THE WILSON TARIFF BILL

WAS PASSED YESTERDAY BY A MAJORITY OF 63.

The Greatest Enthusiasm Prevailed. Chairman Wilson Was Chaired—The Senate Sat on the Secretary—A Costly Thistle—They Echo Vaillant's Cry. Their Amendments Not Accepted. Her Majesty's Grandchildren—Nothing New from Rio A British Officer Heard from—Moving the Admirals—Lee Sing Will Swing.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—An immense crowd flocked to the House to-day, and the galleries and the corridors were filled. There was a full attendance of members on the floor, but thirteen members out of 357 being absent from their seats when the vote on the final passage of the Tariff Bill was taken. The greatest enthusiasm was engendered by the speeches of ex-Speaker Reed, Speaker Crisp and Chairman Wilson. Mr. Wilson was taken bodily and lifted on to the shoulders of his demonstrative admirers. The Bill was reported to the House at 12 o'clock and the final vote on the passage of the Bill was announced at 5:55, being passed by a vote of 204 to 140. There were many interesting and exciting scenes during the day.

Triangular Billiards.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Feb. 1.—The three-cornered billiard tournament began in this city to-night. Schaefer won the first game, defeating Slosson by a score of 600 to 482.

Lee Sing Will Swing.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—The Supreme Court this afternoon denied a writ of prohibition, restraining the warden of San Quentin from executing Lee Sing the Chinese Highbinder, to-morrow morning.

A Costly Thistle.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Mr. Hansbrough this morning succeeded in having the Senate Committee on agriculture favorably report his bill appropriating $1,000,000 for the extermination of the Russian thistle, although Mr George, chairman of the committee dissented.

The Louisiana Thought to Be Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—The captain of the American ship Aran, which arrived this morning, 142 days from Baltimore, with a cargo of coal, reports that three days ago he sighted the ship Louisiana, now out 208 days from New York. The Louisiana was then about 700 miles off the shore. A reinsurance of 35 per cent. was recently paid on her, and grave fears are entertained for her safety.

Moving the Admirals.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Secretary Herbert to-day issued an order to Rear Admiral Kirkland, directing him to hold himself in readiness to leave and take command of the Pacific station by the steamer of February 17th from San Francisco for Honolulu. Admiral Kirkland will succeed Admiral John Irwin as the naval commander at Honolulu. The command is due to the approaching retirement of Admiral Irwin. In April next Admiral Benham will retire by the operation of the law. An order will be issued in a short time detaching him from the command of the South Atlantic station, which includes the fleet now in Rio harbor. Admiral Benham, it is learned, will be succeeded by Admiral Stanton, who was detached from the South Atlantic command for saluting Admiral Mello at Rio.

Nothing New From Rio.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Up to a late hour to-night neither Secretary Herbert nor Secretary Gresham had received anything from Rio additional to the message from Benham delivered to Secretary Herbert on Monday evening. Statements that more United States ships of war will probably go to Rio to support the fleet there, are merely speculative. Nothing of the sort has been considered or even suggested. Secretary Herbert said to-night that the American fleet at Rio is ample for the protection of American interests and there is no necessity for increasing it. In answer to a question as to whether he had received anything that indicated the speedy end of the insurrection, Secretary Herbert said he had nothing positive or definite on the subject. Senor Mendonca, the Brazilian minister, has received no news from his government about the new aspect at the Brazilian capital.

The Senate Sat on the Secretary.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 1.—The Senate debated during the whole of to-day's session on the resolution denying the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue bonds. The principal speakers were Senators Stewart (Republican, Nevada), Dolph (Republican, Oregon), and Allison (Republican, Iowa). None of the Democratic Senators appeared in debate, except occasionally to ask a question, or to make a suggestion. All the Republican speakers denied the authority to issue bonds for the purpose of meeting current expenses, and Mr. Dolph denounced the claim of right under the Resumption Act as a bold usurpation and as a case of false pretension. His own plan to replenish the treasury would be to announce that there would be no tampering with the tariff, no free trade legislation. At the close of the debate the resolution went over till to-morrow. The Senate adjourned at 5:10 p. m.

They Echo Vaillant's Cry.

GENOA, Feb. 1.—There was a riot to-day among the convicts in the prisons here. several men displayed a black flag at a window and shouted, "Hurrah for De Felice!" "Long live anarchy!" After a brief struggle the wardens overcame the convicts and restored order.

London Opinion.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The Daily News says in its leader on the passage of the Wilson tariff bill by the House of Representatives: "The bill is a happy augury for an industrial revival in the United States, still it is far short of what the traders in Great Britain consider a measure founded on rational principles."

Their Amendments Not Accepted.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The House of Lords resumed to-day the debate on the Parish Councils Bill. The Conservative majority passed a series of amendments, which the Marquis of Ripon, speaking for the Government, intimated would not be accepted.

Her Majesty's Grandchildren.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Queen Victoria, Emperor William, and the Prince of Wales will attend a wedding of Princess Victoria, Melita of Coburg, to the Grand Duke of Hesse, both of whom are grandchildren of Queen Victoria.

A British Officer Heard From.

LISBON, Feb. 1.—The British steamer Trent, fron Buenos Ayres, via Rio Janeiro, from which port she sailed January 11th, arrived here to-day. Among her passengers was Captain Wm. L. Lang, who is proceeding to England on leave of absence. Captain Lang was the senior British naval officer at Rio Janeiro. He was interviewed by the representative of the United Press and said that the Insurgents had plenty of money resources, while Peixoto's funds were low. Admiral DaGama, Captain Lang added, was the mainstay of the Insurgents. He was well backed with a navy and general sympathy with him is expressed on shore. The Insurgents captured the Islands of Conceicao, and Moncanug. These positions, he added, commanded Nictheroy, and should that place be taken the insurrection would end, it being the key to the whole situation. The Brazilian government threatened to seize the Trent on December 22nd, on the plea that she had conveyed insurgent officers on a previous voyage. The British sloop of war Beagle prevented the seizure. The Trent brought advices to the effect that Captain Meissner, who succeeded captain Crossman as the commander of the ship recently purchased from the government of America, has left the vessel, as has also the electrican, who went out on her from New York.

PUBLIC SCHOOL REPORT.

To any one interested in the education of our youth, the annual report of our provincial schools by Dr. Pope, the Superintendent of Education, which was laid before the Provincial Legislature by the Hon. Col. Baker, Minister of Education, should command considerable attention. Incorporated with it are two most interesting reports by the educational inspectors Messrs Wilson and Burns.

Dr. Pope says that "the records of the year show considerable increase in attendance, marked improvement in the condition of the schools, and satisfactory progress in the subjects of study prescribed." The enrolment of pupils has almost doubled in the past five years, and the last two years thus compare:

School districts.....	168	154
Pupils enrolled.....	11,496	10,773
Expenditure for education proper.....	$190,558	$160,627

It will be seen that the expense for increased numbers is considerably less per capita. The average salary of the 242 teachers employed was $61, odd, ranging from $50 to $125 per month. This rate of salary is higher than in Eastern Canada or Europe, though, compared with the cost of living, it may not be actually greater.

In reference to the high schools, Dr. Pope remarks: "Of the 275 teachers now employed in the schools, over 100 have received instructions in these schools. Hence, the usefulness of these secondary institutions of learning must be apparent. The past history of our high schools shows that they have been of incalculable benefit to the province."

The number of registered pupils for Nanaimo was 951, and Nanaimo City 793. These attendances compare most favorably, in contrast with population, with any other city, town or place in the province.

In the course of a very valuable report, Inspector D. Wilson remarks: "With respect to the teachings of temperance, a branch subject of hygene, the sentiment of the schools is sound. The conviction that alcohol and tobacco are bad things to use, is universal. In dealing with this branch subject, however, teachers should aim at clearness of statement and exactness of knowledge, lest by causing people to acquire exaggerated notions of the effects of stimulants, there should be, in the light of after-knowledge, danger of a reaction of sentiment. This appears to be true temperate teaching.

After advocating a due regard as to appearance, in respect of the school room and buildings, Inspector Burns wisely concludes that "it is quite possible to judge of the character of the work done in the school by the appearance of the outside of the building; litter and rubbish swept out but lying around the doors, paper scattered about the grounds, broken fences and windows, are sure marks by which the quality of the work done within the walls can be estimated."

In another part of the paper we give the list of those pupils who last year gained the rolls of honor. We cannot do better here than attach the report of Mr. S. Gough who is the secretary of our local board of Trustees.

NANAIMO, B. C., July 16, 1893.

"SIR—The trustees of the Nanaimo City public schools beg to submit the following report for the year ending 30th June, 1893:

"During the past year the North and South Ward school buildings have been completed. These, with the Central school buildings, have afforded ample accommodation for our school population, and, to a limited extent, for children living outside our limits.

"From January until the end of June the High school was held in the municipal council chamber; these quarters were soon found to be too small, and during the midsummer holidays a commodious addition was made to the North Ward school at a cost of over $1,000, and is now occupied by the High school.

"Extensive repairs are needed at the Boys' and Girls' Central schools; these buildings are faulty in design and construction; a considerable sum is required to put them in good order for carrying on the work for which they were intended.

"The various incidental wants of the schools have been promptly attended to and a careful oversight has been maintained by the trustees.

"During the year 23 meetings have been held for the transaction of business."

I have, &c.,

S. GOUGH,

Sec'y Board of School Trustees.

THE STARTER.

The average price of fresh omnibus horses in London is about $165.

Maud S and Sunol will be exhibited in October at the World's fair.

The track at Dundee, N. J., was sold recently to George H. Engeman for $40,000.

Sam Gamble is the prime mover in the work of building a new race track in the vicinity of San Francisco.

Never allow horses in a field with a barbed wire fence separating them from other horses, says The Horseman.

King Solomon was a liberal horse buyer. He sent agents to Egypt and paid as high as $3,000 to $5,000 for steeds of the desert.

Fides Stanton, 2:15¼, who got out of form and was retired, has been given a daily lake swim and shows rapid improvement.

The Monmouth Park association has served papers on the New York Tribune and the New York Times in criminal libel suits of $100,000 each.

Trainer Budd Doble first answered the bell 28 years ago at Newark, O. Doble then was but a boy, and he was campaigning Stephen A. Douglas.

Chesapeake, the noted old time race horse, died Aug. 22 at Baker City, Or. He was the first horse to defeat Ten Broeck in a three heat race, running the third heat in 1:43.

Hulda, 2:08¼, is very peculiarly marked. On the left side of her face are a lot of freckles; in her forehead is a little white mark, and there is an immense dimple in her neck.

Some of the trainers are now using cushioned tire wheels on their sulkies instead of the pneumatic, claiming that they are as fast as the latter and that they will wear much longer.

THE INFANTA.

The Prince of Wales has 17 brothers-in-law, 16 uncles, 57 cousins and 58 nephews and nieces.

Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria's latest project is the establishment of a medical faculty in Sofia. He has invited Professor Neusser of Vienna to undertake the organization.

The empress of Austria may be said to have beaten the record among royalties in regard to being a juvenile grandmother, for she was 36 when her first grandchild was presented to her.

Queen Victoria proposes to erect a cairn in memory of the marriage of the Duke of York. It will be in Scotland, near the one she erected in remembrance of the wedding of the Prince of Wales.

The Princess of Wales has perhaps invented almost as many novelties as any one in the knickknack trade. She drew with her own hand the plan for the pocket smoking case which the prince carries everywhere with him.

Princess May, duchess of York, is a sensible young woman as well as a pretty one. She utterly refuses to pinch in her waist, and it measures the more or less reasonable number of 26 inches, and her figure is one of the loveliest in England.

One reason why the Russian czarowitz can never marry the Princess Victoria of Wales, with whose name gossip has connected his, is that they are first cousins, and the marriage of first cousins is strictly prohibited by the canons of the Greek church.

THE EXHIBITOR.

Pearls from Wisconsin make a very creditable display at the World's fair.

In The North American Review exhibit at the World's fair is a letter from Byron to Shelley.

Among the attractions at the fair is a straw hat braided by the busy fingers of her majesty Queen Victoria.

A bronze statue of General Shields, which is to be placed in the capitol at Washington by the state, is on exhibition in the Illinois building.

Lady Aberdeen of Hackney, London, has just been presented with the honorary freedom of the Coachmakers' Company of London. She has some fine carving on view at Chicago.

Mr. Burdett-Coutts exhibits a model of his famous Brookfield stud. The interiors are fitted with electric lights, which enable one to see the tiny galleries, loose boxes, etc., which are within.

California has exhibits in more buildings at the fair than any other state. In the Woman's building the richness and beauty of the "California room" awaken admiration, while the state building itself is a veritable fairly land.

THE ELECTRICIAN.

A German has taken out a patent for producing varnish from linseed oil by means of an electric current.

A Bostonian has electric lamps concealed about his windows so as to produce a similar effect to sunlight shining through the panes.

In its constitution electric light very closely resembles sunlight and has a far smaller proportion of harmful rays than any of the rival illuminants.

The electric power plant which is located at the gorge near Winooski, Vt., is almost ready to be put into active operation. Its principal use will be to supply power for Burlington's electric street car line.

The telephone was first practically used in England in 1876, when over 115 miles of wire existed between London and Norwich, but no telephone exchange was established until 1879, when 10 offices were established.

An addition to the recent electrical appliances has appeared in the shape of an electrically heated shaving pot. This pot can be made instantly available in any room to which current for light is supplied.

THE PHILOSOPHER.

The web of human fortunes is woven for eternity.

The art of life is to know how to enjoy a little and to endure much.

The race of mankind would perish did they cease to aid each other.

It is good to have the brain packed full of images from the healthy past.

It is to live twice when you can enjoy the recollection of your former life.

Never do anything concerning the rectitude of which you have a doubt.

Doubts are not overcome with violence, but with reason and understanding.

Love is the only thing that has a perennial root and that death cannot touch.

COAL

The New Vancouver Coal Mining and Land Company

(FORMERLY THE VANCOUVER COAL COMPANY)

: : ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST : :

Nanaimo Coal (Used Principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes)

Southfield Coal (Steam Fuel)

NEW : WELLINGTON : COAL

(House and Steam Fuel)

☞ These Coals are Mined by this Company only and by Union Labor ☜

THE NANAIMO COAL gives a large percentage of gas, a high illuminating power, unequalled by any other Bituminous Gas Coals in the world, and a superiorquality of Coke

THE SOUTHFIELD COAL is now used by all the leading steamship lines on the Pacific.

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL, which was recently introduced, has already become the favorite fuel for all kinds of domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several mines of the Company are connected with their wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay, where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all stages of the tide. Special despatch is given to Ma and Ocean Steamers.

Imitating a Railway Collision.

A "locomotive engineer" has proposed a novel exhibit for the fair. He wants space at the grounds on which to build two circular tracks, one inside the other. On these he proposes to place two locomotives, one on each track. These will be started around the tracks in opposite directions, and when at full speed by means of a switch the two engines are to be turned on the same track and allowed to crash together, thus giving a realistic exhibition of a railway collision. The engines are to be old ones that could be purchased at scrap prices. The "engineer" fails to state how many times a day he proposes to give his show, also whether his "scrap" engines will survive the collisions so as to be able to come to the scratch again after each round.

Ready for the Esquimaux.

The three acres of ground at the north end of Jackson park that have been allotted to the Esquimau village are almost ready for occupancy by the little people from Labrador. The ground lies along the exposition fence just north of the Fifty-seventh street gate and embraces a portion of the northwestern pond, on which the Esquimaux are expected to disport themselves in their kayaks. Sixty-five men, women and children will constitute the population of the village, and they are now on their way from Labrador to Boston, where they will probably arrive in about a week. Agents of the company that has them in charge will bring them at once to Chicago, and they will be seen in their temporary huts during the dedication ceremonies.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1894.

AS AFFECTING OURSELVES.

We now know that the Wilson Tariff Bill has been voted for and passed by Congress by a majority of sixty-three. It has yet, however, to be ratified by the Senate, which is an almost foregone conclusion, before it comes into effect. How soon that may be cannot yet be definitely stated, as there is no rule as to the time taken, and the partisans of protection may prove strong wire-pullers in the Senate in the way of obstruction, if not of obliteration. This latter accomplishment, however, is impossible.

No matter how long or short the time before its effect, it is certain that the Wilson Tariff Bill will be law within twelve months and should materially affect the Dominion of Canada and particularly the Province of British Columbia. One of the places within the Province whose prosperity should go up by leaps and bounds within this present year is our own city of Nanaimo. Our almost only export will now have free ingress and access to all American ports within a reasonable commercial distance.

It would seem that the old story of coal from Europe, being brought as ballast, can be sold as cheap on the Pacific side of the States, will not now hold good. In view of this, the citizens of Nanaimo may look forward to better trade and improved times. Many no doubt will even now take heart and enter into new enterprises with an apparently assured good future. We shall treat of this subject in a more extended manner in a near issue.

BLAKE AND HOME RULE.

Mr. Blake is making himself notorious by his efforts in passing round the hat to collect money for the Home Rule cause. He is evidently doing his best to establish a claim on the support for his party of the Irish Roman Catholic voters at the next general election in the Dominion. But we hope that the Irish Protestants of Canada, and intelligent men of every nationality in the Dominion, will mark their disapprobation of Mr. Blake's conduct in trying for party motives, as we believe, to hand over the Protestants of Ireland to the rule of their hereditary enemies—to the rule of the lowest and most ignorant class of the population, led on by the Roman Catholic priests, known to be the most bigoted of their order in any country in Europe. In concluding his speech in Boston on Wednesday evening in support of the Home Rule cause, Mr. Blake said: "It will be for those of this generation a source of pride and pleasure in the days to come, when the struggle shall be over, when the result shall be obtained, to be able to say that they stood steadfast in the cause, and that their resolution, determination, and self-sacrifice, materially contributed to such a noble issue." The noble issue to which Mr. Blake is so actively contributing is the disruption of the United Kingdom, the probable eventual overthrow of the British empire, and the placing of Protestantism in Ireland under the feet of the papacy. It would also tend to the ruin of Ireland itself, as the best informed Irishmen know, including Daniel O'Connell, the eldest son of the man whom the Roman Catholics of Ireland style the Liberator. Daniel O'Connell is firmly opposed to Home Rule on the ground that it would be the ruin of Ireland industrially by handing her over to the control of the mob, headed by a fanatical priesthood. Mr. Blake is a traitor both to Great Britain and to Protestantism. He would sacrifice the interests of both to promote his private and personal ambition. We hope that at the next general election for the Dominion Parliament the Protestants of Canada and all loyal men will remember this, and vote accordingly. Great Britain is not safe in the hands of Gladstone and and his followers, who are openly seeking the disruption of the United Kingdom, and the Dominion would not be safe in the hands of Mr. Blake and his party, who if they had had the power would have handed over Canada long ago to the United States.

REPORT OF GLADSTONE'S INTENTION TO RESIGN.

Considerable excitement has been caused in England by an editorial announcement in the Pall Mall Gazette that it is Mr. Gladstone's intention shortly to resign. The Daily News, Mr. Gladstone's organ has hastened to deny the statement, characterizing it as a silly hoax, a practical joke. The Standard regards the statement published by the News as authorized by Mr. Gladstone, and therefore of the highest import. It says that its effect upon the fortunes of the ministry and its programme cannot fail to be most damaging and discouraging to his colleagues, "A Gladstonian Ministry," it continues, "with Gladstone on the shelf, is an absurdity as well as a constitutional anomaly. We have this consolation—the position cannot be prolonged." This is pretty plain speaking. It is evident that the Standard, the most sober-minded and respectable of journals, attaches much importance to the statement published by the Gazette, and very little to its denial by the News. It also appears that Mr. Pitleton, Mr. Gladstone's secretary, who telegraphed to Mr. Gladstone at Biarritz the statement published by the Gazette, had not up to a quarter to twelve on Wednesday night received a reply. Scores of personal inquiries have been telegraphed to Mr. Gladstone by his friends, among their several from his colleagues. The Liberals seem to be seriously alarmed. The National Liberal Club, and the central offices of the National Liberal Federation have been deluged with telegrams inquiring as to Mr. Gladstone's intentions. The Irish members of the House of Commons are said to be seriously concerned. Doubtless Mr. Gladstone will be heard from at once, and an end put to the anxiety and alarm of the Liberals.

We do not believe that Mr. Gladstone has any intention of resigning at this time and retiring from public life. He likes power too well to resign it, as long as he can help it. He has his usual majority of about thirty-five well in hand, and there is nothing, so far as is known, in the state of his health which makes immediate resignation necessary. Then why should he resign and bring swift ruin on his party? We are convinced that he will not do so—yet awhile, at least Mr. Balfour, speaking at Manchester on Wednesday evening, expressed the opinion that the general election would soon be on. Mr. Gladstone, we think, will not resign till after the general election, nor even then immediately if he obtains a majority, however small. He will hold on to office as long as there is a hope left that he will be able to force through his Home Rule craze—provided, of course, that his health holds out. If finally defeated in this, he will resign; but not sooner if he can help it. The Conservatives and Liberal-Unionists should count on this, and spare no effort to win when the elections come on. If they can defeat the Gladstonians at the polls, under Mr. Gladstone's personal leadership, they will be sure of a long term of power thereafter. The next elections will decide several things. They will decide the fate of Gladstone, of Home Rule and very probably of the British Empire itself.

MR. KITCHEN is becoming notorious rather than renowned by his achievement in appropriating a private document which he found within the leaves of a copy of the public accounts lent to him by the Premier, who did not know it was there. Mr. Brown, one of the self-appointed leaders of the Independents so-called (Mr. Cotton is the other and similarly appointed leader of the faction) thinks or pretends to do so, that Mr. Kitchen acted very honorably in keeping the document secret even from his colleagues till he had an opportunity of making what seemed to him a good use of it in the Assembly. The ideas of these independent oppositionists about what constitutes honorable conduct is to say the least peculiar. For example they consider it honorable to seize on an erroneous or obviously incorrect report of some passage in a political opponent's speech, and to base injurious remarks thereon; and then when the error or falsehood of the report is pointed out to them neither to apologise for their remarks nor to withdraw them. Honor among thieves is said to be a known quantity; but where is honor or even common decency to be found among men guilty of such conduct as this, and who try to excuse one another for reading and appropriating private documents, never intended for their eyes? Verily the Independent branch of the Opposition under Messrs. Brown and Cotton's leadership has fallen very low. The constituents of these men must bush for the conduct of their representatives, and be thoroughly ashamed of them. But it will be the constituents' fault if after the next general election they are any longer representitives.

WELLINGTON ITEMS.

Messrs. Hamburgher and Leiser, late Jones & Co., are having a counting-house erected in their store.

In reporting the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Kay in our issue of Sunday last, we inadvertently referred to Mr. Robert White as being accompanied by his wife. Of course this was an error, as groomsmen are never, or rarely ever, Benedicts. We regret the lapsus calamus, and herewith bear testimony that Mr. White is still a bachelor.

The Rev. Father Van Nevel, who is grand first vice president of the Pacific jurisdiction of the Y. M. I., included Wellington in his official tour on Sunday last. He then delivered an interesting address to Demers Council, expressing his pleasure and approval at finding the lodge in such a prosperous condition. Before leaving for Nanaimo the worthy vice president was tendered a great reception and a hearty valediction

Mr. and Mrs. H. Kay nee Berrigan were the recipients of many valuable and most costly wedding gifts. Following is a list of presents received, with the names of their friendly donors: Mr. and Mrs. Fagan, striking clock; Miss Maud Munroe, pair vases; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McDonald, china tea set; Chas. THE PROVINCIAL CAPITAL.

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 1,—[Special]—In the Legislature this afternoon the Witnesses and Evidence Bill was finally passed.

A bill to legalize marriages by the staff officers of the Salvation Army, was moved by Premier Davie, in his capacity as a private member, and passed its second reading; Messrs Beaven, Semlin and Martin alone voting nay.

The Premier strongly complimented the officers of the Army for zeal and untiring activity in doing good, and remarked that while all might not endorse the methods of the Army, all must admire the good they do.

Corbett Was to Bat Up Fly Balls.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 1.—The Baltimore Baseball Club will not increase its offer to champion Corbett. Cincinnati is said to have raised Hanlon's offer of $1,000 a week for Corbett's services during July and August. Manager Hanlon said to-night: "If Cincinnati wants to pay Corbett more than Baltimore, Cincinnati can have him. The talk about the league interfering to prevent us from signing with Corbett is all bosh. As far as I can see the league has nothing to do with it. I never intended to play him regularly, but merely intended to let him appear in the field and bat up fly balls before the game."

LOCAL NEWS.

Receipt of Customs.

The customs returns for the first month of the year 1894, include, miscellaneous, $32; sick mariners' dues, $478.79; duty collected, $4,318; and on imports, goods dutiable, $13,167; goods free, $1,679; making a total of $14,846.

Only Nineteen,

The police court record for the month of January did not average one case per diem, only nineteen in all being magisterially disposed of, and they were provincial as well as local. There was one case of assault, two for disturbing the peace, two for obstructing the police, one for vagrancy, four for supplying liquor to Indians, and nine for being drunk. It will thus be seen that our precincts are unusally free from any offences of a criminal character.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

If applause means anything, then Sutton's Uncle Tom's Cabin Company was a decided success last night. The performance all through was fully up to the standard of like variety entertainments. The several comic parts were decidedly good, while the singing hardly reached that level. Eva, the child actress, was much appreciated; and the whole play was abounding in incidentals which kept the audience both interested and amused.

The Highest Authority in America.

Printers Ink, the highest newspaper authority in America, speaks thus of THE DAILY TELEGRAM:

"Did you ever hear of a place called Nanaimo? It is on the Island of Vancouver and 75 miles from Victoria. If you live in what you consider an enterprising city and believe that your local daily paper is first-class, write to the publisher of THE DAILY TELEGRAM, Nanaimo, British Columbia, and ask for a sample copy of his paper, and when you obtain it compare it with your home production. Go down and talk with the publisher about it afterwards, and ask him why it is that he can't print as good a paper, or obtain as good a local patronage, or have his paper as free from dead-head or objectionable advertisements? A useful lesson may be learned from Nanaimo."

property to mingle with the concerns of the store. Why not pay all, and if need be, more than his proportion, then insist on an immediate dissolution of the firm? The property honestly vested in your name, my mother, would easily support you in your present style without any noticeable change. You and father have 'borne the burden and heat of the day' quite long enough. Let us young ones take our turn now."

George had spoken with great earnestness and rapidity, and his mother fondly and wisely abstained from any interruption at first, but now she checked him, saying, with a loving smile:

"The blow has not yet fallen, my son, or at least we can know nothing definite until your father returns. But of one thing we may be certain—none will suffer loss by the failure of a firm in which his name stands prominent, even if to secure them from it we are reduced to extreme poverty. Whatever property I may legally claim is held only for the good and honor of us all unitedly and subject at all times to your father's disposal. I fully appreciate your sorrow and great reluctance on your parents' account to any change in our present life.

"But, my son, 'let not your heart be troubled.' We have strength and energy sufficient still to return cheerfully to the labor and close economy of earlier days, if need be, and it will be much easier than when we first began, for now we have 'cheerful lads and merry lassies, too,' who will bring not only willing hearts and hands, but sunshine and gladness wherever our lot may be cast. And, my boy, you will hardly credit me when I tell you that as a matter of taste and preference I should much prefer some less prominent position than to live surrounded, as we are now, by all this pomp and show.

"These cares and anxieties are to me far more wearing than our first simple country home, and in this feeling your father fully sympathizes. Yet for our children it has had its peculiar advantages, and we have accepted the trust with grateful hearts for their sakes. If the younger members of our family can be happy when called to take what the world calls a lower position, you understand, your mother for one will be quite content. No friend that is worth the name will be lost to us, and I have an abiding faith that 'a righteous man will never be forsaken nor his seed called to beg bread.' I see your father turning into Broad street, and now we shall soon know all."

"But his step is slow and his whole air dejected. He is grieving for your sake, dear mother, I see plainly, even if you have no dread of the future."

"No, no! He sympathizes entirely in the preferences of which I have spoken, and I have also understood from the first the probable termination of the present troubles. Something has annoyed your father at the store, I have no doubt. I fear Le Barron will make strenuous objections to an honorable investigation and open acknowledgment of inability to proceed with the business."

"Ah, yes. But he would make no difficulty if he did not fear his lady wife, who is altogether selfish, extravagant and heartless."

"I am not so sure about him, my son. His course for two years past during our absence abroad has been altogether rash and unscrupulous, showing radical defects in his character. She may have tempted him into wrongdoing, but we will not be too severe in our judgment of her. The great injudiciousness of her early training may give her some claims to our pity."

CHAPTER II.

Mr. Newton was met as he entered the parlor by his wife's gentle "home welcome" and an affectionate greeting from his son. Then, after a few moments' general conversation, he said:

"I know you are waiting anxiously to hear the results of this day's deliberations, and feeling full confidence in your courage to meet and endure bravely any adverse circumstances I come without hesitation directly to the fact that we are compelled to give up our business and close the store. You, my dear Lucy, were prepared to expect this when we parted this morning, but I regret that our children cannot as readily comprehend the necessity of a change so complete and sudden as we shall be compelled to make."

"Give yourself no uneasiness, my dear father, on our account. We should be unworthy of our parents could we not meet adversity (if labor and a simpler style of living be adversity) without complaint. You have not taught us to look upon wealth as the only source of true happiness."

"We certainly have endeavored to give you nobler ideas, and you, my son, are sufficiently mature to view life as a school for high and lofty aspiration and pure and nobler principles, but I feel much solicitude for the younger members of our family."

"Never fear, Edward; you have a strong band around you that will not fail in the hour of trial. Let us know, native but to close the concern if we would save our honor. They could not but understand that an attempt to continue this hopeless struggle would only sink us deeper. But, naturally, they shrank from a public acknowledgment of failure, and he whose recklessness and insane speculation has wrought this ruin finds it very bitter to have it manifest to the world that we by having placed entire confidence in his integrity have wrecked ourselves."

Mr. Newton was met by his wife's gentle "home welcome."

"You refer to Le Barron, father, do you not?"

"Yes. In truth, I think the sin must rest entirely on him. He has been long in charge of the financial department. Indeed, for two years he has had the entire supervision of home business, Freeman acting under his directions, while I, as you well know, have been in charge of our foreign affairs during that period. I needed the change after 25 years' close application at home, and also greatly desired to consummate our long cherished plan of giving you all the advantage of foreign travel, when your mother and myself could share part of the pleasure with you. It was an unwise arrangement, as the results now prove, but I did not dream till since your return by what cruel temptations Le Barron was surrounded. You know, dear Lucy, his wife's extravagant tendencies, but cannot even imagine how fearfully she has involved her husband by their gratification. His natural fondness for wild speculation has always been his besetting sin. In our business everything of the kind has been peremptorily forbidden.

"After Le Barron's connection with us, knowing of this weakness in his character, I watched him very closely. It was the only point where I had the slightest misgiving, but during the 13 years we have been together I have never until now detected the least deviation from the strictest line of honesty. He is a miserable man, but he was certainly tempted. The net woven by his wife's selfish love of dress and fashion was gathering closer and closer around him; certain destruction stared him in the face; a grand speculation was insidiously proffered him; he yielded to the infatuation; the bubble burst, and pecuniarily we must all go down together."

"But, my dear father, why should you suffer for his wrongdoing, so contrary to the well understood regulations of the firm?"

"Because, my son, he was the accredited manager of the business in my absence. By a long and vexatious legal process and by hard measures I might possibly secure ourselves from any great change. But it would be all uncertain, and I cannot for many reasons feel this to be the better way, certainly not the kindest and most noble. Poor Le Barron, he has all that he can bear now. I greatly fear all the disgrace and odium must in the end rest with him. Freeman has been careless and blundered, but is not otherwise culpable, I think."

"When did you first apprehend any danger, father?"

"Only a short time before we left Europe I received a friendly intimation that while the present cloud overshadowed our country generally it might be advisable for me to return and resume the charge of the business at home. I was not at first greatly disturbed, although I had for some time felt that Le Barron was not keeping me as fully posted with regard to home affairs as was desirable. And so I had admonished him several times, and in my last letter had spoken rather severely. He at first promised more punctuality, but in his last he excused his seeming negligence on the plea that business had been for some time so unusually brisk and prosperous it left him but little leisure to communicate with me.

"This I knew could not be correct, and fearing he had dared to venture on some wild scheme in my absence I became seriously alarmed, and as you well know recalled you abruptly from your pleasant travels and hastened home, giving no explanation for this sudden change in our plans to any one except your mother. For the last three months I have been occupied in making a most rigid investigation, and now you have the results."

"ODDS AND ENDS."

A Short Story, by Sloan & Scott.

During the month of February we are always busy taking stock, and naturally come across a large number of Odds and Ends. Now you know yourself—or at least most p ople know—that it DOES NOT PAY to carry goods over from one season to another. You see, those goods that lay on the shelves from year to year, until some of them are almost old enough to vote, are eating themselves up in interest, and interest is one of those things that increase at a most alarming rate, especially if you are not watching it pretty close.

Now, this is what we are going to do. Commencing Thursday, February 1st, we shall institute an immense Remnant and Oddment Sale, and shall surprise everybody by the insinuating manner in which we shall throw stuff out over our counters and tables. You can't but admit that we have given you some big surprises, one way and another, in the past year. But THIS TIME we shall cause the most incredulous to exclaim, "Well, I don't see how they can do it."

Remember, this Sale is only for February, and as there are only 24 working days in that month, you will require to get around about every day while it lasts, so as to reap the full benefit.

Two klootchmen were lodged in durance vile last night by Constable McClean from Nanaimo Indian camp. From the appearance of the ladies they were under the influence of ardent spirits. Their examination will take place to-day.

A grand ball is to take place at Cedar district in aid of St. Philip's church on Feb. 6th. During the evening there will be a miscellaneous entertainment. A stage will leave the Windsor House that same evening to convey Nanaimo visitors.

Uncle Tom's Cabin Company made a full and fly-blown dress parade yesterday. Eva, the smallest in the party, was drawn by a big brown dog attached to a little buggy. Topsy, riding a pie-bald pony, offuscated beholders with an orange colored habit.

The pugilistic encounter mentioned in the evening paper was perhaps a little misleading, as the particulars, from latest information, are as follows: The slaughterman of a well-known butchering firm in town saw the captain of a small vessel, now lying in Departure Bay, walking along with a dog and pup belonging to him, and proceeded to call the said nautical gentleman and gave chase. In doing so he lost the scabbard of the knife he had in his hand, and had the naked weapon in his hand, thus giving a most bloodthirsty appearance to the chase. Finally the doughty naval commander fled through the bush and was last seen still flying, while the Knight of the Knife was in deadly pursuit. The latter recovered the lady dog and infant and abandoned the chase.

January and the three following months are usually great mortality times. Our city, however, comes out well in the death rate for January, being only about 2 per cent., viz., 11. The marriages were 9 and the births three times that number plus one.

The British Columbia Grand Council of the Royal Templars of Temperance will assemble in our city on Tuesday Feb. 6th. A public meeting will be held on Wednesday evening at the close of the session. A good programme in the interests of temperance will then be given. All the friends of the cause are cordially invited to attend. The place of meeting will be announced later.

Charivari Cads.

The French verb charivariser literally means to make a great noise, but why it should be employed in its active tense at ceremonies of any public kind, such as weddings and wedding feasts, is not quite clear to common sanity. The word charivari is adopted as a sub-title by the London comic paper Punch. That periodical, however, is anything but noisy in its cartoon demonstrations. It is mainly notable for conveying satire in a quiet yet effective manner.

It appears that on the continent of America generally, and in this Province, particularly in some localities not far from Nanaimo, this charivaresque business has developed into a most reprehensible practice. When they deem the occasion fit, some white and apparently sane men indulge in vocal outbursts and noisy demonstrations of such an outrageous character, that the very aborigines are put to the blush under their swarthy siwash skins.
