Current Events and Opinions.

The Herald is of opinion that civil service reform is dead, because the course of the President has not been consistent. It says that the improvement which he may effect will end with his retirement. We think that it is mistaken. A definite and distinct progress in reform seems to us evident. Thus one of the worst abuses of the old system, the political assessment of public employees, has been in a great degree corrected, and arbitrary dismissal for mere partisan reasons is already stigmatized in the public minds as an outrage. In the judgment and expectation of the public it has ceased to be a matter of course. These are distinct and permanent gains, because they show a change in public sentiment, and do not depend upon the whim of any public officer. When President Cleveland retires, his successor would restore assessments and a mere partisan clean sweep at his peril. Even the Democratic party, whose Bourbon element, which is very powerful, curses the President for his reform course, would not dare to propose a complete restoration of the old spoils system as its platform in 1888. Its managers are perfectly aware of the public enlightenment upon the subject, and the change of public sentiment, and that is the measure of the real progress of the cause. Meanwhile the course of President Cleveland, however inconsistent and open to censure in certain cases, aids that enlightenment greatly, and promotes that change. Nothing could be more uncertain and inconsistent than the course upon this subject of Presidents Grant and Hayes and Arthur. But nothing is more certain than the steady progress of the reform, amid all the obstructions, during their administrations. Reform was declared to be dead and d—isposed of, a hundred times. But it lives to laugh its enemies to scorn. President Cleveland does not do all that many reformers desire. But he does more than any other President ever dared to do, and his course will have carried far forward and upward the mark of the rising tide.—Harper's Weekly.

Whatever opinion may be held about the merits of the struggle at present going forward in the United Kingdom, we should scarcely think there are any fairly enlightened or generous-minded individuals who will not readily pay their meed of admiration to the really "Grand Old Man," who is by far the most conspicuous figure in the "heady fight," and who bears himself as if he were the youngest instead of being, as he is, the oldest warrior in this veritable war of giants. Once and again has Gladstone fired the heather on the Scottish hills, and to all appearance he is going to do this once more, and that more effectively and more extensively than even he could ever have dreamed of. He is fairly roused, and that to a pitch which he himself never previously knew. His courage rises with the occasion. The old war horse smelleth the battle from afar, the thunder of the captains, and the shouting. The more he is deserted by old true friends and once trusted lieutenants the more distinctly the grand characteristics of the man stand out in bold relief, and the more apparently the public rallies to his side. There is something strikingly romantic as well as full of pathos in his whole attitude and bearing. He is seen almost at his best when apparently deserted at his utmost need. He says to one and all, even the ablest and most needed, "With you if possible, but without you if necessary." He is determined that in this contest no trimming shall be possible, and no facing both ways shall be allowed. To talk of his mind giving way is pure nonsense. Every one who reads his speeches can in this matter judge for himself, and he who sees decay in these would do well to look to the state of his own brain. The people turn to him because somehow they feel that he is true and to be trusted. He has a grand theme, and he is turning it to the best advantage. It is a time of crisis, and the public heart beats quick, its flood swells high. Gladstone appears as the chivalrous advocate of an oppressed people, and his silver tongue, if it retain its power, will, as in past days, do wonders. After all it is not certain that he will sweep the country, "People's William" though he be. But many who may vote against him will honor and respect him all the same while they acknowledge that, mistaken though they think he is, they cannot but applaud the tenderness and simplicity of his purpose, and cannot but admire the manly directness and power with which he describes his aims and gives his reasons. It will be seen from the recent Edinburgh speech that Gladstone keeps his opponents strictly to the point at issue, and will on no account allow the public mind to be distracted by mere details. It would indicate presumptuous folly, rather than far-reaching insight, to speak positively of what may be the immediate issue of the present contest. One thing, however, is certain. Whether now victorious at the polls or conquered, the cause which Gladstone champions will at no distant period win the day, for that cause is substantially one of generous confidence in opposition to that of unconcealed distrust, of local management instead of bureaucratic centralization, and one in which friendship and fair play are fully and for the first time, to take the place of force. If the question were between the preservation of the empire's integrity or its dissolution there would be little difference of opinion, for with few exceptions Englishmen and Scotchmen are bound to maintain that integrity at all hazards, and if necessary with the best of their blood. But such is not the question, for on that almost all are agreed. The great problem to be solved is how this integrity is to be maintained and consolidated, and everyone is pleading strongly for his own solution. Never was a more important issue placed before the British people. The world waits with bated breath till the answer is given, and in the meantime watches with ever growing wonder the words and ways of him who, although he has not provoked the contest, has undoubtedly precipitated the crisis, and now heads the fight with all the chivalry and daring of a Henry of Navarre.—Globe.

Malot v. Regina.

The following is a copy of the judgment delivered by Mr. Justice McCreight in this case:

It appears by the record in this case that the indictment was found at a court of oyer and terminer held at Kamloops by a grand jury summoned by the sheriff of the Clinton judicial district, and that the prisoner was afterwards at the same assize tried by a petit jury likewise summoned by the said sheriff, found guilty and sentenced.

It appears also from the record that the murder of which the prisoner was found guilty was committed at the 15-mile creek within the district of Kootenay, as defined under the mineral ordinance A. D. 1869, at a spot east of Farwell, and not within the district of the sheriff of Clinton, and that so he was tried by a jury not impannelled, and which of course could not have been impannelled from the visne locality or district where the crime was committed.

It appears, moreover, that no order of a court or judge was made under s. 11 of the criminal procedure act, A. D. 1869, "directing the trial to be "proceeded with in a district, county "or place other than that where the "said crime is supposed to have been "committed, or would otherwise be "triable," and the question is whether these facts do not show error, and I am of opinion that they do.

I am much inclined to think that the Sheriff's Act, A.D. 1873, see especially S. 16, that of A.D. 1878, for the appointment of a sheriff for Kootenay, and defining his jurisdiction, and that of A.D. 1880, for the appointment of one for the Clinton judicial district, and stating their duties with respect to jury process for criminal trials in their respective districts, to say nothing of other acts referred to in the argument, are sufficient to bring this province within S. 1 Sub S. 1 of the Criminal Procedure Act, 1869, and to satisfy that provision of the interpretation clause, which says that the expression, "district county or place, shall include "any division of any province of Canada for purposes relative to the ad-"ministration of justice in criminal "cases"; but in any event it is plain that Kamloops, to use the words of S. 11, is a place "other than that in which "the offence is supposed to have been "committed or would otherwise be "triable," and that, to warrant the trial which has taken place, an order should have been obtained for a change of venue.

I think also that 37 Vic., chap. 42, (D) applying this act to British Columbia (and see sec. 7) implies that, if any law had existed in British Columbia for the trial of an offender at a distance from the neighborhood of the commission of the crime, that law was to be repealed, and thenceforth the procedure on a point of so much importance was to be uniform throughout the whole of the Dominion—and that, moreover, independently of inaction on the part of the provincial legislature as to dividing the province in districts or counties for purposes relative to the administration of justice in criminal cases.

It may be added that the construction placed by the attorney-general on s. 11 seems to give no effect to the word "place" but deals with the section as if the expression used was "district or county," omitting "place."

It is unnecessary to discuss the other assignments of error and I give no opinion on them.

CHICAGO, June 20.—A local paper says to-day that an estate said to be worth all the way from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 is being made the subject of investigation, and, if the claims of alleged heirs can be established, several millions of dollars are likely to come into possession of Illinois claimants. The property is partly located around Mercer street in New York city, covering about 100 acres, and on the Jersey shore. It was owned by one Moses Mercer, a native of Scotland, about the year 1760, and was leased out for ninety-nine years. The lease having expired some years ago, the heirs entered suit for its recovery.

Better Terms or Repeal.

The Week is of opinion that the Nova Scotia secession movement will not result in separation, but in a vigorous and possibly successful demand for better terms. Separation was put forward clearly as the question upon which the election was to be decided, and the electors pronounced an emphatic opinion upon that question by electing 31 repeal candidates in a house of 38. But it is claimed that among the voters it was fully understood that repeal was only a bluff, and that it was simply meant as a trump card by means of which better terms might be secured. But there is, perhaps, as much danger in better terms as in repeal of confederation. It is the granting of better terms that has so often endangered the whole compact under which Canada became a nation. First one province demanded better terms or separation; then another, and another, until the whole basis of the original agreement has been changed. This system having once been inaugurated, one cannot calculate how far its mischievous effects may go. They have already gone far enough to show that the whole scheme of confederation may be destroyed unless something can be done to readjust it upon a basis that will be fair and acceptable to all the provinces. If the adhesion of Nova Scotia is secured by better terms now, it will soon become necessary to pacify the other provinces by the same process; and these matters will have to be managed with consummate skill if the integrity of the nation is to be maintained.

Unworthy Weapons.

Before this paper reaches most of our readers the elections will have been closed, and the fate of the candidates determined. It is a matter of regret that the contest has been conducted with so much bitterness and such disregard to truth. It is a great pity that in political campaigns the discussions could not be confined to matters which legitimately belong to politics. For the past month the columns of the opposition press have been full of the wildest assertions in support of which not the slightest particle of evidence has been offered, and crammed with personal allusions which are a disgrace to the profession. Some government organs have not been by any means free from these faults, but we are sure every disinterested judgment will admit that in this matter the government organs have been much less culpable than those of the opposition—the Guardian and the Times especially. We do not see any reason why politics may not be discussed with as much fairness and moderation as other public questions upon which men differ, and without resorting to wholesale misrepresentation and unmanly devices. Not only newspapers have been filled with misleading statements, but flysheets, such as the famous opposition poster, scatter the same noxious seeds, and the candidates themselves are not above taking advantage of these untruthful aids to deception. In order to guard against this insidious poison the electors ought to keep themselves informed on all public questions. A mind full of information cannot easily be imposed upon by adventurers or those who rely for success upon misrepresentation.

Monday's Meeting.

The political meeting on Monday night was anything but creditable to the opposition. The meeting was called by Mr. Ferris, who had a perfect right to reply to any speech made, either himself or through a substitute. This right Mr. Bole denied, and his noisy supporters backed him up in the unjust position he took. There was a drunk man in a front seat, evidently put there for the purpose of interrupting the government speakers, and he did his part thoroughly. In some of the back seats there were people not drunk who behaved not much better than the one in front. These men kept shouting every few minutes so as to interrupt the speaker and produce disorder. About them were a number of sympathisers who cheered as they were directed, and we are sorry to say that Mr. Bole encouraged, instead of repressing, this disorderly and ungentlemanly conduct. Any person listening to the addresses could not be at a loss to discover the reason why Mr. Bole wished to avoid facing a public meeting. One looked in vain for a single substantial reason produced why the government should not be sustained. There was no attempt to deny that the government's treatment of this city and district had been most generous. It could not be denied, for the proof was too clear—proof that in the last 3½ years the present government had expended here in public works eleven times as much as the government to which Mr. Bole has sworn allegiance. The chief indictment lay in the grievance of the squatters at Coal Harbor, a grievance the history of which may be read in the report of the committee of the house which rejected the claims of these so-called squatters. In connection with the proceedings of this committee Mr. Bole made several important statements which Mr. Cunningham, who was a member of that committee, flatly denies. Mr. Bole was not a member of the committee, and must have been misinformed. The opposition programme is absolutely wanting when one comes to look for any kind of platform. There is no such thing to be found anywhere. Mr. Bole laid down no scheme of reform and no course of action—nothing for the people to accept (but himself) in lieu of the present administration. The manifest emptiness of the programme and the miserable tactics employed on Monday night are not creditable either to Mr. Bole or his friends.

The British Elections.

The feature of to-day's polling is a great number of absentations. In nearly every case votes are greatly reduced in number. The Liberals have won seats in East Leeds, Southwest Manchester, North Manchester, and in the exchange division of Liverpool. The Tories have won seats in South Halford, West Halford, Hastings, Falmouth and South Bristol, a net Tory gain of two. The Unionist candidate for Newcastle-under-Lyne holds his seat, notwithstanding frantic efforts to defeat him. The Unionist candidate at Bristol is equally successful. Jacob Bright, Gladstonian, brother of John Bright, is elected in Manchester. Sir T. Brassey, Gladstonian, who left Hastings to contest Liverpool, was defeated. At Stockport, Jennings, Tory, received 4,702; Gedge, Tory, 4,495; Leige, Liberal, 4,184; and Davey, Liberal, 3,938. In West Leeds, Herbert Gladstone, 5,226, and Williams, 2,970. It is feared that to-day's polling will depress the Liberals.

George Keynoch, principal member of a large rifle firm in Birmingham, who is the Tory candidate for Astor Manor, in a speech last night said that if the Loyalists of Ireland were obliged to appeal to arms he, himself, would be prepared to contribute, within forty-eight hours 10,000 as good rifles as were ever made, together with 2,000,000 cartridges. This remark was received with deafening cheers by the auditors.

Yesterday's elections indicate nothing clearly except the close nature of the contest. The Unionists maintain a lead owing to the number returned without opposition. The returns from boroughs so far contested show a balance of parties. Manchester returns 3 *Gladstonians and 3 Unionists; Liver*pool, 4 Unionists and 2 Gladstonians; Bristol, 3 Unionists and 1 Gladstonian; Leeds, 3 Gladstonians and 2 Unionists. The only Scotch election was in Perth, which returned a Gladstonian by a small majority. In three London divisions, East Paddington, North Paddington and the Strand have given immense Unionist majorities, returning respectively Lord Randolph Churchill, L. L. Cohon and W. H. Smith. Gladstone's denunciation of the Unionist candidate at Carlisle produced the return of the Glodstonian nominee, but Mr. Caine, although opposed by the opposition of the premier, succeeded in Barrow. The feature of the election is the general smallness of majorities; for example, Mr. Armitage, Gladstonian, who carried West Halford by only 55 majority; and in Central Leeds the majority of Mr. Balfour, Unionist, was 13. In Scotland division of Liverpool, T. P. O'Connor's majority was 1,480.

LONDON, June 3.--At 4:30 this p.m. 113 Tories, 23 Unionists, 43 Liberals and 17 Parnellites have been elected. Both political parties are disappointed at present results of election. The Tories to use the expression of Lord Randolph Churchill were cocksure of making greater headway than they have achieved. The Liberals profess to be gaining in spirit. They point out that although the Tories have made a net gain of 2 yet the Gladstones have won Carlisle and Leith against the Unionists, which practically makes the ballot so far a draw.

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

ST JOHN'S, N. F., June 25.—Both shore and bank fisheries have been most successful in Newfoundland. Salmon and codfish are particularly abundant. The fish are ravenous and are easily caught. The St. John Telegram bitterly denounces the Canadian government for freely affording to Portugese Jews fishery privileges which they refuse or attempt to refuse to Americans. Sir Ambrose Shea has gone to England in connection with the French shore difficulties.

HALIFAX, July 2. — Consul-General *Phelan did not receive the official intelli*gence of the seizure of the Portland fishing schooner, City Point, at Shelburne, until a late hour this evening. The United States consular agent at that point telegraphed that a vessel had been seized by the captain of the cruiser Terror, and stated that he would send full particulars by mail. Earlier in the day, before the news of the vessel's seizure came to hand, Consul-General Phelan received a telegram stating that her detention, which was reported last night, was caused by her captain allowing the men to land with their clothing before she had reported to the customs authorities. Instructions upon which Captain Quigley of the cruiser acted in taking possession of the City Point reached Shelburne from Ottawa this afternoon. Captain Quigley immediately ordered the schooner to be taken into one of the town wharves. She will remain in dock there until further orders are received from Ottawa as to whether she will be stripped or not. The cruiser Terror captured two American fishing schooners last night at Sand Point, near Shelburne, and took them up the latter harbor this morning. The schooners captured are the George W. Cushing and the C. B. Harrington, both of Portland, Maine.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 2.—A telegram from Shelburne, N. S., to-night states that the Dominion cruiser Terror this afternoon formally seized the Portland fishing schooner City Point which was forcibly detained at Shelburne yesterday for an alleged violation of the fisheries treaty. The authorities will await instructions from Ottawa before stripping her.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER.

The great popularity of this preparation, after its test of many years, should be an assurance, even to the most skeptical, that it is really meritorious. Those who have used HALL'S HAIR RENEWER know that it does all that is claimed.

It causes new growth of hair on bald heads—provided the hair follicles are not dead, which is seldom the case; restores natural color to gray or faded hair; preserves the scalp healthful and clear of dandruff; prevents the hair falling off or changing color; keeps it soft, pliant, lustrous, and causes it to grow long and thick.

HALL'S HAIR RENEWER produces its effects by the healthful influence of its vegetable ingredients, which invigorate and rejuvenate. It is not a dye, and is a delightful article for toilet use. Containing no alcohol, it does not evaporate quickly and dry up the natural oil, leaving the hair harsh and brittle, as do other preparations.

Buckingham's Dye
FOR THE WHISKERS

Colors them brown or black, as desired, and is the best dye, because it is harmless; produces a permanent natural color; and, being a single preparation, is more convenient of application than any other.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors, TORONTO

To the Electors of the City of New Westminister:

GENTLEMEN.—

In obedience to a largely signed requisition, addressed to me by my fellow-citizens, I have allowed myself to be nominated a candidate to represent our city in the legislative assembly of British Columbia.

As I have already publicly stated I am in opposition to the present government, in as much as I consider they have not satisfactorily discharged the trust reposed in them by the people of this province.

I am opposed to monopoly of all kinds, especially in land.

Being in entire sympathy with the wants and requirements of the workingman, as I regard those who sustain themselves by manual labor as the basis on which all civilized society is built, every measure calculated to advance the condition and protect the interests of the toiling masses shall have my hearty support.

I am in favor of the restriction of Chinese immigration.

I am opposed to reckless and lavish expenditure of the public revenue, as such a course must heavily increase the burden of taxation on the taxpayer.

I think the time has come when we should expect to find good roads in other parts of the province as well as around Victoria; and the people of this city and district have a right to expect a great improvement in this direction.

The fishing, agricultural, lumber, and mineral resources of the province should be encouraged and developed—more especially as the completion of the C. P. R. must give a great impetus to trade and add largely to our population.

There are other matters not strictly within the jurisdiction of the local legislature, but in respect of which an expression of opinion by that body might do much good:

Namely—The question of mail service to this city, which should not be interfered with except to increase the present facilities, as any other change would be an outrage on the city, district, and province; as also the important and necessary step of dredging the Fraser channel, thus rendering New Westminster an ocean port.

In conclusion, I beg to say that if returned as your representative, your interests, which are mine, shall be guarded and furthered to the best of my ability.

W. NORMAN BOLE.

New Westminster, June 24, 1886.

To the Electors of the City of New Westminster:

GENTLEMEN.—At the request of many of the Electors I have consented to allow myself to be nominated as a candidate to represent you in the Provincial Legislature.

As stated at the nomination I am politically independent, and am not pledged to support any party; but I will be prepared to give my vote in favor of any measure that seems to me calculated to promote the welfare of the Province generally, and New Westminster in particular, no matter from what source it may emanate.

I am in favor of a redistribution of seats and representation as far as possible according to population.

As far as possible I shall endeavor if elected to secure the equitable expenditure of the revenue throughout the Province, so that no section may be favored at the expense of the others.

Restrictive measures respecting Chinese immigration will have my support, as I am of opinion that they are not a desirable acquisition to our community.

I am in favor of a thorough revision of the liquor license laws, a reduction in the number of saloons, the total prohibition of the liquor traffic on Sunday, and the closing of bars at a reasonable hour on week nights.

I shall also endeavor to secure more effective legislation against gambling and the flagrant vices which tend so much to shock and destroy the moral sentiment of the community.

As I do not own an acre of land either at Port Moody or Vancouver, and my interests are completely identified with yours, I shall always be anxious to assist in any scheme for the advancement of our city.

Although not pledged to support any party, I am of opinion that common gratitude and a proper apprehension of the interests of the city suggest the advisability of your sending to the Legislature a representative who is friendly to the present administration and not one pledged to oppose it. The liberal treatment received by this city from this government is in striking contrast with that of its predecessor which the opposition propose to restore to power.

I shall, therefore, give the government an independent support so long as its conduct and measures commend themselves to my judgment and aim at the public interest.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant
W. D. FERRIS.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.—The iron steamship Sardonyx arrived at this city from San Francisco last Saturday morning. She brought part of the plant for the city gas works, about 200 tons. It is expected she will bring the balance next trip.

HON. THOS. WHITE.—Mr. E. C. Baker, M.P., received a telegram on Saturday from Hon. Thos. White as follows: "We leave to-night (July 3) and go straight through to Victoria: will remain there three or four days." The hon. gentleman ought to reach Port Moody next Friday.

RAILWAY TIME.—The present arrangements for the C. P. R. trains are as follows: Trains arrive at Port Moody at noon every day except Saturday, and leave for the east at 13 o'clock every day except Monday. The through rates to Toronto are, we believe, about as follows, first-class unlimited $103; limited $78.

THE LATE GOVERNMENT.—At the Monday night meeting Mr. Bole defended the use of the "late government" to the Smithe administration. Mr. Bole surely knows better than this. If the Smithe government is not the "present government," what government is? Surely Mr. Bole will not say that the province has no government at all, and if it has one the one it has must be the present government!

THE SAILING.—On Saturday afternoon the sailing race, which had been postponed from Dominion Day, took place on the river. The day was fine, and there was a fair wind. There were 6 entries, and the race was a very pretty one, the boats coming in on the following order: Laura (Insley & Wintemute), Mayflower (Henderson), Columbia (B. C. Cannery), Annyville (Do), Herring's Fishing boat, and the Bertha (Victoria). The Bertha started first and came in last.

BRUTAL ASSAULT. — On Saturday night it was reported that a murder had been committed at Sapperton. Happily the facts were not so serious as the first report seemed to indicate. As far as we have been able to learn Mr. Hutcheson, a guard at the penitentiary, made an unprovoked assault upon his wife, cutting her head in such a way as to cause great loss of blood. Some of the family cried "murder," and this cry gave rise to the report. We learn that a warrant has been issued for the offender, and the case will be heard to-morrow, when all the facts will probably be made known.

CHURCH DEDICATION.—A new Presbyterian Church at the North Arm, costing nearly $1600, was dedicated to the worship of God last Sabbath, free of debt. The services, morning and evening, were conducted by the Rev. R. Jamieson, the congregation numbering about 200 in the forenoon and, notwithstanding a heavy rain, there were about 100 present in the evening. The church is 45x26 feet, and is really an elegant structure. The contractor, Mr. John Elliott, has done the whole work very thoroughly and to the entire satisfaction of the building committee, (Messrs. McCleery, Boyd, and McDonald), and the whole congregation. The singing of the large choir, led by Mrs. McDonald on their fine new organ, deserves notice and very favorable mention. It must be very encouraging to the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Thomson, to see his work so prosperous in that locality.

POLICE COURT.—On Saturday the following cases were disposed of: Charlie Smith (Indian) was fined $1.50 for being drunk. Guss, a half-breed, had been arrested by an Indian constable who declared that he had liquor in his possession which he "believed" he "intended" to give to an Indian. The court regarded the case as unquestionably thin and refused to take the case. Malatesta, a Spanish nobleman who had been carried away through admiration of British Columbia whiskey, was admonished and dismissed. A Douglas Indian with liquor in possession (but who had not taken the precaution to put himself outside of the fluid) was assessed $25 and costs. Dick, an Indian, was accused of abduction, but the case seemed to have grown out of a family quarrel, and was allowed to be settled out of court, Dick being bound over to keep the peace. On Monday, Esau, d. and d., was put down at $1.50 and costs, and Graham was assessed a similar amount for a similar offence. C. Smith (Ind.), drunk and resisting the constable, got $12 or 14 days, and Albert Allen, for the same, $10 or 14 days. Three Chinamen, Lu Lock, Lee Sue and Lee Chung were bound over in $100 each to keep the peace towards Ah King for 12 mos. On Tuesday Jno. Graham got 2 mos. at hard labor for assaulting the captain of the Sardonyx.

Political Meeting at Langley.

The opposition candidates, Messrs. Orr, McGillivray and Ladner, held a meeting at the town hall, Langley, on Tuesday evening last. In addition to the above named gentlemen there were present, Messrs. Wells, Kirkland, Agassiz and Dawson, the government and independent candidates. Mr. H. Davis occupied the chair. After a patient hearing, which lasted from 6 in the evening until 4 the next morning, the majority of the electors present came to the conclusion that no sufficient reasons had been advanced by the opposition to warrant them in opposing the present government, and a vote of confidence was passed without opposition. There was a large number of electors from all parts present, and the "People's Candidates" were subjected to a cross fire of questions from some of the electors which staggered them and they retired without scoring a point. Messrs. Kirkland and Agassiz made very good speeches and were well received. Mr. Wells wound up the list of candidates with a short speech, and Mr. Maxwell replied to the opposition members, contrasting the present with the former government very much to the latter's disadvantage. After the vote of confidence had been put and carried the meeting dispersed quietly to their several homes.—Com.

OPENING OF THE C. P. R.

Arrival of the First Train!

According to announcement the first regular passenger train from the east arrived at Port Moody last Sunday noon. The locomotive and train were gayly decorated for the occasion, and the arrival was greeted with immense enthusiasm by those who had assembled to witness it. It is estimated that there were 1500 people on the ground. The str. Yosemite brought about 750 from Victoria and Vancouver, the Amelia brought 250 from Nanaimo, and several hundred went from this city in conveyances and on foot. The train had on board Mr. Harry Abbott, general superintendent for this division, and about 150 passengers. Upon its arrival addresses were presented to Mr. Abbott by a committee of citizens on behalf of Port Moody, by the mayor of Vancouver, and by the mayor of Victoria. The following is a copy of the Port Moody address: the others we have not been able to get:

To Mr. H. ABBOTT, representing Mr. W. C. Van Horne, Vice-President and Managing Director of the Canadian Pacific Railway Syndicate:

SIR.—We heartily congratulate you and the other members of the Directory of the Canadian Pacific Railway on this arrival of the first through daily train at Port Moody, the western terminus of the Canadian Pacific line. We are well aware that the completion of that road for traffic has been effected through the almost superhuman energy and activity of yourself and those who have been associated with you in this vast work. The amazing success with which this work has been effected has already, by the admission of all nations, become one of the most notable events to be embodied in the history of the nineteenth century. We earnestly hope and trust that in its traffic operations it will be an equally great success; and in that view we cordially congratulate not only the Canadian Pacific Syndicate but the Dominion of Canada at large, and indeed the whole British empire.

JOHN T. SCOTT,
JAMES A. CLARKE,
P. S. HAMILTON,
Committee.

Mr. Abbott made suitable replies, the band played appropriate airs, and the people shouted for all they were worth. After a brief delay the passengers went on board the str. Yosemite for Vancouver, and several went on to Victoria. The first train was only 15 minutes late. Everywhere along the line it was received with enthusiasm, and the journey was a continuous ovation. On Monday and yesterday trains arrived on time, and the first east-bound train left yesterday at 13 o'clock. The road is now fairly open and we hope that traffic will continue without interruption.

The Monday Night Meeting.

The meeting called by Mr. Ferris in the Skating Rink Monday night was largely attended, the rink being full. The chair was taken by Mayor Dickinson, and the first speaker was

Mr. Ferris, who briefly referred to some of the questions now before the people. He thought that after all the present government had done for this city it would be extremely ungrateful if the people sent to the house a man pledged to opposition. Referring to Mr. Bole he said the city would be $40,000 better off to-day but for him, because it had been through him that the injunctions had been put on the sale of the public squares. He was not pledged to any party, but was free to support whatever measures commended themselves to his conscience and his judgment. He had not before him the promise or prospect of any office or reward—he didn't even aspire to the office of attorney-general! Where would our branch railway have been without the government bonus!

When Mr. Ferris sat down there were cries for Robson and counter cries for Bole. The confusion for some minutes was very great, and the chairman seemed powerless to restore order. Mr. Bole refused to speak before Mr. Robson, and Mr. Robson claimed that the candidates ought to speak first, and that if he preceded Mr. Bole he would have the right to reply. As neither would give way,

Mr. Kennedy took the platform and expressed a hope that all parties would be heard to the end, as it was information we wanted. For himself he was worse than the Irishman who declared himself "agin the government," for he was against both government and opposition. He condemned the course pursued by the provincial secretary in distributing the district appropriations, which he declared was bribery, and he said the people who accepted it were even worse than the one who gave it. This species of improper influence would continue until the patronage was taken out of the government's hands and put into the hands of the municipalities. As long as the seat of government remained at Victoria the mainland would not receive justice. He would rather see the government succeed than the present opposition, for Beaven was corrupt from the beginning, and had grabbed up all the good land through the country for himself. Under the present system of distributing appropriation some got too much and some got nothing. He declared that the people of this country were as really slaves as the serfs of Russia.

Dr. Kent was called for, but asked to be excused as he was not a candidate. The dispute was then renewed as to who should speak first. The provincial secretary said if he spoke first he would, according to usage, have the privilege to reply. Mr Bole refused to agree, and refused to speak first. Mr. Ferris said this was his meeting. He had engaged the hall and paid for it, and had a right to ask the provincial secretary to speak for him. Mr. Bole shook his fist and mounted the platform shouting at the top of his voice, the provincial secretary stood on the other side of the platform also vainly endeavoring to make himself heard, the chairman shouted for order, while Mr. Bole's supporters, who had packed the hall, screamed and stamped with all their might. Finally the mayor's voice was heard. He thought the candidates for the city should speak first, and Mr. Ferris having spoken, it was Mr. Bole's turn. Mr. Bole refused, and the provincial secretary finally consented to speak on condition that he would be allowed to reply to Mr. Bole—and Mr. Bole also reserved the right of final reply.

Mr. Robson said he would first dispose of Mr. Kennedy. That gentleman had insulted both him and his constituents, and went about claiming to be both a teacher and example of morality. After what had taken place he felt himself justified in showing up Mr. Kennedy's character. It was known that he had been employed as superintendent of the building of the gaol. When that work had been completed he sent in a claim amounting to about $200 which the government could not entertain. This claim was accompanied by a blackmailing letter which stated that if the money was paid he would not be found in opposition! (Sensation, and "That's a lie" from Mr. Kennedy). He would not have mentioned this if Mr. Kennedy had not uttered such a gross insult to him and his constituents. The letter mentioned had been sent to Mr. Cunningham, who forwarded it to him, and he had it on fyle at Victoria—and if Mr. Kennedy wished he would have it published. Having disposed of Mr. Kennedy he would point out some reasons why it was the interest of the whole country, and especially of the city, to support the present government. He had reliable advices from the various districts which assured him that the present government would be sustained by a very large majority, at least as large as it had been at last election, which was 16 to 8. That being the case, the government could easily get along without the assistance of New Westminster, and it was for the city to consider whether it was its interest to join with the opposition. Referring to the comparative expenditures under the late and present government he showed that during the last 3½ years the expenditures on public works had been 11 times as much as under the previous administration. It was not altogether on the ground of dollars and cents, however, that he claimed support for the government. There was no reasonable request the city had ever made that had not been granted by the government. He would appeal to the mayor if this was not so. (The mayor—hear, hear.) Even if the government was going to be defeated, it would be most ungrateful for this city to send an opposition member to the house; but in view of the triumph of the government such conduct would be foolish. In his canvass through the district he had been accused of spending too much money in the city. The hon. gentleman then took the famous opposition poster and at considerable length and very completely disposed of the various opposition cries contained therein. The Kootenay bill, he said, had been passed by a vote of 17 out of a house of 25. It was not a government measure, and even if it had been as bad as represented the government would be powerless against such a majority in the house. For many years the people had been inviting foreign capital to develop the country, and it was somewhat remarkable that such an outcry should be made as soon as the capital begins to come. Respecting the Vancouver extension he laid it down as a correct principle that governments in dealing with lands should act as individuals would under similar circumstances. Property owners at Vancouver had given far more land, in proportion, than the government to ensure the extension of the road.

Here the interruptions of James Hall, who was drunk, became so wearisome that the speaker sat down until order would be restored. Mr. Bole bounced upon the platform and tried to speak. He claimed that the provincial secretary was speaking against time so as to prevent him from addressing the meeting. There was a good deal of disorder, and both the provincial secretary and Mr. Bole were speaking at once. The provincial secretary said he considered this interruption most unfair. Mr. Bole had persistently and positively refused to speak first, and now complained because he (Mr. Robson) was consuming the time that he (Mr. Bole) ought to have occupied! He proceeded to dispose of the remaining questions, and wound up by stating that two of the opposition candidates in the district had declared at a meeting that they would oppose the payment of the $37,500 promised by the government towards the branch railway. When asked for names he said they were Messrs. Orr and Isaac. (Mr. Orr interrupting said it was a lie). He again warned the people of the danger of intrusting their public interests to an opponent.

As soon as the provincial secretary sat down Mr. Bole was on the platform, and began at once on the Vancouver extension. He said if Van Horne was so anxious to reach Vancouver as had been represented he would have built the railway there on much more favorable terms for the province. He accused Hon. Mr. Smithe of showing hostility to the construction of the branch road, inasmuch as he had declined to make it a part of the original agreement. He said we were entitled to this $37,500 in justice and in law, and would regard with scorn any threat that might be held out respecting it. He stated as an instance of bribery that John Scott had been promised an appointment as constable if he voted right, but the promise had not been kept. (Mr. Robson denied this). He also drew a most doleful picture of a government official in this city (whose name he declined to give) who had been marched to the poll with terror in front of him and the provincial secretary behind him. He occupied a long time picturing the hardships of the Coal Harbor squatters and recounting the philantropic and disinterested way in which he and Mr. Chisholm had come to their assistance. He and Chisholm were out of pocket, hundreds of dollars on account of aiding the squatters! He found in the house journals that the dock money had all been spent long ago, and yet the provincial secretary tells us now that there was a balance of $100,000 still unexpended. He accused the government of hostility to the southern railway scheme which was of great importance to this city. If he went to the house he would not go to be ruled by either Robson or Beaven, but to form a mainland party. Beaven's island railway scheme was a bad one and he would have opposed it. For an hour and forty minutes Mr. Bole addressed the audience, without declaring any principle of action for himself or his party. As soon as he ceased speaking Mr. J. W. Harvey jumped up, according to pre-arrangement, and moved a resolution to the effect that Mr. Bole was a proper person to represent this city in the legislature. The resolution was seconded by Mr. J. A. Laidlaw and carried, the friends of Mr. Ferris offering no opposition.

The meeting closed at 12:20. During nearly the whole of Mr. Robson's speech persons in the audience kept interrupting, and it was evident that Mr. Bole's supporters had come out in force, determined to prevent fair play and free discussion.

Meeting at Port Moody.

The provincial secretary met a large number of electors at Port Moody on Saturday evening. Col. Hamilton was voted to the chair.

The provincial secretary spoke for upwards of an hour, obtaining an attentive hearing, after which he invited any one present to ask questions. Several in the audience availed themselves of the invitation, and all the questions received prompt and lucid answers.

Mr. Orr followed with a long and rambling statement, for the most part composed of the kind of stock dealt in by the opposition.

Mr. Robson, replying, exposed the principal statements put forward by the opposition, to the evident discomfiture of Mr. Orr. Taking the celebrated opposition "poster," he so completely turned it to ridicule that Mr. Orr disowned all responsibility for it, stating that it had probably been gotten up by some "crank," very likely Mr. Kennedy!

To this Mr. Robson effectively replied, stating that the "poster" bore the names of the three opposition candidates, and that it had been industriously circulated by them throughout the district. In several matters in connection with the railway extension, Mr. Robson thoroughly exposed Mr. Orr, showing that he was either egregiously ignorant with respect to the subjects of which he treated or else he was wilfully attempting to mislead the people.

Mr. J. T. Scott proceeded to ask Mr. Orr several questions relative to the railway extension; but his answers were so unsatisfactory that Mr. Scott had to seek the desired information from Mr. Robson.

The meeting was wound up shortly before midnight, by a vote of thanks to Mr. Robson and Mr. Orr, but the general feeling appeared to be that Mr. Orr's cause was considerably hurt by Mr. Robson's exposures more especially of his (Mr. Orr's) attempts to impose upon the C.P.R. Co. and Vancouver property owners.—Com.

EASILY CURED.—Mrs. Berkinshaw, 26 Pembroke St., Toronto, cured of a bad lameness of the knee joint, upon which the surgeons were about to operate. Other treatment had been tried in vain. Hagyard's Yellow Oil was the remedy used.

Vancouver Before the Fire.

Frank S. Taggart, who has just returned from a trip through the Northwest and British Columbia, gives a graphic description of the city of Vancouver, which was destroyed by fire on Sunday. It is situated on Burrard Inlet, twelve miles northwest of Port Moody, and may be said to be three miles long, comprising the villages of Granville, Vancouver and English Bay, the direction of growth being to the northwest. Port Moody, which was boomed as the railway terminus two or three years ago, is now almost deserted, only three log houses (!) at the time of the visit being occupied. The visitor, on entering Vancouver for the first time, has his attention attracted by numerous burning stumps of trees, many of them twelve feet in diameter, which formerly supported giants of the forests between three and four hundred feet high. Most of these were solid. The older portion of the city, formerly Granville, has some 150 houses, including about seventy-five hotels, while in the newer portions of the city a quarter of the people live in tents. Here there are about 400 dwellings. The total population is estimated at 3,000, half of whom are "floating." With few exceptions, they are all store-keepers, carpenters and navvies, living on each other and the railway company. The houses are, or rather were, little more than huts, or long, low narrow structures, divided into boxes which are rented at very high prices. One of these, two stories high, with outside galleries, and containing sixteen rooms or boxes 6x8 feet in size, cost $600. Each of the rooms rents for $12 per month, making $192 for them all, which is considered a very fair return for the investment. At Granville there is a sawmill, the only manufactory of any kind in the city. The harbor is good even in its unimproved state, and ocean steamers are constantly calling for cargoes of timber. The people are mostly from Ontario, and, as might be expected, there are very few women. They are a hospitable and free and easy lot of people, intelligent and enterprising, and not given to scandal or interfering with their neighbors' private doings. The Indians in the vicinity, as a rule, are hard working and well-to-do, dress after the manner of the whites and live in houses They are occupied principally in fishing, hunting and herding cattle. Their women differ from those in the Northwest Territory, inasmuch as they bear a very high moral character. Ranching is carried on to a considerable extent, three ranches numbering some 25,000 head of cattle between them. The city is surrounded by the forest, extending back on and in the mountains a hundred miles or more. There is no, or very little, agricultural land in the neighborhood.

Mr. Taggart was not very highly impressed with the people of Victoria. There is on an average a statutory holiday once a fortnight, the business men open their shops about 10 o'clock, and a horse race is sufficient reason for closing up. The "Canadians" are called "North American Chinamen," and are greatly disliked for their greater push and enterprise. The newspapers class the news of Canada farther east as "foreign," and would rather pay 10 per cent. extra for goods in San Francisco than buy it from Ontario or Quebec.—Toronto Globe, June 18. Somebody ought to put a head on this Taggart.

FIVE YEARS OF TORTURE.—Mrs. U. Aston, of Bracebridge, writes to say that Burdock Blood Bitters cured her of headaches, from which she had suffered for five years, all other means having failed.

Maple Ridge Council.

Council met on the 3rd inst. All the members were present. Road committee of east ward submitted reports on road work. On motion reports were adopted. A petition signed by Messrs. Beckett & Son and others at Port Haney, asking that a road be gazetted from the railway to the wharf, was received, and on motion its prayer was granted. Petition of A. Dockstader and others in reference to roads in the Lillooet settlement was referred to road committee. Petition of J. Roland Hett and other real estate owners at Port Hammond was considered. It was resolved that the road known as Wharf street be opened up by days' work, under direction of pathmaster, and that specifications for the work be drawn by the road committee at once. The following bills were ordered paid: Geo. Apunat, $3, services as special constable; Hampton & Blackstock, $122.50, road work; E. Dayhack, $86.50, do.; Samuel Edge, $65, do; J. J. Wilson, $80, do.; J. Hinch, $50, do.; A. G. Anderson, $10, do.; J. Stephens, $50, do.; Carleton & Harris, $3.50, tape-line. It was resolved that work to the amount of $50 be put on road leading to Pitt Meadows and $10 on Blackstock's road. Extension of time was granted to E. Dayhack, W. Robinson, and Hampton & Blackstock for the completion of their contracts. Bay-law asking to establish a highway between lots 283 and 282 and to cancel another road in the same neighborhood was read two readings. It was resolved that parties taking sand from slide be notified that if they obstruct the public road they will forfeit their right of securing sand. It was resolved that the government be asked to survey and locate the river road from Mr. Baker's to Stave river and that Mr. John Penberthy, C. E., be recommended by this council as a surveyor for the same. The clerk was requested to write to Mr. Trutch in reference to the front road. Council adjourned till meeting in August.

T. P. O'Connor cables from London that "the country still needs a great deal of educating on the home rule question, although the general impression among the government men is that Scotland, Wales and the North of England will go almost solidly for Gladstone."

Surface Indications

What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what is beneath, are the Pimples, Sties, Sore Eyes, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early summer. The effete matter accumulated during the winter months, now makes its presence felt, through Nature's endeavors to expel it from the system. While it remains, it is a poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula. This condition causes derangement of the digestive and assimilatory organs, with a feeling of enervation, languor, and weariness—often lightly spoken of as "only spring fever." These are evidences that Nature is not able, unaided, to throw off the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces. To regain health, Nature must be aided by a thorough blood-purifying medicine; and nothing else is so effective as which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Scrofula.

The medical profession indorse AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and many attestations of the cures effected by it come from all parts of the world. It is, in the language of the Hon. Francis Jewett, ex-State Senator of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, "the only preparation that does real, lasting good."

The Confederation Life.

The annual report of this solidly prosperous Canadian institution will be found in another column. The facts revealed in the accounts and the Directors' report thoroughly justify the encomiums which the shareholders present bestowed upon the management. Thanks to the resolute manner in which the Company has declined to embark upon extravagant methods of procuring business, the working expenses of the company bear to the total income the very small ratio of between 17 and 18 per cent. A point attesting the soundness of the finances of the Company is the fact that the interest income is sufficient to pay the death claims—which in a company of the age of the Confederation Life is something to be proud of. The assets and liabilities are set forth in minute detail, and the tables show that, after making allowance for all possible contingencies and providing for every debt, there is a surplus of $282,199 over liabilities and capital combined. The increase in the assets in the last year was $260,390. So much for what can be done by rigid adherence to what the President defined as the true policy of the Company, viz:—"To keep its balance sheet right and avoid unnecessary, unwise, or extravagant expenditure for the sake merely of increasing new business."—Toronto Globe. T. Financial Ruin.

In recklessness of assertion and disregard of truth, the opposition have perhaps reached the climax in dealing with the financial condition of the province. They have rushed beyond their depth in a sea of figures, floundering hopelessly, until they have completely mystified themselves and all who would listen to them.

It is not now proposed to trouble the reader with a great array of figures. Let it suffice to state that when the Smithe administration took office, in January, 1883, they had a floating debt of about $300,000.00 to deal with. According to the present financial outlook, there will certainly be less than half that amount of debt next January; and although, as a precautionary measure, the government have taken power to borrow $300,000.00, there is every probability that they will have no occasion to use it. Similar power was taken in 1883, but it was never exercised.

From these statements, not one of which can be successfully contradicted, the reader will see that all the opposition outcry about the finances of the country being in a bad condition, is sheer nonsense, pure political clap-trap. As a matter of fact, the finances of the province never were in a more satisfactory condition. In support of this it may be stated that, while the former government paid as high as 8 per cent. interest, the present one has money pressed upon it at 5.

The simple circumstance of the opposition seizing upon this as a ground of attack, shows how "hard up" they must be, and how willingly they would injure the credit of the country in order to hurt their political opponents. —Prov. Sec.'s Address.

Our Indians.

The gold-seekers who first reached Lillooet, in 1858, encountered considerable hostility on the part of the Indians encamped at the fountain. At this time Quimpschean a Shuswap, who was encamped with his band at the foot of the Pavilion Mountain, took part with the whitemen and did much towards making peace between the contending parties. He thereby acquired the friendship of all the whitemen who knew him. In 1860 the present chief justice of British Columbia gave him a certificate of good character which was renewed by his lordship in 1876.

In 1882 Quimpschean died at the Skichistan reserve and his remains were buried in the cemetery there. He professed the Catholic religion and in his last moments was attended by a priest who wrote his will and administered to him the last offices of the church.

In his will Quimpschean made a friendly mention of the chief justice, and as it would appear wished to leave him something as a token of his regard. The chief justice, touched at the Indian's good-will and gratitude, lately ordered a head board to be sent to Skichistan reserve to be placed at the grave of the departed chief. On the 24th instant Father Lejacq, O.M.I., of the Catholic mission at Kamloops, said mass for the dead at the chapel, blessed the head board and moved with it in procession to the cemetery, about two hundred yards distant, followed by some 60 to 70 men, women and children who slowly and sweetly chanted a dirge as they went. At the grave the monument was placed in its position and a funeral service read by the reverend father. The Indian agent, Mr. McKay, who was present, then gave the Indians a useful and eminently practical address, in the course of which he asked them to remember and consider the many acts of friendship and kindness on the part of the whiteman of which they had been the recipients; the gratuitous ministration of the priests; the constant care bestowed upon them by the government, and the special act of kindness and friendship on the part of the chief justice which was the occasion of their meeting, and for which they could not be too grateful. When, as he observed, they desired to perpetuate the memory of their departed friends they should follow the example of the chief justice as generously and kindly instanced by the monument before them, and have what they wished to put on record respecting them inscribed, as in the present case, in intelligible characters, on durable material, and not to waste their substance as their forefathers had done in feasts, the objects of which were often forgotten soon after the gifts commemorative of the event were distributed.

The head board is original and simple in design and is very neat and appropriate; the epitaph is cast on a metal plate sunk into it. The name, tribe, age and date of death of the deceased chief appear in in raised letters on the plate, and a Latin cross in metal surmounts the epitaph.

The example set by the chief justice while a good one, as Mr. McKay remarked, for the Indians, might be usefully followed by our public men. They would win the loyalty and good wishes of the several tribes and earn a quiet but noble distinction by such acts of humanity which no worldly success could confer on them.—Kamloops Sentinel.

LONDON, June 20.—An important city banking house is considering a project to construct a railway from Winnipeg to the Nelson river, with the guarantee of the province of Manitoba upon £1,000,000 sterling of its bonds, bearing interest at the rate of four per cent. and maturing in 25 years. Three million sterling more is wanted in London by the projectors, and as the scheme is favorably received by capitalists here, it is likely that the money will be forthcoming and the construction of the new line begun within a few months. The operation of this road will likely affect the north-western system as much as the railway connection between Duluth and Buffalo affected the New York Central.

OTTAWA, June 28.—It is officially learned that no change has taken place in the policy of the Dominion government in reference to the protection of the Canadian fisheries, in lieu of less vigorous enforcement of the law. The recent circular to collectors of customs was merely to make plain certain matters of interpretation. It is now as it always has been the policy of the government that any U. S. fishing vessel found fishing, or preparing to fish, or known to have fished, in Canadian waters, shall be seized at once and without warning. Twenty-four hours' warning is applicable solely to United States fishing vessels found hovering in the vicinity of Canadian waters.

On a plat of ground containing less than a acre, located in London and nearly surrounded by high buildings, a garden continually raises mushrooms that are sold in Covent Garden Market for $2,500. They are not protected by glass, and the manure required to raise them is collected from the streets.

The London of To-Day.

We speak of the rapid changes in our American cities, but nothing like the changes of London can exist with us. Growth is not a change of this kind. Paris alone, in certain respects, can show such meta-morphoses as London. But on the whole, Paris, as I saw it at this first visit to the Old World, was more like the Paris one sees now than was London of 1850 like the London of to-day. The mere question of growth is a minor matter. London was not the metropolis of the world in 1850, and now it is. Then it was only a huge provincial town. The Londoner in general measured nothing but himself, and nobody came to London for anything but hardware, good walking-boots, saddles, etc.; now it is the entrepot of the civilized world. The World's Fair of 1851 and succeeding similar displays of what cosmopolite industry can do, the common arrival of ocean steamers, rare at the time I am writing of, have changed the entire character of London life and business and the tone of its society. It is not merely in the fact that 48,000 houses were built in the capital in the last year, or that you find colonies of French, Italians, Russians, Greeks in it, but that the houses are no longer what they were, inside or out, and thus the foreigner is an assimilated ingredient in its philosophy. All this has come since 1850.—W. J. Stillman in May Atlantic.

The Press on the Exhibition.

In a recent issue attention was called to some of the opinions expressed by the London daily press in regard to the exhibition and the Canadian section. The London weekly journals have naturally less space to devote to a detailed notice of the various courts, and yet from them Canada receives adequate attention. The Graphic rightly finds in the Canadian section "less of the picturesque than of the practical." To the Pictorial World the Canadian display seems an "excellent show." To the Architect the range of Canadian exhibits is "very comprehensive"; the agricultural trophy is a "feature which once seen is not soon to be forgotten"; the furniture is thought but little of, though recent additions to this department would doubtless soften, if not reverse that criticism; the educational court of Canada is "the best in the whole exhibition"; and the collection of Canadian minerals "is one of the most comprehensive" in the building. Life regards Canada as "a really wonderful show—more utilitarian of course than that of India, but none the less full of varied interest." Even the Mark Lane Express is pleased. "Canada," it remarks, "makes by far the best agricultural display among the colonies and dependencies, though as an exporting country she is not the most important."

The provincial journals, also, are not behind in their appreciation of the commercial and political importance of the display. The Birmingham Daily Post says:—"More than a thousand individual Canadian exhibitors have come forward of their own volition to show at once the natural wealth of their territory and what industry and enterprise have done for its development. From its three million square miles of territory, about equal to the extent of Europe, of late years traversed by that marvellous trunk railway, the Canadian Pacific line, come principally the fruits of virgin prairies and forests, with some remains of the rude arts of the Indian aboriginies * * * and the manufacturers of the leading Canadian cities exhibit largely." Another leading journal, the Leed Mercury, remarks:—"Pushing Canada comes out bravely with agricultural products, and with machinery and implements too, being singular in this latter display, as the other colonies do not show a score of implements between them." The Mercury is, however, disappointed that Canada has not a more adequate exhibit. "The display as it is, it concludes, referring to the whole exhibition, "must fill the ordinary visitor with astonishment, and make him proud of his birthright as a Briton. No other nation in the world could make such a magnificent display of its own products and manufactures." The Edinburgh Scotsman compares the Canadian with the Indian section. "India beams forth in all its eastern splendor; Canada comes to the front as a country capable of great things—waiting for the development which capital and population can only supply." The Canadian court is thus the "least showy of all," but "thoroughly practical"; and, it is added, "strange, indeed, it will be if a visit does not serve as a surprise to those who only know Canada by name, and who look upon it as a vast land of forest and prairie, practically shut out from the rest of the world for a certain number of months in the year by the severity of its winters * * * Taken as a whole, the exhibition is highly creditable to the Dominion and to its commissioner in this country, who has taken so much interest in its progress." The Sussex Daily News remarks:—"Canada makes a brave show. Its courts form a large exhibition by themselves." The Nantwich Guardian, viewing the Canadian exhibits as a whole, considers them "very interesting and decidedly English in appearance. The manufactures show that the industrial capacity of the Mother Country has been reproduced in the Daughter-land; and thus in economic matters we are in harmonious unity with our kindred in Canada as in matters touching the unity of the empire of Queen Victoria."

"Foreign journals have also shown their appreciation of the importance of the exhibition. Among these is L'Independance Belge of Brussels, which says:—"Canada, as large as Europe, covering an area of 2½ million square miles, occupies a prominent place at the exhibition. Especially in agriculture does it excel. The trophy of grain and fruits is grandiose, and one may as much of the agricultural implements—tools so perfect and so superior to everything made in Europe, that economists are asking why its (Canada's) manufactures persist in sheltering shemselves behind protective duties." Canadian Gazette.

A well-known minister was sent south from New Jersey a few years ago to labor among the colored people. They received him with many demonstrations of joy, and at the first meeting which he held one colored preacher prayed for him with great earnestness, thus: "O Lord! bress dis yer dear brudder what's come down from de Nort to preach de gospel to us. 'Noint him wid de kerosene ile ob salvashun and set him on fire."—Detroit Free Press.
