COAL MINERS ENTOMBED

AN AVALANCHE OF COAL IMPRISONS SEVEN MINERS.

A Rescuing Party Hopes to Reach the Shut-in Men — Anarchist Literature in Toronto—Riotous Strikers in West Virginia. — A Call for State Troops to Quiet Them — The Canadian Women's Present to the Duchess of York—The Entombed Miners are Rescued.

ASHLAND, Pa., Feb. 28.—While seven miners were at work this afternoon in the west gangway of the Boston run mine, an avalanche of crop and surface coal swept down upon them and imprisoned them in the dark passageway in which they were laboring. The rumble of the mass of coal and dirt as it swept down the gangway and the clouds of dust that arose from the mouth of the shaft, were all too familiar signs of a disaster. An alarm was given that an accident had occurred. A party of rescuers entered the shaft and after a short time a cheer from those nearest the entrance of the gangway, announced that some of the men had been found. Two men emerged from the shaft and they proved to be John and Joseph Wikes, brothers. They said that five more men were still imprisoned in the gangway and that they were Lewis White, Charles Mohen, Elwood Mingle, James Kramer and William Ervine. All the men live at Fracville and are well known miners. Since three o'clock this afternoon the rescuing party has been at work clearing away the debris in the gangway and they hope to reach the shut in men to-night.

LATER—The five men imprisoned in the Boston Run mine were rescued this evening uninjured.

An Old Minister Retires.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—In the Ontario Legislature this afternoon, Premier Sir Oliver Mowat announced the resignation of the Hon. Christopher F. Fraser, for the past nineteen years Minister of Public Works.

Anarchists in Toronto.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—Two thousand unemployed men went to the city hall and demanded that the mayor either give them work or money. The agitators distributed anarchistic literature and made threats of looting the residences of the mayor and aldermen.

Canadian Women's Present to May.

LONDON, Feb., 26.—The Countess of Derby, wife of the former Governor-General of Canada, presented to-day to the Duke and Duchess of York the wedding gift of the Canadian women. The gift consists of two fine horses and a sleigh. Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner was absent from the presentation ceremony, on account of illness.

Deputy De Felice Arraigned.

ROME, Feb. 28. The parliamentary commission appointed to examine the case of the Socialist deputy Guiseppe De Felice, have finished their laborious mission of examining the documents bearing on the arrest and imprisonment for encouraging the Sicilian revolutionists. They decided today to advise the Chamber to authorize the arraignment of Deputy De Felice, on the charge of inciting the revolution in Sicilly. Meantime, they think he should be kept in prison.

The "News" is Negative.

LONDON, March 1.—The Daily News, Gladstonian, insists once more that the Cabinet situation is unchanged. "The Unionists are exultant," says the News, "chiefly because they believe Mr. Gladstone's resignation would involve the dropping of Home Rule. The Liberals, however, have not the remotest intention of adopting this course. Being cordially pledged to support the policy, they would not have a Government that did not cleave to it."

Russians and Prussians at War.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 28.—Rumors of a battle between Russian and German troops on the frontier have been current in military circles in Moscow for several days One version of the reported fight is as follows: A squadron of Russian Dragoons saw a party of Prussian Uhlans making a target of a frontier post on which the Russian arms were displayed. The Russian commander requested the Prussians to stop firing at the post. The Prussians ignored the request. A skirmish followed in which several men on both sides were killed. The Russians pursued the Prussians for some distance after the fight.

New York State Follows California.

ALBANY, N.Y., Feb. 28.—In the assembly to-day Mr. Scanlan offered the following resolution: Whereas, A bill has been introduced in Congress by the Hon. James G. Maguire, of California, which guarantees to every letter carrier a hearing before dismissal, such as is granted to uniformed bodies in this and other states, and believing that the arbitrary and absolute power of removal of a large body of public servants is unjust, un-American and contrary to the spirit of the age, therefor be it Resolved, That the Assembly of the State of New York endorse the said bill and call upon our representatives in Congress to diligently work for its passage. The resolution was adopted.

RIOTOUS STRIKERS.

Four Hundred Ruffians Running Riot in West Virginia.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 28.—A special to the Times from Charleston, W. Va., says: Late this afternoon, about 400 armed strikers from New River, Montgomery, and other points, met at Armstrong Branch, about 30 miles from here, and after a riotous meeting, the drunken and excited men marched to Eagle, two miles away, to make the Wyanot miners come out. As they climbed the hill to the mines they were met by a volley from the Wyanot men, who had come prepared to fight and a battle ensued. A private telegram received, states that one man has been killed and eleven wounded. Another makes the number killed three. Governor McCorkle received two dispatches asking that the State troops be sent at once to the scene. He sent his private secretary, John Baker White to Wyanot, and ordered company "K" to hold itself in readiness to move at a moments notice. It is probable that it will leave in a few hours, unless more favorable news is received. The latest is that a bloody battle is still being waged.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 28.—The Fayette county sheriff is with a posse defending Wyanot. The Government will send militia under Major Banks at 10:30.

LATER, 10:40 p.m.—A telegram just received states that the situation is growing more serious and implores quick action from the Governor. The strikers are on the mountain and the sheriff's posse at Wyanot in the tipple. Huntington troops have been ordered. Fifty additional men from Morris Creek, and thirty from Montgomery have gone to Eagle. Fifty Winchesters were in the first mob and a number of the strikers were without rifles, but had pistols. They threaten to cut the telegraph wires and tear up the railroad. Superintendent Knapp, of the Chesapeake & Ohio, has the track guarded, The sheriff says there will be another attack before morning and that he cannot repulse it. He will be cautious about firing.

MIDWINTER FAIR.

Half a Million Visitors So Far—Date for the B. C. vs. California Match.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28.—Half a million people have passed through the Fair turnstiles since the opening day. As it opened during the dull season it is calculated that the coming months will see a much larger attendance in the same length of time. As the weather improves the normal attendance increases and there are, apparently, greater numbers of people from outside points than there were a short time ago. To-day was one of the most perfect imaginable and brought many to the grounds. But those who came were simply sightseers, there was no special attraction to swell the attendance.

A series of Interstate and International Rugby football games have been assigned for under the auspices of the Rugby Football Union. Three games have thus far been scheduled, as follows: Tuesday, March 22nd, California vs. Portland; Friday, March 23rd, Portland vs. British Columbia; Saturday, March 24th, California vs. British Columbia.

M. Calkins, of Santa Clara, who was returning from a visit to the east, was robbed at Needles in a Pullman sleeper a few nights ago of $2,700. He had retired for the night and placed his vest containing a valuable gold watch, diamond ring, diamond charm, $500 in greenbacks and a check for about $2,100 under his head. When he awoke in the morning the vest and content were nowhere to be found. A close search was made in every part of the car and when the disappearance of the goods was announced, the Pullman conductor declared that he had also been robbed of his grip and tickets and money which it contained. The payment of the check has been stopped.

An Odd Fellow Defaulter.

WINONA, Minn., Feb. 28.—H. C. Furman, well known in Odd Fellow circles throughout the State, is reported to be a defaulter. He is said to have been appropriating the society funds to the extent of $4,000. He was also administrator of several estates and it is believed his total defalcations will aggregate $10,000. Furman is said to have escaped arrest by turning over to his creditors property of sufficient value to satisfy their claims.

A Profound Impression Made by Crispi.

ROME, Feb. 28.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day Signor Crispi, the prime minister, explained the government's reasons for proclaiming a state of siege in Sicily. A document which came into the possession of the authorities at Massa di Carrara proved the existence of several anarchist plans to re-organize and repeat their uprising on a scale approaching the proportions of a revolution. With this in view, foreign anarchist leaders were flocking to Sicily. At a meeting of foreign and Italian anarchists held recently in Marseilles, he said, it was resolved to form an uprising of the peasants of Sicily, with promises to be made to the peasantry to divide the lands among them. This outbreak was to occur during 1894, when, according to the representations of the conspirators, a foreign war would break out, Piedmont would be invaded and a Russian fleet would occupy Italian waters. These revelations having been discovered the government promptly seized all anarchist property and documents to be found and proclaimed a state of seige. The statement of Premier Crispi, together with the submission of the documents he mentioned, made a profound impression in the Chamber.

An Ex-Governor Stricken With Paraalysis.

LOS ANGELES, Cala. Feb. 28.—The community was profoundly shocked to-day over the news that ex-governor John Downey had been stricken with paralysis. The old gentleman has not been in the best of health of late, but his legion of friends had no idea that he was threatened with a paralytic stroke. His present condition is serious, but it is thought that he will rally. His two sisters, Mrs. Peter Donahue, and Mrs. Eleanor Martin reside in San Francisco.

A TRAGIC SHOOTING AFFAIR.

An Actress and a Baseball Pitcher are Found Shot Together.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 28.—A terrible tragedy was enacted at the Hotel Effel in this city at 8:30 o'clock to-night from which Pitcher McNabb, of the Baltimore baseball club, is dead, and Louise Kellogg will likely die from the result of the wounds received from a pistol in the hands of McNabb. Louise Kellogg was a member of the Alvin Joslyn Theatrical Co., and came here from New York to-day. She met McNabb a short time before 8:30 to-night, on Fifth avenue and they both went to the Hotel Eiffel, where a room was engaged. A young man named Gillen, a friend of both McNabb and Miss Kellogg, went up to their room about 9:30, to call on them. He heard the woman groaning and called for help. As it is right across from the City Hall, Inspector McKelvy and several officers were soon on the spot. The door was burst open and a bloody sight met their gaze. On the floor lay the woman with three bullet wounds in her head and neck. McNabb was lying beside her with two wounds in his head that must have killed him almost instantly. The woman was taken to the Homœpathic Hospital. She can hardly recover. McNabb's body was removed to the morgue. There was a fire a few doors above the hotel at the time McNabb did the shooting. This caused much excitement in the vicinity, and the people did not even hear the shots fired. Louise Kellogg's right name is Mrs. R. R. Rockwell, and she has a husband living in Seattle, Wash. Kellogg was the woman's stage name. Her parents live at Braddock, near this city. Unless she gains consciousness, the cause of the shooting may never be known.

Louise E. Kellog is the wife of President Rockwell, of the California Baseball League. From what can be learned from young Gillen after the shooting, Miss Kellogg was endeavoring to break off her relations with McNabb. A number of letters belonging to Miss Kellogg, showed that she had been keeping McNabb supplied with money for the past few months. The company she was with disbanded some time ago and she came here with the probable intention of either staying with her parents in Braddock, or getting money to tide her over till she procured another engagement. McNabb met her here, and as the woman was very likely trying to break off her intimacy with him, this probably prompted McNabb to shoot the woman and himself.

THE BRAZILIAN ELECTION.

Taking Matters Very Quietly Over the Presidental Election.

Copyright, 1894, by the United Press.]

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 28.—All the preparations for the presidential election tomorrow are complete. To Americans the campaign has appeared peculiarly quiet and devoid of popular interest. The nominations have been known mainly by advertisements in the newspapers. There has been little argument in favor of any candidate. Every man who has been named for the presidency or the vice-presidency, has been praised immoderately by friendly journals. No newspaper has disparaged any candidate. The questions of national policy have been hardly mentioned; few persons know or care what the actions of candidates are; there have been no processions, no stump speeches, no great public meeting, no fireworks. M. Moraes, president of the senate and ex-president of Sao Paulo province, is the leading candidate for the presidency of the republic. Even the Journal, whose insurgent editor was forced to flee from the city, supports him. Much surprise has been caused by the appearance of ex-Minister Ruy Barbos' name in the list of candidates. He was supposed previously to be still loyal to the insurgents, but his candidacy is regarded as evidence that he has forsaken their cause. He was the financial agent of the insurgent government and his defection, if accomplished, will be a heavy blow to Mello and Da Gama. The advertised candidates for the vice-presidents are Dr. Alfonso Penn, a president of the state of Mines Garass, and the ablest statesman in Brazil, Floriano Peixoto, the president of the Republica, and two others of only local fame. The government organ Opaiz supports Moraes and Penn. It published to-day a long leader urging the expediency of electing them. Several influential insurgents told the United Press correspondent yesterday that Moraes and Penn would be satisfactory to them in case it would prove impossible to restore the monarchy.

The Wilson House Changes Hands.

The Wilson House changed hands last night, Mr. Geo. R. Raymond, the new proprietor, taking possession at 12 o'clock. Mr. Raymond has a five years' lease of the building, and hopes in that time to have made the Wilson House one of the leading hotels in the Province. For doing this everything is in his favor. The building is one of the best, and the appointments are especially fitted to make it one of the first hostelries in the country.

Apart from this, Mr. Raymond has successfully conducted the Colonial in New Westminster for some years, and is well known, not only in the Province, but all through the Dominion, especially by commercial men who are constantly travelling over the C.P.R. It is felt by the citizens of Nanaimo that the Wilson House, being one of the finest buildings in the town, should command a fair support, not only from visitors but by the inhabitants. It would be a bad advertisement for this city to see it closed.

Mr. Walter Wilson, the retiring proprietor and owner of the building, deserves the recognition of the Nanaimo public in increasing the city's appearance by the erection of such a substantial and solid building. In its erection no expense was considered to make it a thoroughly good hotel. The friends of Mr. Walter Wilson wish him well in whatever new ventures he undertakes and hope that he will remain in Nanaimo if his intentions permit.

TELEGRAPHIC SUMMARY.

Ex-cashier Maine of the Third National Bank was released on $10,000 bail yesterday morning at Detroit, Mich.

Rev. Dr. Patterson, a noted divine, and father of the editor-in-chief of the Chicago Tribune, died in Chicago yesterday, aged 79 years.

Judge J. W. McDill, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and ex-United States Senator, died at Creston at 10:25 yesterday morning.

A promoter of the Metropolitan Electric Railway of Clifton, Me., and a prominent man in financial circles, has been arrested on three charges of selling lands to which he had no title.

Judge Cox in the Equity Court yesterday morning declined to issue a mandamus to prevent the Pension Commissioner from reducing the pension of Judge Long, of Michigan, from $72 to $50 a month.

Burglars Tuesday night entered the house of Henry Geirman, treasurer of Exeter Township, Mich., and shot Geirman, the shot also instantly killing Mrs. Geirman. They escaped with nearly $10,000. No clue is obtainable.

The Washington Democratic Caucus failed to reach any conclusion yesterday morning. It is understood a vote will be taken this afternoon on the proposition whether certain articles shall be placed upon the free list or dutiable list.

A jury has been secured at San Francisco in the case of John P. Hansen, charged with the attempt to blow up the tugs Ethel and Marion, with dynamite. The taking of testimony in the second trial began yesterday morning before Judge Dangerfield.

The official estimate of the Washington treasury receipts and expenses to be issued to-day will show in round figures for eight months of the present fiscal year the expenses of the government exceeded the receipts by $48,000,000.

John Callahan, an aged farmer of Burlington, Wis., was shot dead Tuesday night by a man who entered the house demanding money which Callahan said he did not have. Neighbors are scouring the woods for the murderer and will hang him if caught.

A New York morning paper says: Rev. Dr. Burshell, recognised as the greatest authority on Roman Catholic canonical law on this side of the ocean, has won his case in Rome. This piece of news was received in this city yesterday by a Catholic prelate who is in sympathy with Dr. Burshell. The information did not come from Dr. Burshell, but through a friend of his, also a member of the church, who is in Rome, looking towards the righting of alleged wrongs set down to a bishop of the west. A priest who is in communication with Rome said last night that he too had received advices of Burshell's victory and that he expected he would be back before the 1st of May.

A story was current in New York on Tuesday that Wiman contemplated starting a rival business against that of R. G. Dun & Co., and that the fear of this impelled the arrest of Mr. Wiman and the charge of forgery. It was said this was the secret of the business and developed between the two men, Dun and Wiman, and that lawyer Boardman had it in mind when he hinted at the reasons for the arrest of his client, which had not been made public. However, when the story reached the ears of Mr. Wiman he denied it. "I have not contemplated establishing a commercial agency," said he to a reporter, "and there is no syndicate of wealthy men to back me in any such move. As for the motives back of my arrest, the public will learn of them at the trial; until then there is nothing more that I want to say about my case."

A special from New York says: William Causby, a young man who was murdered on Saturday night about 20 miles from Morgantown, N.C., and there was no clue to the murderer other than the fact that Sylvanus Morrow, James Whisenhunt and Philip Williams had been seen with Causby near where he was found dead. At the inquest they were summoned as witnesses but nothing beyond the fact that they were with Causby was developed. While Morrow and Whisenhunt were on the stand as each witness was directed to stand aside he was asked to put his hand on the dead body which had not been removed from the place where it had been found. Morrow and Wisenhurst did not hesitate to comply with the request but it was noticed that Williams, while being examined, was in a great state of mental excitement, and when he was requested to put his hand on the body, he broke down completely and declared he could not do so and in a few minutes confessed that he and Causby had had a fight and that he had killed Causby while under the influence of whisky.

Good Advice to Readers.

Under the caption of "Read the Papers" the Victoria Times gives some good advice to readers as follows:

"It is rather remarkable that most people who read newspapers overlook a good many interesting items. There seems to be a knack about discovering at a glance what is in a paper. Newspaper men have it for they read dozens of papers to see what contemporaries are doing and make comparisons. Editors read dozens of papers every day, and if they took a long shout it as the majority of people they would never get through the first chapter, but people who are interested in some particular thing are constantly writing to editors to ask why such and such a thing was not printed, when it was published, perhaps, as big as life, on the first page. Readers will go over and over a paper in a vain search for the item—story, newspaper men call it—in which they are interested, and then declare positively that it is not in the paper. That gives editors the heartache. One of the first rules laid down to beginners in the newspaper business is 'read the papers'"

School of Penmanship.

The young man with a bad handwriting who seeks employment among business men finds there is no demand for his awkwardness at any price. Everyone who uses a pen should write legibly and attractively. There is no excuse in these days for a young person to write in a slovenly manner. This should be left to those of a past generation, who were educated before the days of business training schools. Here all of ordinary intelligence and application can acquire a good business handwriting, the value of which is not easy to compute.

The Nanaimo Business College has a special department of penmanship, at the head of which is Mr. J. R. Denneny, who is acknowledged to be not only one of the finest penman in the world, but one of the best teachers and developers of good penmanship in others.

THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 1894.

THE OPPOSITION AND THE CONVERSION QUESTION.

The conduct of the Opposition in the Legislative Assembly and of its press outside in persistently, falsely, and maliciously representing the province as being on the verge of bankruptcy is scandalous in the extreme. These persons for paltry party purposes, in order to discredit the Government, are doing their best to destroy the credit of the province abroad, and make it impossible to borrow money for public works or any other necessary purpose at a low rate of interest. The hon. leader of the Opposition and his supporters, especially Messrs. Cotton, Brown, Kitchen, Sword, and a few others, who try to make themselves more conspicuous than nature even intended they should be in debate or anything else, are doing all they can to damage the province, and deserve to be pointed at as public enemies, not to be rewarded with public office as members of a new government, as they evidently hope. There is such a thing as legitimate opposition, but slanders, misrepresentation, and downright lies, calculated and probably intended to damage the credit of the province abroad, is not legitimate opposition and ought not to be tolerated by the people.

It is impossible to mention every instance in which the Opposition under its present leader does this, but we may refer to the talk indulged in by its members and their press on the subject of the conversion of the loans of 1877 and 1887, on which 6 per cent. and 4½ per cent. interest respectively was paid, into 3 per cent. inscribed stock, which would obtain a regular quotation on the London Stock Exchang and which would hereafter enable the Government to borrow any money it might need at the minimum rate of interest. The statement of the Opposition is that this operation before it is completed will cost the province $600,000, or more than one-third the total amount of the loans. They refuse to take into account the fact that the conversion of the loan will release $450,000 from the sinking fund, thereby rendering it available, and moreover will save $25,000 a year in interest These are facts which are not considered worthy of being taken into consideration by the financiers of the Opposition, but they are nevertheless very important facts. If the $450,000 released from the sinking fund were invested at the current rate of interest and compounded for fifty years, the period for which the three per cent. bonds are to run, it would at the end of that period pay the total amount of the loans of 1877 and 1887 twice over. This is the operation which is described as a ruinous one for the Province, and for which the Governmant deserves to be censured by the Legislature, and turned out of office by the people. And this, too, without taking into account the contingent advantages of conversion, which, as we have said above, will enable the Province hereafter to borrow at a low rate of interest, which it could not do while some of its bonds bearing six and four and a half per cent. interest were still outstanding. It is evident that the leaders of the Opposition and their organs must take the people of British Columbia to be very ignorant and very stupid, when they appeal to them to censure and turn out the Government on such ground as this. This, however, is a small offence compared with slandering the Province, as they are doing, and falsely proclaiming it on the verge of bankruptcy.

GLADSTONE TO RETIRE.

The news published in a despatch from London, that Mr. Gladstone will shortly have no choice but to resign, is of the highest political importance. It appears that the old man's sight and hearing are both nearly gone. Since his return from Biarritz, it is stated, the cataract which has been forming on his eye has ripened fast, and his physicians advise an early operation. This, if it is performed, will necessarily involve his seclusion in a darkened room for a long time, probably three months, with complete cessation from mental work and worry. This, of course, will make his retirement from the position of premier unavoidable. Already his successor is spoken of, and Lord Rosebery is generally pointed to as the coming man. His colleagues wish Mr. Gladstone to postpone his resignation of the premiership as long as possible, but it is not likely that the course of the cataract will wait on their convenience. It is not yet known whether Mr. Gladstone's approaching retirement will be permanent or temporary only. Much will, of course, depend on the result of the operation for his cataract, but the chances at his age seem against him again returning to office, if he retires shortly, as seems at present inevitable. Apart from his failing sight and hearing Mr. Gladstone's health is reported to be good.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt is mentioned as a candidate for the Premiership in competition with Lord Rosebery, but Sir William is not regarded in England as a man to be trusted with the leadership of a great party and the responsibilities it would entail. He is looked upon as a clever and unscrupulous politician, and an able debater—in short, as a man who cannot be neglected, but who cannot and ought not to be trusted to occupy the first place. Mr. Gladstone himself is said to be in favor of making Lord Rosebery his successor. Sir William Vernon Harcourt will probably be made leader of the House of Commons in the new Government, a position which from his great debating power he is well qualified fill.

The succession of Roseberry to the Premiership on Mr. Gladstone's retirement will be hailed with satisfaction by moderate Liberals generally. He is unquestionably an able man, of patriotic instincts, to whom the interests of the Empire may safely be confided. He has filled the difficult position of Minister for Foreign Affairs in Mr. Gladstone's cabinet with honor to himself and benefit to the nation. The management of foreign affairs was always regarded as Mr. Gladstone's weak point in politics, and the presence of Lord Roseberry in his cabinet as Foreign Secretary was looked upon with satisfaction both by Conservatives and moderate Liberals, as a guarantee that Mr. Gladstone's known feebleness in the mananement of foreign affairs would be made good by the vigor and patriotism of his Foreign Secretary. But for this very reason Lord Roseberry was not regarded with favor by the Radicals of the Labouchere stamp, and these men and their leader are bound to make trouble if he succeeds to the Premiership. But Lord Roseberry is nominated by Mr. Gladstone as his successor as is said to be the case, the Radicals will be forced to accept the situation for the present at least.

What the effect will be on the approaching general election of Mr. Gladstone's resignation remains to be seen. The Irish Home Rulers will no doubt support Lord Rosebery. Indeed it is hard to see what else they can do, but they will insist on receiving pledges from him that he will carry out Mr. Gladstone's policy on behalf of Ireland. In this demand they are sure to be supported by the Radicals, and Lord Rosebery will have hard work to satisfy both. But the premiership of England is a brilliant prize, and no doubt Lord Rosebery will do his best to win it by conciliating both [illegible] Rulers, without whose [illegible] uld not hold the position for a day. Both Lord Rosebery and Sir William Vernon Harcourt, who are expected to be the leaders of the new Government after Mr. Gladstone's resignation, are able men; nevertheless the loss of Mr. Gladstone as active leader is sure to be much felt by the party, and will in no way conduce to its success at the approaching general election. The prospects of the Liberals after Mr. Gladstone's retirement are to say the least gloomy, and those of the Conservatives improved in proportion. If the latter do not win in the next general election in Great Britain they may as well retire from politics thereafter for ever more. There will be no further use for them as a party.

WELLINGTON ITEMS.

The I.O.O.F. Encampment meets to-morrow night.

Out of respect to the late Mr. Charles Vater, the local merchants closed their stores during the time of the funeral services.

Mr. H. J. McDonald will be very happy to restore a ladies' fur boa to its fair owner. This article of attire was left behind on the evening of Mr. Kay's "At Home."

It is expected that C. C. McKenzie, M.P.P.; T. Keith, M.P.P.; T. Kitchen, M.P.P., and other Opposition members will address a meeting in the school house next Tursday evening.

WATCHES that have been spoilt by inexperienced watchmakers, corrected by me. I clean your watch, or insert new mainsprings for $1.50. My work cannot be excelled. All watches sent by mail promptly attended to. E. MERMAN, JEWELLER, WELLINGTON. 6-1 6m

A meeting was called last night at Mr. Dillon's office of the friends of the late editor of the defunct Advocate. The object of the meeting was to raise funds to relieve his present wants. Several of the business men had been invited. Besides Mr. Dillon, one other was present. No subscriptions were made.

Following the progressive spirit of Wellington, Mr. E. W. Bickle is having a new sanctum fitted up in his store. When finished, it will reveal behind its glass and polished wood front, a handsome office desk made by Paul Williamson, a cabinet maker of Nanaimo. Mr. Bickle is also having a telephone connection put in.

Wellington is notable for its social gatherings. At a meeting held in Mr. W. G. Fraser's store on Tuesday evening the Wellington Social Dancing Club was formed. It was then decided to give a series of five dances to begin to-morrow night and continue on alternate Fridays. Some pleasant evenings are in store for its members.

A huge freight case weighing 850 pounds blockaded the entrance to W. G. Fraser's yesterday. It was consigned from Mark Fisher, Sons & Co., of Huddersfield, England, one of the largest woolen manufacturers in the world, to Mr. Fraser, who intends clothing the Wellington male elite with its contents. This is only a sample invoice of an immense spring stock.

The mortal remains of the late Mr. C. Vater, enclosed in a handsome casket, were conveyed from his late residence on Tuesday to the Presbyterian Church, where the services for the dead were read.

After the Rev. Rogers had spoken some appropriate words in reference to the unfortunate death of the deceased, the remains were carried to the Nanaimo cemetery and laid by the side of his son's grave. There was a long and solemn procession of friends who followed in all the vehicles procurable in the neighborhood.

The adjourned inquest takes place to-day at 1 p.m.

Daughters of the Revolution.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Feb. 28.—The daughters of the American revolution to-day elected officers for the ensuing year and adjourned until February next. Mr. Stevenson, wife of the Vice-President was elected president, and Mrs. A. D. Geer of New York, vice-president.

Beaven Blockades Legislation With His Want of Confidence Resolution.

VICTORIA, Feb. 28.—[Special]—Beaven's want of confidence resolution again monopolized the time of the Legislature this afternoon.

The resolution was defeated on a division of 18 to 9.

It was falsely reported in the city to-day that Seattle had been destroyed by fire.

The N.P. ss. Victoria left for the Orient to-day, taking a number of Mongolians back to their native soil.

Charles McKay is to-night lying in a dying condition at the Jubilee Hospital with a bullet wound in his head. This afternoon he took a small rifle and went down to the water front near his home with the intention of shooting ducks. His little boy, at six o'clock, went to call him to supper, and found him on his hands and knees in their boat house, shot through the head. Dr's. Duncan and Hall made an examination, finding that the bullet, a small calibre one, had entered the right temple and lodged in the left side of the head over the ear, inflicting a terrible wound which cannot but result fatally. It is not known how the wound was inflicted, but probably by the accidental discharge of the weapon in the victims own hands.

LATER.—McKay died at midnight.

AN ASTRONOMICAL DISCOURSE.

Rev. P. Jenns Delivers an Interesting and Instructive Lecture.

The lecture given by the Rev. P. Jenns last night on astronomy in St. Alban's Hall was of the most interesting nature. The lecturer dealt principally with the Solar System and the larger planets, illustrating his remarks and the deductions of astronomers by means of a series of charts. He also spoke on the power of gravity and the probable effects on persons if placed on the different planets by the lesser or greater attractions exercised. Some interesting details of the results of spectroscopic examinations on different planets and on the sun were introduced. In alluding to the moon the lecturer explained the condition of its surface referring to several diagrams. There was no indication of the moon containing water as there was no vapor and the sizes of some of the extinct craters were mentioned and the probable past history of the moon's condition traced. If a person was seated at the North Pole the temperature there would be warm in comparison with that of the moon. It was believed that the earth would probably become eventually in the same condition as the moon. It was also thought that at one period that the moon had water on its surface, and from the reasoning of analogy it was supposed that there was nothing living on the moon.

In reference to Mars the distance of the planet from the earth and sun was referred to, also there being clouds around it, giving positive proof of an atmosphere there, and allusion was made to the different gravitation attractions of the earth and Mars. It was also demonstrated that it was quite possible from what was known, for Mars to be inhabited with human beings like ourselves. In connection with observations of the probable temperatures of Mars in comparison with that of the earth, the lecturer remarked that the earth, when it had been heated more from the interior than at present, was capable at the poles of bringing forth tropical flowers.

Speaking of Venus, the reverend gentleman explained that not so much was known of the geography of this planet as of Mars, owing to the amount of clouds surrounding it. Venus, from the presence of the vapor, evidently had an atmosphere similar to our own. It was certain that Venus was much warmer than Mars in temperature. A reference was next made to the chart, and attention drawn to the difference in the sizes of Mars, Venus, the Moon, Earth, Jupiter, Saturn, Neptune and their satellites

The lecturer spoke of the cloud belts appearing before Jupiter, and which by scientists were supposed to be caused by the damp atmosphere kept off the planet by the enormous heat in it. Saturn was next spoken of briefly, and its curious rings commented on, and its eight moons. A short allusion was made to Neptune, after which the astronomer referred to the whole solar system collectively, and explained the wonderful effect of gravity on Neptune at its enormous distance from the sun. The different ideas as to the means of the sun's heat being kept up now, it was generally believed that the effect of the enormous pull on the sun by the planets revolving around it, and its satellites tended in part to keep the sun in its state of great heat. After some further remarks on the same subject the lecturer closed his discourse.

The Rev. G. H. Tovey thanked the Rev. P. Jenns for his lecture and the interesting nature of it. He alluded to the forthcoming visit of the Bishop in connection with the C.E.T. Society.

KASLO!!

KOOTENAY LAKE, B.C.

IS COMING TO THE FRONT WITH A BOUND

It is the center of the Silver-Lead Mining Industry of the famous Slocan Region, which is now sending $75,000 worth of Ore to Kaslo per week for shipment to the American smelters.

Mining men from all parts of the world say that it is the richest silver district known. The progress of development work in the mines verifies this statement.

Thousands of men will be employed in these mines. The natural base of supplies is Kaslo, which is admirably adapted for the purpose, being a beautiful townsite, situated on a bay possessing excellent shipping advantages.

The right of way for the Kaslo-Slocan Railway has been cleared, and the bridge foundations have been put in place, so that the work of grading and track-laying may proceed at the earliest possible moment after the snow disappears.

The growth of Kaslo last year was very considerable. It is now an incorporated town, having a population of 2,000 people. That this population will be doubled before the end of the present year is unquestioned.

Kaslo offers to investors a most promising field. The opening up of the mines tributary to it must build up Kaslo. The development of these mines is now in progress. Many others will be worked as soon as easily accessible. An investment in a Kaslo lot will pay you handsomely.

THOMAS KITCHIN

The space below is reserved for the latest news from the Kaslo-Slocan District.

LATEST, FEBRUARY 26th, 1894:

KASLO, B. C., Feb. 26.—Nearly all of Front street, Kaslo, between 3rd and 4th, was destroyed by fire on Saturday night. Thirty buildings were burned, including all the hotels except the Leland and Slocan. Green Bros.' buildings, J. B. Wilson's store and other parts of the town escaped.

Loss estimated at $100,000 with small insurance. The only fire protection is a small hand engine, with a volunteer brigade, the water having to be taken from the bay. The Customs Offices, Byers' Hardware Store, and all the principal business establishments of the town were located on this street, and succumbed to the devouring flames.

The best thing that could happen. Seattle and Vancouver over again. A good fire

CLOTHING FOR CONSUMPTIVES.

How the Use of Flannel as Underwear May Be Carried to Excess.

A writer in the European edition of the New York Herald, who considers that the use of flannel as underwear has been carried to excess, and that this habit has arisen from our attributing far too many complaints to the action of cold, says that this factor is only an indirect one making us more specially apt to be affected by this or that morbid germ.

This excess in the use of flannel comes from the fact that physicians and patients attribute consumption to the action of cold. M. Lancereaux of Paris recently called attention to the fact that every patient, whether actually consumptive or only threatened with the disease, comes to the hospitals covered with underwear of this sort and mentioned one man in particular whom he found with three such undershirts, one above the other. In any case everybody should clearly understand that consumption is never the result of catching cold, and this is proved by the fact that it does, or rather did, not exist in certain cold countries, such as Iceland or the Faroe islands, until the disease made its appearance with the habitual use of alcohol.

Pulmonary phthisis has only two factors—lack of pure air and the abuse of alcoholic drinks, to which can be added pathological conditions which, like diabetes, undermine the patient.

Phthisis spreads in direct ratio to the use of houses, to the increase in the number of stories to our houses and to the desertion of life in the fields for life in the city. The disease is rare toward the equator, for the simple reason that there are no manufacturing towns in that latitude.

According to whether the complaint is originated by the one or other of the two causes mentioned above, it affects a different portion of the breathing apparatus. When a person becomes consumptive through an insufficient supply of pure air, the tubercles form in the forward portion of the left apex, but with alcoholic patients they develop at the right apex, and these localizations are so habitual that in Mr. Lancereaux's opinion they are sufficient in 99 cases out of 100 to throw the physician on the track of the true cause of the disease.

Rheumatism and Hot Bathing.

Despite the humid climate of Japan, rheumatism is very rare among the natives, which is probably due to the practice of daily hot bathing. Writing in Science Dr. Albert Ashmead says: "A prolonged residence in the Japanese climate is productive of general physical relaxation, with increased susceptibility to cold. After a two years' residence in Japan, Europeans feel the necessity of wearing more substantial winter clothing, as the climate seems to have become harsher since the beginning of their sojourn. Any foreigner who permanently resides there and wishes to feel at ease must resort to the hot bathing of the natives; being in Japan, he must do as Japanese do. Europeans on their first arrival are very prone to rheumatism, and even perfected acclimatization does not do away with that propensity. The hot bath habit is singularly favorable to perfect acclimatization. It, as also the customary and frequent hot tea, mitigates the depressive influence of the summer kakke months, the wet season of June, July and August."

How to Light a Solid Body.

Cadogan Morgan was the first electrician to experiment with electric light in solid bodies. This was in 1785. He first inserted two wires into a stick of wood and caused the spark to pass between them. This had the effect of illuminating the stick a beautiful blood red. An ivory ball, an orange or an apple may be lighted in the same manner. Some experimenters prefer the lemon for this purpose, it being very susceptible to the electric discharge, flashing forth at every spark as a spheroid of brilliant golden light. The wires used for this purpose should be brought within about half an inch of each other inside the lemon.

The Wonders of Reproduction.

Aphides are a species of minute insect belonging to the order of Hemiptera, suborder Homoptera, and, taken collectively, 100 of them would hardly weigh a grain. Now, let us try a comparison. The average man, we will say, weighs about 2,000,000 grains. Yet it has been found, by actual calculation, that if these minute insects were left unchecked to only the tenth generation, the descendants of a single pair would be equivalent, in point of actual weight, to 500,000,000 very heavy men. This would be equal to one-third of the population of the globe, supposing each person to weigh an average of 180 pounds.

No Spooning in the Grecian Isles.

Describing marriage customs in Kaso, one of the most southern islands of Greece, E. M. Edmonds, in the Eastern and Western Review, says the parents upon both sides take upon themselves all the responsibilities of courtship and marriage. Courtship, as we understand it, is not in any way permitted to the betrothed couple. No moonlight walks or tete-a-tetes are allowed. Such a course would be deemed highly reprehensible, and all wooing, if there be any, must take place in the presence of the elders; but there is no great time for repining at these decrees of custom, for the marriage follows the offer as quickly as may be.

Remarkable Census Coincidence.

In 1890, a few weeks before the census taker began his enumeration of the people of Elm Grove, W. Va., the city or town authorities counted their own population preparatory to filing articles of incorporation. The following is the remarkable result: Number of males over 21 years of age, 148; number of males under 21 years of age, 148; number of females over 16 years of age, 148; number of females under 16 years of age, 148.

American experiments with smokeless powder continue to grow more satisfactory.

CLIMATE AND CROPS.

HOW THE FOOD SUPPLIES OF THE EARTH ARE REGULATED.

Agriculture Is the Basis of All Subsistence, but Yet the Most Thickly Settled Spots Are Not by Any Means the Most Fertile. Java's Population.

How much room is there still on the earth for mankind? This is a question which is often raised and which is answered in a great many different ways. As all food is either directly or indirectly derived from the vegetable kingdom, and the plants need the light and the heat of the sun, the question as to how the light and heat are distributed is an important one. If we assume (which is true) that only 60 per cent of the heat of the sun reaches the earth, the remainder being absorbed by the atmosphere, then latitudes 20 degrees north and south will receive 92 per cent; 40 degrees north and south, 68 per cent; 60 degrees north and south, 40 per cent, and the poles only 17 per cent of the heat received at the equator. Therefore the countries which on account of the amount of heat received are in the most favorable circumstances to produce a great amount of vegetable food lie in the tropics, provided the other condition of plant life is found—that is, dampness.

In Europe people were particularly impressed with the information communicated by Humboldt, on his return from his American journey, concerning the great amount of food furnished by the banana in tropical countries. It was later proved, however, that the distinguished naturalist was mistaken, first, in ascribing so high a state of productiveness to the banana, and, second, because the banana is not generally suitable to be used as the principal food for man. As the grains are cultivated wherever agriculture is advanced, in the damp parts of south and east Asia we find rice, in the dry parts of India and the greater part of tropical Africa, millet and sago, and in tropical America, principally corn.

The banana is even less fitted to furnish the staple food than the potato. As an accessory, however, like the potato in the wealthy countries of Europe and North America, it is very important. As a dense population is only possible where there is a certain amount of cultivation, we must keep in mind the experience of many thousand years and accept the grains as the base of nourishment.

The Little Antilles and Mascarene islands are of intense fertility and export a great deal of sugar and import not only industrial products, but a good deal of foodstuff. The ground, therefore, does not directly nourish the population Several parts of India export foodstuffs, and there is no trustworthy information as to the interior commerce in these products. Tonquin has too lately been annexed to France to obtain trustworthy statistics. Java, with Madura, is alone suited to our statistical necessities.

This country is sufficiently large, it furnishes good statistics of agriculture and commerce, and the imports and exports are carefully registered. The population is about as dense as in Belgium and Saxony, but life is supported under very different circumstances. Saxony and Belgium import foodstuffs and export mineral and manufactured products. Java imports a very small amount of rice and salt fish and exports many more agricultural products. It not only supplies its own people with food, but finds it possible to buy mineral and manufactured products. It might be supposed that this immense population would be divided in a certain proportion on the island, and either that its increase would be small, as in France and Belgium, or else there would be a large emigration, as from Great Britain or Germany.

Neither case is true. Emigration is scarcely known. The population increases at the rate of 1 per cent a year, and its distribution varies so greatly that in the eastern portion there are fewer people than in the swampy province of Minsk, in Russia, and in the central part there are almost twice as many people as in Belgium and Saxony, and yet 80 per cent of the population in this part of the island live by agriculture. Rice is the staple, and the statistics give 238 kilograms to each inhabitant. Only about 15 per cent of the surface of the island is devoted to the culture of rice. This is still in a very primitive state, but the government has taken it up, and the production will be greatly increased. Java is a mountainous country, but these mountains are not high, and the rainfall is great, and rice can be cultivated on 30 per cent of the surface for the first crop and 10 per cent for the second. We have therefore a possible extension of the cultivation of rice to 5,200,000 hectares. An average crop to this amount of acreage would support 9,000,000 people.

The surface of Java could be divided in this manner: Thirty per cent of the water surface would produce rice, vegetables, breadfruit and agricultural exports. Fifteen per cent, not watered, would produce breadfruit and agricultural exports; eight per cent, not watered, coffee and tea plantations; two per cent, watered, sugar cane. There would then be left 45 per cent for forests, gardens, meadows, waters, roads and dwellings. The people of Java need not then be condemned to live on rice alone. Fruits are very important and necessary for health, and in Java alone are found 100 different kinds. Cattle can be easily raised, and the superabundant numbers of water plants, insects and worms that are found in tropical countries furnish an easy means of feeding fish and fowls. We find therefore that in this country 800 men could find support on one square kilometer, or more than four times as many people as are now there.—Alexander Wollkof in Breslau Deutsche Revue.

THE ART OF SHOPPING

The art of shopping is not necessarily to make at all times a good bargain, but to secure a fair equivalent of the money spent, and to be able to do this with the least expenditure of time and tr uble

A GOOD BARGAIN

Is distinguished from a cheap bargain, but in these days of bargains and bargain-days, when from one end of Canada to the other—yea, and the United States, too—the newspapers are crying bargains—and we read about bargains in this thing, and bargains in that thing, when bargains are by many more to be sought after than wisdom, and when every dealer in the country from the "peanut vendor" to the "merchant prince" calls everything a bargain—in these days it is not so easy to distinguish a good bargain from the cheap one.

THE RESULT OF SHOPPING

Should be a feeling of satisfaction with the goods purchased. A sense of having accomplished what you set out to do, and that in a reasonable and sensible manner. Not a tired-to-death feeling, and an uncertainty as to whether that forty-nine cent article was worth fifty cents after all.

WE SAY THAT THE WOMAN

Who desires to make an art of shopping will fasten her faith to the store that proposes to give her always the cash value for her money. It is for the trade of all who desire good bargains, as we distinguish them, that we work.

The Fire's Aftermath.

Yesterday afternoon, what goods that were undamaged by the fire in the upper room of Mrs. Forest's house, were removed. Amongst other things that escaped injury was a crape bonnet that was inside of a small wooden box in the sitting room where the fiercest blaze took place, and where everything else was burnt to a cinder. The sewing machine which was just inside the entrance door was, of course utterly ruined. The building including furniture was insured for $800. Mrs. Forest and her son feel the loss very severely.

AUCTIONEERS.

LADIES ATTENTION!
AUCTION OF DRY GOODS!!

I shall start on Saturday, Feb. 10th, to clear out by Auction the entire stock of Dry Goods, Millinery, Mantles and Men's Furnishings, latelty bought from Mr. A. A. Richardson at a ridiculously low price previous to making an entire change in my business. I have secured the services of Mr. Dufour, an Auctioneer of over 20 years' experience in England and Canada, to conduct the auction branch of my business.

The Public of Nanaimo know that this stock is composed of really useful and serviceable goods, and this will offer them an opportunity of purchasing at their own prices. I ask one and all to be at the WESTEND on Saturday, Monday and following days, when the whole stock will be offered without reserve. Sale from 2 to 5 each day.

MEN'S ATTENTION! Auction of Stock of Mr. James Caldwell.

We have received instructions from Mr. James Caldwell to Auction the whole of his well assorted stock of Men's Furnishings and Hats.

As Mr. Caldwell is going out of this line, and intends in the future to devote his entire attention to the Tailoring branch of his business, the whole of this stock will be offered without reserve.

Sale on Saturday, Monday and following nights from 7 to 10.
