VOLUME 24 NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., SATURDAY, AUGUST 25, 1883. NUMBER 16

The Boundary Dispute.

Not long ago we published a brief statement respecting the recent trouble between the provinces of Ontario and Manitoba at Rat Portage. At that time we asserted that the telegrams respecting the dispute were misleading and very much exaggerated. Late newspapers from the east fully confirm this statement. There was a great deal more excitement throughout Manitoba and Ontario over the affair than at Rat Portage. The origin of this boundary dispute is of some public interest, and we shall make a brief statement of it. We may first remark, however, that two newspapers in British Columbia have already undertaken to express an opinion on the action of the Ontario government, and both have fallen into very serious misapprehension of the circumstances and facts. When the Canadian government claimed possession of the territory lying north and west of the Height of Land, they did so on the ground that it was a part of Ontario (then Upper Canada). This claim the Hudson Bay Company disputed. After confederation the Dominion government purchased the whole North-West territory from the H. B. Co., and that title, of course, carried with it the company's claim to the disputed territory. As the original claim of the Canadian government to this territory rested upon the contention that it belonged to Upper Canada, the acquirement of the H. B. Co.'s claim seems to us to have placed the property absolutely in possession of Ontario. Disputes arose, however, and by mutual agreement between the government of Ontario and the federal government the matter was left to arbitration. Each government selected one arbitrator, and these selected a third. It was the business of this arbitration to enquire into the whole matter thoroughly and determine where the true western boundary of Ontario lay. A great deal of documentary and other evidence was placed before the arbitrators, and an award was made declaring that the disputed territory belonged to Ontario. But the award of the court of arbitration had to receive the sanction of parliament. The award was made, we believe, in 1878, and Sir John's government, which then came into office, refused to ratify it. Negotiations between the two governments were carried on for years without reaching any result, and the Ontario government meanwhile maintained jurisdiction in the settled portion of the territory. The federal government finally proposed that the matter be referred to the privy council of Great Britain. After some hesitation Ontario consented to this, on certain conditions, the most important of which was that she should remain in possession of the territory until a final decision had been reached. To this condition the federal government refused its consent, and there the matter rested. But some time ago the boundaries of Manitoba were extended, and her eastern boundary was fixed at the western boundary of Ontario. Manitoba, therefore, claims all the disputed territory, assuming that Ontario's western boundary extends only to the head of Lake Superior; whereas Ontario claims that her western boundary goes as far as Winnipeg river, and includes Rat Portage. In pursuance of these conflicting claims both provinces seek to administer the affairs of the territory; and we have no hesitation in expressing the opinion that Ontario has an undoubted right to keep possession until her claim is proved bad by some competent authority.

In a recent lecture Prof. Fowler, F. R. S., remarked that the whales of our time are the largest of known creatures, past or present. Instead of living in an age of degeneracy of physical growth, we are therefore in an age of giants; but it may be at the end of that age, for the whales—like other existing great animals—are fast approaching extinction.

Winnipeg to Hudson Bay.

REPORT OF ENGINEER ON THE ROUTE.

The Winnipeg Sun publishes the report of Mr. Geo. A. Baine, the civil engineer who, in 1881, made the survey for the proposed line from Lake Winnipeg to Hudson Bay. A condensation of the report follows:—The line would be about 364 miles in length, and the total cost of construction $7,280,000, the cost per mile being estimated at about $20,000. The main difficulties in constructing the line are the scarcity of timber fit for structures, especially bridges, and the transport of supplies and plant necessary for construction purposes over the route. To surmount the first difficulty, however, a quantity of spruce timber might be obtained on the Bear and North Rivers, sufficient to build all the structures on the northern half of the road; whilst for the southern side timber could be obtained from the vicinity of the Manitou rapids. That part of the road designated as southern lies between Assian Lake and the terminus on Lake Winnipeg. As regards the second difficulty the speediest and most economical method of surmounting it would be to ship from Britain all the supplies and men necessary for at least the northern half, and if possible, all the men for the entire work, also all the cars, except for the first 40 miles from the southern end. The first sixty miles from Churchill south would be very light work, and construction cars similar to those in use on prairie work might be used with advantage. Then by teaming the necessary provisions in winter and distributing at various points from there to Assian Lake, the most difficult part of the transport business is over. For the southern half tugs and barges might be used to stock the line to Duck Lake, and the same tug might be made use of in taking building stone to the different bridges along the route. As to food, hay might be had in large quantities on the North river, Josus river, and at the Rapids on the Big river, and also in smaller quantities in some of the bays, &c. All, however, that would be required would have to be imported. The first part of the line, from the Sebatchewan Rapids to Duck Lake, a distance of about 38 miles, is in great part low and muskeggy, with occasional hills of granite rock, but about the centre is very rough and rocky. Two rivers would have also to be crossed—the Pine, 1,000 feet wide, and the Whiskey Sepigo, 30 feet. That part of the road from Cross Portage to Burntwood river, a distance of 67 miles, would be probably the most extensive in proportion to its length by reason of the rocky nature of the country and the number of rivers to be crossed. There are nine rivers, varying in width from 200 feet to 1,000, besides numerous small brooks. The timber hereabouts is generally small and useless. From Burntwood river to the north end of Was-kai-o ka Lake, 45 miles, four rivers, respectively 125, 60, 50, and 8 feet wide, have to be crossed, the soil being generally a mixture of sand and gravel. From Was-kai-o-ka Lake to the junction of Big and Little Churchill rivers, 63 miles, four rivers, respectively 200, 100, 45, and 15 feet wide, have to be crossed, the soil being chiefly clay over gravel. As the Little and Big Churchill rivers are useless for transport, it would be an advantage to throw the line back from them and thus shorten the route. From the junction of the rivers to Hudson Bay shore, 89 miles, seven narrow rivers and 80 small brooks have to be crossed; the last 60 miles of this section would be very light. The best site for a wharf at the bay would be the beacon established by the H. B. Co. in 1879. The pilot of the port and other reliable authorities state:—That the navigation of the bay can be depended upon from 15th June to 20th October for sailing vessels, that some years the ice does not take until 15th November, and is not solid until 1st December; that the point selected is the only one on Hudson Bay where a safe harbor could be obtained for large craft. If the line were produced west to intersect with the C. P. R. it would be necessary to branch off north of Pine river, owing to the nature of the soil.

From the last report of the British consul at Tientsin it appears that China has but one colliery in complete working order. It is located at Kaiping, not far from Peking. The coal supply is considered ample, as the coal-bearing stratum is supposed to be about one thousand feet thick, with thirteen seams. A railway six and a half miles in length—the only one in all China—carries the coal from the mine to a canal, where the loads are transferred to barges.

Articles made of rubber often deteriorate rapidly. Mr. Herbert McLeod has determined experimentally that the change is due to the combined influence of light and oxygen, but that neither of these agents can produce any alteration without the aid of the other.

By evaporating skimmed milk in a vacuum Mons. Muller obtains a product which can be kept for many months in a dry atmosphere, and which he thinks will be of considerable value for making pastry and other kinds of food.

There is no excuse for suffering from Headache, Constipation, and all the wearying train of symptoms of a disordered liver, when Burdock Blood Bitters is an unfailing remedy, and only costs One Dollar a bottle. Why suffer on with out a trial? 25,000 bottles sold during the last three months, with almost universal satisfaction.

It is now in season to warn our readers against the sudden attacks of Cholera, Cramp, Colic, and the various Bowel Complaints incident to the season of ripe fruit, vegetables, etc. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the grand specific for those troubles.

A CURE FOR CHOLERA MORBUS. — A positive cure for this dangerous complaint, and for all acute or chronic forms of Bowel Complaint incident to Summer and Fall, is found in Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry; to be procured from any druggist.

Saturday Morning, August 25, 1883.

The Boundary Railway.

A great deal of dissatisfaction has been produced in this city and district by Sir Alexander's statements respecting the proposed railway across the boundary line. Sir Alexander did not say that the bills incorporating these companies would be disallowed, but he certainly left the impression that they would. The C. P. R. syndicate, he said, had strongly urged their disallowance on the ground that these railways would take away traffic from the C. P. R., and he had found the same opinion prevailing at Victoria. According to Sir Alexander the government are bound to protect the interests of the C. P. R. in preference to the interests of the country. There has been an opinion generally entertained that the privileges and monopolies conceded to the C. P. R. syndicate by law are quite sufficient. We are not aware that any law exists whose enactments would take away the moral right of British Columbia to charter railways in any direction she thinks proper, and the interference of the federal government on behalf of the syndicate, and against the interests of this province, will certainly meet with a vigorous protest. The opinion of Victoria cannot alter the circumstances and facts, neither can it interfere with the determination of the people interested to protect their rights. Sir Alexander ought to know that Victoria opinion on matters of commerce shifts about with the greatest facility as her own individual interests suggest. Victoria has long held the key to the whole commerce of this province, and has grown wealthy on the tribute paid her by all the world beside; and she looks with suspicion upon any movement which might open up communication between the mainland and the outer world so as to divert trade from her harbor. Opinions from that quarter are worse than useless—they are mischievous and misleading. Let the proposed railway scheme rest upon its own bottom, and let the people of the mainland, who are the projectors of the scheme, be held competent to pronounce upon its utility. For many years the people of Victoria have been demanding the construction of a railway from that city to Nanaimo. Nobody else wanted it. The people of Nanaimo are opposed to it. The people on the mainland had no interest in it whatever. But the provincial government have ceded about 1,000,000 acres of the public lands to aid in the construction of that railway, and there has been no protest from the mainland. We have surely been generous towards an undertaking for which we cared not a farthing, and had a right to expect generous treatment from Victoria in return. We propose to build a railway to the southern boundary in the interests of commerce. We ask no subsidy from either the Dominion or the provincial government. Not a foot of public land is sought even for right-of-way. But the people of Victoria can discern no advantage to themselves in the scheme, and they advise Sir Alexander Campbell to disallow it because it may interfere with the C. P. R. What do the people of Victoria care for the C. P. R.? It is not long since their leading newspaper said, in effect, that unless the C. P. R. made its terminus at Victoria (which would be impossible) it need not expect any patronage from that quarter—the people of Victoria would look to the Northern Pacific for their traffic! But now their opinions have changed. The C. P. R. must be protected and encouraged, and no other line of railway must be permitted on the mainland. The Colonist even goes so far as to represent the promoters of the boundary railway as satisfied with Sir Alexander's statements. It says: "Upon reflection, the remarks of the minister of justice meet with the approval of even the promoters of the bills in question. The Dominion government have acted wisely in disallowing charters which would have worked a decided injury to the province." Now, who told the Colonist such stuff? So far from being satisfied, both the board of trade and the promoters of the railway are very much dissatisfied with the statement of the minister of justice. The Colonist entirely misrepresents the fact, and makes deductions which we are satisfied it cannot defend. Let us learn from it in what way the proposed railway would injure this province. As to the interests of the C. P. R. we are of opinion that they would not be injuriously affected by the boundary railway. Through traffic from the east will necessarily come over the C. P. R., and the proposed road would simply become a local line, developing that part of the country, and affording facilities for traffic which do not now exist. We venture to say that its tendency will be to increase the C. P. R. traffic instead of diminishing it; for if no road is built to the boundary no traffic from that region will ever find its way to the C. P. R. Engineers are now surveying a railway line from the boundary line, on the American side, to connect with the American railways. If no connection is allowed on this side of the boundary, traffic from this side will assuredly go south over the American railways. In the interests of the syndicate, therefore, in the interests of the region through which the road would pass, and in justice to British Columbia and her rights, we ask the federal government to give this measure its assent.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.

THIS INSTITUTION IS UNDER the patronage of His Lordship the Right Rev. Bishop D'Herbomez, O.M.I., Vicar Apostolic of British Columbia, and is conducted by the R. R. Fathers Oblates of Mary Immaculate.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

Every pupil entering the College is examined and placed in the class best adapted to his previous attainments.

Members of every religious denomination are received, provided they be willing, for the sake of good order, to conform to the general regulations of the College.

Pupils are at all times under the supervision of the Prefect or Tutor. Perfect discipline is strictly but kindly enforced.

The greatest care is taken to nourish in the minds of students sound principles of virtue and morality.

Reports are sent every month to parents, showing the conduct, application and relative standing of their sons, and giving information about their health and other matters of special interest.

The scholastic year is divided into two terms beginning respectively on the first Monday of September and on the first day of February. There being no recess at Christmas or Easter, students may not then be withdrawn from their studies.

Vacation begins in the last week of June and ends on 1st September.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION.

Per str. Yosemite, from Victoria, Aug. 24.—A H McBride, wife and children, J Hennessy and wife, W Moresby and wife, Mrs Pheeney, Mrs Armstrong, Misses Murchison, Miss Durant, Miss Armstrong, Misses Green, Messrs J McMurphy, Tibbets, Slater, P McQuade, Ruberstein, Slater, Shore, D Smith, Lenz, Murray, R H Ward, W B Brown, Chas Stevens, J S Knevett, Foster, W J Durie, F Craig, Hughes, Basters, Lynne, Morse, C D Rand, W J Corbett, F Homer, W Dickinson, J E Insley, J W Powell, Oxley, H Nelson, Hansley, Burr, Borde.

The foundation of the new lockup at Granville is being laid.

Mr. Colwell is preparing to build a restaurant at Granville.

Sir Alexander Campbell and party left Victoria for the east on Thursday.

Mr. Lord is erecting a dwelling house on the corner of Douglas and Cunningham streets.

Mr. H. L. DeBeck went up to Lillooet river on Monday and hooked about 50 lbs of fine trout.

The telegraph line from this city to Ladner's Landing is expected to be opened for business to-day.

There is no abatement in the smoke. For some days it has been almost impossible to see across the river.

The police court has been doing a fair business during the past three days, but there have been no cases of special interest.

The annual exhibition of the Chilliwhack Agricultural Society is to be held on the 4th of October. Prize lists have been issued.

Orders have been sent from Victoria to the effect that no more shooting will be allowed on the rifle range at this city. Why is this thus?

The remains of Mrs. Robt. McKee, who died at Langley last Wednesday, were brought to this city for interment yesterday afternoon.

Nearly all the bridges on the road between North Arm and Granville are reported burnt. The False creek bridge, we believe, has escaped.

Messrs. Gilley, Mooney & Co. have purchased Mr. Wintemute's interest in the pile-driving business, and are now prepared for engagements. See adv.

The str. Yosemite, Capt. Irving, arrived from Victoria at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She was detained an hour and a quarter taking in hay at Ladner's.

Mr. J. K. Nelson has taken the contract to construct a road through lot 268, from the road at present being built by Mr. Webster to the railway reserve at Port Moody.

Constable Sharpe brought in a man last Thursday named Gomer, sentenced to 2 mos. for supplying liquor to Indians. He was convicted before Messrs. McKay and Alexander, J. Ps.

We are informed that several persons are violating the game laws by shooting grouse. A fine of $10 might have a wholesome influence. The shooting season does not begin till a week from to-day.

Mr. Clarkson's fruit and vegetable store on Mary st. has grown to be quite an establishment. The fruit and vegetables are principally from Mr. Clarkson's own garden, and are, consequently, always fresh and delicious.

The Oddfellows' excursion to Plumper's Pass on Thursday was not largely patronized. About 50 went from here, about 150 from Nanaimo, and over 300 from Victoria. The landing was so bad that very few people went on shore.

The Colonist of Sunday gives an interesting history of journalism in Victoria from the publication of the first newspaper up to the present time. Journalistic enterprise has kept well up with the progress and development of the country.

Mr. H. V. Edmonds will attend the sale of Port Hammond property in Victoria on the 30th inst., and will undertake any commissions entrusted to him. This will be a very great convenience to persons who wish to purchase but cannot attend the sale. See adv.

Mr. Dunsmuir has deposited $250,000 cash with the Dominion government as security for the fulfilment by him of the terms of the contract for the construction of the Island railway. It is believed that railway engineers will proceed to survey the route immediately.—Colonist.

Last Sunday the body of Indian Charley was found in the inlet near Port Moody, and Constable Sharpe handed it over to his friends. Charley left Granville for Seymour creek about 3 weeks ago in a canoe. It is supposed he was under the influence of liquor and fell overboard.

The San Francisco Bulletin publishes a letter brought down on the steamer St Paul from Ounalaska, which arrived this evening, announcing a large gold discovery on the Yukon river, Alaska. Owing to the extreme cold —28 degrees below zero—it was impossible to do much prospecting. The miners who made the discovery were a party fitted out by E. Schiefflin, who made big discoveries in Arizona, and who cleaned up over a million dollars in that section.

We cut the following from a letter of an occasional correspondent: The bottom would indeed seem to have fallen out of Winnipeg, and the reaction from this mad "boom" of a year ago is making itself most severely felt. In a private letter received the other day it was stated that hundreds were leaving the place daily; that no store in the city was paying running expenses, and auctions of the failures which almost daily occur were being held in every alternate store on the principal street. The returns from the bountiful harvest which Manitoba will this year secure is the one hope left for the revival of its business. The weather during the summer has been cool, and at times cold, necessitating the wearing of overcoats.—Colonist.

METHODIST CHURCH. — The Rev. W. J. Dowler, B. A., will preach a special sermon to children at 11 a. m. Service also at 7 p. m. Sunday School at 2.30 p. m. Service at Port Moody at 2.30 p. m. on board the ship John DeCosta, by kind permission of the Captain. *

One pound of Johnston's Fluid Beef is guaranteed to contain more real and direct nourishment than 200 lbs. of Liebig's or any similar extract of beef. The British Government analyst has pronounced it the most perfect food he ever examined. For sale by D. S. Curtis & Co. jy4-3m.

SHIPPING ITEMS.—Strs. Enterprise and Irving left for Victoria and Yale Wednesday morning. Str. Evangel arrived from Seattle at 7 Wednesday night. Str. Dunsmuir left with an excursion for Plumper's Pass at 6 Thursday morning. Str. Slope arrived from Victoria early Thursday morning, having been detained by fog on the gulf. She went on to Yale. Str. Rithet arrived from Port Moody Thursday morning and proceeded up river with rails. Str. Evangel left for Seattle Thursday afternoon. Str. Dunsmuir arrived from Plumper's Pass Thursday night about 12, and left for Nanaimo yesterday. Str. Yosemite arrived from Victoria yesterday afternoon at 3.

BASE BALL.—The Alpha club, of this city, returned at midnight on Thursday, carrying a broom, but in reverse order. They found the Victoria club too numerous for their state of practice. The match resulted as follows: Amities (Victoria), 45; Alpha, 27. It may be said for our club that they have been only a few weeks in existence, and are much wanting in practice. It may also be remarked that during the progress of the match they picked up wonderfully, and if play had been continued long enough it is quite possible Alpha might have won. The individual scores were as follows: Alphas—Minkie 3, Pearson 3, Rand 4, Wintemute 3, Gray 3, Scriver 1, Hutcheson 3, Lewis 3, Corbett 4. Amities—Baker 3, Clyde 5, Murray 4, Seeley 7, Borthwick 6, Gowen 5, Costello 6, Burns 5, Fee 4. After the match the members of our club were entertained handsomely at lunch by the Victoria 9, of whose kindness they speak in the highest terms. They left Victoria Thursday morning on the str. Yosemite, connecting with the Dunsmuir at Plumper's pass for this city. We congratulate the club upon the fact that they did not permit themselves to be beaten 2 to 1.

Telegraph to Ladner's Landing

FIRST TELEGRAMS OVER THE LINE.

LADNER'S LANDING, Aug. 24.

To H. V. EDMONDS, N. W.

The Reeve of Delta municipality greets the Mayor of New Westminster on the opening of the new telegraph line between Ladner's Landing and New Westminster. WM. H. LADNER.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Aug. 24.

To W. H. LADNER, Ladner's Landing.

The Mayor of New Westminster reciprocates the greetings of the Reeve of Delta municipality, and congratulates Ladner's Landing on being placed in telegraphic communication with the rest of the world. HENRY V. EDMONDS.

(By Telegraph to the Columbian.)

LADNER'S LANDING, Aug. 24.—Str. Yosemite, Capt. Irving, from Victoria, arrived at 12.30 p. m. and sailed for New Westminster at 1.45, having been detained loading 180 bales pressed hay for the C. P. N. Co.

End of the Telegraph War.

THE OPERATORS WILL RESUME WORK.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 18.—T. H. Hughes, secretary of the Brotherhood of Telegraphers, received the following from New York this afternoon:

"Send the following to all assemblies: The executive committee of the Brotherhood regret to say that the strike is a failure. All members who can may return to work immediately. Particulars follow by mail.

"J. CAMPBELL."

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—In answer to questions to-day Superintendent Jaynes said he would take back to-morrow all the best operators who apply for work, and so permit him to provide Portland and other offices north with good men.

SAN FRANCISCO WEAKENS.

The striking operators have not yet applied for situations with the telegraph company, but one of the operators states this evening that they will, in a body, on Monday morning, request Supt. Jaynes to reinstate them.

The Betts Drowning Case.

By request we publish the following report of the enquiry held before A. Masters, Esq., M. D., on the body of Mr. Betts, North Arm Mr. Bole represented the next of kin of the deceased.

Robert Matthieson:—On Saturday evening the 18th August, 1883, I was on board Mr. Sexsmith's steamer Alice. At 11 o'clock, near Mr. Daniel's place, Mr. Betts wanted to get off the steamer. He had a canoe attached behind. I next saw the man Betts in the water. I think he fell out of the canoe. I did not see him get into or fall out of it. I don't think Betts could swim. I went down a ladder to his assistance as soon as possible. He had sunk before I got into the canoe. The body was found about 5 o'clock that evening. (To a juror, foreman) Every effort was made to save Mr. Betts. Only 2½ minutes elapsed till we went towards him. Mr. Betts said he would get off there. I think the steamer slacked up there. I don't really know. A boy saw him fall into the water. I identify the body I found as that of Elijah John Betts, of North Arm, farmer, a partner of Mr. Mole's. The steamer stopped after the accident happened. I don't think anyone could help the accident. He came to the pilot-house and told Mr. Sexsmith, the owner, he wanted to get off the steamer. Mr. Betts was perfectly sober.

J. W. Sexsmith, sworn, saith:—On Saturday the 18th August, 1883, off Daniel's farm, I was in the wheel-house of the steamer Alice. Mr. Betts got on at Mr. Sam. McCleery's wharf. He had a canoe with him. He came to me a little before and said he wanted to get off. I said, "Let me know when you want to get off and we will stop." The next thing I heard was that something was wrong. I hurried to the stern of the boat, steam being shut off, and the boat going very slow. He appeared to be about 50 yards astern when I first saw him. Matthieson and I shoved off in Betts' own canoe. Betts was then out of sight. We circled around slowly with the steamer as long as we thought it was any use. We studied the matter over, and I came on to town to get grappling irons.

W. Sexsmith:—I am the owner of the steamboat Alice. She runs as a passenger boat between the North Arm and New Westminster, B. C. She has not yet got a certificate to carry passengers, but I have a verbal permission from Vipond to carry passengers. The Alice is advertised to carry passengers. She carries one boat 19 feet in the keel and four feet in the beam. Could carry 12 people. My crew is three. The boat could carry 20 or 25 passengers. We carry 6 life buoys. No life buoy was thrown to Betts. Mr. Betts only once travelled on my steamer. We generally slack down when people get off. We had no boat on board the steamer at all that day. The buoys were all handy. From the time of the accident a short time elapsed till we went to his assistance. The current is pretty strong. I saw nothing of the accident as it happened. I did not expect when he spoke to me that he was about to get into the canoe. He should have done so. I had no idea he was going to get off.

F. Bieler:—I was engineer on board the Alice on Saturday, the 18th August, 1883. I heard a cry and I ran astern and I saw Mr. Betts in the water. I got into Betts' canoe. I said to the boy, "Let go the canoe." I saw no paddle. Mr. Sexsmith passed me the paddle. I said, "The canoe is too small to go after the man." I got out again, and Mr. Matthieson got in in my place, and I went to reverse the engine. I heard the boy McInnes sing out. That was the first I knew of the accident. Never saw Betts again. I do not hold an engineer's certificate. About a minute after Betts fell overboard we reversed. Betts told me he was getting off. I wanted to stop, but he said no, he would drop off in his canoe. She was fastened on the anchor at the stern. I sent McInnes to hold the canoe for Betts. Steam was never thoroughly shut off. I got out of the canoe because I was scared. There was only one life-buoy on board, kept amidships near the engine, inside the engine-room. That is about 25 feet from the stern of the boat. That was the only life-buoy we had. We had neither boat nor canoe on the steamer that day. It was opposite Daniels', above 150 yards from the shore. About 2 minutes before Betts said he would want to get off somewhere there. I thought the canoe a dangerous one. I ought to have stopped the steamer whether Betts wanted it or not. The rule is to land a man on the bank. We carried a life boat the day before. (Foreman) The smallness of the boat frightened me.

Daniel McInnes, sworn: — I was working on the Alice steamer on Saturday, 18th August, 1883. I heard Betts say to Bieler, "You need not slack off; I will drop off in my canoe." Bieler told me to go astern and let Betts off in his canoe. Mr. Betts got into the canoe and was going towards the stern. I turned round for the paddle. The boat going ahead made the canoe sheer. Her prow caught in the side of the steamer and she turned over, rolling Mr. Betts into the water. There was a wash from the paddle. I shouted out to stop the steamer. Mr. Betts floated for about one-half a minute. He shouted. No life-buoy was thrown to him. He was too far away. It was about 200 yards from the bank. He had not gum boots on. Betts got off that way the day before. That was the first time I saw that mode of landing practised. (Foreman) I had a rope in my hand at the time. I never was in a canoe before. The steam was only slowed off. The tide was running fast at the time. It would take 2 minutes to stop. The cause of death was owing to the steamer keeping going ahead. If it had stopped Mr. Betts could go ashore safely.

The jury find Mr. Betts lost his life by accidental drowning; but the jury are of opinion more caution should be used in letting passengers off, and that life preservers should be placed more conveniently for use in case of accidents; also, that a life-boat should be carried on every trip.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—A despatch from the Mail correspondent at Winnipeg gives the welcome information that the track of the Canadian Pacific railway was completed to Calgary yesterday afternoon. Mr. Langdon, of the celebrated firm of contractors, emphatically asserts that no one has ever seen a finer location for a railway than the route chosen through the Rocky mountains.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—London cable specials contain the following points: Bitter opposition is continued against the measure providing that native tribunals in India may try European offenders. Bright addressed a large meeting during the week in favor of the measure, and was followed by a Hindoo lawyer, who spoke with such eloquence and in such perfect and musical English as to amaze and delight all his hearers. There is a cloud gathering in India, and uneasy rumors denote a growing dissatisfaction and unrest with the attitude of the resident English toward Ripon, because of their arrogant hostility against social advancement of refined and highly educated Indians. The late arbitrary and tyrannous imprisonment of a native editor for a harmless and unintentional libel, and the abrupt and unexplained refusal of redress by a higher tribunal at home, all tend to produce a dangerous feeling. The Indian pension list alone amounts to over $30,000,000 yearly, and the drain of taxation is already so burdensome as to be of itself unendurable. A population, on the other hand, intelligent, educated in English principles, and growing enormously, is beginning to think for itself on English principles, to become conscious of its power, and to recognize the gross imposition it endures.

The unblushing insolvency of the duke of Teck and the condition of royal mendicants generally continue to be freely discussed. The duke of Edinburgh went to Moscow to see his brother-in-law's coronation, and on Thursday the house was asked to vote £2000 for the expenses of that trip. Labouchere made a spirited attack on the measure, calling attention to the fact that £4000 had already been paid for the English embassador's expenses on the same occasion, and saying that his royal highness ought to defray his own expenses when he wanted to visit his relations. The grant was, however, voted by a large majority, though it would have been the other way if the members had voted according to the convictions they express outside the house. There is a rapidly growing resentment regarding these highway assaults upon the public treasury by members of the royal family.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Forster, formerly chief secretary for Ireland, in a speech at Davenport, strongly urged the necessity of emigration for Ireland. He said thousands of strong, hard working farmers here longed to go to a country where they could live without being terrorized.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Langtry looks much fagged and faded. She has engaged passage for America, and will play short engagements in Canada and New York and will then go to Australia. She hopes for the same success which attended her former foreign venture, and says the dream of her life is to be able to return to England and found a theater in London, which she will call "The Langtry."

MADRID, Aug. 19.—Quiet having been restored throughout Spain, the various bodies of gendarmes engaged in quelling the recent uprising have returned to former stations. Provincial officials are actively inquiring into the causes of the rebellion. A document has been found on an insurgent who belonged to the northern army which shows that Masonic societies have been influencing the army since 1870.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—It is affirmed that the bombardment of Hue by the French began on Saturday. Admiral Heyon, minister of marine and of the colonies, has ordered six gunboats to be constructed for Tonquin. It is stated that France has informed the powers that any ships that attempt to land arms in Annatma will be liable to seizure. The Seck believes that this is a warning principally leveled at the large exports of arms from American ports.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A Herald editorial, explaining a special despatch, says France seems determined to learn what China really intends to do about Annam. So to-day far southward from the scene of the recent discomfiture of her little force under Commander Reviere, she expects to bombard the Annamite capital. Her plan is quite startling, though not entirely original. It is to take the royal city, which, to the natives, seems part and parcel of royalty itself, and install a king after her own liking, leaving to China the difficult task of explaining that the new monarch does not reach the throne in the regular manner. The temporary success of the project seems assured in advance, as Hue is without strong defense. How long the advantage may be maintained will depend on how long China chooses to wait before dropping her long but heavy hand upon the game.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Times' Alexandria correspondent says: British troops should not be withdrawn from Egypt. No European family would remain in the country a week after their departure. Egypt, he says, is incapable of self-government.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Cetewayo has recovered from the wounds he received in the late engagement between his force and the insurgents, and has made a request to Queen Victoria that she will have full enquiry made into the treatment he received.

Surrey Council.

Council met Aug. 16, pursuant to adjournment; all the members present.

Communications were received as follows: From Hon. Jno. Robson, the Surveyor-General, G. W. Cann, Mr. Jas. Orr, C. M. C. of N. W. Ordered filed.

Tender for construction of ditch on the line one mile east of coast meridian, for $250, received from John W. Pickard. On motion, the contract was awarded to Mr. Pickard on condition he furnish bonds to the amount of $500 for the satisfactory completion of said ditch.

The Clerk submitted a statement of the finances of the municipality, which showed that several hundred dollars of delinquent taxes had been collected, and further explained his action in not entering suit for the recovery of the balance by stating he had written to the parties once more, hoping they would see the advisability of paying the taxes and saving expense to themselves and trouble to the municipality. Some had responded and paid like men, while others had taken no notice whatever; against these parties he proposed entering suit at the next sitting of the county court in N. W. The statement of finances was adopted and action of Clerk endorsed.

The Reeve presented the report of committee appointed to inspect contract No. 1, Hall's Prairie road. Committee reported as follows:—"We have examined contract No. 1, Hall's Prairie road, and found it was not completed according to specifications; we therefore instructed the Clerk to pay Mr. H. Davis $175 on account, he agreeing to complete the contract in a satisfactory manner in two months from date." On motion the report was adopted.

On motion the following appropriations were made: For Semiahmoo road, $200; Johnston road, $300; Cann's road, $50; Milton's road to river, $250; for the completion of the unfinished portion of the Hall's Prairie road between the Yale wagon road and contract No. 2, $200.

Considerable discussion here ensued on the relative merits of the several appropriations. On the motion being put, it was carried as follows: Yeas—Couns. Shannon, Johnston, and Milton; nays—Couns. Huck and Boothroyd. On motion the Council accepted the responsibility of expending the special appropriation for repairing Hall's Prairie road, as requested in communication from the Surveyor-General. On motion Couns. Shannon, Huck, and the Clerk were ordered to lay out the work after having examined the road. On motion the Clerk was instructed to invite tenders for the several works as soon as specifications can be prepared. On motion the following accounts were ordered paid: J. H. Boothroyd, $24.50; Woods & Turner, $1; E. T. Thrift, $13.75; BRITISH COLUMBIAN, $11. On motion the Council fully endorsed the action of the Reeve in granting $250 for steam ferry, provided the tolls charged do not exceed the schedule agreed upon. On motion it was resolved to return a vote of thanks to the government, and particularly the members for N. W. district for the liberal appropriations made for this municipality, thus aiding the Council in their endeavors to induce settlement on the wild lands by opening new roads and repairing those already made. The Clerk was instructed to forward a copy of the resolution to the several gentlemen indicated. The Clerk reported the bad condition of the Scott road and was instructed to correspond with Delta Council and inform them that this Council is prepared to appropriate $50 toward repairing said road, provided they appropriate a like amount for same purpose.

Coun. Shannon presented a requisition from Mr. E. Anderson, requesting that a bridge be constructed over the Nicomekle river and into his place; the Clerk to ascertain probable cost of proposed bridge. Mr. Parr, one of the new settlers on the Kensington prairie, addressed the Council at some length and requested that $200 be appropriated toward opening the coast meridian from the Nicomekle river one mile south. The Council will consider the matter.

On motion, the Clerk was instructed to correspond with Right Hon. Sir John A. Macdonald at Ottawa, and Hon. J. W. Trutch, Dom. Gov't Agent at Victoria, requesting that there be 25 acres of land on the South-east corner of South-west ¼-Sec. 11, Township 2, New Westminster District, reserved for a public cemetery; also fully setting forth the circumstances of the case.

Council adjourned till Thursday, Sept. 6, at 1 p. m.

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.—One of the most valuable discoveries in medical science, for the benefit of mankind, was made when Burdock Blood Bitters were invented. This medicine positively cures all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Skin and Blood. 25,000 bottles have been sold during the last three months.

"When all other remedies fail" for Bowel Complaint, Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, etc., "then Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry comes to the rescue." Thus writes W. H. Crooker, druggist, Waterdown, and adds that "its sales are large and increasing."

Do not attempt to remain over night without a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry near at hand. This is the season for Bowel Complaints, Colic, Cholera Morbus, etc., and the remedy above named is the unfailing specific.

For all troubles of the Throat, use Allen's Lung Balsam. See adv. in another column.

For diseases leading to Consumption, use Allen's Lung Balsam. See adv. in another column.

St. Ann's School

YOUNG LADIES,

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.

THIS SPACIOUS AND BEAUTIFUL Institution—conducted by the Sisters of St. Ann—is situated in the most healthy and picturesque part of the City.

The Pleasure-Grounds are ample and prettily laid out, presenting many inducements to healthy and invigorating exercise.

The discipline of the School is mild, but firm and regular; strict attention to its regulations required at all times.

Difference of religion is no obstacle to admission into the Institution, but whilst Pupils are left without any interference to follow their own profession, good order requires that they should conform to the general regulations of the Establishment.

The Course of Instruction embraces every branch suitable to the complete Education of Young Ladies, with the strictest attention to their moral and polite deportment.

The Scholastic year commences on the First of September, and ends in the beginning of July.

Terms paid quarterly or monthly in advance. No deduction will be made for the withdrawal of Pupils before the expiration of a term, except in case of protracted illness.

THE WAY IT WILL AFFECT YOU.

It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucous; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. SUCH IS THE IMMEDIATE AND SATISFACTORY EFFECT that it is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It is warranted TO GIVE ENTIRE SATISFACTION, EVEN IN THE most confirmed cases of Consumption! It is warranted not to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies), or affect the head, as it contains no opium in any form. It is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by Consumption, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time. Physicians having consumptive patients, and who, having failed to cure them with their own medicines, we would recommend to give ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM a trial. Sold by all Druggists. je30-1m.

Important Notice

The public are respectfully informed that the Unsold City Property and Tracts of Land that were not put up at auction on the 31st ult., owing to the length of the Catalogue, can be bought by Private Sale, together with a number of other lots that have and are still coming in daily, some particulars of which are given below. Parties wishing to dispose of their property by placing the same in the hands of the undersigned, will have the same fully advertised.

Block 1, lot 90, Hastings; water privilege. Lot 87, Burrard Inlet Road; 160 acres; partially fenced; runs through to Burnaby Lake. This is really good land, and easily cleared.

ALSO,

In connection with the Agricultural Fair to be held in this city, the undersigned proposes holding

AN AUCTION SALE

On the evening of the first day of Fair of Homesteads, Wild Land, Etc. On the second day of Fair an auction sale will be held of Stock and Farm Produce. This will give an opportunity to Farmers of disposing of their breeding and other stock, and also to purchasers a chance of getting what they may require in that line, without having to search to country for the same. This early opportunity is taken with a view to giving parties desirous of disposing of their Farms or property, ample time to make the same public, so that likely purchasers may have an opportunity of visiting and seeing for themselves, which they could not do at a short notice. This will be an opportunity that has never occurred before, and every Farmer should make a point of visiting New Westminster on that occasion. All that is required of those who wish to dispose of their property is that they communicate full particulars to the undersigned as soon as possible, giving the lowest cash price they will take for the same. If such price is not realized there will be no charge made. In this way a farm or a tract of land at Cariboo or Kamloops or Nicola Valley can be disposed of without the owner being put to the least expense or inconvenience thereby. Full particulars of sale in due time.

Our Story.

NELLIE'S MEMORIES.

"Directly, darling; I must speak to this lady, first," and she came up to where I sat smilingly watching the little scene.

"Are you not his mother, Mrs. Graham? why does he call you Lucy?"

"It is just his way; he is only an infant, you see, ma'am; and he used to hear my poor aunt call me so; and it has always been Lucy with him, never mother: and I like it somehow; for no one calls me by that name now."

"It must be a great sorrow to you having a child so afflicted."

"It is not the only trouble I have known, ma'am," she answered in her subdued voice; "life is just full of sorrow."

"But has he always been so?"

"Always, ma'am; when he was a baby, many and many a time I would have prayed God to take him, but for leaving me so lonely. It is the old that should suffer, ma'am, not infants; yet he is a happy little creature when the pain leaves him, and is very patient, are you not, my poor crippled darling?"

Hennie looked up from his plums.

"What are you talking about, Lucy? When the little old man who stole my legs brings them back again, I shall walk about, you know."

"What do you mean, Hennie?" I said.

"It is just an old tale I told him one day to make him laugh, when he was fretting because he could not run about like Darby Jones, old Marjory's grandson: and what else did I tell you, my own?" Hennie smiled brightly.

"Oh, you told me the angels would bring me one day a pair of snow-white wings that would carry me further than Darby's legs could carry him; but they are long a-coming, Lucy!"

"Heaven grant it," she whispered, as she pressed her lips to his hair, "for I shall want a pair too, then, Hennie."

It was growing late, so I rose to go, and after explaining to her the work I had come about, took my leave, promising to return on the morrow. My heart was full as I walked down the village street; Katie, who was somewhat alarmed at my long absence, was looking over the manse wall with Dudley, keeping watch for me. Both were deeply interested with my story, and Katie promised to go with me the following evening to see them.

"Look here, Nellie," she said, holding out a small slip of paper, "a message from the sea; a few lines from Keith, dropped into a home-bound vessel." I took it; it contained but a few words, but it said he was well and hopeful, and that was enough for me.

The following evening Katie and I went over to pay our promised visit. Rill accompanied us, and to her was deputed the honor of carrying the promised doll; which doll had given us the trouble of a long walk over the hills to the nearest presentable toy-shop; and half an hour's ludicrous uncertainty, owing to Dudley's being unable to decide between blue eyes and black; and when that was settled, between a white tarlatan trimmed with blue, or a pink edged with white. The red face of the toy woman grew redder and redder, and her fat sides fairly shook, as Dudley gravely pointed out the deficiency of chin in one and the insipid smile of another.

"Don't be so absurd, Dudley," Katie kept saying, "they are all alike; take any, Nellie, he does not mean to choose."

"I do, if you will give me time; you can't hurry these valuable purchases, can you, ma'am!" to the grinning old toy-woman; "what do you say, baby?"

Baby was as undecided as her brother, and selected first one and then another, and finally, with an eye to her own interests, urged the purchase of both.

"Black eyes and blue; no, no, Rill, the little boy does not want two. Perhaps, ma'am, we had better say the young lady with the fine color, it will wash off if he does not like it."

So the doll was bought—Clementia Clarissa, as Dudley tried hard to make Rill call her; it came out Clemissa it came through her rosy lips; and to the little maid was given the charge of carrying it safely to the sick boy.

This piece of benevolence, however, cost us much: every five minutes our steps were retarded by Rill's insisting to stop and have a peep at the blue eyes she coveted, or work her fat fingers through the knotted string in hopes of getting to her toes.

Old Marjory was spinning in the sun at the door, her grandson Darby, he of the legs, sitting beside her, scratching his red head over his lesson book. Hennie's voice answered "Come in" to our knock, and in we went.

"Well, Hennie, I have kept my promise and brought you your doll; come, Rill, give it to the poor little boy."

But Rill was shy, and hung back, hugging up the large brown parcel and shaking her shoulders.

"Come, baby, come," but baby would do nothing of the kind.

Hennie hung half out of his crib perfectly fascinated; Rill's rosy cheeks and curly head allured him more than a hundred dolls in paper.

"Oh, what a pretty little girl! Come here, little girl."

"Shan't, boy."

Hennie drew back saddened by the unexpected rebuff; and I was going to interfere, when Katie whispered—

"Let them alone, children soon come round with one another."

After a moment's silence, said Hennie, winningly—

"I have a doll, little girl, come and look at it," and he held it out towards her. Rill's disgust at the mutilated scarecrow was highly amusing.

"Ugly old thing, nasty doll!" and Hennie, reddening, hid his darling out of sight.

"I've a much prettier one," said Rill, defiantly shaking her curls over her eyes. Hennie was charmed at the overture. "Such a pretty one, boy."

"Show it me."

"Can't undo the knots."

"Oh, but I can; come and sit on my crib." The little lady graciously condescending, was lifted on to the bed; and Hennie's thin fingers were soon working away at the knots.

"Don't look," and Rill spread her hand over his eyes, while Katie promptly removed the covering; Hennie's pleasure was speechless. Propping up the glorious creature with his knees he looked and looked his fill.

"Do you like it, boy? is it pretty?"

"It is an angel," whispered Hennie.

"Angels wear white, not pink," replied Rill, contemptuously; it is a lady doll, kiss it?"

"She might not like it, such a grand creature as that."

"Yes, she will;" and thus encouraged, Hennie pressed his lips timidly to the waxen brow.

"Funny boy," crowed Rill, "funny boy."

At that moment Mrs. Graham entered, and was made sharer in her boy's happiness, and afterwards Katie and she had a long conversation together. Every evening during my stay at the manse I went to see Hennie and his mother, and as we grew more familiar her reserve became less; and one evening, as I sat helping her with some work she wanted to finish before night, she told me the story of her life.

"Things have not always been with me as they are now, Miss Mortimer," and Lucy Graham glanced down at her threadbare dress; "hard work and the bare crust indeed have come to me in these latter days, but my youth was prosperous, yes, prosperous and happy. My father was a well-to-do farmer in Hertfordshire not a yeoman, but a farmer, feeding his own flocks and herds on his own broad acres, and every one for twenty miles round knew Pear-tree farm, for it was a pretty place and well kept and tended.

"How strange it is, ma'am, that one dreams so seldom of the present, so often of the past; ever since Hennie was a baby I have never fallen asleep without seeing the old place, oh, ever as clearly as I see you; always dreaming of the old happy life, never of the care and the sorrow that came after. It is many a long year since I saw it, but it seems but yesterday. I mind it well; a long, low, white building, with the pigeons trambling and cooing over the thatched roof, with barns and outhouses, and well-littered farm-yard, the garden bright with hollyhocks and roses, where mother used to gather her lavender and tend her honey-bees; and the pretty honeysuckle arbor where Dorothy and I used to do our lace work.

"I can see it all, the blue parlor with its diamond-paned windows, looking out on the beds of lupins, pansies, and London pride; and the red-tiled hall leading to the dairy, where were the great pans foaming with new milk and shining like burnished gold. Or, standing at the lattice of my little white-curtained bedroom, I can see kitchen-garden and the herb-garden with their sweetbriar hedge, and the apple-orchard and the grass meadow and the pool under the alder-trees where the black cattle came to quench their thirst. Oh, the dear home place, with its humming bees and cooing doves and young white lambs, what would not poor Lucy give to see you all again, but that is not possible."

"Why not," I asked, "are your parents dead, then?"

"Yes, dead; dead ere ever the trouble came."

"And Dorothy?"

"I will tell you of Dorothy," she answered, and her large blue eyes grew troubled. "I am going to tell you of Dorothy. I was mother's only child, but not my father's. When mother came to Pear-tree Farm to live she found a girl of twelve years old, the child of his dead wife, and that was Dorothy. I shall find it hard to speak mercifully and well of her, for all the trouble I have ever known has somehow come from her. She was an evil-tempered, jealous girl even at that time. When my mother went home a young wife to the farm, angry at the new mistress, the new mother, she held herself aloof from her kindness and caresses, and sore was my mother's trouble in those day. And when the new baby came to comfort her, she could see no trace of softening in my step-sister, no tenderness for the little stranger; and as the days went on, and I became the spoiled pet and darling of the house, so did a bitterness that I think now must have amounted almost to hatred spring up in my step-sister's heart.

"As I grew up I was considered handsome; and as Dorothy, though tall and strong, was never anything but passable looking, the young lads and farmers' sons paid me compliments while they slighted her; somehow this did not mend matters; and many a taunt and angry word have I had to bear when father and mother were not by, and many a weary task imposed, that tried my strength, but which I bore patiently for my parents' sake, for they dreaded Dorothy's temper as much as I did. This she knew, and ruled us all with a rod of iron.

"I have said before that Dorothy's jealousy was great when the farmers' lads came as suitors to Pear-tree Farm; but she might have spared her taunts, for I was always kind of shy-like of them, and cared nothing for their ways and their wooing. When Enoch Barsley, the son of old Crœsus Barsley, as he was called, and who was favored by father and mother, came round on Sunday evenings in his red plush waistcoat and spotted blue neckcloth, with sleek shining hair, and brought me his absurd little posies, I always turned on him the cold shoulder, and, as often as not, when I saw him coming, would slip down the hollyhock walk and out by the wicket-gate in the wall leading to the lane, preferring a solitary stroll and a hunt for glowworms to listening to his clumsy speeches and compliments in the house-place. And so with Silas Underwood and Harry Marsden. Poor mother used to chide me sometimes and say that 'lasses in her time loved to be courted, and did not use to hold themselves aloof from a trim wholesome lad when he came a wooing. Then Dolly would look up sneeringly with her cold eyes and answer—

"'Leave Lucy alone, mother; don't you see she has set her cap higher than our poor wits would think of! It is not likely she'll look at Enoch or any other likely lad that will make her a good respectable husband, after Frank Thornicroft had walked his horse all the way from Wharncliffe Manor; it's my Lady madam that she'll be.'

"Which was cruel of Dorothy, and wholly untrue; for though the young squire was always ready with his jest and word when we met, and, as she said, walked his horse beside me through the shady lanes, and often called at the farm for a cup of new milk and a chat in the dairy, it was only just because he liked to be doing something when he was home from college, and was a blithe bonnie-hearted young gentleman. I might have heeded his compliments, but I had been once up at the Manor hall, at the great ball given on the young master's coming of age, and had seen madam in her velvet and point lace, and Master Frank dancing with young Lady Alice Travers, and saw the diamonds sparkling in her brown hair; and somehow, then, I understood that between him and me there was a great gulf fixed, which neither could bridge with honor. And though he came up afterwards and whispered 'that he would rather be dancing with his pretty Lucy than all the countesses in the world,' I gave no head to him, but just kept myself to myself.

A BY-LAW

To enable the Corporation of the City of New Westminster to raise by way of Loan the sum of Five Thousand Dollars for the purposes therein set forth.

WHEREAS IT IS EXPEDIENT TO raise by way of loan the sum of Five thousand dollars, to build a wharf for, and to subsidise, a Steam Ferry between the city of New Westminster and the South side of Fraser River; to assist in building an Agricultural Hall, and for grading and covering a portion of Columbia Street;

And whereas it will require the sum of Nine hundred dollars to be raised annually by special rate for the payment of said debt and interest;

And whereas the whole rateable property of the said Corporation of the City of New Westminster, according to the last revised Assessment Roll, being for the year 1883, is the sum of Four hundred and sixty-eight thousand eight hundred and thirty-five dollars, irrespective of any future increase of the rateable property of the Municipality and of any income in the nature of tolls, interest or dividends from the work, or from any stock, shares or interest in the work upon which the money to be raised as herein provided for or any part thereof is intended to be invested, and also irrespective of any income from the temporary investment of the sinking fund or of any part thereof;

And whereas, for paying the interest and creating an equal yearly sinking fund for paying the said principal sum of Five thousand dollars as hereinafter provided, it will require an equal annual special rate of one quarter of one per cent. on the dollar.

BE IT THEREFORE ENACTED, by the Mayor and Council of the Corporation of the City of New Westminster, as follows:—

1. That it shall be lawful for the Mayor of the city to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of Five thousand dollars, and cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Clerk of the said Corporation for the purpose and with the object above recited;

2. That it shall be lawful for the said Mayor to cause any number of debentures to be made for such sums of money as may be required, not less than one hundred dollars each, and that the said debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the said Corporation of the City of New Westminster and be signed by the said mayor;

3. That said debentures shall be made payable in ten years at farthest from the day hereinafter mentioned for this By-law to take effect, at the office of the Clerk of the Corporation of the said City of New Westminster, and shall have attached to them coupons for the payment of the interest;

4. That the said debentures shall bear interest at and after at the rate of eight per cent. per annum from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half-yearly at the office of the Clerk of the Municipality;

5. That for the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures and the interest at the rate aforesaid to become due thereon, an equal special rate of one quarter of one per cent. on the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon all rateable property in the said municipality during the continuance of the said debentures or any of them.

6. It shall be lawful for the said Municipal Council from time to time to purchase any of the said debentures, and such debentures shall be so expressed as to entitle the said Council to redeem and purchase the same on paying the amount thereof and interest due thereon to the date of such purchase, at such time or times as may be agreed upon, to the holder or holders thereof, and all debentures so re-purchased shall be forthwith cancelled and destroyed and no re-issue of debentures shall be made in consequence of such re-purchase;

7. This Bylaw shall take effect and come into operation upon the tenth day of September, A. D. 1883.

This Bylaw may be cited as the New Westminster Loan Bylaw, 1883.

Passed the Municipal Council the Thirteenth day of August, 1883.
