AN ENJOYABLE HOLIDAY

Our Teachers Give a Glowing Account Of Their Trip to The Old Land

It has become a common occurence during the last few weeks to see familiar acquaintances setting out for the front but it seems quite an event when some of our own people return from "there or thereabouts".

When our teachers arrived home last Monday Hedleyites in general, including the Gazette, pounced on them for a resume of the European situation. Not having the Roosevelt habit, they replied casually that they believed there was some little misunderstanding between the Powers but in evident compliance with Lord Kitchener's plea for reticence they were not prepared to publish interviews on the subject.

About their trips the girls were enthusiastic. The tour which included points of interest for the artist, the educator and the student of history throughout the United Kingdom was handled by the "Hands Across the Sea" association whose perfect organization of the itinery enabled the visitors to see everything most worth while without giving them an unpleasant sense of "doing time."

From London, as a base, journeys were made to Torquay, Stratford, Exeter, Edinburgh, Glasgow and other places, from which centres visits were made to nearby points of interest, including the English and Scotch Lake Country, the mention of which elicited the most glowing accounts from the teachers. Their one lament is, "We couldn't visit Paris!"

Altogether the trip seems to have been a real holiday, genuinely instructive, but happily free from that burden some sense of "administering the uplift", so common to events of the kind.

FAILED TO MATERIALIZE

Films For The Photo Drama Were Held Up at The Customs

The photo drama of Creation which was billed for a four days' show at the Star Theatre under the auspices of the International Bible Students' Association proved rather a disapointment to those who were looking forward to a graphic presentation of Pastor Russel's teachings regarding the origin of the universe and Biblical history in general. The worthy pastor has ideas of his own on everything in the heavens above, the earth beneath and the waters under the earth. His theories are nothing if not original, and the lively anticipation of the local public was evidenced by the full house of the first night of the show. However the audience were generally disappointed by the sketchy, disjointed nature of the pictures.

It seems that the films were ordered from Bellingham to Hedley via Vancouver and Penticton, but through a blunder in the shipping department some were sent by Spokane and Keremeos without invoices and some were sent by Penticton which resulted in those at Keremeos being held up by the customs officers and in such a hopeless mixup generally that only the second film of the series reached us in the time alloted to our town We have referred to this matter at some length because the International Bible Students are trying to present a photo-drama which they believe to be of educative value and for that reason alone they deserve the benefit of an explanation of their failure to show at Hedley.

HEDLEY'S LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

In Spite of Bad Weather Full Programme Was Run Off—Rock Drillings, Baseball and Dance Well Handled by the Respective Committees. Complete Prize List

When Hedley celebrates, sometimes the gods send rain and sometimes they send more. This year they sent more. The history of the valley for the past two months might be written in the words "dust to dust"; the shingles on the woodshed have curled heavenward and the gander has wandered about disconsolate, scanning the copper skies. New records for drought have been established each week. In unguarded moments of optimism the more sanguine among us began to cherish a secret belief that Labor Day might be fine. But the weather fiend rarely fails us. The day broke cloudy. Seven o'clock saw a few skirmishing rain drops. By nine the shower was falling merrily. By noon the sports committe had used up all the staple brands of profanity and were making steady inroads on the fancy varieties in their heroic efforts to carry out the programme in the brief intervals while J. Pluvius was taking water for fresh assaults. However, the sky cleared somewhat in the afternoon and those in charge, improving their opportunities by some slight changes in the order of the programme ran off the everts with a smoothness and despatch that fairly outweathered the weather man.

One genuine source of disapointment was the scanty turnout of our immediate neighbours. The attendance from distant points was about up to par but Princeton and Keremeos were scantily represented Keremeos usually turns out en masse and Princeton can generally be counted on for a contingent strong in numbers and enthusiasm; but this year we missed a good many familiar faces from both towns, owing no doubt to the unfavorable weather conditions which damped the holiday ardor and practically precluded travelling by any other means than the railway.

An extremely pleasing feature of the entire celebration was the general sobriety and orderliness of the celebrants. Here and there a solitary figure might been seen suffering from conflicting emulsions as it were or here and there a trio a trio mixing a little private war medicine; but taken as a whole, it was a sober, good natured, orderly crowd with the rough-neck element conspicuously absent. If an officer is to be judged by the order he keeps rather than by the convictions he secures, then Constable Sproule is to be congratulated.

BASEBALL

This year, owing to the fact that most of the nearby teams were already disbanded, the baseball tournament narrowed down to a "sudden death" game between Oroville and Hedley. The match was billed for the afternoon of the first day but was postponed on account of the rain till the next morning when baseball of a wild guerilla species was waged in the mud. Hedley took the field with Hart and Corrigan on the points and for two innings played air-tight ball till Henderson in a fit of baffled ill temper threw away the ball, allowing Daly to score from third which he had stolen a moment before. After that the local machine commenced to wobble and about the same time the Oroville athletes began to straighten out Hart's slants to all parts of the field. This became a habit and coupled with the errors of the home brews yielded enough runs to cinch the game by a comfortable margin.

Davis and McGuffie represented the "power commission" for Oroville and proved a gifted duo in the arts of deception. At first our boys seemed to be finding Davis nicely, Willet lifting the ball to deep left field for two bases went to third on a sacrifice and scored a moment later on an error by McDuffie. This ended Hedley's run getting. Though the boys got on the paths in nearly every innings, Davis was strong in the pinches and received sterling support from his team mates.

Following is the score by innings.

Hedley		Oroville
Willett	shortstop	Bryan
T. Corrigan	2nd base	Bartell
Henderson	3rd base	Powell
J. Corrigan	left field	Daly
R. Corrigan	catcher	McDuffie
W. Corrigan	right field	Hart
Bolan	1st base	Soling
Hart	pitcher	Davis
Martin	centre field	Wilson

Oroville—0 0 1 1 2 4 2 0 0—10

The game was lost to Hedley through lack of practice and lack of organization. In fact some of our new recruits do not seem to realize that teamwork has ever been invented.

What we want is men who will "cut the grand stand stuff" and play ball.

Roy Corrigan played the game of his life; but Oroville won.

The ball was wet of course; but Oroville won.

Daly would have played with us; but he didn't and Oroville won.

The umpire was rank of course; but Oroville won.

It was "jolly sporting" of us, old top, to play them in the rain; but Oroville won.

While Hart was meditating over the ball; Oroville won.

We wanted that "one, seventy-five" but Oroville won.

ROCK DRILLING

As expected the event that elicited the most genuine enthusiasm was the rock drilling contest into which four teams entered, viz.; Trewhella and Greenlund from Hedley, Hamilton and Bowerman, also of our own town, McEachern Bros. of Olalla, and Carmichael and Anderson, representing Rossland.

Trewhella and Greenlund were first to take the rock and, considering their few opportunities for practice together, made a remarkably good showing. Notwithstanding the hardness of the rock they drove their steel 30¾ inches. Next came the McEacherns cheered by a strong following of old timers who have followed the fortunes of the brothers since they broke into the game years ago. The veterans were evidently a trifle under form as they failed to equal their former record in the same rock. Last year they drove their steel 31 21-32 inches: this year showed exactly 30½. After the doughty Scots came the much touted Rosslanders who proved themselves even superior to their advance notices by giving the greatest exhibition of all round drilling ever seen in this locality. The personnel of the team was not quite the same as last year, when Anderson drilled with Selba to the depth of 34 23-32 inches. This year the new team, consisting of Aderson and Carmicheal, hung up a record that is likely to stand for some time in this vicinity by putting down their drills to the unusual depth of 38½ inches, thus beating the 34¾ inch hole of the Foulds Bros. which represented the best drilling seen in this locality prior to the present exhibition. Anderson and Carmichael are undoubtedly a splendid drilling machine and the way in which they handled themselves was a treat to local drill "fans". The contest came to a somewhat unsatisfactory close by one of those breaks of hard luck that sometimes beats the best of drillers. Hamilton and Bowerman had run their bits down nicely to the depth of about 21 inches when the steel broke. Too experienced rock men not to know that this accident effectually put them out of the running, they, nevertheless, stuck gamely to their work and put down what was under the circumstances, a very creditable hole of 29½ inches.

Taken as a whole the drilling contest was the bright and shining feature of our sports.

THE BALL

The very pleasant and splendidly conducted ball on the evening of the first day came as a tangible reminder of our infant enterprise—the Hedley Brass Band, under whose auspices the dance was held. As usual the hall was appropriately draped with flags and bunting, a new and rather unique feature being an attractive decorative scheme worked out with the band instruments.

While not so large as on some former occasions, the ball was one of the most enjoyable of the Labor Days hops held up at the big ball. Conditions which were so unfavorable during the day proved almost ideal for dancing, the hall being pleasantly cool throughout the entire evening. The dancing began about nine o'clock and continued till about three, with a brief intermission for supper which was served at the Grand Union Hotel. The music was furnished by the Hedley Band Orchestra, under the leadership of Prof. Glaze.

THE BOXING CONTEST

While the band boys and their associates were treading the mazes of the languid waltz, lovers of the fistic science were watching Barney Mullin of Spokane and Frank Byrnes of Winnipeg in the squared circle exchanging amenities with eight ounce gloves.

CAUGHT NAPPING

As the German army sweeps on toward Paris, we hear it said in some quarters that the allies were caught shockingly unprepared. There are just two objections to this contention. In the strictest sense of the term it is not true; and even if it were, the remedy offered by the critics is worse than the disease itself.

Examined point by point the situation is briefly this. As far back as 1839 the neutrality of Belgium was guarranteed by all the powers immediately concerned. That scrap of paper has stood the wear and tear of European politics for seventy-five years and was to be relied on if any treaty on earth is reliable. Now the written contract is the sheet anchor of all business, whether between individuals or nations. The man who signs a written agreement and then treats the other party thereto as though no such covenant existed not only defeats the very object of the contract which was to place them in a position of honorable compromise, but stirs in the breast of all and sundry a latent telling of resentment and a well grounded suspicion of his own good intentions. If it is more contemptible to deceive than be deceived, if it is better policy in the long run to be genuinely honest than to be shrewdly unfaithful, then the allies were justfiied in regarding Germany's intentions as honorable and shaping their plans accordingly. Grant once that they were reasonably justified in relying on Germany to respect her solemn pledges, and it immediately follows that their preparations were perfectly adequate. The three members of the Triple Entente never made any pretence of being individually equal to Germany in all branches of the service; had they attempted that, they would have bled themselves white and perished in the atempt. Instead, each ally emphasized the arm of the service which would be of most use to her and for which she was best adapted, each thus becoming complementary to the other. France fortified her frontiers. Russia organized an army. Britain furnished the fleet.

And in the specific department where each ally professed to be prepared their efficiency has fairly outstripped rivalry.

For a time Germany has confounded the plans of the allies by the most cynical piece of treachery in the annals of modern history, and has thereby lost her moral standing in the civilized world. In taking Liege, Brussels and Louvain she has lost Washington, Tokio and Rome. For every thousand enemies killed she has slain a million friends. Now which shall we esteem the least?

The very fact that the Germans are adopting their present tactics is an outstanding proof that they dare not consider the allies their equals in a fair fight. After Mons and Amien no sane man can question the calibre the morale of the British troops, but the critic replies that our organization is slow and faulty compared with the German. Britain might have had just such a machine had she been willing for twenty years to endure the Prussian system. Which of us would pay that price for a few initial victories?

The critic is ever with us. Political hindsight is the commonest malady in the world today, but the fact remains that, given certain conditions on which they were entitled to rely, the allies were adequately prepared. By treachery Germany has gained a momentary advantage, and in spite of initial success, by that act of treachery has she sealed her ultimate doom.

THE GRAND ANACHRONISM

It is an ill-wind that blows nobody good: though the tinsel of European civilization has been pretty well torn off by the blood lust of the combatants, though the events of the past month form the most scathing of all criticisms of modern Christianity, yet even now gleams of new and better times begin to pierce through the welter of carnage and rapine which almost staggers imagination.

The rumor persists that a parliament of the Poles is to be shortly convoked at Warsaw. Whether this be true or not, Russia has officially promised the Polish population political autonomy—practically Home Rule for Poland. We have been prone to look upon Russia as a backward nation scarce worthy of the European sisterhood and regard Germany as the very typication of the modern spirit. Now we stand confounded to have the tables turned. We have long been blinded by the flash and glitter of Germany's achievements; we have long taken her at her own valuation and we find her at last the very incarnate spirit of medievalism come down to dwell among men. It is instructive but not surprising to find Turkey alone in sympathy with Germany and Austria. Why should not the land of the morganatic marriage and the "mailed fist" itssif allied with the land where women is a chattel and life is cheap? Why should not the course fibred brutality of the German Ulhan be drawn to its Moslem counpart? Why should not the believers in the divine right of Mohammed claim kindred with those who believe in the divine right of William II?

We do not claim to be a prophet or the son of a prophet, but it appears to us that Germany's defeat will mean the establishment of a German republic, and the elimination of William II, and all he stands for. Such things as divine right and the mailed fist are anachronisms, and an insult to the intelligence to the twentieth century mind. William is the Grand Anachronism and must be eliminated. Defeat for Germany in this war means her ultimate salvation and freedom. She will be the greatest gainer by the defeat, but not the only one. The entire social and political fabric of Europe will be altered, not in a month or a year but in the next decade, and as a direct result of the presrnt conflict. Thought will run in new channels; total disarmament will become a real issue instead of a whimsical dream; and the socialist will begin to speak with authority not because he can create a new Heaven and a new Earth after his own image, as he so fondly expects, but because in the past he has been one of the few sincere apostles of peace.

Better than Ringing Door-bells

A PIANO manufacturer recently made a house-to-house canvass. He's one of those men with an absurd fear of the "waste-circulation" bugaboo—cannot get away from the haunting thought that only 10 out of every 100 readers of a newspaper may be possible buyers of his goods.

So he refused to advertise, and went a-canvassing—inviting people to come to his piano recitals. Then he wondered why they didn't come.

This is why:

He wasn't reaching the people.

His canvassers rang every door-bell in town. They talked to some one in every house.

But one in every household isn't enough—particularly if it doesn't happen to be the right person. And, as a rule, it wasn't the right person—it was a servant, or a child. The woman of the house was seldom seen; the man of the house, never.

Now, if the piano maker had placed an ad. in the newspaper, it would have reached thousands, where the canvassers could reach only hundreds.

And even though only 10 per cent. of the readers are actual piano buyers, this does not mean that the advertising read by the other 90 per cent. is wasted. Advertising talks, not only to the prospective buyer, but also to his wife, his grown-up sons and daughters, his mother—even his mother-in-law. Their coaxing will help to convince the head of the house—and pretty soon there'll be a piano in that home.

This and dozens of similar cases which might be cited to show that "waste circulation" is an empty bugaboo, and should deter no one.

Take the motor truck. It can be sold only to large firms Yet a motor truck manufacturer is successfully Advertising in daily papers. He realizes that he must reach, not alone the managers of the concerns that require trucks, but also their directors, their foremen, their head machinists, etc. It is found in actual practice that this Advertising radiates in a thousand directions, and again converges most astonishingly to influence the house that has made up its mind that horse-trucking is too costly and inefficient.

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any recognized Canadian advertising agency, or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503 Lumsden Bldg., Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write if interested.

ROLLS FOR RIFLES

Italy may not have declared war yet but there is a movement among King Victor's subjects abroad. Lucci di Felice a local Italian was in town setting his house in order with a view to returning to the colors. Lucci is not a fluent conversatsionalist it was difficult to learn whether the summons was official or not: but the fact of his going together with the news that Italians farther up the valley have received similar calls seems to indicate that Italy is quietly preparing for business.

For years we have read Lowery's Ledge more or less amusement—mostly more,—wondered what sort of personage the editor was and rather wished to see him. The Colonel is an institution in B. C. as Bob Edwards is in Alberta and when a man becomes an institution such conjectures are not indelicate but perfectly pardonable. This week our desires were gratified when the Colonel's very self drifted into the office, and spent the afternoon with us, chatting over B. C. in the old days and every other subject from skirt dances to homiletics. The Colonel was heading for Princeton where he is interested in the Similkameen Star.

Don't Know They Have Hppendicitis

Many Hedley people have chronic appendicitis (which is not very painful) and think it is just bowel or stomach trouble. Some have doctored for years for gas on the stomach, sour stomach or constipation and F. M. Gillespie, druggist, states that if they will try simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler-i-ka, the German appendicitis remedy, they will be surprised at the QUICK benefit. A SINGLE DOSE stop these troubles INSTANTLY.

Town and Lower Valley.

Mrs. Walter Frith and daughter are spending a few days with friends in Penticton.

A fine big barn is been built on the Mountain Meadow ranch. W. Bradley is in charge of construction.

J. R. Brown, Indian Agent, Summerland, B. C., passed through town on his way to Hedley's Labor Day celebration.

Robert Hogg and Ben Nickle walked in fourteen miles from the Ashnola road camp on Monday returning the same day. Some hike!

Mr. F. Irwin, of the Bank of Commerce, Phoenix, was a visitor to the local branch here on the 5th. He was on his way to relieve at Kelowna.

A shooting party consisting of six local gentlemen brought in ten brace of grouse after a strenuous days hunting last Sundoy. Melville Miller had the most grouse to his credit at the end of the day.

As well as the twenty-five thousand cases of salmon given by our provincial government to the war fund, they will also send out many thousand barrels of apples to the soldiers at the front.

The man who has a thing to sell,
And goes and whispers down a well,
Is not so apt to collect the dollars,
As he who climbs a tree and hollers.
Don't forget that Ezra Mills has a full line of hardware.

Horses wanted from 15-16 hands, weight 1000-1400 pounds of 5 to 8 years, must be broken to saddle or harness and sound. Send full description, including colour, brand and lowest price to Dr. W. Thomson, Box 9, Keremeos, B. C. 34-4

Mr. Gordon Dinning arrived from Kelowna on Monday, the 7th, to relieve the manager, Mr. Carmichael, of the Bank of Commerce here, who is about to take his furlough of two or three weeks.

We have word through Mrs. Schilstra that her sister Mrs. McLennan has been taken very ill in Oklahoma. Mrs. McLennan has many friends here who are very anxious to learn of her recovery. Dr. and Mrs. Schilstra will hasten to her bedside if there is a change for the worse.

Mr. George Herald of Winnipeg, and his friend Mr. "Dink" Fowler of the same town after spending a pleasant vacation here, as the guests of Mr. and Mr. J. A. Brown left Thursday evening for Vancouver where they hope to spend a few days before returning home in Winnipeg.

Mr. T. A. House, superintendent of construction for the Dominion Government Telephone and Telegraph system was in town Friday the 4th. He will shortly commence construction on the new trunk lines to Oroville and Bridesville. This when completed will be of great benefit to those in the Similkameen, as we will be in direct communication with Midway, Bridesville, Oroville, Spokane and many more points.

OKANAGAN FALLS

Miss M. Down has taken the school at Clinton, B. C. and Miss E. Byron is now in charge of the local school.

Mrs. A. T. Bassett arrived home on Sunday from New York state, and reports that the drought has been as bad there this summer as it has been here.

Okanagan Falls will be well represented at the front. George Maland, Malcolm Skae, Warwick Arnott, and J. Harrison have joined the colors and will shortly leave for the seat of war.

Exceptionally large run of salmon this year in the Okanaganagan River. The people seem to think it is the Leipzic on the Pacific, that has driven them so far in land.

A. A. Hamilton, manager for the Okanagan Falls Land Company, has raised a record crop of oats for this part of the valley, taking off a hundred tons off one hundred and fifteen acres.

A stranger in the land might have thought their was a small war going on here the first few days of the month. The large amount of game in the district this year has brought many sportsman in. We have not been able to find out the number of birds missed.

LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

ringside issued instructions to the men that the contest was to be regarded merely as a sparring match and the knockout route must be avoided. The result was ten rounds of fast open boxing with clean breaks and plenty of mixing—a bout such as the fight fan likes to witness. To the spectators it appeared that Byrnes had his man slightly shaded on points but his blows seemed to lack force while Mullin's haymakers usually took effect when they landed. After ten rounds under Queensbury rules, the referee reached a popular decision in giving the men a draw.

A four round preliminary was staged between two local boys, Bob Robertson and Blair Mills. As it was a friendly bout, the boys did not entend themselves to any great extent: but they furnished a nice little curtain raiser to the main event.

GENERAL JOTTINGS

Rossland people are considerably excercised over the persistent report that the G. N. R. officials contemplate taking off the Sunday train between Rossland and Marcus. The Board of Trade and private individuals of inflence are interesting themselves with a view to having the daily service maintained.

WE'VE GOT THE USINESS
AND THERE IS GOOD REASON WHY

If we were to be here to-day and pack up and go tomorrow we could perhaps afford to run our business along slip-shod lines. We are here, however, to build a business. This we intend to do by stocking high-grade goods and selling at a low margin of profit. See our superior line of Goods for Spring.

FORWARD ALL!

This is a time of crisis, a time for readjustment, a time for quick action, a time for greater efficiency—

But Not a Time for the Curtailment of Good Advertising

Canadian advertisers are face to face with an opportunity. Sad it is that this opportunity is evolved through blood and tears; but not to take advantage of it is to fail in a real duty to the Empire.

Some businesses—chiefly those dependent upon imports—must suffer; but for every business that suffers, ten will prosper. Never has business been less interrupted by a great war.

Re-adjust your business to advantage of new openings. Grasp now the markets that must look to you as never before. Make a more efficient use of advertising. Use the newspaper to better advantage. You can find Your opportunities in this situation If You Look For Them.

Efficient, carefully-planned and properly-prepared newspaper advertising will open the way for you.
