SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

A constant and disagreeable sweet taste has been reported in one case as a result of the substitution of saccharin for sugar.

Europe now has 22 crematories, ten of them added within the past year, while no less than 600 bodies have be burned in Germany and 800 in Italy. The United States has seven crematories, with six building. Thus it seems that prejudice against cremation is fast abating.

Vienna is to have an electrical laboratory at which the public, for certain fixed fees, may have tested the power and efficiency of dynamos, the candle-power and economical working of arc and incandescent lamps, the working of primary and secondary batteries, the calibration of measuring instruments, etc.

One of the three finest collections of butter-flies in the world—the two others belonging to the British museum and a Paris institution—has been made by Mr. Berthold Neumoegen, of the New York stock exchange. It contains 100,000 specimens, and has cost twenty years in time and $35,000 in money. Livingstone, Stanley, Schwatka and other explorers have contributed to it.

SNOW-CAUGHT BIRDS.—A curious danger to birds has been observed by a Belgian game-keeper. Warming the feet in the nearest body of open water during very cold weather, the tail-feathers become wet, and, dragging over the snow, soon form balls so large as to seriously impede progress. Partridges are thus made ready victims to stronger birds. It is probable, however, that this singular loading of birds is not of frequent occurrence.

BEST VIEWS OF MARS.—When Mars and the sun occupy opposite places in the heavens our near planetary neighbor is seen at its best. This occurs once in 780 days, but, on account of the ellipticity of the orbits of the earth and Mars, the two planets come nearest together only once in fifteen years. Mars was in opposition in April of this year; it will make its closest approach in 1892, when it will be only 35,000,000 miles away. The memorable discovery of the two tiny moons was made during the opposition of 1877.

THE WORLD'S QUININE.—The yearly production of quinine is estimated to be about 4,500,000 ounces. This is chiefly furnished by eighteen factories—one in Holland, two in England, two in Italy, three in France, four in the United States, and six in Germany. Quinine is also supplied by the government plantations in India; and experiments in producing it in the vicinity of Fidis, in the Caucasus, have been so successful that the Russian government is arranging for the cultivation of cinchona on an immense scale.

COOKING AND DIGESTIBILITY.—Experiments by Dr. N. Butiagin, a St. Petersburg medical student, show that the saliva is less active in digesting starch foods in invalids and weak persons than in the healthy, and that compensation for this may be had in the increased digestibility given the starchy substances by prolonged cooking. The saliva of a weak and nervous woman, with 88 per cent of the normal activity, digested rice and peas which had been cooked three hours with the same readiness that healthy saliva digested the some foods after cooking one hour. It was further found that the difference between the effects of healthy and unhealthy saliva becomes greatly lessened when the starch is cooked a long time.

THE ELEMENTS.—The naturalist often finds himself at a loss to draw the dividing line between closely-allied species; and in the chemical world are now known certain substances presenting slight variations that make it difficult to determine where the element ceases and the compound begins. Further than this, it seems that a vast array of intermediate bodies—"meta-elements"—must be recognized. From these facts Mr. Wm. Crookes, F. R. S., draws support for his theory of the origin of all matter in one form of atoms, conjecturing that the chemical elements were formed from knots and voids gradually created in a primitive formless fluid, and given different degrees of energy represented by their atomic weights. He supposes that heat vibrations were, in some unknown manner, transformed into the essential motions of chemical atoms.

There are a number of varieties of corns. Holloway's Corn Cure will remove any of them. Call on your druggist and get a bottle at once.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—When it is considered with what consideration our citizens have been received when visiting Vancouver on festive occasions, I think it is to be very much regretted that the managing committee should have forgotten their duty, when the band and a great many of Vancouver's citizens visited the old Royal City yesterday—the Queen's birthday. If the citizens of Westminster had thought it possible that the civic fathers would have been asleep on this festive occasion, I am sure they would not have allowed their brethren of Vancouver to have been so neglected on their arrival yesterday.

LEANY & KYLE.

Vancouver, May [illegible]

Daily British Columbian

Friday Evening, May 25, 1888.

In his issue of this morning our Vancouver morning cotemporary gets off one of those fearful and wonderful editorials which have almost become quite a feature in his journal. It relates to the improvements now going on at the mouth of the Fraser, and the appropriations made for their completion. Once in a while our esteemed salt water cotemporary gets on to a subject affecting the interests of this city, and on such occasions he invariably displays a wonderful faculty for disguising his real purpose. In to-day's issue he writes a whole column which is summed up in this comprehensive sentence: "It is also very probable that for some time to come it will not be possible to obtain a sum en bloc sufficiently large to complete the improvements in the time that they would be effected provided the money required was available." We are sure no one will venture to dispute a self evident fact so lucidly and logically expressed, or underestimate the vigor with which the robust mental faculties of our cotemporary jerked these great, burning principles from the wonderful intellectual storehouse where for weeks past they have been expanding into perfect and symmetrical proportions!

A few days ago we stated that arrangements had been practically completed by which the city would get possession of the public park at the east end. Yesterday Mayor Dickinson received a telegram from Hon. Jno. Robson stating that an order-in-council had been passed conveying this piece of land to the city of Westminster for the purpose of a park and pleasure grounds. The quantity of land embraced in this conveyance is about 87 acres, which is amply sufficient for present needs at least, and will give room enough for all the associations organized for the promotion of outdoor sports and passtimes. The park is situated where it can be easily reached, as nearly all our principal streets lead directly to it. There will be a wide entrance from Columbia street, east of Mrs. Homer's residence, which will eventually become a fine avenue with stately trees on each side. The view is very pretty from almost every part of the park. Possession of this fine tract of land having been secured, we very much hope our citizens will lose no time in taking such steps as may be deemed necessary to put it in proper shape. Such a piece of land cannot be transformed from its wild state into attractive pleasure grounds in a day or a year. The trees may soon be cut down, and the surface levelled, but the growth of ornamental trees and the formation of soil are the work of time; and the longer a commencement is delayed the longer will it be before the final result is reached. Before entering upon the work, a competent landscape gardener should be employed to prepare plans, so that we shall not have to undo afterwards what we do at first. The expenditure of a few thousand dollars should make a wonderful transformation, and in the course of a few years Westminster may be able to pride herself on possessing the finest park in British Columbia.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Mail says that Senator McInnes, of this city, has been making some very disturbing statements about the exodus of Canadians to the United States. In dealing with this subject the senator said he had taken the trouble to address a circular letter to one hundred and twelve United States consular agents in the Dominion, asking for a statement of the number of consular certificates granted to the heads of families who were moving with their household goods to the United States. He had received replies from 84 of them. They covered the years 1885, 1886 and 1887. It showed that in the year 1885 there were 3,515 certificates issued at these 84 consular districts; in 1886, 5,332, a total for three years of 13,917. He thought it would be a fair calculation to multiply this by five to get at the number of persons represented by these 13,917 heads of families. This footed up a total of nearly 70,000 souls. But this did not embrace all the people who left this country. This did not include young men and women whose all was contained in their trunks. It did not include those families who sold their household effects before leaving for the other side, nor those who reported themselves to the customs officers. This class of citizens was lost to us forever, because they declared before getting their certificates that they intended becoming settlers in the states. The exodus was as great at least as the questionable sort of emigration which was pouring into the country. One individual of the kind which was leaving the country was worth five of the objectionable people who, at great expense, were being imported into this country. He expressed the belief that one of the chief causes of this exodus might be found in our international tariff arrangements, and ventured to hope that a policy of more unrestricted trade between the two countries might be adopted so as to prevent a continuance of this great loss.

Scrofula

Is one of the most fatal scourges which afflict mankind. It is often inherited, but may be the result of improper vaccination, mercurial poison, uncleanliness, and various other causes. Chronic Sores, Ulcers, Abscesses, Cancerous Humors, and, in some cases, Emaciation and Consumption, result from a scrofulous condition of the blood. This disease can be cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

I inherited a scrofulous condition of the blood, which caused a derangement of my whole system. After taking less than four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla I am and, for the past year, have not found it necessary to use any medicine whatever. I am now in better health, and stronger, than ever before.—O. A. Willard, 218 Tremont st., Boston, Mass.

I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores for five years; but, after using a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the sores healed, and I have now good health.—Elizabeth Warnock, 51 Appleton street, Lowell, Mass.

Some months ago I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores on my leg. The limb was badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy failed until I used Ayer's Sarsaparilla. By taking three bottles of this medicine the sores have been healed, and my health is restored. I am grateful for the good it has done me.—Mrs. Ann O'Brian, 158 Sullivan st., New York. ††

TELEGRAM.

OTTAWA, 27th March, 1888.

TO LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, VICTORIA.

Your Government should issue public notice cautioning persons going on Sealing expeditions to refrain from assertion of their rights by force, and from taking on board arms and ammunition in excess of their usual requirements. The whole matter is engaging the attention of Her Majesty's Government and forms the subject of diplomatic negotiations now in progress. Any intemperate action in the meanwhile would be most detrimental to British Columbian interests and might lead to serious complications and be followed by grave consequences to those concerned.

JUDAS ISCARIOT.

The Probable Origin of His Name—Some Legends About Him.

There is no doubt or ambiguity with regard to the earliest part of Judas Iscariot's name. Judas is merely the Greek or Hellenistic form of the Hebrew "Judah," familiar to everybody. But "Iscariot" is, as it has always been, a puzzle.

At least half a dozen interpretations of the word have been suggested by philologists, but no one of them is in all respects satisfactory. The most seeming of their number is that the word is a condensed or corrupted form of the two Hebrew words, "Ish Kerioth," meaning "the man of Kerioth," Kerioth being a village in Southern Palestine, where perhaps Judas or his family had their origin.

The name, however, is of no consequence for our present purpose; and we have remarked it only to show the mystery attaching to the man in every phase of his surroundings.

With regard to his birth, legend and myth are as copious as is conjecture with regard to his name. Here are two of them, for which we are immediately indebted to Moncure Conway:

In the apocryphal "Gospel of the Infancy," it is related that a demoniacal boy, brought to the child Jesus, strikes him, whereupon Jesus weeps, and Satan comes out of the boy in the shape of a furious dog. This boy was Judas.

According to another legend, Judas' mother had a dream before his birth that her son would murder his father and sell his God. To avert this, the child was sunk in the sea, but was cast on shore. He was adopted by a king and queen, who had a son, whom Judas slew. He fled to Judea, became the page of Pilate, and, after the predestined murder of his father, learned from his mother her dream. In terror and contrition Judas hears of a prophet who forgives sins; when he throws himself at his feet, Jesus, recognizing his predestined betrayer, accepts him as a disciple, and intrusts him with the purse so that Judas' avarice might be excited and the plan of salvation not fail. Judas thus became heir apparent to the infernal throne, and in mural pictures of Eastern churches he appears seated on the knees of a majestic Satan.—New Orleans States.

Little Voices from the South.

"Who discovered America?" asked a teacher of a class of very young pupils.

This startling information was instantly vouchsafed:

"Christopher Columbus, and he was born in a boot," from which it will be seen that the small scholar had been noticing the shape of Italy on the map.

The same class had a lesson in the "First Reader," telling the memorable story of the cherry tree and hatchet. Closing the books the teacher asked:

"What did George Washington's father say when he found his favorite tree cut down?" In her excitement the same child who told of the boot rose from her seat, brandished her right arm menacingly, and exclaimed:

"Who cut down my cherry tree? I means to whip him, I don't care who he was! Because," she added, as she took her seat, "I'll bet that's what he did say, don't you, Miss ——?"

Two small boys, aged seven, were heard, on their return from Sunday school, discussing the story of the fall of man. One spoke of the great sorrow of our first parents upon being driven from the gates of Paradise by the angel who guarded them.

"But, Bob," remonstrated the other, "why in the world didn't they jump over the fence?"—N. Y. World.

Faith Illustrated.

A business man on the Hudson had his children down with the scarlet fever, and one of the little ones was put in quarantine apart from the rest. It was a mild type of fever, and the grandfather used to go upstairs and sit with the child.

The little girl one day took her grandfather to a corner of the room, and showed him some alphabet bricks arranged to spell out:

"I want you to get me a box of paints."

Next day he brought the paints from town, but left them in his overcoat pocket when he went up to see his little girl. She didn't say anything, but she took him to the corner again, and he read:

"I thank you, grandpa, for the box of paints."

She had faith in him.—Dwight L. Moody.

The Tennessee Way.

A smart-stepping citizen of Tennessee was in New York to see about raising money for a proposed railroad line down in his country, and when asked to explain, he said:

"There's no explanation about it. This is to be a railroad 200 miles long."

"But about the company?"

"Oh, that's been organized and all the officers elected."

"What's the capital?"

"Fifty million dollars."

"How much stock has been taken?"

"About $300 worth."

"What! only $300 worth?"

"That's all, mister, and if you fellers down here will only pitch in and gobble up the rest of it, we'll go ahead and make things hum."

Dog Story from Kentucky.

The Louisville Courier-Journal tells that a dog of the city fell into a catch-basin, the top being off. A crowd, attracted by his loud yelps, soon gathered around the basin, but, no one having a rope, the dog was allowed to remain in the basin quite a while.

Presently a man came up with a rope and lowered it into the basin, the dog quickly catching it with his teeth. The man pulled the dog up slowly till he very nearly reached the top of the basin, when, on account of weakness, the animal fell back to the bottom. The man again lowered the rope, and when it reached the animal he tucked it under his fore legs and also caught it in his teeth. He was then slowly pulled to the top by the man.

Worth Remembering.

Onions are invigorating and prophylactic beyond description. Further, I challenge the medical fraternity or any other to point out a place where children have died from diphtheria or scarlatina diphtheria, etc., where onions were freely used.—Scientific American.

He Inspired Hope.

In Queen Anne's reign, Lord Bateman married three wives, all of whom were his servants. A beggar-woman meeting him one day in the street, made him a very low courtesy.

"Ah God bless you," said she, "and send you a long life. If you do but live long enough, we shall all be ladies in time."

Philosophy of the Kitchen.

Little Dick—"I don't like to help wipe dishes."

Omaha Mamma—"Why not, pet?"

"If I learn how to do such things just right, I'll grow up into a servant girl, won't I?"

"No, dear. If you learn how to do anything just right, you'll never be a servant girl."—Omaha World.

NO FRILLS FOR HIM.

"Hustle in Some Corned Beef and Cabbage."

A tall old man, with a rather vacant look and a hesitating air, ventured slowly into the dining hall of a large up-town hotel the other evening in New York. It was the usual dinner hour, and the long room was filled with guests. The old man paused, scrutinized his cuff and his waistcoat, and after making what seemed to be a helpless effort to see the back of his neck, he beckoned to the head waiter. That functionary hastened up, and the old man said:

"Waiter, do I look right, tidy, you know?"

The waiter inspected the venerable guest critically for a moment, and then assured him that all was in order.

"Necktie all right?"

"Yes, sir."

"Collar button show?"

"Not at all, sir."

"No spots on my coat?"

"Not a spot."

"The general effect is pretty slick, is it?"

"Very, sir."

"Well, you see, waiter," said the old man confidentially, "I came down to breakfast one day last week without any collar, and my son James was very angry; so yesterday when I came into lunch with my necktie under my left ear, he said if anything like that happened again, he would have my meals served up-stairs. Do you know my son James, waiter?"

"Yes, sir."

"Is he at dinner, now?"

"No, sir; he finished about ten minutes ago."

"Are you sure?"

"Perfectly, sir."

"Well, then, waiter," said the old man in relieved tones, "if you are certain of it, you tell the man at our table to hustle in some corned beef and cabbage, and not play any of his French business on me, or I'll break his neck."—Northern Budget.

THE SARCASTIC YOUNG MAN.

An Incident of Life in a Flat—Nocturnal Revelry.

The occupants of a flat on the second floor had given a party. All the evening and late into the night there was a tramping about with singing and laughter and noise that made the occupants of the flats all the way up to the skylights roil around in their beds and pound vainly on the walls for peace.

About 3 a. m. the departures began, and the noise redoubled with the farewells of the guests, while over the stairway on the fourth floor leaned a sleepless, wild-eyed young man in a flowered bath-robe and little else, listening to the good-byes below.

At length one guest alone remained and he was in the hall.

"I want to thank you, Mrs. Damper," he said effusively, "for the delightful evening I have had, and now I really must go."

"Don't do it, don't do it," came loudly down from the fourth-story landing. "It's nonsense to go so early as this. Come upstairs and take breakfast with me. If you will keep your mouth shut for two hours I'll give you a square meal and an overcoat."

The Mistake of Being Born Among the Zulus Demonstrated.

When a Zulu child is first born it is of a light hue, and does not get the darker tint of the parents for some years.

As soon as it enters the world the "medicine man" is sent for, and contrary to the custom of the civilized "medical man," he takes no notice whatever of the mother, but devoting himself entirely to the child makes a number of small gashes in various parts of the poor infant's body, into which he rubs medicine and goes on his way rejoicing, returning next day to make the incisions deeper and rub more medicine into them. This second operation being performed the child is washed and dried by being moved around in the smoke of a wood fire, eventually being daubed all over with a red paint, which is renewed as fast as it wears off for a period of several months.

The child is not allowed any natural food until the visits of the "medicine man" are ended (this formality often causing serious consequences to the offspring), and a few days afterwards the mother will be seen about her work as usual, with the little one strapped to her.—Drake's Magazine.

Unique Jewelry.

A seal ring with a watch set in room of the seal is the latest thing out in jewelry. The timekeeper is a marvel of delicate workmanship, and really a triumph of the jeweler's art. It is a trifle larger than the ordinary cameo or signet for ladies' wear, but not large enough to be clumsy or to look out of place on a delicate hand.

The first watch of this description worn in America is credited to Miss Anna Scoville, a grand-daughter of Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, to whom it was lately sent from Paris, and it is said to be a reliable guide to the hours.

A niece of Secretary Bayard has a watch daintily set as a brooch, and watches on the flaps of the big pocket-books now used by women are not uncommon. Fanny Davenport has one of this description which is thickly set with emeralds and rubies, making probably the costliest pocketbook in existence. Watches set in the sticks of umbrellas and parasols are an English fad, and perhaps half a dozen of them have been seen here.

Easily Understood.

Mrs. Penn—"William, I read an advertisement in one of the papers stating that for a dollar in stamps, the advertiser would send by return mail a sure way to get rid of rats in the house."

Mr. Penn—"Well?"

Mrs. Penn—"I sent a dollar in stamps, William, and received an answer."

Mr. Penn—"What was it?"

Mrs. Penn—"William, the cheat told me to move."—Philadelphia Call.

Bound To Have His Bath.

Ferdinand de Lesseps, the great engineer, has always been extremely fond of taking cold baths, and a story is told of him which shows that he never forgot his ablutions, even when on a visit.

One winter morning, while he was staying with some friends in the country, the servant went to call him at 7 o'clock. He found the bed empty, and, after a search about the grounds, the old gentleman was discovered bathing in a pond, where he had been obliged to break the ice so as to get into the water.

He Practiced.

The minister called one day and was shown into the parlor, where Johnny undertook to entertain him until his mother should appear. But soon stubbing his toe against a sharp corner of furniture, little Johnny, who was only three years old, gave vent to a string of swear-words.

"Oh, oh!" cried the minister, shocked. "Where do you learn to use such dreadful words?"

"Well, I'll tell you," said Johnny confidentially; "you see, I hear pa swearing at sua, and then I go and practice on Bridget."—Boston Globe.

Constipation

Is a universal and most troublesome disorder. It causes Headache, Mental Depression, impairs the Sight and Hearing, destroys the Appetite, and, when long continued, causes Enlargement of the Liver, Inflammation of the Bowels, and Piles. Constipation is speedily cured by Ayer's Pills.

For a number of months I was troubled with Costiveness, in consequence of which I suffered from Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, and a disordered liver. My eyes also troubled me. I was compelled to wear a shade over them, and, at times, was unable to bear exposure to the light. I was entirely three boxes of Ayer's Pills. I have no hesitation in pronouncing this medicine to be the best cathartic ever made.—James Eccles, Poland, Ohio.

I suffered from Constipation, and, consequently, from Headache, Indigestion, and Piles, for years. Ayer's Pills, which I took at the suggestion of a friend, have given me effectual relief. I commenced taking this remedy two months ago, and am now free from Constipation, the removal of which has caused my other troubles to disappear, and greatly improved my general health.—W. Keeler, Amherst, Mass.

I suffered from Constipation, which assumed such an obstinate form that I feared a stoppage of the bowels. Two boxes of Ayer's Pills cured me, completely.—D. Burke, Saco, Me. ††

The City Park!

When the provincial secretary was in the city a week ago it was arranged that a conveyance of the city park should be made to the corporation before the Queen's birthday. We are sure this announcement will be received by all citizens with satisfaction.

Silver Trout.

Considerable quantities of this beautiful fish have been caught during the last week or so in the nets of the salmon fishers. Mr. Vianen, who is good authority on such subjects, says that it is unusual to get any numbers of these fish at this time of year. He has got lately from 30 to 40 some nights. The fish are about the size of a small salmon, weighing from 7 to 14 lbs., and are as fine eating as their appearance would seem to warrant. It is to be hoped that they will make a practice of visiting our river in increased numbers every spring.

A Shingle Mill Burned.

Mr. Walford, of Surrey, who was in town yesterday, brings the intelligence that Mr. John Elwood's shingle mill on the Semiahamoo spit was burned last Monday. This mill employed about ten men, and was turning out a large quantity of shingles. A house adjacent was also destroyed, and several other buildings, including a boarding house and store, had a narrow escape. We have not learned how the fire originated. This mill, we are told, belonged to the Murne estate. It will be remembered that Murne met a tragic fate in this city last year at the hands of Shearer.

The Juveniles.

The Juvenile Opera Co. opened in Herring's opera house on Wednesday evening to the largest audience ever gathered together in the house. The opera was Olivette and the company did remarkably well considering the age of the actors. Yesterday afternoon Pinafore was put on the stage and last evening the Mikado, both of which performances were largely attended. The company scored a complete success and will meet with a warm reception should they ever return. The arrangements regarding the seats were not generally understood and much dissatisfaction was expressed on all sides.

Turns up in Langley.

A narrator informs us that last Friday night a lively panther chase ensued at Langley Prairie. A boy informed Mr. Wm. Murray's household that a wild-cat was up a tree a short distance from the house. The young men with some neighbors and their dogs and guns immediately advanced on the enemy, which turned out to be an immense panther, according to our informant, with a "head as big as a water-pail and a tail six-foot long!" Before the dogs reached the tree the animal made a tremendous spring and, gaining the ground, disappeared in the woods, with the men and dogs after him. The indefatigable hunters continued the chase until a late hour, but their game eluded them for the time. Our narrator informed us that it was the intention of the young men to organize a grand hunt for the 24th, when they hoped to be more successful. This huge beast and his associates have destroyed many calves in Langley Prairie, and he is probably none other than the "patriarchal cougar" of Surrey. It is to be hoped the huntsmen of Langley may "settle his hash."

Our Visitors Yesterday.

Probably there were not less than 1000 visitors in this city yesterday, and a great many of these saw the royal city for the first time. It is unnecessary to say that, as a rule, they were greatly delighted with their visit. In many respects the sports undoubtedly fell short of the expectations of some; but we pointed out a few days ago that all the arrangements had to be made hastily in consequence of the late date at which it was determined to hold any public celebration at all. In some circles there have been complaints because no formal reception was given to the people who came over from Vancouver to join in the festivities, and some of our citizens have been drawing contrasts between this and the reception accorded to Westminster on the occasion of her last visit to Vancouver. But these persons overlook the fact that the circumstances were very different. On the former occasion Vancouver city council sent a formal invitation to the city council and citizens of Westminster, whereas yesterday there had been no such invitation. The people of Vancouver came over of their own free choice, and were welcomed in the same way as people from any other part of the province. All are welcome at all times to come to our city, but in the absence of a special invitation they come as individuals and cannot look for an official reception. We are sure there could not have been any respectable number of people from Vancouver yesterday who approved of the reference to this matter contained in the News this morning. The person who wrote that complaint could not have been aware of the circumstances, or he must have a strange conception of propriety. Our city officials know well enough how to receive and entertain those whom they invite to be guests of the city, but they cannot be expected to meet every train and every steamer and every trip of the ferry-boat to look after visitors who have come to us of their own accord without official invitation.

No family living in a billious country should be without Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. A few doses taken now and then will keep the Liver active, cleanse the stomach and bowels from all billious matter and prevent Ague. Mr. J. L. Price, Shoals, Martin Co., Ind., writes: "I have tried a box of Parmelle's Pills and find them the best medicine for Fever and Ague I have ever used.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY

How the Day was Spent in Westminster.

Finer weather for the celebration of her majesty's birthday than Westminster was blessed with yesterday, could not have been asked. The day broke bright and clear, and although the sun shone out warm, the cooling breeze helped to moderate the heat, which was not oppressive at any time during day. No particular attempt was made at decorating the city, though flags were flying from every mast and a few establishments brightened up the appearance of Columbia street by the judicious use of evergreens. A great majority of our citizens stayed in the city and no organized excursions took place to outside points, the attractions in town and the visitors from other cities being sufficient inducement to keep people at home. The bulk of the visitors came from Vancouver, it being estimated that fully 700 people of that place arrived during the day. The train that arrived shortly after 9 o'clock contained about 400 people, the 1 o'clock train brought 200 more and the 2:30 train another 100. The cars were packed with people, both seats and aisles being occupied, but although the comfort in travelling in this way was not great, few complaints were heard, and, as a rule, the passengers took everything good-naturedly. Around town the streets looked very lively all day. Ladies and children dressed in their best and escorted by husbands, fathers and sweethearts aided the general appearance of things, and their pretty and attractive dresses helped to brighten the streets and made the want of decorations not so observable. The first attraction of the day was the shooting match at Brownsville. About 35 members went over on the K. de K. at 7 o'clock, the largest number that ever attended a prize meeting of the association. Only the first matches were shot as it was impossible to finish the programme without interfering with the general arrangements of the day. The shooting was fair though not as good as usual, which was probably owing to the disordered state of the nerves brought about by such an early start in the morning. The following were the successful competitors and their scores:

MAIDEN STAKES.

Open to members of the association who have never won a prize at any previous meeting. Range, 200 yards. 5 shots.

M. Mowat, 20 points—Pair gold sleeve buttons.
O. E. Darling, 20—Bowie knife.
O. B. Ackerman, 18—Sawing machine.
R. Bonson, 17—Straw hat.
C. W. Homer, 16—Pen knife.
J. McMurphy, 15—Water carrier.
R. Lister, 15—Pound tobacco.
S. T. Tidy, 12—Pound tobacco.

SECOND MATCH.

Open to all members of the association. Ranges, 200 and 400 yards. 5 shots at each range. Entrance fee, 50 cents.

O. B. Ackerman, 38 points—Silver cup.
L. F. Bonson, 35—Meerschaum pipe.
A. F. Cotton, 35—$5 hat.
W. Wolfenden, 34—Pair vases.
J. H. Sharpe, 33—Ham.
Geo. Turnbull, 32—Pencil case.
Serat. Smith, 32—Briar pipe.
C. Hamber, 32—Pair slippers.

The remaining two matches will be fired on Saturday afternoon.

The baseball match, Vancouver vs. Westminster, commenced almost immediately after the arrival of the 9 o'clock train. The teams were very evenly matched and the game was one of the best ever played in British Columbia. In their first innings Westminster took 5 runs, but the Vancouverites soon settled down to play and every base secured after the first innings was well earned. The pitchers and catchers were well up to their work though it was noticeable that Westminster had the advantage over its opponents in this particular department. The base keeping and fielding were excellent on both sides. The teams were composed as follows: Westminster—Baker, Upper, Spencer, Greig, Working, Cunningham, White, Wilson, Winters.

Vancouver—Lang, Flannigan, Brophy, Metz, Larwill, Allan, Tuck, McLellan, Norval.

At the close of the 5th inning the umpire declared the game finished in order to allow the cricket match to commence, which was supposed to begin at 11 o'clock. When the game was called Westminster stood winner with a score of 9 to Vancouver's 8. Mr. Mott acted as umpire to the satisfaction of both teams.

Stumps were pitched by the cricketers shortly after 11 o'clock and playing commenced immediately. As a whole Vancouver showed the best play, and more particularly in wicket-keeping and fielding. For Vancouver Nelson's wicket keeping was grand, and Prenter's bowling was unusually good, and for Westminster Miles and Dockrill did excellent work. Although Vancouver won by 55 runs the defeat can not be called a bad one, and when the clubs meet again the gap will not be so wide. The best individual score was made by Miles for Westminster, who ran up 21 runs before he was bowled. The following is the score:

The tug o' war, between teams chosen from Vancouver and Westminster, was won by the latter after a hard struggle. Messrs. Buie, Webb, Bonson and Tietjen deserves much credit for the satisfactory manner in which the sports were conducted.

The sailing and canoe races attracted at least a couple of thousand people to Front st., and the spectators manifested a deep interest and displayed much enthusiasm over the different events. The sailing was contested by Mr. Chas. Coutts' boat and the Mayflower, the latter winning after a good contest. The Indian's race, 15 paddles to a canoe, was won by the crew from Chilliwhack, of which a Siwash named Joe was the proud captain. The 11 paddles race was contested by canoes from Hope, Masquim and Harrison. The first two fouled, and while they were getting disentangled the Harrison canoe settled the race by crossing the line. The boat races were managed by Messrs. Johnston, Punch, Laidlaw and Ewen, and were very successfully carried out.

At noon a detachment of men from the artillery, under Capt. Bole, Lieut. McNaughten and Lieut. Mowat, fired a salute of 21 guns from the battery opposite the crescent, in the presence of a large number of people, the majority of whom were ladies. The men looked well and served the guns like veterans. The members of the Vancouver cricket club were dined by the Westminster club after the match had been concluded. A very jolly time was spent in speech-making, etc. The Vancouver baseball boys were also well entertained by the home club. During the day the Westminster band and Vancouver band played selections and assisted greatly in putting life into the occasion. The latter band is an excellent one and would be a credit to any city, and the people of Westminster owe them a debt of gratitude for their kindness in coming over and playing so frequently during the day, without compensation and under a boiling sun. Alderman Ovens had charge of the visitors and was careful to see they lacked nothing procurable in the shape of eating and drinking. The bulk of the visitors returned to Vancouver on the 8:30 train and by 10 o'clock the city had once more resumed its customary quiet. The day, on the whole, was a great success and the people of Westminster may feel proud of the manner in which her majesty's natal day was celebrated in the royal city.

Mayor Dickinson and the members of the council were round town all day and aided in every possible way the arrangements of the celebration.
