The possibilities of the small fruit industry in Saskatchewan are illustrated by the success of a farmer near Saskatoon who sold $100.00 worth of strawberries from a small patch last summer. Small fruit grows splendidly in Saskatchewan, and command a good price, as their only competition is the imported article. There are indications that farmers are beginning to give more attention to the profits which may be derived from side-interests on the farm, such as the cultivation of small fruits.

Seven inches of high grade gold and silver ore has been struck on the Strathmore. A small compressor will be installed at this mine in a short time.

Last Thursday a charge against Abel Tromblay, for theft of timber from a mineral claim near Phoenix was dismissed. I. H. Hallett appeared for the accused.

There is considerable exeitement at the coast over the recent strike in the Argo tunnel. It has caused some people in Chicago, and other points to look in the direction of Greenwood.

There will be a patriotic dance in Harrison's Hall, Midway, on Feb. 5. Bush's full orchestra will provide the music, and the tickets are $1.50, including supper. This will be an enjoyable social event.

All winter Buchanan brothers have been working a claim at Boundary Falls. Last week they made a strike of gold ore. The lowest assay shows $10 in gold with a trace of silver. The Falls may rise again.

The annual meeting of the Greenwood Club was held on Saturday. All the previous officers were re-elected. On the Committee, A. F. H. Meyer takes the place of A. Logan, who recently moved to Edmonton.

Up to that time during 1914, the smelter treated 295,000 tons of ore producing over 4,000,000 pounds of copper, 14,442 ounces of gold and 63,501 ounces of silver. The Mother Lode mine produced 178,000 tons of ore at a cost of 85½ cents a ton loaded on the cars. Other mines of the company produced 13,000 tons, and 104,000 tons of custom ore were treated.

M. L. McCarren owns the Tunnel claim at Boundary Falls. It is under lease to Billy Jones, who has worked it for a year. Much good ore has recently been struck on it at a depth of 15 feet. Assays have been obtained showing gold and silver values of $66 a ton.

A CHALLENGE.—The Rock Creek Curling Club hereby challenge any rink that K. C. B. Frith and D. A. McDonald can bring to Rock Creek to a friendly game of curling between Feb. 5th and 12th. If beaten Rock Creek promises to play a return match.—T. R. Hanson.

It was decided to notify John Williamson that unless his bonds are submitted within 24 hours, and satisfactory to the H. C. & P. Committee, new tenders will be called for.

Council adjourned until Feb. 15.

No Full Moon

According to Joseph Graham, of Bathurst, for the second time since the creation of the world the month of February will be without a full moon.

According to information in his possession, obtained in a copy of Tit Bits, of the year 1891 in answer to a question as to whether there had ever been a month in which there was no full moon, an astronomer stated that in February, 1866, there had been no full moon, and it was predicted that the phenomena would not happen again for 2,500,000 years.

According to Mr. Graham, there will be a full moon on January 30 and on March 1, but none in February.

Get Busy

When the time arrives for resumption of production on a large scale by copper and other mines which have been forced to curtail their output on account of conditions brought on by the war, no sympathy will be due those operators who have neglected to push developments for the purpose of increasing ore reserves and by making necessary changes in equiptment for handling, treating and marketing ore. There is every reason to believe that, when business and industrial conditions do revive, the demand for the products of all our mines will be unprecedented. Those mines that are ready to meet the demand will realize rich profits.

WAR NOTES

The following letter was received by a friend in the east from H. Edward McCutcheon, who is with the Royal Engineers of the Frst Canadian Contingent. As Eddie's home is in Greenwood, the letter is particularly interesting to his many friends in the west:

Dear Miss Hull.

Thank you very much for your letter and the volume of Kipling's ballads. It was a curious thing that about two days before the book arrived, the author himself was in our camp, meeting some of the fellows, and talking with them. He has since written a very flattering article in an English paper, on the Canadian Engineers.

You spoke of having been in Amesbury. Our huts are about two miles from Amesbury, and only the other day I accompanied our Sergeant-Major to that village for the purpose of rounding up any stragglers who might be down there. I looked in vain for the barber's place, but I'm confident that he hasn't moved or built anew. They don't in this country.

You spoke of Mulvaney, and supposed he was present. You can't lose him—he's everywhere, getting out of fatigues, stealing sausages from the canteen, overstaying his leave and talking the captain over until he gets off with no crime against him. Oh, he's here all right, and his presence helps out when things are dull. I have had many a hearty laugh since joining.

Seriously, tho, we are not at all satisfied here now. We are chafing here and wondering when we will get our chance.

It is very good of you to say we're brave. As a matter of fact I don't think it is bravery that brings us all here. It shapes up to me something like this: England has undertaken a work and has called for men, and is still calling. I'd be ashamed to be in good health and civilian clothes at this time.

The English winter does not appeal to me or, as far as I can find out, to many of us from Canada. However we're in pretty good health, and have not a great deal to complain of.

It was very kind of you to remember me, and I trust I will be able to thank you personally before next Chrirtmas.

Yours sincerely,
H. EDWARD McCUTCHEON.

Saving the Timber

You may talk about your Canadian Clubs and your Rideau Hall and your Senate Restaurant, but when it comes down to the fine points of table etiquette the only guide that we Canadians want and will have is the Canadian Pacific Railway. It is the same in everything else. The C.P.R. runs our finances, runs our business, runs our banks, runs our churches, and I have even heard it suggested that it runs our politics. And now it is running our table manners. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy is the Kaiser of Canada; in fact he is far more autocratic than William of Potsdam. He has decided that we are not to have toothpicks with our meals. Personally I never eat toothpicks, so I don't mind; but the decision is going to cause a tremendous upheaval in many of our social circles, a greater upheaval than any similar event since the Windsor Hotel threw out the spittoons (I beg pardon, cuspidors) from the main lobby (I beg pardon, rotunda) many years ago. Railway efficiency experts will probably assert that the abandonment of toothpicks on the C.P.R. is merely another step in the process of getting rid of all wood fixtures on cars so as to reduce the risk of fire; but I am confident that Sir Thomas would not have sacrificed so ancient and honorable an emblem as the toothpick for purely utilitarian reasons.—Beck's Weekly.

HARDLY any stomach bitters are being sold in Belgium.

HALF of the hard times are in your mind, and the balance in your pocket.

MANY a bohunk holds his job, by giving the hiring boss a portion of his wages.

IN the recent naval battle on the North Sea the British did not wait for night to get Blucher.

THE Golden Rule properly observed could have saved Europe from its present bloody mess.

IN a short time it is quite likely that all the armies in Europe will be fighting a common enemy—disease. As a rule disease kills more soldiers than bullets.

SOON the robins will be singing around our printing palace, and the fresh laying fresh eggs in our backyard. O, Gentle Spring! Would that thou were eternal.

SOME labor agitators want the eight hour law enforced in the army. The four law is in force already in some branches of the service, but on the firing line it would be difficult to limit the hours for obvious reasons.

THE American Bible Association is rushing bibles to all the soldiers in Europe. By wearing the bibles over their hearts many of the soldiers will escape death. If they studied the bible closely many of the Germans might throw away their guns, for it says nothing about the Kaiser.

As a fighting nation the Turks are out of the race, mainly because they smoke teo many cigarettes. Even the British army has been impaired by so many of its members being addicted to puffing "coffin nails." More than three or four cigs a day will reduce the efficiency of any man, be he a soldier or civilian. Excessive cigarette smoking is a form of lunacy that decreases the mental and physical powers of any man. It is pitiful to see so many young men and boys in this country who cannot sit still five minutes, without rolling a cig or asking for the "makings." Some great men smoke cigarettes, but they were great before they learned the hypnotic habit. The boy or young man who allows the cig to make him a slave, will never amount to much in any walk of life. Assay a bunch of these fiends, and you will be surprised at the amount of vaccuum in their upper stopes.

Child's View on the War

The following essay on the war was written by a girl of nine years in a Cheshire elementary school:

"The war is a terrible thing. The Germans have sunk six of our British ships. My brother is a soldier and my mamma cries every night about him because she says he is her only son. I wish I was a man, I would go to the Germans and ask them not to fight my brother because my mamma wants him to come home again. My sister does not like the war she is always saying it is not an honest war, and my dada is always teasing her. She goes with a boy that is a Socialist, and my dada says Socialist people are peace. I think the war will soon be over, and when Father Christmas comes I am going to ask him to bring me my brother home, because I would rather have him than any toys. I say a prayer every night for the soldiers in the battle. I saw a lot of Belgium soldiers yesterday when I was coming to school. They had their arms in a sling, and one had only one foot. I don't know anything else."

Canada Copper Co

Last week the New York Mining Age says:

Canada Copper advanced from $1.25 to a high of $1.87½ and closed at $1.75. British Columbia Copper has absolutely disapeared from the New York Curb market. No transactions are reported for many weeks past. Canada Copper, organized in 1914, is the holding corporation for the property of which British Columbia is the operator.

The newly acquired properties on Copper Mountain, B. C., are shaping up splendidly. The drills are showing more and richer ore than had been anticipated. All the plans and designs for a concentrator are already completed. They have been drawn up by the flotation experts of Butte & Superior, at Butte, Montana. The mill will be built when the railroad to the Copper Mountain district is finished.

Canada Copper is an issue worth watching. It will be recalled that British Columbia sold at over $8 per share a few years ago when it owned only the Greenwood, B. C., properties. The new holdings surpass the old properties in value.

Kaslo-Slocan Mines

Rawhiding from the Reco was commenced the first of the week.

The crew employed at the Surprise mine now numbers forty men, and of these about thirty are working on ore.

A heavy flow of water has been encountered in the upraise at the Payne, making progress extremely difficult.

John Keen hopes to be able to do considerable towards opening up his properties at Poplar this coming season.

On account of the danger from snowslides and the difficulty in getting in supplies, Alex Ferguson has discontinuek work on his lease of the Marion, near New Denver.

The train crew which took the special out of Kaslo to Sandon on Saturday night made a trip from Sandon to Rosberry, taking down some $20,000 worth of ore.

The Finlanders that have been at the Rambler for so many years are getting thinned out, and but few of them remain. According to a person in authority at the mine, they had got it into their heads that the mine was not able to get along without them.

Ore from the Surprise mine which is being put through the Ivanhoe mill, is hauled along the former K. and S. grade from Cody on sleighs to a point opposite the concentrator. It is dumped into a bin and then goes across Carpenter creek gulch to the mill on an aerial tramway. Shipments from the mili, if the water holds out, are expected to average from one to two cars per day.—Kaslo Kootenaian.

Great Mineral Finds

F. V. Dardier, J. G. Devlin and George Fowler from Hope and Nelson, B.C., were registered at the Grand Union hotel last week. These men are connected with a Pacific Coast syndicate. and have been on a prospecting tour down the river in the Athabasca lake district since last June. They were favorably impressed with the mineral outlook of the country and reports numerous finds of most every known mineral and claims that there are hundreds of miles of most promising rock. The "rock" as they termed it, samples of which they brought back from that remote district by canoe and dog teams weighed about half a ton, which further verifies its worth. These samples were enclosed in eight heavy canvas sacks about cement bag size and weighed from one hundred to two hundred pounds each. These same men spent considerable time in the district a year ago and they intend to spend next summer in the same locality with an outfit of diamond drills and and about 50 men. They were not very communicative to the reporter, but it could be seen they were highly elated with their work and find.—Athabasca News.

Sooner End It All Know

For ourselves, we have an unshrinkable faith that the spirit of militarism and the moral purpose of the world are at war. If we believed says the Winnipeg Tribune, that the principles of Bismark, of Treitschke, of Nietzsche, or Bernhardi, and of all the other founders of Prussian militarism, were destined to prevail, we would welcome some cataclysm of nature which would render the surface of onr planet as barren of life as the crust of the moon. If men were destined for ever to thrust bayonets into each other's vitals, if trenches had for ever to be piled high with human dead, if peaceful countries had forever to live under the shadow of the sword, the fortress and the destroying horde, we would say let the race grow senile and decay. But the progress of the suns is not in the direction of militarism. The stars in their course are fighting against it.

Poor Editor Again

"Where's the editor?" bellowed the caller at the office of the Podunk Pabulum. "He's out," said the office devil. "You see we had a home talent play at the town hall the other night and in describing the scene between Mr. and Mrs. Hanks, who played the leading part, the editor wrote: 'He held her tight as she struggled to get in,' but when it got into the paper it read: 'He held her tights as she struggled to get in.' Mr. Hank called about it. and I ain't sin neether of 'um since."

Too Many Laws

Better no laws than too many, said Montaigne. Jefferson used the same thought to his remark that the least governed is the best governed.

But, bless you, don't you recall what George Wither said in his couplet?

"And be that gives us in these days
New lords may give us new laws."

It is a certainty that when we elect a new legislature we elect a whole brood of new laws. Why, you exclaim, "do we need any more laws? Haven't we enough?"

I fancy there are now ten times as many laws as you know anything about, but when our beneficent law factory at the capitol sets the wheel in motion out comes a whole grist of new statutes.

Perhaps the reason we make laws so rapidly is because we break them so easily. Very few of us go through the day without actually infringing upon the toes of a statute.—Exchange.

Over a hundred of the best known hymns of the Presbyterian Book of Praise will be discarded if the proposed revision which has been prepared by a special committee is accepted by the assembly in May. Among the hymns to go are: "There Is Life for a Look," "Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning," "Come Ye That Love the Lord," "Dear Refuge of My Weary Soul," "Hark, Hark, My Soul, Angelic Voices Swelling." Besides this forty-eight psalms in the present book are to be dropped.

Quite a scandal was created a few mornings ago by one of our prominent and best-known citizens beating his wife up. Several of the neighbors claim to have seen part of the incident. This paper withholds the man's name for he promised her that it would never happen again, and as he is now ashamed of his actions, he should not be condemned too seriously by other husbands. It was at least 5:30 in the morning and eye-witnesses declare that he not only beat his wife up, but actually had the fire going and the coffee pot on before the surprised lady could get to the kitchen and fully realized how badly she was beaten up.

Synopsis of Coal Mining Regulations.

COAL mining rights of the Dominion in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district inwhich the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon: If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, but the lessee may be permitted to purchase whatever available surface rights may be considered necessary for the working of the mine at the rate of $10.00 an acre.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.
