AMALGAMATE BIG MINES

MEETING IN MONTREAL

Indications Point to the Big Merger Being Consummated.

The amalgamation of the Le Roi, War Eagle and Center Star and the St. Eugene mines now seems to be assured. A special car with the promoters of the big deal on board is now speeding east, the destination being Montreal. In the party is G. S. Waterlow, director of the Le Roi; James Cronin, manager of the St. Eugene; War Eagle and Centre Star; A. J. McMillan, general manager of the Le Roi; and W. H. Aldridge, manager of the Trail smelter. T. G. Blackstock will join them at Toronto. In Montreal a special meeting will be held and in all probability a merger will be formed. The party stopped in Moyie for a day and went over the business of the St. Eugene company. Mr. Cronin expects to be away for three weeks. Mrs. Cronin accompanied him.

Looking at Aurora.

Thos. Rader was up from his hotel at Morrissey Mines this week to meet Mr. Michael Sullivan, a prominent mining man of Portland, Oregon. Mr. Sullivan made an examination of the Aurora mine on the west side of the lake and was favorably impressed with it, and it would be no surprise if he should make a deal for it. The Aurora will undoubtedly prove a mint for the company that takes hold of it and developes it, and will perhaps equal the St. Eugene, which is situated on the east side of the lake.

Change of Management.

J. H. Hawke, who has had the management of P. Burns & Co's meat business in Moyie for several years past, is to be transferred to some other point after June 1st. C. H. Little of Nelson is here and will succeed Mr. Hawke. Mr. Hawke does not yet know where he will be located, but will probably be given the management of one of the several new stops which are being opened by the firm.

Bishop Was Here.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Dontenwill of New Westminster accompanied by Father Coccolo and Father Choinel were here Wednesday and part of Thursday. The bishop confirmed several of the children, and delivered a very interesting lecture on his recent trip to Rome.

A Good Suggestion.

Mr. C. B. Wainwright of Lemon City, Fla., has written the manufacturers that much better results are obtained from the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in cases of pains in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus by taking it in water as hot as can be drank. That when take in this way the effect is double in rapidity. "It seems to get at the right spot instantly," he says. For sale by S. K. Harvie.

The Cable Broke.

The cable of the gravity tram between the Moyie and Queen of the Hills workings of the St. Eugene broke last Monday while it was in operation. The loaded car came down like a shot out of a gun, broke through the ore bin and landed on the dump below. Fortunately no one was hurt, and it was not long until the damage was repaired and the tram in working order again.

Payday.

Wednesday was payday at the St. Eugene mine. The amount distributed was nearly $29,000. It was a good payday so far as the town was concerned. Miners who ran store accounts during the month paid promptly, and not a man so far as is known "evaporated" leaving unpaid bills behind. The town was orderly which shows the excellent class of men working here.

The Gun Club.

The Moyie Gun club held its weekly shoot yesterday afternoon, and the following is a list of the contestants and the number of clay pigeons broken by each:

Case Dismissed.

The case of the Crown vs. the St. Eugene Consolidated Mining Co. for an infraction of the Eight Hour law came up for trial yesterday morning before Justice of the Peace Clark. Thos. Morgan, mining inspector, appeared for the prosecution and J. A. Harvey for the company. Mr. Morgan failed in the eye of the court to show that the law had been broken and the case was dismissed for want of evidence. As to whether or not the case will be allowed to drop is yet unknown.

Small Debts Court.

The new board of trade in Moyie has already accomplished some good. At the last meeting Secretary Hill was instructed to write to Mr. Armstrong, the government agent, asking that a small debts court be again established in Moyie. This week he received a favorable reply, stating the court would be established and that these cases would be heard on the last Tuesday of each month. The provincial constable will be the clerk of the court.

Guarantee to Mothers

There is only one medicine intended for use among infants and young children that gives mothers a guarantee that it is free from opiate and poisonous soothing stuffs. That medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. Milton L. Hersey, M. Sc., public analyst for the Province of Quebec, and demonstrator in chemistry for McGill Unievrsity says:—"I hereby certify that I have made a careful analysis of Baby's Own Tablets which I personally purchased in a drug store in Montreal, and said analysis has failed to detect the presence of any opiate or narcotic in them." These Tablets cure all the minor ailments of little ones, such as teething troubles, simple fevers, colds, constipation, diarrhoea, colic and worms. They make little ones sleep naturally because they remove the cause of sleeplessness. They are a boon to all mothers and no home where there are young children should be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. Sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

CANADIAN ARCHIVES.

The History of the Country Must Be Preserved—Let the Facts Speak.

"If in Canada we had less to say about our illimitable resources, and worked with steadfast purpose to have the most irreproachable politics in the world, our patriotism would not be slumbering the while," said Dr. C. W. Colby, Professor of History at McGill University, in the course of an address on "Patriotism and History" at a recent Toronto Canadian Club luncheon.

Dr. Colby remarked that it had been urged more than once that the rank and file of Canadians would be more loyal citizens if patriotism were more carefully taught as a lesson in the days of boyhood. They were also not infrequently reminded of the efforts which were being made throughout the United States to instill love of country at the same moment with the elements of spelling. The whole argument resolved itself into: First, that a somewhat militant spirit of patriotism was desirable, and, second, that the historical manual should be used as a means of setting forth in picturesque and convincing fashion the facts which helped to glorify the national past or the arguments which went to defend the national cause. Those who repeated with unction the sentiment, "Our country, right or wrong," would doubtless be content to have a colored, one-sided version of the national annals presented to children in Public Schools through the medium of the elementary manual.

"What is the attitude of the professional historian toward this state of mind, and toward this form of patriotism?" asked Dr. Colby. He said that during the past two generations an attempt had been made by leading students to render the investigation and the writing of history impartial, colorless and scientific. Truth was the ideal, not patriotism, nor even religion. Under modern conditions, therefore, it would be difficult to find a decent historian who would undertake to write a school manual with the fixed intent of justifying the national cause, or so to speak, of presenting part of the truth as though it were the whole truth, against which nothing could be urged.

"We all recognize, I imagine, the existence of patriotism under two forms, the lower form of beating the big drum or waving the bloody flag, and the higher form of doing something for one's country," said Dr. Colby, and neither was the connection of history with the higher patriotism less close than it was with the screaming of the eagle or the roaring of the lion. He referred to Switzerland's sound type of patriotism, and gave some of the characteristics of the people. So far as Canada was concerned, history, Dr. Colby thought, ought to have a large part in the national life. There was certainly a history worth honoring, and the great pity was that so far so little had been done to exploit it. Instead of talking grandiloquently about the past, the truer patriotism would seem to point toward a closer investigation of it. But, speaking frankly in the case of Canada, the materials upon which a good co-operative history could alone be founded did not exist.

A few weeks ago he had a conversation with Dr. Doughty, the Dominion Archivist, regarding a project for a co-operative history of Canada, to be brought out in connection with the Champlain celebration in Quebec in 1908. Whether such a work would be attempted was another question, but Dr. Colby thought most experts would agree with Dr. Doughty in thinking that anything at present done on these lines would be of a purely provisional character. It would be a tentative nature for the simple reason that the monograph stage had not, with Canada, as yet been passed through. It would, he said, be ridiculous to deny that the literature of Canadian history was wholly lacking in good monographs. Books like Rochemonteix's "Jesuits," Lovin's "Frontenac," Doughty's "Siege of Quebec," and Biggar's "Early Trading Companies," spoke eloquently to the contrary. Still, an enormous amount of pioneer work must be done before a bibliography of Canadian history could show any such results as were represented by a little book like Channing & Hart's "Guide to American History."

"We need to have at Ottawa a well-endowed and creditable Archives Department," urged Dr. Colby. In the past an important duty had been neglected by treating the archives in a purely incidental fashion. For many years the main affiliation had been agricultural. The time had come to render it cultural in a broad and national sense. Theoretically, at least, all desired that there should be sound and learned histories of Canada, but those could not be prepared until a large number of special topics had been investigated with minute care. Owing to the present limitation of the National Archives, the work of preparing good monographs was extremely difficult and costly. Therefore, it must be concluded that the only sound policy was to collect and arrange those original materials without recourse to which the historian would be wasting his time in writing at all on Canadian subjects.

Dr. Colby said that the question hinged less on the task of holding our own than on the more difficult one of making up lost time. He did not wish to be regarded as adopting the tone of a pessimist, or as disparaging the best contributions already made to Canadian history. He only desired to go to the bottom of the matter and insist on the need of laying a solid foundation. Special studies, based on a first-hand knowledge of the sources, were the solid pedestal upon which the work of art, the great national history, must stand. Materials for local history should be looked to with particular care, as they were so perishable, and already it was difficult, and often impossible, to make up files of local newspapers from the beginning, whilst domestic correspondence, even where most valuable, as among the members of leading families, tended to disappear after a generation or so. Indeed, the proper custody of historical materials was among the chief duties which each age owed to its successors.

Beat Bank at Monte Carlo.

An automatic gambler has beat the famous bank at Monte Carlo. If gambling must be, there is reason in backing a machine against human nature. It is all a matter of chance, and a cold-blooded automaton will play on and on, and never get rattled over gains and losses.

When You Lose Your Taste.

"When people lose their taste," said a physician, "they retain their old likes and dislikes just the same. Miss Smith, for instance, can't tell a slice of roast beef from a fried onion, but she disliked onions before her taste went, and therefore she won't eat them now. People lose their taste through severe illnesses, and with the loss of taste the loss of smell nearly always goes; hence queer, cruel practical jokes. I know a woman without smell to whom a pint of onion juice was sent in a cologne bottle. She deluged herself with this onion juice and appeared in a crowded heated ballroom.

"To a man without taste or smell all cheeses must be alike, yet old Brownlow won't touch limburger. He says it would make him ill, and probably it would. It is very odd to hear these deficient people praising and condemning food and drink. They do it, though. They do it as heartily as you or I. I have seen old Brownlow send away in disgust a glass of white wine, claiming it was corked, while at the same time he ate calmly an addled egg."

The Confusion of Wives.

Occasionally the excess of wives in Utah leads to amusing consequences, as when one of the apostles invited a visiting gentile to dinner. The guest lost the address and looked up the apostle in the directory. He observed that his hostess, though she answered to the proper name, seemed unprepared for him, and presently he heard her, at the telephone.

"Oh, Emma! Is John living at your house this week? Is he expecting somebody to dinner today? Very well. The gentleman will be there in a few minutes."

Then returning to the stranger she handed him a paper slip.

"You came to the wrong house, sir. This is the address you want."

On another occasion a little girl came running into the parlor while a visitor was calling.

"Mamma, mamma! Papa wants his suit case packed. He is going to live with Aunt Emma this week."

Meats and Digestion.

Of all known meats veal is the hardest to digest, requiring five hours and thirty minutes. The Italians are a happy people. They are healthy and hopeful. Their favorite meat is veal. Veal in the New York markets must weigh exactly 120 pounds to the carcass to be perfect. That is the standard of quality and price. All sorts of tricks are resorted to to hit the mark precisely. The question is, What is best for the human race, food that requires a long time to digest or a short time? Roast beef is digested in three hours. We Americans are great eaters of pork, which is nearly as hard to digest as veal, requiring five hours and fifteen minutes. We are a nation of dyspeptics, reveling in fresh bread, which takes three hours and fifteen minutes. China and Japan live on rice, which digests in one hour.

Courtesies of the Street.

A hansom cab driver had just picked up a fare and was driving furiously along a crowded street when the wheel of his cab just managed to graze a horse which a very thin youth was driving.

"Now, then, can't yer see me?" bawled out the latter angrily.

How to Help the Dead Lady.

The following note of excuse was received by a New York city teacher one day:

Dear Teacher—Please excuse Emma for having been absent yesterday, as I had to take her with me to help an old lady who died and had no one to do her work.

Needed Encouragement.

"I remember," said an old naval officer, "hearing of an incident on board of a ship which was commanded by a religious captain who would not allow the mate to use profane language or violence toward the crew and where the work and discipline were carried on more by moral suasion than by force, with the result that things went very slowly. The men did not jump to the braces or ropes, and the general work of the ship was slow.

"While at anchor one day in the harbor of Rio two of the sailors, leaning over the rail, were watching work going on on board of another ship anchored close to them, where the opposite system prevailed. The air on that ship was lurid with the language of the mate, and the men were treated with a violence that was far from necessary, but the work went on quickly. The sails were furled and the yards braced in a smart and seamanlike manner. As they listened to the sulphurous orders of the mate one of the sailors on the good ship remarked sententiously to the other:

"'Bill, d'ye see now what it is we want aboard here? We want a little encouragement!'"

Cupid and the Recruits.

"Cupid is one of the best recruiting officers that Uncle Sam has," confided one of the sergeants attached to the recruiting headquarters. "Back of nearly every enlistment there is a woman in the case. Lovers' quarrels chase a lot of fine lads into the service. Your romantic youth gravitates to the recruiting officer after a serious break with his sweetheart as naturally as a duck takes to water. It seems to him the most fitting way in which to sacrifice himself when love's young dream is apparently dispelled. Way down in his heart he nursed the idea of making his erstwhile inamorata sad, and it's the army or navy, with the possibility of death in battle, for him. Again, other first class material is recruited by the desire of young fellows to sport a uniform before their girls. In such cases Cupid does his recruiting through vanity. But in both ways he manages to fill up big gaps in the ranks of Uncle Sam's fighters."

Earning Their "Dot."

The manager of a large dressmaking establishment in New York says: "I suppose that the most un-American immigrants we get in this country are not the Chinese or the Poles or the Hungarians, but the Parisian seamstresses, milliners and lingerie workers. These women come here to save the price of a 'dot' out of our high American wages. It takes from two to five years to do that. In all that time they never mix with Americans, never visit a theater, never make the first attempt to learn the language. Some of them go to the French church on Sundays; otherwise they never leave their rooms except to shop. This prenuptial period in New York is just a time dropped out of their lives. They talk of nothing day after day but what they'll do when they get back to Paris and begin to live again."

Why Coughing Weakens You.

A patient German scientist of a statistical turn of mind calculates that the amount of energy expended by a person who coughs once every quarter of an hour for ten hours is equivalent to 250 units of heat, or the nourishment yielded by three eggs or two glasses of milk. Coughing is thus seen to be an expensive luxury. The reason for the waste in force entailed by it, or one reason at least, lies in the fact that, while in normal respiration the air is expelled from the chest at the rate of four feet a second, in violent coughing it may attain a velocity of 300 feet.

Strange Mountain Sickness.

If mountain sickness should come upon you your bitterest enemy will lead your horse for you. The symptoms are those of habitual drunkenness. All the limbs shiver, and in the bloodless face the eyes have that extraordinary look of insanity which is, I think, caused by an inability to focus them. The speech comes with difficulty, and in one case that I saw the mental coherence was as obviously at fault as the physical. — Landor's "Lhassa."

A Test of Love.

Among the Arabs of upper Egypt the youth who proposes for a girl must submit to a whipping at the hands of all her male relatives. "And," says a dry narrator, "if he wishes to be considered worth having he must receive the chastisement, which is sometimes exceedingly severe, with an expression of enjoyment." Not infrequently it is the maiden herself who imposes the test.

Spoiled His Appetite.

Baron Graham once asked an epicure how many oysters he should eat in order to create a good appetite for dinner and was told to eat away until he became hungry. The baron, who never saw a joke, ate ten dozen and then plaintively remarked, "'Pon my word, I don't think I am as hungry as when I began."

Candor.

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the mint sauce. "I should think you'd be ashamed to masquerade as 'spring lamb.'"

"Well," replied the roast, "it does make me feel rather sheepish."—Catholic Standard and Times.

An Idle Jest.

"Pa, what is an 'idle jest?'"

"One that the newspapers haven't yet got hold of and worked to death."

"No fool was ever so foolish but some one thought him clever."

GOLDEN TIPS.

Interesting Volume Descriptive of Ceylon and its Industries.

P. C. Larkin, of the Salada Tea Co. has sent the Toronto World a copy of interesting volume, descriptive of Ceylon and its greater industries. "Golden Tips," so the book is entitled, is the work of Henry W. Cave, M.A., F.R.G.S., a member of the Royal Asiatic society and himself a succesful Ceylon merchant, and is profusely and beautifully illustrated from photographs by the author. It is one of quite a number of volumes on Ceylon, and its natural features and resources, issued by Mr. Cave, who has done excellent service in bringing this gem of the southern seas before the notice of the English-speaking public.

Ceylon for a considerable time was only associated in the public mind with the melodious but somewhat misleading lines in Heber's well-known missionary hymn:

What tho the spicy breezes
Blow soft o'er Ceylon's isle,
Where every prospect pleases,
And only man is vile.

But we learn from Mr. Cave that the truth of the first three lines is not continued in the fourth. The native Singhalese are certainly not vile in their ordinary occupation of that brief but significant adjective. Indeed, Mr. Cave gives us a very different idea of the perfection of Ceylon life.

"They need no poor laws, nor have they any. Poverty is relieved by the natural benevolence of the people. The wealthy Singhalese are especially kind to the poor; and many of them have fixed days of the week upon which they distribute rice to all the aged and infirm of their district. The solidarity of the family is I believe, even stronger among them than Europeans; the weakest are the most cared for; the rich help their poorer relations, and never disown them; the poor assist the poorer amongst their own relatives and friends, so that there is no dread of old-age poverty. In these particulars of freedom from care and squalid misery I believe that the Singhalese are now the happiest of His Majesty's subjects in any part of the world."

A people of whom these things can be said may not be Christian or even civilized in the western meaning of civilization, but they are certainly not vile.

Space will not permit us to linger over the wonderful beauty of Ceylon scenery, and the equally marvelous fertility of its soil. It is a miniature continent, in which the traveler can pass through every variety of climate, over mountain, forest and plain and the loveliest and most exquisite landscapes. The tea estates, we learn, are upwards of a thousand in number, varying in size from 100 to 1000 acres each, and comprising a total of 370,000 acres, and are divided into about sixty districts. They are situated for the most part in the mountainous central province of the island, and vary in elevation above the sea level from 100 to 7000 feet. There are, however, some extensive estates in the lowlands.

As the native Singhalese were too well satisfied with their lot, it became necessary to import laborers from Southern India. The gangs are each in charge of a company or taskmaster, and above them is the conductor, who is the superintendent's right-hand man in the fields Mr. Cave gives a full and detailed account of the various operations carried on in connection with tea raising; the pruning, weeding, drain-clearing, and, above all, the import matter of plucking. The green leaves pass through a number of processes, being first withered, then rolled, then broken, then allowed to ferment and finally transferred to the dislicator, where it is fired. They are then cooled and sifted, emerging as the various grades known commercially as Broken Orange Pekoe, Orange Pekoe, Pekoe, Suchong and Dust all of which terms are of Chinese origin and refer to some characteristic of the sort of tea they represent. The creme de la creme of Ceylon is the Broken Orange Pekoe, which gives the name of "Golden Tips" to Mr. Cave's volume.

Mr. Cave, speaking of the quality of Ceylon tea, says:

Everything, it will be observed, is done to avoid handling the tea. Indeed, from the bush to the tea table such methods of pure cleanliness are observed as scarcely any other food manufacture can claim, and especially do these methods of Ceylon tea manufacture stand in contrast to those of China, where the primitive operations employed are such that the stomach would rebel against a detailed description. I am convinced that if the public generally did but realize this difference between Ceylon tea and that of some other countries the demand for the Ceylon article would increase quite beyond the capacity of the country to supply it.

These admirable methods, coupled with the natural fitness of the soil and climate, no doubt account for the unrivaled popularity of Ceylon tea, and it is a matter of pride that the fragrant leaf from which comes "the cup that cheers and not inebriate" should now be so largely produced in one of the most beautiful of the dependencies of the British Crown.

What is Paralysis?

A Question of Interest to Thousands who have not Leaened the Curative Power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Paralysis is loss of power of motion. Movement is the result of contraction of muscles.

Muscles canot contract of themselves but are entirely controlled by the nerves.

As a result paralysis is almost always due to lack of nerve force.

Increase the nerve force in the body by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Revitalize the wasted and depleted nerve cells. Restore vigor to the weakened nervous system and paralysis must disappear.

But it is not on theory that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is recommended as a cure and preventative for paralysis.

It has established a surprising record of cures, and the cured ones are willing and anxious that other sufferers should know about it.

But do not wait for helplessness to overtake you before beginning treatment.

If you suffer from weakness, sleeplessness, irritability, headache, twitching of the nerves and muscles, trembling of limbs, loss of memory and of power to concentrate the mind, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will prove of incalculable worth to you. Put it to the test.

Mrs. W. R. Sutherland, St. Andrews, Man., writes:—"In February, 1902, I was stricken with paralysis, fell helplessly on the floor and had to be carried to bed. The doctor pronounced it a bad case as I had no power in my tongue and left leg. I remained in that condition for six months without obtaining benefit from the doctor's prescriptions or other medicines.

"My husband advised me to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and by the use of this treatment all symptoms of the disease disappeared. I can now talk plainly, my leg is all right and I can do my housework. How grateful I am to be cured by so wonderful a remedy."

HEALTH IN SPRING

NATURE NEEDS ASSISTANCE IN MAKING NEW HEALTH-GIVING BLOOD.

Spring is the season when your system needs toning up. In the spring you must have new blood just as the trees must have new sap. Nature demands it. Without new blood you will feel weak and languid; you may have twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia, occasional headaches, a variable appetite, pimples or eruptions of the skin, or a pale, pasty complexion. These are certain signs that the blood is out of order. The only sure way to get new blood and fresh energy is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make new, rich blood—they are the greatest spring tonic in the world. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills clear the skin, drive out disease and make tired, depressed men and women bright, active and strong. Mr. Neil H. McDonald, Estmere, N. B., says: "It gives me great satisfaction to state that I have found Dr. Williams' Pink Pills all that is claimed for them. I was completely run down, my appetite was poor and I suffered much from severe headaches. Doctors' medicine did not give me the needed relief, so I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I used only a few boxes when my former health returned, and now I feel like a new man."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not only the best spring tonic, but are a cure for all troubles due to poor blood or shattered nerves. That is why they cure headaches and backaches, rheumatism, anaemia, kidney and liver troubles, and the special secret ailments of women and growing girls. But you must get the genuine, with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," printed on the wrapper around each box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"I think," said the prison visitor, "it would be helpful to you if you would take some good motto and try to live up to it." "Yes," said the convict. "Now, I'd like to select, for instance, 'We are here to-day and gone to-morrow.'"

The President of one of the largest of the many Scotch societies in this country has a bonnie young daughter, whose rendering of the beautiful songs of her father's native country is particularly pleasing. Her absolute command of the dialect is ever a matter of wonderment to her numerous admirers when they are made aware of the fact that she has lived all her life in this land. A few evenings ago, after a charming rendering of the quaint "Logic o' Buchan" at a friend's house, one of the most enthusiastic of her friends exclaimed: "Say, she sings Scotch so plain you can't understand a word she says."

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

"I wish I could find some one who would tell me the absolute truth about my government," said the Czar plaintively. "Your Majesty can find a number of such people," answered the sardonic official, "by going to Siberia."

"Ma," said Tommy Twaddles, looking up from his reading of "Terry the Terrible Tenspot," "what is a bootless attempt?" "It's the sort your father makes to get in without my hearing him when he comes home late from the club," answered Ma Twaddles incisively. Pa doesn't stop to remove 'em at the foot of the stairs now. He knows it's no use.

BEEF SECRETS FOUND IN TRUNK.

A Chicago special says:—Further and full investigation by the federal grand jury which is inquiring into the working methods of the alleged beef trust, it is asserted, is to result from the examination of the contents of eight trunks taken from the safety vaults in the First National Bank building. When the trunks were opened, it is said the entire secret transactions of the Aetna Trading company a corporation through which alleged secret business of the packers was transacted, were revealed to the jurors and as a consequence many new witnesses will be subpoenaed. The trunks and contents have been impounded on an order by Judge Sanborn so that no one legal process can obtain possession of them. Among the new witnesses subpoenaed are said to be G. B. Godfrey, alleged secretary and treasurer of the Aetna Trading company, and R. H. Cowan, another official of the company. The initials R. H. C. appear on each of the eight trunks taken from the depository vaults, and it is believed they belong to Cowan. Godfrey and Cowan, it is asserted, left Chicago the day the investigation by the jury began. They recently were in Toronto, Ont., where it is said all trace of them was lost.

W. H. GLENDENNING.

W. H. GLENDENNING,
Editor and Proprietor of the Swan River Star.

By contrast with the newer—much newer—Territories, Manitoba is an old established country. The general belief concerning the province is that during the last decade the work of pioneering has been performed, and that the work of development has consumed the activities of Manitobans. This, to a large extent, is true, but it is certainly not the whole truth. The opening up of large tracts of new country,—such as that, for instance between Prince Albert and Edmonton, or in the Lethbridge country, or along the Soo line, or the Prince Albert branch, or the country lying east and west of the Calgary and Edmonton—has not been going on in Manitoba for the past ten years, and for sufficiently obvious reasons. The older province had its railway systems practically completed long before that time, and where railways were available settlement naturally followed, so that a comparatively dense population was to be found in Manitoba long before similar conditions could be expected to obtain in the Territories, with their vastly greater area and less comprehensive transportation facilities.

For these reasons, the northwestern portion of the province of Manitoba was almost as uninhabitated fifteen years ago as in the days of Lord Selkirk. Settlers went into the route now occupied by the Northwestern branch of the C.P.R. in those early days when it was expected that it would be the line of the new transcontinental road, but north of that was a hilly, woodclad country, dotted with lakes, and with a rich soil that only needed cultivation to make it famous as even the Portage plains. But it remained, for the reasons, some of which are set forth above, uninhabitated while the whole of the remainder of the province was comparatively densely populated.

But with the building of the Dauphin branch all this was changed. A thriving agricultural community soon sprung up, flourishing little towns sprung into being, and the fame of the fertile Dauphin country went abroad through the land. With the town came the inevitable advocate and publicity agent, the newspaper, which heralded far and wide the many advantages of the district in which it was published. And the success of the Dauphin country was followed as a natural sequence by that of similar territory contiguous thereto. The natural result of Dauphin's success was the establishment of Swan River.

Swan River sprung into being with the advent of the railway. Hardly had the triumphant shriek of the pioneer locomotive ceased to re-echo among the Thunder Hill than hammer and saw were busy building the little town. And, as usual, one of the first—as a matter of fact the fourth—building erected was a newspaper office. The proverbial rapidity with which every new western town harnesses to its advancement all the powers of the press can hardly show a keener desire to seize all the advantages of publicity than Swan River.

The founder of the Swan River Star was Mr. H. E. Glendenning, who as the above paragraph shows, was one of the first arrivals in the town. For two years he was editor, proprietor and publisher, and the Star was instant in season and out of season to advocate the many advantages its editor seized every occasion to proclaim. Mr. Glendenning believed in the Swan River country with all the fervor of a pioneer. His activity on behalf of the district was Protean.

After two years of strenuous endeavor, Glendenning the Elder resigned, and Glendenning the Younger reigned in his room and stead. The Swan River pioneer had gone into real estate and many other enterprises, and these engrossed the whole of his time. His son, Mr. W. H. Glendenning, the present proprietor, is a practical printer, having served his time in Ontario on the Dundalk Herald. He assumed control of the Star in 1902. Shortly after taking over the managership he took another important step, marrying Miss E. Kennel, of Dromore, Ont.

The conditions under which the Swan River Star was started were such as to render immediate success improbable—perhaps impossible. The controlling factor of the success of every newspaper is population. Without a field no paper can succeed. As a means of publicity for the advantages of district, the exploitation of which was its main business, it was beyond doubt a conspicuous success. No country paper ever did beter immigration work for its district. But as a financial proposition the Star was no gold mine. But Mr. Glendenning, Sr., was made of what stun westerners call "good stuff." He "hung on" and waited for the day of prosperity for the ultimate coming of which none had done so much as he. And in due time came the reward of effort and faith. Settlers continued to come in. Business brightened in Swan River. More merchants located there. Advertising patronage increased, and the subscribers became more numerous.

The Star had turned the corner and passed into the list of western country newspaper properties that are paying investments. Even yet it is not a bonanza. But it is past the shoals, and striking out all the time for the open sea.

Of the present editor, under whose guidance the Star is each month showing steady improvement, there needs but little to be said. He has a good mechanical training, a "nose for news"—that prime essential in the makeup of any newspaper man, a belief in his town and district, a knowledge of its needs, and the confidence of its people. These, combined with industry, energy and enterprise, are the strong foundations upon which he is building up a successful business. Beyond this, it needs but to say that he is an unassuming, capable, public spirited citizen, with hosts of friends, and few, if any, enemies. He is doing in the northwest portion of Manitoba what other newspaper men are doing everywhere throughout the West—building up and developing his own locality, and thus strengthening the Canadian spirit and advancing the Canadian nationhood. To him, and such as he, the Dominion will forever owe a national debt, for they are the true moulders of Canadian destiny.

JOHN J. BURNS CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

He had Chronic Inflammation of the Kidneys—Says his Brother Foresters can Tell all about it.

Darnley, P.E.I., April 17.—(Special)—John J. Burns, a prominent member of the I. O. F. here, whose cure of Chronic Inflammation of the Loins and Kidneys caused a sensation some time ago, reports that he is still in splendid health. "Yes," says Mr. Burns, "my cure is entirely satisfactory. I have had no trouble since I used Dodd's Kidney Pills. They drove away the disease from which I suffered for eight years.

"No, I'll never forget Dodd's Kidney Pills. The doctor could not help me. I got so bad I could scarcely walk, sit or sleep. I was about to give up entirely when an advertisement led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Now I am in good health. Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life."

If any one doubts Mr. Burns' story he simply refers them to his brother Foresters. They all know how he suffered and that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him.

As a stranger in Philadelphia I was mnch amused by certain provincialisms. One of these was the use of the word "off" instead of "from." "Please buy flowers off me," say the youthful street vendors. One day, while waiting for some groceries, a young lady, evidently unused to housekeeping, approached the raw Irish clerk and timidly asked: "I want some mutton to make broth. Shall I get it off the neck?" "No, ma'am," was the solemn reply as the clerk pointed to the butcher busy at his block, "ye git it off that mon."

MANITOBA SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

Winnipeg, April 3rd, 1905.

To Pastors and Sunday School Workers:—

The Twenty-sixth Annual Convention of this Association will be held in Portage la Prairie on May 30th, 31st and June 1st, opening at 2 o'clock on the first day.

Appoint your delegates.—Every Sunday school within the constituency covered by our Association, including Rat Portage and Fort Frances on the East to Estevan and Arcola on the West; South to the International Boundary and North to Erwood on the C.N.R. should send delegates. In addition to the pastor and superintendent, who are ex-officio delegates, eevry school is entitled to two delegates for one hundred members, or fraction thereof, and one delegate for each additional one hundred or fraction thereof. The names of the delegates should be forwarded to the General Superintendent as early as possible.

Members of the Provincial Board.—We should have a full attendance of the members of the Board at this convention. The exceedingly rapid growth, the difficulties confronting us, the constantly changing conditions and the absolute necessity for correct information from all parts of the field renders it necessary that every member be present at meetings of the board.

Railway Fares.—The usual, liberal arrangements, granted by the railway companies, of a single fare for the round trip, have been secured, provided 100 delegates, who have paid railway fares, attend the convention. In order to secure this, however, each delegate must obtain from the agent who sells the ticket a certificate showing that full fare has been paid to Portage la Prairie.

Entertainment.—The Sunday School workers of Portage la Prairie have guaranteed that ample and suitable accommodation will be secured for all delegates, and if possible at reduced rates. No one need remain away for fear of not finding a comfortable place to stay.

Programme.—The most interesting and helpful programme ever offered to a Sunday School convention in this country is being prepared. It will contain several new features. An outline of it will appear in May issue of "Progress."

Rev. John Potts, D.D., of Toronto, writing under date of March 22nd, definitely promised to be with us and assist at our convention. He is well and favorably known all over the United States and Canada, not only as an effective preacher but also as a powerful exponent of the best in present day Sunday School work. As chairman for twelve years of the committee who has selected the lessons for the weekly study of twenty-six millions of people, and in other ways closely identified with the modern Sunday School movement, will make his addresses well worth the time and money necesary for every pastor and Sunday School worker to be present.

Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, of Peoria, Illinois, a member of the International Staff will be with us on that occasion,—she is one of the most popular speakers on the Sunday School Platform. Calls for her expert services come from almost eevry part of the continent. The teachers of Primary, Beginners' and Boys' Classes will be especially helped by her addresses.

The General Superintendent heard Mrs. Bryner deliver several addresses while on the Mediterranean cruise last year and can therefore speak at first hand of her ability.

"One Foot in the Grave."—If the thousands of people who rush to an worthy a remedy as South American Nervine as a last resort would get it as a first resort, how much misery and suffering would be spared. If you have any nerve disorder you needn't suffer a minute longer. A thousand testimonies to prove it.—86

"Why did you call Jones a 'bunch of junk?' Were you angry?" "Heaven bless you, no! I was complimenting him." "Rather a peculiar compliment, I should think." "Not at all when you know him. He has an iron constitution, muscles of steel, unlimited brass, a silver tongue, heart of gold and he has got the tin." "He wants to look out, or some fine lady will copper him."

Corns cause intolerable pain. Holloway's Corn Cure removes the trouble. Try it, and see what amount of pain is saved.

Mayor Weaver of Philadelphia tells a story of a friend whose stoutness and constant good humor are his chief distinctions. "We happened to be talking on the subject of gastronomy," said the Mayor, "and somehow my friend's tremendous girth prompted me to ask him if he followed any set rules to guide him in his eating. "'I have just one rule,' he replied, 'and it's a winner. When I sit down to eat I sit six inches or so from the table and when I touch I'm done.'"

There is a certain lawyer of this town who is very fond of elaborate and solemn jokes. He was in Philadelphia last summer, and one morning he went into a restaurant with his most dignified air to order breakfast. "I want two eggs," said he to the waiter. "I want one fried on one side, and the other fried on the other." The waiter bowed obsequiously and withdrew. A little later he returned. "Beg pardon, sir," said he, "but I am afraid I didn't quite catch your order. Would you mind repeating it?" "Not at all," said the Minnesota man solemnly. "I want two eggs, one of them fried on one side and the other on the other." "Thank you, sir," said the waiter. "I thought that was what you said, but I wasn't quite sure, sir." Five minutes later an apologetic waiter returned to the lawyer's elbow. "I beg pardon, sir," said he again, "but the cook and I have had some words. Would you mind having those eggs scrambled?"

Kindey Cry.—Pain in the back is the cry of the kidneys for help. To neglect the call is to deliver the body over to a disease cruel, ruthless, and finally life destroying. South American Kidney Cure has power akin to miraculous in helping the needy kidneys out of the mire of disease. It relieves in six hours.—36

"So Wiseman is married at last. He used to say if he ever got married he'd manage his wife all right." "Well, he's pretty shrewd; he's going about it in the right way." "Is he? How?" "Letting her have her own way."

To discern and deal immediately with causes and overcome them rather than to battle with effects after the disease has secured a lodgement, is the chief aim of the medical man, and Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is the result of patient study along this particular line. At the first appearance of a cold the Syrup will be found a most efficient remedy, arresting development and speedily healing the affected parts, so that the ailment disappears.

Yorrick Hamm—How'd your arctic tour turn out? Hamlet Fatt—Oh, we had tremendous runs in some towns. Why, in one place we played half a night. Yorick Hamm—Half a night! What kind of talk is that? Hamlet Fatt—Yes; half a night—three months. The nights are six months long up there you know.

Sciatica Put Him on Crutches.—Jas. Smith dairyman, of Gimsby, Ont., writes: My limbs were almost useless from sciatica and rheumatism, and, notwithstanding my seizure for physicians, I, must give the credit where it belongs. I am a cured man to day, and South American Rheumatic Cure must have all the credit. It's a marvel.—34

Not a Nauseating Pill.—The excipient of a pill is the substance which enfolds the ingredients and makes up the pill mass. That of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is so compounded as to preserve their moisture, and they can be carried into any latitude without impairing their strength. Many pills, in order to keep them from adhering, are rolled in powders, which prove nauseating to the taste. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so prepared that they are agreeable to the most delicate.

Myer—A scientific writer claims that a growing squash is capable of lifting a weight of nearly 5,000 pounds. Gyer—And at that, when it comes to a matter of strength, the strenuous squash isn't in it with the meek and lowly onion.

At the Telephone—Tibbles—How do you expect to hear what the party at the other end of the line says unless you hold your ear to the receiver? Baker—I don't want to hear. It's my wife I'm talking to, and it isn't often I get the chance to do all the talking and none of the listening.

It is an Elixir of Life.—Since forgotten time, men have been seeking for the Elixir of Life, which tradition says once existed. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is an Elixir, before which pain cannot live. It is made up of six essential oils, carefully blended so that their curative properties are concentrated in one. It has no equal in the treatment of lumbago, rheumatism, and all bodily pains.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

Two young lawyers from adjoining districts had been trying to make reputations as orators. When a certain one of them spoke for three hours against a certain bill the other young man took the floor for another lengthy ebullition in favor of the measure. In his peroration he said he was sorry to find his brother on the wrong side, for there was every reason why they should agree. "We were raised together, we studied together, we played together, we were born in the same year—yes, even on the same day." "Did I understand you to say that you were born on the same day?" interrogated a member from Philadelphia. "Yes," came the prompt reply. "On the very same day?" "Yes, sir." "Then it must have been a very windy day."

Strong Words by a New York Specialist.—"After years of testing and comparison I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Agnew's Cure for the heart is the quickest, safest and surest known to medical science. I use it in my own practice. It relieves the most acute forms of heart ailment inside of 30 minutes and never fails."—35

A North Carolina lawyer was trying a case before a jury, being counsel for the prisoner, a man charged with making "mountain dew." The Judge was very hard on him and the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. The lawyer moved for a new trial. The Judge denied the motion, and remarked: "The court and the jury think the prisoner a knave and a fool." After a moment's silence the lawyer answered: "The prisoner wishes me to say that he is perfectly satisfied he has been tried by a court and a jury of his peers."

How to Cleanse the System.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of scientific study of the effects of extracts of certain roots and herbs upon the digestive organs. Their use has demonstrated in many instances that they regulate the action of the liver and the kidneys, purify the blood, and carry off all morbid accumulations from the system. They are easy to take, and their action is mild and beneficial.

James Whitcomb Riley says that he was summoned as a witness in a case tried in an Indiana court, where one of the witnesses before him evinced some disinclination to state her age. "Is it very necessary?" coyly asked the witness, a spinster of uncertain age. "It is absolutely necessary, madam," interposed the judge. "Well," sighed the maiden, "if I must I suppose I must. I didn't see how it could possibly affect the case, for you see"—"Madam," observed the Judge, with some asperity, "I must ask you not to further waste the time of this court. Kindly state your age." Whereupon the spinster showed signs of hysterics. "I am, that is, I was"—— "Madam, hurry, hurry up!" exclaimed the judge, now thoroughly impatient. "Every minute makes it worse, you know."

Chicago society is buzzing over a "pink tea" and "glove shower" given at a prominent society women's home and attended only by women, with a women referee, and which consisted of a three round glove contest between Tommy Ryan, the champion middleweight, and Johnnie Morrison, a St. Joseph boxer. A ring was pitched on the canvas covered floor of the hostess' parlor and the men appeared in regular fighting costume. They gave a scientific exhibition, with here and there a wild mixup which caused the most intense excitement among the fair spectators. The referee had no trouble breaking clinches and there was no demurring at her decision. While cheeks paled occasionally when a stiff uppercut landed or a fierce swing connected, the surprised guests at its close voted the mill "just lovely."
