THE BRITISH COLUMBIAN.

VOLUME 24 — NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C., SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1883. — NUMBER 2

The British Columbian.

Saturday Morning, July 7, 1883.

International Events.

On the 19th of April, 1775, the first battle between British and American troops was fought at Lexington, a small village between Concord and Boston. The British were successful, but the struggle for liberty thus begun eventually ended in the treaty of peace being signed on the 3rd of September, 1783, in which Great Britain acknowledged the United States of America to be free, sovereign and independent. No fair minded person acquainted with the history of American events from 1761 to 1775 will deny that there existed good grounds for the revolution. The pig-headed King George seemed unable to comprehend that it was possible for the American colonists successfully to resist the execution of his unjust and tyrannical laws. The British nation generally cherished sympathy with the colonists, at least up to the time of the declaration of independence, July 4th, 1776. But parliament yielded to the wishes of the king, and nearly half a continent was lost to the British empire. The bitter enmity which the revolutionary war left on both sides has, happily, been growing less and less, and there never was a period when so much friendliness existed between the United States and Britain as exists to-day. And there is no reason why this friendliness should not continue and expand. In all fairness we cannot be held responsible for the blunders of our ancestors over a hundred years ago. The world has been steadily advancing, and we believe it would be quite impossible now to induce a British parliament to commit the stupidity which produced the American revolution. At the time of the declaration of independence the United States had a population of 2,614,003: its present population is over 50,000,000. In 1776 the country was in a condition of hopeless poverty, and when the war of independence closed she stood on the verge of bankruptcy; to-day the United States stands in the front rank as a wealthy nation. It would not be easy to imagine what might have been the present condition of affairs on this continent if the original colonists had been treated with the consideration they deserved, and had remained loyal to the mother country. The present population of Great Britain and Ireland is about 35,500,000. If Great Britain and America (including Canada) were united the empire would show a solid population of about 92,000,000, possessing resources and wealth such as would make her absolutely independent of the rest of the world. But there is not much prospect of a political union between Great Britain and the United States. They may, however, cultivate an intimate friendship which would be to their mutual advantage, and stand side by side in the development of civil and religious freedom. And it is not too much to hope that before the end of the present century there may be between the Anglo-Saxon nations a firm alliance which would give them the power to regulate the political affairs of the world. A united empire of 96,000,000, composed of Anglo-Saxons, would be practically invulnerable. In the meantime we are glad that the present relations between these two great nations are so satisfactory and cordial. All along the border between Canada and the United States the interchange of friendly acts is marked. We enter with the most perfect good will into the Fourth of July festivities, and Americans generally share with us in the enthusiasm of our national celebrations. We are one in blood, one in language, one in the promotion and maintenance of free speech and free institutions. Let this international friendship be strengthened, until the chances of separation and conflict between Britain and America shall become impossible.

You can give your horse and cow too much salt. Some people put rock where the animals can lick it all the time. We feed a little twice a week. —N. Y. Herald.

Household Hints.

CUP CAKE.—Five cups of flour, three of sugar, one of butter, one of cream, five eggs, one teaspoonful of soda; season to taste.

COOKIES.—A large and good "batch" of cookies can be made from this receipt:—One cup of butter, two cups of sugar, four eggs, two tablespoonfuls of sour milk or buttermilk, half a teaspoonful of soda, with flour enough to make a moderately stiff dough.

REMOVING IRON RUST.—Iron rust may be removed from delicate garments, upon which you dare not try oxalic acid, by mixing the juice of a lemon with some salt; put this over the rusted spots, and then hold over the spout of a steaming tea-kettle. This is almost always effectual.

THE SURPRISE PUDDING.—To eight ounces of fine flour add six ounces of currants and six ounces of suet chopped fine. Make these into a crust with a little water, and line a mould or pudding-bowl with it. Then take four ounces loaf sugar pounded, the juice and rind of two lemons, and add to these five eggs well beaten. Beat all these ingredients well together, and pour the mixture into the lined mould and boil it for an hour and a half.

SUET PUDDING.—Four eggs, one half pound of suet chopped fine, one pint of breadcrumbs, one quart of milk, half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, and two tablespoonfuls of flour. Mix the suet, crumbs, cinnamon, nutmeg and flour together; boil the milk, and while it is hot pour suet, &c., into it, beating thoroughly; add the eggs beaten. Sweeten to the taste; add a little salt, brown the pudding in an oven, and serve warm.

SWEETBREADS.—If one likes sweetbreads at all, the salad made with them will be found very palatable. Boil them until tender, then fry until brown in butter, break in small bits with a fork, and put them in lettuce; this may be cut or torn or sent to the table whole in a dish by itself, and the sweetbreads be mixed with the salad dressing; in either case the dressing should be made thus:—The yolks of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one heaping teaspoonful of mustard rubbed with oil until smooth; a little sugar, pepper and salt are also required.

ELECTION CAKE.—Five pounds flour, one and three-quarter pounds butter, two pounds sugar, two pounds stoned raisins, one nutmeg, half-pint brandy, one gill sherry or Maderia wine, one pint yeast, one quart new milk. Rub part of the butter into the flour, as it would not rise so well with the whole, or melt it in the milk, as it rises better to be warm. Add the milk and yeast at night. If well risen in the morning, add the other ingredients; if not, let it stand till well risen. Flour, butter, milk and yeast to be put together at night.

POT AU FEU.—Take a good-sized beef bone with plenty of meat on it, extract the marrow and place in a pot on the back of the range, covering the beef with three or more quarts of cold water; cover tightly and allow to simmer all day long. The next day, before heating, remove the grease from the top, and add a large onion which has been stuck full of cloves and roasted in the oven till of a rich brown color; then add any other vegetables which one may fancy. Rice or vermicilli may be added for a change. Just before serving, burn a little brown sugar and stir through it. This gives a peculiar flavor and rich color to the soup.

The Fishery Interests.

In 1880 the number of people engaged in the fishery industries of the United States was 131,426. The fishing fleet consisted of 6,605 vessels and 44,804 boats, and the total amount of capital invested was $37,955,349. The value of the great fisheries of the sea, the great rivers and the lakes, was placed at that time at $43,046,053, and that of those in minor inland waters at $1,500,000—in all $44,546,063. The annual product of the British American sea fisheries are set down at about $20,0000,000. In France 80,875 sailors, manning 22,125 ships and smacks, are employed in fishing. The total products from the French fisheries, including the sum derived from the sale of oysters, amounts to about $35,000,000 per annum. The annual value of the takes of fish in Norwegian waters is a little over $15,000,000, with from 70,000 to 90,000 persons, or eleven per cent. of the whole population, employed in the fisheries, and about 50,000 persons, or seven per cent., in the shipping trade. Sweden derives from its sea wealth about $1,825,000, while the Dutch fisheries bring an annual income of fully $15,000,000. Russia derives every year a large sum of money from her sturgeon and sterlet fisheries, the amount being not less than $20,000,000, while the fishing interests of Denmark and Iceland each yield an annual income of 5,000,000 crown. Great Britain claims to realize about $50,000,000 annually from her fisheries, and has 120,000 persons constantly or occasionally employed in this industry.

WARMTH IN THE SOIL.—Professor Pedhollow gives interesting data showing that stable manure makes a warmer soil. In the course of a series of observations at Houghton Farm of the hourly and daily variations in the temperature of the earth at different points down to the depth of seven feet, and extending through May, the summer months and September, the important practical conclusion was established that ordinary cultivation tends to make soil temperature more uniform, while it does not lessen the liability to chill during the night; but that stable manure, doubtless by the heat furnished through its decay, does diminish this danger, keeping the soil warmer by from one-half to one degree than a soil treated with commercial fertilizers. This difference, though apparently small, is justly regarded as sufficient to be sometimes the saving of a crop.—N. Y. Tribune.

Catching at Straws.

The organs of the late provincial administration are extremely exercised about the fate of this country under the Smithe government. When the Kootenay bill was passed they cried out lustily, forgetful of the fact that the only representatives of the defunct administration were active supporters of that measure. Now, when there seems to be a probability of the Kootenay act being disallowed, the organs are not content, but evidently feel, although they are afraid to confess, that the Kootenay scheme was not half so bad a thing for the country after all. The wagon road through Eagle pass, which formed a necessary part of the scheme, is being pushed forward with considerable energy, and the benefits it will confer on the country are becoming more obvious every day. We are also informed that considerable numbers of prospectors are now going into Kootenay with a view to prospecting and opening up mines. The publicity given to that district as a result of the parliamentary discussions has resulted in inducing immigration, and immigration can hardly fail to develop the resources of the country. If the Kootenay bill is sanctioned, the development of Kootenay is sure to be rapid, for the company are bound to realize as rapidly as possible upon their investment. If the bill fails, then the organs should be content, but there will accrue to the country a certain amount of benefit, nevertheless. The organs have been pursuing the same tactics with reference to the settlement act. They denounced the act in unmeasured terms, and declared that, if carried into effect, it would ruin the country. But that act has not yet been ratified, and may not go into effect until next year. The organs turn round and declare the settlement act a failure, and howl afresh because the country is going to the dogs, and there will be no money for needed public improvements. If the settlement act was bad for the country, surely its failure could not also be bad. If it has failed, we stand precisely where the Beaven government left us, and the ordinary revenues of the country are just as large and as available as if no settlement had been attempted. There is this difference, however: work on the dry-dock has been virtually stopped, and that insatiable whirlpool which has for years been swallowing up our revenues, without giving any return whatever, no longer appears in the provincial estimates. For this fact at least the organs should be thankful. What did Mr. Beaven and the organs accomplish towards a settlement of the difficulties existing between this province and the federal authorities? They sent a plenipotentiary-extraordinary to Ottawa and London in the person of Mr. DeCosmos, who by his singular lack of statesmanship left the situation very much worse than he found it. The results of his mission were an attitude of hostility between the two governments which shut out all hope of amicable settlement, and an enormous bill of over $10,000 which he claimed from this province. Now, if Mr. Beaven and his friends had remained in office till the present time, does any person who knows the circumstances pretend to assert that we would have been nearer a settlement? We fancy not. The deadlock would have continued without prospect of relief, and the dry-dock would have been going on as a provincial work, drawing the very life-blood out of the state. The organs know this perfectly, and if they were honest they would confess it. We are now nearer a settlement than ever we were before. The basis of settlement at least has been agreed upon; and if the act passed at last session falls to the ground there can be very little doubt of its ultimate completion when the parliaments meet again. If the organs were half as anxious to promote the substantial progress of the country as they are to manufacture grievances against the present government, they would manifest a much more commendable spirit. Their chief concern seems to be the restoration to office of those who will feed them liberally, and they are wildly catching at straws with which they propose to construct a fortification that will enable them to take the citadel.

T. R. Pearson & Co. will receive subscriptions for that excellent monthly, Resources of British Columbia, $2 a year. A full supply of the first numbers on hand.—Adv.

Shall we keep Sunday?

Not long ago it was mentioned in this journal that the fishery authorities at Ottawa had rescinded the order permitting Sunday fishing. No fishing will be allowed this season between noon on Saturday and 6 o'clock Sunday night. We are glad this step has been taken. It was certainly not creditable to the government of Canada that a special regulation should be made to permit Sunday fishing. The custom was attended with consequences of which probably the authorities did not dream. Last year it was several times reported that men had been discharged from some of the canneries because they refused to work on Sunday. Some of these men were Indians who had been taught by the missionaries that Sunday labor was both wrong and unlawful. They could not easily comprehend how a practice in itself wrong for an Indian could be right for a white man and legalized by the professedly Christian government of a professedly Christian nation. But these Indians had either to do violence to their conscience and work on Sunday, or suffer the consequences. The effects often went much further than mere Sabbath desecration. Human nature is very much the same in the Indian as in the white man. One step in a wrong direction leads to another, and we have heard of instances in which these people lost all moral restraint because they were persuaded to break the Sabbath. Moral sentiment in this country does not bring a premium. It too often happens that the man who makes rich regardless of the means adopted receives the popular benediction. We are beyond the reach of many of those restraints which in other lands would prevent us from committing wrong. But altered circumstances and surroundings do not lessen the claims of duty or change either the moral or civil law. It is just as necessary that Sabbath should be observed in British Columbia as in Ontario or England. We have deliberately adopted the English Sunday law, and made it the law of this province. If the law is good, let it be observed and enforced; it it is not good, let it be repealed or amended. It has become too much the custom in this country to pass a good law and let it lie as a dead letter on the statute book because its enforcement might interfere with somebody's plans. Such a practice leads inevitably to to the degredation of all law, and brings it into contempt. It is the business of the legislature to enact that which will promote the welfare of the greatest number. If individual interests stand in the way of the general good of the state, then they must suffer. We shall not now attempt to prove that the observanre of the Sabbath as a day of rest is in the public interest. There are few indeed who will undertake to dispute a proposition which has so often been proved by both argument and experience. If, then, we are to have a Sabbath in British Columbia, the law establishing it should be enforced with firmness and impartiality. The plea of necessity must not be accepted as sufficient unless it be well founded. It very seldom happens that a man who opens the doors of his shop on Sunday and sells goods over the counter can successfully shield himself behind such a plea. And yet we are informed that this is done every Sunday in this very city, and the authorities take no notice of it. We have seen men sawing wood, building houses, and performing other works for which we believe no excuse could be offered, and they have not been molested. Now, if one man is permitted to sell on Sunday, he not only breaks the law, but takes an unfair advantage over his neighboring merchant who refuses to break it. On week days all merchants stand upon the same footing, and he whose wares are best and cheapest, and who possesses the tact and enterprise necessary to draw custom, will by legitimate means secure success. But the man who sells on Sunday steals a march upon his more scrupulous competitors by breaking a law which they respect. The force of example is powerful, especially if that example points in the direction of personal gain. If all our merchants were to open their shops on Sunday, all would share equally in the profits of the day; but where would be our Sunday? For the sake of the public good we hope this pernicious practice of Sunday trading and Sunday labor will stop; and if those who engage in it will not voluntarily conform to the requirements of the law, we hope the authorities will take measures to prevent them from taking an unfair advantage over law-abiding citizens. There is throughout this province a widespread sentiment in favor of Sabbath observance, and the city of New Westminster should not allow itself to stand in the way of a movement so commendable. We are not in favor of making our Sabbath a day of irksome restraint and enforced idleness. All we claim is that it shall be a day in which ordinary business avocations shall cease, and the mind and body shall have wholesome rest and recreation in whatever way individuals may think best—provided these recreations are not of such a kind as to cause annoyance to the public. We believe the Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.

PRELIMINARY NOTICE.

—AN IMPORTANT—

AUCTION SALE

Of city suburban and Port Moody property will be had at the Colonial Hotel at an early date. Parties desirous of disposing of their property are hereby invited to place the same in the hands of the undersigned at as early a date as possible, in order that the same may be fully advertised, to enable intending purchasers to visit and examine for themselves before day of sale. This is considered a rare chance for parties desirous of selling, as also for intending purchasers, as in the event of there being no sale effected there will be no charge. Terms as usual.

ALSO,

In connection with the Agricultural Fair to be held in this city, the undersigned proposes holding

AN AUCTION SALE

On the evening of the first day of Fair of Homesteads, Wild Land, Etc. On the second day of Fair an auction sale will be held of Stock and Farm Produce. This will give an opportunity to Farmers of disposing of their breeding and other stock, and also to purchasers a chance of getting what they may require in that line, without having to search to country for the same. This early opportunity is taken with a view to giving parties desirous of disposing of their Farms or property, ample time to make the same public, so that likely purchasers may have an opportunity of visiting and seeing for themselves, which they could not do at a short notice. This will be an opportunity that has never occurred before, and every Farmer should make a point of visiting New Westminster on that occasion All that is required of those who wish to dispose of their property is that they communicate full particulars to the undersigned as soon as possible, giving the lowest cash price they will take for the same. If such price is not realized there will be no charge made. In this way a farm or a tract of land at Cariboo or Kamloops or Nicola Valley can be disposed of without the owner being put to the least expense or inconvenience thereby. Full particulars of sale in due time.

Monday is the last day for receiving tenders for the steam ferry. Don't all tender at once.

Mr. Jno. Hendry has just erected a neat little cottage on Alice st., in which he proposes to reside.

Capt. Gardiner says the buoys at the mouth of the river are in a very unsatisfactory condition.

Messrs. Holding and Davis returned from Victoria last Tuesday evening, each bringing a new mower.

Attention is directed to the educational announcements which appear in our advertising columns to-day.

The last two days have been extremely hot for British Columbia, and everybody is looking anxiously for rain.

The str. Enterprise brought up about 135 tons of freight yesterday, part of which was dischargek at the canneries.

The city council meets next Monday night, when the result of the steam ferry tenders will probably be made known.

The walls of Mr. Cunningham's new brick store are going up as rapidly as the limited supply of bricklayers can raise them.

The Fourth of July passed off in this city without any event more remarkable than the explosion of a number of fire-crackers.

The long-continued drought is beginning to tell perceptibly on the crops in many parts of the county. Haying has already begun.

Job printing of all kinds neatly done at the COLUMBIAN office. Prices will be found lower than at any other office in the province.—Adv.

For the month of June the customs collection at Nanaimo amounted to $6,995, and for the fiscal year the collections were $49,297.

Mr. T. J. Trapp has fixed his great real estate sale for the 31st inst. Posters containing the announcement, and particulars of the property, will be issued to-day.

It is currently reported that the members of the Excelsior band, who recently made the overland trip to Whatcom and back on horseback, prefer to take their meals standing up. It tires them to sit.

Salmon are coming up the river in considerable numbers. On Thursday some of the boats took from 100 to 150 fish each. Yesterday the run was not so good. The fishing season may fairly be said to have commenced.

We had much pleasure in congratulating the str. Enterprise on her quick trip last Tuesday. We take it all back to-day. She didn't reach her wharf yesterday till 6:10 o'clock! That mud-turtle line may find profitable employment yet.

Mr. Sexsmith has received his boiler and engine from Ontario and took it down to the North Arm on Wednesday where it will be placed in his new steamer. It is expected the steamer will be ready for business in a week or two.

Base ball promises to become quite the thing in this ciy. A new club is being organized at Sapperton, and the Royal Tigers are so set up by their victory on Dominion Day that they propose issuing a challenge to the whole province.

The Yosemite is expected up in about a week. It is intended to take the Rithet off this route as soon as the Yosemite arrives and use her for carrying rails from Port Moody until the Slope is ready for service, which will be over two weeks.

The shooting match at Port Townsend, on the 4th, resulted rather disastrously for the British Columbia team. The score stood 418 to 314. Capt. Peele and Dr. Trew, who represented this city, returned yesterday afternoon, but they have not yet become visible to the naked eye.

When the str. Evangel came to the wharf late on Thursday night, Mr. Jno. McInnes, of the Union Hotel, took one of the lines. In the darkness he fell over some obstructions on the wharf and narrowly escaped going into the river. He was considerably hurt, but not seriously.

Grip of June 16th represents Sir John laying the lash of disallowance on the provinces with a liberal hand. The little boy British Columbia has been completely knocked off his legs by the veto power. John Bull standing by says: "Gently, Johnny; I never meant you to use such a whip as that."

The Fourth of July excursion to Yale was a very pleasant affair, and the celebration at Yale is pronounced a very decided success. The excursionists took a trip up the railway 18 miles to camp 13. The sports at Yale were well contested, and we notice that Columbus Johnston, of this city, carried off 4 first prizes.

Mr. Murray Thain met with an accident at Moodyville on the Fourth of July. He had loaded a cannon for the purpose of saluting the screaming eagle, but when touching it off the powder used for priming flashed into his face. His hands and face were considerably burned, but we are glad to learn that there is no reason to apprehend danger.

A private letter from Clinton states that an expressman had arrived from Dog creek and reports that Chilcoatin Indians laid in ambush for some of T. Harper's stockmen and fired at them, killing a horse which one of them rode. The stockmen returned the fire, killing one Indian and wounding another. The tribe are excited and threaten reprisals.—Colonist.

T. R. Pearson & Co. have just opened out a very large and varied assortment of extremely handsome Church of England common prayer and hymn books. They are the finest ever shown in the city.—Adv.

Among the new justices of the peace just appointed are the following: Hugh Boyd, John Kirkland, Francis Page, H. V. Edmunds, Geo. Pittendreigh, Geo. R. Ashwell, and Wm. Perkins, for the district of New Westminster; Wm. Jones, T. Roadley, Paul J. Gillie, Arthur Stevenson, Joseph D. Lauder, and Chas. Pennie, for the district of Yale.

Foreign news is unimportant. A dispatch from London denies that the difficulty between France and China has been adjusted. Healy, the home ruler, has been elected in Monaghan county, but his Conservative opponent threatens to protest. While the steamer Daphne was being launched at Glasgow last Tuesday, she turned over, killing and drowning about 100 people.

The following gentlemen have been appointed selectors of jurors: A. C. Anderson and Thomas Shotbolt, Victoria district; Mark Bate, James Harvey, Nanaimo; James Cunningham, Robt. Dickinson, New Westminster; Richard Deighton, James Wardle, Yale; J. H. Hantz, Arthur Stevenson, Lytton; William Jones, Thomas Roadley, Kamloops; John Saul, John F. Smith, Clinton; Jonathan Nutt, James Stone, Richfield.

METHODIST CHURCH.—Rev. E. Robson, pastor. Service to-morrow at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday School and Bible Class at 2:30. Seats free; strangers cordially invited. *

REAL ESTATE.—Mr. Wm. Clarkson has opened a land office in the premises adjoining Mr. Keary's book store, where he will furnish terms and particulars to persons desirous of purchasing either city or farm property, of which he has a large number of lots to dispose of.—Adv.

POLICE ITEMS.—The Fourth of July seems to have brought much more business to the police court than Dominion Day. On Thursday a large number came up on various charges and were fined from $7.50 to $15 each. John Hall brought up for supplying liquor to Indians, was fined $100 or 6 mos.

FROM THE SOUND.—Persons who arrived from Seattle by the Evangel last Thursday evening inform us that the celebration in that city on the Fourth was almost a total failure. No very great amount of enthusiasm was manifested, and the sports and races were decidedly tame. At Whatcom, however, our band boys report having had an excellent time, with any amount of good sport to witness while there. Whatcom is a booming place, and we hope it will continue to boom.

SHIPPING ITEMS.—Strs. Enterprise and Irving left for Victoria and Yale on Wednesday morning. Str. Dunsmuir arrived from Nanaimo on Wednesday evening. On Thursday str. Dunsmuir left for Nanaimo, and str. Evangel arrived from Seattle Thursday night. Yesterday morning str. Evangel left for Seattle at 9 a.m., str. Rithet arrived from Yale at 9 a.m. and left for Victoria at 10. The str. Irving arrived from Yale at 5:10 yesterday afternoon, and the str. Enterprise arrived from Victoria yesterday afternoon at 6:10.

MISSING. — On Monday Mr. Wm. Brimmage, who lives near Point Roberts, was in this city celebrating Dominion Day. In the evening it is supposed he left for home in a small boat. The boat was found by Mr. Rowling some distance down the North Arm on Tuesday. It contained some provisions, two bottles of liquor unopened, and a bottle partly filled. The oars were attached to the row-locks, and it is believed that Brimmage must have fallen overboard. He was much addicted to drinking, and scarcely ever left the city sober. There is very little doubt but he has been drowned.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—About 4 o'clock last Monday afternoon Alex. Macaulay met with an accident near Lytton which cost him his life. He was one of the telegraph construction party, and they were engaged in putting up the wires about 4 miles this side of Lytton. Macaulay was up a ladder adjusting the wire when it slipped off the insulator, striking him on the chest and throwing him off the ladder. He fell on the road head first and died next day from the injuries received. Macaulay was about 25 years of age, a native of Aberdeen, Scotland, and had been in this country only about two months.

TELEGRAPH ITEMS.—Mr. J. Wilson, superintendent of telegraphs in British Columbia, returned last Monday from up-country where he has been for 5 weeks engaged in repairing the line between Yale and Lytton. The poles were found to be so rotten that most of them had to be taken down and replaced by new ones. That part of the line is now complete. Mr. Wilson begins next week on the new telegraph line between this city and Ladner's Landing. The wire will be connected with the old cable across the river. Mr. Wilson expects to have this line finished and in operation before the end of July.

LOCAL TALENT.—Few cities of the same size can boast of as much local talent suitable for the entertainment of public gatherings as New Westminster. And additions are constantly made to the number of those whom the public delight to honor. Those who had the good fortune to be present at the Blue Ribbon meeting last Wednesday evening were treated to several pleasing surprises. Such were the song so sweetly sung, and so well received, by Miss Agnes McMurphy; the Scotch song by her venerable father, the sergeant-major; the "Maiden Speech," so well recited by Rev. W. J. Dowler, B. A., which fairly convulsed the audience and elicited rapturous applause; and last, but not least, the recitation of "Father Avery's Prayer," by Mrs. C. D. Knight, whose clear enunciation, soul-stirring emphasis and graceful elocution placed her, in the estimation of competent judges, at once in the front rank of our provincial reciters. By every possible token the audience showed their hearty appreciation of the high order of talent displayed. With such resources as these at its disposal, the Blue Ribbon Club should be able to live and flourish, even in the dog-days.

Bovine Burglars.

There are a great many cows in this city. There are good cows, there are bad cows, and there are cows which are worse than bad. Many of these are found prowling around the city, looking for open doors, which may be doors of usefulness to them, but certainly prove doors of destruction to the gardens of the good citizens. For "ways that are dark" some of these cows distance even the "heathen Chinee." It is simply wonderful how expert they have become in effecting entrance to cabbage gardens and lawns. It is questionable if anything short of a patent combination padlock is proof against them. Of the entire brigade, there is one cow well known throughout the city as the champion burglar. She is of medium size, young, sleek and fat, with white hair and short, hooked horns. That cow can open a gate, bars or door in a manner that would do credit to many a "christian" if it were not for the bad intent with which it is done. Were she to be killed (of which there have been many and bitter threats), it would not surprise us if, besides a large supply of the neighbors' vegetables, a complete set of burglar's tools would be found inside of her. It is believed that during her residence in our city she has lessened the taxable value of private gardens, potatoe bins and kitchen sheds by several hundreds of dollars. Now this is all wrong, and really unpardonable in its effects upon the patience and temper of our good citizens. It is said that the cow in question belongs to an employe of the city council. The owner has, we are informed, been notified, entreated, warned, threatened and assessed with damages, to all of which no attention is paid, save a few unredeemed promises. Will the council direct Nightwatchman Jackman to look after this matter? Or will it devolve upon the injured parties to present the cow to the next grand jury as a nuisance? It might, indeed, be a nice point of law for the courts to decide whether persons drinking milk from such a cow could not be prosecuted for receiving stolen goods. Perhaps Mr. McBride might find some use for her at the penitentiary. O'Conner could milk her as relaxation from his scientific studies.

From Port Moody.

(Correspondence of the Columbian.)

Weather has been very warm and dry here, and the city of the terminus would have felt like dissolving had it not been for the grateful breeze off the gulf and inlet. Preparations for track-laying are going on. The track when laid will not be of much use, however, until we get a locomotive and some cars. The two steel rail ships have completed the discharge of their cargoes. The King Ceolric expects to sail on Tuesday, and the Kate Troop about the end of next week. The Kate goes to Astoria and will take a cargo of salmon from that place. The railway wharf is covered with rails, and if another ship should now arrive it would be difficult to find a place where she could discharge.

From Clover Valley.

(Correspondence of the Columbian.)

The Clover Valley school house is fast approaching completion, under the able directorship of Mr. A. Murchison. It is a very neat and commodious structure, and will be neatly furnished with seats and desks. It is erected on a very pleasant site on Connor's hill, overlooking the valley. ——We had the pleasure of a visit from the superintendent of education on Thursday, the 28th ult. He held a public examination of the scholars, which he thought highly satisfactory, considering the many disadvantages both the teacher and scholars have been laboring under since the school opened a year ago. After the examination, Mr. McKenzie gave the children a short address, advising them to improve their opportunities, and complimenting the teacher, Miss M. J. Norris, on the tact and energy with which she has applied herself to the duties of her position. The trustees also expressed themselves highly pleased with the progress made during the last half year. The school then broke up for the holidays.——The farmers are commencing to cut their hay.——A little rain would be welcome now.

From Cariboo.

(Correspondence of the Columbian.)

BARKERVILLE, June 30.—The event of the week—at least in "church" circles—has been the arrival of Bishop Sillitoe and wife. The Bishop has come up to administer the rite of confirmation to-morrow to some eight or nine of our population.

A strong company is being formed to prospect Slough creek. Some six or eight thousand dollars have been subscribed, and it is intended to begin work very soon and prosecute it with the utmost vigor. Some assistance is expected from the Government. Some of the hydraulic claims here and in the neighborhood promise better than last year, and some don't. Lowhee has been doing well, and Antler fairly; but the Chinamen are as usual getting the biggest share of the gold. Indeed, some of them are doing remarkably well.

The annual meeting of the hospital board was held on Monday last. Too little interest was manifested in the business of the meeting. The old members of the board have all been re-elected and received a vote of thanks for the efficient discharge of their duties during the year. The report of the board spoke of the successful management of the hospital under the present surgeon; and made the pleasing announcement that the donations secured through the fire brigade had put the hospital out of debt.

The annual school meeting was held yesterday. I understand the attendance was very small. Dr. Watt was elected in place of the retiring trustee, and Mr. Stone in place of one now removed. A visiting committee of citizens was appointed, whose duties are to visit the school regularly in conjunction with the trustees.

Mason & Daly resume management of the restaurant to-morrow.

The mountain tops were white this morning with newly fallen snow, and a few flakes fell in town during the forenoon. I mention this not as a novelty, but simply to let former old residents of Cariboo know that the weather keeps up its ancient reputation.

I'm working away, Mr. Editor, but haven't yet found a NUGGET.

From Yale.

[From the Sentinel.]

Mr. Gavin has finished the Cat's Landing tunnel and his men have gone to work up the line, while he goes, we learn, to the lower division, somewhere near St. Mary's Mission, to take charge of steam shoveling for the company. If Mr. G. should be as successful in his new business as he has been the past year upon tunnel work, he will continue one of the lucky men of the railway line.——Dr. Custer came down this morning from Hautier station, bringing two men recently injured up the line. One, Joe Cario, was caught between a guard rail and stringer at bridge work and received a fracture of the right leg. The other man is named E. W. Smith, and was caught by a derrick that slipped out of a rock, and received a fracture above the ankle. Both men are now in the Yale hospital. The journey down by team occupied the best part of yesterday and all of last night, and the injured men suffered very much. The feeling is growing in favor of a branch hospital at Lytton.

France and China.

The confident statement that matters had been arranged between France and China has not been confirmed by later dispatches. It seems that Marquis Tseng only remained one day in Paris and then passed over to London. The Chinese diplomat explains that it was family affairs that caused him to leave France so soon. But persons engaged in his line of business have always their excuses ready. Ambassadors and envoys are supposed to do their work in secret. But that is not a very easy matter under present conditions. Once only a privileged few knew where an ambassador was or what he was doing. Now the eyes of civilized mankind are upon every individual who rises above the general mass. His coming and going are known all over the world. The inferences to be drawn from his movements are calculated simultaneously almost at the antipodes. If he is more than ordinarily close, a piece of fiction so adroitly got up that he must affirm or deny it publicly, will often smoke him out of his hole. The inference in this case is that if Tseng were arranging a peace with France he would not have left Paris so suddenly. In fact, there does not seem to be any way out of the scrape without a retreat on one side or the other. France, if the dispatches are to be credited, has declared that she will not recognize the suzerainty of China in Anam. It follows that either China must abandon her pretension, or France must take back what she has advanced. The matter is in that ugly shape in which there must be a backdown somewhere, if a collision is to be prevented. There are, however, several ways by which the ultima ratio might be avoided. France could discredit her minister at Shanghai, and say that he exceeded his instructions, or China could throw over Tseng, as she did the ambassador to Russia whom he succeeded. The former, it may be said, came near losing his head for conceding too much to the northern bear. But it would not be a new departure in Chinese diplomacy to place Tseng in like danger for not conceding enough.—S. F. Bulletin.

Management of the Star Route Cases.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.—Now that the case is over, it is time to tell some facts about the prosecution which have been withheld until the case was closed. In the first place, the management of the prosecution has been equally scandalous with the crimes charged against the defendants. The District Attorney here has always been allowed $5 per day for the prosecution of cases until Mr. Brewster came in. The preceding Attorney-Generals ruled this should be the official fee of special counsel. This was made up by allowing the payment of lump sums as retainers. When Bliss and Merrick were put upon the extravagant pay of $150 a day, it was inevitable that they would prolong the case to the utmost. Bliss has, on the top of all this pay, put in an extraordinary list of personal expenses, which have been allowed up to a very recent date. The amount of extra matter run into this case only to prolong it has resulted in so confusing the case as to materially aid the defense. Then the reporting of the case has been turned into a huge job. When papers would come in where only a line of endorsement was put in as testimony from the packets enclosing them the reporters would put in entire pages in the testimony, making in the end huge books of these bulky papers. The stenographers will clear between $30,000 and $40,000 on their work. The other day it was estimated from official sources that the cost of the two star route trials had been $1,000,000. It will go over that. It will foot up nearer $1,200,000. Attorney-General Brewster owes his place in the Cabinet, partially at least, to being connected with the star route prosecutions. As special counsel under MacVeagh, President Arthur put the cases in his hands and then stood back. MacVeagh refused to stay and prosecute them, and Mr. Brewster, chief of the special counsel, was taken. Now President Arthur would be perfectly justified in dropping Brewster. The star route cases are at an end, and the government has failed wretchedly after a most extravagant and misdirected use of the means in its power. Senator Van Wyck has threatened to have the Senate next winter investigate the Attorney-General's methods, or, rather, his lack of method.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

A Trip to Alaska.

THE MINES, THE SCENERY, THE RESOURCES.

(Correspondence of the Bulletin.)

The course of the average ocean steamer on the "inland passage" to Alaska is about as crooked as the most fastidious could wish. For instance, we called at Victoria for ship's supplies and for discharge of freight, being detained thus twelve hours. Then we steamed up the Gulf of Georgia directly on our way for about ninety miles to Nanaimo, where we coaled under difficulties from the great Wellington mines. Across the little Departure Bay, little more than a pistol shot from the chute of the North Wellington mine, we observed a group of deserted and weather-beaten cabins on the point of the beautiful little New Castle Island, whence was quarried the fine building stone for the San Francisco Branch Mint. Putting off from this same point of land is the wreck of a pier, reaching back into the bluff and losing itself in the cloud of smoke which day and night lingers in eddies over the same spot. There, we were told, was the famous New Castle coal mine, the oldest of the Pacific collieries, which was abandoned several years ago because of the unquenchable fire which had been kindled within its walls and filled all its cavers and corridors with death, and thus shutting down one of the finest coal mines on the coast. But I am imitating the digressions of our steamer. From Nanaimo we returned over the same course by which we came from Victoria, to Port Townsend. This doubling on our course cost us nearly two hundred miles extra travel, and a very annoying delay. Packed with freight, we left Port Townsend at midnight, and in the forenoon of the next day we were off Nanaimo again, on our journey up coast, and henceforth we had no more delays to speak of, and no particular incident or event worth mentioning.

GRAND, BUT MONOTONOUS SCENERY.

For the tourist will see all through this wonderland a thousand things which he can describe neither by mouth, nor pen, nor brush. There is at first a thrill of pleasure, mingled with awe, as one enters this almost limitless sweep of inland, island-studded seas. The charm of the first consciousness that you are being, without a jar or jolt, borne over these narrow seas, almost fathomless in their unbroken depths, winding in and out among tiny islands, covered with forests and veined with various minerals, is well-nigh irresistible. The average tourist has no disposition to resist the spell. He surrenders unconditionally. But as the scene broadens into empires and continents, and sweeps on and on for hundreds of miles in unbroken and unvarying grandeur, the prisoner chafes under the burden of his bondage. There is a surfeit of wonder, the mind reacts, and the traveler would hail with pleasure the sight of a something common. Indeed, when the morning broke upon us in the little mining village of Harrisburg, there was many an old miner who almost wept as he recognized, in the shadow of mountains of eternal snow, the rude cabin of the gold hunter, and a simultaneous exclamation of pleasant surprise broke forth from our uninitiated passengers.

HARRISBURG AND ITS MINES.

At Harrisburg many of our passengers found their destination, at least for the present. Their tents were soon spread upon the rainy beach, and long before night scores of them were off to the gold fields. Strolling, or rather stumbling and climbing through the dripping, mossy, muddy town we found the whole of it mapped off in mining claims, while through the center a sluice was running full of muddy water. Some of the miners gave us good reports from their diggings, but there was what at first seemed to us a puzzling reticence and half-heartedness about even the best reports, by which the hurrying stranger would be easily deceived. But if you could get into the confidence of one of these same men, you would readily have solved the whole puzzle, and you would be prepared better to estimate the miner's confidence in his mines. I found the absence of civil government a serious barrier to all the mining and industrial interests of Alaska. Men, as a rule, are a little afraid to say they have a good mine or a good business of any kind, less some adventurer in the absence of human law, and regardless of all higher law should dispute their right by superior force, cunning or downright meanness, and thus indirectly rob prospectors of all they have found or can hope to find. I was shown what I am convinced is a valuable quartz mine, one of the largest in the world, I was assured, which would long ago have been fully developed, but for this uncertainty. As it is the proprietors are simply holding it and waiting the dawn of the light of civil government. But in spite of all their rights and their vigilance, large sums have been taken from the "placers" that cover the rock above, while hundreds of thousands of dollars, I was assured by the superintendent of the mine, have been wasted through careless and slovenly mining by those who have no right to a foot of it. Miners are now scraping up the "tailings" on the beach hundreds of feet below the claim, and washing out in rockers good wages. By the time we were ready to leave Harrisburg at midnight, many of our gold-hunting fellow passengers had "seen the elephant," and armed with tickets for Victoria, Portland or San Francisco, returned by the same steamer that brought them. They were thoroughly disgusted. Others more timid never gave up their staterooms; while others still would gladly have clung to the boat until she had borne them out of the country forever, but alas, they were "dead broke," and must stay a while longer at all hazards.

OTHER MINES.

Some of our gold-hunters pushed on for the Chilcat country, landing in Pyramid Harbor and packing across the portage to the interior. In about thirty miles they reach the Yukon tributaries. Some good prospects have been found in the interior, I am told, but nothing seems to last. Mines suddenly "pinch out" or wash out. Some good prospects on Admiralty Island, but on the whole I am convinced that the mining outlook in this part of our great Northwest Territory is not such as to encourage any great rush. Indeed, I am inclined to utter a kindly word of warning to young men of small means against coming to Alaska for any business just yet. For men of ample means and energy there are no doubt some fortunes up here, but under the most favorable circumstances such fortunes can only be acquired by the hardest industry. However, it must not be supposed that Alaska is poor in resources. Far from it. She is unquestionably rich in fish and furs.

[From the Globe, May 1st, 1883.]

THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE Directors of the Confederation Life Insurance Company is a more than usually interesting document of the kind. It shows 1,513 new policies for 1882, assuring $2,510,387. The total number of policies is now 6,357, assuring $9,909,246. Notwithstanding the large sum paid out in cash profits to policy-holders, the financial statement shows a handsome increase in the cash assets. There were during the year 34 deaths, involving the sum of $51,656. The results of the quinquennial allotment of profits have given unalloyed satisfaction to the policy-holders, and the valuation of the Company's liabilities has been done independently by Mr. Carpmael, their regular actuary; by Mr. Cherriman, Dominion Inspector of Insurance; and by Mr. Homans, a New York actuary. The net valuations by these three authorities are $739,230, $727,297, and $700,252 respectively—an exhibit well calculated to show the foundationless nature of the attacks made upon the Company.

The Kootenay Country.

INTERESTING DATA FROM A RELIABLE SOURCE.

(From the Victoria Standard.)

Captain Blasdel, one of the promoters of the Kootenay Bill, arrived here on Saturday last from Kootenay, via Idaho and Oregon. He left Kootenay mines on the 17th June and after travelling fifty miles on the Kootenay lake reached the mouth of the river. Thence he proceeded up the river until the 49th parallel—the boundary line—was reached, making, owing to the sinuosity of the river a detour of 35 miles, although, "as the crow flies," the actual distance is only 15 miles. The travel from the Kootenay mines to the boundary is 85 miles. After crossing the boundary 65 miles of travel brings one to Bonner's Ferry in Idaho Territory. The ferry is on the Kootenay River and thence, coming out, 50 miles of trail brings you to Sand Point on the Northern Pacific Railway. On arrival at Sand Point Capt. Blasdel took the Northern Pacific railway cars and by direct travel of 400 miles on that line reached Portland, making the journey behind the iron horse in 24 hours. He informs us that prospectors are coming into the Kootenay district in search of precious metals. They principally hail from Montana, Salt Lake and Eastern Nevada. The promoters of the Kootenay land scheme have built two handy steam launches which will be used to expedite the survey parties and their supplies. The company has already some 50 men at work on the road between Shuswap Lake and Columbia River. No Chinese are employed and the company are making big efforts to push the wagon road through as quickly as possible so that they can get in their supplies. It is the intention of the company this season to survey and locate the line of railway from the Columbia River to Kootenay Lake and, in the language of Capt. Blasdel, "this will be done as quickly as twenty dollar pieces can do it." Capt. Blasdel states that the interests of the company are not in any way identical with those of the Northern Pacific railway. The ultimate object of the company is to connect with the Canadian Pacific railway so that the products of the lands which have been granted to the company may be shipped via the Canada Pacific. Our reporter asked Capt. Blasdel whether it would not pay the company better to ship the lead ores via the Northern Pacific and in reply Capt. Blasdel said: "Certainly not; by crossing the boundary line we would have to pay a duty of $30 per ton on the lead ore, which in itself is worth only $60 per ton. So we should be handicapped to the extent of fully 100 per cent. It will pay us far better to bring the ore through British territory and ship it for smelting from Burrard Inlet."

Rep.—But in the event of your selling lands granted to you under your bill of incorporation, what rights will the purchaser have.

Capt. Blasdel.—He will have all the rights that any other purchaser has from the government and the rights of the free miner will be recognized. The miner will have the right to go on those lands and prospect for the precious metals and coal just as is provided by your existing statutes.

Rep.—But in the event of damage to growing crops?

Capt. Blasdel.—Of course the prospector has to make that good. That is the law everywhere. If he destroys half an acre of wheat then of course the owner of the land has to be remunerated. But the free miner's license always has its right. As to the lands on Kootenay Lake granted to us I would give anybody a section merely for the payment of taxes. We have not anything like such a good thing as has been supposed.

Rep.—What is the object of your scheme then?

Capt. Blasdel.—Well we think that we can do your country good. We can introduce immigration and can make the country of some value to you. It is all to your interest that the country should be settled and by the introduction of capital that can be done. People here have no idea of the resources of that country. Fish are abundant in every stream. Trout, the most beautiful I have ever seen, are caught there. The Indians bring us in cariboo and deer and barter them with us for their requirements. The wild strawberries which I gathered only a few weeks ago are as luscious as any I have ever eaten. These grow all along the line of the Kootenay River. And the gooseberries can be gathered in abundance. The climate is genial and in fact the country is one which has to be visited to be appreciated. We shall do all we can to develop that portion in which we are interested. On the work which we now have in hand we employ no Chinese—not even a Chinese cook. There is a future for Kootenay which few can yet anticipate.

Five Months Immigration.

The heavy immigration and tonnage to Oregon and Washington Territory during the past month has continued unabated. Twenty-three steamships of the Oregon Railway and Navigation company and Oregon Improvement company have brought from San Francisco during that time 5,170 passengers and 28,650 tons of freight. This gives a total since January 1st of 25,592 passengers and 11,688 tons of freight, and shows an increase of 23 per cent. on passenger business, and 65 per cent. on freight over the same period last year. Assuming the number of passengers returning to San Francisco to represent the transient travel, we have a bona fide immigration by ocean thus far in 1883 of 17,083 souls, to which may be added the large number teaming in from the east. The ships of the Pacific Coast company from San Francisco to Puget Sound and Victoria have been compelled to increase their trips from three times a month to weekly. Traffic to Alaska has also increased so as to demand semi-monthly steamers with full cargoes. Three new canneries have been established. Recent rich discoveries in the mineral regions of northern Idaho and Montana are attracting miners and prospectors from all parts. The crop reports from sections east of the Cascade mountains confirm the estimate of two hundred thousand tons of grain for the coming season.—Oregonian.

Returned correspondents from Moscow state that their despatches underwent great mutilation at the hands of the censors of the press. They affirm that it was useless to write anything that did not tell of the harmony and love of the people for their sovereign. A leading Russian writer has been banished for publishing an article asking the Czar to grant liberal reforms; while the Telegraph, a liberal Moscow journal, has been suppressed for the too free expression of opinion concerning the policy and acts of the Administration, especially the exile of the Mayor of Moscow.

Where the House Fly Breeds.

As "fly time" approaches every housekeeper wonders where and how the increasing swarms of pests multiply so rapidly. The eggs, mere whitish specks to the unaided eye, are laid in little agglutinated piles in warm manure or in decomposing vegetation, especially that about our stables and barnyards. From 80 to 100 are laid at a time, and probably at three or four different intervals by the same fly, though on this point we have no exact data. Within 24 hours in summer they hatch into footless maggots, which, after rioting in filth till their tender skins seem ready to burst from repletion, become full fed in less than a week, and descending into the earth, or sheltering under some old board, contract to brown, shining objects, rounded at both ends, and technically known as puparia. Within the darkness of this hardened skin profound changes rapidly take place, and the insect passes through the pupa to the perfect state, and finally, in about five days, the interior end of the puparium is pushed off, and the fly quickly crawls out. At first its parts are pale and soft, and its wings are crumpled and useless, but they soon expand, and suddenly, without practice or teaching, the new fledged fly wings its way to your table to mock your displeasure—to share your repast. The length of time required from hatching to maturity varies with the season and the temperature, but will not exceed ten days in midsummer, while the life of the perfect fly lasts about three weeks at the same season. As cold weather approaches propagation ceases, and the older flies perish. A few of the more vigorous females, however, retreat to some nook or cranny, where, in a state of torpor, they survive until the ensuing season—links 'twixt the summer gone by and to come. The insect may also hibernate in the pupa state in the ground. In rooms kept continuously warm, or in more southern latitudes, the fly remains active all winter, and our palace sleeping-cars bring them daily to us from Florida during the coldest months of the year.—Scientific American.

Petrified Bodies in a Coal Mine.

Marvellous scientific discoveries are apparently not confined to the imaginative West. The mines of Bully Grenay, in the north of France, are about to be visited, says the London Globe by a band of explorers of uncommon distinction. Telegraph messages were recently sent from the place to the Academy of Science in Paris, and to the authorities at the British Museum, inviting delegates from each of the learned bodies to pay a visit to the mines, where it is reported a great discovery has been made. The Ecco du Noro relates how in excavating a new passage the miners came across some extraordinary fossils proving the presence there at some remote period of human beings as well as of animals and fishes. The passage in question led as it appears into two caverns, the mouths of which had been close up, and in the first of these were discovered five perfect human fossils; one of a man, two of women, and two of children, besides several weapons and utensils of petrified wood and stone and the fragments of mamiferous beasts and fishes. The second cavern, afterward discovered, contained no fewer than eleven fossilized bodies, described as being "of large dimensions" a quantity of miscellaneous objects, and some precious stones.

But the most marvellous part of the story remains to be told. It is asserted that the walls of the cave are covered with rude sketches, representing the combats of men with gigantic animals From these it would appear that the human race, while still battling for existence with the aid of stone [illegible] against the monsters of the field and forest were already acquainted with the graphic arts, and anxious to perpetuate their deeds of early heroism. The bones and bodies themselves have now been removed to the neighboring towns of Lens and Lille. But in order to study the antique frescoes the savants will have to descend into the mine; and when they get there it will apparently need all the credulity with which they may be gifted to believe that they are exploring a picture gallery made some thousands of years ago.

He Had Forgotten.

"Uncle Mose," said a Conway gentleman to one of our prominent colored citizens last week, "I hear that you have entered the ministry; is it so?"

"No, sah; I neber been guilty ob no sich."

"What, then, is the foundation for the report?"

"Wal, I went afore de conf'rence to git a license, but dey wouldn't let me hab it."

"Why?"

"Wal, Elder Winklesnoot said dat no man who had been in gaol for stealing a par ob pants was fitten to preach I had furgot dat part ob my history but de elder, who owned de pants, hadn't."—Log Cabin.

LICE ON CHICKENS.—I have several good and simple recipes that I should like to give to those of your subscribers who have been asking for them. One asks for a recipe to destroy lice on young chicks. Put sulphur in their food, around their haunts, and in their pens, and no lice will remain. An Adolphustown subscriber wants a recipe for his hogs, which are afflicted by stupor, loss of appetite and difficulty of breathing. Give them plenty of sulphur, and also saltpetre, in their food. They should have warm food in cold, wet weather. This course has never failed with me. If the hogs are shut up give ashes in their pen. For gapes in fowls give plenty of lard and pepper and sulphur. Mix with breadcrumbs.

A perfect model of a steamship with the stern and side propellers (a recent invention at Dallas, Texas), was placed in a pond of water, steam raised, and the stern propeller first put in motion, It crossed the pond in 10½ seconds. Then all three were set going, when the tiny ship crossed in 6 seconds. Thus the speed was increased 45 per cent., and the fact demonstrated (apparently) that a steamship which crosses the Atlantic in seven days can with this new attachment cross it in four. The inventor is confident of increasing the speed of steamships 60 per cent. It runs much faster with the stern wheel working in reverse.

HENRY W. HUGHES.

THE ABOVE ARTICLE HAVING been tried by nearly every lady in town with success, needs little or no description, but for strangers the following is printed:—It does the washing for a family in two hours; no boiling allowed; little or no rubbing on the board; blue not needed; does no harm to clothes. Plenty of reference if desired. One bar does two weeks' washing. The finest soap known for face and hands, shaving, etc. Once used, it becomes a necessity. Money refunded if the above is not true.

The undersigned being the first to introduce it, respectfully asks the ladies to patronize him. Orders kindly received by Ellard & Co., at the Occident Hotel, and orders received and SOAP supplied at Mr. C. G. Major's, cor. Columbia and Mary streets.

Being well known as agent for all newspapers, magazines, and books sold by agents only, I need no introduction. To those out of town, a letter will receive prompt attention. Address
