The Mormon Curse.

Having wiped out the curse of slavery which for many years rested as a dark blot upon its fair fame, the United States should now address itself with vigor against the curse of Mormonism. The history of this detestible organization is one of blood and brutality. It does not possess a single feature which should recommend it to honorable men. Not long ago Governor Murray, of Utah, made a report to the U. S. government. He stated that "there has long existed in Utah a combination to nullify the laws of Congress. This conspiracy led to open rebellion at one time, and continues to evade and defeat the plain will of Congress." He calls attention also to the violation of the act of 1862, which declared it unlawful for any corporation or association for religious or charitable purposes to acquire or hold real estate of greater value than $50,000 within any city in the Territory by the Mormon Church, which, according to the latest census, possessed property within one county to the amount of $2,500,000. He says, it is impossible to estimate the amount of property held by the Church in other counties in the Territory. He says he also finds that notwithstanding the law of 1862, forbidding bigamy, it continues to be openly taught and practiced, and that the Legislature of the Territory, created by Congress, not only joins but leads in the successful nullification of this law. He says his appeal to the Legislature to enact laws in accordance with the laws of Congress was answered with the statement that a great majority of Utah's people believed the Act of 1862 to be not only unreasonable but also unconstitutional, in that it 'prohibits the free exercise of a part of their religion, but though they do not fail to recognize the power of Congress under pressure to enact as expedient that or similar laws, they can, however, only view them in the light of history and experience as improvident, mischievous and dangerous.' He alludes to the 'Perpetual Immigration Fund,' confirmed by the Legislature of Utah in 1856, by which the whole system of immigration was handed over to the corporation under control of the church; to Legislative enactments by which the church was declared sovereign in Utah, and to the fact that the common school system in Utah is under the control of teachers of the church. He expresses the hope that Congress and the country may not further follow the argument as to the right of religious belief, but rather to consider how Congress can take some action to secure good government and not rely on 'time and railroads' to effect the desired reforms. He goes on to speak of the danger of another irrepressible conflict, and says that the militia of the Territory is not available, and suggests that in place of a Legislative Council three or five or, if necessary, thirteen or more shall be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate to provide laws for the Territory. He says the Commissioners under the Edmunds act performed their duties faithfully and he thinks effectually. He recommends the United States military to be made available, and that it be made lawful for the United States soldiers to be used for the execution of processes out of the Courts of the United States in the hands of the United States Marshal, and that these services under proper restrictions in case of riot, insurrection, domestic violence and for the preservation of peace, be made more readily effective than under the present laws. The report states that an unlawful Territorial Government, which for over thirty years has existed in the face of Congress and the country, exists to-day. The unanimity and universality with which the request of officials appointed by the Government under the Hoar amendment for the offices was refused throughout the entire Territory could only on this earth perhaps be seen in Utah. The Governor continues as follows: 'Many laws of Congress have been nullified in Utah, and this law was defeated with oneness, and I must say with apparent familiarity with the business in hand. The lawfully appointed officers, instead of appealing to force, appealed to the Court. The Supreme Court of the Territory sustained the Act of Congress on the action of the Governor, but the technicalities and delays of the law consequent upon pleas and State proceedings, resulted as usual in the Territory in failure, and polygamists and worse hellions exercised the functions of office, and to-day many so held who are not entitled under the law to cast a vote.' He says, after presenting these facts in explanation of his inability to enforce the law, that it is not reasonable to suppose the Governor can execute a law when he can only rely under the law on those who combine to defeat it, and adds: 'Congress must provide other agencies to enable the Governor to faithfully execute the laws.' With respect to the opinion that interference with Mormonism would be interference with liberty of worship, he says: 'The question is not whether Congress has or may prohibit the free exercise of religion, for that has been decided under the law of 1862 by the Supreme Court in a test case (Reynold's), but whether the Territorial Legislative Assembly in Utah, an agency of the General Government, created by Congress and paid as such out of the Treasury of the United States, has not made law upon law respecting the establishment of religion.' He considers that the foundation of the Territory of Utah by the Mormons was merely an attempt to establish a religion. He alludes to what he calls 'a reprehensible crime,' that the Courts are not open to all citizens, and unknown to Congress, sit constantly with usurped powers, like unto those conferred by the 'Act of Incorporation' (one of the acts designed to be annulled), and a great crime against the plain provisions of the Constitution may be quickly and effectually arrested and punished. He says: 'Independent of every act of Congress relating to the Territory of Utah, an ecclesiastical government exists there to-day, and has existed for thirty years, intended to meet all the requirements as to the temporal affairs of men in that Territory.' As a remedy for this condition of affairs, he asks that if the Legislature elected under the Edmunds' law fail to repeal all the laws passed by the former Legislature respecting the establishment of religion, and all the statutes by which the laws of Congress have been nullified, and fail to pass laws forbidding polygamy and punishing all persons who solemnize plural marriages, and providing for neglected and deserving wives, and fail to recognize the sovereign authority of the United States, then Congress shall repeal that section of the organic act establishing such a body, and assume control of the Government of the Territory."

Our Old Mammy.

What's that for?" asked a Free Press man, as he saw a car driver on Woodward avenue take a nickel from his pocket and pass it into the fare-box.

"For her."

"What her?"

The car stopped and the driver got down with a "Good-morning, mammy!" and assisted an old woman of 70 to enter the car.

"Did you pay for her?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Well, the story runs back for almost two years," he said, as he picked up his lines. "I reckon you know Bill——?"

"Yes."

"Well, two years ago he was one of the toughest men in Detroit. He drank, swore, gambled, and had all the vices lying around loose. I tell you, he was a terror when off duty and on a spree. He was getting so bad on his car that another week would have bounced him, but something happened."

"What?"

"He was coming up one evening, half-drunk and full of evil, and somewhere about Davenport street he lurched over the dashboard. He caught and was dragged, and the horse began to kick and run. That old woman there was the only passenger on the car, and when she saw the accident she came out, grabbed the flying lines with one hand and the brake with the other, and looking down upon Bill she called out:

"Oh! Lord! help me to save him! He's a wicked young man and not fit to die!"

"Well, she stopped that car and held to the horse until some one came along and helped Bill out of his fix, and she was all the time calling him 'poor boy' and 'my son' and thanking God he was not killed. He had a close call, though, and it was a solemn warning. From that night he hasn't taken a drink, and no driver on this line has a cleaner mouth or is taking better care of himself."

"And the old woman?"

"She lives away out along with a daughter. Many's the dollar Bill has sent her since that night in the way of clothes and provisions, and he'll never forget her. The story came to the rest of us after awhile, and we've sort of adopted her as 'Our Old Mammy.' We help her on and off, pay her nickel out of our own pockets, and when the car isn't too full we have a minute's chat with her. She likes us all, and we wouldn't trade her off for the whole line. It's a bit of romance among ourselves, you see."

"Yes. Did she ever talk to you?"

"Did she? She sat right there on that stool one day two months ago, and said:

"'My son, let drink alone! It robs the pocket, cheats the brain, and leaves you friendless! Don't swear! Oaths go with a vicious soul! Keep your temper. The man who can't control his temper is no better than a caged wolf!"

"She said that with her blue eyes reading my soul and her old voice trembling with earnestness, and every word went right to my heart and lodged there. She's had something to say to most of the boys, and I reckon each one is the better for it. Curious, ain't it, how we found our old mammy, and maybe you'll believe with some of the rest of us that Providence had a hand in it."

ANOTHER WITNESS. — A. Chard, of Sterling, testifies to the efficacy of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which he used for a badly injured knee joint. It is the great household remedy for inflammation, pain, soreness, lameness, etc., and is used both internally and externally with infallible success.

Wednesday Morning, Nov. 14, 1883.

More of the Settlement.

Instructions have been received from Ottawa to advertise for tenders for the completion of the dry-dock at Nanaimo, and Hon. Mr. Trutch has been advised to make arrangements at once for the necessary staff to manage a Dominion land office, and for placing the government lands regularly upon the market. It is expected that the Dominion parliament will meet about the 17th February, and the confirmation of the settlement bill will be among the first measures taken up. These announcements, which we make on the very best authority, will be received with great satisfaction throughout the province. We are afraid, however, that they will be anything but pleasant reading for the opposition organs, which have been all along telling us that the dry-dock would not be built, that the Dominion government would not take it off our hands, and that the railway lands would not be opened. One by one the predictions of these false prophets are being destroyed, and the prospects of the province are looking up proportionately. The organs have been engaged long enough in the work of deception, and it is fortunate that but few people have been misled by their absurd and groundless statements. The settlement bill is an assured fact upon which the province may build its hopes with the utmost confidence.

Crumbs of Comfort.

The Victoria Standard copies the following telegram from the Hamilton (Ont.) Tribune, and puts the figures in sensation type:

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—The Dominion government has forwarded advices to the provincial government of British Columbia that $20,000 has been placed to the credit of the province as the first instalment of the dock money refund. There is yet $220,000 balance, which will more than likely be forwarded in time for the next year's estimates.

From this piece of nonsense the Standard pretends to take comfort. It says: "The government has all along represented that $120,000 had been placed to its credit!" Well, and the representations of the government are probably correct. The Standard must be either very foolish or very dishonest. Any person who understood the circumstances must know that the Hamilton Tribune has made a mistake. It is well known that the amount of the dry-dock refund agreed upon was $250,000. If $20,000 has been paid there would remain a balance of $230,000, and not $220,000, as stated. But it is well known also that the Dominion government agreed to recoup this province for expenditures on dry-dock account from the 30th June, 1882, to the time when the settlement was concluded. This would make the whole refund about $340,000. If $120,000 had been paid out of $340,000, the balance would be exactly $220,000, as stated by the Tribune. It is plain enough, therefore, that the Tribune intended to to say $120,000 when it said $20,000. Even the Standard could scarcely be so pig-headed as not to have perceived the discrepancy. So far, therefore, from proving the deception of the government, the Standard has brought a disinterested witness who verifies the correctness of their representations. We are afraid the opposition organs must doubt seriously the pretended strength of their own position, when they resort to such absurd tactics to mislead public opinion.

Some Suggestions.

Among the most important questions for the consideration of the government is that of the disposal of the revenue. There are, of course, certain fixed charges upon the revenue over which the government have practically no control. The balance left after these uncontrollable expenditures have been satisfied is by no means large, and it is to the disposal of this that the judgment and intelligence of the government should be applied. The first consideration should be the construction and improvement of roads and bridges. On the mainland at least the roads are in a most deplorable state, and a very large expenditure will be necessary before they can be made fairly good. The appropriations for this purpose at the last session were most liberal, but we are afraid much of the work done has given but poor results. It was done too late in the season, as usual, and the improved roads are now worse in many places than they were before the work was done. We have frequently pointed out the impolicy of doing road-work in the fall; and we have suggested that the fiscal year be changed and made to end with the civil year, so that the appropriations might become available immediately after they had been passed by the House. This year the government decided to spend only one half the appropriations for road-work. The other half will be carried over till next year, and work may be commenced just as early as the weather will permit. The beauties of late road work may be seen now on the Granville road, the Yale road and the road to Port Moody. The Granville road, we are told, is worse than it ever was before, and the worst places are those where work was done just before the winter rains. One of the difficulties which, no doubt, all governments have to contend against is the disposition manifested by different localities to demand more than their fair share of the appropriations. These demands should be met firmly by the government. As far as possible public works should be laid out by competent engineers who have no selfish interests to serve. We have heard of instances in this district where roads and ditches, paid for out of provincial funds, have been made, apparently, for the sole accommodation of an individual. Such misapplications must not be permitted. They not only waste the revenues, but breed dissatisfaction and destroy public confidence. We hope the government will liberally supplement the appropriations for road work now unexpended, and that arragements will be made to begin work as early as possible next season. The unexpended balance would be sufficient to carry on these works until the supplementary appropriations become available next July. There are a few public works in this city to which the attention of the government may be called. The first and most important is a land registry office. We need not say that the absence of such an office has long been a standing grievance on the mainland, and we do not think the government can longer delay in this matter. A new gaol is also much needed. Indeed it is an absolute necessity, for the present one is both too small and too insecure to answer the purposes for which it is intended. Further than this we shall make no suggestions at present.

Several houses in this city for sale by C. D. RAND.

The Athletic Club will meet tomorrow night.

Work on the Hall's Prairie road is being rapidly pushed forward.

A great deal of new ditching is being done in the Clover Valley section.

Settlers continue to arrive in the Mud Bay settlement, and property is looking up.

The roads from this city to Hastings and Port Moody are reported extremely bad.

Property belonging to the Ebenezer Brown estate for sale on easy terms by C. D. RAND.

The Semiahmoo trail is now cleared of fallen trees, so that a wagon can pass through.

The weather continues extremely mild. Yesterday was clear, bright and beautiful.

The country from Mud Bay towards and including Clover Valley is fast being settled up.

Mr. H. F. Keefer's store at Harrison River was burned on the 4th inst. Loss about $5,000.

The Rev. Mr. Smith's condition is greatly improved and strong hopes of his recovery are entertained.

There was no quorum at the city chambers Monday night, and the council adjourned till to-night.

Water fowl are very plentiful just now at Mud Bay, and hunters are slaying them in large numbers.

We are told that Mr. Jno. Woodward is making a most excellent job of the corduroy road at Mud Bay.

We have received a report of the social held at North Arm last Monday night, but must lay it over till next issue.

The case of Vedder vs. the Municipality of Chilliwhack is to be argued before the supreme court at Victoria to-day.

Murrin's two logging camps at Semiahmoo Bay are turning out large quantities of logs every week, which are towed to mills near Whatcom.

The Scott road is in very good condition now, considering the time of year. Compared with other roads between here and Whatcom it is excellent.

The postmaster took possession of the new office last Saturday. The new premises are an immense improvement on the old, and the public fully appreciate the change.

Mr. Robert Hume, foreman of the Guardian office, arrived home by the steamer yesterday afternoon, from a six weeks' visit to San Francisco. He appears none the worse for the trip.

Constable Burr returned from Langley last week, but without any further clue to the disappearance of Barber. Persons who saw Barber start say that his boat was very top heavy.

Mr. Thos. Earle, of Lytton, and Mr. Robt. Sproat and daughter came down on Monday night. Mr. Sproat is on a visit to England, and Mr. Earle goes to San Francisco for the winter.

A fine new school house is being built alongside the corduroy road, about midway across the Mud Bay flats. It will accommodate children from the settlements on both sides of the flats.

The country on the American side is thickly settled right up to the boundary line. The settlers, however, are not as well fixed as those on this side, especially in the matter of roads and schools.

Last Monday the locomotive from Port Moody came up on her first trip to Port Haney. She is now hauling ties and rails over the road, and track-laying above Port Haney will be commenced at once.

The Mud Bay people complain that their new school house will be too small. It has seating capacity for only 24 pupils, and there are 28 now in attendance. The building should have been ten feet longer.

Constable Sharpe brought two men out from Port Moody last Monday for trial. The cost of bringing men such a distance averages about $9.50 in each case, and it might be saved by appointidg a stipendiary magistrate at Port Moody.

The Victoria Post has ordered its funeral. The public school trustees have demanded satisfaction on account of a letter which appeared in the Post reflecting upon the management of the school. The editor refuses to give the correspondent's name, and the trustees threaten libel.

Mr. Jno. Murray, of Spence's Bridge, has built a fine mansion in anticipation of the arrival of some friends from the east who will reside with him. He has also erected a splendid hot-house which is provided with every modern convenience. He proposes to raise trees and shrubbery enough to supply the whole province, and may even extend operations to the other side of the mountains.

NEW DEPARTURE.—A young offender, who has grown old in crime, was flogged in jail the other day. If this mode of punishment were adopted in some other cases we believe the effect would be very wholesome.

OUR CLIMATE.—Capt. Peele reports the temperature in this city yesterday as follows; Maximum, in the shade, 51; minimum, 42. People who read this item in Winnipeg will probably wish they were somewhere else.

COUNTY COURT.—The case of Jones v. Rousseau was concluded on Friday and the judge reserved his decision. Yesterday the case of Hendry v. Moodyville Sawmill Co., action to recover on a $500 promissory note, was settled by the parties.

STRIKE OVER.—We are glad to learn that the coal strike at Nanaimo is virtually ended, nearly all the men having returned to work. We hope both the men and their employer will now endeavor to get rid of the Chinese nuisance with all possible haste.

CANE LOST.—Mr. J. W. Robinson, of Olympia, lost a cane on the Port Moody road on the 6th inst. It had an ivory or bone handle, and was prized by its owner chiefly because it was a present from a friend. If the person who found the cane will leave it at this office, or with the captain of the str. Eliza Anderson, it will be forwarded to Mr. Robinson.

REGULAR TRIPS.—The business to New Westminster has grown so that the steamer Gipsy has been regularly and permanently placed upon the route, making two trips a month, leaving here on the 1st and 15th. This is as we anticipated long ago, and we shall be disappointed if within a year a bigger boat than the Gipsy is not making semi-weekly trips on that route, and doing well at that.—Seattle Post.

SAIPPING ITEMS.—Str. Yosemite and Reliance left for Victoria and Yale Saturday morning. Str. Irving arrived from Yale Saturday afternoon. Str. Irving left for Yale on Sunday morning. Str. Reliance arrived from Yale at 9:30 Monday night. The str. Yosemite arrived from Victoria yesterday afternoon at 1:40. The str. Irving arrived from Yale at 3:25 yesterday afternoon, and the str. Dunsmuir from Nanaimo at 4:20.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER.—On Saturday evening the members of the local bar entertained the Hon. Mr. Justice McCreight at dinner at the Colonial Hotel. The dinner was intended as a sort of welcome to his lordship on taking up his residence permanently in this city. We understand that his lordship expressed his satisfaction at the arrangement by which he has been assigned to this district, and that a very pleasant evening was spent.

AQUATIC.—Wm. Cotsford goes into training in order to be in trim to give Hanlan a rattle in the event of the champion of the world coming from San Francisco to this city. Inquiry will at once be made to ascertain what Hanlan's movements on the Pacific Coast will be and whether, in the event of satisfactory inducements being offered, he will afford Victorians a chance of witnessing his wonderful aquatic prowess.—Vic. Standard.

ASSIZE COURT.—The court will open this morning at 10 o'clock. There are 6 criminal and 3 civil cases, as follows: The case against Dr. Masters for malpractice; the Bailey murder case; Geo. Thompson, for rape; Ah Fin, for stealing fish from Laidlaw's cannery; Ling, for larceny at Wells' Landing; Holt, for assault on a Chinaman at Maple Ridge; the Perkins libel case; the case against Wadhams in connection with land tax sale; and the case of Brock v. Ray, arising out of a dispute about hay. The court will probably sit for a week.

THE KOOTENAY COUNTRY. — Judge D. C. Lewis, who has been far up the Columbia in the interests of the Kootenay Railway and Transportation Company, returned to Cheney last week after a summer's voyage in the Alpha, sent up from New Tacoma last spring. He penetrated the wilds of British Columbia, walked over a thousand miles of country, as in selecting the lands granted by the Dominion Parliament he was obliged to go back six miles from the river, and returned laden with bushels of mineral specimens, jars of soil, varieties of wood, etc.—Tacoma News.

POLICE COURT.—Two Indians were brought up before the police magistrate on Monday morning for having liquor in their possession and fined each $25. Yesterday morning two men from Port Moody, Dutta and Rogers, were brought before Messrs. Bole, Ferris and Pittendrigh, J. P.s, charged with having liquor in an Indian house. Dutta denied the charge, but it was proved by Constable Sharpe, who gave the man a very bad character. Mr. Moresby also pronounced him bad, as it appeared that he had been convicted 11 times already. He was fined $300 and 6 mos. in gaol, with another 6 mos. in default of the fine. The police magistrate expressed regret that he could not order a flogging for him. Rogers pleaded guilty and was fined $50 or 2 mos. Two Indians from this city were charged with having liquor in their possession and fined $25 each. A warrant was issued for the person who supplied the liquor, and he will come up this morning.

Royal City Planing Mills.

A LARGE AND GROWING ESTABLISHMENT

Attention is called to the column advertisement of the Royal City Planing Mills Co. This establishment was erected in 1878, and originally had a capacity for about 7,000 feet of lumber per day. Since then it has been steadily growing until it has become one of the most extensive manufacturing concerns on the Pacific coast. The mill in this city is about 200 feet long. The main building is 32 feet wide, with additions which make the whole width 160 feet. The wharves have a frontage of 300 feet, with a depth of about 150 feet. The power consists of two engines and boilers of about 200 horse power. The mill contains a pair of large circulars, a gang for resawing, an edger, and 2 trimmers. In the manufacturing department there are 8 circular saws, band and jig saws, besides 4 planing machines of various kinds, moulding machines, shaping machines, morticing machine, tenant machine, sand-papering machine, panel-raising machine, shingle machine, turning lathe, etc. Besides ordinary sawing the establishment does all kinds of turning, planing, moulding, sash and door work, etc. Fish cases are made a specialty, and a special machine is used for that purpose. The present capacity of the establishment is about as follows: Lumber, 30,000 feet per day; shingles, 30,100; laths, 10,000; fish cases, 2,000; net floats, 600; sash and doors, 100 each per day. Pickets are made as well as laths, and at about the same rate per day. The company have lately purchased the saw mill at Nanaimo, and have it now in operation. This mill is about 150x30 feet, and has a capacity of about 14,000 feet per day. It is being run under the superintendence of Mr. A. Haslam, a member of the firm. Should the demands of trade justify, the company intend next summer to build a new mill at Nanaimo. The company have an extensive logging camp on the North Arm of the Fraser, of which Mr. Robt. Preston is foreman. They are now building a powerful tug which will be used in towing for the two mills. A lumber yard has been opened at Port Moody, and a shipment of 50,000 feet of lumber was sent round last Monday. The following gentlemen constitute the R. C. P. Co.: Jno. Hendry (manager and treasurer), And. Haslam (secretary), D. McNair, R. B. Kelly, and And. Lees. The company have shown great energy and enterprise, and we hope they will reap abundantly the reward of their labors.

The C. P. R. Canard.

NO DIFFICULTY ABOUT KICKING HORSE.

TORONTO, Nov. 9.—General Manager Van Horne of the Canadian Pacific Railroad who arrived here to-day says there has been no suspension of work on the Rocky Mountain section except what has been absolutely necessary. Work could not be easily continued through the mountain in winter owing to snow slides; but will be pushed in the spring and the whole line to the Pacific coast will be finished in 1885 as bargained. If it was necessary to push work through the Rocky Mountains during the winter they could do so; but there was no hurry and there had been no disagreement among the engineers as to the practicability of Kicking Horse Pass.

From Barkerville.

BARKERVILLE, Nov. 9. — Mining news unimportant The Barker claim had to shut down as there was too much water, but quit on good pay, making about eighty ounces for the last week. It will soon be at work again. Last evening a thanksgiving service was held at the English church and a collection taken up for the Royal Cariboo Hospital. About fifteen inches of snow, but mild for this time of the year.

From Port Moody.

The road is extremely bad, and is growing worse and worse. A number of men are at work getting out poles for the telephone line, and it is understood the wire will be put up without delay. The new road, known as the Clarke road, is nearly all chopped out. Mr. Pogue has over 50 men at work on this road and in clearing streets and lots at the town plot. There are quite a number of new buildings going up. Mr. Pogue is about to erect a livery stable. Owners say they have raised their prices and that buyers will have to advance to the new price list.

From Nanaimo.

[From the Free Press.]

Mr. E. B. McKay, on behalf of local and English capitalists, is making arrangements to put down a bore on what is known as the Chemainus Indian Reserve, about 15 miles to the south of this city and situated on Oyster harbor and Chemainus Bay. The company have secured the mineral right by a Dominion Order in Council paying the Indians a royalty for any coal they may mine. The Reserve is over 3000 acres in extent and is said to present good indications of coal. Hand bores will be used as it is not anticipated that it will be necessary to go to any great depth. In years gone by several bores and shafts have been sunk but in every instance we believe, the prospect holes were very shallow. There appears to be quite a coal boom along this East Coast.—The Royal City Planing Mill Company, of New Westminster, having purchased the Nanaimo Saw Mill and placed it in excellent order, is now turning out undressed lumber of a very superior quality and in large quantities. A few days ago they cut out two immense sticks of timber for the pit head frame of the Esplanade Shaft. In a few days they will have the planing machinery in order and will then turn out all kinds of surfaced lumber. In the meantime a stock of surfaced lumber, window sashes, doors, etc., made at their New Westminster Mill is kept constantly on hand at the Nanaimo Mill. The work is carried on under the immediate superintendence of Mr. Haslam, one of the shareholders, and a gentleman of great experience in the sawmill business..—The bore sunk by Mr. T. D. Jones for the Vancouver Coal Company at the South Field Mine struck coal on Friday and on Saturday it was ascertained that the upper coal was over seven feet thick then a small parting and lower layer of coal over a foot in thickness. This bore is 500 yards more to the northward than the main slope and further to the "dip" than any of the present workings in the South Field Mine. This proves a large extent of the Company's property and indicates that the seam extends quite a distance towards Nanaimo.

From Hope.

(Correspondence of the Columbian.)

HOPE, Nov. 12.—Persons recently in from the back country report three feet of snow on the mountains, thirty-two miles from here, and a foot twelve or fourteen miles back. There are still one or two bands of cattle to come in to the river for shipment, the drivers of which will have a hard time of it. It won't be quite so hard for the stock, as the ground will be in better condition for travelling. During the season just closed the Nicola and Similkameen trails have been got into good condition and the road is now said to be in a better state than it has ever been before. The work has been carried on under the superintendence of Mr. W. Sterrett, a party of about half-a-dozen having been continuously employed from early in June until a few days ago. Much excellent work has been done. The road has been graded and widened where necessary; bridges have been rebuilt and dangerous sidings have been cut down and broadened. At one particular point the passage of man or beast was a work of real danger and many accidents occurred from time to time. This spot has now been made perfectly safe and altogether cattle-men and the travelling public have every reason to be satisfied with the improvements that have been carried out. The forest fires which were so general up and down the whole Pacific coast during the past season, left their mark on this section. On the Nicola trail they raged with great virulence. Most of the bridges which had just been rebuilt were destroyed, and had to be once more replaced. The road between this and Popcum is at the present moment in course of repair, under the supervision of Mr. W. Bristoe, an old-time resident on the river. The bridges along the road were much in need of repair, the temporary structures crossing the forks of Silver Creek being positively dangerous. These have now been attended to, the road has been widened in places, mudholes have been "corduroyed," and the encroaching brush has been driven back to its normal limits. Mr. Bristoe is now at work on a bridge across a creek about half a mile below Jones' and it is hoped will have time to finish it before the winter fairly sets in. This is a nasty crossing at present, the bottom being of the nature of a quick-sand when there is any water in the creek. The reconstruction of the bridge across the main branch of Silver Creek, along the line of the telegraph, is a thing much to be desired, and residents and travellers express the hope that the government will see fit to set apart next year a sum sufficient for the carrying out of the work, the road now having to make a considerable detour. There are still one or two pack-trains expected in from the Similkameen country. They will have a tough time of it, reaching the river. The weather here is comparatively mild, and the river low. There seems to be some uncertainty as to whether the winter mail service will be carried on as usual this season, i. e., by means of sleighs. The general opinion is that the cars will not be able to run much before next spring.

The Scott Road.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN. — Through the COLUMBIAN I would ask the Victoria Standard why he did not publish my correspondence, with regard to the steep hill on the Scott wagon road, verbatim as I wrote it. My object was to show the Standard man that two of his pet administrations were chargeable with that terrible obstruction to the public convenience, through their neglect to enforce a public contract. The present administration has scarcely had time to remedy the neglect of former ones. If that hill that cost me $8 a thousand to haul lumber three miles is not graded to a proper standard next season I may then have a little to say to the present adminstration. J. KENNEDY.

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

ROME, Nov. 9.—Religious services in honor of Martin Luther were held to-day in the chapel of the embassy and attended by a majority of German resideuts.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The Intransigeant reports that the Chinese charge d'affairs had an interview with Morton, American minister. The latter stated that under instructions from Washington he offered the mediation of the United States between France and China; but the offer was declined by France. The question between Prussia and the Vatican relative to ecclesiastical matters will soon be settled and amicable relations between the Vatican and Prussia will be renewed within a month.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A large number of bodies are still in the Lancashire coal mine in which the explosion took place yesterday. Friends of the dead crawd around the mouth of the pit. Forty men were killed and two or three will die. Twenty-one were wounded, many seriously. The cause of the accident is somewhat uncertain; but the most plausible theory is that the heavy pillars supporting the roof of the second story of the balcony sank into the plank on which they rested thus forcing the wall outwards, which in time caused the roof of the entire wing to cave in. These columns were made of large pieces of boiler iron rolled into circular form, stove-pipe fashion, the joints not being bolted together.

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—The Gazette understands that a change has been made in the arrangements with the Dominion government for the guarantee of the stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. Only $65,000,000 of stock will be guaranteed; $55,000,000 now outstanding, and $10,000,000 in addition; $35,000,000 to be lodged with the government, and as it is withdrawn to be placed upon the market. The company will deposit with the government an amount sufficient to cover guarantee. The amount immediately required to secure a ten year's guarantee on $65,000,000 is about $16,000,000; of this sum $9,000,000 yesterday afternoon was deposited by the company to the credit of the government with agents of the Bank of Montreal in New York.

HONGKONG, Nov. 9.—Admiral Courbet has decided to postpone his advance upon Backninh where the Chinese garrison are preparing for a desperate resistance. He proposes to wait until the rice crop is gathered and the roads still sodden from inundations, have become sufficiently hard for the transport of heavy cannon which he intends to use in the siege. The march will begin during the first week in December when the Chinese government will have made up its mind whether it will assist the garrison or leave it to its fate.

CAIRO, Nov. 10.—There is reason to believe the Egyptian government is not disposed to admit DeLesseps' monopoly in construction of the Suez canal.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The festival of the 400th anniversary of the birthday of Martin Luther opened this morning by a large gathering of 80,000 school children, who in 53 divisions and accompanied by bands of music marched to various churches and attended religious services in honor of the great reformer, whose bust was placed before the altar in each edifice. The Emperor and Crown Prince and officials and clergy proceeded from the town hall to St. Nicholas church in a great procession. The streets were packed with people. At Hamburg the festival was celebrated by unveiling a colossal bust of the reformer and a popular fete. In Berlin the market square was transformed into a grand theatre for demonstrations.

TORONTO, Nov. 12.—Hanlan starts for San Francisco in a few days, where he gives an exhibition row on Thanksgiving day. He may go to Australia.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Earl Carnarvon, speaking of his recent tour in Canada, said nobody could estimate how great the future of Canada would be if the Canadian people persevered with the same judgment and moderation that characterized their legislation.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 12.—The Luther anniversary is declared by the press to be an occasion for rejoicing by the whole civilized world.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The Temps says that a great sensation has been caused among the French colony in Egypt, owing to China having bought the arms and cannon which accumulated during the military regime.

VIENNA, Nov. 12.—The Governor of Manchuria is ordered from Pekin to have six thousand irregulars ready to embark for Tonquin.

The New Governor-General.

OTTAWA'S WELCOME TO THE MARQUIS OF LANSDOWNE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—This afternoon Mayor St. Jean and members of the city council, principal civic officials, and members of the press, proceeded to Rideau Hall to present an address of welcome to the new Governor-General. The deputation were received by His Excellency the Governor and staff, Lady Lansdowne, Lady Melgund, and Lady Florence Anson being also present. Mayor St. Jean read the following address:—

To His Excellency the Most Honorable the Marquis of Lansdowne, Governor-General of Canada, etc. etc.:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

In the name of the citizens of the Capital, upon the assumption of the important duties of your high office as Her Majesty's representative, at the earliest opportunity, the corporation of the city of Ottawa hasten to offer you a warm and hearty welcome. Your Excellency's administration opens under favorable and happy auspices, at a time when the country is peaceful and prosperous, trade, agriculture and commerce flourishing, and its people contented, not only with the evidences of progress and national development which are apparent throughout the length and breadth of the land, but also with the free and progressive institutions under which they live and the existing prestige and stability imparted to such institutions by Canada's auspicious connection with the Mother Land. The council begs to assure Your Excellency of their unchanging loyalty to the person and government of Her Most Gracious Majesty and their respect for yourself as the representative of their beloved Queen, as a member of an ancient and noble house, whose representatives have been distinguished for their ability and patriotism, and as a statesman who has already made his mark in the Imperial Councils of the realm. The people of Canada have everything to hope from Your Excellency's administration. The council, therefore, feels confident that the popular anticipation respecting the future of your official career will be fully realized, and that your ability, judgment, and discretion shall amply justify the wisdom of the selection made by Her Majesty's government. The council also tenders an earnest and cordial welcome to Your Excellency's amiable wife, the Marchioness of Lansdowne, and the other members of your family. Sincerely trusting that they and Your Excellency may meet with no disappointment but that of an agreeable nature in your future intercourse with the people of Canada, and always be able to feel at home and happy at the seat of government. (Signed) P. ST. JEAN, M. D., Mayor.

HIS EXCELLENCY'S REPLY.

His Excellency made the following reply to the Mayor and Corporation of the city of Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to thank you for the manner in which you have been good enough to welcome my accession to the high office which it has pleased Her Majesty to commit to my charge. To represent the sovereign of these realms in so magnificent a portion of her empire is a distinction which may well be coveted by any of her subjects, and upon which I can readily understand that you should offer me your congratulations; and, sir, as you have pointed out in your address, it is my good fortune to assume the duties of Governor-General at a moment when, in point of the material prosperity and of the moral contentment exhibited by the people of this country, as well as in regard to the brilliant prospect offered by her future, the position of the Dominion of Canada never was more satisfactory or better assured. Mr. Mayor, you are, I believe, justified in attributing these happy results to the wisely-framed political institutions which, without in any degree weakening the alliance of the Mother Country and the Colony, have afforded the freest scope for those qualities of natural enterprise and self-reliance for which the people of Canada have been conspicuous. You have found, sir, in the appointment of a new Governor-General an opportunity of renewing the expression of your loyalty and attachment to the gracious Sovereign under whose rule the consolidation of the Dominion has been effected with such admirable results both to its political and its material development. Of that appointment, gentlemen, you have availed yourselves in spite of the fact that at the present time your thoughts must be occupied with the great loss which you have sustained in the retirement of my predecessor, whose unremitting attention to your interests and whose careful study of the affairs of the Dominion have earned for him so large a share of your respect and affection. Of myself, sir, you have spoken in terms far too generous and indulgent. The warmth of your reception, the numerous manifestations of hospitality which were exhibited on our arrival on Monday, and all along our route through the broad streets of your town, through your spacious suburbs, and past the stately buildings of your Legislature, have touched us deeply. They are a convincing proof that the citizens of the national Capital are ready to give me credit for a sincere desire to devote my best energies to their service, and that they will extend their confidence to me until I have shown myself to be unworthy of it. One word more. I am reminded by the concluding passage of your address that this compliment has been paid to me by a body in whose members I recognize not only the municipal representatives of the Capital, but the neighbors who will during the next few years of my life surround me in my Canadian home. Let me express the pleasure with which, at a moment when I have had to sever many cherished associations in my own country, I have heard from the lips of the Chief Magistrate of Ottawa the expression of a desire that not only the Governor-General, but Lady Lansdowne and our family, may feel—I will use your own words, for I can find none nearly so appropriate—at home and happy in your midst. (Signed) LANSDOWNE.

Langley Council.

Council met at the usual place on Saturday, Nov. 3, at 1 p. m. Present—Reeve, and Councillors Houston, McAdams, Guest and Underwood. Tenders for contracts were opened and awarded as follows:—No. 15, H. Titmus, $70; No. 18, N. Larmon, $12; No. 19, J. Gray, $25; No. 20, A. Campbell, $39; No. 21, W. Davey, $45.50. The Clerk was instructed to apply to government for $700 on account of A. Innes' contract, trunk road. The following accounts were ordered paid: Trunk road account, $499.29½; T. Black, $69; E. McAdams, $42; J. Gray, $28; and J. Murchison, $208. Council then adjourned until first Saturday in December.

BAD DRAINAGE. — There is nothing more productive of disease in a neighborhood than bad drainage. Open the culverts and sluiceways and purify the locality. The obstructions in the human system may be remedied in a similar manner by Burdock Blood Bitters, which opens all the outlets of disease through the Bowels, Liver, and Kidneys.

THE FRENCH DEFICIT.—One cause of the French deficit is the enormous military expense due to the new operations of the government. The supplementary budget presented to the French Chamber embraced the following items:—110,000,000 francs for fortifications and war material; 11,000,000 francs for construction of ironclads; 140,000,000 francs for dockyard and canals; 3,000,000 francs for underground telegraphs; 36,000,000 francs to cover deficit in the year 1883; thus entailing a new issue of £12,000,000 three per cents early in 1884.

A QUERY ANSWERED.—People often ask when is the best time to take a blood purifier? We answer, the best time is now. Burdock Blood Bitters does its work of purifying, regulating, and toning the system at all times and all seasons. Purity in all things is always in order when required.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. (ap4eotly)

THE GREAT ENGLISH TEMPERANCE DRINKS.—Montserrat Lime Juice Cordials, made from the pure juice of the lime fruit on the Company's plantations in the island of Montserrat (West Indies), combined with Limetta, Raspberry, Pineapple, Aromatics or Sarsaparilla. Mixed with soda or plain water, these are the most refreshing and healthful drinks known. Warranted absolutely free from alcohol. $8.50 per case of twelve bottles. E. BROWN & Co., no3ml New Westminster.

A WRONG OPINION.—Many a dollar is paid for prescriptions for some disease that never troubled the patient, and when the sole difficulty was worms, which a few of Freeman's Worm Powders would remove. These Powders are pleasant, safe, and sure, contain their own carthartic, and are adapted for children and adults.

A WONDERFUL RESULT.—A single bottle of Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup has frequently destroyed from 100 to 200 worms. It is pleasant to take—no other carthartic being required. Tape worms have also been removed by it, of 15 to 35 feet in length. It is effectual for all varieties of worms, afflicting both children and adults.

A GOOD INTRODUCTION.—J. Kennedy, a merchant in Dixie, about three years ago introduced Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam to his customers by trying it in his own family for Coughs and Colds. Being pleased with results, large sales followed and it is now the favorite remedy in that neighborhood.

For all troubles of the Throat, use Allen's Lung Balsam. See adv. in another column.

Our Story.

NELLIE'S MEMORIES.

"I can't sleep," he answered, rather peevishly, pausing with a spoonful of jelly to his lips. "Don't talk so silly, Miss Nell."

"Miss Nell" was the name he always gave me.

"Lucy! where are you, Lucy?"

She had been laying aside her cloak and bonnet, and came forward now, looking wonderfully pretty in her gray merino dress and neat falling collar.

"What is it, my darling?"

"What's that place?" said Hennie, trying to raise himself still higher in bed, "all green, with a lot of trees?"

"That is the orchard, Hennie, full of apple and pear and cherry trees."

"I like it!" exclaimed the child; "look, Lucy, there is a cow, a real live cow walking about in it. What a funny garden, though, Miss Nell."

"It looks very dreary now, Hennie, but it is beautiful in summer-time——"

"But it is like a field, all grass, and nothing but a great black tree in it, and a lot of bushes going all round it—haven't you any flowers?"

"Very few now; but you can't see the flower-garden from this window because of the shrubberies; it is such a pretty, quiet little place, shut in by a green gate, and leading to the kitchen garden; it has an arbor, and a fountain, and a rose-tree walk, and beds full of lilies and carnations; you shall go and sit there when the warm weather comes again."

"But, Miss Nell——"

"Now, Hennie, I am not going to answer any more questions just now, so lie still like a good boy, while I talk to Lucy."

My decided tone seemed to have some influence, for he offered no opposition, only continuing his questions in a low tone to himself.

"Well, Lucy," I said, drawing her smilingly into a distant window-seat, and placing myself at her side, "how do you like Sunnyside? do you think you can be happy here?"

She lifted up her face with a mute, wistful expression.

"Well, dear, I do not mean exactly happy, that would be expecting too much in your unsettled state; but peaceful, Lucy, and tranquil in your new home."

She laid her clasped hands on my lap, such delicate little hands, and looked up at me with the troubled earnestness of a child.

"Miss Mortimer, do you believe in presentiments?"

"Presentiments!" I replied, astonished, somewhat awed.

"Yes, presentiments; something stirring vaguely in the heart, and whispering of hope and untold blessings—blessings even for me and my boy. Do you believe in these, Miss Mortimer?"

"Yes, surely, Lucy. Have you really felt such a presentiment as you describe?"

"I have—I have. Oh, Miss Mortimer, I have!—standing on your threshold, I felt the unseen lifting of my burden; felt hope stirring into life again, and knew my husband was not dead. No, he is not dead—something that never lies has told it to my heart; I will despair no more. One day I shall have glad tidings from a distant land that bids me go to him, or he will come to seek his poor widowed girl; whichever it be, I know—I am sure—I shall see his lost face again;" and Lucy bowed her face upon her hands and wept.

I drew the gentle head down till it rested on my shoulder.

"If I weep, Miss Mortimer, it is with joy. I cannot tell you how I felt an hour ago, when you greeted the sorrowful stranger like a sister, and made her share in your happy home. It was as if after a long disastrous voyage we had drifted into some fair haven, never to battle again with the rough hard world; never to be hungry, or weary, or friendless, or to see my darling wasting and pining with neglect, but to rest forever and be hopeful and thankful in this dear place."

Here Hennie, peeping over the side of his cot with hot wistful eyes, broke off our conversation, and as I rose to speak to him, we heard feet scudding along the passage, and a whispered pause at the nursery door.

"The boys! the boys!" cried Hennie, sitting bolt upright and clapping his wasted hands; "the boys; oh, let them in, Miss Nell, please."

His excitement was so great, it would have been cruel to deny him, so I set open the door, and with a whispered caution, let them in.

All three advanced, treading on tiptoe, and holding their breath. I had prepared them as well as I could for the stunted, afflicted little creature they were to see; but an instant's glance at the disturbed and agitated group showed me the uselessness of my efforts. Strugle as they might, their self-possession was quite overthrown by the sight of the weird, ghastly little face, propped up on its bony hands, and peering at them with bright specks of eyes. Poor boys, how I pitied them!

Seymour, generally so calm and quiet, was shifting his place uneasily, and looking everywhere and anywhere except at the strange object before him. Halcot having picked out a likely place in the ceiling, gazed at it in serene abstraction, while Charlie, with an ominous puckering of the mouth, took refuge behind my skirts. Poor Hennie looked from one to another more puzzled than pleased.

"Well, my child," I said, coming cheerfully to the rescue, and giving Seymour a furtive little push, "these two are the young brothers I talked to you about, Halcot and Charlie, and this is their school-fellow, Seymour Egerton; come, you must all be good friends together."

"Hum!" says Hennie.

Here Seymour, recalled to a sense of duty by my premonitory nudge, gathered up his courage, and, with manifest effort, said—

"How do you do? Are you better?"

"Pretty well," replied Hennie, coldly, but politely. "What's that boy looking at?"

Halcot, bringing down his eye from the ceiling, and becoming as red as a young turkey-cock, was heard to mutter "flies,"—a fiction invented for the occasion.

"Flies!" exclaimed Hennie, throwing himself back upon his pillow with his weak gasping laugh. "Oh, those silly flies, how I always laugh at them."

"Why!" asked Halcot, still looking over Hennie's head more in dismay than ever.

"They are so funny," remarked Hennie, speaking so shrilly that his words came out in little squeaks, "they look so very funny, walking on the ceilings with their heads down; they don't like it, you know; it makes them giddy, and then they fall backwards in your tea, and stick up their legs in the air," and here Hennie, again overcome, renewed his unpleasing laugh.

None of the boys saw the joke in the least, but it seemed to refresh Hennie, for he sat up, chuckling still, and demanding to shake hands.

"I have a little hand," remarked the sick child, "and I like to feel big strong ones like yours. Won't that pretty boy with the curly head come and speak to me too?"

I led Charlie, still reluctant, and looking as if he were going to cry.

"He is very pretty," said Hennie. "He is like the little Samuel in Lucy's book;—oh, what nice soft hair,"—and here he broke off with a little sob that brought Lucy from the other end of the room.

"What ails my pet? what is it, dear?"

"Why haven't I got pretty curling hair like that," cried the child, "and warm strong hands? I should like to be like that little boy, Lucy, to have great laughing eyes, and rosy fat cheeks like his."

"My boy, my baby, my precious one, don't talk like that; it breaks Lucy's heart, and you would not make her more sorry and sad than she is now, dear; do I not think you pretty, my own——"

"Yes, you do; but look at those boys with their firm straight legs, and look at mine." And here to my great dismay, and the boys' horror, Hennie threw back the bed clothes and displayed his shrunken, crippled limbs.

Poor Lucy burst into tears.

"Come, Hennie, don't be so naughty—cover them up."

"Ain't they funny legs?—they all go the wrong way, and won't walk a bit; they might be sticks for the good they are. What are you crying for, Miss Nell?"

I was not crying, but the tears stood in my eyes.

"There, I have made you all sorry; how these boys stare, to be sure;—come and kiss me, Lucy; we can't help my legs, can we? and we shall have the white wings some day; and perhaps Peter and John may come down this way presently."

"Do you mean the Apostles?" demanded Seymour, speaking up boldly as befitted the future clergyman.

"The which, sir?" asked Hennie.

"The Apostles—the St. Peter and St. John in the Bible?"

"I mean the men who walked about with no stockings, and long frocks, and a great rainbow round their heads, and told the man at the Gate Beautiful, which was all gold, every bit of it, to get up and walk, and in a minute he walked and ran about. Well, they are angels now," finished Hennie, "and I thought they might perhaps come and tell me to do the same, and one day I should get up 'leaping, and walking, and praising God.'"

To see the little creature fold his hands upon his face as he said this; to see him turn and clasp his mother's neck, and tell her not to cry; to see the quaint bright expression coming back with the utterance of the childish faith;—to see all this would be to draw the tears from anybody's eyes, however hard and stern they might be. The boys forgot their repulsion, and drew near him in unfeigned sympathy, and before many minutes had passed Hennie was asking Dr. Merton's young monitor whether he liked dolls, and Halcot was in fits of laughter.

"Or if not dolls," remarked Hennie sweetly, "soldiers; I have a box of grenadiers, and we will play at them together."

Seymour good-humoredly complying, the box was brought, and at the same moment came a low tap at the nursery door.

"It is only I," said Bruce, putting in his head.

"Oh, come in, sir," cried Hennie, "we are only going to play soldiers."

"Oh, that's the little chap, is it?" said Bruce, putting his hands in his pockets and trying not to whistle: "how do you do, little what's-your-name?"

"Hennie, sir; how do you do?" extending a limp hand carelessly; "I'm playing—don't interrupt."

"Are you?" returned Bruce, staring; then in a low voice, "well, of all the precocious little beggars!"

"Hush, dear, hush; this is Mrs. Graham, Hennie's mother."

Bruce did not whistle now, but only drew a long breath indicative of great surprise, and stared again with all his eyes at the pretty face before him, looking first at her and then at Hennie in unmitigated astonishment. I tried to say a word and make him speak, but he only looked the harder at the unconscious Lucy, and twirled his mustache; and I was just beginning to feel uncomfortable, only hoping that Lucy did not notice it, when the chiming of the church clock called me to the tea-table, and I summoned Bruce to attend me.

"Oh, what do you say? tea-time, all right; I'll come. Good-bye for the present, Hennie, and—ahem—Mrs. Graham."

I hurried off to the dining-room; Bruce followed me.

"You sly old Nell, where did you pick up that confoundedly pretty little widow? By Jove, what hair and what complexion!"

"She is not a widow, Bruce; and how could you be so rude and unkind as to stare at the poor thing so? I was quite ashamed of you, and afraid lest she should notice it."

Bruce laughed that saucy laugh of his.

"You unreasonable woman. What! bring a pretty face into the house, and expect me not to look at it; what do you take me for? Don't you know your brother's weakness better by this time? stare at her, indeed! where's her husband if she is not a widow, Nell?"

"I told you before; I gave you her whole history. It is unkind to go on like this, when you know it teases me; it is not right, Bruce."

He turned off my reproachful speech, in his lazy, good-humored way.

"Not a widow! well, she's next to one; that poor wretch will never turn up again. And what a comical little chap that boy of hers is, a miniature death on a mopstick; jolly little fellow, though, I expect; but what a contrast to her. Why, I have not seen such a face for years."

"Oh, Bruce, Bruce, what is her face to you? Remember her position and yours; don't make me repent of bringing her here, for you will if you go on like this." But Bruce did not abate one inch of his provoking behavior.

"That's your own look out, if you bring a pretty girl into the house—for she is a pretty girl, widow or no widow, though I should prefer the former—you must abide by the results, for I should look at her often enough, you may depend on it."
