Greenwood's Exhibit.

Wm. Thomlinson, of New Denver, was in town on Monday and Tuesday. He was here for the purpose of collecting minerals for exhibition purposes in New York and other points in 1921 to be arranged by the Department of Mines, Ottawa. He is looking for large typical samples of ore from the various camps, also all useful non-metallic minerals, especially the kind that can be used by chemists and manufacturers.

The Department wishes to encourage prospectors to take more interest in non-metallic minerals.

While here Mr. Thomlinson gave free determination on unknown minerals and non-metallic substances. He was also able to get 10 different specimens from this district which have been sent to Ottawa for determination.

Greenwood has a particularly good collection of ores at Ottawa for exposition purposes and will be sent to various cities throughout Europe for exhibition. This collection consists of 82 very fine specimens as follows; 9 gold-silver, 9 gold ores, 16 gold and copper ores, 22 copper ores, 8 silver-lead, 11 silver-lead zinc, and 7 silver-lead gold. This collection was one of the main mineral attractions at the Panama-Pacific Exposition California a few years ago.

Prospectors or lessees who have samples can secure shipping and information tags from P. H. McCurrach. All shipping charges are paid by the government.

This is an advertising campaign and property holders should avail themselves of the opportunity to give information about their claims and mines.

MacMillan-Langille

At the home of the bride's parents, Fairview, Nelson, on the afternoon of Monday, October 25th, at five o'clock, the marriage was solemnized between Arthur Wilson MacMillan, of Trail, formerly of Greenwood, and Mrs. Margaret Langille, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Notman. The Rev. A. M. O'Donnell, B.B., of Trail officiated. The witnesses were William N. MacMillan and Miss Charlotte Notman. After the ceremony the friends of the young couple sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper. The remainder of the evening was spent most pleasantly in songs, games and dancing. Many beautiful and useful gifts testify to the esteem in which the young couple are held by a large circle of friends. After their honeymoon which will be spent in a short trip along the Kootenay lake, Mr. and Mrs. MacMillan will take up their residence on Bay avenue, Trail.

H. McCutcheon, Collector of Customs has returned from Rossland where he has been for over three months, relieving Collector Stevens who was on sick leave. When asked about how business was in Rossland he said: "Business in Rossland is improving and will continue to do so. I expect to see her a flourishing city within the next two years, once the concentrator gets into operation, the mines will be worked to full capacity. There is not a pessimist in the town. Everybody is optimistic as to the future. Rossland has an up-to-date public school with twelve teachers and an attendance of over four hundred pupils, and a high school with three teachers and an attendance of about seventy. One thing that struck me forcibly was the well developed and healthy appearance of the pupils attending the schools. Yes I think Rossland has a bright future ahead of her."

Witnesses summoned to give evidence before the assizes are to receive $3.50 a day instead of $2 as formerly, and professional witnesses, tendering expert testimony, are to be paid on the scale of $7 daily instead of $4. An effort is being made in Chilliwack to extend the mid-day interval at the public school to one and one-half hours in order to enable more of the children attending the city schools to get home for a hot meal at noon during the winter months. For many years past the schools of Greenwood has had the one and one-half interval at noon.

While engaged in removing a large rock on the road between Armstrong and Vernon, recently, the road gang set of some heavy blasting charges. One of the men had occasion to go back from the roadway for 100 yards, when he was surprised to find a full grown bear lying dead with a piece of rock a little larger than a man's fist lying beside it. The carcase was still warm when discovered, and the animal evidently met death from the flying piece of stone.

Signs of real declines of essentials appeared in Winnipeg last week. Electric fixtures and devices have been generally reduced from one to two dollars each; linseed oil has come down twenty per cent.; paints are off twenty per cent.: while household furniture has dropped even more. Textiles are up, however, for next spring delivery. 30 per cent. with no buyers, because the impression is general that declines will occur before that time. British Columbia lumber is showing some improvement and demand for Okanagan fruit has improved. If the sugar prices decline the demand for Ontario and B. C. fruit will increase enormously, says a Winnipeg report.

War Relief Fund

The Canadian Red Cross Society is making an appeal to the people of Canada on behalf of the British Empire War Relief Fund, which is for the purpose of fighting the terrible conditions of disease and distress in the war-stricken areas of Europe and Asia. For various reasons it has been found necessary to postpone the appeal a short time. Instead of being held during Armistice week, as previously announced, the appeal in British Columbia will be made during the week November 22nd to 28th. The appeal in the other provinces will take place during Armistice week.

Mining News

The Northwest Mining Convention will be held in Spokane, Wash., February 28th to March 5th, 1921.

Poplar creek ores were recently tested at the smelter in Tacoma, Wash., and the returns gave 624 pounds of arsenic to the ton. This ore will pay to mine for the arsenic alone, without taking into consideration the gold values.

A. Sandon report says: "The Silversmith mines has several carloads of lead-silver concentrates in transit and eight ready for shipment. The last carload shipped brings the total up to 83. The mill which is being operated steadily, is producing close to 300 tons of lead-silver concentrates and 200 tons of zinc concentrates monthly. The value of the lead-silver concentrates is about $135 to the ton."

Arrangement have been made for the opening up of the Payne mine at Sandon, under option to the Pacific Mines Development Co. For the present, development will be confined to drifting both ways on the vein as the 1500 foot level and the installation of an air blast to provide ventilation. Later, a large force will be engaged. The Pacific Development Co. also operates the Charleston group, near Whitewater.

The Mansfield Mining company operating in the Lardeau district, near Trout Lake, has struck a seven-foot ledge of silver-lead ore on the company's property, according to a statement made by M. R. Leahy, manager. The ore was encountered at a depth of 350 feet, and is low grade, assay returns going $12 a ton. The strike was made near the main lead of the mine where the silver-lead ore runs $150 a ton. It is the intention of the management to erect a concentrator in the spring.

Awaiting the season for rawhiding, the oldest shipper on the Arrow Lakes, the Millie Mack mine at Burton, is piling up ore for shipment to the smelter, according to a Nakusp report. H. E. Foster, who is working the property, has about 50 tons of high grade ore ready to be sent out. The Millie Mack was located over 20 years ago by George McDonald. and it changed hands during the boom days of Kootenay mining. It is a silver-gold proposition, with the silver running high.

The Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power company produced 2,239,174 pounds of copper in September, according to a New York report in the Spokesman Review. This is comparable with 2,471,200 pounds in August and 2,400,000 in July. A table issued in New York shows that the production in every month but one of the current year was in excess of 2,000,000 pounds, while six months of 1919 were below the 2,000,000, although one month was above 3,000,000. The report received states that a net profit of $432,586 was obtained after the deduction of charges, but not of tax, in the six months ended on June 30 last. In the six months ended on December 31, 1919, the gross profits were $399,387, the taxes, interest and so forth $539,489 and the net profit $59,900, according to a report. From an official source it is learned that the company has considered the installation at Anyox, of a concentrating plant having a capacity of 2000 daily. Its costs is estimated at $1,000,000. For a year and a half an experimental mill of 100 tons daily capacity has been in service. It is reported to have demonstrated the responsiveness of Granby ore to concentration. The installation of the 200-ton plant will reduce the cost of producing copper and make available a large quantity of ore that does not reach the smelter, it is pointed out.

"Uncle dear," she cried reproachfully, "you are overdoing it. Your face is positively haggard from fatigue. And your hands are hot," she chided, as she stroked them tenderly. "Come, you must, sit here on this mossy knoll and rest a bit before finishing the climb to the house."

She drew him over to the tiny glade, and he sank wearily down beside her on the sward. "Edna, my dear child," he said, speaking with difficulty, "I have had a distinct shock; the reaction has left me weak."

He inserted a blue-veined, trembling hand into the pocket of his coat and drew out a silk handkerchief. He wiped his brow gently and, raising the handkerchief to his eyes, held it so. She saw a shiver run down his frail form, and her cool hands tightened in sympathy upon his.

"Timberley is here, Edna," he said in a whisper. "I met him on the trail, this afternoon."

The girl gave a gasp. The color fled from her face. "Are you sure?" she asked in a strained voice. "Oh, surely he is not so vile as to follow me up here with his persecutions. He is contemptible enough, God knows, but—" Her voice trailed off in a quaver and she hid her face in her hands.

"I too gave him credit for possessing a little manhood," sighed Mr. Dayton. "In a measure, at least, I looked for him to respect our wishes. For him to follow us here, when we came solely, you might say, to get away from him, is cowardly."

"Yes," she agreed, "it is cowardly. Did you speak to him, Uncle?"

"I would have passed him by without recognition, if that had been possible," he answered, "but he planted himself directly in my path. I will not repeat the things he said to me, Edna. They were anything but pleasant."

"Oh!" she cried. "For him to dare to abuse you!" She lifted her head, her deep eyes flashing.

Again her guardian shivered. "Edna, dear," he said brokenly. "He did more than abuse me in words. He struck me."

She was silent. But he felt her form grow tense.

"It was not a heavy blow," he said quickly. "It hurt me very little. Even now, Edna, I bear him no malice, and would willingly forget and forgive, for your sake, knowing that you once loved him and, perhaps, still cherish more than a passing regard for him, had he not by his words and actions, to-day, proved to me beyond a doubt that he is as great a knave as I suspected."

"I wish never to see him again," whispered the girl, "and to think I loved him once, yes; but now I hate and despise him. Oh, Uncle," she choked, throwing her arms about his neck, "how good you have been to me, and, oh, dear," she sobbed, "think of the misery your vigilance and love have saved me from."

"There, there," he soothed, his own voice husky. "You mustn't think of that, girlie. Think only of the great happiness and comfort you have been to me through eighteen years of me, Edna. I would, indeed, have been a traitor to have proven false to the tender trust imposed in me by the niece of the best friend a man ever had."

"Uncle," said the girl quickly, "wasn't it in some body of water up in this Northern country that Uncle Graydon and his bride year lost their [illegible]"

"Yes, dear," [illegible] ed—"eighteen years [illegible] tempest. The canoe in which they lost their lives, through the capsizing of their boat, was somewhere in the vicinity of the place called by the Indians, Basin of White Water. As I have told you before, your uncle was a true artist, and the wealth he had inherited allowed of his indulging his art as much as he wished. The forest primeval had always appealed to his fancy. It was in quest of subjects of this nature that he, in company with your aunt, had journeyed up in the Northern limits of this big solitude.

"Your uncle, who was something of a fatalist, had, it seemed, a premonition that he might never return. Before leaving he made his will and named me guardian of the three-year-old girlie they were leaving behind in my wife's care. That little girl was you, Edna. You were five years old when my dear wife, your foster-mother, passed away. I have tried to be both father and mother to you, ever since, dear. Sometimes—" He hesitated and looked into the girl's face. "Sometimes I feel that I have succeeded but indifferently well."

"No, no," she protested. "You could have been no more to me than you have, Uncle."

"I have tried to protect you and your interests to the best of my poor ability," he murmured. "The fortune left you by your Uncle Graydon, and which I was to invest for you as I thought best—"

She caught his hand and pressed it. "Uncle, dear," she begged. "You remember, you promised me not to mention that again. I am satisfied, more than satisfied, with what you have done with my money. Believe me, I do not care to know what it is. Some day you may tell me, if you wish; but now, now we have each other," she cried chokingly, "and we have this wonderful wild world, with its scents, colors and silence. Let us enjoy it all, Uncle. Let us forget that—that man. He can do us no harm."

"Yes, yes," the old man sighed, as she placed her hand under his arm and assisted him to rise. "We will forget Timberley, girlie. As you say, he can do us no harm. But he will try, Edna; no doubt of that."

The mellow call of a woman's voice came from the glade above.

"That's Ma Washburn calling us to supper, Uncle. Come."

The girl's face was still pale, but her eyes mirrored a new purpose as her arm went about her uncle's narrow shoulders, and she led him up the path to the house.

The Washburns had carried the dining-table out into the cedar grove. Mr. Washburn hailed them as they came in sight.

"Hurry up!" he shouted. "Ma's creamed chicken won't last long when I get squared away to it."

"I've jest had an awful time keepin' that hungry man from settin' in and eatin', afore you come," cried Ma Washburn. "Pa's mar---s are getting' worse, through minglin' with that mill crowd, they are so."

She bustled about arranging the chairs and placing all manner of good things on the table.

"I saw a feller from the Basin of White Water, this arternoon," said Pa Washburn as he passed the plates. "That's the place where the Algonquin [illegible] lost their own [illegible]

"[illegible] this feller, he was a-tellin' me that there's a man by the name of Savage come down to these parts. I understan', this Savage is a pretty bad character, if what one hears is true. Anyways, he's been mixed up in trouble in these parts before, an' will likely be again. I'll b't a raisin cookie that him an' Abe Dalton are shapin' some devilry together."

Mr. Dayton knit his brows. "Trouble of what nature, may I ask?" he inquired.

"Why, most any kind, so long's it promises some excitement an' some gain for him," answered the settler. "One thing sure is, him an' the company behind him are down on game preserves of a'l kinds. He's somethin' of a fur-dealer, yo see, an' every protected animal is one less for his traps."

Mr. Dayton glanced at his niece. She flashed him an appealing look.

"I believe that I have some information which will interest you, Mr. Washburn, particularly as you are a friend of Mr. Dorkin's," he said.

Immediately Washburn was all attention.

"Wall, you've said it there," he replied. "Anythin' concernin' Darkin concerns me too; jest what is it, might I ask?"

Red Rose is a blend of about a dozen varieties of teas, chiefly hill-grown ASSAMS — the richest and strongest teas grown.

The skilful blending of these teas produces the delightful and distinctive Red Rose flavor.

Saskatchewan Butter Brings Highest Price

Topped Market When Put On Auction in Montreal.

Evidence of the place which Saskatchewan butter now holds in the best markets of Eastern Canada is found in the following item appearing in the October 8th issue of "The Trade Bulletin" of Montreal.

"A feature in last Friday's auction sale held at the United Dairyman's Co-operative Limited was the sale for the first time of a lot of 450 packages of finest Saskatchewan July-August creamery butter, which sold at 1-4c per pound over Quebec finest creamery butter marketed here on the same day."

Previous to the sale above reported Saskatchewan butter had never appeared on the Montreal auction boards and though sales were often made at top prices, Quebec butter was the generally accepted standard. That the first car of Saskatchewan goods offered at auction should have topped the market is a most emphatic expression of the esteem in which our butter is held by the best trade in the east.

Protection of Bird Life

Want Co-operation of Sportsmen With Authorities to Protect Wild Game.

The treaty between Canada and the United States to protect migratory birds from ruthless slaughter by some gunmen should commend itself to most sportsmen, as well as to the general public. One of the commissioners from the United States, at the convention of the international association in Ottawa, seemed to be discouraged. He declared that alleged sportsmen of the two countries were not playing the game, and urged that the law should be enforced with more rigor.

The chief game commissioner of the United States took a more hopeful view of the situation. He expressed confidence in the sportsmen. There had been a great deal better law observance than law enforcement, he declared. A small percentage of offenders should not be allowed to bring discredit upon the great majority, who really tried to maintain the best traditions of sport.

The American commissioners paid special tribute to the excellence of the work done in Canada by the Dominion Parks Branch. Canada is happily able to maintain some varieties of birds that have become practically extinct in the United States. Bird sanctuaries, as well as the strict observance of close season against hunting, are undoubtedly of untold benefit. The co-operation of all true sportsmen with the authorities, in the conservation of fish, bird and game life in Canada and the United States, is not being asked in vain.—From the Ottawa Citizen.

Marketing Light Hogs

Farmers Advised to Pay Stricter Attention to Weights.

Despite a plentiful supply of coarse grains this season, with the usual percentage marketable only in the form of meats, as against a very serious [illegible] during September by [illegible] per cent of the total marketings when compared with the same period of 1919. The situation is all the more serious in the light of the present marked shortage of supplies and the evident reduction in the holdings of brood sows.

Statistics go to prove that the percentage of light hogs in the total marketings increases from September to December. In some years the numbers of lights marketed during November have been double those marketed during September. The inference is that unless the present liquidation is arrested the marketings during the month of November next will show 22 per cent. light hogs.

Another four to six weeks' feeding would put most of the light hogs in the select bacon class at $1.00 to $2.00 per cwt. above the price they would fetch as lights and the extra weight would act good value for the grain consumed. The average weight for select hogs in 1919 was 190 lbs. and with abundance of grain at cheaper prices, this average could well be raised to 200 lbs. for this fall and winter. The situation would be greatly improved if farmers paid stricter attention to the weights of hogs offered for sale and endeavored as far as possible to market in straight carload lots.—Live Stock Commissioner.

Men, Men! Try It To-night—Feel Fine Tomorrow

Simple Way to Get "Pep," To Be Put Right On Your Feet.

When a man has lost ambition to "dig in" and stay at things—when he complains of headache, fullness in the right side, pains in the shoulder blade—it's purely a case of "Liver."

These symptoms invariably indicate a clogged, inactive liver. The body can't get rid of its wastes, and the whole system is half paralyzed.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills stimulate the liver into activity in one night. Being a mild vegetable laxative they produce results in a few hours. The bilious headache and constipation are cured, spirits rise, complexion clears, ambition returns. Nothing in the calendar so efficient for that tired, lazy feeling as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Very mild, don't interfere with work, invariably do lots of good. Try a 25c box, all dealers.

To Save Potato Situation

Principal of Manitoba College Says Co-operation is Necessary.

Co-operative effort is the only hope for the present unsatisfactory potato marketing situation in Saskatchewan, according to Principal John Bracken, of the Manitoba College of Agriculture, formerly professor of field husbandry in the University of Saskatchewan.

"The fact that every spring consumers pay very high prices for potatoes is in itself convincing evidence that storage facilities either on the farm, at the railway siding or in the town and city, should be provided, and that closer relations be established between the grower and the produce merchant.

"At present it is easier for the latter to buy a carload of potatoes in the east, and sometimes cheaper, than it is to buy one in Saskatchewan. The producer, by co-operative effort, must make it as easy for the merchant in our cities to buy his potatoes in Saskatchewan as he can now in times of scarcity buy them elsewhere. Otherwise the Saskatchewan city market may not be supplied with home-grown tubers."

"Unless we can co-operate to secure our local markets, there would seem to be little use at present of attempting to get outside ones. It seems apparent that only by co-operation in shipping and marketing will this condition be corrected."

Co-operating For Saskatchewan.

"Co-operation" might well be the motto of Saskatchewan. The same splendid spirit which was displayed in the rural districts, the towns and the cities, is strongly in evidence in the present campaign for the sale of Saskatchewan Farm Loan Debentures.

The Grain Growers' Association, the Saskatchewan Municipal Association, the Saskatchewan Retail Merchants' Association, are all actively supporting the movement to secure from citizens of Saskatchewan the funds to finance the development of Saskatchewan's latest farm wealth.

Wireless Doctoring

While the steamship St. Paul, which arrived at Southampton, was in mid-Atlantic she received a wireless appeal for medical aid from the tramp steamer Schroon. A member of the crew of the tramp was seriously ill. Dr. Stump, of the St. Paul, obtained a description of the symptoms of the man's ailment by wireless while the vessels were fifty miles apart. He diagnosed the case as appendicitis. Then he treated the man by wireless instruction for four days, when it was reported he was on the way to recovery.

In the early Greek plays, only two characters appeared on the stage at one time.

LETTER FROM MRS. WAKELIN

Tells Remarkable Story of Sickness and Recovery.

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered greatly from weakness, seemed to be tired all the time, and had no ambition to do anything or go any place. My nerves were in bad shape, I could not sleep at night, and then came a breakdown. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and several of my friends advised me to use it, and it surely put new life into me. Now I am quite able to do all my own work, and I would strongly advise every suffering woman to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial."—Mrs. CHARLES WAKELIN, 272 Christie St., Toronto, Ont.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for more than forty years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

Handling Soil

Depth of Furrow Should be Changed Each Year.

It has been abundantly proved that it is not good to plough a field the same depth from year to year. By ploughing shallow or at a uniform depth, the soil cannot become mixed well and a hard bed is formed at the bottom of the furrow, which neither air, water, nor the roots of plants will penetrate readily. A little subsoil turned to the surface occasionally allows the elements to act upon it freely, thus liberating food as it mingles with the surface soil and vegetable matter. In this way more valuable plant food and greater depth of soil is furnished the plants which grow upon it.

For deep, rich soil, deep ploughing, say from six to nine inches, is best in the fall of the year. The depth should be increased by one-half inch each succeeding year until the required depth is reached. Then return to the normal by gradually diminishing the depth from year to year. Light working soils, those running into sandy loam and sand, it is safer to plough shallow. For thin, clay soils, and equally light subsoil, plough from five to seven inches; for small grains it is perhaps, better than very deep ploughing, because it does not turn the compact clay to the surface and it loosens the soil to a good depth. Of course, where root crops are intended to be raised, it is profitable to occasionally subsoil and plow deeper. Some farmers practice ploughing a little deeper each year for several years in succession and then for one season plow at about half the depth of the deepest in a series of years.

Canada Loses Order

Belgium Buys Her Railway Cars From Germany.

Canada has lost the order for 2,400 steel railway cars which the Belgian Government, through the Canadian trade commission, sought to place with manufacturers in this country. Instead of "Made in Canada" cars the Belgians will ride in coaches of the "Made in Germany" variety when the order is filled. Advices to the trade commission are to the effect that Belgium has placed the order with Germans, and will pay for the railway material with foodstuffs which are to be supplied to Germany.

Beetles Which Eat Lead.

A sensation was caused some time ago by the discovery of a beetle that likes eating lead. Considerable damage was being done to some lead-covered cables, and it was found that the damage was caused by a beetle which bored into the lead casing. Specimens of the beetle had been found in lead-foil packets of tea, and naturalists have concluded that the insects were coming from India and China.

The practise has been extensively followed in the United States.

Molly-Coddles Had Umbrellas.

He was a brave man who would carry an umbrella a hundred and fifty years ago. When Jonas Hanway appeared in the streets during a shower with an umbrella over his head, he was laughed at as a molly-coddle. It is said that he carried an umbrella for thirty years before its adoption by men became at all common, although women had carried umbrellas in London for many years before.

DRAWING ON YOUR RESERVE STRENGTH

This is What Thousands of People Throughout the Country Are Doing.

Thousands of Canadian housewives are working from day to day on their nerve. They are daily drawing more and more on their reserve strength, knowing full well that they are using up that vital force which often means life or death in the crisis of disease. They are the victims of a feeling of hopeless exhaustion after the performance of even the small tasks which were once the simplest and easiest parts of the day's work. They find the appetite failing, sleep is disturbed and unrefreshing; they lose weight, and always feel tired and depressed. In this condition a blood-building tonic is needed to restore health and activity, and for this purpose Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unsurpassed. Often the trouble will have progressed to a point which makes full recovery slow, but the treatment should be persisted in and renewed health and activity will be the result.

The case of Mrs. W. Schooley, R. R. No. 2, Tilsonburg, Ont., well illustrates the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in case of health breakdown, through weak, watery blood. Mrs. Schooley says: "For upwards of five years I felt my strength declining, until at last I could not do light chores around the place. Then a doctor was called in, and after doctoring about a month he said that only an operation would help me. I did not feel like going through this, and decided that in any event I would wait a while. I had no appetite, often had headaches accompanied by dizzy spells; several times I had fainting spells, and my legs would swell, and I could not even sweep a floor without resting several times. Again a doctor was called in and he said the trouble was general debility and nervous breakdown. The treatment, however, did not help me, and then one evening as my husband was reading the paper, he came across a case in many respects similar to mine, cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The next day he got me a supply of the Pills, and to their continued faithful use for several months, I owe my present splendid health. I may say that soon after beginning the use of the pills I felt a gradual improvement in my condition, my appetite improved, I began to feel rested after a night's sleep and I gained in weight. My friends were continually expressing surprise at my improved condition, as it was generally believed I had become a chronic invalid. I always take a delight in telling them that Dr Williams' Pink Pills are responsible for my present good health, and as they have been a real blessing to me I shall always continue to praise them."

If you are suffering from any condition due to poor, watery blood, or weak nerves, begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now, and note how your strength and health will improve. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or they will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Iceland Warmer Than England

Weather During Past Summer Has Been Unusual.

One of the current topics of conversation in England is the weather of the past summer. England never knew anything quite like it. Snow fell in Durham during July. Frost was twice reported in Oxfordshire during August. On the last day of August, in Manchester, a screened thermometer four feet above the ground recorded a temperature only three degrees above the freezing point. It now appears that while England was shivering the summer through, Iceland was enjoying the kind of weather that England wanted and did not get. On a day when the mercury recorded a temperature of fifty-three degrees in London, it was seventy-two in Northern Iceland—entirely inappropriate to an island of that name.

Of course, there is an explanation. It is pointed out that during the summer, while England was swept by icy blasts from the Arctic, Iceland was favored by pleasant breezes from the Western Atlantic. The experience of the two islands serves to illustrate the extent to which the weather will sometimes depart from normal conditions. It will doubtless set people in England and Iceland to gossiping about the change in the climate. But the climate does not change within the lifetime of a man. Iceland and England will in the main, have the same kind of weather they had for centuries.

Smoke in Chicago

Is Causing Many Deaths According to Health Commissioner.

"A baby born in Chicago has a black lung in three weeks," Health Commissioner Robertson said in an address on the smoke evil before the convention of the Smoke Prevention Association.

"We are created a perfect smokeless engine," he said. "We burn fuel just as a factory does. Our food is our fuel, and our nose is our chimney. The intake is the oxygen which sets fire to the fuel. The smoke, or carbon, is colorless when it leaves the nose."

According to Dr. Robertson "pneumonia is still captain of the fleet of death." Every year 130,000 persons die of pneumonia in America. Inhaling large quantities of smoke, or in other words carbon, is a predisposing cause of death in every case, Dr. Robertson said.

Dawson News special from Fort Yukon says the remains of Archdeacon Hudsan Stuck, noted pioneer Alaskan missionary, who died a few days ago, were interred on October 11 in a humble Indian cemetery at Fort Yukon, beside the bodies of natives among whom he had spent his life. The pallbearers were members of the native council, who bore the body a quarter of a mile to the grave.

Germany Must Pay.

The entire policy of the French Government towards Germany is inspired by only one thought. Loyal execution of the solemn pact which put an end to the war is the sole means of solving practically the grave difficulties that still exist between the two countries. Germany's "loyal execution" lies in paying up. But Germany openly talks repudiation. It is to the advantage of France, and certainly to the joy of the rest of the world, that the French republic now has a head who is capable of laying down a severe law and an inflexible requirement under the terms of a polite acknowledgment. — Boston Transcript.

Greek Harbor Rising From the Sea.

The remarkable tilting of Crete within historical times has been lately described by Professor J. L. Myres in a Royal Geographical Society discussion. The eastern half of the island has sunk and the western has risen, and as a consequence the ancient quays and harbor works at Hierapetras are submerged, while at the west end of the island the Greek harbor of Phalasarna has been entirely lifted out of the water, making it possible to walk on the dry floor of the ancient sea inlet.

It is understood that the colony is located somewhere in British Columbia.

Airmen's Idea to Supply Rain for Agricultural Districts.

An aerial irrigation company is being planned by A. E. Cole, and his son, Captain Homer Cole, formerly of the Royal Air Force. Their scheme is to cause rain by spraying liquid air from an airplane, thus causing the moisture in the atmosphere to condense.

Mr. Cole claims the idea will supply rain for agricultural districts where nature has failed and also serve to quench forest fires.

City Council

A regular meeting of the City Council was held on Monday evening. Mayor Gulley, Aldermen, Kerr, Morrison, McCreath and King, were present.

It was decided that the Fire, Light and Water committee, undertake to organize a club for the boys who frequent the gymnasium in the Fire Hall.

A report was received through Dr. J. M. Burnett, from Dr. Mullen, director of the Vancouver General Hospital Laboratories, stating that the water now flowing in Twin, Lind, and Providence creeks is free from bacteria that would cause disease, but that two more examinations of Twin creek water should be made before May, so that the Council could be reasonably certain before next summer whether this supply is fit or unfit for drinking purposes at that time.

The accounts were presented and ordered paid.

The Street committee reported progress on work now being done.

The next meeting of the Council will be held on Nov. 8th.

Phoenix War Memorial

Phoenix paid tribute to its fallen heroes in the Great War, when a monument of grey granite, standing 8½ feet high and weighing 4½ tons, was erected last week, near the former C. P. R. station in that town at an elevation of 4,700 feet.

The front of the monument bears the following inscription: "To the glory of God this monument is erected in honor of the Phoenix men who paid the supreme sacrifice in the Great War 1914-1918."

The opposite side of the monument contains the following names of those who gave their lives: "James Cochrane, Jos. Fleming, Elmo R. Geddes, Oscar Gustafson, Sidney Jennings, Anton Johnson, J. C. Kempston, John Lindsay, Roy A. McDonald, Dudley McMillan, Thomas Monohan, John A. Parry, D. M. Pittendrigh, Jas. Pitpladdy, Fred Wilkinson.

Successful Dance

The G. W. V. A. have every reason to be proud of the success of the Dance last Friday night, which was largely attended, many coming from Grand Forks, Eholt, Midway and Kettle Valley. The ladies were in the majority and the men were kept busy. There was no hanging aronnd the door or sitting out dances as all seemed intent on having a good time. Werner's orchestra furnished the music which was par excellence and the floor was in fine shape. The ladies of Greenwood supplied the refreshments and was enjoyed by all.

The G. W. V. A. will celebrate the second anniversary of armistice by holding a Masquerade Ball on Friday, Nov. 12th. Get your costumes ready for this great annual event.

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres, before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS.

Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown Lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfilment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole of original parcel, purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole area. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

When the Mistake is Yours, Help Correct It.

Sometimes as soon as you give the operator a telephone number from memory, you realize you have called the wrong number. The first impulse is to hang up the receiver, but you should wait and say to the other party, "Beg pardon for calling the wrong number." Then everybody feets all right about it.

If you hang up the receiver without acknowledging your error, the operator gets the blame when she tells the other party that "there's no one on the line."
