The Bridge Across the British Channel.

The scheme of constructing a bridge over the English Caannel has just been completed. It has been worked out by the Creusot engineers and M. Hersent, ex-president of the society of civil engineers. The process of metallurgy makes the construction possible of an immense bridge, thirty kilometres long, with a platform at the height of fifty meters above the sea at full tide, and supported by piles at distances of 500 meters. The height allowed the bridge over the channel would allow large steamers and sailing vessels to pass freely. It would support four railway lines, besides a road for carriages and footpaths. This will be satisfactory for these who dread sea-sickness. The only trouble left them will be that of choosing their mode of locomotion—whether by railway carriage, omnibus, cab or velocipede. Places of refuge, watch-houses and alarm bells will be placed on each pile, with a powerful light.

The authors of this giganticscheme believe that the foundations may be constructed by means of compressed-air diving-bells, the depth of the strait between Calais and Dover not being, on an average, more than from twenty-five to thirty-nine meters, and in few places exceeding fifty meters. The bridge will cost 800,000,000 francs, its metallic weight will amount to 2,000,000 tons and it might be constructed in six years. The scheme will shortly be submitted for examination to an international technical committee. When this examination has been completed the channel bridge society will apply for a concession to the French and English governments, from which it will ask for no subsidy. Under these conditions the concession might be easily granted, and the works immediately begun. In a few years the commerce of the two nations would benefit from the simplification introduced into their relations by the execution of a work which might be considered as one of the most important of the century. —Paris Temps.

Prince Bismarck's Scrap-Book.

Prince Bismarck refers to the words of the press as "nothing but printer's ink spread on paper." But no man reads the papers more diligently than he. Besides personally reading every day a dozen or more of the leading journals from various European capitals, he keeps a staff of from four to six clerks constantly at work, like exchange editors in a newspaper office, scanning the columns of hundreds, and perhaps thousands, of papers from all parts of the world, and clipping out every item that can possibly be of interest to him. These clippings, with the names and dates of the papers from which they are taken, are carefully classified and indexed, and pasted in enormous scrap-books. These volumes form a conspicuous feature in the Chancellor's private library. There is one lettered on the back "Socialism," another "France—Military," another "France—Civil," another "Russia," another "Cultuk ampt," and so on. Each volume is subdivided into chapters, and all so carefully indexed that the statesman can in a moment turn to what has been said by any particular paper on any particular subject.

This vast encyclodedia is made use of in many ways. A gentleman from Chicago a few years ago called on Prince Bismarck, armed with a note of introduction from the German minister at Washington. The prince received him cordially, and after a few general remarks said: "I see that your Chicago papers are pitching into me on the pork question." And he went on to quote the exact language the various papers had used, and replied to their arguments. "He told me," said the gentleman, "more about the Chicago papers and the pork-packing industries than I knew myself, though I have lived there all my life. And before I left, in came Congressman ——, from California, and the prince at once turned on him with a lot of talk about the silver question, and what the Pacific coast newspapers were saying about it.—Adolf Houssaye in Chicago Tribune.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

STILL CUTTING RATES.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20. — The Canadian Pacific steamer Zambesi will sail to-morrow for Hong Kong by way of Portland and Vancouver and on Monday the Batavia, a sister ship, will follow by the same route. The Occidental and Oriental Company's steamer Oceanic will sail to-morrow for Hong Kong via Yokohama. The announcement was made to-day from the freight headquarters of the Pacific Mail and Occidental & Oriental Companies of a general reduction of 5 per cent. on all classes of merchandise from this port to Yokohama and Hong Kong. The Canadian Pacific agents announced that they would not only meet the cut but would go under it.

DR. MACKENZIE LEAVES BERLIN.

BERLIN, June 20.—Dr. Mackenzie has left Berlin for the Hague from where he will proceed, accompanied by his son and daughter, to Norway. He will return to London by the first week of July. On his departure the Dowager Empress Victoria thanked him warmly for his faithful services to the late emperor. Dr. Mackenzie looks fatigued and worn out and needs rest.

THE DOMIOION LOAN.

LONDON, June 20.—The Canadian Gazette remarks that the success of the Dominion loan is all the more noticeable because the death of the emperor occurred just when it was issued, while the Canadian Pacific loan had probably absorbed in advance some of the money available.

HONORS TO LANSDOWNE.

LONDON, June 20.—The university of Oxford to-day conferred the degree of D.C.L. on Lord Lansdowne in honor of his services to Canada. Despite the wet weather there was a large attendance and a warm reception was accorded to him.

The privy council has dismissed the appeal of Roland versus Cassady, affirming with costs the judgment of the Queen's bench court at Quebec and the superior court at Montreal.

THIS MORNING'S DESPATCHES.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The convention was called to order at 10:5 this morning. The first thing Chairman Estee called for was the roll for naming national committee men. When this had been concluded it was announced that the committee on resolutions was ready to report, and McKinley, of Ohio, chairman, stepped to the platform amid great cheering and commenced reading. The delegates rose to their feet and cheered to the echo. The protection sentiment of the platform says the Democrats support the interests of Europe, while the Republicans support the interests of America. This was greeted with a storm of applause. The platform denounces the Mills bill, and condemns the removing of the tariff on wool, and favors the entire repeal of unnecessary revenue which would reduce the surplus. It denies that the democrats have restored one acre of land to the republic, and it denounces polygamy and favors the reduction of postal rates to one cent per ounce, and the immediate admission of south Dakota to statehood. The fishery treaty is roundly denounced, and congress is urged not to pass the free ship bill. The civil service plank is the same as that of 1884. The platform concludes by asking workmen to join the republicans. On motion of Maryland the platform was unanimously adopted. The chairman then stated that the next order of business was the presentation of names of candidates for president. The first presented was that of Joseph R. Hawley, of Connecticut, by Warner, of the same state. Leonard Swett, of Illinois, who nominated Lincoln, followed with the name of W. T. Gresham, which was received with prolonged cheering, mostly from the galleries. In his speech Swett mentioned Conkling's name, at which the convention rose and the applause was deafening. Swett finished amid prolonged cheering. Davis, of Minnesota, seconded the nomination with marked eloquence. Leach, of Mississippi, also seconded the nomination. While he was speaking someone in the gallery shouted "Blaine; James G. Blaine!" The magnetic name of Blaine acted like a electric shock on the vast assemblage, and the plumed knight was cheered time and again. When order was restored Leach said that if Harrison is nominated he will be heartily supported by Gresham's friends. Rector, of Texas, and McCall, of Massachusetts, next seconded the nomination of Gresham. McCall received liberal applause when he stated that Gresham was strong in the hearts of the people. When the afternoon session of the convention was opened, at 3:05, a new feature was noticed. It was the display of campaign handkerchiefs marked "Protection for American industries." They were to be seen in all parts of the building. Gollinger, of New Hampshire, was the next to second the nomination of Harrison. Much amusement was caused by some one, who evidently thought the speaker's name was Gallagher, shouting, "Let her go, Gallagher," which was taken up, and lasted for a few seconds. Gollinger made reference to Blaine, and again the convention hall was the scene of great tumult, the delegates cheering and yelling until the noise was deafening. Iowa was reached, and Hepburn rose and placed Allison in nomination. His speech evoked frequent outbursts of applause. Maryland, Massachusetts and several of the territories seconded the nomination.

POSSIBLE CANDIDATES.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The excessive heat of the past few days continues, and the thermometer this morning remains 90°. Everything and everybody wears a wilting appearance, still crowds of sweltering humanity are to be seen this morning moving here and there discussing the happenings of the morning in convention hall. It is the general opinion that the Depew boom has lost itself. The eloquent New Yorker's friends are fast deserting him and enrolling themselves under standards of other candidates. Sherman's followers are undivided this morning, but his nomination is not looked upon as a possibility. Alger and Allison are not much feared. Gresham and Harrison are both strong this morning and both stand even chances of being the convention's choice. Very few are willing to predict Harrison's ultimate success, and yet to those who see how this whole problem is working itself out, it is more than likely that he will come out ahead. Congressman Steele of Indiana, who is a delegate, says that Harrison is absolutely sure of 150 votes. "It seems to be settled," said he, "that the candidate shall come from the west or Harrison holds the key to the situation." Conferences have been in progress between the Harrison and Depew men, but they have not amounted to anything. The feeling among the grangers against Depew is still strong. Like a huge thunder bolt hanging overhead, ready to fall, is the strong Blaine feeling. All eyes are carefully watching it, and its eventual fall at the proper moment appears to be inevitable.

THIS AFTERNOON'S DESPATCHES.

FOURTEEN SAILORS DROWNED.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—The str. Bertha arrived from Karluk, Alaska, bring three sailors of the codfishing schooner, Isabel, which left this port on the 14th of April with a crew of nineteen men. The schooner was 20 years old and leaked from the day she left port. On the 3rd of May the captain and crew decided to abandon her. They left in eight dories. Thirteen of the men and Capt. Knickerson were drowned two days later. The rest of the crew suffered severely until rescued and taken care of by the Indians. Two of the crew were unable to come to the city owing to their condition, and remained at Karluk.

GERMANY WISHES FRIENDLY RELATIONS.

BERLIN, June 21.—Bismarck has notified the powers, including Russia and France, that it is the Emperor Williama's sincere desire to maintain friendly relations.

VALUABLE WORKS DESTROYED.

OSWEGO, June 21.—Fire last night destroyed the Champion Grain Drill Works. Loss, $175,000.

DR. MACKENZIE INSULTED.

BERLIN, June 21.—Dr. Mackenzie left to-day suddenly. He asked an audience of the emperor and was refused. This is regarded as significant and that his dislike to the English is increased.

REDUCTION IN C.P.R. RATES.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The transcontinental association has reduced the freight rate of the Canadian Pacific to $3.60, from here to California and Oregon points. No change is made on other lines.

UNUSUAL RAINS.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 21.—Further reports from Silioa say it rained furiously all day and night on Monday. The river is flooded north of the town and the water is rushing through the streets in great volume, with tremendous force. Most of the houses, being adobe, were soon saturated and fell down, among them being some of the principal buildings. It is reported that about twenty persons were buried under the ruins or drowned. The station buildings are occupied by homeless persons who are subsisting on watermelons and other fruit found floating on the water. The rain has been general and the whole country around Silos is flooded, several dykes having given away.

FRENCH CORRESPONDENTS EXPELLED FROM BERLIN.

PARIS, June 21.—The city is greatly agitated to-day over the expulsion from Berlin of Depuyverdier, correspondent of the Gaulois, and Jules Ransom, correspondent of Matin. The Gaulois has reprinted a letter of Depuyverdier written from San Remo at the time of Frederick's visit to the palace, which, it is alleged, contains statements reflecting upon the present German emperor. The Evenement and Intransigent demands that the French government make reprisals.

Daily British Columbian

Thursday Evening, June 21, 1888.

It is amusing to notice the cool cheek sometimes displayed by American papers. The following we take from a Chicago exchange of a recent date: "Canada is the home of the American boodler, where he can 'sit under his own vine and fig tree and none can make him afraid.' And yet Canadians are sticklers on fine points of law. We notice recently that a woman was sent to the penitentiary for stealing an umbrella." The thrust at Canada for harboring boodlers comes with very poor grace from an American paper, when it is considered that it is the Americans themselves who stand principally in the way of a satisfactory extradition treaty being arranged between the Dominion and the United States. Canada is willing and anxious for such a treaty, but a fair basis cannot be reached, for the reason that Uncle Sam wants to protect his fenians, dynamiters and anarchists from justice when they commit depredations outside of the states. The reason for this undue tenderness on the part of the long-headed paternal government of the big republic is, probably, that a great many of these incendiary characters have a specific value as voters, and, by becoming a party to a fair and just extradition treaty, the governing party of the day would alienate a vast aggregate support at the polls. And here we have another argument in favor (?) of party government. Our American friends, though, occasionally get a taste of their own medicine, and the viper they are nourishing sometimes stings very near home, as witness the famous Haymarket massacre of Chicago, which is still fresh in the memories of everyone, as well as anarchists plottings all over the states. The people of Chicago and the judiciary deserve credit for the prompt and efficient measures which they took to stamp out anarchy in that city, but it must have quite a hold there yet, when it is such a strong political factor that the fear was expressed in a Chicago journal recently that the anarchists might succeed in electing their nominee for supreme court judge (!) and defeating the party of law and order. It is to be feared that such a state of things, together with the hold that anarchists, fenians, and dynamiters have throughout the United States generally, is the result of too much encouragement being extended these people and too much lenity shown them in the past, on account of their possession of the almighty voting qualification. In the matter of the administration of justice generally, it is very foolish for any American paper to call such attention to the subject as might provoke an institution of comparisons between the criminal courts, at least, of the United States and Canada. Such a comparison would inevitably redound to the credit of the Dominion, for our American cousins, while beating us in some things, perhaps, have not been particularly felicitous in their criminal court experience, either as regards the respect shown to the laws or the manner of enforcing them.

It has been and is the fortune or misfortune of British Columbia that on the line of her great highways the passing traveller, while regaled and delighted with the most charming, and at times the grandest, scenery in the world, can form but a very meagre estimate of the real wealth and resources of the country through which he is passing; and the country has, therefore, suffered, and continues to suffer from the premature and ill-considered expressions proceeding from the hasty judgment of purblind egotists who have made a flying trip through the province, partly in the night, and with their vision at best limited to a few fleeting satches caught at random from a Pullman coach or the windows of a steamer's cabin. If any one were really desirous of writing the truth, and as nearly as possible the whole truth, about a country with which he was entirely unacquainted, he would not be content that his investigations should be limited to a narrow trail through the country and confined to a few days in point of time. But with some writers who attempt to give a sketch of British Columbia, telling the truth, or indeed giving any exact information of any sort, would appear to be a secondary and incidental consideration. They had time and means to enable them to make a flying trip through the country, and if they had been content to have been ravished by the unrivalled scenery and invigorated by the oozone of the mountains and the sea breezes of the coast, all would have been well; on some future occasion they might have returned and learned something about the country. But no; they must needs write; and, like the correspondent of the Farmer's Advocate (London, Ont.), referred to in yesterday's COLUMBIAN, while succeeding in concocting quite a readable and entertaining sketch for the magazine and newspaper reader, by reason of their quite natural and excusable ignorance, the article is of very little value so far as conveying accurate information is concerned. If, indeed, it does not bristle with misrepresentations. Such writers are often more credited than they deserve, and by this means much injury may be done the country which is unfortunate enough to receive notice at their hands. British Columbia is yet to a great extent a "diamond in the rough," but it is a very rich gem for all that, and will repay many fold capital and labor expended in developing its numerous and varied resources. Capital, more than labor is, perhaps, required at present, and there is every indication that it will be forthcoming, for a more promising field for investment, with a guarantee for swift and sure returns, does not exist. More especially is capital being directed just at present to our magnificent lumbering resources, which, with the dissipation of the erroneous idea that large sea-going vessels could not safely navigate the sand-heads, are receiving an impetus to their development by means of new capital and enterprise that promises to raise this industry in the near future to one of the most important in the Dominion, both as regards labor employed and the extent and reproductiveness of its operations. Our mines, too, are attracting more attention than ever, and are only just beginning to be opened up. British Columbia has always been noted for its richness in the precious metals, but these, owing to the lack of facilities and difficulties of access, have not been worked heretofore to advantage. Quartz milling, yet in its inception, but which is now rendered practicable by the opening up of the country by the C. P. R. and other progressing and projected railways, promises very soon to develope bonanzas of untold wealth in many sections of the province. Besides the precious metals, coal and iron are constantly being discovered in new localities, and in addition to those already existing and projected, coal mines and smelting works will soon be operated at different points. It is hardly necessary to dwell upon the well known wealth of our river fisheries, nor to mention the almost undeveloped resources of our rich and extensive sea fisheries. It is in the matter of agricultural capabilities, perhaps, that British Columbia is most frequently libelled by the uninformed and the unthinking. British Columbia is not, and she can well afford not to be, with all her other rich and varied resources, pre-eminently an agricultural country; but in this connection the immense size of the country (area 341,305 square miles) must be taken into account, and it will be seen that, though perhaps proportionately small, the farming and grazing lands of British Columbia are still extensive. Vast tracts in the upper country are and have long been unequalled as grazing grounds for cattle, sheep and horses, as has been abundantly demonstrated by scores of successful stock-raisers, and by the fact that the beef, mutton and wool and the horses of that section have become famous and are sought after. Large quantities of grain and considerable fruit and vegetables have also been raised, and with the means of easy and universal irrigation (where necessary) which the artesian wells, at present being assisted by the provincial government, will afford, a large extent of country hitherto known as the "dry-belt" will become a garden. Coming to the farming lands of the lower Fraser, a description which appeared in the COLUMBIAN on the 11th of this month of the Delta municipality could very fairly be applied to a dozen agricultural districts within 40 or 50 miles of this city, comprising many thousands of acres, which rival in the quantity and quality and variety of their products the best farming lands anywhere, and which constitute the garden of the province. Lack of space prevents us going more into details at present, but we shall refer to the subject again.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

"It Saved My Life"

Is a common expression, often heard from those who have realized, by personal use, the curative powers of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. "I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died from lung troubles.—E. Bragdon, Palestine, Tex.

About six months ago I had a severe Hemorrhage of the Lungs, brought on by a distressing Cough, which deprived me of sleep and rest. I had used various cough balsams and expectorants, without obtaining relief. A friend advised me to try

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

I did so, and am happy to say that it helped me at once. By continued use this medicine cured my cough, and, I am satisfied, saved my life.—Mrs. E. Coburn, 18 Second st., Lowell, Mass.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for over a year, and sincerely believe I should have been in my grave, had it not been for this medicine. It has cured me of a dangerous affection of the lungs, for which I had almost despaired of ever finding a remedy.—D. A. McMullen, Windsor, Province of Ontario.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life. Two years ago I took a very severe Cold which settled on my lungs. I consulted physicians, and took the remedies they prescribed, but failed to obtain relief until I began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Two bottles of this medicine completely restored my health.—Lizzie M. Allen, West Lancaster, Ohio. ††

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

"KISS ME, MAMMA."

A Mother's Mistake and the Price She Paid for It.

The child was so sensitive, so like that little shrinking plant that curls at a breath and shuts its heart from the light.

The only beauties she possessed were an exceedingly transparent skin and the most mournful, large blue eyes.

I had been trained by a very stern, strict, conscientious mother, but I was a hardy plant, rebounding after every shock; misfortune could not daunt, though discipline tamed me. I fancied, alas! that I must go through the same routine with this delicate creature; as one day when she had displeased me exceedingly by repeating an offense, I was determined to punish her severely. I was very serious all day, and upon sending her to her little couch I said:

"Now, my daughter, to punish you, and show you how very, very naughty you have been, I shall not kiss you to-night."

She stood looking at me, astonishment personified, with her mournful eyes wide open—I suppose she had forgotten her misconduct till then, and I left her with big tears dropping down her cheeks and her little red lips quivering.

Presently I was sent for. "Oh, mamma, you will kiss me; I can't go to sleep if you don't!" she sobbed, every tone of her voice trembling; and she held out her little hands.

Now came the struggle between love and what I falsely termed duty. My heart said give her the kiss of peace; my stern nature urged me to persist in my correction that I might impress the fault upon her mind. That was the way I had been trained, till I was a most submissive child; and I remembered how I had often thanked my mother since for her straightforward course.

I knelt by the bedside. "Mother can't kiss you, Ellen," I whispered, though every word choked me. Her hand touched mine; it was very hot, but I attributed it to her excitement. She turned her little grieving face to the wall; I blamed myself as the fragile form shook with self-suppressed sobs, and crying, "Mother hopes little Ellen will learn to mind her after this," left the room for the night. Alas! in my desire to be severe I forgot to be forgiving.

It must have been twelve o'clock when I was awakened by my nurse. Apprehensive, I ran eagerly to the child's chamber; I had had a fearful dream.

Ellen did not know me. She was sitting up, crimsoned from forehead to throat; her eyes so bright that I almost drew back aghast at their glances.

From that night a raging fever drank up her life; and what think you was the incessant plaint that poured into my anguished heart?

"Oh, kiss me, mamma, do kiss me; I can't go to sleep! You'll kiss your little Ellen, mamma, won't you? I can't go to sleep. I won't be naughty if you'll only kiss me! Oh, kiss me, dear mamma, I can't go to sleep."

Holy little angel! she did go to sleep one gray morning and she never woke again, never. Her hand was locked in mine and all my veins grew icy with its gradual chill. Faintly the light faded out of the beautiful eyes; whiter and whiter grew the tremulous lips. She never knew me; but with her last breath she whispered, "I will be good, mamma, if only you'll kiss me."

Kiss her! God knows how passionate, but unavailing, were my kisses upon her cheek and lips after that fatal night. God knows how wild were my prayers that she might know, if but only once, that I kissed her. God knows how I would have yielded up my very life could I have asked forgiveness of that sweet child.

Well, grief is unavailing now! She lies in her little tomb; there is a marble urn at her head and a rosebush at her feet; there grow sweet summer flowers; there waves the gentle grass; there birds sing their matins and vespers; there the blue sky smiles down to-day and there lies buried the freshness of my heart.—Ladies' Home Journal.

THE ART OF CONVERSATION.

Comprehensive Description of What Constitutes Its Perfect Exemplification.

The young woman who talks merely to her words and who dwells on a topic only an instant and hurries on to another, but as a humming bird flits from flower to flower, has no conception of art in conversation.

"I never know what I'm going to talk about," says one girl, and another remarks incredulously, "I don't see how anybody can know what the subjects of conversation are to be, nor how any one can plan a conversation beforehand."

In the more perfect conversation the speaker must have a sweet tone of voice, absence of local accent and an absence of tricks and catch words. There must be either general or special knowledge and mental quickness, modesty, simplicity, unselfishness, sympathy and tact.

Then there is a consideration of the persons with whom you are conversing—whether one, a few or many; whether equals, superiors or inferiors; whether older, younger, or of the same age; whether men or women; and whether a relation, a friend or some less degree of acquaintance.

Then there is the variety of subjects, serious and trivial subjects, and personal and general; and the talking is by all the company, or by two or one.—Paper World.

Acquainted with the Gentleman.

Fogg, the eminent lawyer (who has a weakness for charging high fees), to nephew who has been speculating—"What! you paid two dollars for one rabbit, Bobby?"

Bobby (seven years old)—"Yes, sir."

Fogg—"Why didn't you consult your uncle?"

Bobby (who has heard of his uncle's fee)—"Then it might have cost me five."

Sweet Is Revenge.

"It's just as well that you did go, John," said a wife to her husband on her return from the theatre.

"Why so?"

"There were two hats in front of us and I could not see the stage."

"Then you were miserable all the evening?"

"Not exactly. I know something about millinery, you know."

"How did that help you?"

"Well, they were cheap hats and I took them to pieces, described the materials of which they were made to my escort, the price of the frames, the ribbons, the feathers, said they were such hats as milliners sold to nurse maids, cooks, etc. You should have seen the wearers' ears burning—"

"Oh! I wish I had been there."

"So the wearers didn't see any more of the stage than I did."

"Why not?"

"Because they were too busy listening to me. I have not enjoyed myself so much in a long time."—Boston Courier.

Two of a Kind.

Wife (in soiled wrapper, soiled collar and slippers down at heel, to husband who enters late)—"Ah! John, you're not a bit like what you used to be."

Husband (glancing at her dress)—"Neither are you, my dear, neither are you."—Boston Courier.

CHANGING A BIG BILL.

The Customer on the Anxious Seat a Long Time but Relieved at Last.

"I have nothing but a fifty-dollar bill," said a lady who had been making some purchases at a little notion store on Sixth avenue, New York. "Can you change it?"

The proprietor took the bill, examined it critically, fumbled in his money drawer awhile, and then called his boy from the back of the store:

"Here, Jim, take this fifty-dollar bill and get it changed; and be quick about it, for the lady is waiting."

And the lady did wait, until she became nervous and uneasy at his prolonged absence. Finally she ventured to say, timidly:

"That boy's all right, isn't he? Seems to me he's gone a good while."

"So it seems to me," replied the proprietor, looking up from the newspaper he was reading. "Guess he's all right, though. He's a new boy, you see; only had him a few days, and you can't tell how a boy will turn out until you've tried him."

"But he came well recommended, didn't he?" asked the lady, growing faint at the thought that he might abscond with her money.

"Oh, yes, he was well enough recommended. His father and mother both came and gave him the best kind of recommendation, though I forget just where they said they lived."

"Have you ever—ever trusted him before to get a fifty-dollar bill changed?" she asked, hesitatingly.

"Not this boy," he replied, "but I had a boy last summer—looked a good deal like this one, come to think, same age, size, same squint—that I sent to get a fifty-dollar bill changed, and do you know, madam, I never seen that boy since nor the money either."

The lady, who had been standing by the counter, felt very weak all of a sudden and sank into a chair. The proprietor, absorbed in this bitter reminiscence, did not notice her agitation and continued:

"But I heard of him, though, up in Canada;" and he smiled at his little joke.

"Living in luxury on his stolen gains, I suppose," said the lady bitterly.

"No; he had spent his money and was worn to a shadow by remorse."

"Hadn't you better send somebody to look for the boy who took my money?" suggested the lady, now thoroughly alarmed.

"Not a bit of use, madam," said the notion dealer, tranquilly. "If he's skipped he's clean out of reach by this time. I had six policemen hunting t'other boy within ten minutes after he left the store, for somehow I had misgivings about him, but they couldn't find hide nor hair of that young rascal. 'Twould be just the same in this case. The only thing that can overtake a boy like that is remorse, and I wouldn't want to bet much on remorse unless I could get big odds."

Fortunately, at this moment, the boy returned with the desired change, and remorse was knocked out of a job.

POINTED TESTIMONY

Which a Witness Had Ridden 36 Miles To Deliver.

In a Kentucky Court.—Lawyer (to witness)—"Where were you when the defendant knocked the plaintiff down?"

Witness—"On my hoss."

Lawyer—"Where was your horse?"

Witness—"In the big road."

Lawyer—"You were on your horse?"

Witness—"That's what I said."

"And your horse was in the big road?"

"That's what I 'lowed."

"Ah, hah. What time was it?"

"Don't know."

"Ah, hah. You were on your horse?"

"Yes."

"In the big road?"

"Yes."

"On your horse in the big road when the defendant knocked the plaintiff down?"

"Yes."

"The plaintiff down?"

"Yes."

"On your horse?"

"Yes."

"In the big road?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, where was the plaintiff when he was knocked down?"

"On the ground."

"On the ground when he had been knocked down?"

"Yes."

"On your horse?"

"Yes."

"In the big road."

"Yes."

"Well, how far is it from the road to the spring?"

"Half mile."

"From the big road?"

"Yes."

"The big road where you were on your horse?"

"Yes, sir."

"So the plaintiff was on the ground?"

"Yes."

"When he was knocked down?"

"Yes."

"In the big road?"

"Yes."

"Well, you may go home. We have no further use for you."

He had ridden a blind horse thirty-six miles to deliver this testimony.—Arkansaw Traveller.

Short Stories.

"Say, ma, Mrs. Brown has a cake on her supper table three stories high," exclaimed little Johnnie as he rushed into the family sitting-room.

Johnnie's mother was inclined to believe that her little boy's story was taller than the cake until she made an investigation and found the marvel to be a layer jelly cake.—Buffalo Express.

Agreeing with the Minister.

"I think," said the minister, who was visiting a parishioner, "that it is easier to coax children than to drive them. Gentle words are more effective than harsh ones."

"I think so, too," said the lady tenderly.

Then she raised her window and suddenly shouted to her boy:

"Johnnie, if you don't come in out of that mud-puddle, I'll break your back."—Columbus Dispatch.

Some Gigantic Words.

The longest English word yet discovered is that found by a Boston physician in a medical journal, the word being the chemical terminology for cocoaine.—Methylbenzomethoxyethyltetrahydropyridinecarboxylate. There are fifty-two letters in the word.

The next longest words known are Anthropomorphitamismicallation, thirty-two letters; phlscoyuoscophagraphicalities, thirty letters; dynsmorphosteopalinklaster (an instrument used for breaking the ossified callus of a falsely united fracture), twenty-six letters. methylethyephynlammonium. twenty-five letters, and dioxyymethylarthraquinone (an old name for chrysophanic acid), twenty-four letters.

Besides such giants of vocabulary as these the tremendous German compounds almost sink into insignificance.

Perfect Hair

Indicates a natural and healthy condition of the scalp, and of the glands through which nourishment is obtained. When, in consequence of age and disease, the hair becomes weak, thin, and gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will strengthen it, restore its original color, promote its rapid and vigorous growth, and impart to it the lustre and freshness of youth.

I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a long time, and am convinced of its value. When I was 17 years of age my hair began to turn gray. I commenced using the Vigor, and was surprised at the good effects it produced. It not only restored the color to my hair, but so stimulated its growth, that I have now more hair than ever before.—J. W. Edwards, Coldwater, Miss.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers.

IF YOU ARE SUFFERING from debility and loss of appetite; if your stomach is out of order, or your mind confused; take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine will restore physical force and elasticity to the system, more surely and speedily than any tonic yet discovered.

For six months I suffered from liver and stomach troubles. My food did not nourish me, and I became weak and very much emaciated. I took six bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and was cured. —J. M. Palmer, Springfield, Mass. ††

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

For chronic catarrh, induced by a scrofulous taint, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the true remedy. It stops catarrhal discharges, removes the sickening odor, and never fails to thoroughly eradicate every trace of the disease from the blood. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

The water has fallen 3 feet at Chilliwhack during the last five days and is still falling rapidly. At Langley the water has fallen 20 inches. At the C.P.N. wharf last night the water registered 9 ft. above low water mark, the lowest in several weeks.

The str. Fairy Queen arrived down from the Hot Spring last night. Capt. Cooper says he will keep the steamer here for a couple of weeks and during that time he will be glad to convey picnic parties and excursions to any point along the river.

The ice cream social given by the ladies of the Methodist church last night in the Methodist Hall was a very successful affair. The attendance was large and the programme, consisting of songs, recitations, etc., was well rendered. Financially the social was a great success.

Careless Driving.

Two young men driving a carriage down Columbia street this afternoon, and paying more attention to the ladies on the sidewalks than to their horse, came into collision with a carriage in which were two ladies. For a moment it seemed as if an accident would occur but fortunately the vehicles were separated before any serious damage was done.

Mongolians Favored.

Notwithstanding the fact that a great many white men are at present out of employment in this city no less than 20 Chinamen are at work on the dry dock at Esquimalt, painting and scraping the caisson. There is just indignation against the Ottawa government officials for supplanting white with Mongolian labor on Dominion public works.—Times.

A Fair Specimen.

Mr. J. C. Henderson, of Chilliwhack, who arrived in town to-day on the steamer Irving, left a specimen of oats, from his farm at Chilliwhack, in our office. Mr. Henderson pulled this bunch at random, and it speaks very well for the prospective harvest this fall. The sample shows eight succulent stalks about four feet high, just heading out out with plump milky oats, and the luxuriant greenness of of stalk and leaf testify to the well known richness of the soil of this famous agricultural district.

Deas Island Cannery.

The improvements commenced some time ago on Findlay, Durham & Brodie's cannery, on Deas island, have been completed and the cannery is now in thorough condition for active operations. The new wharf and buildings give facilities for a largely increased daily pack. The firm have over 7000 cans ready for use and everything else is in order, waiting the sockeye run. Some trouble has been occasioned the Indians and Chinamen camped round the cannery by the high tides. In some cases they were flooded out and had rather a miserable time for a few days.

Correction.

In yesterday's issue we stated Mr. H. V. Edmonds had offered to build a school in Vancouver, on the south side of False Creek, and that the council had accepted the offer. Mr. Edmonds did not promise to build the school, but presented the city with the lot on which it will be built. It will be remembered that a few months ago Mr. Edmonds presented the people of Sapperton with the lot on which the Sapperton school is being built. Had it not been for this generosity Sapperton would have experienced much more difficulty in obtaining the required school.

The Bainsfathers.

The entertainment was one of the best we have ever attended. As a narrator of Scottish story and dialogue and a singer of Scottish songs, Mr. Bainsfather is without an equal. He has a fine voice, and a fine presence, and shows refinement, good taste and much dramatic power. Miss Etta Bainsfather has a magnificent soprano voice of rare quality, and had ample scope in the ever popular and charming Scottish ballads on the programme. The young members of the family play, sing, and dance admirably. The Highland fling was a pleasing and graceful performance.—Lindsay Post.

The Garrisoning of Esquimalt.

In connection with the question as to whether the Imperial or Canadian government are to provide a garrison for Esquimalt, the authorities at the militia department say they have had no intimation of the intention of the British government to send troops from Halifax to the eastern coast. Much reticence is preserved on the subject. It is to a certain extent understood, however, that in return for Great Britain supplying armament for the forts both at Esquimalt and Victoria, Canada will supply garrisons. It is thought this matter will be fully enquired into by the military commission to meet shortly.

H. F. McCarty, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes: "I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

Minstrels Coming.

The Hicks-Sawyer colored minstrel company, comprising 30 persons, are now on their way to the coast. via C. P. R., en route for Australia, and will reach this place next Wednesday. They travel by special car and bring with them a fine uniformed band. The company has been induced, by a liberal guarantee, to show at Herring's Opera House on Wednesday and Thursday, June 27th and 28th. It is owing to the C. P. R. having granted the company a special rate and the enterprise of Mr. Herring in guaranteeing a good sum, that the citizens of Westminster will have an opportunity of witnessing the performance of this fine troupe.

High Glee.

The ship Camana reached New Westminster last Monday to load lumber at the Royal City Planing Mills. Her appearance was hailed with delight by the citizens of that royal burg. When it became known that the ship was in the river the city at once put on its best holiday appearance. Large crowds visited the ship and the mills during the afternoon. It is hoped the vessel is but the harbinger of many yet to follow her, and that Westminster will become as famous for her lumber shipments as she is now for her fisheries. Every credit is due Mr. John Hendry, of the Royal City Planing Mills, for the energy, pluck and perseverance displayed by him in connection with the appearance of the Camana in the Fraser river.—Times.

A Midnight Adventure.

A few nights ago Constable Smith, our worthy lock-up keeper, while making a midnight tour of the swamp, on the lookout for law-breakers, saw an old klootchman wending her way down one of the streets. The night was dark and the constable, thinking to head her off as she turned into a side street, attempted to make his way across a vacant lot. The attempt, however, was not successful, for the moment he left the roadway he stepped into six feet of water. A yell of surprise and rage rose from the constable's lips as he reached the surface, and a very questionable blessing on the beautiful eyes of the enchanting klootchman notified residents in the vicinity of the swamp that something unusual had occurred. The old klootchman hearing the splash and the accompanying yells returned to the spot where Constable Smith had disappeared, and there discovered her pursuer vainly endeavoring to climb on to the roadway again. The klootchman was strong, and, though the constable is no feather-weight, she landed him as easily as an expert fisherman would land a three-pound trout. After a most pathetic parting with the dear old klootchman the constable made his way home, fully determined to make no short cuts over vacant lots until the Fraser river has reached its lowest summer level.

A Winnipegger Worsted.

A few days ago a well-known boot and shoe traveller arrived from Winnipeg and opened his samples at the Colonial Hotel. Constable Carty, whose duty it is to collect the $2.50 tax from commercial travellers, called on the Winnipegger and requested him to pay the license. The truthful Manitoban denied his name and business, declared he was on a pleasure tour, and waxed indignant at the idea of associating his name with a drummer. The constable was not convinced, and he made further enquiries, which resulted in his discovering that the man from the prairies was not particularly addicted to telling the truth. The consequence was the Winnipegger received another visit and this time the constable was horrified at the brazen front displayed, and the cool and easy manner in which the traveller mutilated the truth. Constable Carty has a tenacity of purpose, which, when aroused, means that he will accomplish his end if there is any possibility of doing so. After procuring a summons he returned to the hotel only to find the Winnipegger had packed his trunks, sent them to the depot, and had gone up town to call on some friends before leaving. Ascertaining the house he had gone to call at, Constable Carty proceeded thither and on enquiring if Mr. Boots, of Winnipeg, was within, received a reply in the affirmative. Mr. Boots was then requested to appear, which he did, though rather sheepishly, and was served with the summons after admitting his previous statements were not absolutely correct. Instead of paying the usual tax, the Winnipegger was obliged to pay the costs of the summons, etc., thus making the license more expensive and at the same time curtailing his chances of doing business. Whether the tax is just or not, we are not prepared to say, but while the city demands that commercial travellers should take out a license, it will be found best to do so, as the bylaw will be strictly enforced.

C. C. Jacobes, Buffalo, N. Y., says: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured him of a bad case of piles of 8 years' standing, having tried almost every known remedy, besides two Buffalo physicians, without relief; but the Oil cured him; he thinks it cannot be recommended too highly." There being imitations on the market of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, customers will see that they get the genuine.

Lessons For the Future.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—Now that the high school tempest seems to have spent itself, perhaps you would allow a disinterested party to improve the occasion for future use. It has been evident from all the circumstances that the high school in B.C. has not been a popular institution for some time, from the fact that it has been kept in existence from the public chest, and has been patronized only by the few who could well afford to spend time, with the view of a professional education. When the high school was first started at Victoria it was felt throughout the country that it was not just to compel those who could never hope to benefit by it, to help to support it. The government made a mistake in the start and should long ago have remedied it by making it self-supporting. The common public school, if properly managed and equipped, is all that the government of any country has any business to support from the public chest. It is a great wonder that the high school has survived so long, and now that the legislature has thrown the burden of its existence on the various cities in B.C. who have high schools, the question will have to be squarely faced by these municipalities, and settled at once. It is no use to indulge any farther in this crimination and recrimination; the fact is that, under the circumstances in which the high school in Westminster has been placed, it was impossible for the institution to give satisfaction. No single teacher, in a mixed school of boys and girls, in such advanced studies, could be expected to succeed; everybody connected with the school knew well enough that the strain was to great to be lasting. The school house and its environs have not been fit for such an institution. You might travel the whole of the neighboring republic and you would not find such a tumbledown premises used for even a common school. The people of Westminster had better quit quarrelling over this dry bone of contention; they have now got to shoulder the whole responsibility. The government can now sit and laugh at our calamity, and tell us to try our hand at governing, and paying the piper to boot. This thing of nursing up full grown babies and then turning them out on their own hook, all at once, is pretty rough; but we will have to grin and bear it. I am afraid this luxury of a high school will have to go, but it may be for the best. The common school will benefit by the seeming disaster. I would rather see two boys well fitted to be good mechanics than half-a-dozen sent to the university to become a burden to themselves or their friends. Let us cease this pother, and unite in an effort to remedy past mistakes. This is not the only knotty question that has to be straightened out by the good people of the Royal City. We are a wonderful people or we would have been wiped out long ago. Our Vancouver friends thought a short time ago that it would swamp us to to get an ocean vessel up to our lumber mills, but it was done like a charm and here she is, filling up with lumber that will make the Sidney folks open their eyes by and by. We are unqoubtedly going ahead in various directions, but we should not waste too much time quarrelling over dry bones.
