NOTES AND COMMENTS.

It is said that the experiment of stocking Tasmanian river with salmon, by the importation and hatching of ova, is showing gratifying results. A large salmon is caught occasionally, and hopes are entertained that in a few years there will be quite a respectable supply of the fish.

Herr von Bulow has left England in high dudgeon. His piano recitals were not appreciated in that country. He kept up his courage until an English newspaper remarked that Great Britain manted but little Herr Bulow. Then he exclaimed, "Mein Gott!" and disappeared.

In the shape of jubilee coins, and 5 pound and two pound gold pieces, nearly a million sterling—which, roughly, is $5,000,000—is stowed away in the cabinets of curiosity collectors in Britain. It would take a heap of curiosity to induce us to withdraw $5,000,000 from circulation—we're too patriotic to do it, sir.

An instrument called the osteotome has been invented as an improvement over the tedious and clumsy surgical method of cuttiug through bones by means of saws and chisels. It is practically a circular saw revolved at a very high speed by an electric motor. An ingeniously devised shield, which passes around the bone to be operated upon protects the surrounding flesh from injury.

An eastern exchange remarks:—The Montreal Herald says of a contemporary: "Torn by fury at the spectacle of the Castors supporting Mr. Mercier, and cheered for a moment by the hope that this turnpike falsehood might be true, and of importance, the Gazette metaphorically grinds its teeth at the liberal party." To be "torn by fury" and to "grind its teeth" and yet to put on at the same time a "cheerful" aspect in the hope that "a falsehood may be true," is a condition rare in newspaper experience. Prehaps the Herald will explain how it is accomplished?

The new German Emperor is credited with blurting out, in an unpremeditated speech, the other day, that millions of Germans were ready to die rather than surrender Alsace. The speech will rankle in the minds of Frenchmen, and will neutralise columns of studied conciliation. Europe is groaning under the burden of huge war preparations, and these are necessary chiefly because of the hate and greed of nations. It is all very well to talk of the ambition of rulers—doubtless that is a factor in the problem, but if the nations cultivated peace and good will, their rulers would speedily follow suit.

Cunard—Inman—White Star—Guion—all determined to have the most comfortable, the most magnificent, but above all, the fastest Atlantic liners. The enormous traffic has developed this competition, and the competition has evolved a class of steamer which by comparison with those deemed first-class, say, twenty years ago, shows something of the progress naval architecture has made. A five day passage is now the aim of the companies, and the White Star people, although they do not say much, let it be understood that great things may be looked for from their two new boats now going into shape at Harlan & Wolfe's yards in Belfast.

There was a little "twisting of the lion's tail" in the U. S. congress the other day, but it was of a very good humored kind, and appears to have been intended more as poking fun at their own fire-eaters than as expressing any hostile sentiment in the speakers. One gentleman asserted that New York state could take care of Canada, whereupon another promptly put in a request to have the C.P.R. brought to book. Other remarks of a similar character followed, and the affair degenerated into a chaffing match—all of which means that it would take a good deal of very wrongheaded blundering on both sides to set the two great English speaking nations by the ears to any serious extent.

THE PROPER CHANNEL for the escape from the system of impurities which would, if they remained, poison the blood, is through the bowels. When this outlet is obstructed it may be disencumbered by Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, a remedy which regulates the system, invigorates digestion, and is pure and safe as well as effective. It cures all diseases arising from Impure Blood.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

MRS. PARNELL APPEALS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Mr. P. C. McCourt, of the sixth auditor's office, has received a letter from Mrs. Parnell in which she makes a vigorous appeal to all the friends of home rule for Ireland who may possess any letters or evidence useful to her son's defence from the attacks of the London Times to forward the same to Mrs. Parnell, Ironsides Park, Bordentown, New Jersey. In the letter she says: "But now, to my anguish, my wise, kind and noble son Charles is at last exposed to heavy expenses of a trial, which may end like that of Smith O'Brien's, in the confiscation of his property, for one can hardly believe but that the object of the tory government is imprimus to cut off his own means. God grant that nothing worse may be their designs."

TO-DAY'S DESPATCHES.

YELLOW FEVER STRIKES THE BLACK.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 20.—Two negroes have been stricken with yellow fever and the colored population is alarmed. There were five new cases and one death yesterday.

GETS THE SHAKES.

YUMA, Ariz., Aug. 20.—Two earthquake shocks were felt here yesterday afternoon.

AN OLD MAN KILLED.

SAN BERNERDINO, Cala., Aug. 20.—Benjamin F. Matthews an old respected citizen was killed yesterday by a falling tree which he was cutting down in the Devil Canyon mountains, twenty miles away. The deceased had lived here since 1850.

FLOURSHING THE HATCHET.

PINE RIDGE AGENCY, Dak., Aug. 20.—There was great commotion here yesterday when it was learned that a large band of Sioux had gone to Cheyenne country on Tongue river in defiance of objections of agent Gallagher. They claim to be going to a sun dance, but it is feared they have more serious intentions. They have often threatened to join the Cheyennes and murder the unprotected whites along Tongue and Powder rivers. Col. Dudley, at Fort Custer has been ordered to send out troops to intercept them, and two companies of first cavalry started in pursuit this afternoon. It is believed a bloody battle will be fought before the Souix are taken back to the reservation.

QUARANTINE BREAKERS.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 20.—Yesterday two respectable Mexican citizens of this county named Ternado Mentz and Juan Dolores tried to run the quarantine into Matamoras by swimming the river below Nogales. They were fired upon by Mexican soldiers concealed in bushes on the other side. Dolores was shot and sank while Mentz swam back and escaped. The man killed was trying to get into Matamoras to see his brother who was sick and at the point of death.

BOULANGER AGAIN THE FAVORITE.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Boulanger is triumphant in three of his contested districts, the Norde, Charente and Somme. His majority in the latter department is 34,723. The election has caused great excitement here.

NEW STATES.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The senate will on Wednesday take up a bill to make states of the territories Washington, Montana and north Dakota.

KILLED BY A BASE BALL.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 20.—Michael Morray, short-stop of an an amateur baseball club of this city, was hit by a pitched ball yesterday afternoon and killed. The neck was broken from the force of the ball.

VESSEL LOST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—A dispatch to the Merchant's Exchange, this morning says the bark Cassandre Adams, which left here about a week ago for Puget Sound, for lumber, went ashore on Destruction island off the coast of Washington territory, and is a total wreck. The crew were saved.

BOULANGER'S MAJORITIES.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—Boulanger's majorities in the departments of Charente and Norde are 15,060 and 15,835.

A WORD FOR PARNELL.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Gladstone, speaking at Burateni to-day, said the government treated Parnell with gross inequality in refusing him enquiry by the select committee of parliament. "If the Times charges are proved," said Gladstone, "Parnell's political power and position have been destroyed. I never can believe Parnell guilty of personal dishonor."

PARNELL CAN CLEAR HIMSELF.

DUBLIN, Aug. 20.—The Freemans Journal gives prominence to an authorized paragraph declaring that Parnell is able to make the clearest case of disproof of the charge that he was the author of the Times letter, by a chain of evidence of the most perfect character. The Journal has opened a defence fund with a subscription of £500. Archbishop Walsh, with a similar subscription, sends a warm letter endorsing Parnell's action.

RESPITED.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The steward of the British ship Douvanley Hall, who was sentenced to be hanged for murdering the captain during a voyage from San Francisco to Liverpool, has been respited.

AN OLD FEUD SETTLED.

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 20.—About midnight last night at an exhibition in a dive, A. V. Corey, proprietor of the place, and William Doherty settled an old feud with a dirk knife and revolver. Corey was fatally stabbed and J. F. Harrington, a spectator, was disembowled by Doherty and died in a few hours. Corey fired several shots without effect. Doherty resisted arrest desperately flashing his fatal knife in the face of the officers, but was finally jailed.

ACCIDENT AT SEA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—The British ship Pegasus arrived from London last night. During the voyage one of her able seamen fell from the main-top-gallant-yard to the bridge deck and was killed.

YELLOW FEVER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The marine hospital service received a telegram from Dr. Wall at Tampa to-day, stating an infant died there yesterday, of yellow fever. The authorities of Tampa are cleaning and disinfecting the house. Dr. Posey, inspector of the Louisiana board of health has been ordered to visit Florida towns to ascertain their condition.

Police Court.

Before T.C. Atkinson, P.M., and P. McTiernan, J. P.

At the police court this morning John Ames, a Squamish Indian, was charged with being very drunk and raising as much of a row as 20 Indians usually do at a potlach. John pleaded guilty, but said in extenuation that it had been hinted in certain siwash circles that his lungs were weak, and he had merely been giving proof positive that those hints were false. His honor accepted the plea, but imposed a fine of $5 for the medical certificate.

Louis, a Bella Coola gentleman, whose powerful eloquence and masterly pleadings fitted him for a much higher billet in life than an ordinary fish cleaner, was also charged with being drunk and disorderly. Louis pleaded strongly in his own defence, and proved to his own satisfaction, in three languages, that which was termed by the police "intoxication" was simply an uncontrollable burst of joy, superinduced by the news of the death of his mother-in-law. His honor congratulated Louis at his happy bereavement, but fined him $5, remarking at the same time that there were no great joys unattended by sorrow.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is pleasant to take; sure and effectual in destroying worms. Many have tried it with best results.

Late Canadian News.

TORONTO, Aug. 14.—Charles E. Stanbury, a prominent stenographer, employed by W. D. Mathews & Co. here, was arrested to-day on a charge of attempting an indecent assault on a girl of 17 named Harriet Morrison. Stanbury read a paper yesterday before the Canadian Shorthand association, of which he was elected secretary-treasurer.

QUEBEC, Aug. 14.—Vice-regal hospitality at the Citadel is now in full swing. Dinner parties are given twice a week—on Tuesdays and Thursdays—besides numerous other private entertainments. A grand ball will be given on the 4th of September, on the occasion of the visit of the English fleet. Three of his excellency's sons arrived by the Sarmatian yesterday. Cricket seems the favorite outdoor amusement, the governor, with the boys and suite, challenging all the military and civilian teams that can be got together, and there is a match almost every day.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—The Northern Pacific agreement is still a great bone of contention. The officials of the railroad company have been expected here for several days past to let contracts and commence work, but have postponed coming owing to complications. The government are said to be seeking some amendment.

TORONTO, Aug. 15.—Henry Abell, the well-known implement manufacturer, formerly of Woodbridge, now in Toronto, has become defendant in a sensational suit for damages, brought by W. Mackie, of Woodbridge, who accuses defendant of having alienated his wife's affections. Abell paid her many little friendly attentions, as the result of which he is now charged by Mackie with grossly immoral conduct, and a case of "crim con" will be heard at the next court of criminal assizes.

QUEBEC, Aug. 15.—A large number of the members of the Quebec Press association left on an excursion to France to-day on the steamship Chateau Leonville.

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—The Yankee fishermen found on board the American sloop captured by the cruiser Dream, last week, have been set free after signing an acknowledgment of guilt in fishing inside the three-mile limit.

The bell belonging to the Frog Lake church still swings over the fire hall at Millbrook. Bishop Grandin continues to press for its return, and negotiations are still in progress.

AS PARMELEE'S VEGETABLE PILLS contain Mandrake and Dandelion, they cure Liver and Kidney Complaints with unerring certainty. They also contain Roots and Herbs which have specific virtues truly wonderful in their action on the stomach and bowels. Mr. E. A. Cairncross, Shakespeare, writes: "I consider Parmelee's Pills an excellent remedy for Billousness and Derangement of the Liver, having used them myself for some time."

Daily British Columbian

Monday Evening, Aug. 20, 1888.

Two eastern exchanges—the Toronto Empire and the Winnipeg Commercial—have been kind enough to compliment the press of British Columbia in general terms on the unanimity with which they stick up for their own country. On behalf of the press of B. C. we would thank those journals for their good opinions publicly expressed, and would also take this opportunity to commend the broad-spirited patriotism displayed by both our Toronto and Winnipeg cotemporaries. A noticeable feature of both of these journals is the intelligent interest they manifest in all parts of the Dominion, British Columbia coming in for a large share of notice, and a general hopeful and patriotic tone as to the resources and future of our vast and united Dominion. Much good may be augured for the common-wealth a tiarge from such an attitude being taken by the press of the Dominion. Differences may and do exist on many matters of both a local and federal nature, and conflicting interests there are without doubt; but so long as these are not suffered to interfere with a friendly reciprocity of feeling and expression between the various local interests and between the different provinces composing the Dominion, no apprehensions for the growth of an undue sectionalism need be felt. The press can do much in taking the lead and giving the cue in this matter, and appearances indicate that the press, as a whole, both provincial and Dominion, will not be found abusing its influential position.

The Monetary Times (Toronto) says: "After a trial of some years the atteupt to keep beer out of the Northwest is given up. Light beer, of the strength of four per cent. alcohol, is now to be allowed admittance. Permits to receive liquor have always been in vogue; but the smuggler has been the chief agent of supply. Liquor has, through his agency, been run into the Northwest in quantities equal to any existing demand. The smuggled whiskey is for the most part of the worst quality. Drinking habits have various degrees of danger, according to the nature of the drink used. There are those who believe that if light beer can be made to take the place of whiskey, a great gain will be made; and this accounts for the present experiment. A form of abstinence has hitherto been imposed on the people of the Northwest; they have not pronounced upon the question themselves, though the time must soon come when they will be entitled to do so. If they decide for prohibition, they can have it, but it cannot be forced upon them from the outside." Our friends of of the Northwest will be very lucky if they are allowed to stop at "light beer." This will probably prove to be the thin edge of the wedge, or, more properly, the first breach in the dyke, which will naturally lead to a deluge of strong drinks. It would appear, however, that the so-called prohibition in the Northwest territories has not worked satisfactorily, but has been constantly and systematically violated, so that less regret will be felt that the farce has been terminated. The liquor question everywhere must depend for its final and satisfactory solution on the education of the masses—and particularly the rising generation—in common-sense, scientific and religious truths. As Rev. Father Conaty, of Massachusetts, said in a recent address to the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America (published in this paper last Saturday): "The most effective prohibitory law is that observed by men who are resolved not to enter the saloon, for this resolution would most effectively wipe it out of existence."

There never was, perhaps, a time in the history of British Columbia when the values of real estate and other properties, real and speculative, had reached a greater height than at present. The first pioneers that settled on the lower Fraser were mostly of an energetic and adventurous spirit, or they would not have led the way into this far western region of the American continent. Most of them spent their all in getting here and getting fixed in the most frugal manner, expecting some day to be well paid for their daring self-denial of a pioneer life in this then isolated part of the world. Real estate was easily obtained, free grants of land and nominal prices of city lots enabled many to become possessed of what is now valuable property; but nearly all became weary in waiting for the realization of their bright hopes, and, instead of becoming rich in real estate, many became land poor and disheartened, and parted easily with their lands, and settled down into a sort of hopeless indifference. The few of the old pioneers that are in possession of valuable real estate, now that prosperity, by easy and direct communication, has at length come to revive the dry bones, are very much in the position of the dog-in-the-manger. They are not able to masticate the hay themselves; neither are they willing that the fresh ox should use it. Some of the best lands in the country are held unimproved. They were acquired at a low figure, and now when people are coming to the country who want to cultivate, they must either pay the exorbitant price asked, or go without. It is the same, even more so, with business city lots. The owners will neither build nor sell for a reasonable price, and the great danger is that prosperity will be arrested through mere insatiable greed. We don't mean to say that these valuable property owners are sinners above all others for holding on to terra firma until they can squeeze all its supposed value into their own pockets, for, very likely, were we in their steads, we might be very much tempted to follow suit. This weakness is common to human nature; but for the sake of general good we would advise those who own such property not to hold on too long. Of this folly there are many examples, and what has happened in such cases may happen again. There is no better time to make hay than when the sun shines. It may rain before long. Good fortune is very fickle. We have waited for it a long time. Let the new blood in for fear it flows away into other channels.

The Victoria press has been calling attention lately to several revolting instances of cruelty to animals—principally horses, of course, as these useful and frequently ill-used servants and companions of man are more subjected by circumstances to the whims and tempers of brutal masters than any other of the domestic animals. Our cotemporaries are recommending, very properly, that an association for the prevention of cruelty to animals should be organized in the capital. This would be, of course, but a branch of a world-wide organization, that aims everywhere to repress and punish wanton abuse and mal-treatment of the dumb creatures that contribute so materially to the comfort and convenience of the "lords of creation," as well as to exercise a wholesome surveillance over the numerous instances of "man's inhumanity to man," which the poet truthfully adds, "makes countless thousands mourn." Human nature is much the same everywhere, and there can be no doubt that wherever man is congregated in considerable numbers, cruelty and brutality—or at least criminal thoughtlessness and indifference—will crop out, and somebody or something must suffer, however innocent and inoffensive they may be. These beneficent societies should be established in all our cities and towns, at least, for, as a Victoria cotemporary remarks in this connection, "What's everybody's business is nobody's business," and without such organizations very little effective protest is likely to be made against either thoughtless or deliberate inhumanity. Even our own city, which can compare favorably with any city of its size in the general good behavior of its citizens, would not be the worse of a little watching in this respect. A communication in this paper the other day called attention to one phase of "cruelty to animals," whereby horses were subjected to needless hardship owing to the condition of a certain street at the lower end of the city. Last Friday, too, there was a case before the police court in this city, the charge being "furious driving and cruelty to animals." The case, as our readers will remember, was discharged for lack of positive evidence. It is quite likely that there are a number of cases properly belonging to the province of a "society for the prevention of cruelty to animals" that never come to light now at all. "The righteous man is merciful to his beast," saith the scripture; but so long as there is quite a percentage of men who lay no claim whatever to "righteousness," somebody's "beast" is going to get left—if the "brutes" are not looked after.

A Creaking Hinge

Is dry and turns hard, until oil is applied, after which it moves easily. When the joints, or hinges, of the body are stiffened and inflamed by Rheumatism, they cannot be moved without causing the most excruciating pains. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by its action on the blood, relieves this condition, and restores the joints to good working order.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has effected, in our city, many most remarkable cures, in cases which baffled the efforts of the most experienced physicians. Were it necessary, I could give the names of many individuals who have been cured by taking this medicine. In my case it has worked wonders, relieving me of after being troubled with it for years. In this, and all other diseases arising from impure blood, there is no remedy with which I am acquainted, that affords such relief as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.—R. H. Lawrence, M. D., Baltimore, Md.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me of Gout and Rheumatism, when nothing else would. It has eradicated every trace of disease from my system.—R. H. Short, Manager Hotel Belmont, Lowell, Mass.

I was, during many months, a sufferer from chronic Rheumatism. The disease afflicted me grievously, in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took several bottles of this preparation, and was speedily restored to health.—J. Fream, Independence, Va. ††

The West Shore is the only illustrated magazine published on the Pacific coast, and aside from its excellent literary features, its object is to convey information, by both pen and pencil, of the great resources of this region, and the progress of their development.

Special illustrated articles appear in each issue; also, several pages of notes of the progress being made in every section, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Alaska, Utah, California, British Columbia, and the Pacific Northwest in general, are being illustrated. The subscription price is only $2.50. It is not only the cheapest illustrated magazine in the United States, but contains articles and engravings of great interest to every resident of this region, which can not be found in any other publication.

Subscribers for 1888 receive a large supplement every month. The first one is a beautiful oleograph of the "Entrance to the Columbia River," printed in nine colors, and each of the others represents some feature of our sublime scenery. The supplements are alone worth more than the price of the magazine. Try it for 1888, and after reading, send it to your friends elsewhere. You will find it both entertaining and instructive.

THE GOOD-BYE TO WARTS.

Some Strange Remedies for These Annoying Excrescences.

Warts may be banished, say some, by merely wishing them gone.

The Breton peasant passes his hands over them, makes the sign of the cross, and bids them go in God's name. In Deux Sevres you must pinch them each time you think of them, and say, "one!" In Lusatia, when you see a funeral pass, say, "Thou! thou! in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost!" or when two carriages pass, say, "Get out! get out!" The troublesome warts will follow the procession.

A formula used in the same place runs thus:

Wart, wart, wart,
Wart, don't grow to an abscess;
Wart, don't fester
Until the mother of God
Gives to the world another son,
In the name, etc.

And the same is used in Germany.

A funeral procession is also utilized in Ireland by saying: "May these warts and this corpse pass away, and never more return. In the name," etc. The warts must be rubbed with the hands during this time.

Many remedies depend upon this idea of transmission to some person or inanimate object.

In Lancashire, the warts may be rubbed with a cinder, which must then be wrapped in paper and dropped at cross-roads. Whosoever picks it up will get the warts.

In Lusatia, certain marine petrifications picked up on the beach are used in the same way, with the addition of the formula, "In the name of the Father," etc.

In Lower Brittany, small buttons are made of slate, and the credulous peasants count out as many as the number of their warts, inclose them in paper, to look like a roll of pennies, and throw this away on the first road, believing that the person who shall pick up the deceptive package will take the warts with him.

In Deux Sevres, as many pebbles as there are warts are placed in a cavity in the wall, in the hopes that some one will get them and the warts.

The Lusatian peasant will tell you to go into the forest, where the branches are moved by the breeze, to take a clod of dirt heated by the sun, pass it thrice over the warts in the name of the Father, etc., and come away.

Another class of remedies depends on the transference of the troublesome visitors to some object that will speedily decay.

I have heard, when a boy, that a piece of beef would cause them to disappear, if they are rubbed with it and the beef buried. There are many variations in this remedy in various parts of the world. It is, perhaps, the most popular cure of all those given.

In Northumberland, Devonshire and Lancashire, the beef should be stolen, and in Deux Sevres, two pieces must be used, and then tied together. In Lancashire it is not buried, but must be carefully nailed up on a gate post at a point where four lanes end, or any other secure place, and suffered to decay. In Devonshire the beef must be thrown over a wall and your left shoulder at the same time.

Pork or lard is substituted for beef in many places. In Scotland, stolen bacon is necessary, and lard from a male pig in the Vosges mountains, buried deep in the ground. In Lower Brittany you must steal a piece of lard from your neighbor's chimney, taking care not to be caught at it, rub the warts with it and put it in a manure pile. Norman peasants use a dark cloth, and put it in a rut in the road; when a carriage passes over it a cure is effected.

A PACK OF CARDS.

What a Soldier Found Suggested by This Familiar Thing.

Once, while a company of soldiers were at church the captain noticed that one of the men had a deck of cards which he was looking over and seemed to be studying closely.

After service the soldier was placed under arrest, and ordered to give an account of what he meant by displaying a deck of cards during church service.

The soldier thereupon explained as follows:

"The ace reminds there is but one God; the deuce of the Father and Son; the trey of the Holy Trinity; the four-spot of the four Evangelists—Matthew, Mark, Luke and John; the five-spot of the five wise and five foolish virgins; the six-spot that in six days God made the world; the seven-spot that He rested on the seventh day from his labors; the eight-spot of the eight persons that entered the ark—Noah, his wife, and their three sons and their wives; the nine-spot of the lepers cleansed by God, only one of whom was grateful; the ten-spot reminds me of the ten commandments."

He then showed how the cards served him as a calendar:

"By counting the spots," he said, "I find there are three hundred and sixty-five—the number of days in the year; by counting the cards, there are fifty-two—the number of weeks in a year; of suits, there are four—the number of seasons in each year; there are thirteen cards in each suit, and there are thirteen weeks in each quarter."

The explanation being satisfactory the soldier was released.

An Eastern View of It.

The Chinese minister at a leading European court was condoling with an eminent Englishman because his wife had gone to England for the education of their children.

"You must be lonely," said he; "but, of course, you have another wife?"

"Ah, no, that would be quite out of the question," said the Englishman. "My religion and the law of my country both forbid it. My wife would be in a rage if I took a second one, and my government would punish me severely."

The Chinese diplomat was astonished, but presently said:

"You Europeans have now so much intercourse with the Chinese that we may hope you will soon become sufficiently civilized to act as we do."—Argonaut.

Testing the Eggs.

Johnny, who is four years old, was playing in the yard one day, and a lady who lives close by wished to have the eggs, if any were laid since her last visit to the hennery, brought in. She said to the little boy:

"Johnny, will you go to the hennery and see if there are any eggs there? Don't bring in the china ones; leave them there, but if there be any others bring them in."

Johnny started to do the bidding, and soon returned with two or three broken eggs and his pinafore soiled.

The lady, seeing him coming, exclaimed: "Oh, Johnny; how did you break the eggs?"

Johnny looked at her in surprise, and said:

"How could I tell whether they were china eggs or not, if I didn't try them?"

A BACHELOR'S SECRET.

I keep one precious bit of gold,
Safe hidden like a miser;
And yet if found by robber bold,
He'd never steal my wealth untold,
And none would be the wiser.

Why do I hoard this bit of gold,
Ne'er giving it or lending?
My friend, the story's trite and old;
I loved—but words are weak and cold;
Let's hasten to the ending.

The bit I keep no one could miss
From all her wealth, her glory,
Of golden hair—gold, ah! like this,
This curl I took, and left a kiss—
And now you know the story.

"Why prize it so?" I think may be
Half way in scorn you've queried.
Ah! friend, a miser lovingly
Saves out one bit of gold—ah, me!
When—all the rest is buried.

One bit he saves, to touch and see,
As I this lit le token:
Sweetheart! 'tis all I have of thee—
This, and a lifelong memory
Of love that ne'er was spoken.

Through weary years my bit of gold
I've hoarded like a miser;
Friend, when my heart grows tired and cold,
This curl lay in my dying hold,
And none will be the wiser.

FOR AND AGAINST SMOKING.

Something To Be Said on Both Sides—Startling Advice to Women Past Their Bloom.

There are some things that may be considered as established against the smoke habit. It is expensive. Not as expensive as it used to be, for a man can get a cigar that is not altogether rank for about one-half the former price of a fair cigar. If the smoker will use a pipe, the expense is not considerable.

The smoke habit is offensive to many who do not smoke, which is a strong point against it. It is injurious to the young and to some who are not young. It is a selfish and unsocial habit, since women are excluded from its pleasures.

For men who can afford the expense and who have reached an age or are of a habit where it is not injurious to health, and who are considerate of the feelings of others, smoking is a very good thing indeed. In a fretful world, where anxious cares constrine the nervous force, the smoke is a solace, a timely sedative, the "pipe of peace" and rest. It induces heart depression, even in healthy men, but this is only temporary with most, the effect of excessive indulgence, and disappears when the smoker becomes moderate.

For the young this advice is wholesome:

Until the age of twenty-one
All forms of smoking you must shun;
It stunts the growth, exhausts the purse,
And leads to evils that are worse.

We are quite confident that this age was selected for rhyming purposes. One should not be a smoker before thirty-five or forty. And then only on condition that smoking is in fact a solace and not a stimulant.

One very eminent English clergyman finds fault with smoking only because it "accentuates the separation of the sexes, and so fosters the coarser and more selfish side of men's habits." He declares that the only other alternative is that the "ladies should smoke as freely as men do." And he expects that we shall come to this.

Unfortunately the finer organization of women is not calculated to bear smoking. It would be more apt to stimulate and excite than to soothe women. But for women beyond middle life—well, they would find a great deal of solid comfort in smoking. A good smoke is about the best substitute for the bloom of youth when that is lost.

NOTES ON CELERY.

What Cultivation Has Done for This Plant—Some of Its Varieties.

Wild celery has a wide range. It extends from Sweden to Algeria, Egypt, Abyssinia, and in Asia from the Caucasus to Beloochistan, and the mountains of British India. It grows in ditches and other damp places, and in Europe it is rank, coarse, and somewhat poisonous.

Professor Gray calls it a "strong scented, acrid, if not poisonous plant, of the coast of Europe, of which the variety, dulce, garden celery, is rendered bland, and the base of the leaf stalks enlarged. Succulent and edible when blanched, through long cultivation."

One variety of cultivated celery, the celeriac, is raised only for the root or base of the leaves, which becomes a white solid bulb. This is more commonly called turnip-rooted celery, and differs more widely than the other from wild celery.

The larger plant, also called smallage, is kin to celery and botanically is a species of the parsley.—Good Housekeeping.

An Odd Claim.

A hired man who has been employed on a farm in this county entered suit against his employer the other day for the balance of his wages, amounting, as he claimed, to $32.

It looked at first as if the plaintiff had a clear case. He gave dates and figures in a straightforward way. When the farmer took the stand he said:

"I claim an offset for that $32, for I honestly owe it."

"What is your offset?" said the lawyer.

"He is an unbeliever."

"In what?"

"Why, in the Bible."

"What has that got to do with your justly owing the $32?"

"It had a heap to do with it. I had six hands in my employ, and we were hurried when I hired this man.

"He had not been with us two days when he stopped the reaper in the middle of the forenoon to dispute about Daniel in the lion's den, and in three days we had a knockdown on the whale swallowing Jonah. The man who runs the mower got to arguing about Samson, and drove over a stump and damaged the machine to the extent of $18. The next day my boy broke his leg while climbing the fence to listen to the row that was going on over the children of Israel goin' thro' the Red Sea. Worst of all, my wife said she didn't believe Elijah was fed by the ravens, and, hang it all, I found myself weakening over Noah and the flood.

"That is my offset, sir; and if he was worth anything I'd sue him for $1,000 besides."—Farmer's Magazine.

An Unfilled Want.

First Swell—"There goes Miller, the richest man in town. What a pity the old fellow has no daughter. Don't you think so?"

Second Swell—"I don't know. Why?"

First Swell—"Because she would make such a good wife for me."—Fliegende Blatter.

To renovate velvet, free from dust by laying face down upon paper and whipping smartly; then brush with a camel's hair brush, damp on the wrong side with borax water and hang pile inward in the sunshine to dry, taking care that there is no fold or wrinkle on the line, or thieves around.

"It Saved My Life"

Is a common expression, often heard from those who have realized, by personal use, the curative powers of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. "I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died from lung troubles.—E. Bragdon, Palestine, Tex.

About six months ago I had a severe Hemorrhage of the Lungs, brought on by a distressing Cough, which deprived me of sleep and rest. I had used various cough balsams and expectorants, without obtaining relief. A friend advised me to try

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

I did so, and am happy to say that it helped me at once. By continued use this medicine cured my cough, and, I am satisfied, saved my life.—Mrs. E. Coburn, 18 Second st., Lowell, Mass.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for over a year, and sincerely believe I should have been in my grave, had it not been for this medicine. It has cured me of a dangerous affection of the lungs, for which I had almost despaired of ever finding a remedy.—D. A. McMullen, Windsor, Province of Ontario.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life. Two years ago I took a very severe Cold which settled on my lungs. I consulted physicians, and took the remedies they prescribed, but failed to obtain relief until I began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Two bottles of this medicine completely restored my health.—Lizzie M. Allen, West Lancaster, Ohio. ††

A Terrible Tumble.

While the Atlantic express was passing through the canons above Yale Friday morning, a startling incident occurred. A Chinese laborer was on the train, proceeding to another section of the road to work. When nearing Keefer's he saw the section gang with whom he was to work at the side of the track, and thinking to save himself a walk, he jumped from the platform of the car on which he was standing. Instead of jumping with the train he leaped towards its end, and before his feet touched the ground he had been hurled over the embankment, about 600 feet from the rushing waters below. He at first rolled over and over, and the last that was seen of him by those who witnessed the occurrence was when he slid over a ledge and was undoubtedly dashed into the turbulent river.

Kootenay Canal.

Work on the canal through Canal Flat connecting the Upper Colombia lake and Kootenay river is progressing well. The heaviest portion of the excavation, that on the upper level from the lock to the Kootenay river, will be finished by Saturday evening next. The balance of the work will then consist of the lock and some dredging. The whole scheme will be finished about the last of September. The average width of the canal is thirty-five feet, and the distance between the two waters is about one mile and a half. The depth of water in the upper level will be six feet, and the surface level will be nine feet. The depth of water in the lock below will be about 16 feet. This will permit of light draught steamers passing from the lake to Kootenay river. Before this will be productive of any benefit it will be necessary to spend some money in removing snags and other obstructions for about eight miles on Kootenay river, which would then furnish good navigation to below the boundary line. Between the two lakes there are also some obstructions to be removed and dredging to be done. This would furnish navigation from Golden for light steamers clear through to the boundary line.—Sentinel.

A Remarkable Milch Cow.

The Holstein-Friesian cow, "Amazonia No. 8658, H.H.B.," property of B. N. L. Davis, of Mt. Vernon, W.T., has just completed a most remarkable milk record for one month. She calved July 4th; we began the milk test July 5th, and from the 5th of July to the 15th she gave an average of 69 lbs. of milk a day, or 690 lbs in 10 days. From July 15th to the 25th she gave an average of 70 lbs. of milk per day, or 700 lbs. in 10 days. On the 25th day of July she gave 74 lbs. of milk; on the 26th, 75 lbs.; 27th, 74; 28th, 76½; 29th, 76; 30th, 78¼; 31st, 76; 1st Aug., 74; 2nd, 79½; 3rd, 80; 4th, 80½. A total yield in 11 days of 843¾ lbs of milk, and a grand total yield of 2,233¾ lbs. of milk in one month from July 5th to Aug. 5th.

In order to test the milk for butter we set it separately for seven days, and from the cream of which we made 16½ lbs. of firm gilt-edged butter—an average of 2 lbs. 5 oz. per day. Owing to the hot weather and our manner of setting milk (in common tin pans) fully 15 per cent. of cream was lost; and from that fact we did not continue the butter test during the month. We believe that Amazonia is fully capable of producing 3 lbs. of butter daily. The tests as given above seem almost incredible when we consider that the weight of her milk for two days is equal to the weight of an average sized man; in 16 days she gave her own weight in milk, and in one month as much as a span of horses would draw. Witnesses who saw the cow milked will vouch for the accuracy of the statements above given. During the test she was milked twice daily. For the first 20 days she had only the same care and food of other cows of the herd—turned out on the range during the day and turned into the pasture at night, fed twice daily on three quarts ground oats, but during the last 11 days of the test she was turned on good grass and given 1½ gallons of chop at a feed. Amazonia is 5 years old; she is a perfect type of this unrivalled breed of cattle. She was bred by W. Buiz Bergen, of North Holland; imported by Geo. E. Brown & Co. Her sire is the great Netherland bull "Cor N.H.B., No. 122," the district bull of Bergen, and her dam, Amazonia, a great milker, descended from a Netherland family noted for their deep milking qualities for generations. In our herd of 53 head of purebred registered Holstein-Friesians, Amazonia is queen.

Four cows of our herd have averaged 67 lbs. of milk per day; 6 cows have given 60 lbs. and upward in one day. From our experience we believe that in the four essentials, for human food, viz: beef, milk, butter and cheese, they are unrivalled by any breed.

Coroner's Inquest.

The coroner's inquest on the death of Joseph Baskett was held this morning at the court house.

Mr. Coroner Ferris conducted the inquest. The case attracted much attention and the room was filled with people. Mr. Moresby watched the case for the crown and Messrs. Corbould & McColl appeared for the defense. When the prisoner was placed in the box he did not appear to feel particularly bad, and was quite free from nervousness during the whole time the witnesses were being examined. Cotea had been drinking very hard of late, and though a good workman and doing a good business he failed to furnish his wife with sufficient money for household expenses, and she was forced to take in washing in order to keep body and soul together. Although Cotea was thoughtless and unkind his wife was faithful and patient. This morning she was in court during the entire proceedings, at the close of which she had a touching interview with her guilty husband.

Wm. J. Fanset sworn, said:

Am a lumberman; I remember the affair on Saturday; it was at the Merchants Hotel. Baskett and Cotea had a scuffle in the hotel and again on the street. Basket made a pass at Cotea with his open hand which the latter fended and struck back knocking Baskett down. The prisoner then kicked Baskett about the head but the exact spot I cannot say; I can't say he kicked Baskett more than once; after Baskett was knocked down and kicked he never moved; he fell face downwards; with coroner Ferris I felt Baskett's heart and found it palpitating. To a juryman: They had been quarreling for 15 minutes; I don't know the cause of the dispute.

David S. Gray: I am a butcher; I was near Townsend's stable on Columbia street and saw two men quarreling opposite the Merchants Hotel and went over there. One of the men was the prisoner, the other I didn't know; they stopped quarreling and went into the hotel and took a drink; afterwards they began talking in a language I did not understand and then commenced fighting again; they did not appear to hurt each other. When Mr. Brewster's back was turned Cotea struck Baskett and then they were put out of the saloon and told they could not quarrel there; Baskett seemed to be the aggressor and tried to make Cotea fight, and when the fight did commence he didn't seem able to defend himself. I and some others were standing at the corner of the hotel; Baskett came up and said he would make Cotea fight; he then walked down to where Cotea was standing at a door; prisoner started for the saloon and Baskett went alongside and give him a blow with his elbow in the breast. Cotea then threw off his coat and kicked Baskett in the abdomen. Baskett then fell on his knees and face to the ground and remained in that position; Cotea then went up and struck Baskett once on the head with his fist and then kicked him on the side of the head; I don't know that he kicked him more than once. The prisoner then walked away and with a few men went to the saloon and took a drink; I stood and looked at the deceased; he gave two or three long breaths and that was the last move I saw him make. To a juryman: Deceased was always trying to pick a quarrel with the prisoner.

Dr. DeWolf Smith sworn, said: I am a physician and surgeon; I made a post mortem examination on the body of Joseph Baskett yesterday morning; the body was lying in the shed opposite the court house; when stripped it was the body of an apparently well-nourished muscular man of about 45 years of age; tatoo marks were on both forearms and the inner side of left leg near the ankle; there were a couple of old scars on the left arm near the shoulder; there were several marks on the body which looked to have been received within a few days; near the top of the occipital bone was a lump the size of a large almond the top of which was cut, apparently by some dull instrument; just over the occipital protuberance there was a similar lump a little larger in size; the left ear was much swollen and discolored; behind and below the left ear was a large lump and over the surface of this lump was a mark about 1½ inches in length; immediately above was a smaller lump. I removed the scalp and beneath each of the aforementioned lumps found considerable blood congealed; in removing the skull cap and membranes of the brain the spaces between the condulations of the brain were, on the upper surface of the brain, filled with blood; on removing the brain a large quantity of blood was seen extending over almost the whole base of the brain and for some distance down the spinal canal; there was also clotted blood in the four ventricles of the brain; I then opened the cavities of the chest and abdomen; the organs contained therein presented no unusual features except that the stomach and lungs looked as if the man had been drinking for some time; the heart vessels were healthy, bladder healthy. In my opinion the cause of death was the blood effused on the brain, brought there by violence. The liquor drank by the deceased would not bring the blood to the brain as in this case. I think the blow given behind the ear was the cause of death. It was impossible to save the deceased's life even had medical assistance been on the spot. It would have been possible for the man to live half a day after receiving such a blow.

James Brewster, sworn, said: I am manager of the Merchants Hotel; Baskett and Cotea were in the hotel during the afternoon and drinking; they started to quarrel and I told them no quarreling was allowed in the house; I put Baskett out and told him not to come in again, as I was sure there would be a quarrel; he went round to the front door and came in again; they quarrelled three times and were put out; a few minutes later some one came in and said Baskett was dead on the street; I think if Basket had left Cotea alone there would have been no row.

Gordon Trodden, sworn, said: I remember last Saturday afternoon; I was down at the Merchants Exchange; I saw two men fighting; There is one of them in this room now, Cotea. I saw Cotea kick Baskett about five times; he kicked him first on the stomach, which caused him to fall down; when Baskett was down Cotea kicked him three times on the head; he did not touch him any more after that.

Myron Warder, sworn, said: Last Saturday afternoon I was at the Merchants Exchange; I saw two men fighting, Cotea and Baskett; I saw prisoner kick Baskett in the stomach and on the head about five times; Baskett then laid there; I saw the body of Baskett taken away.

This closed the evidence and the jury retired. After an absence of 10 minutes the jury returned and rendered the following verdict: "We find the deceased came to his death by injuries inflicted by the prisoner Cotea."

The case will come up for a hearing at the police court on Wednesday morning.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Who is Responsible?

EDITOR COLUMBIAN,—I am informed that yesterday several men, painters, were at work for some hours upon the public school building, but by whose orders my informant did not say. The work, it appears, was upon the old building, and so might just as well have been done during the holidays, and in any case could only have interfered with the school sessions for half a day. It would be interesting to some of your readers to know whether the trustees are responsible for this profanation of the Sabbath, or whether it is simply another example of the common and open disregard of the day for which this province is gaining an unenviable notoriety.—Yours, etc.,

J. H. WHITE.

New Westminster, Aug. 20, 1888.

[It is matter for regret that any occasion should have been given by anyone for the remarks made by our correspondent. The circumstances, however, were peculiar, and we are told that the Sabbath work complained of was done without the knowledge or consent of the trustees. A comparatively trifling job of kalsomining was let to a painter, and would easily have been finished on Saturday evening, but that some of the work, on account of a mistake in mixing the colors, had to be done over again. From what we can learn, the painter seems to have imagined that it came under the head of "works of necessity" to have the kalsomining completed before Monday, and hence the descoration. While too much care cannot be exercised in preserving the sanctity of the Sabbath, we are inclined to believe that the instance referred to by our esteemed correspondent, although it might and should have been avoided, was not a case of regardless and deliberate Sabbath desecration, such as calls for the severest censure on all concerned.—ED.]
