Irish Emigration.

The Duke of Beaford appears to be devoting earnest attention to the philanthropic work of transferring a portion of Ireland's redundant population to Canada's great Northwest, and in this he has the energetic support of Father Nugent. It is now stated that the Duke's Committee, organized for the purpose of carrying out the scheme, will have a share in the distribution of the Imperial Government grant of £100,000, to assist emigration from the distressed districts in Ireland. On the 19th ult., Mr. Hodkin, one of the secretaries of the Committee, accompanied by Father Nugent, left for Canada, and should he make a favorable report, it is tolerably certain that next spring will witness the commencement of a considerable stream of emigration under the auspices of this organization. The Committee and the Canadian Government, through their office in London, have been in communication for some time, and there is little probability of any obstacle arising to prevent the scheme being carried out. These emigrants will be selected from the class constituting the best material for agricultural laborers, and Old Country wiseacres are only now discovering that it is better to people our own waiting fields with these than to allow them to filter into a foreign country and thus be forever lost to the flag. It is about time for the statesmen on both sides of the Atlantic thoroughly to understand that self-evident proposition. The unblanketing of our own great North-West has undoubtedly been a potent factor in leading up to that conviction.

Railway Progress in the North-West.

There seems every probability of the Canadian North-West possessing a net-work of railways in a marvelously short space of time. The Canadian Pacific Railway is being built through its entire length at a rate of speed unparalleled in the history of railway construction. The Hudson Bay railway scheme has been launched. Several minor railways are either underway or projected,—some in actual operation. The news now comes from Brandon that Sir Hugh Allan and some other monied men have been there for the purpose of launching yet another railway project, viz., to run a railway almost parallel with the Souris and Rocky Mountain railway, passing through the town of Brandon. Between railway enterprises and emigration schemes there is every probability of our great North-West filling up as no country has ever filled up before. And that is Columbia's hope. It is by way of the Rocky Mountains that the Pacific Province must look for the wave of population and inflow of capital so long waited for.

The Route Through the Rockies

(From the Manitoba Free Press.)

A despatch in yesterday's Free Press informed our readers of the important discovery of a feasible pass through the Selkirk, or gold range in British Columbia. This discovery has been confidently looked for by the managers of the Canadian Pacific, and last April an act was passed through Parliament authorizing the company to construct their road through the mountain ranges by any pass that might be discovered farther south than the Yellow Head pass, which was the most southerly that had then been discovered. This action of the company was taken on the information received from their engineer, Major A. P. Rogers, who felt confident of discovering a more southerly pass, and our despatch of yesterday seems to indicate that he has not been disappointed.

The discovery of this pass will definitely locate the C. P. R. line in almost an air line from Thunder Bay to Kamloops in British Columbia. Its importance will readily be seen when we remember that one great object of the road is not only to secure the trade of our own country, but to attract as much foreign trade as possible through our country. To do this the road must be run on a basis of financial prosperity, a great factor of which is a good country to supply local traffic. This will be secured by the present discovery. The line will run through a fertile land up to the Rocky Mountains on the east, and will strike a fertile land at Kamloops on the west. Then, with fewer curves, a better road-bed and freedom from debt, the Canadian Pacific should be well able to compete with the American lines, for not only Canadian traffic, but for much of the traffic between the Northern States and the Pacific. It is not improbable that, thus, in time a large trade will spring up between British Columbia and San Francisco.

But, no doubt, the most important feature in the change it will necessitate is the shortening of the route by seventy-nine miles—a matter of considerable importance in competing with the American Pacific lines for the through trade from the Pacific to the Atlantic and from Europe to Asia. It is now pretty generally known that the Canadian Pacific is the shortest possible route from Europe to Asia and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. With the road shortened by the 79 miles, which this new route will take off, the following will be the comparative distances by the Canadian and American Pacific lines:—

	MILES.
From Montreal to Port Moody, via C. P. R.	2,850
From New York to Port Moody, via C. P. R. and Montreal	3,260
From N. Y. to P. Moody, via C. P. R. and Brockville	3,140
From N. Y. to San Francisco	3,330

These figures show the advantages of our line for through traffic. But the advantages are still greater when we compare the respective lines with regard to European and Asiatic trade:

	MILES.
Liverpool to Montreal	2,715
Liverpool to New York	3,040
Liverpool to P. Moody, via C.P.R.	6,063
Liverpool to San Francisco	6,830
Liverpool to Yokohama, Japan, via M. and the C. P. R.	10,863
Liverpool to Yokohama, via N. Y. and San Francisco	12,038
Hence, from Liverpool the distance of Montreal is less than that of New York by	767
And the distance to Yokohama is less by the Canadian route by	1,070

These figures surely prove that the Canadian route must become the great highway between Europe and Asia. If Halifax be taken as the terminus instead of Montreal the distance from Liverpool to Port Moody would be 6,186 miles, which would still be less than from Liverpool to San Francisco by 646 miles.

With this immense advantage in point of distance, and with the further advantage of running through the wheat growing district of the continent, the Canadian Pacific road is bound to prove the great artery of the continent through which will pulse the trade of these continents.

Electric Eccentricities.

An Ottawa correspondent gives the following account of lightning's doings at the Federal capital on the 4th inst.:

"Shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon a heavy rain shower set in, accompanied by thunder and lightning. For some time the down-pour was exceedingly heavy and the lightning very vivid. About half-past three a terrific thunder-clap was heard and everybody surmised that the electric fluid had struck somewhere in this city. This proved correct. The lightning entered through the window of the fourth class in Central School West, breaking a large pane of glass and striking Miss Maggie Shaw, the teacher, on the feet, first crazing her neck, and knocking her senseless. The electric fluid, which is described as resembling a large ball of fire, then played around the second flat on which the fourth class is situated. Mr. Glashan, Public School Inspector, who was on the flat at the time was prostrated by the shock, and did not recover for some time. A great panic ensued among the scholars, the frightened children making for the door. Mr. J. T. Bowerman, teacher of the fifth class, used his best endeavors to quiet the fears of the scholars, of whom there were about 400 in the building. Miss Shaw in the meantime was carried to Mr. Stewart's residence, across the road, and Drs. H. P. Wright and Corbett were soon attending to her injuries, which proved to be very serious, she having been severely burned from the back of her neck down to her heels. She is, however, reported to be doing well. It was found that the cupola of the school was on fire, and the alarm was at once sounded, but the reel arrived promptly on the scene and extinguished the flames."

A clergyman vouches for the truth of the following: Questioning some children in Sunday-school a few weeks ago, he asked one of them—an intelligent little boy—who was the wickedest man mentioned in the Old Testament. To his surprise a ready answer came: "Moses, sir." "And why Moses?" inquired the clergyman, in amazement. "Cos, sir, he broke all the Ten Commandments at wunst."

"What comes after T?" asked a teacher of a pupil who was learning the alphabet. He received the bewildering reply, "You do—to see Liza."

The best way to shorten sale is to stop advertising. Men and watches don't amount to much when they are run down.

The Great Disappointment.

The report that Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise will not come to the Mainland at all fell like a wet blanket on this community. The feeling of disappointment was universal and deep. Everyone had been counting so much upon seeing amongst us one of the daughters of our beloved Queen, that the disappointment strikes right down to the bottom of the heart and makes a lump rise in the throats which would have shouted such a hearty welcome. But hard as it is upon the whites, this sad disappointment will fall far more severely upon the Indians. These people have heard so much all their lives about their "great mother," and they were so overjoyed at the prospect of actually seeing her illustrious "pawpoose." They were making such preparations, too, for the races, &c. If all the thousands who were expected should come, the occasion will be one of keen disappointment and even dissatisfaction to think that their Queen's daughter should have come all the long way to within five or six hours' easy steam and not afford them an opportunity of extending to her such a hearty reception as they were preparing to give. It will be a great disappointment to all. We cannot help feeling it will be a great mistake. Let us hope the health of Her Royal Highness may be such as to enable her to accompany her noble husband here after all.

The Vice-Regal Party.

The departure from San Francisco having been delayed till 5 p.m. on Saturday, and foggy weather having been encountered on the way up, the Comus did not reach Esquimalt till 7 p.m. on Tuesday evening. The Vice-Regal party landed at 11 o'clock on Wednesday and proceeded to Victoria, followed by a large procession. On arriving at the precincts of the city they were met by the Mayor and Council, and the procession proceeded through the city to Government House, where the Princess was received by six young ladies, and retired within the precincts of "Cary Castle." The Marquis of Lorne proceeded to inspect the militia and the fire brigade, and was quite chatty and affable with those with whom he came in contact. The arches and other decorations in the city were beautiful and everything passed off nicely—the Marquis and the Princess appearing to enjoy the splendid ovation, taking with much good-humor the shower of bouquets from the hands of several hundred schoolgirls, playfully dodging the floral offerings with their heads. The illustrious couple cannot but feel gratified with their reception at the capital of the Pacific Province, and Victoria may fairly be congratulated upon the very successful effort fittingly to receive the Governor-General and the daughter of our beloved Queen—God bless her!

The Addresses.

Upon landing at Esquimalt the Lieutenant-Governor read and presented a very sensible address to His Excellency the Governor-General, to which His Excellency returned a brief and business-like reply, in which he deftly expressed the hope that the Princess might enjoy a quiet stay and needed rest. On arriving at the "city gate," the Mayor delivered a very appropriate welcome to Victoria. Upon reaching the main arch, at the corner of Government and Yates streets, the Mayor read and presented the corporation address. We regret not to be able to speak of this address in the same terms as we have of the others. It is stated that the first copy sent to His Excellency contained what may be called an anti-Chinese clause, and His Excellency rebuked the indiscretion by requesting its elimination. The document still contains matter that were better omitted—such, for instance, as this—"We are convinced that the beautiful harbor of Esquimalt will commend itself to your Excellency as being the proper terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway." One wonders that they did not manage to introduce something about "the Carnarvon Terms or Separation"! To this address His Excellency returned a somewhat guarded reply, concluding as follows:—"In thanking you for your welcome, let me assure you that while I am with you it will be my pleasure as well as my duty to gather from your public men the results of their experience, and to listen to the representation of your wishes."

Egypt.

As the last news published in these columns must have prepared the reader to expect, the British are complete masters of the situation, and, either by capture or capitulation, most of the military points are in their possession. The cause of Arabi Pasha appears to have completely collapsed with the capture of Tel-el-Keber. It is even stated that General Wolseley is already in possession of the names of the persons answerable for the rebellion, and that they are likely soon to be in custody. Arabi Pasha was taken before the Khedive on Saturday, and his demeanor is described as grovelling and servile to loathsomeness. He swore that he was not aware that he was fighting against the Khedive—feigning unbounded loyalty. During the interview the Khedive remained standing, with an expression of scorn. When Arabi ceased speaking, the Khedive, with a disdainful wave of the hand, ordered the removal of the cringing hound. Now that Britain "holds the fort," What shall we do with it? is the question she is asking herself. Many are the schemes. The London Spectator, one of the most far-seeing amongst English journals, advocates transfer of the Porte's sovereignty to Britain, or, as an alternative, the wardenship of the Suez canal, with the absolute right to garrison Port Said, Ismailia and Suez. But the official organ at St. Petersburg claims that Russia shall have a say in the matter, and emphatically declares that "To allow England to settle the Egyptian question without consulting the other powers will not be thought of." Perhaps not. But who is going to interfere? What shall be done with them? The Times says, if allowed to live at all, Arabi Pasha and his immediate followers must be put once for all out of the way of doing further harm. They cannot, it declares, be permitted to retire to Constantinople to become the center of impalpable intrigues. The Times is undoubtedly right, and it is to be hoped no mawkish pusillanimity will be manifested in the disposition of these scoundrels, who do not appear even to possess the recommendation of bravery in their bloody work. Remember Alexandria!

The Yale Election.

The nomination takes place on the 29th inst. and polling on the 13th proximo. Yesterday a convention was held at Kamloops, the object of which was to secure the concentration of the Opposition vote upon one candidate, so as to avoid the splitting up of the vote and possibly allowing the Government tool (Mr. Humphreys) to slip in. Two of the candidates have already withdrawn, and it is believed the contest will be narrowed down to two candidates, probably Mr. Armytage, of Nicola, and Mr. Humphreys. Should that expectation be realized, there can be no manner of doubt about the issue. Mr. Armytage will be elected by two or three to one; and an excellent member he will make. Intelligent, well educated, honorable, gentlemanly, entirely above all that low trickery by which representatives have so often been wheedled into line in the past, he will be a valuable acquisition to the ranks of the Opposition.

Mr. T. B. Humphreys passed down yesterday for a fresh supply of ammunition for the election campaign. He fell from his horse coming down to Yale, damaging his face somewhat. "Tom's" chances of election are nil. The electors don't believe in the sincerity of his somewhat coarse denunciations of the present Government; and, anyhow, they are not inclined to pick up a carpet-bagger from the Island, when they have amongst themselves men every way better qualified for the position, men who possess their confidence and respect.

KIDNEY COMPLAINT.—The secretion from the Kidneys is often loaded with foreign and poisonous matter, a thick brickdust-like sediment, or a mucous collection forms. The Kidneys are often inflamed and congested, causing pain and weakness in the back and many distressing symptoms. Diabetis, Brights Disease, Dropsy, and all Urinary Complaints are promptly cured by that grand combination of diuretics, alterative tonic, &c., Burdock Blood Bitters.

A CARD OF THANKS.

"New West., B. C., Sept., 1882.

"We, the undersigned traders and residents, beg to call your attention to the fact that there are more retail liquor licenses on Columbia street than the trade and requirements call for, and that no new licence should be granted until it is shown to the satisfaction of the Board the necessity of granting any more.

A. M. Herring,	T. Walsh,
J. E. Insley,	W. Rae,
C. G. Major,	J. Stewart,
T. R. Pearson,	J. Cash,
E. Brown,	J. Kennedy,
R. Crossman,	J. E. Lord."

The above is a copy of a petition got up and carried round by Mr. E. Brown for signature. Mr. E. Brown now holds two licenses for saloons on Columbia street. The one granted at the last sitting of the Board was obtained without any opposition. My surprise is that a man in his position should stoop so low, and more so that he was able to succeed in dragging 10 others with him, it being so transparent to any observant mind that he did it not in the interests of temperance, morality or of the city at large. My application for a license for my brick building was not for a saloon, which Mr. Brown and many others very well knew, but to enable a gentleman with a family and considerable means, from Victoria, to engage in a wholesale grocery, provision and liquor business; and as there is no special license for the above-named business provided by law the necessity of applying for a common retail license will be apparent.

The result of the petition and the action of the Board has been to drive away one of which we need so many—a gentleman with a family and means, and preventing even the nucleus of a large wholesale establishment in our midst.

I sincerely tender my thanks to the many who, seeing the personal motive which prompted the petition, refused to sign it when asked to do so.

To the Electors of Yale-Kootenay District.

GENTLEMEN:—I TAKE THIS mode of expressing my thanks for the honor you have once more conferred by returning me with an immense majority to represent you in the Dominion Parliament.

Four times have I contested your district; but never before have I been returned by so large a proportion of the vote. This I deem especially gratifying, for I consider it the means taken by you to show your appreciation of my services. I sincerely hope that the course I may pursue during the next term will be such as to meet with your approbation, and that you will have no cause to think I have relaxed my efforts in the least to promote the various interests of the district.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,

It may possibly interest some of our lady readers to know that upon the occasion of her visit to Toronto, just before leaving Canada for Columbia, "H. R. H. the Princess Louise was attired in a polka dot print, with hat and parasol to match."

The Colonist says Robert Dunsmuir, Esq., M. P. P., with characteristic liberality, has chartered the steamer Wilson G. Hunt and placed that vessel and his own fine steamer, the Alexander, at the disposal of the Governor-General and Princess Louise.

"COLUMBIA'S WELCOME." — This is the name of a new chorus, respectfully dedicated by the composer, Mr. J. J. Austin, to His Excellency the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise.

THE COMING.—The news is that His Excellency the Governor-General will come here on the 29th or 30th inst. and that it is feared the condition of the health of H. R. H. the Princess Louise is such as to prevent her accompanying him!

LOSS OF H. M. S. PHŒNIX.—A St. John, N. B., despatch of Saturday says:—Her Majesty's ship Phœnix is ashore at East Point, Prince Edward Island. She is bulged. The crew is safe and quartered at a neighboring lobster factory. The ship is supposed to be a total wreck.

HONOR TO THE ARMY.—The London correspondent of the New York Tribune says:—"The country is deeply grateful and will not withhold its rewards from the army. Already we hear of a subscription for a sword of honor for Wolseley, and there are few who do not admit he has well earned a peerage."

UNION SERVICE.—The Methodists and Presbyterians of this city will worship together to-morrow, in St. Andrews' Church at 11 a.m. and in the Mary-Street Methodist Church at 7 p.m. There will, consequently, be no service in the Methodist Church in the morning nor in the Presbyterian in the evening. *

RECEPTION ACCIDENT. — Only one accident occurred in connection with the Victoria reception, and even that was not on the red-letter day. On Tuesday night a runaway horse came tearing through a crowd collected to see the Chinese arch illuminated. Strange to say, only one man was hurt, and he a Chinaman. He died from the injuries next day.

THE CHINESE QUESTION AT HOME. — A London special of the 10th inst. says:—"Last week's meeting of the Chinese merchants, when they determined to invite Chinese labor to England, aroused indignation among certain organizations of the working classes. If the Chinese are brought to the English labor market, there will certainly be serious trouble."

"MY LITTLE DARLING," INDEED!—An Ottawa exchange of the 5th inst. says:—"The following note was left with a perambulator containing a six-months' old baby at the door of a lady's residence on the Richmond Road to-day:—'Mrs.———, extend your motherly love to my little darling. His parents you may never know. $80 a year will be sent to you by mail—$40 every six months he is with you. He is a good little fellow, and may God look down in pity and bless him and you. George was born March 21.'"

RETURNING VIA PORTLAND. — The Oregonian says:—"Official information has been received that the Governor-General of Canada, the Princess Louise and party will return to San Francisco via Portland, and leave by the Queen of the Pacific October 3rd. The exact date of their arrival has not been fixed, but it is expected that they will reach Portland about the first of October, and go to the Cascades by special boat on the 2nd. The British societies will prepare for their reception, and it is probable that the city government will join to entertain them."

COMMERCIAL ORGANIZATION. — The adjourned meeting for the purpose of completing the organization of the Early Closing Association and inaugurating a Board of Trade took place on Thursday night; but on account of the Reception Committee meeting and other circumstances, it was deemed advisable to postpone action until a fuller attendance could be secured, and the meeting was accordingly adjourned till next Wednesday evening.

DOMESTIC GRAPES.—We have to acknowledge the receipt of a basket of very fine grapes of the large blue variety from Mr. W. H. Rowling, of Truro Farm, North Arm. They are in beautiful clusters weighing as much as 12 ounces each, and are certainly not one whit inferior to the best California grapes in appearance, while they are, to our taste, superior in flavor. Mr. Rowling grows them in the open air. This speaks well for our climate.

BRITONS VICTORIOUS.—The Thames crew beat the Hillsdales (Americans) on the 16th. The Times, referring to it, remarks:—"Some English sportsmen and athletes have been shaken lately by a series of defeats. Yesterday was a bright day and brought a signal National credit. The English gained three distinct successes yesterday, viz.: The boat race with the Hillsdales, the Creedmoor rifle match, and the cricket match with the Australians at Manchester.

A WICKED HOAX.—On Saturday morning the Captain of the Comus, lying in San Francisco harbor, received a note stating that the steamer would be blown up by a torpedo immediately on the arrival on board of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise. The Captain was very much alarmed, and at once communicated the information to the U. S. naval authorities there, who instituted the most rigid scrutiny, escorting the party on board and conveying them out. The affair caused no little excitement, but doubtless was nothing more than a wicked and senseless hoax.

TERRIBLE MARINE ACCIDENT. — A Collingwood dispatch of the 17th inst. announces the total loss in Lake Huron of the steamer Asia with about one hundred persons on board, the sole survivors being D. A. Tinkes and Christie Ann Morrison. About 11 a.m. on the 14 the steamer struck a rock, and, falling helplessly into the trough of the sea, she rolled heavily for about twenty minutes, when she foundered and went down with her engines working! Quite a number, including the Captain, took to the small boats, but all finally perished excepting the two above-mentioned.

DISESTABLISHMENT. — The question of the disestablishment of the Church of Scotland is likely soon to come up for discussion in the English House of Commons. Mr. Peddie, the member for Kilmarnock, has given notice that after the present recess, he will move the following resolution:—"That this House is of opinion that the maintenance of the Church establishment in Scotland is indefensible on public grounds, that in the ecclesiastical circumstances of the country it is eminently unjust, and that a measure for the disestablishment and disendowment of the Church of Scotland should be passed at an early period."

Their Movements.

The Standard says:—"We can state on good authority that the duration of His Excellency's visit will not exceed a fortnight and that, probably, on the 3rd proximo His Excellency will return to California via Portland. C. R. Prescott, Esq., and Capt. Ainsworth of the O. R. & N. Co., arrived here yesterday from Tacoma on board the steamer North Pacific and will, we understand, place the steamer Queen of the Pacific at the disposal of His Excellency and H. R. H. Princess Louise. The Custom House authorities at Port Townsend have received official notification that His Excellency and suit will, it is expected, reach there on October 3rd and the officers have been instructed to admit His Excellency's baggage free of duty and to pass it without examination." The Standard's information would appear to be erroneous.

The Road and the Mill.

One of the gentlemen who took a run up the Fraser upon the occasion of the marriage of Mr. Chandler and Miss Irving, wrote an account of his trip to the San Francisco Chronicle. We make the following extracts:

"Here (at New Westminster) the Captain made arrangements for the party to be taken over to Burrard Inlet, nine miles distant, to see a large sawmill in operation. The drive thither was highly enjoyable, the scenery along the way being rare and beautiful. The road nearly all the way winds through country which impresses one as a magnified New England scene. Huge bra es, some of them eight feet in height, ferns of all kinds; beautiful little ponds overhung with trees and shrubs, with pond lilies floating on their surfaces; little brooks dashing over pebbly bottoms; huge granite bowlders, monstrous pine trees reaching skywards for more than two hundred feet; maple, birch and cottonwood trees all hem in the road. Whortleberries, blackberries, salmonberries, and thimbleberries grow along the way in large quantities. Burrard Inlet is an arm of the sea making out of the Strait of Georgia, forming a fine harbor, in which the largest vessel floats.

A GREAT SAWMILL.

The Moodyville mill is turning out from 75,000 to 100,000 feet of lumber every day. The engine used is of 500-horse power. Eleven boilers are used and the furnaces are fed with sawdust. Logs 112 feet in length can be sawed in the mill, and much lumber is sawed 100 feet long by 26 inches wide and 26 inches in thickness. Besides the two circular saws in use there is a gang saw, carrying twenty-five blades, going all the time, making twenty-six boards at a time. Near the mill is a huge bonfire of at least 1,000 square feet, which is always kept roaring with the refuse lumber, consisting of ends and outsides. One of our party, who was from Southern California, pronounced most of this refuse to be worth $440 per carload at his place to make into orange boxes."

Communications.

Last Time of Asking.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—The crossing on Richard street, at its junction with Dallas street has been left all this season without any approaches from the plankway on either side, and the consequence is that the pedestrian comes suddenly down some two feet on the one side and up two feet on the other—at great inconvenience in day time and at the risk of life and limb in the darkness.

It is hardly necessary for me to say that there is a great deal of traffic on this road, even if it is in that part of the city sneeringly designated as "only a swamp."

For months I have been urging the Council to provide a crossing at this point, the cost of which would not exceed $10; but up to the present I have met with nothing but shuffling.

I now wish to ask the Council once for all through the columns of your paper whether they cannot spare that small amount from a revenue of some ten thousand dollars for so necessary a purpose? Or do they require every dollar for works, some of which are of more than doubtful utility, nearer their own doors?

JOHN HENDRY.

A Suggestion.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—I see by your report of Council proceedings in Wednesday's paper that the Police Magistrate has accepted a retainer to harass the City Council by watching for flaws in its bylaws, procedure, &c.

It seems to me something of an anomaly for a man to be retained on both sides—paid by the Council to uphold and enforce its laws, and paid by others to "barst up" both the Council and its laws; and as the Council cannot control the Police Magistrate in his private business, I would suggest that they straighten matters by handing the gentleman his resignation—or, in plain words, that it is about time for them to "fire him out." RATEPAYER.

The Attack on Tel el Kebir.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The Telegram has the following special from Tel el Kebir: The Egyptian Nego troops crossed bayonets with the Highlanders and Irish regiments on Wednesday. The accuracy with which the Highland brigade came into fire after the 70-mile march on a moonless night in the soft desert sand, guided only by the stars, and stormed the entrenchments and redoubts on Wednesday, has never been surpassed in history. According to correspondents of the Daily Chronicle Arabi was seen riding via the village of Deibays from the disaster at Tel el Kebir, accompanied by only two horsemen. The fugitive rebel leader, as he hastened past, waved his sword with blood, appealing to the natives with a cry "Egypt is ruined." They, however, paid no heed to him. Of the Egyptian loss in Wednesday's engagement no computation approaching accuracy has yet been made by them. It cannot be short of 2,000 to 3,000. In several places the bodies of Egyptians were lying in heaps of 30 to 50 and 18 lay in dense rows where the 42nd getting in flank enfiladed Arabi's lines, while they were holding the position against the attack in front. The dead extended for over a mile behind the position as our pursuing troops fired after the mass of fugitives. Altogether the field Tel el Kebir presents a terrible, ghastly sight. Sufficient tinned provisions for 20,000 men for one month were captured, and 50 guns have fallen into the hands of the British chief of the commissariat. The prisoners state that rations were issued out the day before the battle for 15,000 regular troops and 7,000 irregulars.

Surrey Council.

Council met pursuant to adjournment, Sept. 16. Present—The Reeve, and Councillors Brown, Boothroyd, Stewart, and Armstrong.

H. Walford's communication was laid over.

J. Oliver's bill was ordered paid.

Council resolved into a Court of Revision.

A number of complaints were heard and dismissed.

On resuming, Councillors Armstrong and Stewart were instructed to inspect the old telegraph trail from Brown's Landing to Haigh's cannery, and furnish specifications and call for tenders for making a bridle path thereon.

The Revenue Bylaw was read a third time and passed.

A resolution was passed requesting the Representatives for the District to urge the Government to place a portion of the $1,000 appropriated for the trunk road last session at the disposal of the Council for much-needed repairs on the said road.

Council adjourned to meet again on October 7th, at 9 a. m.

AN ECCENTRIC WILL.—The following clause was found in the will of a Yorkshire rector:—"Seeing that my daughter Anne has not availed herself of my advice touching the objectionable practice of going about with her arms bare up to the elbows, my will is that should she continue after my death in this violation of the modesty of her sex, all the goods, chattels, money, lands and all other things that I have devised to her for the maintenance of her future life shall pass to the eldest son of my sister Caroline."

Cardinal Newman in his earlier days was a fine performer on the violin, and now, at the age of 81, he still takes delight in drawing sweet strains of music from the instrument that has been his companion for more than threescore years. He also still retains his habit of early rising.

An Extraordinary Offer.

There are a number of persons out of employment in every country—yet energetic men willing to work do not need to be. Those willing to work can make from $100 to $500 a month clear, working for us in a pleasant and permanent business. The amount our agents make varies; some make as high as $500 a month while others as low as $100, all depending on the energy of the agent. We have an article of great merit. It should be sold to every House-owner, and pays over 100 per cent. profit. Each sale is from $3.50 to $10.00. One agent in Pennsylvania sold 32 in two days, and cleared $64.00. An agent in New York made $45.00 in one day. Any man with energy enough to work a full day, and will do this during the year can make from $2,000 to $6,000 a year. We only want one man in each county, and to him will give the exclusive sale as long as he continues to work faithfully for us. There is no competition, and nothing like our invention made. Parties having from $200 to $1,000 to invest, can obtain a General Agency for ten counties or a state. Any one can make an investment of from $25 to $1,000 without the least risk of loss, as our Circulars will show that those investing $25 can after a 30 days' trial return the goods unsold to us and get their money back, if they do not clear at least $100. They show that a General Agent who will take ten counties and invest $216.00 can after a trial of 90 days return all goods unsold to us, and have money returned to them if they fail to clear at least $750 in that time. There are many persons having money to invest, who could not give the business personal attention—such can employ sub-agents without leaving home—making a large amount yearly out of a very small investment. We are not paying salaries, but want men willing to work and obtain as their pay the profits of their energy. Men not willing to work on our terms will not work on any. Those meaning business will receive our large descriptive circular and extraordinary offer by enclosing a three-cent stamp, with their address. The first to comply with our terms will secure the county or counties they may wish to work.

Sir Bernard Burke, who knows all about such matters, says in his new book, called "Reminiscences, Ancestral, Anecdotal, and Historic," that the children of Queen Victoria have no surname. His words are:—"I feel persuaded that the Royal House of Saxe-Coburg—ubicis ellia regibus—has no surname. When the adoption of surnames became general, the ancestors of that illustrious race were kings, and needed no other designation than the Christian names added to the Royal title."

DYSPEPSIA is the most common of all diseases, and under ordinary drug treatment the most difficult to cure, it is a chronic weakness of the stomach with indigestion. The sensitive mucous membrane coating the stomach becomes irritated, and nearly all that enters the stomach continues to add fuel to the fire. Heartburn and Sour Eructions, Belching of Wind, Nausea, Headache, Variable Appetite, Costive Bowels, etc., are its prominent symptoms. Burdock Blood Bitters is a positive cure for this miserable disease.

HOW IT WORKS.—The purifying and healing properties of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry impart a healthy tone to the diseased mucous surfaces of the Stomach and Bowels. Its cooling, soothing properties counteract pain, its antiseptic properties correct canker and foul humor, and its tonic astringent nature corrects all exhaustive discharges—such as Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, and Summer Complaints generally.

A WORD OF CAUTION.—Beware of Opiates and powerful astringent drugs in the treatment of Bowel Complaints, they may lull the pain and check Diarrhœa, etc., but are liable to produce inflammation. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is guaranteed safe and reliable, even for Infants, and is a specific for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Colic, Acute or Chronic Diarrhœa and Summer Complaints generally.

Robert A. Wilson, Dispensing Chemist, Brockville, says under date of June 5th, '82, "I have not the slightest hesitation in saying that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has given my customers more satisfaction than any medicine in my store for the cure of Summer Complaints, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Pain in the Stomach, Sea Sickness, Piles, etc., you can use my name, etc."

J. R. Bond, Druggist, &c., Schomberg, writes, "I have sold medicines for over twenty years, and no medicine could give better satisfaction than your Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry." This medicine is the old reliable cure for Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, and all Summer Complaints.

Caution.

We beg to call the attention of the trade and the public to the well known quality and clearance of finish of our Gold Cases, guaranteed by us to be of eighteen karat Gold, U. S. Mint assay, or of fourteen karat Gold, as may be stamped, and also to our mode of selling the same, charging only for the ACTUAL WEIGHT of the gold used, and not for the base metal comprised in springs, key pipes, filling of crown, etc. To illustrate which a tag accompanies each one of our Gold Cases, which plainly indicates not only the gross weight of the case, but also the Net weight of the gold.

In explanation of the above we desire to say that the old plan of charging for the gross weight of the case, as if it were all gold, worked well enough as long as the manufacturers were content with the amount of brass and steel actually required in its construction; but when the business was degraded into a contest as to who should get the most base metal into the least quantity of gold and call it a Gold case, then the time came when, in the interest of dealers in American Watches, it became necessary to adopt a plan of selling, showing the buyer exactly how much Gold each case contained.

To avoid imposition, purchasers of Waltham Watches will observe that every genuine watch, whether gold or silver, bears our trade mark on both case and movement. Gold cases are stamped "A. W. Co.;" and guarantee certificates accompany them. Silver cases are stamped "A. M. Watch Co., Waltham, Mass., sterling silver," and are accompanied by guarantee certificates, signed R. E. Robbins, treasurer. The name "Waltham" is plainly engraved upon all movements, irrespective of either distinguishing marks. This caution is rendered necessary by reason of the fact that our cases are frequently separated from our movements, and put upon worthless movements of other makers and vice versa, thus affecting injuriously the performance of the watches, and vitiating our guarantee, which is intended to cover only our complete watches wholly made by us. It is necessary also, because it is so notorious as to be a public scandal that there is great fraud in the metal quality of both gold and silver cases as now generally sold. We have demonstrated by frequent assays that many gold and silver cases offered in the market are debased from 10 to 20 per cent. from the quality they assume to be. This is a fraud upon the purchaser, and accounts for the low price at which such cased watches have been sold.—AMERICAN WATCH COMPANY, Waltham, Mass.

Our Story.

KITH AND KIN.

"Sometimes I succeeded in gaining my own ends in opposition to his, but if I did it was my means of subterfuge. I am not going to apologize for that, and I do not feel in the least ashamed of it. I read the other day that that 'superiority of sex' argument must always be unanswerable in the hands of a coal-heaver. Quite true; and the man who chooses to treat a woman to arguments of the coal-heaver kind, transformed from the physical to the moral side, that man deserves to be cheated, and he may expect to be cheated. I cheated my uncle many a time, in order to obtain things which a generous-minded man would never have needed asking for. I am glad that I did it," she added slowly, and with cold and concentrated bitterness, while Aglionby sat silent, astounded, and almost aghast at the psychological problem that was gradually being laid bare to him. "I just explain this to you to show that with me to deceive him when he oppressed me beyond bounds with his tyranny, had grown into a habit, which I first excused to myself, then justified, and presently realized that it required no justification—it was right. I cheated him as a matter of course, when I should have behaved with transparent honesty to any one else.

"Ralph was better able to get his own way openly, but he had recourse to subterfuge many and many a time. Often and often have we combined to circumvent the plans of his father, when they were odious to us. We were very good friends, Ralph and I—brother and sister, you understand; but I cared more for him than he did for me, till the wretched day came on which my uncle took it into his head that we should be married.

"'No sooner said than done,' was his motto. He told Ralph privately what he desired, and bade him propose to me. Ralph did not want me, and said so openly—which I did not know till later. It was the first time he had boldly opposed his father, and when he saw the storm of wrath that ensued, he said, by way of excuse, that he was sure I did not wish it either, and that I would not have him if he asked me.

"Now, mark, when he wanted his own way, my uncle could flatter and dissimulate. It was not that he thought we cared for each other, or that we had struck him as being exceedingly well suited to one another. He wished it, and it should be. He came to me, and said he had reason to think Ralph cared for me—would I marry him if he wished it? And then he painted the future—how he would provide for us, how one day Scar Foot was to be ours, and so on.

"Ralph was agreeable to me; I was tired to death of being treated as a child without will, or an idiot without reason. I foresaw freedom and independence, and an indulgent young husband, instead of a tyrannical old uncle. I said yes, I would consent. This news was communicated to Ralph, who, for all answer, said that he had given way in many things, but that, as to choosing a wife, he could do that for himself, and that he was no going to marry a woman whom he looked upon as his sister, especially when she did not care two straws for him, nor he for her.

"That answer touched my vanity. I never forgave Ralph for saying it. I was furious at having seemed willing to marry him, even though I had been told he wished me to do so, and I hated my uncle, for having put me in such a position, with a hatred I cannot describe. To gratify his own imbecile self-will, and love of power, I was to be made cheap—to profess myself willing to be forced in marriage upon a man who would not have me.

"Still my uncle would not give up his scheme. He threw us together; his favorite plan was to send us out for walks in the summer evenings. I remember it well—we used to go, one on one side of the lane and the other on the other; he used to switch off the tops of the flowers and weeds with his cane, and I used to pout, and pluck the grasses, and pull the seeds off, saying, 'This year, next year—some time, never.' That was to see when I should be married—not to Ralph.

"We became the talk of the neighborhood, of course. People laughed at us. My uncle raged; my cousin was sullenly obstinate, as weak characters are, when they get a fixed idea into their heads. I was miserable and furious, and we were all three unspeakably ridiculous.

"At last an opportunity came, which even my uncle hailed with delight, of sending Ralph away for a few months.

"There was some business in London to be attended to. All would have been well is Ralph had been allowed to go in peace; but his father, with his usual insane spirit of self-assertion, told him, threateningly, that he expected him to come to his senses while he was away, and to return home prepared to obey. It was just a threat—bravado, meant to show that he was the master, which he was not; with all his blustering. Ralph chose to take it in earnest. In London he met Bernarda Long, and the next thing we knew was, that he had married her. He simply sent the news to his father, leaving him to receive it as he chose. I conjecture that your mother's high and resolute character had for the moment inspired him, and rendered him regardles of consequences He suffered for marrying her, but I think he did well to marry her, and I do not believe he ever really repented having done so.

"I need not go into the details of my uncle's rage when he heard the news. You have heard about it; how he vowed to disinherit Ralph, and said he would never own him. He took possession of me in a savage kind of way—not because he really loved me much, or desired to benefit me, but to make me the instrument of his revenge on Ralph. He made my life a burden to me. Men are brutes—that is all I know about them. I had to bear the brunt of his displeasure; I had to listen to all his useless railings and ragings. I hated the Aglionbys, father and son, and nothing will ever make me see that I had done anything to deserve my lot at that time. Two selfish, headstrong men, who, when they could not subdue one another, poured out the vials of their wrath upon a poor woman over whom they had fallen out, and who would have asked nothing better than never to see them or hear of them again.

"My uncle made a will in my favor, and told me he had done so, and never lost an opportunity of impressing upon me that he had done it out of no superfluous goodwill to me, but out of hatred to Ralph. That was soothing to my feelings, as you may suppose. I got to look forward to his death, and to the distant future, as the time of my release and my salvation, and the possession of the money as my just indemnification for what I had gone throug; and I see it still in that light.

"I did not marry immediately after Ralph, I lived at Scar Foot for two long years after that, and went through trouble and humiliation enough, I can tell you. It hardened me. Two years after Ralph's marriage I married Mr. Conisbrough, who was the incumbent of this place, which you know is in the parish of Stannithorth. When you were six years old, your father died. My first child died an infant. Judith, when Ralph died, was a little infant. When the news of your father's death came, it struck my uncle to the ground; but he was not tamed even then. He knew, though, that he had done wrong—he had always known it The news of his son's death came like a revelation to him, I suppose. He thought about it and remembered you. He imagined that if he could get you into his hands he could mold you to his will, and then, after all, an Aglionby, flesh of his flesh, and all that, would have Scar Foot. No sooner planned than he set about executing his scheme. I was nothing; I was a woman. I had been his dependant; he had always felt that he might dispose of me much as if I had been a bale of goods. He had made a will in my favor and in favor of my children; but what did that matter? A will can always be altered while a man is in his right mind, and while he is able to hold a pen and sign his name. His will should be altered. And with the delicate consideration which had always distinguished his treatment of me, I was the fortunate person whom he selected to be the instrument of his purpose. I had the honor of being ordered to go to Irkford, where Ralph had settled, and where your mother and you were then living. He would have gone himself, but he hated your mother so that he would hold no personal interview with her, and it never occurred to him that Marion could resent; that Marion could question his will; she would go and invite another woman to practically step into her place; she would go and use every effort to secure to the child of the man who had scorned her—for Ralph did scorn me—all the advantages which had been promised to her, and which had been earned hardly enough, in all conscience, if they had been ten times as great.

"What a fool he was! What a great, selfish, blundering fool! Men are fools. The great mystery to me is how they, with their consummate stupidity, have yet managed to gain the mastery over us. Brute force again, I suppose, is the only answer to the question. I went to Irkford. I had to take my nurse and baby with me, of course. My commission was to tell your mother that your grandfather was wishful to provide for you as if nothing had ever happened, and, finally, to leave you his estate and property, as he would have done in the natural course of things. The conditions attached to this proposal were, that you were to live with your grandfather eleven months in the year, and one with your mother, and that no direct communication was to pass between your mother and your grandfather. On these conditions she also was to be suitably provided for, and was to be free as air to follow her own course in the future; even to marry again, if she chose to do so.

"You perceive that this proposal was susceptible of being made either openly insulting, or, at any rate, fair and politic, just according to the way in which the messenger delivered it. I was in no mood to make it smooth, or to deliver it pleasantly. When I saw your mother, also, I am bound to say that she received me with a coldness and a haughtiness which were by no means conciliating. Smarting under my wrongs and insults, and indignant at her reception of me, I felt a savage pleasure in delivering the message as rudely and abruptly as possible. I did not for a moment suppose she would refuse my overtures. I told her that Mr. Aglionby, of Scar Foot, wished to have the guardianship of his grandchild, and that he was willing to provide for him on condition that the mother contented herself with seeing him one month in each year, and that she never, under any pretext, sought a personal interview with Mr. Aglionby, or wrote a direct letter to him. All this I told her as if it were a matter of the profoundest indifference to me what course she took, or what became of her and the child.

"You will please understand that I was faithful to the letter of my instructions. I said exactly what my uncle had said, but I said it in a certain way. The effect of it surprised me. Your mother rose up and almost ordered me from her house.

"'Tell him,' she said, 'that I would rather beg my bread and my child's bread through the streets than hand him into the power of a man who can behave as he has done. He ruined his own son; he shall not ruin mine; nor shall he insult me with impunity. And you,' she added, 'how could you, a woman, a mother with a baby at her breast, come and offer such terms to another mother, one who is widowed; one who has nothing but her child to make this life worth a moment's purchase to her?'

"I shrugged my shoulders—how was it likely that she could understand? I took her answer; I came away; I left Irkford. I was not sorry that she had answered me as she had done; it would be a blow to my uncle it would humble his pride. They would both have to humble themselves—the proud man and the proud woman too, if they were ever to come to anything like an understanding. I had been staying at Scar Foot, when I had been sent to Irkford. I returned straight there.
