Obituary

On March 31st, at the age of 49, died at his residence after a prolonged illness, one of our best known citizens, in the person of Owen Boyer.

The deceased was born at Papineauville, P. Q., in the year 1868, and when about 25 left for the West, first locating in Idaho where he lived for a time, then going to Ymir and from there proceeding to Greenwood, where he established himself in business, as proprietor of the National Hotel.

Owen was always known to be kind and ready to give a helping hand to any of his acquantances, they spoke in the highest praise of him and surely will miss him for a long time to come.

His wife and two children, Marguerite and Reni, are left to mourn him, besides many relatives and also brothers who are now in business at the Coast.

The funeral was held in the Catholic Church with a very large attendance of friends who came to pay him the last tribute. Interment took place in the Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Boyer wishes through the medium of this paper, to thank friends and acquaintances who have shown so much kindness in her sad bereavement.—Com.

In Defence of His House

Want Reinforcements

With the exception of the base company at Bramshot, all the companies of the 196th Battalion are now somewhere along the Somme front. A few weeks ago the universities of the four western provinces undertook to raise a platoon each of reinforcements for the units which they sent overseas last autumn. The close of the spring term is now at hand, and the authorities have decided that this is the proper time to organize the new platoons.

The University of B. C. is opening an office on the college grounds, Willow and Tenth, and expects to raise its quota within three weeks. D Company which was recruited here last spring, gained an enviable reputation, both at Camp Hughes and in England. Speaking of the Battalion as a whole, an officer of the General Staff remarked two or three weeks ago: "No finer body of officers and men has crossed the Atlantic since the war began." The provincial university is resolved to keep up the standard, and care will be taken to admit only the right type of men into the reinforcing platoon.

This unit will be composed, in part, of students and alumni of the University, but it will be open also to other men who are willing to make sacrifices and fight for principles. No tempting plums are offered in the way of commissions. The only lieutenancy in the platoon is held by Captain E. E. Jordan, although two sergeants and two corporals are yet to be appointed. However the platoon does make a special appeal on several grounds: (1) It promises congenial companionship during the voyage overseas and the period of training in England. (2) Arrived at the battalion base, the new men will be given the opportunity of specializing in different branches such as musketry, sniping, machine gun, bombing or bayonet work. (3) As the reinforcements are supposed to go forward toward the end of April, and as the facilities for rapid and efficient training at Bramshot are especially good, recruits may feel sure of getting to the front in the shortest possible time and so doing their share to hasten the end of the struggle and to assure the decisive triumph of the Allied Cause and the ideals it represents. (4) The policy of the University is to recommend as many men as possible for some training at the Royal School of Instruction, Work Point Barracks, before the reinforcements are ordered overseas. This privilege can be continued for only a week or two longer.

Already several business and professional men, including two university professors, have enrolled in the platoon, but about thirty-five or forty more recruits can be admitted. Those who are interested should make personal application or write immediately to Lieut. E. E. Jordan, University of B. C., or to Professor Mack Eastman, 935 Tenth Avenue West, Vancouver.

Another Inspiration

The Pacific Printer and publisher is responsible for the following: "It was written 'Epidemic of Rabies Feared in Tonapah,' but the ingenious compositor unintentionally took liberties and dove into the 'B' box to begin the third word, thus causing a flurry among the miners."

Mr. Duhamel expected to find the city "a little bigger, but much the same" as when he left it in 1888, but Vancouver has grown since those days of horse-cars and side-whiskers, and consequently Mr. Duhamel "found himself lost" in the city he helped to put on the map.—Province.

Slocan and Ainsworth

Probably the last car of ore to be shipped from the Utica will go out this week, as the team is now bringing down the last of the sacks to complete the shipment before the road begins to break up. In any case the resumption of Utica shipments need not be looked for until early summer at least, as, in addition to the shape that the road will be in, the refusal of the Consolidated to handle any more silver-lead ore carrying zinc in excess of 15 per cent. may make it necessary for the Utica to make other arrangements for handling of its product.—The Kootenian.

During the winter five men have been steadily employed at the Silver Gable mine, on the Upper Duncan river, just this side of Healy's Landing. Most of the work done has been on the outside, putting up buildings and getting out timber, etc. Things are about in shape to commence active development operations with a larger crew.

At the present time nearly all of the concentrators in the Ainsworth and Slocan mining divisions are closed down on account of shortage of water. Indications at present are that a relief from this unfortunate condition may be expected shortly.

May Be Another Butte

Grand Trunk Pacific officials on a tour of inspection to Puget sound report that what is believed to be a larger copper deposit than that of Montana has been uncovered in the Skeena river district, says a Tacoma, Wash. report in the Wall street Journal.

"Hundreds of prospectors are uncovering the greatest mineral qone in America," said W. P. Hinton of Winnipeg, passenger traffic manager of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific. "Plenty of copper, gold, silver and the base metals is now in sight on a tract 50 by a 100 miles in extent lying back of the railway line. We are getting five or ten cars of good ore as a beginning. The great advantage here is that alongside the principal copper deposit there is an ample supply or good coking coal, which presages the coming of smelters adjacent to the mines.

"All the leading American copper companies are represented in the Skeena district, one owning eight claims close together. Plans are under way for bringing the railroad to the ore properties. Timber development is being carried on rapidly. Nineteen new lumber mills will be opened this year."

Long Distance Shippers

Receiving ore shipments from out of the way places, as well as from far distant climes, seems to be getting to be a common thing with the Trail smelter, says the Trail News. Nearly a thousand tons have already been received from the Tip Top mine at Kashabowa, Ont., this year. This ore came 1,780 miles. 1,000 on the Canadian Northern and 780 miles from Regina on the C.P.R.

This week another long-distance shipper is added to the list, being from the Manday, LePas, in Northern Manitoba—the first shipment to come to Trail from that Province. This consignment of one car of 31 tons of copper ore was sent over 1,138 miles of railway track to reach Canada's metallurgical electro-chemical mecca. First it travelled hundreds of miles over the Canadian Northern through the wilds of Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta, finally reaching Calgary. There it was taken in charge by the C.P.R., and come direct to Trail. Whether the next unusual shipment will come from the north pole or Timbucktoo, or some other equally unusual expected shipping point has not yet been announced.

The German Explanation

Of course, in retiring, the Germans are disarranging the original British plan to attack them in the positions which they are evacuating. But to seek, as the Germans are seeking, to give the impression that that is the object of the retirement, that they are accomplishing a great military feat by doing it, is foreign whistling in a graveyard. The British plan was to capture, by costly fighting, the very area which the Germans are now evacuating. When the Germans give it up without a fight, of course they disarrange that plan, they disarrange it by giving the British what the British had planned to fight for. Naturally the British will now have to plan for a new fight, and, if it is such a great military feat to disarrange your enemy's plans, the Germans can disarrange these new plans by retiring again when they are made, and so on. According to this theory, the Germans can discomfit the British greatly by retiring to Berlin. If this were not soberly put forward by "high German military authority," no one would think of arguing about it without a smile. Such a theory has never been put forward with such solemnity since John Phoenix related how he overcame his enemy by throwing himself down on his back and pulling the enemy down on top of him.

In retiring the Germans have, of course, made the battlefield as difficult as possible for the British, and now they try to give the impression that that in itself is a great feat, one worth retiring for. But what was the matter with the old battlefield? Obviously the matter with it was that the British would not let them stay in it. The German tone is the same, but the victories it boasts of are strangely different from those about which it boasted not so long ago. It boasted then over the occupation of the enemy's country, over victorious battles, over conquered nations; now it boasts, in the same tone, that it has disarranged the enemy's plans and given its pursuers a difficult ground to travel over.—New York Times.

To Build For British Firms

"It is the first time in fifty years that England has ordered a ship built in the United States." In this statement by an official of the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, which has contracted to build three 24,000-ton steel freighters for British firms, we have one hint as to the provision made by Great Britain against the new submarine warfare. Unless the submarine campaign collapses within a short time it is plain that the Allies will be turning to this country for new tonnage as they did for war supplies at the beginning of the war. And even if Great Britain by extraordinary efforts of her own could build ships as fast as the U-boats sank them, it is a question as to whether the British Government would not prefer to have them built in this country. Diversion of energy from the direct business of war would be far from unwelcome to the enemy. If England should be impelled to call from the front a large supply of ship-yard labor, as early in the war she had to recall coal miners and skilled workers, it would be an addition to her recruiting difficulties which may well have been contemplated by the German war leaders when they decided upon the new sea tactics.—New York Evening Post.

Mining Notes

The copper production for British Columbia will exceed 100,000,000 pounds this year, according to a statement prepared by N. Thompson, manager of the Cammel, Laird Co., and president of Vancouver Board of Trade. At current settlement prices for copper the producers would receive a gross sum equal to the entire mineral output of the province in 1915, which was $29,600,000, as compared with $42,907,555 in 1916. The copper in 1916 was more than 67,000,000 pounds.

The Valerie Copper Mine, seven miles west of Whitehorse, Yukon, will be put in shape for an early shipment of ore. This mine was located 18 years ago by Gus Gervaise, and is now owned by A. B. Palmer of Vancouver.

The Ladysmith smelter received 189 tons of ore from Texada last week. This ore runs about 5 per cent copper. The above smelter will start one furnace just as soon as there is enough ore on hand to guarantee a steady run.

Owing to lack of coke, only one copper furnace is in blast at the smelter in Trail, and that will be allowed to go cold in a day or two. Unless the situation improves some lead furnaces will have to be blown out.

A deal was completed recently in Nelson by which the Mountain Chief silver-copper mine at Renata, was purchased by a Calgary syndicate for the sum of $100,000.

Several cars of coal is being shipped weekly from the colliery of the Princeton Coal and Land company, Princeton.

The average cost of milling in the Slocan district is $1 a ton.

About Advertising

Under the above caption the Victoria Colonist says editorially:

"Why should not a professional man advertise if he wants to? There is a lot of humbing about so-called professional ethics which constitute a sort of unwritten code devised by established practitioners to make the way hard for the feet of the beginner. The Colonist has had many years' experience with human affairs, but two things it has never observed. It has never known a professional man to object to having his name mentioned in connection with a case with which he has been connected, nor to protest against its having been mentioned in such a connection. But—whisper it softly—it has known professional men to be very wroth because their names were not so mentioned. Some day, when we are feeling just right, we are going to print an account of a case in court and will simply say that both sides were represented by lawyers, or of an accident, and say that a physician was sent for, and next day enjoy seeing the heathen rage."

What's In a Name?

His claim to fame included the fact that he was the brother of Miss Mable Ethel Helmingham Huntingtower Beatrice Blaz Onberrie Evangeline Vise de Lou de Orellana Plantaganet Saxon Toedmag Tollemache-Tollemache, and another sister who was Mathilda Doro Ida Agnes and 11 other names.

About 75 per cent. of the world's rubber last year was produced in the British Empire, which consumed only 12 per cent, the United States using 62 1-2 per cent.

AFTER GRIPPE

Vinol Restored Mr. Martin's Strength

Wapakoneta, Ohio.—"I am a farmer by occupation, and the Grippe left me with a bad cough and in a nervous, weak, run-down condition, and I could not seem to get anything to do me any good until I took Vinol, which built me up, and my cough and nervousness are all gone, and I can truly say Vinol is all that is claimed for it."—JAMES MARTIN.

War Prophets

The one successful prophecy by a public officer of any country still stands to the credit of K. of K. His three-year war came at a time when such a prolonged fight seemed preposterously gloomy. It was a sound guess and a bold one to utter and sorely needed by his nation. Now that his minimum period is nearing completion, the other prophets of the war, major and miner, may well take off their hats to the memory of the one prophet who made a colossal, affirmative prediction, in the teeth of popular opinion, and guessed aright.—New York Tribune.

The Dear Little Girl

At breakfast one morning Daddy was telling his little girl, aged seven, how a dear, kind stork had brought her a dear little baby girl in the night, "and," said he, "I want you to write and tell brother Willie at college all about it." In the evening the little girl asked daddy for a stamp to post the letter. "give it to me and I will post it," said daddy. "Dear little soul!" he thought, "I must read her account of the 'kind stork story' to her brother." On opening it, this is what he read:

"Dear Willie, the seventy-five cents is mine! It's a girl!

A Path of Gold

The cost of the war has reached already such a fabulous amount that the ordinary mind fails to grasp the significance of the millions of pounds which are daily mentioned in the papers.

It has been announced that the interest on the debt created by the war loans of 1914-15 amounted to £38,445,856 for the financial year ended last March.

Supposing it was possible to place a line of soverigns which represented this amount close together, the line would about reach from London to Inverness.

If a man were invited to pick up each soverign separately, and he was able to lift thirty every minute, and worked five hours every day, it would take him about twelve years to pick them all up, working every day of the year.

Or a footbridge could be built across the Channel, from Dover to Calais, nearly two feet wide, the surface of which could be laid with sovereigns as close as possible, and this would only represent the amount of interest payable in one financial year for the loans created in 1914-15.—Tit-Bits.

Synopsis of Coal Mining Regulations.

COAL mining rights of the Dominion, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and in a portion of the Province of British Columbia, may be leased for a term of twenty-one years renewal for a further term of 21 years at an annual rental of $1 an acre. Not more than 2,560 acres will be leased to one applicant.

Application for a lease must be made by the applicant in person to the Agent or Sub-Agent of the district in which the rights applied for are situated.

In surveyed territory the land must be described by sections, or legal sub-divisions of sections, and in unsurveyed territory the tract applied for shall be staked out by the applicant himself.

Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $5 which will be refunded if the rights applied for are not available but not otherwise. A royalty shall be paid on the merchantable output of the mine at the rate of five cents per ton.

The person operating the mine shall furnish the Agent with sworn returns accounting for the full quantity of merchantable coal mined and pay the royalty thereon: If the coal mining rights are not being operated, such returns should be furnished at least once a year.

The lease will include the coal mining rights only, rescinded by Chap. 27 of 4-5 George V. assented to 12th June, 1914.

For full information application should be made to the Secretary of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, or to any Agent or Sub-Agent of Dominion Lands.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy Minister of the Interior.

Float

FLOAT is not a periodical. It is a book containing 86 illustrations all told, and is filled with sketches and stories of western life. It tells how a gambler cashed in after the flush days of Sandon; how it rained in New Denver long after Noah was dead; how a parson took a drink at Bear Lake in early days; how justice was dealt in Kaslo in '93; how the saloon man outprayed the women in Kalamazoo, and graphically depicts the roamings of a western editor among the tender-feet in the cent belt. It contains the early history of Nelson and a romance of the Silver King mine. In it are printed three western poems, and dozens of articles too numerous to mention. Send for one before it is too late. The price is 25 cents, postpaid to any part of the world. Address all letters to
