In Home of Kittens

An interesting reader verified the facts in the following account of the unusual attachments of a squirrel to a family of cats, which was published in the Daily Times of Woburn, Massachusetts, where the incident occurred:

A squirrel has made its home with the Cardinal family on Fowle street, under the care and guidance of a careful and loving Tabby and a number of little kittens. The other day, the mother cat with her batch of three or four little ones was taking a short walk and was in the act of entering the house, when a tiny squirrel which had followed them for a distance, ran confidently up to the kittens and playfully, although fearfully, attempted to make friends. Strangely enough, the big cat took little or no notice of it.

When the members of the cat family entered the house, the little squirrel hopped up the step and disappeared into the house. Mrs. Ralph Cardinal was amazed at the unusual tableau, but was even more surprised when the squirrel followed the cat and kittens to the nest, and then fearlessly cuddled up with the rest. That happened several days ago. Now the squirrel is a regular member of the cat family.

Water

Sweet, beautiful water—brewed in the running brook, the rippling fountain and the laughing rill—in the limpid cascade, as it joyfully leaps down the side of the mountain. Brewed in yonder mountain top, whose granite peaks glitter like gold bathed in the morning sun—brewed in the sparkling dewdrop; sweet, beautiful water—brewed in the crested waves of the ocean deeps, driven by the storm, breathing its terrible anthem to the God of the sea—brewed in the fleecy foam and the whitened spray as it hangs like a speck over the distant cataract—brewed in the clouds of Heaven.

Benjamin Franklin's Toast

First published in 1797

At the conclusion of the war, Dr. Franklin, the English Ambassador, and the French Minister, Vergennes, dining together at Versailles, a toast from each was called for and agreed to. The British minister began with: "George the Third, who, like the sun in its meridian, spreads a luster throughout and enlightens the world." The French Minister followed with: "The illustrious Louis XVI, who, like the moon, shed his mild and benignant rays on, and influences the globe." American Franklin then gave: "George Washington, Commander of the American armies, who, like Joshua of old, commanded the sun and the moon to stand still, and they obeyed him."

His Reason

Could anything better illustrate the point of self-sacrifice than the following anecdote?

One scorching day, when his comrades were nearly prostrated, he was seen carrying his own gun and another man's, two cartridge belts, two knapsacks, and a dog. The colonel stopped him.

"Look here, you marched all yesterday and you fought all last night," the colonel said.

"Yes, sir," said the young soldier, respectfully.

"Well, then, what are you carrying that dog for?"

"Because, colonel," said the soldier, "the dog's tired."

A Strange Pet

In a country town in northern Pennsylvania there lives a little old man who sells milk, carrying it from house to house morning and evening in a small hand-cart. There is nothing strange about that, but his companion on these daily trips is the very strangest you ever heard of—an old gray goose, who follows him about in the most dignified manner, and stands watch over the cart, letting no one go near it in his master's absence. His name is Major, and his master says that he is just as useful as a dog would be.

The Only Way

All goats delight to take a bite
Of posters on the fence.
Both night and day they chew away
With appetites immense.
And then again the merry rain
Will posters wash away.
You can't ensure, that's true for sure
How long the sheets will stay.
So all wise guys—they advertise
In papers, so they do—
Where rain cannot hurt it a bit
Or goats break in and chew.

Great Smelting Capacity

When present construction work for increasing zinc smelting capacity in England has been completed, that country will be able to produce spelter at the rate of 85,000 tons, or 170,000,000 pounds per annum, according to a despatch from Boston. This will represent of 100 per cent. over two years ago, says the Boston News Bureau.

Despite the fact that Englishmen controllep the large zinc mines of Australia, there was never any attempt made to smelt this product in Great Britain. This was left for German metal firms to handle in their smelters in Germany and Belgium. The war has altered that position, and long time contracts between the Australian mines and the Germans have been annulled.

The major portion of the Australian zinc output has been coming to the United States smelters since the middle of 1914, while there have also been increasingly large shipments to Japan.

French metal interests have been building up a zinc smelting industry, and the capacity of the French plants now show a material increase over a year ago.

The activities among the zinc smelters of the world, outside the United States, will not, however, cut seriously into the trade which American producers have been enjoying for the past two years.

B. C. Mines

In the Slocan the Utica will drive a 1900 foot cross cut tunnel.

Jim Spiers is hauling zinc ore from the Montezuma in the Slocan to Zwicky station.

All told, the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co., of Trail, employs about 3,000 men.

It is quite likely that the King Soloman, near Greenwood, will be shipping ore this winter.

For the first ten months of this year, 112 mines have shipped 403,000 tons of ore to the Trail smelter.

So far this year the Granby smelters at Anyox and Grand Forks, have treated more than 1,500,000 tons of copper ore.

W. W. Craig, has leased the Rich Hill for two years to W. E. George and Tim Sullivan. This property contains gold and silver, and is two miles from Westbridge towards Camp McKinney.

Great interest has been taken in Spekane in the Anaconda Copper Mining company since the rumor of its intention to build a smelter in the neighborhood of Spokane. This smelter it is said, will be of the electrlytic type such as is under construction at Great Falls, Mont., at a cost of 4,000,000. The purpose of the plant is to treat the Coeur d'Alene region, British Columbia and other fields of convenient situation.

An increased and growing interest in zinc ore has been noticed by operators of mines in the northwest. Two representatives of the Anaconda Copper company have been in the Coeur d' Alene region for a week relative to the purchase of concentrates for the electrolytic plant at Great Falls, Mont. The Rambler-Casiboo company hos just sold 100 tons that will be shipped from its mine in British Columbia to the plant of the United States company at Blende, Col., and the Lucky Jim Zinc Mines, Limited, recently closed a contract for the delivery of 600 tons monthly to the Consolidated smelter at Trail B. C.

What is probably a record in this section for getting out ore under difficulties, was accomplished this fall in the north end, when a carload of highgrade ore was taken out from the Old Gold mine, on Westfall creek, otherwise known as the west fork of the Duncan river. The property has been owned by Judge Miller and associates and the high prices for silver and lead induced them to tackle the problem of getting out a car load from the mine. They had to do some trail building and Andy Daney of Ferguson tackle the problem of getting the ore down to Trout Lake. At least one divide had to be crossed which meant an uphill pack for ore. The packtrain handled it to the summit and then piled it, afterwards making a separate job of the pack to Ferguson. From Ferguson to Trout Lake a wagon was used and barge and tug carried it to Gerrard, where it was loaded into a car. The ore had to be carried twenty miles by pack train. The Old Gold is said to be showing up well, the work incidental to taking out the ore this fall having left more in sight than was there at the commencement of operations.—Kaslo Kootenaian.

A temperature of 108 degrees Fahrenheit is not recovered from except in heat stroke. A temperature of 107 lasting more than two hours is rarely recovered from. A rising temperature on the second day after the occurence of paralysis is fatal. A temperature in these cases of 107 at any time within the first three or four days means death. The existence of exteusive chronic kidney disease with a severe continued fever makes recovery a rariety.

Float

Float is not a periodical. It is a book containing 86 illustrations all told, and is filled with sketches and stories of western life. It tells how a gambler cashed in after the flush days of Sandon; how it rained in New Denver long after Noah was dead; how a parson took a drink at Bear Lake in early days; how justice was dealt in Kaslo in '93; how the saloon man outprayed the women in Kalamazoo, and graphically depicts the roamings of a western editor among the tenderfeet in the cent belt. It contains the early history of Nelson and a romance of the Silver King mine. In it are printed three western poems, and dozens of articles too numerous to mention. Send for one before it is too late. The price is 25 cents, postpaid to any part of the world. Address all letters to
