SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

The decay of organic matter has been found by Schloesing to begin under the influence of living organisms. Between 100° and 120° Fahrenheit this action ceases, and is succeeded by a purely chemical process of slow combustion, which increases rapidly with the temperature.

The ancient therapeutic method of licking the cornea, as dogs lick the eyes of their puppies, is still a popular remedy in Greece. Dr. Costomiris, of Athens, was lately induced to try it in a number of serious cases of eye-diseases, and reports marvellously successful results.

A NEW ASTROLOGY.—A new method of weather prediction has been discovered by Ch. Montigny, a French physicist. He has observed that the scintillations of stars increase before many storms, indicating disturbance of the upper atmosphere hours before the meteorological instruments show any change. The fiercer the storm the more is the strength of the scintillations increased.

What is said to be a satisfactory substitute for the high-priced gum acacia is prepared by Trojanowski by treating the mucilage of flax-seed with sulphuric acid; and another, lately patented in Germany by Schumann, is made from starch. The euphorbia gum, a peculiar African resin, is coming into extensive use as a substitute for, or addition to, caoutchouc, whose quality is even claimed to be improved by mixture with the cheaper gum.

RAILWAYS AND RAINFALLS.—The laying of the Mexico Central Railroad has been attended by some curious meteorological phenomena. With the advance of the line, waterspouts have appeared and inflicted great damage, while the rainfall has increased. These results are supposed to be due to some attractive force exerted by the great mass of metal in the rails and telegraph wires, and are attracting considerable scientific attention.

A BOLD PROJECT.—A Swiss engineer has submitted a plan for supplying Paris with pure water from the lake of Neufchatel, at a cost of $100,000,000. The proposed aqueduct would be 312 miles in length, including a tunnel twenty-two miles long under the Jura Mountains. The lake is 1620 feet above the average of Parisian streets, and it is believed that power sufficient for all the industries of the French capital could be furnished in addition to potable water.

A NEW MATERIAL FOR BOATS.—Navigators in Central Africa know that boats of iron and steel quickly corrode in tropical waters, while those of wood are attacked by white ants. A missionary society has therefore built a steam-canoe for Lake Nyassa of the comparatively new alloy known as Delta Metal, which resists corrosion, is light, and as strong as steel. The vessel is twenty-one feet long, with a beam of seven feet and a depth of three feet, and draws only sixteen inches of water with engine and boiler on board.

WELDING BY ELECTRICITY.—Two methods of joining metals by electricity are now practiced. In that of Prof. Elihu Thomson, which is especially applicable to the uniting of tubes, rods, wires, etc., a very heavy current is passed between the two metals, when the great resistance of the point of contact causes it to become quickly heated and welded. In the process of M. Bernados, the heat of the electric arc is used, the junction of the metals forming one pole and a rod of carbon, readily applied to any point desired, the other. The first method is said to be surer and more easily controlled, and the second is capable of wider application.

COTTON.—Though known from prehistoric times, the use of cotton for cloth did not become general until after the first successful American cultivation of the fibre in 1790. In 1791 the world's yield was 490,000,000 pounds, and that of the United States 2,000,000 pounds. Since then the American development of the industry has been stupendous, the present production of the United States being six times as great as that of the whole world a century ago, and its home consumption being equal to the world's product fifty years ago. It has been calculated that, with the appliances of 1790, the manufacture of the world's cotton in 1826 would have occupied about 50,000,000 people, while it would require 300,000,000 persons at the present time.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

A FRIENDLY MESSAGE.

LONDON, June 28.—To-day the Czar met General Von Pope, who was sent to the Russian court to announce the accession of the Emperor William to the throne of Germany. He was received with great ceremony as the message-bearer of the king, and was afterwards the chief among the guests at a state dinner given at the Peterhof Palace. The letter announcing the Emperor William's accession was written in Russian and recalls to the Czar the words of the old Kaiser William when, on his death-bed, he urged his successors to maintain friendship with Russia. The letter was very friendly in its tone and points to a policy of alliance with the Czar for the mutual interests of Russia and Germany. Political Europe is anxiously awaiting the outcome of the royal visit, and some wise heads pretend to see as the result of it a bond between the emperors which presages no good for Austria or Hungary.

THIS AFTERNOON'S DESPATCHES.

A NEW RAILROAD.

PORT TOWNSEND, W.T., June 29.—The Port Townsend Bay & Columbia River Co. has filed articles of incorporation, their object being to build a railroad from Port Townsend Bay to the Columbia River. The duration of the company is to be fifty years. The line is to begin on the bay at Port Townsend and extend in a southerly direction through the counties of Jefferson, Mason, Chehalis, Thurston, Lewis Cowlitz and Clark, to a point on the Columbia river. The amount of capital stock is $3,000,000. The names and residences of those who have been appointed to conduct the affairs of the corporation for the first six months are: James Carroll, Juneau, Alaska, H. L. Tibballs, Jr., Port Townsend, David Wallace, Seattle, Melville M. Buckman, Port Townsend. A preliminary survey has already been made of the proposed line, and the enterprise will be vigorously pushed and work commenced at once upon the road.

DOINGS OF THE BULLS.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Brokers in the coffee market were filled with consternation this morning by the springing of the sharpest corner worked in the coffee exchange. Bulls had effected a complete corner in spot coffee, and when operators having June coffee to deliver attempted to buy it they found it was all held by Gruner & Co. and Grossman Bros., who represent this bull clique. In the first hour of business the price advanced 5¼ cents per pound, opening with sales at 12¾ cents and advancing to 13 cents on the first call on sales of 1250 bag. After the call it rose one cent at a time until noon, when 18 cents was bid and no coffee was found for sale. Pool brokers intimate that outstanding contracts will be settled at 20 cents per pound. The corner was continued in the afternoon, but a settling price was fixed on by brokers for bull houses, making transactions at 21 cts. and 21¼ per pound, advance of 6.05 points since opening. Brokers claim that short interest is very small.

A FOOLISH SOCIETY.

QUEBEC, June 29.—The Knights of Labor are organizing a mammoth strike to occur simultaneously with the abrogation of the ship laborers charter by the provincial parliament.

FEARS AN INDIAN WAR.

BELLEVUE, Idaho, June 29.—Governor Stevenson has sent a letter to Sec. Vilas in which he states that three hundred indians from Shoshone reservation are camped in Juniper mountains, 30 miles from Silver City, frightening and alarming the people. The Governor says: "I would recommend to the department the great necessity there is for keeping these Indians on their reservations, and preventing them from roaming at pleasure over hundreds of miles of territory. A continuation of these raids, it is feared, will end in another of those Indian wars which have so often been forced on our citizens, and which can be prevented only by the greatest caution, moderation and forbearance on the part of the settlers."

FOUR LYNCHED IN ONE DAY.

KANSAS CITY, June 29.—A mob at Minneapolis, Kansas, took Chubb McCarty, the murderer of Mike Dorsey, from jail early yesterday morning and hanged him to a tree. Daily British Columbian

Friday Evening, June 29, 1888.

The crop prospects this year for British Columbia are most encouraging. Reports coming in from the various districts from time to time show that the yield in hay, grain, and other crops may fairly be expected to be almost unprecedented. The refreshing rains of this month have proved to be worth thousands of dollars to the farmers, and to the country generally, for the prosperity of one means the welfare of the other. The high water did not, as was at one time feared, injure the crops at all, being checked by the very rains which have proved such a positive blessing as well. In Manitoba and the Northwest, too, present indications all point to an abundant harvest. In eastern Canada the outlook is not so good, and, owing to cyclones, storms, and floods in many sections of the United States, the crop outlook there cannot be said to be favorable on the whole. Wheat has already gone up in price on account of the poor prospects of the crops in the states, and of course all this gives the successful producer in Manitoba, the Northwest, and British Columbia the advantage of a ready market with high figures. Farmers in these sections should do extraordinarily well this year, but the consumer will have to pay higher for his breadstuffs.

It is to be hoped that nobody will be so unfeeling as to send a copy of Wednesday's Colonist to the Imperial authorities in old England, especially at the present time, when they are sufficiently worried over the Irish question, and have just discovered that their defences, naval and military, are worm-eaten, so that Boulanger, the Czar, or Germany's new war lord, could just waltz in and scalp the entire royal family and the house of lords and telescope the Bank of England. The following sentence, from a leading article under the heading "Two Loans," in the Colonist of the date mentioned above, would, we fear, cause such a panic in the mother country—coming as it would on the heels of other misfortunes—as would send wheat up so high that it would never come down again. Our cotemporary, in the article referred to, waxes eloquent over the approaching election in Victoria district. He has allowed his Pegasus to lift him clear into the realm of hyperbole, and, having occasion to refer to a matter of recent history, he treats it in the same elevated style. Speaking of the "terms of union," he says: "Instead of the railway being finished in ten years, as agreed, it was not completed until five years later, successive governments toying with the scheme until the angry remonstrances of British Columbia threatened the permanency of the empire!" What does the Colonist talk that way for? If we are a "holy terror" we dont want everybody to know it. We want the Imperial government to furnish this province with proper defences. But how will they know when we'll be "taken the same way," if they should happen to see this article in the Colonist? Instead of furnishing us with fortifications, big guns, ships, and garrisons, to be used whenever we chance to "get on our ear," in shattering the empire, they are a great deal more likely now to call in all our shot guns and other small arms, so that we will not be able even to take a pop at the saucy bluejay that devastates our gardens.

Saturday (to-morrow) is the day which will decide whether the Colonist or the Times shall be able to cry exultantly, "I told you so!" and, incidentally, the day on which the electors of Victoria district shall practically record their preference for Mr. Tolmie, the government candidate, or Mr. McIlmoyl, the opposition standard bearer. The election was necessitated by the resignation of Mr. John to accept the wardenship of the provincial gaol at Victoria, an appointment which the Victoria press generally has commended, either actively or passively. Mr. John had been a government supporter: the government naturally desire to have his place in the house filled by one like-minded, and Mr. James Tolmie, an estimable young man, it would appear, in many respects, has been brought out. The vacancy, and consequent by-election, gave the opposition a chance to make a run and try to score one. Like all oppositions, they think the country will never be safe until they get into power, so they take advantage of the opportunity afforded, and back Mr. McIlmoyl against the government man. Nothing, it appears, is urged against the opposition candidate, either, in so far as his standing and character is concerned, but the Colonist declares that the moment he enters politics he becomes demoralized so that his best friends wouldn't know him, or words to that effect. As the Vancouver Herald says in its last issue, editorially, "Not much reliable information is to be obtained from the Victoria papers respecting the two candidates. * * * Some information outside of this source would be necessary before an intelligent opinion could be formed respecting the qualifications of the gentlemen for the position." The Herald, very properly, we think, commenting further, calls in question the validity and morality of the Colonist's pleadings that the election should turn on the "dollar and cent view of the question," or, in other words, that the constituency, having the pleasing vision of benefits to accrue before its eyes, should vote for the party (the man only incidentally) having the patronage at its disposal. While reprehensible, this is an obliquity which is almost inseparable from government by party, and will be found operating in a greater or less degree wherever the electoral franchise is exercised. It has come to be generally acknowledged as a truism that the party in power always has the advantage of the patronage of the country at its back in an election contest. But, while tacitly understood, it would be just as well to modestly refrain from flaunting this somewhat compromising fact in the faces of sensitive and naturally honorable people. But, apart from all these questions of the personal fitness of candidates and the means taken for their return by partisan newspapers, there is the question of the general policy of the government, which, everything else being equal, should determine to a large extent the result of an election. It is the duty of electors to be able to give an intelligent judgment on these questions at the polls.

The subtle agent that precedes the thunder clap, flashes intelligences across continents, illuminates cities, and is constantly widening the scope of its operations, is soon, according to appearances, to usurp the time-honored hemp as a means of extinguishing the vital spark of those whom society has adjudged to be unfit to live. The state legislature of New York, the empire state of the republic, has passed an act providing for execution by electricity. The act has been sanctioned by Governor Hill, and has now become the law of the state. Various opinions are expressed as to the advantages and disadvantages of the new method of execution. The Buffalo Express is horrified at the introduction of electricity in capital punishment. It says: "But killing instantly is only one of the things that electricity will do. It will paralyze. It will disfigure for life. It will turn a brainy man into a drivelling idiot. It will make blind men and and deaf men. There is no need to catalogue the effects of electricity upon the human system. They are many and dreadful. They are uncertain and puzzling. And they differ in their effects upon different organizations. What would kill one man might only paralyze another, completely or partially cripple still another. But this is not the worst of it. The new method is introduced in the interest of humanity—such is the claim. Is it humane to place nervous, ignorant, possibly superstitious men in a waiting attitude towards this mysterious agent which Edison himself does not understand? Could nerves be stretched upon a more cruel rack than this? Mankind is used to hanging as a means of execution. All of its processes and effects are understood. It is awful enough, God knows; but is not the fear of the unknown, invisible and silent electricity more awful still?" The New York Graphic, after showing the absurdity of the fear that men may be maimed, disfigured, or paralyzed, without being killed, for the reason that a strong enough current can be used in every instance to kill instantly without fail, adds: "No stronger argument in favor of electricity as the agent for carrying out the extreme penalty of the law could be advanced than that which the Express advances itself. The very object of an execution is to make it awful—to invest it with a dread, a terror that shall be a constant menace, a Damoclean sword hanging over the evil-doer. If electricity shall accomplish this and make death in that form so terrible that crime shall be lessened, then it will have accomplished wonders." The Colonist of a late date, writing on this subject, cites New York journals to the effect that condemned murderers have already been interviewed as to their preferences, and their answers are unanimously in favor of the new method, for the reasons that death would be instantaneous and also less disgraceful and disfiguring than by hanging. Looking at the subject in this light, the Colonist very naturally expresses the fear that, by the new method, "the deterrent effect which capital punpunishment is intended to have on the criminal classes may be in a large measure lost." But we have already seen what a vast difference of opinion has been expressed upon this question.

"It Saved My Life"

Is a common expression, often heard from those who have realized, by personal use, the curative powers of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. "I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died from lung troubles.—E. Bragdon, Palestine, Tex.

About six months ago I had a severe Hemorrhage of the Lungs, brought on by a distressing Cough, which deprived me of sleep and rest. I had used various cough balsams and expectorants, without obtaining relief. A friend advised me to try

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

I did so, and am happy to say that it helped me at once. By continued use this medicine cured my cough, and, I am satisfied, saved my life.—Mrs. E. Coburn, 18 Second st., Lowell, Mass.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for over a year, and sincerely believe I should have been in my grave, had it not been for this medicine. It has cured me of a dangerous affection of the lungs, for which I had almost despaired of ever finding a remedy.—D. A. McMullen, Windsor, Province of Ontario.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life. Two years ago I took a very severe Cold which settled on my lungs. I consulted physicians, and took the remedies they prescribed, but failed to obtain relief until I began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Two bottles of this medicine completely restored my health.—Lizzie M. Allen, West Lancaster, Ohio. ††

TELEGRAM.

OTTAWA, 27th March, 1888.

TO LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, VICTORIA.

Your Government should issue public notice cautioning persons going on Sealing expeditions to refrain from assertion of their rights by force, and from taking on board arms and ammunition in excess of their usual requirements. The whole matter is engaging the attention of Her Majesty's Government and forms the subject of diplomatic negotiations now in progress. Any intemperate action in the meanwhile would be most detrimental to British Columbian interests and might lead to serious complications and be followed by grave consequences to those concerned.

IN A BARBER'S SHOP.

An Experience of a Funny Man at Washington.

I will now return to the barber shop. It was a plain structure, with beautiful sarsaparilla pictures here and there on the walls and a faint odor of rancid pomatum and overworked hair restoratives.

There were three chairs richly upholstered in two-ply carpeting of some inflammatory hue, with large vines and the kind of flowers which grow on carpets but nowhere else.

I have seen blossoms woven into ingrain carpets, varying in color from a dead black to the color of a hepatized lung, but I have never seen one that reminded me of anything I ever saw in nature.

The chair I sat in also had springs in it. They were made of selections from the Washington Monument.

The barber who waited on me asked me if I wanted a shave. A great many barbers ask me this during the year. Sometimes they do it from habit and sometimes they do it to brighten up my life and bring a smile to my wan cheek. As I have no hair, the thinking mind naturally and by a direct course of reasoning arrives at the conclusion that when I go into a barber shop and climb into a chair, I do so for the purpose of getting shaved and not with the idea of having my fortune told or my deposition taken. Still barbers continue to ask me this question and look at each other with ill-concealed mirth.

I said yes I would like a shave unless he preferred to take my temperature, or amuse me by making a death mask of himself. He then began to strap a large razor with a double-shuffle movement and to size me up at the same time.

He was a colored man, but he had lived in Washington a long time and knew a great deal more than he would if his lot had fallen elsewhere. He spoke with some feeling and fed me with about the most unpalatable lather I think I ever participated in.

He also did an odd thing when he went for the second time over my face. I never have noticed the custom outside of that shop. Most barbers, in making the second trip over a customer's face, moisten one side at a time with a sponge or the damp hand as they go along, but in this case a large quantity of lather was put in my ear, and as he needed it, he took out what he required from time to time, using his finger like a paint brush and spreading on the lather as he went along.

So accurately has he learned to measure the quantity of lather an ear will hold that when he got through with me and I went away there was not over a tablespoonful in either ear and possibly not that much.—New York World.

TURNING THE ROPE.

The Way a Girl Is Made To Perform This Unliked Duty.

The way a girl is made to turn the rope is this:

Where several girls are playing the one who trips must take her turn at the rope. This is a great test of a girl's temper. If she doesn't "play fair" she will deny it when she trips. Then the other girls get mad, and they won't play, or they put her out of the game for cheating. Then she learns the value of truth.

If she is not caught in lying, however, she is very apt to try it again, and may in time become an adept at sly lying. But the chances are that the other little girls will find her out if she does not fib with great skill and discernment.

Truly, it is a very great temptation to a little girl to tell stories under such circumstances, but like all other temptations, it is one that a good little girl will learn to resist. She will take her end of the rope with resignation when her turn comes.

Most little girls can persuade parents or relatives to purchase for them at the toy stores nice jumping ropes with neatly turned wooden handles. But, when such ropes are not to be had, bad little girls have been known to steal parts of their mothers' clothes lines.

When a little girl who has cut a clothes line falls and gets hurt, she is apt to be looked upon as the victim of a special providence. Yet it must be admitted that many good girls who are not skillful often trip and fall, so that the final cause of tripping is still a bone of contention among both philosophers and theologians.

What Time Is It?

What time is it? Before you answer deduct a quarter of a second or add a quarter. Every watch or clock that is supposed to be correct, that is warranted, that runs by a chronometer, is out of the way at least a quarter of a second in every 24 hours. There is no such thing as correct time on the face of the earth. Yes, that is so.

If you want the correctest of correct time dig a hole in the ground, take your watch or clock along, get some one to stand on the edge of the hole, call out "Greenwich time!" and then pull the hole in after you. There is no vibration in the hole, and it is the vibration or oscillation of the earth that makes the chronometer go wrong.—Chicago Times.

A Dog at the Telephone.

A bright-witted girl telephoned to her father at his office asking if her dog "Curly" was there.

Reply came that he was.

"Well, take him up in your arms and hold the receiver to his ear; I want to tell him to come home," said the girl.

Her father did so.

The dog's countenance wore, momentarily, a look of astonishment at hearing, "Come home; Curly! Come home!" in the feminine tones of his mistress, but it took him only an instant to understand what was wanted, and he made a break for home as fast as he could go.

Of Course He Couldn't Sing.

"Years ago," says a correspondent, "when I was teaching in Ponkapoag, my neighbors did not prove musical. I announced that the boys in the school must sing as well as the girls.

"That night I was waited upon by a father, who informed me that his son Luther could not comply with my request, for, when young, he had the tone of his stomach destroyed by Thompsonian medicine. Luther was excused."

Art and Science Defined.

"Art and science in their widest sense cover nearly the whole field of man's intellectual action. They are the outward and visible expression of two distinct and supplementary portions of our complex human nature—distinct, but not opposed, the one working by the daylight of the intellect, the other in the warm glow of the emotions; the one ever seeking to interpret and express the beauty of the universe, the other ever searching for its truth.

In this respect art and science are identical—that to reach their highest outcome and achievement they must pass beyond knowledge and culture, which are understood by all, to inspiration and creative power, which pass the understanding even of him who possesses them in the highest degree.—Professor Tyndall.

INNLESS COUNTRIES.

Where the Traveler Is Perforce Entertained at Private Houses.

In Iceland at the present day there is but one inn at Reykjavik, the capital, and that is kept by a Dane. The traveler in the island goes to any farm house or parsonage and is taken in. Indeed, by law a traveler cannot be refused hospitality.

When he leaves he either makes a present of money or of something else that will be valued, but this is a present, and not a payment.

In many parts of Tyrol it is much the same. The excursionist is put up at the priest's house. The writer has been thus received, among other places, at Heiligkreutz, in the Oetz Thal.

In the evening the room—the cure's parlor—was filled with peasants who came for wine, and were supplied. When they left they put money in the hand of the pastor's sister, while he, smoking his pipe, looked out of the window. When the writer left next morning the same farce was enacted.

Farther up the same valley is Vent, where again the cure receives travelers and his sister receives the payment, but there a definite charge is made, but at Heiligkreutz what was given was accepted as a present.

The priests who entertain do not, of course, hang up signs over their doors. The pastor is supposed to be given to hospitality, and would give of his all freely and cheerfully if he could afford it, but of late years, as travelers have become more numerous, his pittance has become smaller, so that his hospitality can no longer be gratuitous.

In the old romances of chivalry we read of travelers always seeking the castle of some knight, and asking, almost demanding, lodging and entertainment.

HOW CALICO GOT ITS NAME.

The Great Antiquity of the Homely Fabric.

The derivation of this word is very interesting as of such an ancient date is its origin.

Mrs. Leonowens says in her "Travels in India" that in the year 1498, just ten months and two days after leaving the port at Lisbon, Vasco da Gama landed on the coast of Malabar at Calicut, or more properly Kale Rhoda, "City of the Black Goddess."

Calicut was at that period not only a very ancient seaport, but an extensive territory, which, stretching along the western coast of Southern India, reached from Bombay and the adjacent islands to Cape Comorin.

It was at an early period so famous for its weaving and dyeing of cotton cloth that its name became identified with the manufactured fabric, whence the name calico. It is now generally admitted that this ingenious art originated in India in remote ages, and from that country found its way to Egypt.

It was not until the middle of the seventeenth century that calico printing was introduced into Europe. A knowledge of the art was acquired by some of the servants of the Dutch East India Company and carried to Holland, whence it was introduced in London in the year 1676.

It is surprising for grown-up children, as well as our young folks, to learn that "Pliny as early as the first century mentions in his natural history that there existed in Egypt a wonderful method of dyeing white cloth."

Calico cannot be despised when it boasts of such antiquity. The shoddy make-up of the present day may look down with contempt upon the calico dress, but what kind of lineage has it, the calico can proudly ask.

"MASTER HUMPHREYS' CLOCK."

The Original of one of Dickens' Most Pleasing Creations.

During the time that Dickens and "Phiz" were investigating the subject of the Yorkshire schools, they lodged at the principal hotel in Barnard Castle, in the county of Durham, and immediately opposite the hotel was a watchmaker's shop, easily seen by the novelist from his sitting room window.

Over the shop-front was conspicuously placed the name of "Humphreys, Clockmaker," which fixed itself so indelibly on the author's mind, that he gave it to the clock maker in his next story, and wrote to tell "Master Humphreys" what he had done, sending him, at the same time, a copy of "Nicholas Nickleby."

As for the original of the famous clock itself, we learn that its manufacture was begun in 1828 by William Humphreys, son of Thomas Humphreys, the then proprietor of the shop. On its completion the following year it was placed in a niche on the right-hand side of the glass shop-door, where Dickens first saw it, and where in passing he frequently consulted it for the correct time, thus becoming acquainted with the owner and his son Master Humphreys.

The shop was a veritable "curiosity shop," containing, as it did, such a miscellaneous collection of toys, clocks, philosophical instruments and relics innumerable.—Temple Bar.

THE SCENERY OF MEXICO.

Magnificence and Imposing Beauty Awaiting the Tourist.

Where can we find grander mountain scenery than that which unfolds to the wondering gaze of the traveler on the road from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico? It not only rivals but surpasses in grandeur and beauty the most celebrated Alpine landscapes.

Where in sunny Italy are to be found more lovely and romantic sights than those to be met among the dales and valleys of the Tierra Caliente, with their softly murmuring brooks gently gliding among such plants and flowers as are only to be seen in tropical countries; with their rushing torrents, forming numberless waterfalls and cascades, as they come rushing down over the cragged slopes of the snow-clad peaks of Orizaba, Popocatepetl and Iztaccihuatl, those mighty volcanoes whose summits, hidden in the clouds, seem to serve as supports to the blue vault of the heavens above; with luxuriant forests at their feet, where the hum of insects of most brilliant hues is incessantly heard, and where resound the sweet songs of birds whose plumage vies in brilliancy of colors with the gorgeous flowers whose delicious fragrance perfumes the air.

A Rare Piece of Fortune.

Clara (exhibiting photograph)—"How do you like it?"

Hattie—"It's perfectly lovely."

"You think it a good likeness?"

"Oh, no; it doesn't look a particle like you, you know; but I wouldn't mind that, Clara; you are not likely to have such luck again if you sat a thousand times."—Boston Transcript.

Breaking a Package.

Mrs. Veneering Peel (selecting a coat of arms)—"Er—I think this one will do."

Jeweler—"Yes, madam. Will one be enough?"—Tid-Bits.

Wash the Floors.

During the vacation it would be well for the school trustees to strain a point and have the public school thoroughly cleaned and whitewashed. Visitors at the examinations were somewhat shocked at the exceedingly dirty condition of the walls and floors and not a few, who happened to lean against the wall, carried away an excellent sample of educational dust and dirt. On enquiry it was learned the floors have not been washed for 3 years—a shocking state of affairs. We hope this matter will be taken up and the school put in a proper state of cleanliness before the holidays come to a close.

Musical Treat.

The Fort Douglas, (Indian) band, consisting of 15 instruments, on invitation of Dr. Bentley, supt. of the asylum, and by the kind permission of Rev. Father Horris, discoursed sweet music for the space of an hour and a half to the delighted inmates, who manifested their pleasure in various ways. The visiting committee were present at the time, and were pleased with the effect of the entertainment, which is the first of the kind ever given in the institution. Such treats in the future would be much appreciated by the inmates, and an excellent opportunity is afforded those who are disposed to alleviate the sufferings of the unfortunate.

Semilkameen Cattle.

Mr. R. L. Cawston, of Semilkameen, arrived in the city yesterday having brought the first band of cattle, for this season, across Hope Mountain. Mr. Cawston reports cattle in Semilkameen and adjacent districts to be in splendid condition. The grass is better than usual this year and crops are excellent. Mr. Cawston intends marketing 1200 head of cattle before the season closes. The bands will be brought to the coast, by the Hope Mountain trail, at intervals of about two weeks. Nothing worthy of special note has occurred of late in Semilkameen; miners are prospecting the country with varying success and farmers and ranchers are prosperous and contented.

A Rich Find.

Hundreds of people visited H. G. McMicken's office Saturday and Sunday to look at the specimens of gold quartz he brought back from the location of the Ontario Mining Co., of which he is manager. The specimens are of decomposed quartz containing usually large quantities of free gold. He estimates the value of the quartz at from $5,000 to $20,000 a ton and says he picked up the specimen. His company was formed for the purpose of prospecting only and they do not intend to develop any of their mines, but to sell mines on their land, of which they have a large tract situated on the shore of the Lake of the Woods, 7 miles from Rat Portage. The lead from which the specimens shown were taken is not the only one on the property but there are several others with ores which have assayed from fifty to seventy-five dollars a ton.—Winnipeg Free Press.

White vs. Black.

The Hicks-Sawyer-Westminster base ball match yesterday afternoon afforded almost as much amusement to the public as the performance given on Thursday night. From the first it was evident that though the darkies could shine on the stage, on the diamond they were not so brilliant as their opponents. Some of the play was very amusing and created much fun to the lookers-on. Things went very badly with the Hicks-Sawyers until their captain ordered all hands to put on their plug hats. The change for the better was instantaneous. The batting and running improved and the darkies, by superhuman efforts and a little kindness on the part of Westminster, scored two runs. Westminster played a good game but did not find it necessary to put in their best licks and could have shut out the "colored folks" had they wished to act unkindly. The following is the score:—

High School Examination.

The examination of the high school commenced this afternoon at 2 o'clock. A large number of visitors were present, the majority of whom were ladies. Mr. H. M. Stramberg B.A., examined the school on algebra, botany, Latin, Greek, book-keeping, grammar, and many other subjects. The results of these examinations were exceedingly satisfactory, and the excellent work the high school is accomplishing was made more apparent than ever. Essays were read by Miss Robinson, Miss Millard, Miss Homer, Miss Edith Robinson and Miss Keith. Miss Homer's essay deserves special mention, it being novel in character and sparking with bright and original thoughts. Rev. Mr. White announced that Miss Homer was the gold medalist for this year, and complimented that young lady on her application and success. The rev. gentleman then presented rolls of honor to James Rankin for proficiency, John James Guest for punctuality, and Blanche Millard for deportment. It may be said for the proficiency of the Westminster high school that the number of marks obtained, on regular subjects, by the pupils were much greater than the number obtained by the Victoria high school.

Mr. Stramberg is certainly entitled to much credit for placing his school at the top of the list. Addresses were made by Mr. W. B. Townsend, Rev. Mr. White, Mr. M. Sinclair, Mr. Jno. McKenzie, Mr. Wilson, Col. McGregor and Mr. Jack, of New Brunswick. After thanking the visitors for their attendance Mr. Stramberg dismissed the school.

The Dyking Scheme.

The land-owners of Surrey flats and of the S. E. part of the South Arm, held a very special and sparkling meeting at the Surrey town hall on Monday last. Some lively tilts occurred during the meeting and a few of the lovers of the "manly art" endeavored to relieve the monotony of the proceedings by engaging in an old fashioned "set to." This, of course, was not permitted by the peace society, a few of which body were present. The meeting was held to consider the dyking scheme. Mr. A. J. Hill C. E., who was present, submitted a plan to dyke the two rivers separately. It was thought advisable, before proceeding further, to have a line for a dyke surveyed from Blackie's spit to the west bank of Oliver's slough. Sufficient money was subscribed for the expenses, and the survey will be made shortly.

Channel Improvements.

The engineer selected by the board of trade, to establish the points in the new channel from where the official survey of the channel is to be taken, has completed his work, and the official survey will probably be made next week by Capt. Lewis. From a gentleman who has had an opportunity of noticing the channel improvements, we learn that the tier of mattresses, sunk across the old channel last fall, has done far better work than was anticipated. The silt has accumulated against the upper side of the mattresses, as high as the top, thus forming an embankment such as was hoped would be the result of the work. The top of the tier is now dry at low tide. It is now certain that four feet more water will be found in the shallowest part of the channel than was found at the last survey. Tide guages have been set out at various points for the purpose of making the survey as perfect as possible. The guages will indicate the exact stage of the tide which will enable the depth, at each sounding, to be accurately ascertained.

The necessity of an official survey is every day becoming more urgent. When the Puritan left Port Townsend the captain was laughed at, and told his vessel would never reach Westminster. Capt. Hendrix procured an American tug which towed the Puritan to the mouth of the old channel and there left the vessel, the south channel being the only safe one indicated on the admiralty charts. The admiralty chart, indicating the Fraser River, dates back to 1868 and no revision of it has been made since. When the south channel was blocked it seems no "notice to mariners" was given, and, consequently, the Port Townsend pilots could scarcely be expected to become aware of the change by instinct. The new channel was opened 3 years ago, and since then almost all vessels have entered and left the river by it. There seems to have been great neglect on the part of somebody that the change has not been made public, officially. When the new survey is made we hope prompt steps will be taken to have the soundings recorded on the admiralty chart, or, if this cannot be done, we think that if proper representations are made to the Dominion government the Admiralty would order soundings to be taken by one of the naval officers stationed at Esquimalt.

Mrs. D. Morrison, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writing about Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil says: George Bell used it on his son, and it cured him of rheumatism with only a few applications. The balance of the bottle was used by an old gentleman for Asthma, with the best results. It acts like a charm.

Shall We Have Water?

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—A good many people who have the interest of this city at heart are quite disappointed at the apparent determination of the council to do nothing this year towards securing an efficient system of water works. It is admitted by all that this is one of the most important questions now pressing upon public attention, and that the consideration of it cannot with safety be postponed. We are constantly threatened with death from imperfect sewerage and unwholesome water, and in danger of suffering serious loss from fires because our appliances for meeting a great conflagration are unequal to our necessities. There seems to be no room to doubt that one of the results of a first-class system of water works would be a material reduction in the rate of insurance. If this reduction should be equal to that which has followed the erection of similar works elsewhere, it would actually amount to more than the sum asked by the Coquitlam Water Co. for the supply it proposes to give us, according to its last offer to the council. We should, therefore, not only be getting an abundant supply of pure water without additional expense, but would be actual gainers from a financial point of view, inasmuch as every person now carrying an insurance on his property carries himself a risk equal to the difference between the amount of his policy and the value of the property. Much of the opposition to the proposed water tax comes from persons who have no personal interest in the business part of the city. Those who own vacant lots off the business streets, for instance, think that there will be no return at all for the extra rate. This is a mistake. On the top of the hill it costs a great deal to sink a well—sometimes hundreds of dollars—and before these lots can be made to return any profit to their owners a well must be dug and a pump provided. This expense would be saved if we had water works, and by so much would the value of the lots be increased. Many people would greatly prefer to reside on the hill, but are prevented because of the lack of water. Many of those who do reside there, and have spent large sums of money in wells, find themselves compelled to draw upon their neighbors during the dry season. Those who live nearer the business streets are more fortunate in procuring water; but they come also into contact with a new danger—the danger of deadly disease from the impurities which it is often impossible to keep out of the wells. These impurities are becoming every year more threatening as the population of the city increases. They permeate the soil everywhere down to the concrete, and flowing along this they land in the wells from which we drink. Every physician in Westminster knows that two of the chief causes of disease at certain seasons of the year are bad water and bad drainage; and it is no secret that these causes have sent some of our most respected citizens to untimely graves. The establishment of a first-class scheme of water works, such as that offered by the Coquitlam company, would effectively remove these dangers, by giving every house an abundant supply of pure water, and putting us in possession of the means of thoroughly cleansing our sewers. It would likewise furnish protection against fire such as very few cities in the world can hope to enjoy. There is a very widely-prevailing opinion that the city should own its own water works; and so it should, if it is able to assume the financial responsibility. It might be said that every person ought to own the house in which he lives; but a great many people are forced to live in rented houses. Has the council ever offered to buy the franchise held by the Coquitlam Co.? or is it expected that the company, after expending thousands of dollars in securing that valuable franchise, will surrender it without compensation? The Coquittlam scheme seems to be the only one available that will meet the requirements of the city. Others have been proposed and discussed, but could not be entertained. If the corporation cannot acquire the rights of the company upon equitable terms, there seems to be no way out of the difficulty but to accept the company's proposal which, after all, is not unreasonable, for it gives the corporation the right of purchase after ten years, on an equitable basis. If there are any of our citizens who suppose that by declining to take any action whatever they will secure the water works without cost, they are greatly mistaken. The charter of the Coquitlam Co. gives it power to go on with its works, and lay pipes everywhere through the streets of our city without asking the council's consent. If it decides to go on with the scheme without agreement with the city, it will have power to put a tax on all water used for fire purposes, for flushing sewers, or for watering streets, such as may make the citizens wish for all time to come that its reasonable offer had been accepted; and however rapidly the company's revenues may increase when our city has grown to be the provincial metropolis, it may refuse utterly to entertain any proposal which would give the city a share in these revenues. It is to be hoped our citizens will not permit this matter to pass beyond the fullest consideration, and there is reason for believing that if action is taken at all in the direction indicated, it must be taken without much loss of time. HYDRANT.

DISEASE GATHERS STRENGTH as it advances. Annihilate it at its birth. When the bowels become sluggish, digestion feeble, or the liver torpid, they should be aroused and stimulated with Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, a medicine foremost in usefulness among alteratives. It should not be abandoned if an immediate cure is not effected, but be used as it deserves, systematically and with persistence. It will then prove that it is thorough.

Out of Sorts.—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctors' bills.
