SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

FISHES WITH LAMPS.—Certain small shining bodies, formerly supposed to be accessory eyes, are found on the head and sides of some deep-sea fishes, and are now regarded as phosphorescent organs. Von Lendenfeld recognizes no less than twelve types of these singular objects. They are round, spindle-shaped and irregular in form, grouped and scattered, sunk and projecting, and some are provided with reflectors.

THE TONGUE'S INDICATIONS.—A furred tongue is not necessarily an alarming symptom. According to a late lecture by Dr. Howship Dickinson, the tongue not only changes its aspect and condition with often inconsiderable deviations from ordinary health, but it presents many differences within this state in different persons, and in the same persons at different times. To some persons it is normal to have a clean tongue, and to others equally normal to have a coated one, so that it is impossible to fix any degree or limit of coating as a necessary accompaniment of perfect health.

A SCIENTIFIC PARADOX.—With a sheet-iron disc mounted on an axis so as to be spun like a top, G. O. Manet, a French electrician, produces an apparent reversal of a familiar law of physics. When at rest or slowly rotating, the disc is attracted by a horse-shoe magnet brought near, but when revolving rapidly it it repelled if the magnet is presented to its flat surface. This curious phenomenon of repulsion is supposed to be due to the induced currents set up by the motion of the iron in the magnetic field, and does not appear until the rapidity of the revolution gives the induced current power to more than counterbalance the magnet's attraction.

SNOW-WARMED LAND.—Mr. W. M. Williams finds the benificence of snow fully manifested in such a climate as that of Siberia, where a temperature of seventy or eighty degrees below zero—or thirty to forty degrees below the freezing point of mercury—was recorded last October. The snow, coming early in the season and being an almost absolute non-conductor of heat, serves as an effective clothing for the soil, which is thus protected from so low a minimum temperature as it occasionally reaches in England with the air at fifteen or twenty degrees over naked ground. Hence the paradox of Siberian vegetation, which is so luxuriant in the summer, when the heat of the long days is very intense.

OVERWORKED MUSCLES.—The affection known as writer's cramp is not confined to users of the pen, but appears in telegraphers and others who make continual use of one set of muscles. These cramps have been variously supposed to result from a diseased condition of brain, spinal cord or nerves, and were long regarded as incurable. During several years past, however, Wolff has been applying gymnastics combined with massage to the muscles affected, and has succeeded in curing more than half of the many cases. His process is neither difficult nor tedious, being simply regular movements of the fingers or other parts, with rubbing or gentle striking of the muscles, continued not more than an hour a day for several weeks.

THEORIES OF ORIGIN.—There are three possible views concerning the origin of organic forms, whether individual or specific, states Prof. Joseph Le Conte. Taking the individual, the first of the theories is that of the pious child who thinks that he was made very much as he himself makes his dirt pies; the second is that of the street-gamin, or of Topsy, who says, "I was not made at all, I growed"; the third is that of most intelligent Christians—that we were made by a process of evolution. There are three exactly corresponding theories concerning the origin of species. The first is that of many pious persons and many intelligent clergymen, who say that species were made at once by the Divine hand without natural process; the second is that of the materialists, who say that species were not made at all; they were derived, "they growed;" and the third is that of the theistic evolutionists, who think that they were created by a process of evolution—who believe that making is not inconsistent with growing. The third, Prof. Le Conte endeavors to prove, is the only true rational solution, for it includes, combines, and reconciles the other two; showing wherein each is right and wherein wrong.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

COL. STEVENS ON B. C. MINERS.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Secretary Bayard has received a letter from U.S. Consul Stevens, at Victoria, which says: "There is division here as to the employment of Chinese even among miners, as many of them are paid by the ton of coal that they mine, and they sometimes realize $4 and even $5 per day. These men employ Chinese at $1 or $1.50 per day to shovel and load vans, and sometimes even as tampers. White miners perform but very little heavy labor themselves. The mining regulations and laws of the province are excellent and thorough, but under this pressure they are being considered by the legislative assembly for amendment."

THE CANADIAN ROUTE LEADS.

BALTIMORE, May 7.—A singular meeting took place on Saturday at one of the wharves here. The steamer Minnesota delivered on the wateside a large shipment of straw matting that left Hong Kong on February 5th by steamer for London, where it was transhipped to Baltimore. She was met by a train of cars from Vancouver that discharged at the same time the same kind of cargo that left China on March 25th. This makes a difference of 48 days in favor of the Canadian route.

ANTI-CHINESE DEMONSTRATIONS.

LONDON, May 7.—Advices from Brisbane state that riotous anti-Chinese demonstrations have occurred there. Several shops belonging to Chinamen were wrecked.

TIMBER LIMITS PURCHASED.

OTTAWA, May 7.—Mr. James McLaren, the millionaire lumberman, has returned here after making purchases of extensive timber limits in Oregon and British Columbia.

The members of the Canadian Pacific Railway syndicate have sent engineers to Brazil to make preliminary surveys of the country with a view to the construction of a series of railways connecting the headwaters of the Amazon and Para rivers. Subsidies are promised by the emperor of Brazil.

THE PAPAL DECREE PROMISES TROUBLE.

LONDON, May 7.—The signs are rapidly accumulating throughout Ireland that the attempt to enforce the Pope's decree will cause an almost unanimous revolt of the laity of the country against the church, and it is now doubtful whether the Irish hierarchy will promulgate the document without having recourse to further communication with the vatican as to the wisdom of putting it into operation.

FAILURE OF A WELL-KNOWN FIRM.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 7.—W. T. Coleman & Co., groceries and California products, assigned to-day for the benefit of their creditors. The liabilities are $2,000,000 the assets from four to four and a half million dollars. The cause is pressing engagements in New York and the threatened placing on the free list of borax in which the firm has heavy investments.

THE AGITATORS SQUELCHED.

LONDON, May 7.—There was a feeble attempt to renew the Trafalgar square agitation yesterday, when Commoners Graham and Conybeare and William Saunders went thither and faintly endeavored to organize a meeting. The police quickly compelled the crowd to move on, however, and the leaders, after addressing an indignant remonstranee to the constables, retired from the square.

THIS AFTERNOON'S DESPATCHES.

COMMENTS ON SALISBURY'S SPEECH.

LONDON, May 8.—The St. James Gazette to-day calls attention to Salisbury's speech and says that if the peace of Europe depends upon the life of the emperor it hangs on a very slender thread indeed. It calls upon the government to strengthen the army and coast defences. The Times devotes a column leader to the prime minister's grave statement. All papers comment upon the declaration, alleged to have been made by Bismarck to Schurz, that there was danger of a European war this year.

CROPS DESTROYED.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 8.—A despatch from Harrisonville, Cass county, states that the storm which look place in the southern part of the county hurt growing grain to such an extent that in some portions of the county it was destroyed. The Grand river overflowed its banks, rising nine feet in two hours. A flock of sheep was swept away and forty-two of them were drowned.

A STORMY TRIP.

NEW YORK, May 8.—The ship Annie M. Small arrived here from Colombo last evening, which port she left on December 8th. On March 12th, about 50 miles off Barnegat, she encountered the March blizzard. For nearly two days she was on her beam ends, and lost nearly all her sails, boats, steering gear, mainyards and forestopsail yards. The ships crew suffered terribly from frost during the gale, and many sustained severe injuries. The captain says when he arrived at Bermuda he had only one able-bodied seaman on board.

RIOT.

CORK, May 8.—A riot occured at Dunmanway to-day as the police were removing a number of prisoners to the city. The police charged the rioters and used their batons freely.

FRENCH ELECTIONS.

PARIS, May 8.—The municipal elections in France resulted mostly in favor of the party of the Left, and have given hope to the government. The Boulangist districts returned mostly conservatives.

TO DISCUSS THE DECREE.

DUBLIN, May 8.—In accordance with the request of the Catholic members of parliament the lord mayor of Dublin has called a meeting, for May 17th, to discuss the pope's rescript.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

LONDON, May 8.—The Prince of Wales has left for Scotland to attend the Glasgow exhibition, having received a dispatch from Berlin, concerning the emperor, saying that there were now no pressing immediate dangers, although the hopelessness of the case continues.

CANADIAN ENTERPRISE IN BRAZIL.

OTTAWA, May 8.—A syndicate, consisting largely of Canadian Pacific capitalists, headed by J. J. C. Abbott, member of the Dominion ministry, and commanding British capital to the extent of $100,000,000, has been formed to undertake railway works in Brazil. The terms offered by the emperor were considered highly attractive and surveyors have gone to Brazil to make superficial surveys and report on a series of railways connecting the head waters of the Amazon and Para rivers.

A FAIR HANGED.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—Robt. G. Hall and David Vincent were hanged at Moyamensing prison this morning. Hall waited for the end with a happy, cheerful nature and Vincent was sullen and indifferent. Hall killed his mistress, Mrs. Lillian Rivers, wife of an actor, June, 1887. Vincent killed George Carlifatti, a Greek seaman, in Sept., 1887, in a quarrel over a [illegible].

A WORTHY TRIBUTE.

LONDON, May 8.—The Chinese government has decided to erect a monument to General Gordon on the scenes of his victories over the Taiping rebels.

A HUGE SYNDICATE.

CHICAGO, May 8.—The Daily News says that a syndicate, composed of local bankers, and two wealthy merchants, are practically in control of all corn in sight. The syndicate proposes to keep corn well up to sixty cents for all months up to the marketing of the new crop.

3000 DROWNED.

LONDON, May 8.—Three thousand persons have been drowned by a flood in the Canton river.

HUGHES LEADS.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Littlewood, 187 miles; Cartwright, 174; Hughes, 192; Herty, 184.

PASSED A FAIR NIGHT.

BERLIN, May 8.—The emperor passed a better night with a fair amount of sleep. The discharges of pus are decreasing and the fever is low.

CREW PICKED UP.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—The captain and entire crew of the s.s. Eureka were picked up by the brig Caroline and transferred to the str. Esong, which arrived here to-day. The Eureka went down half an hour after the collision with the str. Benison on Sunday off Cape Henlopen.

VOORHEES APOLOGIZES.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—In the senate to-day Voorhees, of Indiana, arose and apologized for the language he used last week in a discussion with Senator Ingalls.

A LIBERAL VICTORY.

OTTAWA, May 8.—In the Rastall election, Edwards, liberal, was elected over McIntosh, conservative, by 102 majority.

LUCKY NUMBERS.

NEW ORLEANS, May 8.—The following are the winning numbers of large prizes in to-day's drawing of the Louisana lottery: 1st, 55315; 2nd, 21492; 3rd, 65349; 4th, 90405; 5th, 84352; 6th, 84918; 7th, 95965; 8th, 61113; 9th, 57551.

Major Rogers.

WINNIPEG, May 4.—Major Rogers, who, after much hardship and many privations found a way for the C.P.R. through the seemingly impassable walls of the Selkirk range and gave his name to the pass so discovered, and who, of late years has been engaged exploring a route through which the St. P., M. & M. may reach the Pacific slope, arrived in the city last night from St. Paul. Yesterday evening he spent in renewing old-time acquaintances. This morning he will leave for the west. He says he is going to Banff to recuperate a little after his years of hard mountaineering, and then he will go on to the Pacific coast. A railroad man says he thinks the major is not travelling entirely for his health. He was told in St. Paul some time ago that Major Rogers would shortly leave for the Canadian Northwest in the interests of an American syndicate of capitalists who are contemplating building a line from some point on the Northern Pacific or St. P., M. & M. to Alaska skirting the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains for some hundreds of miles. He believes this is what is taking the major westward, and before returning he thinks he will visit Alaska and look over the ground preparatory to reporting on the feasibility of the scheme.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is rest neither day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be effected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, combining Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. [illegible] Wark, Lysander, P. Q., [illegible] "I find Parmelee's Pills a [illegible] for Bilious Headache."

Daily British Columbian

Tuesday Evening, May 8, 1888.

The people of Great Britain are discussing a very large project which promises immense benefits to the nation. It is no less than a canal from London to Liverpool, a distance of about 200 miles. Lately a good deal has been said about the weakness of Great Britain's military defences, and it the proposed work is carried into execution, it is expected to add materially to the national resources in case of war. The Liverpool Journal of Commerce says this is one of the principal reasons for the proposal; but it would also have very great commercial advantages, inasmuch as it would permit large vessels to pass through from the Thames to the Mersey. In the event of war it would enable gun-boats, torpedo-vessels and ordinary ships of war to be conducted from the North sea to the Irish channel, on emergency, without their being exposed to an attack by an inferior or superior naval force. Vessels of war by such a canal could be concentrated at pleasure for the defense of the Mersey or the Thames, whichever might be threatened and in need of support. The canals now existing would be widened, deepened and utilized for the enlarged canals for war vessels and for commercial vessels. Numberless towns and cities would spring up along its line that would be great marts of trade and industry. There is a proposed intersection of this lateral canal at Birmingham by another canal connecting the Humber and Severn rivers. This would unite in the manner indicated the ports on the North Sea and English channel with those on the Bristol channel and Irish sea, making a complete and grand system to accommodate the requirements of trade and commerce. It is claimed that this would be a boon to the agriculturalists, manufacturers, tradesmen and colliers, and a sure and convenient means of defence and offence for the nation. The probable cost is not stated; but if it is deemed of great importance as a military work, there is every probability of its being undertaken.

The directors of the British Columbia agricultural society are completing preliminary arrangements for the annual exhibition which is to be held this year at Victoria. The prize list, we believe, has been completed, and is already in the hands of the printer. Last year the publication of the prize list was at least a month later than it should have been, but this year it promises to appear in good time. We hope the people of the mainland will not lose sight of the event, and that the coming exhibition may be made as complete as possible. The fact of its being held at Victoria, so far away from the centre of anything, is always discouraging to mainlanders; but so long as the present partnership arrangement exists it is necessary that these exhibitions should be held each alternate year on Vancouver Island, and the inconveniences and expenses incident to transportation of exhibits cannot be avoided. It is to be hoped these discouragements will not hinder the success of the show. We are well aware that very few people who take prizes at the provincial exhibitions receive adequate compensation for the trouble and expense incurred. But patriotism should count for a good deal. If all of us were to confine our energies strictly to such things as bring us a profit, the wheels of progress would move forward with very uncertain motion. Such a practice would make successful agricultural exhibitions almost impossible. It is not too early now to be making preparations for the exhibition. In the field, the garden and the orchard, there are many things that can be done even at this early period of the season that will contribute largely towards making it an exhibition worthy of the great resources of the province. It is to be hoped, also, that a general interest in this matter will be awakened throughout the country; and it is especially desirable that this interest should take hold of the people of Westminster city and district. It is from this district that the great bulk of the agricultural exhibits must come; and if the people fail to interest themselves in the affairs of the society, they need not complain if matters are not managed according to their taste. We must say that the people of this city have been particularly remiss in this matter. At the annual meeting held a year ago it is stated that there was only one citizen of Westminster present, and he was a paid officer of the society. One result of this was the holding of last year's exhibition at Chilliwhack; and for this nobody was to blame but the people of this city. Exhibitions, like prosperity, do not often thrust themselves upon an unconcerning community. They go, as a rule, to those places where enterprise and appreciation are to be met with. But whether we are to receive any benefit from the exhibition or not, there ought to be among us patriotism enough to develop our enthusiasm in a matter which is closely allied to the general interests of the district.

Late Canadian News.

KINGSTON, May 2.—While standing on the Rockwood asylum wharf to-day, Dr. Clark, superintendent of that institution, was seized around the neck by one of the lunatics, who then jumped into the lake, taking the doctor with him. The doctor, who is an expert swimmer, managed to keep himself and the lunatic afloat till assistance arrived, when both were rescued.

HALIFAX, May 2.—Another electric light patrolman, named Crocker, was killed last night on the same post as the man Wilber on Sunday night, and under similar circumstances. He went up the post and threw a leg over the cross-piece, when it must have come in contact with the wire. He then clutched the wire with his hands and was killed instantly. Crocker was 22 years old, and had considerable experience in the business, and it was thought he knew all about it.

MONTREAL, May 2.—Owing to the increased cost of fire insurance risks, many Montrealers are refusing to renew with English companies and are placing their risks in New York. Thos. Workman left last night to place over $1,000,000 of insurance there.

PETERBOROUGH, May 2.—At a meeting of the town council last night a resolution of regret at the death of Hon. T. White was unanimously carried.

QUEBEC, May 3.—The steamships Nestorian, Norwegian, Vancouver and Lake Huron all left for Montreal this morning. They are the first upward vessels of the season.

So heavy were the snowdrifts in rear of Levis yesterday that a train of the Quebec Central Railway was stuck in them at St. Henri, the snow-plough being unable to force its way through.

OTTAWA, May 5.—In answer to Mr. Laurier, Sir John said unsold lands which the C.P.R. company propose to intrust to trustees under the resolution now before parliament, amounted to 14,934,487 acres.

A Sluggish Liver

Causes the Stomach and Bowels to become disordered, and the whole system to suffer from debility. In all such cases Ayer's Pills give prompt relief.

After much suffering from Liver and Stomach troubles, I have finally been cured by taking Ayer's Cathartic Pills. I always find them prompt and thorough in their action, and their occasional use keeps me in a perfectly healthy condition.—Ralph Weeman, Annapolis, Md.

Twenty-five years ago I suffered from a torpid liver, which was restored to healthy action by taking Ayer's Pills. Since that time I have never been without them. They regulate the bowels, assist digestion, and increase the appetite, more surely than any other medicine.—Paul Churchill, Haverhill, Mass.

INVIGORATED.

I know of no remedy equal to Ayer's Pills for Stomach and Liver disorders. I suffered from a Torpid Liver, and Dyspepsia, for eighteen months. My skin was yellow, and my tongue coated. I had no appetite, suffered from Headache, was pale and emaciated. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, taken in moderate doses, restored me to perfect health.—Waldo Miles, Oberlin, Ohio.

Ayer's Pills are a superior family medicine. They strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency, resulting from Liver Complaint. I have used these Pills in my family, for years, and they never fail to give entire satisfaction.—Otto Montgomery, Oshkosh, Wis. ††

OTTAWA, 27th March, 1888.

To LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, VICTORIA.

Your Government should issue public notice cautioning persons going on Sealing expeditions to refrain from assertion of their rights by force, and from taking on board arms and ammunition in excess of their usual requirements. The whole matter is engaging the attention of Her Majesty's Government and forms the subject of diplomatic negotiations now in progress. Any intemperate action in the meanwhile would be most detrimental to British Columbian interests and might lead to serious complications and be followed by grave consequences to those concerned.

CARE OF THE STOMACH.

When to Eat and How.—Sound Advice from an Old-Timer.

An old timer, who was brought up in hotels and resturants, and knows all about eating, gave some points to a reporter the other day about the way for a man to make friends with his stomach. "There are two big mistakes that almost all persons make," said he. "One is that they don't eat the right things, and the other is that what they do eat they don't eat right. Dyspepsia and indigestion are killing more people than rum ten times over. Why, delirium tremens is joy compared with a bad digestion. When a man has the tremens he's happy sometimes, because he forgets himself, but when he's got dyspepsia his stomach is always with him, and he's always conscious of it. He can't sleep. His food doesn't taste right. Boils break out over him. He's morbid. All his friends seem to have deserted him, and some day he goes and blows his brains out, and the public and newspapers say he had business troubles. Business troubles! Why, what does a man care for business troubles when his stomach's all right? If his stomach is all right, his head will be clear, and he'll prosper. No glutton or dyspeptic can stand up alongside of a man with a sound stomach and a clear head. When you got up this morning what did you do? Went right off to breakfast and filled yourself,

WITH YOUR NOSE IN THE PAPERS

and your mind wandering over the earth. You don't know what you ate, or how much or how long it took. For all the good it did you, you might as well have swallowed bacon and cornbread, or turkey and buckwheat cakes, or any other mixture that would take up space in your stomach. Then, while you ate, you gulped down ice water and coffee alternately, and when you got through you lit a cigar and went down town, glad you had done part of the work of the day. That's not breakfasting. It's loading up your stomach, and it's worse for you than if you hadn't eaten anything. Then you have a headache and feel bad, and grow fat, and wonder why it all is. It's because you don't pay as much attention to your stomach as you do to your office boy. Your stomach takes its revenge by making you wretched. To a welch it you pour a lot of liquor into it and gulp some ice water on that with a cracker or pretzel and a bit of cheese? What sort of a mixture is that? Just imagine the cheese and rum and pretzel and think that something inside of you has to get away with that. If you want to drink, drink and enjoy your drink. Don't down it and fling things at it when you've got it down. Take a glass of wine and enjoy it, but don't fling it into your stomach as you would your fist into somebody's eye. Your stomach ought to be your friend, but if you go to pitching into it, it'll show light, and you may as well understand that it will get the best of it. When you get up in the morning take a big drink of water. Your system wants water first. An engine isn't first fired up and then some water let into the boiler. Clean your teeth, and let the water run from the spigot while you're doing it.

THEN DRINK A PINT ON IT.

Use common hydrant water; no ice, no salt, no mineral water. Ordinary water is good enough for an ordinary healthy man. Keep away from drugs and pills and give your stomach a show. If you are in a hurry to read the papers, read them before breakfast. When you sit down to breakfast table be happy; you're going to do something pleasant. Breakfast isn't a penalty imposed on you or a task to be performed as soon as possible, but a pleasant, enjoyable occasion. Try and have somebody to talk to you, and talk yourself. Laugh. Start it with fruit—some oranges, say. Then eat some fish and stale bread, or stale rolls or toast. If you want anything more eat some meat. Take your time to eat it all. Stay at the table for an hour, and eat all the time. Don't eat much, but take your time to it. If you haven't time, eat less. The time you spend at breakfast will be saved over and over again during the day. If you've been up to night before, don't take a cocktail or ice water. Try some broth and some pipe if your stomach's pretty far gone, when a man's been off a little his stomach is raw and inflamed. He doesn't want to start right off with more ruffing it him give his stomach a show. Treat it by him to. Coddle your stomach in the morning and it'll stand up for you at night. If you go pitching into it first thing it will have its revenge. If you must smoke and you must drink, wait until your stomach is through with breakfast. Try this thing of starting off fair and square. You can drink more and smoke more in the evening, and it won't tell on it. A man's stomach is his friend, and if he'll only treat it kindly the first half of the day it will show its appreciation and stick by him at night."

Reserved Forces.

It is often the case that success in life depends upon what may be called reserved power. The individual has in store certain physical, moral or intellectual forces, which he brings into action whenever they are needed.

The late Benjamin Disraeli, on making his maiden speech in the House of Commons, was met with shouts of derisive laughter. In closing, he said:

"I have begun many things, and have often succeeded at last. I will sit down now, but the time will come when you will hear me."

The time came when the House of Commons not only heard him, but acknowledged him as its leader and as the prime minister.

Daniel Webster possessed great reserve power. His mind was not only well fitted to consider any question in law or statesmanship which might be submitted, but it was well stored with knowledge.

His famous speech against Hayne is a noble example of the vastness of the intellectual forces he had in reserve. The speech (the first of the two) was delivered after very brief preparation; but, the wealth of knowledge it displayed, the closeness of its logic, in its beauty of style and eloquence, it has seldom, if ever, been equaled in American history.

This reserve power of Disraeli and of Webster contributed to the success of their work.

The means of attaining this power is briefly to read much and thoroughly, and, what is more essential, to think constantly and carefully.

Train the mind well, store it with learning, and one is prepared with a stock of intellectual forces which he can bring into play whenever the demand is made.

"MIRANDA, I just hate April." "Why, Mabel? Because it's too showery?" "Oh, I don't mind the rain. But it's such a horrible misfit month. It's too late in the year for oysters and too early for ice-cream."

CARNOT'S GRANDFATHER.

Napoleon's Appreciation and What Blücher Said of Him.

Seldom are the whirligigs of time and the strange revenges which they bring more forcibly or more curiously illustrated than in the records of historic houses; and of the existing palaces of the French capital not one has undergone so many interesting vicissitudes as has the Elysee, where at the end of June, 1815, Lazare Nicolas Marguerite Carnot conversed for the last time with his imperial master.

From 1800 to 1814 the inflexible Republican had held studiously aloof from the imperial regime. He would have absolutely nothing to do with Napoleon so long as the Cæsar was prosperous and powerful. He had voted against the foundation of the Legion of Honor, he had voted against the consulate for life, and he was the only member of the Tribunate who dared to raise his voice against the establishment of the empire. Yet so highly did Napoleon appreciate the talents and the virtues of the soldier, statesman, and man of science, who had served the Convention and the Directory so well, that he sent him this pithy but comprehensive message:

"Monsieur Carnot, anything you like, as you like, and when you like."

Carnot wanted and would accept nothing. When, however, political bankruptcy had overtaken Napoleon in 1814, and when his marshals and his courtiers were deserting him en masse Carnot reappeared to offer, as he put it, a "sexagenarian arm" to the defeated and ruined conqueror.

His services were gladly accepted, and he was instructed to place Antwerp in a state of defense, and it was not until he had accomplished his task that it was discovered that the man who had "organized victory" for the Republican armies, whose name was closely associated with the creation of the Polytechnic School, the Institute, the Ecole Normale, and the Bureau of Longitudes, held no higher grade than that of a major of engineers. He had bestowed the very highest ranks in the military service of his country, but he had forgotten his own claims, and it was only by seniority that he had risen to the post of a "Chef de Bataillon."

Perhaps the finest tribute ever rendered to his character was that paid by the illustrious historian Niebuhr. "Carnot" he said, "is in many respects the greatest man of this century; his virtues are of an exquisite nature. My political ideas differ from his, and my love for him might seem an anomaly; but this love exists, and if there remained to me in the world only a single crust of bread I should be proud to share it with Carnot."

Proscribed by the Bourbons because he had voted for the death of Louis XVI., he died in exile at Magdeburg; but little could he have deemed in his last and sorow-stricken days that his grandson would, ere three generations had expired, be elected Chief Magistrate of a republic the puissance and durability of which had been the dream of his long and useful life. As little could he have reckoned that the Elysee, where for the last time he had seen and conferred with Napoleon, would be the mansion assigned as a official residence to his descendant.

When, however, the chronicle of this chameleon-like structure is considered, astonishment at its changes of occupants is overcome by a conviction that there is scarcely anything in the way of mutability that is not possible in that edifice of many masters.

Early in the eighteenth century the Regent Orleans begged from the baby Louis XV. a vast tract of land abutting on the Champs Elysees, and this property he presented to his friend Henry de la Tour d'Auvergne, Count of Evreux, who proceeded to build on the site that which was called at the period "a delicious residence."

So delicious, indeed, was the mansion found to be that it was coveted by Madame de Pompadour, who inhabited it for some years. Here she took lessons in painting and engraving from the famous Boucher, and in her studio at the Elysee she executed a number of etchings in copper, almost as delicious as the house surrounded by smiling gardens in which she dwelt.

THE POLICEMAN'S STORY.

I am policeman 12,004,
Been on the force for years a score.
Lots of stories I have to tell,
Queer, sad, terrible, funny, and—well,
I'll stop to tell you a little thing
That happened a year ago last spring:

Weary, but watchful, I paced my beat,
Up and down thro' a well-known street
When a block away, I saw a throng,
And hastened to see what was wrong.
There I found a wee, wee girl,
Dainty and pretty, fair hair in curl,

Weeping, her hands in air she toss'd,
Crying, "O, mamma, O, papa, I's lost!"
One moment she wept, another she smiled,
And I thought of my own pet darling child
At home, and safe in her mother's arms;
So I tried to quiet this one's alarms;
And first her sunny head I caress'd,
Then lifted her up to my leaping breast,
And carried her, sobbing, sweet little fay,
To the station house, only two blocks away.

Captain Caffy was then in command.
He took the lost baby-girl by the hand,
And, sitting her up on the desk by his side,
Pleasantly talked till no longer she cried;
But dried up her tears, and soon, smiling and gay,
Was earnestly lisping and prattling away!
And told of her beautiful mamma, her joys,
Her big-hearded papa, her home, and her toys;
How she heard a wandering German band play,
And, listening, followed them on their way;
Stopp'd when they stopp'd, and cross'd when they cross'd,
Grew tired, asked for home, and found she was lost.

The door of the station house opened just then,
Admitting a "drunk" between two of our men;
For drunk and ragged and spoiling for fight,
But what you may term a "respectable tight."
Led up to the desk he just lifted his eyes,
Started back, nearly fell, with look of surprise,
Of terror, or shame: "My Grace! Can it be?"
The instant had made him as sober as she.

"My papa! Dear papa!" They kissed and caressed,
Both weeping, as she nestled close to his breast.
"Quite a scenel" said the captain, his face in a glow;
"I think you've been punished enough, so you may go!"

The father bowed low,—the little one smiled.—
And he pass'd through the door in the care of his child.

Do you know that I feel that he made a great vow
Just then, against liquor, and his subscribes now!

If twice eleven are twenty-two, how can twice ten be twenty too?

SUBLIME ASSURANCE.—"Say, lend me your umbrella, will you?"

"Why, it's raining yet."

"Well, that's the reason I want it."

Your Children

Are constantly exposed to danger from Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, and diseases peculiar to the throat and lungs. For such ailments, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, promptly administered, affords speedy relief and cure.

As a remedy for Whooping Cough, with which many of our children were afflicted, we used, during the past winter, with much satisfaction, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For this affection, we consider this preparation the most efficacious of all the medicines which have come to our knowledge.—Mary Parkhurst, Preceptress, Home for Little Wanderers, Doncaster, Md.

My children have been peculiarly subject to attacks of Croup, and I failed to find any effective remedy until I commenced administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This preparation relieves the difficulty of breathing and invariably cures the complaint.—David G. Starks, Chatham, Columbia Co., N. Y.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for many years, and have found it especially valuable in Whooping Cough. This medicine allays all irritation, prevents inflammation from extending to the lungs, and quickly subdues any tendency to Lung Complaint.—J. B. Willington, Plainville, Mich.

I find no medicine so effective, for Croup and Whooping Cough, as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It saved the life of my little boy, only six months old, carrying him safely through the worst case of Whooping Cough I ever saw.—Jane Malone, Piney Flats, Tenn. ††

In the spring, hundreds of persons suffer from boils, carbuncles, and other eruptive diseases. These are evidences that the system is trying to purge itself of impurities, and that it needs the powerful aid which is afforded by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Rev. Dr. Williams, general superintendent of the Methodist church, announces that the gross increase in the membership of that church in Canada in the past 4 years has been 60,000 or 70,000, and the net increase, after deducting deaths and removals, has been 40,000.

The Renfrew Mercury is authority for the statement that George Ashmore, a hotel keeper of that community, went to canvass during the vote on the repeal of the Scott act and got so intoxicated that delirium tremens followed. His tongue swelled so that his mouth could not contain it, and later he died in great agony.

The cow bell nuisance has broken out again. Several cows with bells hung to their necks keep the upper portion of the city filled with not over melodious sounds during the night, much to the annoyance of the inhabitants. It is to be hoped the cow bell by-law will be strictly enforced this summer. Bands of roaming horses also prove a great source of annoyance to residents of the same locality.

Beating the Record.

An old man, a French-Canadian, nearly eighty years of age, accomplished, on foot, the distance between this city and Vancouver, about twelve miles, twice yesterday, carrying his blankets one way. It is to be feared that this performance would challenge the pluck, if not the endurance of some of our youthful pedestrians. Let some of them try it without the blankets. Walking matches between Westminster and Vancouver and return ought to be next to football, the popular amusement. Here is a chance for some one to write his name high on the scroll of fame. Who'll be first.

Burglarized.

Some time during last night burglars entered the dwelling of Mounce Bros. and carried off a little booty. The entrance was effected by cutting a hole in the panel of the door large enough to admit a man's hand. When this had been accomplished it was an easy matter to unlock the door and get inside. The burglars then passed up stairs, lighting matches as they went to find their way without stumbling. Mr. Mounce's bedroom door was closed, but the thieves opened it and carried away a pair breeches without disturbing the sleeper. In the breeches pocket were two $10 bills and about $5 in silver. After emptying the pockets of everything they contained the burglars dropped the breeches at the head of the stairs and departed. No clue to the robbers has been found.

The White Man Must Go.

An amusing and rather alarming phase of the Chinese question has developed. Manahan Bros., of this city, brick-makers, have been employing lately in their brick-yards about equal numbers of white men and Chinamen, the total number of men employed being about thirty. This morning the Chinese boss sent up thirty Chinamen, and demanded that the "white trash" be turned out, and an exclusively Mongolian staff installed in the yards, or else the fifteen Chinamen would be withdrawn. The "bluff" did not work, however, Manahan Bros. informing the pig-tailed "Knights of Labor" that they could go. During the hostilities the Chinese boss was asked to go up to the brick-yard to settle matters. He replied indignantly: "Me go up your brick yard? No, me no go; you come down my store."

Attempted Robbery.

About half-past one o'clock this morning while Mr. Allan Cummings, nightwatchman on the C. P. N. Co.'s wharf, was on duty, his attention was attracted towards the cattle corral by the growling of his dog. While proceeding cautiously in the direction indicated by the dog, he saw a Chinaman climbing over the fence from the corral on to the wharf. In a moment Mr. Cummings had hold of the thief by the leg, but was unable to obtain a firm grip, and the celestial finally made his escape. As the Chinaman started to run Mr. Cummings sounded his whistle and called for the police, which brought Constable Pearce down Mary street at a lively pace and in time to catch a glimpse of the wily celestial, who had left his boots in the correll to prevent his being followed by sound. The constable gave chase and ordered the Chinaman to halt, and, on his neglecting to do so, fired three shots to bring him to a standstill if possible. The celestial finally entered one of the houses situated about the centre of Chinatown, and though Constable Pearce followed and searched the premises, no trace of him could be found. About 4:30 o'clock this morning a Chinaman was noticed to be hanging round the street, opposite the wharf, and occasionally would take a peep into the corral where the boots still lay. Thinking this circumstance rather suspicious, Mr. Cammings, with the assistance of Mr. W. H. Vianen, arrested the man and took him to the lockup. In the police court this morning Ah John got 30 days with hard labor.

Personal.

R. H. Holden, of Langley, is in the city.

E. M. N. Woods returned this afternoon from Kamloops, and will remain in the city a few days.

D. McGillivray, the well-known contractor, was in the city last night and returned to Vancouver this morning. It is reported Dan will soon join the army of benedicts.

Jabesh Snow, Gunning Cove, N. S., writes: "I was completely prostrated with the asthma, but hearing of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, I procured a bottle, and it done me so much good that I got another, and before it was used, I was well. My son was cured of a bad cold by the use of half a bottle. It goes like wild-fire, and makes cures wherever it is used."

The Loss of the Queen.

A despatch from San Francisco says that some six weeks ago half a dozen or more spiritualists and slate writers came out together with the prediction that the Queen of the Pacific would go down on the trip she was making to San Diego when she was sunk in Port Harford harbor. They had several seances and readings and other orgies of a similar nature, and the result was always the same. The Queen, they said, was doomed to disaster, and some even went so far as to stake their reputation on the issue. The predictions were freely circulated and reached the ears of the general agents, who paid no attention to them. The slate writers had it that the steamer must meet with disaster. They pointed to her unfortunate record and shook their heads ominously. Tney dissuaded some people from going on her, and now they say in a quiet way that their predictions were fulfilled. A searching investigation will be made to ascertain, if possible, whether the agents or some enemy of the company had the door loosened. No pains or expense will be spared to get at the bottom facts. Two hundred lives were placed in peril and a steamship, worth half a million dollars, was jeopardized by the loosening of the cover. How the coal port was opened is a mystery to all, but a rumor was widely circulated at San Francisco and Port Harford to the effect that it was purposely opened by a passenger or member of the crew after having left, and then let in water. Divers replaced the coal port on Wednesday and the vessel was raised on Thursday afternoon.

Police Court.

Before T. C. Atkinson, P. M.

Ah John, charged with being a vagrant.

Constable Pearce sworn said: I have known the prisoner for over a year; he does not work much; I saw him last week and don't know that he is employed at any occupation; I believe the prisoner is the man who attempted to steal from the C. P. N. wharf.

Allan Cummings, sworn, said: About half past one this morning I was watching on the wharf; my dog gave a bark, and I jumped to my feet and saw a Chinaman getting over the fence, from the corral, onto the wharf; I caught hold of him but he got away and I blew my whistle and called "police;" shortly afterwards I heard several shots and presently Constable Pearce came along and reported having chased the thief. About 4:30 o'clock the prisoner came round, evidently for his shoes, which were left in corral; his actions were so suspicious I arrested him.

His honor said it was necessary to make an example of such loose characters, and feeling convinced the accused was a vagrant, the sentence would be 30 days in jail with hard labor.

Ah Sam, charged with drawing a knife on John Rankin, was discharged, as no prosecution was entered, and satisfactory proof of his previous good character was given. $500 surety was given for his proper observance of the peace.

Correspondence of the Columbian.

VERNON, May 2.—Miners are passing through on route to the Rock Creek mines. It is hoped the government will soon commence work on the new road from Penticton to those mines, and so give miners all possible advantage to develop their claims. The Cherry Creek Mining Co. lately struck better prospects than ever. J. Morrison & Co. are down over 50 feet in search of the old Cherry Creek silver lead. So far everything is satisfactory. Chinamen continue working placer claims on Cherry Creek, and their number is evidently increasing—a sign there must be dust in paying quantities still. Marriageable young ladies are in demand; only two or three are on hand, and one of these may soon change her title from Miss to Mrs. "Coming events cast their shadows before," and to do the fair ones justice, leap year has nothing to do with it. One of Okanagan's batchelors makes frequent visits to Nicola. Wonder if it is quartz he is always prospecting for? Seeding was finished by many from a week to ten days ago. Fall wheat as a whole looks well, especially in Spallumcheen; spring crops are immense. Land hunters and those seeking a delightful climate for health or permanent residence should visit Vernon and country north, south, east or west, and they will seek no further. Bishop and Mrs. Sillitoe, when en route recently to Penticton, were the guests of Mr. Dewdney. They enjoyed the voyage per str. Jubilee on Okanagan Lake. Fine showers, fine grass, and fine beef —very soon.

Delta Council.

The council met at the town hall on May 5th. Present the reeve and Couns. Arthur, Ladner and Pybus. Statement of the returning officer was read and accepted. A communication from Mr. T. Mowat was received and filed and a vote of thanks tendered for his promptness in the matter. W. C. Ward's communication was received and filed. The clerk was instructed to write the hon. provincial secretary with reference to the nonpayment of voucher for work done on the Chilochken trunk road. Coun. Ladner and the clerk were instructed to have a box and outlet put in at the end of the G. B. main road. Coun. Ladner was empowered to have Canoe Pass road repaired. A committee of the whole was appointed to confer with Messrs. Chisholm and Ladner about road matters and water frontage. On motion the clerk was instructed to write the hon. provincial secretary, asking to have the road known as Canoe Pass road, running from the junction of the main trunk road near the Episcopal church to the Wellington Packing Co's. land at Canoe Pass, made a main trunk road, and that it shall be a continuation of the existing main trunk road. Coun. Pybus and C. F. Green were empowered to have the Green bridge lowered. Council then adjourned till 4th June at 10 o'clock a. m.

It has been a great blessing to me." Frauds may imitate Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in appearance and name, but in everything else they are dead failures.
