at the farthest point north.'

"Peary opened it at once, however. It was a small keg, inscribed:

"'Axle grease for the pole.'"

Shouldn't Overfeed Hubby.

Hint for young wives who desire to have their husbands retain their boyish, slender figures: In an address at Vienna on the subject of food Professor Karl Van Noorden, one of the greatest medical experts in Europe, uttered an emphatic protest against wives who overfeed their husbands. He declared that the reason so many heads to gray and baldness after they have married is that their wives give them their favorite dishes on every possible occasion.

MISLEADING NAMES.

Terms In Science That Belie the Products to Which They Apply.

There are terms in certain departments of science that positively misname the products to which they are applied.

The word "oil" in its more comprehensive and indiscriminate uses is made to include hydrocarbons, like petroleum, and also many other substances that have an oily appearance, like "oil of vitriol," which is not oil at all, but sulphuric acid.

Strictly speaking, the mineral oils, including all petroleum products, are not oil, although we speak of "coal oil" and "kerosene oil."

The best classifications of oils do not include mineral hydrocarbons, like naphtha, paraffin and petroleum, but treat only the two well defined groups—fixed oils and fats and the essential or volatile oils.

"Copperas" is not copper, but sulphate of iron. "Salt of lemon" has nothing to do with the fruit of the lemon tree, but is potassium binoxalate or potash treated with oxalic acid.

"Carbolic acid" is not an acid, but a phenol. In structure it is allied to the alcohols and has only slight acid properties. "Soda water" has no trace of soda. "Sulphuric acid" contains no sulphur. "Sugar of lead" is innocent of sugar.

"Cream of tartar" has nothing to do with cream nor "milk of lime" with milk. "German silver" is a stranger to silver, and "black lead" is not lead at all, but graphite. "Mosaic gold" is a sulphide of tin.

These misleading names have come down from the vocabulary of an early and inexact chemistry. As popular science extends the old terms are yielding to the more scientific nomenclature.

Proud.

"So you enjoy seeing your boy play football."

"I should say I do," answered Farmer Corntossel. "It makes me right proud to see him out there an' realize that he is the young feller I was once able to whip."—Washington Star.

Actions are the truest of the man.—Herodotus.

A PRIZED RECORD.

The Original Muster Roll of Captain A. Lincoln's Company.

None of the records of the treasury department is more highly prized than the original muster roll of Captain A. Lincoln's company in the handwriting of that famous man himself. It was a voluntary company organized by Lincoln in 1832 to serve in the Black Hawk war. Lincoln as an army officer was the same painstaking, careful and orderly man that he was later as president. He kept the muster rolls of his company himself, and nowhere can a neater and more complete account be found. Although more than seventy-five years old now, the roll is wonderfully well preserved. The paper is of poor quality, but the handwriting is still legible and distinct, not a single error having been made in the copy. The record has been bound together along the edges, and where it has been folded constant handling has done considerable damage to it.

The muster roll is in charge of the auditor for the treasury. Quite a fright was given to that official years ago when it was announced that the roll had disappeared. A thorough search failed to reveal it, and it was given up for lost. Later, however, it was found in the desk formerly occupied by a clerk who had been dismissed. The interesting document is headed: "Muster Roll of Captain A. Lincoln's Company of the Fourth Regiment of Mounted Volunteers, Commanded by Brigadier General Samuel Whiteside. Mustered into the service of the United States at the mouth of Fox river May the 27th, 1832."

The roll shows that Abraham Lincoln was the captain and that he was enrolled with the rest of the command on April 21 at Richland, Sangamon county. At the foot is Lincoln's certificate as to the correctness of the muster roll at the time of muster out. The only other handwriting on the document is that of Nathaniel Buckmaster, inspector and muster officer, certifying to the accuracy of the roll of Lincoln's company.

Synopsis of Canadian Homestead Regulations.

Any available Dominion Lands within the Railway Belt in British Columbia, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry must be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate. Entry by proxy may, however, be made on certain conditions by the father, mother, son, daughter brother or sister of and intending homesteader.

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans;

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased), of the homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

COAL.—Coal mining rights may be leased for a period of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 per acre. Not more than 2,560 acres shall be leased to one individual or company. A royalty at the rate of five cents per ton shall be collected on the merchantable coal mined.

John Johnston, Pro.

A Refuge.

They were speaking of changes in Willowby since Mr. Ransom had left the village, twenty years before, to seek his fortune out west. "Zeb Hobart is enjoying these last years," said the constant resident to the returned wanderer. "He had a pretty exciting life while Ruby lived. Never knew what would happen to him next. But he's all calmed down now."

"Somebody wrote there was talk of his marrying the other sister, Polly," said the westerner. But the response was a violent shake of his old neighbor's head.

"No foundation to that gossip," he asserted, with decision. "Zeb spoke with me about Polly himself. He said to me: 'I won't speak a word against her that's gone,' he said, 'nor her that's left, but there's a man from down below has made me an offer to go with his show as wild beast tamer from hearing the luck I had with them bear's cubs I took. And if Polly looms up too close I shall take up with his offer and get a chance to live out my days in some kind o' peace and security.' Those were his words, and you can make what you want to out of 'em."

Cares of State.

Anecdotes of great statesmen and orators are apt to prove interesting to the general reading public because it is expected that they will reveal something of the working of a great mind. In the "Life and Letters of Sir Richard C. Jebb" is told a story of Mr. Disraeli which is worthy to be called historical. Mr. Disraeli, after one of his best speeches, left the house with Mr. Montagu Corry.

"I was wondering," Mr. Corry afterward confessed, "what a great orator would talk about just after a successful speech."

"'Corry,' said Mr. Disraeli, 'do you know how to get into a cab? Very few men know. I was at Vienna once when I was a young man, with Prince Gortschakoff and another Englishman, a military man who was there on the same business. A royal carriage was there to conduct us. When we came to it the Englishman walked straight up to it and got in with his back to the horses. Gorchakov said to me: 'That is the politest thing I have ever seen an Englishman do.'"

Strong Rooms.

The Bank of England's strong room is one of the largest in the world. The foundation, sixty-six feet below the street level, is a bed of concrete twenty feet thick. Above this is a lake seven feet deep, and above that thick plates of iron specially manufactured to resist both skill and force. Any one attempting an entrance from above would find a similar bed of concrete, a similar lake and similar plates of iron. The walls are impenetrable, while the doors are one foot thick, weigh four tons each and are made absolutely undrillable.

The Imperial Ottoman bank, Constantinople, had a marvelous steel fort built upon a water bearing rock, and on top of the rock foundation is a four foot bed of concrete. The height is over thirty-six feet, length forty-six feet and width twenty-four. The steel walls are surrounded by masonry and concrete six feet thick throughout, while the whole comprises nearly thirty tons of steel.

Circulation of the Blood.

The idea of some sort of movement of the blood in man and the lower animals was possessed by Aristotle another Greeks and by the physicians of the Alexandrian school as well as by the doctors and surgeons of the middle ages. In fact, even the village barbers knew of such movement. But no one not even the wisest of men, had any conception of a continuous stream returning to its source—in circulation in the true sense of the word—or of the functions of the heart as the motor power of the movement of the blood until it was demonstrated by Harvey in 1628.

The "Letters of Junius."

The vexed question of the real authorship of the "Letters of Junius" has never been positively settled. Mr. Chabot's learned work to show that S. [illegible] famous letters while a strong production, falls of absolute proof. The attempt was made to prove that Thomas Paine wrote the letters, but that, too, failed to convince. The question is still a mystery, though the balance of [illegible] Francis.

"Physical culture, father, is perfectly lovely. To develop the arms I grasp this rod by one end and move it slowly from right to left."

"Well, well!" exclaimed her father. "What won't science discover? If that rod had straw at the other end you'd be sweeping."

MAN SHOULD NOT DIE

There Is No Physiological Reason For Death.

THE BODY IS SELF RENEWING.

Perfect Diet and Mode of Living Would Insure Exact Balance Between Bodily Waste and Renewal and Would Mean Physical Immortality.

"The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death," said the Scriptures, yet if some man attempted seriously to reassert this ancient truth today we would look upon him as a mad prophet indeed. Yet the time will come when men will be able to believe this promise of the Bible, although they may never see it literally fulfilled.

Death some day will be acknowledged to be as unnatural in the economy of the creative plant as are sin and suffering. But whether or not in some millennium period mortal man will be able to forego the gross process of physical dissolution in becoming a spiritual body is a purely metaphysical question that does not enter here. What does interest us is the question, occupying the greatest scientific minds today, whether the body as such cannot be retained in perfect condition indefinitely.

William A. Hammond, one of the great authorities, answers it by saying, "There is no physiological reason why man should die."

Thomas J. Allen, M. A., LL. D., writing in a similar strain, says: "The human body is not like a machine which must wear out by constant disintegration, for it is self renewing. It is a simple, scientific fact that we get an entirely new body every few years, estimated at from three to seven. Every day is a birthday, for the process of waste and renewal never ceases. Perfect balance betwen elimination and renewal would avoid permanent waste."

There is no doubt that when we become more enlightened and understand perfectly the laws that govern and determine our physical lives and when we conform to these religiously life will be immeasurably prolonged.

The decay of the body as evidenced in old age is unnatural. The aesthetic within us recoils in merely contemplating its approach. We feel that there must be something self perpetrative in the change when the strong color in a healthy man and the fresh beauty in a pure woman take their departure, when the bloom on the cheeks fade, when the brilliant light within the eyes grows dim and the full, red lips become pale and fallen.

Medical science has pointed out the physiological cause of these conditions. Probably the time will come when it will be able to point out the manner of avoiding them.

We know that the body grows old because of the existence of an imperfect balance between the waste which the body accumulates and the amount it is able to throw off. During youth the balance is perfect, because the body has more than its normal vitality and strength to throw off the waste matter, but as we grow older this perfect balance becomes destroyed from one cause or another.

The strength that should go to eliminating impurities from the body is not husbanded, but rather squandered in different ways. Then, too, we eat and drink those things that cause excessive waste. An impure diet composed of foods containing uric acid, such as meat, or of drinks containing poisons, such as tea and coffee, taxes the eliminative powers, and when the time comes when these give way a state of imperfect elimination has set in, and the wastes in part are deposited in the system, settling in the arteries and joints of the body and accumulating until they become obstructive elements.

The blood stream circulates imperfectly, and when once this condition exists bad functioning of every organ of the body results, and old age and death gradually ensue.

Mind, too, has a great deal to do in hastening or retarding the unpleasant signs of physical decay. Mental science has satisfactorily demonstrated that mean, narrow, selfish and unpleasant thoughts act destructively on the tissues of the body, while thoughts of a wholesome and positive character act constructively.

And when the curtains of "the windows of the soul" are drawn, when the temple's door is closed and a final silence is within, when the spirit passes the threshold to take up a newer and finer edifice of its own creation, science assures us that the body lives on. Here at least physical immortality is an assured fact.

[illegible] that the body returns to inanimate dust. The religious answer of science is that it returns to God. The latest word in the field of biology is that all nature, including the all mother soil, is animated and hallowed with the divine principle of life.

More than this, matter is indestructible and eternal. There is not an atom that can be lost in all the universe. For this reason our bodies do not really die. They are in the care of the angels of the elements.

The peculiar cellular arrangement that formed them into a beautiful body may be caused to disintegrate through the action of the [illegible] time may change the position of the atoms composing it, but the latter still contain within themselves the sacred and eternal principle of life as much as does the soul, and they exist only to enter into new and perhaps more beautiful combinations of life.—Health.

LARGE WOLF SHOT IN SOOKE HILLS

C. L. Harrison last night brought in fine wolf shot yesterday by his brother, V. B. Harrison, of Ladysmith, in the Sooke Hills. the animal is now on view at Barnsley's store, Government street, and and will be mounted by a local firm. The two brothers had been out four days and report that besides the wolf they accounted for one deer. The first three days of the trip were spent in hunting for grouse, but a few birds only were obtained. They report having seen altogether nine wolves and that the birds have now taken to higher ground, evidently having been driven out by the wolves. Deer was also scarce apparently from the same reason.

A JOKE WHICH DIDN'T WORK

Commander Peary, the famous Arctic explorer, never starts on one of his exploring expeditions without receiving all sorts of packages from cranks—cowhide underwear, tea tables, medicated boots, and what not. A few days before the start of his last trip a club acquaintance wired him to expect an important package by express. The package came. It was labelled: "To be opened at farthest point north." Peary opened it at once, however. It was a small keg, inscribed: "Axle grease for the pole.

THE EDITOR'S CONQUEST.

"There can not be much satisfaction in 'goin' round and lickin the editor" when the latter not only makes copy out of the encounter but pictures himself as the hero as well. The following vivid pen-picture is taken from the editorial columns of an Iowa Journal; There was a blow. Somebody fell. We got up. Turning upon our antagonist we succeeded in winding his arms around our waist and by a quick manoeuvre threw him on top of us, bringing our back, at the same time, in contact with the solid bed of the printing press. Then, inserting our nose between his teeth and cleverly entangling his hands in our hair, we had him!" —The Lindsay Post.

The concert, which was to be given in the City Hall, on last Saturday by No.5 football team was postponed, and will be held on Saturday next, Oct. 24th. Don't miss this as there will be several good numbers on the programme.
