JOSEPH CHAMBERLAIN

DECLARES HOME RULE THE SOLE AIM OF THE GOVERNMENT.

His Speech at Braintree in Brief—Existing Laws Cannot Prevent the Landing of Anarchists in England—The "Standard's" Fearless Comment on the Hawaiian Situation—Taffy for Cleveland—The Spread of Influenza in London—The Dynamite Plots in Dublin—Crispi's New Cabinet—A San Francisco Girl Gets a Degree.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Joseph Chamberlain, leader of the Liberal Unionists, spoke at Braintree this evening. Home rule was the sole aim of the Government, he said, and British legislation was merely a counter with which Mr. Gladstone hoped to win the game. The Government did not mean that any British bills should pass. These bills were put in the window merely for show and no body should be sanguine enough to expect, if he should enter the shop, to obtain any of them. The promoters of the British Councils' bill had deliberately overloaded their vessel with the intention of sinking it. The Government had found it good policy to keep bills in suspense and thus supply a motive for quarrelling with the House of Lords.

Got Her Degree.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—Dorothea Klumpeke of San Francisco read an astronomical thesis yesterday before the officers of the Sorbonne and several hundred others, and received the degree of Doctor of Sciences. M. Barboux, who made a complimentary speech in conferring the degree for the faculty, informed Miss Klumpeke that the vote of the professors was unanimous.

M. Cremieux, the lawyer who undertook the defence of Auguste Vaillant, has given up the case.

Can't Stop Them from Landing.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—In the House of Commons to-day Herbert Knatchbull Hugheson, independent Conservative member for the northeast division of Kent, asked the Government whether anarchists expelled from France will be allowed to come to England, if they could not lawfully be prevented, and would the Government bring in a measure to save the country from becoming a refuge for avowed assassins? Mr. Asquith replied that the existing laws did not provide for the prevention of the landing in England of anarchists, and the Government was not prepared to alter the law.

Influenza Spreading.

London, Dec. 15.—The Lancet to-day says: "The influenza is increasing in virulence in Great Britain. It shows a special tendency to attack the pharynx and larnyx, these remaining affected after the other symptoms have passed off. There is a largely increasing death rate in London, Liverpool and the midlands. The country school attendance has been lessened by the disease among children." The Princess of Wales is suffering from the disease. She is at Sandringham house and making good progress towards recovery.

Crispi's Cabinet.

ROME, Dec. 14.—Crispi's cabinet has been constituted as follows: Premiership and interior, Francisco Crispi; foreign affairs, General Count Dalverme; treasury, Constantine Peraczi; finance, Baron Gilorgio Honnonio; justice, Andrea Calendi Di Tavani; instruction, Augusto Baccelli; public works, Giuesppi Saraaco; agriculture, Paolo Boselli; marine, Constantine Marin; posts, Count Luigi Fetraris; war, General Stanislaus Mocenl. Changes in this list are still possible. Crispi had a conference with King Humbert this evening.

Arrested For Murder.

DUBLIN, Dec. 14.—Nolan and Meara, who were detained to testify at the secret inquiry into the Dublin dynamite plots, have been arrested on the charge of having murdered Patrick Reid, who was shot dead soon after explosives were found at the Aldborough Barracks. The arrests were not made on the strength of the evidence obtained from the men themselves. The Dublin correspondent of the Central News says:—"The police officials have unravelled a series of atrocious dynamite plots. It is expected that these plots will be partly disclosed at the trial of Meara and Nolan."

The Standard on Hawaiian Matters.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Evening Standard, Conservative, says editorially to-day of the situation in Hawaii: "The knot of merchants, speculators and office seekers who planned the revolution in Hawaii naturally are furious at Mr. Cleveland for declining to accept the islands as the result of a nefarious intrigue by American citizens. No other decision could have been expected from an honest and honorable man. The group of adventurers holding the government are defiant, but it can hardly be supposed that they contemplate resistance to any warship, American or other, which may be sent there. Doubtless an American cruiser will soon be on the scene. The British cruiser Champion is now at Hawaii waiting developements."

The New Archbishop of Armagh.

DUBLIN, Dec. 14.—The Right Reverend Robert Samuel Cregg, D.D., Bishop of the Diocese of Cork, Church of Ireland, (Protestant), was to-day elected Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of Ireland, to succeed the Most Reverend Robert Knox, who died October 13th last.

A State of Siege Declared.

VIENNA, Dec. 14.—The Reichsrath, by a vote of 186 to 75, to-day passed the measures sanctioning the Government's action in declaring a state of siege at Prague.

Arms Being Smuggled.

CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 14 —It is supposed that arms are being smuggled from the Gulf coast to Cuba, evading the vigilance of the American authorities by making shipments from Mexico.

Anarchists Despondent.

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—About 500 anarchists, including many women, met here yesterday evening. The police took great precautions to prevent disorder. It was noticed that the anarchists who attended were despondent, as they fear the Paris outrage will lead to international measures against them. To-day Herman and Weisenthal, two speakers at last night's meeting, were arrested and condemned to three months' imprisonment for anarchistic utterances of two months ago.

The Kaiser and Von Caprivi.

BERLIN, Dec. 14.—Emperor William gave Count von Caprivi a long audience to-day and discussed with him the political situation, notably as regards the recent outbreaks of the anarchists. The Chancellor said that he was opposed to imperial measures against anarchists. He thought that the present German laws were sufficient to accomplish the punishment of anarchist crimes The emperor urged that there was need of punishing with exceptional severity the agitators who in the press and at public meetings incited men to crime. The emperor congratulated the chancellor on his victory in the Reichstag yesterday.

Sudden Death.

MONTREAL, Dec. 14.—Mr. Geo. Wilson, a well-known boot and shoe merchant, died suddenly last evening at his store.

For a Double Murder.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Dec. 14.—Charles J. Lukey was hanged here this morning for the murder of his father and stepmother in their home at New Bliss, near Brockville, on October 8th, 1892. The weapon used was an axe. After the killing he set fire to the house. He was also charged with the murder of his sister who was found murdered at the same time as the others were discovered but was acquitted.

Commercial Union.

MONTREAL, Dec. 14.—A special to the Star from London says: The Right Hon. Sir John Lubbock, Bart., F.R.S., M.P. for London University, and president of the City of London branch of the Imperial Federation League, has issued a circular proposing the reconstruction of the league to promote union in the Empire, or commercial union as nearly as it is practicable on the basis of free trade throughout the Empire.

Premier Peters Ahead.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I. Dec. 14.—The Provincial general elections resulted in a sweeping Liberal victory. The returns are incomplete, but the Government was probably sustained by from nine to ten majority. Premier Peters and his colleagues were largely ahead. In Charlottetown Rogers and Prowse turned the Conservative majority of 200 at last election to a Liberal majority of 300. Bentley, the leader of the Opposition, was probably beaten as well as other leading Conservatives.

Should be Investigated.

TORONTO, Dec. 14.—The following special cable appears in this morning's Globe: Dr. Barnardo is sending vigorous protests to the press against the reports cabled from Canada and appearing in the Canadian press reflecting on the boys sent out from his home. He deals specially with the recent statement in a Toronto paper alleging that a murder in Manitoba had been committed by a Barnardo boy. The boy concerned never was an inmate of any of the Barnado homes. The doctor reports that less than two per cent. of his young emigrants have proved a failure and only a fraction of one per cent. have joined the vicious criminal population of Canada. The Canadian Gazette in an editorial urges that the Government ought to take steps to thoroughly investigate the whole question and definitely ascertain whether the charges brought against this class of emigrants are well founded.

Thurston Going to Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec 14. — Hawaiian Minister Thurston has engaged passage on the steamer Alameda, sailing for Honolulu at 2 p. m. to-morrow.

A Battle in the Sierra Madres.

DEMING, N. M., Dec. 13. A courier reached Las Palomas late last night bringing news from below to General Hernandeze in command of the Mexican troops, who has been at Palomas for some days, making an official investigation of the trouble on the border. The courier reports a battle fought last Friday in the Sierra Madres, near Colnia Juarez, between the revolutionists under Santa Ana Peroz, and six hundred troops. After making his report to General Hernandez and the custom house officials, the courier returned with despatches and General Hernandez at once left for the scene with the soldiers stationed at Palomas. The customs house officials admit the report to be correct, but they refuse all information and place under arrest all who attempt to talk upon the subject. This same course is being pursued by officials in all towns near the scene of battle, and the news is being effectually suppressed. Twenty-five rebels were killed and over 200 soldiers. The rebels were attacked in the mountains, where they have been encamped since the Palomas raid, but it is believed that the troops ran upon them unexpectedly while hunting for the camp. The battle began at 11 o'clock in the morning, and lasted for several hours. The troops retreated in disorder. The rebels fought from ambush. Several officers are reported killed. Details of this affray will never be permitted to reach the outside world as the authorities have so intimidated the people that none of them will talk. The scene of the battle is about 200 miles south of this point, in the mountainous country, offering to the rebels a safe retreat.

A REIGN OF TERROR.

In Rio Janeiro—Troops in Pernambuco Revolt—The Revolution Growing in Favor.

LISBON, Dec. 14.—The British steamship Nile, which sailed from Pernambuco, Brazil, on December 5th, arrived here to-day. She was boarded ot once by the United Press correspondent, who obtained this news from the officers and mail advices just before the Nile sailed: The government had the fifteen insurgent officers and the crew of the guardship Parahyba, seized in the harbor, carried ashore and stood up to be shot by a party of soldiers. The soldiers fired with great reluctance. With the first volley they killed five. The rest of the prisoners shouted "Long live Mello!" The soldiers declined to fire again and the rest of the marines are supposed to be still alive. The publication of Admiral Mello's manifesto has caused the troops in the province of Pernambuco to revolt. At Bahia and other ports, the men on the Nile say the revolution grows in favor. The insurgents have been strengthened greatly by the accession of Admiral De Gama and his friends. A reign of terror is said to dominate Rio Janeiro. More than a thousand men of different nationalities are missing in the city. Some of them are supposed to be in jail, others are said to have been executed. Many foreigners are expected to have been seized and impressed into the military service of the Government. More of them have been entered under false names and therefore when consuls begin to inquire after them, no trace of them can be found. All the cities on the seaboard are infested with spies. Every body fears to speak openly against the government. Two of president Peixtoto's steam launches from the military school, say the officers of the Nile, stop all vessels entering Rio harbor, that the president's men may examine the passengers and crews. A general revolt of the troops against the government was expected to take place on December 15th.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Lisbon correspondent of the United Press obtained to-day a few additional facts as to the state of affairs in Brazil on December 5th, when the steamship Nile sailed. General Gomerin Doisara Ariva, the insurgent general, was reported then to be marching northward from Rio Grande do Sul with 5,000 men, whom he had gathered from the cattle ranches. His objective point is Rio Janeiro. He was expected to arrive in the neighborhood of the city about the middle of this month. Along the coast most persons thought that an important engagement would take place by December 15th.

U. S. Commerce Will be Protected.

RIO JANEIRO, Dec. 14.—T. L. Thompson, United States minister to Brazil, announces that whatever other nations may do, the United States will protect its commerce from all encroachments of the insurgent's naval vessels. The withdrawing of the protection formerly afforded to merchantmen by war vessels at this port is construed as an attempt covertly to aid the insurgents in their efforts to restore the monarchy. The United Press correspondent has found no trace of many of the hardships which have been reported by persons in Rio since the insurgent fleet anchored in the harbor. Provisions are abundant. The streets are kept clean, and order is maintained without any show of effort. The government has designated a new landing for the launches of foreign warships, in the Sande district on the north side of the city and near Morro do Gamboa.

More about Vaillant.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—A man named Sordan was arrested this afternoon in the anteroom of the Palais Bourbon for expounding anarchist theories, in company with another man, who escaped. A number of anarchist documents were found in Sordan's pockets. Several foreign anarchists were expelled from France to-day.

While Vaillant was in America he associated with an anarchist named Graillat, afterwards lynched there. Vaillant last week visited Abbe Lemiere, who was among the deputies injured by the explosion of Vaillant's bomb. Abbe Lemiere took Vaillant's name and address and gave him a few francs. Vaillant almost admits that he drew lots with other anarchists to see who should undertake the murderous work. Ten anarchists were with him in the gallery. They are in custody. All have spent a portion of their lives in England, showing that the anarchists are affiliated together and eventually will be found to be subsidized by patrons who have been generally regarded as apostles of less militant doctrines.

In the Cause of Science.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 14. — Members elect of the Ohio General Assembly have received copies of a circular letter from Dr. J. S. Pyle, of Canton, Ohio, urging the enactment of a law appropriating condemned criminals for medical researches. He would have them placed under the influence of opiates in order that their brains may be laid bare to study and examination in living form by physiologists and then painlessly killed by opiates.

Smokeless Powder in the U. S. Army.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The contract for furnishing the first smokeless powder to be used by the United States army, has been awarded to the Leonard Powder Company, and the California Powder Works, each to furnish 5,000 pounds. The division of the 10,000 pounds bid for into the two lots was made in order to test the relative merits of the powders. Deliveries will begin in thirty days.

The Prendergast Trial.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—In the Prendergast trial to-day Miss Sophia Harrison was witness. Her testimony was given with great effort. Mr. Trude interrogated her as briefly as possible in order to obtain from her the story of the killing of her father, so far as she could relate the circumstances, from personal knowledge. Several times during her testimony Miss Harrison faltered and was on the verge of a breakdown. Miss Harrison's evidence was given the closest attention, and at the conclusion the defence declined to cross-examine her.

GOTHAM GLEANINGS.

Resident Brazilians Want Redress Of Those Who Fitted Out Ships For Peixoto.

NEW YORK, Dec, 14.—The Herald says: Certain prominent and wealthy Brazilians who reside in or near this city and favor the cause represented by Mello in the present combat in the South American Republic have associated themselves together for the purpose of obtaining redress against the persons who have fitted out warships in this port and dispatched the same to Brazil in the interests of President Peixoto. This syndicate of Brazilians also propose to restrain if possible the armament of further ships for this purpose in the ports of the United States. They assert that the United States Government in suffering such ships to be fitted out here has violated the law of nations and rendered itself liable to enormous damages. This abuse of neutral power allowing interested individuals to prepare a hostile fleet in its own waters is claimed to be unprecedented and the action of the so interested parties is asserted to be in violation of the statutes. It was impossible yesterday to ascertain the names of these gentlemen, but they are seven in number, and they will go right to work to test the soundness of their contention in the courts. Isaac Agente, a lawyer of high standing and ability, as well as of a large experience in the United States courts has been retained to push the suits contemplated.

Ruy Barbos, Admiral Mello's representative on land, telegraphs to the Herald from Buenos Ayres as follows: "Do not believe the official Brazilian news assuring you that Admiral Saldanha de Gama issued a monarchial manifesto. Remember the similar report sent you about Admiral Mello following the placing of the son of Count Deu on the throne of Brazil. It is the same fiction in both cases."

The Herald's Lima, Peru, cable says: The British Minister here, Colonel Sir Chas. Mansfield, while returning from the cricket field on Tuesday morning was attacked in the Alameda grounds by a furious cow and was seriously wounded in the body, throat and head. He is in the hospital to-day, receiving the best medical attendance and nursing they can afford. He was put under the influence of chloroform last night and an operation performed for the purpose of removing pieces of the skull which had been crushed in and were pressing on the brain. The patient's condition is considered serious.

A special from Maysville, Ky., says: Perhaps a score of persons have become insane during the religious revivals now sweeping this state. The most sensational case is that of the Rev. A. Simmons, of Mount Olivet, who became insane while preaching, and declared himself to be Christ. The wildest excitement prevailed, and a number of converts have proclaimed their faith in him.

A special from Omaha, Neb., says: Adela Louise Stowe, a local literary woman, appeared in the district court yesterday and asked that her name be changed to Kohustamm, alleging that it was more difficult to achieve fame with a common than an uncommon name. Her prayer was refused on the grounds that her reasons were frivolous.

BY WIRE FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

Sealers Hurrying to Get Away—A Sailor Stabbed by a Dago.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—Sealers are making haste to have all their vessels cleared before January 1st. The reason for this is that there is a well-defined fear that the government is meditating some decided step in relation to clearing vessels for sealing cruises. It is generally believed that after New Year's Day no clearance papers will be allowed to sealers.

Jack Welsh, a sailor, was fatally stabbed by Thomas D. Papadacos, a Greek candy peddler, last evening. Papadacos when arrested acknowledged the crime, but claimed it was done in self defense, Welsh and several other men having brutally attacked him on his way home, knocking him down and endeavoring to steal his candy. The dead man was stabbed in the heart with a small bladed clasp knife.

The Washington State Capitol.

OLYMPIA, Dec. 14.—[Special]—Up to 4 o'clock this afternoon seventy-five capitol building plans had been filed, with a promise of no less than 100 to examine. One can form an idea of the formidable amount of work before the commission for the next thirty days.

K. of P. Grand Lodge.

OLYMPIA, Dec. 14.—[Special]—Grand Chancellor Ronald, Knights of Pythias, in a letter to J. C. Rathbun, district deputy, has expressed a desire that the next meeting of the Grand Lodge be held in this city. Capital lodge has appointed a committee to raise funds for the entertainment of delegates, which committee will reported on Thursday next, when it will be ascertained if Olympia can secure the meeting.

Nancy Hanks Retires.

RICHMOND, Ind., Dec. 14.—For the first time since, as a three-year-old, she broke the race record for trotters of that age on the half-mile track, Nancy Hanks withdraws from the public gaze. She is already domiciled at her owner's farm in Massachusetts, and the announcement has been made that next spring she will be bred to Arion. The turf has seen the last of her. Her winnings, exclusive of several purses for exhibitions in 1891, for which no figures are quoted, reach $61,954.

Indian Sealers Fitting Out.

PORT TOWNSEND, Dec. 14.—The Makah Indians, of Neah bay, are fitting out a fleet of ten schooners for sealing voyages in the North Pacific ocean. The vessels are worth over $20,000, and are owned, officered and manned by Indian crews. Under the present law, as laid down by the Behring sea tribunal in Paris recently, the Indians have a considerable advantage over the white hunters. Firearms are strictly prohibited in hunting seals, and this causes the Indians to adopt their old custom of hunting with spears, at which a large number of the tribe are adepts. Practical sealers claim that the Indians will fare much better than either the English or American sealers. The fleet will leave in about three weeks, and meet the herd at the mouth of the Columbia river. They will cruise up along the coast as far as Alaska waters. Then, if it is deemed advisable, the vessels will return for fresh provisions and a white navigator and sail for the Japan coast.

THE PEDAGOGUE.

Harvard, the oldest American university, was attended by 2,969 students last year.

Two hundred and fifty graduates of American colleges are in European universities preparing for educational work in this country.

Columbia is following in the footsteps of the University of Pennsylvania. Beginning in October, 1894, she will lengthen the course of her medical school from three to four years.

David S. Muzzey of Lexington, Mass., who was graduated this year with honors from Harvard, has been appointed professor of mathematics at Roberts college, in Constantinople.

The four richest of the women's colleges in this country—Vassar, Wellesley, Smith and Bryn Mawr—received about $6,000,000 in gifts of every kind during the first 20 years of their existence.

Professor D. C. Thomas, for the last 13 years president of the state normal school in Mansfield, Pa., has been tendered the presidency of Adrian college, in Adrian, Mich., and it is understood will accept the position.

Nanaimo Coal (Used Principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes)

Southfield Coal (Steam Fuel)

New : Wellington : Coal

(House and Steam Fuel)

These Coals are Mined by this Company only and by Union Labor

THE NANAIMO COAL gives a large percentage of gas, a high illuminating power, unequalled by any other Bituminous Gas Coals in the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE SOUTHFIELD COAL is now used by all the leading steamship lines on the Pacific.

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL, which was recently introduced, has already become the favorite fuel for all kinds of domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several mines of the Company are connected with their wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay, where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all stages of the tide. Special despatch is given to Mail and Ocean Steamers.

THE PREMIER'S VISIT.

Premier Davie will visit Nanaimo on the twentieth or twenty-first and will remain here for a few days, visiting the Poultry Show and renewing old acquaintances. During his visit he will be pleased to meet business men and others in reference to any matters affecting this district and coming within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Government. We are pleased to note that the Board of Trade at its meeting yesterday appointed a committee to meet Mr. Davie on his arrival here, and present him with an address. Mr. Davie has always manifested a willingness to meet the various sections of the Province on a reasonable basis and to take into consideration any reasonable requests for the benefit of the community making them.

SOCIALISTS AND ANARCHISTS.

Socialism in France, and indeed throughout the all Europe, has fallen into disgrace just now, owing to its supposed alliance with anarchism. Properly understood, there is nothing in common between the theory of socialism and that of anarchism. But as a matter of fact there is a certain sympathy between the two parties. Both are working to change the existing order of society. The socialists wish to establish a cut-and-dried system of their own in place of the existing system; the anarchists to tear down and destroy the existing system, careless of what may take its place. Both aim at change—radical, complete and revolutionary—but that is, in fact, all there is between them. But popular opinion, never much disposed to draw nice distinctions, classes them all together. The socialists, says public opinion, are collectivists, that is, men who hold that all the property of a nation should be held in common for the general good, and so are the anarchists. They are collectivists too in a certain sense. Hence the conclusion that the socialists are anarchists and the anarchists, socialists, that it is six of one and a half dozen of the other. It is in vain that the socialists protest that it is not so. They are simply not believed. They find themselves in bad company along with men of infamous character and worse principles, also to a certain extent share their views, and are classed accordingly. Hence Le Temps, a leading French paper, is correctly said to voice general opinion when it says that the protests of the socialists that they do not espouse the anarchist cause are insincere. "Collectivists," says Le Temps, "generally do not hamper themselves with scruples as to legality or moderation." They regard such outrages, as that committed by the miscreant Vaillant in the French Chambers "with complaisance if not sympathy." There may be and probably there is much truth in this. Party business in France, like poverty everywhere, makes a man acquainted with strange bedfellows. The socialists should clear themselves of all suspicion of connection or alliance with the anarchists. The latter appear to be made up mostly of criminals and desperate characters like Ravachol and Vaillant, whose object is murder and robbery and the overthrow of society, including both religion and morals. The socialists have a possible if not a practicable system, well thought out in all its details, and which perhaps could be established, if the majority thought fit to establish it, without bloodshed and crime. The better forms of socialism, too, are quite consistent with the maintenance of the Christian religion and of Christian ordinances. But anarchism is simply crime and the worst forms of immorality and infidelity rampant. If established it would destroy civilization and introduce the rule of hell upon earth. If need be the anarchists must be destroyed as mad dogs and venomous serpents would be destroyed, in order to secure the safety of the human race and all that it holds dear. If the anarchists bring down this fate upon their heads they will have themselves and their own inhuman crimes and execrable theories to thank for it.

Mr. Balfour, who was Secretary of State for Ireland in Lord Salisbury's administration, has published a letter on the Irish land question. His opinion is that a fair solution of the question can be found through purchase only. Dual ownership has no element of finality. The State, he says, ought to adopt legislation providing that when three-fourths of the tenants of any estate are anxious to buy the landlords will be compelled to sell. In case of the landlord desiring to sell where three-fourths of the tenants will not buy the state should purchase. The landlords ought to get a fair price for their property. The cost of the operation ought not to exceed £33,000,000 sterling, as estimated in the proposed Balfour act. This would be a fair settlement of the question, but we fear it would not suit the views of the Irish nationalists, one of whose main objects is confiscation of the property of the landlords when they get, as they hope, an Irish parliament legislating in Dublin.

Our Victoria despatches this morning announce that the Provincial Parliament has been called to meet on the 18th of January next. This will be the last session of the present parliament. An election will follow shortly after its dismissal. It remains, therefore, for every elector to think over the situation carefully and see that fit and proper persons are elected to represent them in the next parliament. Men who go to Victoria for the sole purpose of ousting the government of the day and thereby obtain comfortable positions for themselves and friends regardless of their fitness for the offices they seek are not the men to elect as representatives form any community. There are a few of those gentlemen in the present House, who have made it their business to oppose every action or measure of the government regardless of merit or reason. These men should be elected to stay at home in the next contest.

THE UNITED STATES CAPITAL.

Cleveland's Message on Hawaiian Affairs—The Plans Arranged—The Message Held Back.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.— The correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says: The president's message on Hawaii will be a complete review of the whole question. The president will show that the queen's overthrow and other acts were sanctioned. Stevens has received the approval of the United States and he considered it unjustified and unfriendly and must be undone. The president will probably say Willis was instructed to first decline formally the proposition of annexation, then announce that the United States demanded that the queen be restored to power peacefully, but that if she was unwilling to be seated without the assurance of this government that she would be protected from harm and retained in the United States, then take no steps but await instructions from the United States. The president says the minister found the provisional government much stronger and their power increasing each day. All conditions were such as to prevent the carrying out of his instructions and now the president has exhausted the prerogative of his office to bring about a settlement in Hawaii without calling upon the naval force to assist it. There is no other resort for the president but to leave the question for further action of Congress. It is believed the president will not diverge from his present policy. It is certain, however, that he will hardly urge that force be resorted to.

It is understood that the president's message on Hawaii will not be sent into Congress to-day, but will be held back until after the cabinet meeting to-morrow.

A prominent member of the house committee of foreign affairs is authority for the statement that the correspondence in the Hawaiian matter, called for by Congress, will not be sent to the capital to-day.

Without discussion the bill was passed which Cotchings brought in on order from the committee on rules, setting aside the time after the second morning hour, beginning to-day, continuing each day thereafter until concluded, for considering the bills admitting Arizona and New Mexico to statehood.

The House bill reporting on the Federal Election Law was reported back favorably and it was placed on the calendar. The Senate joint resolution relieving the employees of the record and pension divisions of the War Department injured at the Ford theatre disaster from operations of the law, restricting the amount of sick leave with pay was passed.

No Hawaiian news is now expected before Monday next, unless perhaps something may come by the Australia on Saturday. Both houses of Congress having called on the president to communicate to them the instructions given to Minister Willis and Commissioner Blount, it is now officially announced that a formal reply is all ready for transmission, but on equally official authority, the statement is made that it was not deemed compatible with the public interests to give publicity to those official documents in time to have an unauthorized synopsis of their contents telegraphed to San Francisco by press despatches, and so conveyed to Honolulu by the steamer Alameda, which, as originally intended, was to have sailed from that port for the Hawaiian Islands to-day, but has been delayed till to-morrow, consequently it is said the message was withheld to-day and as the Senate has adjourned till Monday there is no probability of its being sent in till that day unless the president should act upon the House request alone and should let them have the first glance at the papers, which is extremely unlikely.

There is another reason which has been assigned for the delay in transmitting the Hawaiian correspondence and which has much attention in Congress, where it is asserted that certain official despatches assumed to have been written by Secretary Blaine, in correspondence with Minister Stevens, are missing from the records. They are instructions to Minister Stevens and his reply thereto, which was never received, and are important in the light of subsequent events. It was not included in the published volume of "Foreign Relations" for 1892 sent to Congress. A very noticeable fact, which will be made clear when the president's message and other documents are made public, is that very many important state papers relating to Hawaii are now for the first time disinterred from the secret archives of the division of Rolls and Indexes which holds its solitary state up in the state department library.

Want Their Resignations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Secretary Carlisle to-day, by direction of the president, called for the resignations of twenty-six officers in the treasury service, among them being O. C. Bosbyshell, superintendent of the Mint, Philadelphia and Milton Weidler, collector of internal revenue, District of Oregon.

Want Corbett Arrested.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 14.—A special to the Republic from Jacksonville says: It is stated to-day that a few anti-fight people here have perfected arrangements for having Corbett arrested when he appears here Thursday. The law and order league is very reticent, but it is alleged that a committee has already had the necessary legal papers drawn and will have an officer arrest Corbett when he steps from the train Thursday morning. Should the pugilist be arrested, friends will be ready with a writ of habeas corpus. This would get the matter before the courts, which would suit the sydicate, for it is sure of a decision in its favor.

Chris. Evans Imprisoned for Life.

FRESNO, CAL., Dec. 14.—The jury in the case of the outlaw, Chris Evans, charged with the murder of United States deputy marshalls Wilson and McGuinnis at Sampson Flat disagreed this morning. After being out sixteen hours the judge refus d to discharge them and sent them back. About half an hour later they returned with a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, fixing the penalty at imprisonment for life. When the jury brought in its verdict Mrs. Evans fainted and the children all broke down and cried. Chris took the sentence with little concern, walking out of the court-room smiling. At 11:30 Mrs. Evans had just been restored to consciousness but she is completely unnerved.

Stevens Talks About Hawaii.

PORTLAND, Maine, Dec. 14.—Stevens delivered an address at the Portland Club last night on Hawaii. Among other things he said the natives of the island, numbering 34,000, were decreasing at the rate of 1,000 per annum, and will soon be extinct. No greater evil could be inflicted on them than restoration. The charge of missionaries having unlawfully taken lands is unjust. The islands have been fairly won by 70 years of work by Americans. Blount confined himself to a limited field of observation of a large body of influential men. He cared not to obtain information. Stevens concluded by saying he believed his hearers would prefer the policy pursued towards the islands by Jefferson, Jackson, Grant, Blaine and Cleveland of 1889 to that of Cleveland of 1893.

THE PROVINCIAL CAPITAL

The Legislature Summoned—A Popular Pastor Resigns.

VICTORIA, Dec. 14—[Special].—The Provincial Legislature has been summoned for January 18th, about the usual date. This is the last session of the fifth Parliament.

The Rev. J. E. Coombes resigned the pastorate of Calvary Baptist church this evening, and in his resignation states that he regrets to find that the pastors of this city are not in the ministry for the souls they can save or the good they can do. He does not think he can serve the Master effectually in continuing the pastorate, hence the step taken. A protracted meeting of the congregation is being held to-night to deal with the resignation, which is bound to create a sensation.

Distress in Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, Dec. 14—[Special]. — The city ministers met to-day and formed themselves into a committee with one member of each congregation to relieve the distress in the city. This course has been rendered imperative by the large number of families here, that, owing to the lack of work, are almost destitute. There is no diminution in the number of unemployed. Prospects for the new year are not bad, several new buildings, it is said, being projected, and real estate holding steady.

PROVINCIAL NEWS.

Deer are reported plentiful in the interior and on Howe sound, but there are many complaints of their reckless slaughter by Indians.

Mr. J. D. Byrne, of Rand Bros.' office, Vancouver, has been appointed official administrator for the newly formed county of Vancouver.

A great meeting was to be held at New Denver last evening, and a petition to be sent to the Attorney-General to try to settle the townsite dispute. An attempt will be made to get three mails a week via Kaslo, as well as the present one via Nakusp.

Despatches received yesterday from New Denver announce that a great body of ore has been struck at the Slocan Star, being eight feet solid galena. Shipping has commenced. Five hundred tons are to be stored at Three Forks during the winter. Many other mines are shipping.

The Moran Brothers of Seattle, who, after trying to raise the wrecked San Pedro, were reported to have abandoned the work, have written to the Victoria Colonist denying that they have given up the contract and saying that they expect to continue operations as soon as the weather permits.

Capt. T. O. Townley, who has raised the battalion of Garrison Artillery in Vancouver has informed a representative of the News-Advertiser that the arms and accoutrements have reached headquarters at Victoria and as soon as the Government give the battalion a place to drill in, they will be sent down. A 64 pounder converted gun will also be conveyed over. The battalion is endeavoring to secure the Imperial Opera House as a drill shed and it is expected that no difficulty will be experienced. When this is done the officers will be gazetted and other preliminaries settled. The service roll has now been full for six months and contains the names of nearly 100 men.

Messrs. R. P. Rithet & Co., Ltd., of Victoria in their monthly freight and shipping report, thus review the transactions of November: "Dullness and declining rates have been almost the only features worthy of notice during the past month, and quotations at the close show a weak market. Grain freights have suffered most, rates in the lumber market being little changed. This, however, is mainly owing to the fact that they are already so unremunerative that owners would rather allow business to pass than accept less. To our last issue we attached a list of the Canadian sealing fleet, with the catches of the various vessels during the past season. In order to make the record complete, we now give the catches of the American and Russian vessels, landed at different points on this coast. These figures show a catch of 69,938 skins, which, added to our Canadian catch of 69,741 skins, makes the total catch for the season 139,679 sealskins. This number is subject to final revision, but it may be taken to be substantially correct as it stands."

ALBERNI NEWS.

The Golden Eagle Claim—A Crowd of Prospectors—Heavy Snowfall.

A bachelors' ball is to be given in the Alberni Court House on Wednesday, the 27th of this month.

Six inches of snow fell on Wednesday night at Alberni and fifteen inches on the mountain where the road crosses towards Cameron Lake.

Judge Harrison held a Court of Revision at Alberni on Tuesday at which a number of complaints as to taxes were heard, and a reduction granted to several.

The work on the Golden Eagle claim shows better prospects at every blast. Six men who came up by the last steamer are at work on the claim.

All the boarding houses at Alberni are filled with miners and prospectors waiting for the fine weather to set in. Men are sleeping on the floor at Mr. Saunders' store, as the sleeping accommodation is limited.

THE FEDERATION OF LABOR.

Resolutions Looking to the Betterment of Laboring Classes Adopted.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—W. B. Prescott, of Indianapolis, president of the International Typographical Union, called the fourth day's session of the Union Federation of Labor to order this morning, and the delegates settled down to a solid day's work. Chairman Thomas Morgan, of the committee on resolutions, presented a big batch of favorable reports. One of these, declaring in favor of government ownership and control of the telegraph system of the country and instructing the officers of the federation to inaugurate an energetic campaign in favor of this project, was unanimously adopted. By a majority vote it was decided to invite John Burns, the English labor leader, to visit the United States and deliver a series of addresses, with a view of securing a greater unity of effort in the direction of ameliorating the condition of the laboring people. It was decided to petition Congress to raise the wages of seamen to $30 per month, and a resolution declaring in favor of the election of senators by popular vote was adopted by acclamation, as was also a request to Congress for the speedy enactment of a law establishing postal savings banks. This latter was a substitute for a long resolution pledging support to any political party opposed to their continued existence. Free and compulsory education was endorsed and the incoming council was instructed to draft a bill to that end for presentation to the legislature in every state and territory where it is not in force. It was further declared that evening schools should be established throughout the country in connection with day schools and in which free hand, ornamental and mechanical drawing should be taught and supplies to be free. It was resolved that the humane effort that prompted private relief of the unemployed should be duly acknowledged, yet insisted that it was the province and duty of the city or state government to afford relief. Another resolution was adopted which read as follows: "That a system of society which denies to the willing man an opportunity to work, then treats him as an outcast, arrests him as a vagrant, and punishes him as a felon, is by the convention condemned as inhuman and destructive to the liberties of the race. Therefore—resolved—that the right to work is the right of life—that to deny the one is to deny the other, that when the private employer cannot, or will not, give work, the municipality, state, or nation must."

The next resolution to be favorably reported from the committee plunged the federation into a warm debate on political action. It set forth that the convention approved and endorsed the movement of the trade unions of Great Britain toward independent labor politics as an auxiliary to their economic action, and that the British programme and the basis of its political labor movement be submitted for the favorable consideration of all labor organizations identified with the federation, with the request that the delegates to the next convention be specifically instructed on the subject. The debate was still in progress when the convention adjourned.

A Moonshiner's Death.

PARKERSBURG, N. Va., Dec. 14.—Lewis Davis, a Lincoln moonshiner, who was being chased by the excise officers, fled into his house and barricaded the doors. The officers broke down the doors and forced an entrance. When Davis escaped by the rear door he was ordered to surrender. He began shooting at the officers, who in turn fired at him, killing him instantly.

HINDSIGHT AND FORESIGHT

Both are valuable to us. The past for what it has taught us, and the future for what it has in store. Modern methods that smack of primitive honesty. No retrogression, but a steady, onward march in the van of the column. The experience of to-day turned into a source of profit to-morrow. A continual evolution in keeping up with the times. Forecasting the future. Feeling the popular pulse. These are some of the things that have brought us in good luck, and made our Groceries, Provisions, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes and Dry Goods so popular

Any rooster can crow, but it takes money to do it in this space. Why should we spend it in spreading false reports. We don't! We want you to try our goods, such as Fine New Currants, Raisins, Peels, Nuts, Cakes, Figs, Dried Fruits, etc., etc., for Xmas trade. We know the result will be beneficial to us both. Try us.

PHOTOGRAPHING IN COLORS.

The Discovery Still in Its Infancy—a Tedious Process.

We have constantly deplored the want of reliable information regarding Lippmann's process of obtaining color photographs and the recent modifications and improvements of Valenta, Lumiere and others. The process has been given and the results shown before the recent Photographic Congress of the Photographic Society of Great Britain. Mr. Warnenke describes the process as follows:

Two years ago Mr. Lippmann succeeded in producing an image of the solar spectrum in its true colors. This was done by a gelatine bromide plate, so weak in its composition as to be almost transparent. The sensitiveness of the plate was increased by immersion in a bath of silver nitrate, and dried. The plate was inserted in the camera glass side toward the lens, and the film in contact with mercury. The projected rays of light were thus met by the rays reflected by the mercury, and the phenomenon of interference—upon which the whole process is based—was produced.

Six examples were shown from nature and one from a chromo-lithograph, reflected on a screen by means of a beam of electric ight, and caused considerable sensation. Although the red was defective the colors were, without doubt, very similar to the natural ones

Taken as a discovery this is one of the most important of the nineteenth century, but there must be many improvements made before it can be of any particular utility The exposure, although now reduced to four hours, is so long as to make it impossible to photograph but few subjects. Then, again, if we desire to hang such pictures in our room it would be necessary to have a special lighting arrangement to see them by. Now that the process has been made public improvements should follow rapidly, and it is not utterly impossible that the wild dream of the photographer since the days of Niepce will be realized, and we shall be able to photograph, with all the transcendant beauties of color effect, the glorious sunset, the rainbow and harmonious nature herself. — Photographic Times

Points About Needles.

The great sail needle, which has to be pushed with a steel palm, would puzzle most people; so, too, the broommaker's needle, which must also be pushed with a steel palm. The curious knitting machine needle, with us latchet; the arrasene and crewel needles, and the needle for shirring machines; the weaver's pin for picking up broken threads, with an open eye in the hook. The needle, as we see it today, is the evolved product of centuries of invention. In its primitive form it was made of bone, ivory or wood. The making of Spanish needles was introduced into England during the neign of Queen Elizabeth. Point by point the manufacture has improved.—L. G. Vance in Ladies' Home Journal.

The Christian Name.

The term "Christian name" is used in England and America only. "Baptismal name" is used in other countries. The terms seems to have been used first after the reformation, when Biblical names were used as a reaction against the use of the saints' names in the calendar. It is evident that all Biblical names are not Christian, but the reaction went so far as to consider everything in the Bible as Christian and everything not in the Bible as pagan or certainly nonchristian.—New York Evening Sun.

Caste In a Bootblack.

The idea of caste and class extends even to the bootblacking fraternity. This is illustrated by a recent occurrence in Broad street.

An Irish shoe polisher has a stand in front of Delmonico's old restaurant. Not long since he entered a broker's office to render professional services. In his absence a dandy young negro seated himself in the chair and awaited his return.

When the bootblack again appeared on the scene, he was horrified. As he approached his stand the negro said, "Shine 'em up, please, and be quick about it."

"Not if I know myself," replied the bootblack, with an oath. "Get out of that chair," he continued. "It's bad enough for me to be shining boots all me life, but I've got this to say—I never shined shoes but for one of my own color."—New York Herald.

Nanaimo Board of Trade.

At the quarterly meeting of the Nanaimo Board of Trade held yesterday afternoon, communications from the Victoria Board of Trade were received, regarding the repeal of the mortgage tax law and a proposed provincial exhibit at the San Francisco Midwinter Fair. The board favored the repeal of the mortgage tax and the representation of Nanaimo at the Fair. Messrs. Yarwood, Pleace and Norris were designated a committee to deal with both questions.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. Haslam, Johnston, Tagart, Pimbury, Pleace, Leighton, Wolfe and Norris were appointed to draw up an address to Premier Davie upon his proposed visit here, and to confer with him concerning needs of the city and district.

An Unprofitable Matter for Both.

Joseph Cliff, a bricklayer, and Louis Reece, an old man, appeared before Magistrates Planta and Bate yesterday morning; Cliff charged with having stolen ten dollars from Reece the previous evening, and Reece with having been drunk and incapable at the same time. It was shown that Cliff and Reece were together in the Euclataw camp on Wednesday evening, and in one of the cabins Cliff relieved Reece of a $10 bill, the remainder of which, after visiting a disorderly house, he was spending at the Newcastle saloon when arrested. Cliff was sentenced to six months' imprisonment with hard labor; while Reece escaped with a fine of $5 and costs.

The Return from the Chase.

Messrs. Peck, Donnelly and Worden have returned from a hunting trip on Texada island, and report meeting with fair success. The weather was not favorable for hunting, being foggy with flurries of snow, making it difficult to track game, but with all the drawbacks they did not come back empty-handed, having shot three fine deer, as well as a large quantity of geese and ducks. The island is very rough and hard to travel over and the deer are shy, making it difficult for any but practised hunters and good shots to be successful. They made their sloop the base of operations, sleeping in the cabin each night, and going out in the morning to the hunting grounds. They moored the sloop in a beautiful sheet of water named Gilles bay, which they left with regret on Saturday morning, and touching at Lasqueti island, arrived home, safe, sound, and with the opinion that they had thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

"Little Puck."

That prince of comedians, Frank Daniels, brings his comedy company to the Opera House next week for an engagement of one night. Little Puck is one of the few musical extravaganzas worth seeing twice, and this year it is said to be far and away the best of the many comedies constructed for the sole purpose of making people laugh. It is safe to say that people who enjoy that very healthy exercise can have their whim gratified by going to see the comedian who originated that famous expression, "There's only a few of us left." During the performance of Little Puck, Miss Bessie Sanson will sing "Marguerite of Mont Carlo," Miss Adele Farrington Dunn in two musical gems, "When the Lights are Low" and "Daisy Bell," and Frank Daniels will be seen in his celebrated impersonations of Chevalier and the famous coster monger songs. Twenty-five people are included in the Little Puck cast. Reserved seats are on sale at Pimbury & Co.

"And yet—and yet"—the wide blue eyes wandered perplexedly—"and yet it cannot have been all a dream; some part—perhaps the awful, awful part! O, if it were! But listen; you shall judge, you shall tell me. I—I cannot think. My brain is burning. I am not mad, am I?"

"No, dear no. What is the matter with you? Why do you tremble so? Come, rest beside me on the sofa here, and tell me all about this horrid dream."

"Tell me first—is there—do you know a man named Ralph Kestrel?"

Laura turned away and arranged the cushions on the couch as she answered lightly:

"Why, of course I do! What has Ralph Kestrel to do with your dream?"

"Everything, everything! Is he—is he dead?"

"Dead? Ralph Kestrel dead? Why no, dear, no; of course not. What an absurd fancy!"

"Are you sure? are you sure?"

"I saw him alive last night."

"Last night!"

"Yes, last night. I give you my word. Don't you believe me?"

"Yes, yes, I believe you. You saw him yourself last night—alive?"

"Yes, dear, indeed I did."

"Then it must have been a dream—an awful dream, sent by God as a warning to me—a warning to keep me back from sin."

"Ah, Dorrie my sister!"

"Listen: I will tell you what I dreamt: I will tell you. I dreamt that I loved Ralph Kestrel—no, I did not dream that: I did really love him. Do not interrupt me, Laura. This is what I dreamt: I thought I had planned with him to leave my home—my husband's home—for Ralph's sake, and go and pass the rest of my life with him. I cannot tell you what it was that made me love him: it was a magic that he had about him, I think, for sometimes he was kind and then sometimes he was cruel—often cruel. But I thought of him always. I could not eat, nor sleep, nor rest; my life seemed drawn to his.

"Well, my dream: yes, I thought that I was to meet him at a railway-station, on the platform underground. I went there; yes, I did go. O, it cannot, cannot be a dream!"

"Dorothy!"

"But this is what I saw—or dreamed I saw—pray God I only dreamed this! On the ground, at my feet, his head, his pale face, the eyes half-closed and glazing over horribly! Only his head—no more; the face turned upward—I saw that; dead—dead, quite dead!"

The unhappy woman crouched down shuddering, her whole form trembling like an aspen-leaf. Laura drew close to her side.

"My poor Dorrie, it was a dream; indeed it was. Think no more of it except as a warning sent by God against the temptation to wickedness. Forget this man. Put him away out of your life for ever. Never let your good husband suspect that your thoughts have been for a moment unfaithful to him. He is coming home now, his heart full of love for you. Make him happy. Be a true, loving, contented wife, and thank God who has saved you from sin and his bitter punishment."

Laura Kingdon paused, and rose to her feet.

She seemed to be listening to some distant sound.

"What do you hear?" asked Dorothy anxiously, as she observed her.

Laura held up her hand for silence.

"Hush!" she cried; then throwing open the door of the bedroom, "go in there instantly. Wash the tear-stains from your face. Lie down on the bed, and calm yourself; sleep if you possibly can. He must not see you until you are more composed. I will explain that you have been ill. He shall not suspect—"

Dorothy had started up in great agitation.

"Of whom are you speaking?"

"Hark!" cried her sister; "there again!"

"Dorothy, ahoy!" came a long, distant hail from the river.

"Merciful heaven exclaimed Dorothy "it is my husband!"

"Yes," replied Laura, waving her handkerchief from the bay-window, which, at the side of the house, commanded a view of the down stream bend, "it is Captain Dundas in his ship's boat. They are pulling him straight for the landing-stairs with might and main. He is standing up, waving his hat frantically, and urging the sailors on as if they were rowing a race. He will be in the house in five minutes. Quick! do as I told you, and trust to me."

"One moment, sister!" cried Dorothy, as Laura attempted to force her into the bedroom; "there is one thing I did not dream. A letter! I wrote a letter to him—to Ben, my husband; I laid it here—here on the bed. Where is it? He must not have it now, and I cannot find it."

Laura was already tearing the letter into a hundred fragments.

"Fear nothing, Dorrie dear. All that is at an end. Trust to me."

She flung the morsels of paper into the kitchen fire as she hurried to the door opening on to the river to greet—Captain Bedjamin Dundas.

CHAPTER XV.

THE HOME-COMING.

From the door of the back kitchen or scullery some half-dozen stone steps descended to a tiny garden made gay with a hollyhock, a sunflower, and a few marigolds, geraniums, and canterbury-bells. At times in the winter a flood-tide would cover this little plot of ground, leaving behind it an offensive but fertilizing mud, which helped by the sheltered southern aspect, produced flowers of remarkable size and beauty.

As Captain Dundas drew near his little home he thought that in all the quarters of the world which he had visited never had he seen so inviting a spot as this quiet nook on the Wapping river-shore. The neatness, the sweetness, the picturesqueness of that combination of red and white and green, the cosily-smoking chimney-pot above, the gay fragments of flower-garden below, the flight of wooden steps—which he had himself painted Navy blue by way of variety of colour before he went away, and which seemed now to extend a welcome to him as they stretched down from the garden to the water's edge—formed a picture which, to the honest sailor, excelled for downright beauty the most glorious palace he had ever set eyes on. Nor would he have been so well satisfied to have an empress in "full rig" descend her marble staircase to receive him, as this graceful girlish figure that came tripping out of the scullery-door, across the tiny garden, and down the clumsy tide-washed wooden steps.

He thought it was his wife—the sisters bore a remarkable resemblance—and the sunshine, and a little mist of his own distilling blinded him somewhat.

"Dolly, ahoy!" he roared out huskily but heartily. "Hilli-hoi-hoi-hoi-ahoy! There's my wife, lads! There's my own true little woman standing ready to hug me! God bless her! Halloa, Dolly! Hallo-ho-ho! Steady lads! Easy, now! Port a little! That's so. Ship your oars! Here we are, home at last! Thank God for it!"

The boat ran alongside, and Captain Dundas, preoccupied with landing, and with the sun and mist still in his eyes—more so, in fact, than before—leaped on to the stairs, and threw his arm around Laura with ultra-fraternal cordiality. But even as he caught her in his embrace he saw that it was not Dorothy; and the honest tars, who had contended with their mates for the honour of pulling the Captain home to his "missus," and now were taking their reward in a good stare, unhindered by any false delicacy, were taken aback by the sudden check to the husband's transports. He paled visibly under his bronzed skin, and the gladness died out of his face as he released Laura almost brusquely, and stammered:

"Why, where's Dorothy?"

Laura hastened to reassure him Dorothy was indoors, fast asleep; she had had a sleepless night with a dreadful toothache, and had just "gone off." The rest would do her good, for her health, though not seriously affected—yes, yes, she was quite sure of that—had not been strong of late; Captain Dundas had been so long away; he and Dorothy must never be parted any more. Recovering his joyful spirits, though subdued by concern for his wife's delicate health and the necessity to avoid awaking her, the honest sailor gave Laura a hearty buss all to herself, and bade her go into the house and fetch some liquor, in which the Jacks might toast their Captain and his lass. Then, under his direction, the men brought up from the boat a number of chests and packages—some strangely heavy for their size, some very fragile, all apparently precious—and deposited them in the kitchen with the tenderness of a mother and the noiselessness of a cat; for, Lord love you! wasn't these things intended for the Captain's pretty little "missus"? and she, bless her bright eyes! out of sorts and up-stairs, trying to get a wink o' sleep for once in a way!

It was fully twenty minutes before the boat departed to return to the ship.

Laura was thankful for the time thus afforded Dorothy to prepare herself for the kindly-meant deception.

She now, urged by Dundas, who burnt with eagerness to behold his wife, yet would not for the world break in selfishly upon her needed repose, went up-stairs to see if Dorothy were "awake."

She found her cowering in the bed, cold, and trembling with fear. Each moment she expected the coming of her husband, and a sense of guilt and shame filled her with such dread as a condemned criminal may feel when awaiting the executioner.

"Is he coming, Laura? Is he coming?" she whispered in agitated accents, rising from the pillow and stretching out a white arm when she found that only her sister had entered the room.

"He is below in the kitchen, so eager to see you! But he thinks you're asleep, and he is so good, he won't disturb you because I told him a story—that you had had such a bad toothache all night. But you can shake off your toothache and wake up as soon as you like, dear; the sooner the better for Ben. Let me open the curtains and look at you. Humph! You don't look your very best, Dorrie, I must say. Here bathe your face again with the cold water. I'll hold the basin. There, let me hold the towel—so. Now sponge away while I tell you how he is. O Dorrie, he looks so well and quite handsome, with his bright, fresh, good-humoured face and his big curly beard. He took me for you when I went down the steps to meet him, and O! you should have seen how disgusted he was when he found he had got hold of me by mistake! And he was so anxious about you, and asked so many questions, and he has brought you heaps of wonderful things from all the ports he's visited. There, you're nearly all right now. I'll tell you what I'm going to do. I'm sure I can't keep him away from you much longer, so I'll just let down that blind, and cut the cord so that he can't draw it up again. Then I'll send him up here to you—yes, yes, he must come; don't be foolish and wicked, and unkind to me after all the fibs I'm telling. You must see him, and, what's more, you must be glad to see him. For all our sakes do not be cold, or show any fear of him. He is so full of love for you."

"How can I meet him? How dare I look him in the face?"

"There! the half-light will make that easy. He can't see your face distinctly now, and when you are dressed you will be more yourself. What, crying again! Now, this is too bad, really, sister! Dry

COR. COMMERCIAL AND CHURCH STREETS

IT WILL LAST TILL THE NEW YEAR DAWNS

We refer to our 20 per cent. reduction sale, which is the town talk just at present. Everything we promised in the way of reductionsit has been proven we have done. Misrepresentation may draw trade to-day, but it hurts the trade of the future. The most careful and judicious buyers in the district have informed us that when they require a first-class article, at a low price, their experience has been that it saves a great deal of time and worry by coming direct to us. We make a specialty of Fine Goods, and have imported material into Nanaimo which it was heretofore impossible to procure outside of the large Cities. This means a bigger outlay, and necessitates our carrying a stock of between $35,000 and $40,000, but we have to do it to get the assortment.

We have received another shipment of goods from Scotland to-day This lot of cases contains Flannels, Black and Navy Serges, Meltons, and a large variety of Black Figured Dress Goods. We have also received a half dozen of White Blankets, as a trial order. These goods are really something choice, and as there is only a few pair we expect them to sell very quickly.

While you are figuring what you will have for your father, mother, sister, brother, or someone else's brother, for Christmas, we would suggest your calling and taking a look through our Immense Stock, when you will readily find something to suit you.

STREET GOSSIP.

Little Items of Interest to Every Reader of the Telegram.

County Court will be held to-day, Judge Harrison presiding.

A decrepit horse was shot by E. Sage the pound keeper yesterday morning.

A portion of Nanaimo's superfluous real estate is being removed from the surface of Commercial street.

The first carcass of Australian mutton to enter Nanaimo was on exhibition at the Windsor House last night.

Skaters are anxiously watching the weather at present, hoping for an opportunitp to indulge in their beloved sport.

A meeting of the Nanaimo branch of the Gospel Temperance Union will be held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening, at 7:30. Officers for the next half year will be elected.

The funeral of the late John Prout took place this afternoon, to the new cemetery. Rev. Canon Good was the officiating clergyman. Mr. John Hilbert directed the interment.

The debate at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening will be on the proposition that Christianity is impracticable. Messrs Dodd, Schisler and Dempster are among those who will take part.

The telephone wires on the Departure Bay road are all right again. On Wednesday afternoon the chain-gang, whilst working by the new gaol, though taking the greatest care, accidently felled a tree across the wires. They were repaired and in position again yesterday.

It is proposed to establish a weekly publication in Y. M. C. A. interests shortly. The sheet will have at least the merit of originality, even though its circulation be limited to the precincts of the Association reading room. The first number will appear in about a week's time,

It is suggested by many citizens that the Board of Works in the exercise of its discretion might lay down a plank crossing from Leighton and McBain's corner to the door of the post-office. It would be a great convenience to those having business at the post-office. The bit referred to is often in a very muddy and sloppy condition at this season.

Messrs. A. R. Johnston & Co., have a new currant cleaner at their warehouse, which is very effective. The machine consists of a slanting hopper into which the currants to be cleaned are poured and which flow through the lower end into an cylindrical wire sieve, within which four brushes at right angles to one another revolve, the cleaned currants passing out of the lower end into the receptacle placed to receive them; and the refuse being caught in a zinc trough placed under the sieve. The machine is capable of cleaning 300 pounds of currants in an hour with ease.

The latest novelty in Nanaimo in the way of an eatable is Australian mutton, of which Mr. Quennell the popular butcher now has a supply and which will add greatly to the attractions already offered at his meat store to housekeepers or others requiring good meat at a low figure.

Mr. Ellis Davis showed a TELEGRAM man a beautiful flock of hens and chickens of the brown Leghorn and silver-spangle varieties, which, were they shown at the forthcoming poultry exhibit, would make a record for themselves, but unfortunately Mr. Davis had to clip their wings owing to his removal to new premises, and so spoiled them for exhibition purposes.

Messrs. Hemans and Wamsley have added another attraction to their share of meats and are now prepared to supply to their customers an unaccustomed luxury from across the sea, namely, Australian mutton, the first consignment of which has just lately arrived. It is expected that meat that has stood an ocean voyage will soon be a popular article of diet.

The B. C. Pharmaceutical Association.

The quarterly meeting of the Pharmaceutical Association of British Columbia was held last night in Mr. Pimbury's rooms. Those present were: H. McDowell, president; T. E. Atkins, registrar; C. Nelson, secretary; from Vancouver. D. S. Curtis, from New Westminster; T. Shotbolt, vice-president, and J. Cochrane, from Victoria. Mr. Pimbury was also present.

The usual routine business and quarterly reports were gone through. an amendment to the act referring to the sale of poisonous drugs was brought forward and the association decided to enforce the law as regards the sale of poisons and unqualified dispensing. It was decided to form a Dominion Provincial association. A letter was read from the Quebec Provincial Association, and it was agreed to co operate. It was also proposed to issue a Dominion Pharmacopœia as a standard for the Dominion, as was the case in the States and elsewhere.

An Interesting Periodical.

The December number of McClure's Magazine contains an interesting and copiously illustrated account of Archdeacon Farrar, his house, the neighborhood, and old St. Margaret's church at Westminster, by Arthur Warren. A paper by Professor Henry Drummond, on Manliness in Boys, setting forth the work and methods of the Boys' Brigade, should possess considerable local interest, and is very attractive. Interesting portraits of Whitelaw Reid, William Stead and Governor McKinley, at different periods of their lives are published, a biographical sketch of the last being contributed by Frank B. Gessner. Jerusalem, by Charles A. Dana is an interesting narrative, and is well illustrated; as also is a paper on Tennyson's Friendships, by Edwin C. Martin. A Visitor and His Opinions by Mrs. Oliphant is among the best the talented authoress has ever written. Some clever poetic and pose sketches by Gertrude Hall, Octave Thanet, John Gray, Cy Warman, Conan Doyle and Mortimer Collins make up the remainder of the number, which is a decidedly creditable one.

All bald-headed men should call on Jno. L. Pratt, general agent for Dr. White's New Hair Grower Co. Pioneer barber shop. tf

A Successful Ball.

The Masquerade Ball given by the Diamond Dancing Club last night was in point of attendance and in every other respect a great success. There must have been over 30 couples of masks on the floor, while a large number of spectators were also present and thoroughly enjoying themselves watching the gay scene. The music was good and the dancing very pretty to watch, the many different costumes giving it a kaleidoscopic appearance from a little distance. Common characters were those of negroes and negresses. There were also soldiers, sailors, a vivandiere, Red Riding Hood, Night, Morning, football player, fireman, pantaloon and many other costumes that were very pretty but to which it would be difficult to give any particular character. There were some very good female characters made up by men who hardly betrayed their sex till unmasked. The Diamond Dancing Club is to be congratulated on the excellent way in which the whole affair was conducted. The unmasking took place at about 11:30 when many surprises were occasioned by seeing in place of particularly ugly masks some of the prettiest faces in the room. An excellent supper was provided after which the greater number returned and continued dancing until early this morning.

The Windsor house dining room received the first carcase of Australian mutton ever brought into Nanaimo. It will be served at dinner to-night. 1t

Football News.

At the Rugby football match on the swamp on Saturday the following teams will play captained by C. Bamforth and Lister, respectively. Bamforth's team: F. Ingals, back; Bamforth, Miller and Drummond, three-quarter backs; Hilton and H. Bell, half backs. Matt Duffy, R. Thompson, Barker, J. Wilson, Sam Jones, V. Stewart, Austin Gibbs, J. Thompson and J. Humphrey, forwards. Lister's team: Riley, back; Webster, Dixon and A. Thompson, three-quarter backs; Joe Neens and Wilcox, half backs; G. Lister, W. Edmunds, Cheetwood, M. Woodburn, J. Gould, Stewart, Jacob Neens, A. Cassell and C. Deeming, forwards. The game will begin at three o'clock sharp, and as the teams are composed of some of the best players in town it will be an interesting one.

The team of the Wellington United Football Club in the cup tie match with the Victoria Wanderers, on Saturday December 23rd at Wellington, will be as follows: R. White, goal; A Johnson, R. Blakely, backs; R. Simpson, R. Ross, J. Blackhall, half backs; A. Lundy, centre; J. Irwin. J. Richards, right; J. Mitchell, R. Fisher, left; Mr. Adams will act as referee.

Those who appreciate comfortable surroundings and prompt, civil attendance invariably put up at the Hotel Wilson.

When you visit Vancouver do not forget to register at the Delmonico. Emerson leads all others as a caterer. 8-11 tf

The Wilson house is reputed to be the only hotel in the city that has a thoroughly first rate cook.

When you want a first-class job of printing remember the DAILY TELEGRAM can supply it.
