Its statements to the public can be readily understood, its cash statement showing every item of income and how expended.

Its position is ascertained annually from a detailed valuation in which every item of liability is included.

Its progress has been unexampled in the history of insurance in Canada.

Its policies are indisputable after three years, and non-forfeitable after two years' existence.

Its profits are distributed upon an equitable basis. The profits to one class of policy holders are not lessened to give larger profits to any other class, which method affords superior advantages over the uniform bonus plan of distribution.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

STATISTICS OF POISONING.—Great Britain is reported to have had 511 deaths from poison in 1886, of these 327 being accidental, 178 suicidal, and only 6 homicidal. Lead caused 95 cases of accidental poisoning: opium and its derivatives, 82; carbolic acid, 20; belladonna, 9; alcohol, 7; aconite, chlorodyne, and hydrochloric acid, 6 each; prussic acid, ammonia, and strychnine, 5 each. Carbolic acid was used by 42 suicides; opium, laudanum, or morphine, by 41; oxalic acid, by 28; prussic acid, by 25; vermin-killer, by 18; hydrochloric acid, 15; strychnine, by 14; sulphuric acid, by 6; arsenic, by 5.

ANOTHER GUESS.—In a paper to the Paris Academy of Sciences, M. Jean Luvini regards the aurora borealis as analogous to the discharge of electricity in thunderstorms, the only difference being in intensity. Both are attributed to the friction of particles, of water and ice, and occasionally of other minute bodies, drawn by the air currents into the higher atmospheric regions and disseminated over the terrestrial atmosphere some hundred miles thick. The northern lights are most frequent at the pole, where the air abounds most in icy particles and where the field of terrestrial magnetism is most intense.

FLOWER-FARMING.—An important branch of agriculture in southern France is the raising of flowers for perfume-making, the chief centre of the industry being at Grasse. Among the flowers grown are the violet and jonquil, which are gathered in winter or early spring; roses, orange-blossoms, thyme and rosemary, in May and June; jasmines and tuberoses, in July and August; lavender and spikenard, in September; and the acacia, in October and November. The flowers thrive best at altitudes of 500 to 2,000 feet, and in soil rich in lime and sheltered from cold winds. The flowers are collected daily in the season, and while yet fresh, are used for making essences, oils and pomades.

A NEW SLEEP-PRODUCER.—Sulphonal, chemically entitled to the name of "diaethylsulfondimethylmethan," is a new hypnotic introduced by Prof. Kast of Frieburg. Its action, unlike that of other drugs, appears to be simply the intensifying of the factors that lead to natural sleep, and from five to eight, and even ten, hours of refreshing slumber usually follow its use. It is said to have none of the disadvantages of the deadly narcotics, and to be more reliable than the bromides. It is claimed to be entirely free from harmful or unpleasant effects, and to retain its efficacy even when used for a long period. It has already proved valuable in the treatment of mental disorders.

BURNING THE DEAD.—Cremation was proposed in Italy in 1866, experimented upon in 1871, illustrated in 1873, and advocated by Sir Henry Thompson as a desirable substitute for burial in 1874. One cremation at Breslau and one at Dresden took place in 1874; and two at Milan in 1876. It was shown in 1879 that the human body can be entirely consumed, without smoke or effluvia, in about an hour. In the ten years ending with 1886 there were 461 cremations at Milan; and at Gotha 473 bodies were burned between January 1, 1879, and October 31, 1887. There are now cremation societies in Denmark, Belgium, Switzerland, Holland, Sweden, Norway, France, England, and various parts of the United States. Cremation is especially recommended where death has occurred from small pox, scarlet fever, or diphtheria.

ADVANTAGES OF ELECTRICITY.—This summary of the advantages of electric motors in ships and forts over steam, pneumatic and hydraulic engines, is given by Lieut. B. A. Fiske: 1. They are more simple. 2. They are more durable. 3. They are more quiet. 4. They are more clean. 5. They have no smell. 6. They require less attention. 7. They avoid the troublesome and very expensive operation of leading steam and water pipes through a ship. 8. The wires take up much less space than pipes. 9. A water or steam pipe presents a much larger target than a wire, and is therefore more liable to be struck in action. 10. If a pipe is struck in action, the deck is filled with scalding steam or flooded with water under high pressure, and the engines depending on it are put hors de combat, whereas a damaged wire can be repaired in a minute by bridging the gap with another wire. 11. The electric motor furnishes the best known means for handling guns, on account of the readiness with which it is controlled.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

THE PARNELL AFFAIR TO BE INVESTIGATED.

LONDON, July 12.—In the house of commons to-day Mr. Parnell asked the government to grant a select committee of the house of commons to investigate the charges made against him in the Times. Mr. W. H. Smith replied that the government maintained its opinion that a tribunal such as Mr. Parnell proposed would be incompetent to deal with the question he raised, but he said that the government were willing to pass an act appointing a commission wholly consisting of judges fully empowered to enquire into the allegations and charges made against certain members of parliament by the Times. Mr. Parnell then asked if Mr. Smith intended to place on the paper the terms of the motion he proposed. Mr. Smith replied if Mr. Parnell accepted his offer he would put on the paper a notice of motion asking leave of the house to bring in such a bill. Mr. Gladstone said it was desirable for Mr. Smith to do this in order that the house might see the exact terms of the motion. Mr. Smith said it would be done. Mr. Parnell accepts the government's proposal for the appointment of a commission to investigate the Times' charges against him. He will, however, subject the judges appointed to rigid conditions and restrict the scope of the enquiry.

STILL ATTACKING MACKENZIE.

BERLIN, July 15.—The excitement created through Germany by the reports of the doctors who attended the late Kaiser Frederick is intense and their criticism of Dr. Mackenzie's conduct of the case form the sole topic of conversation. The Kreuz Zeitung writer comments on the reports which overwhelm Dr. Mackenzie with invectives. To the question why the German doctors did not attempt to save the royal patient from Dr. Mackenzie, the National Zeitung responds that according to Prussian principles, their official position in the tragedy prevented them from making an appeal to the Kaiser William while the sick man was at San Remo and one of their number stated the case to him without reserve. His Majesty was deeply distressed by the recital of the circumstances and answered, "my son is 56 years of age and right of final decision regarding his medical treatment can't be taken from him."

TO-DAY'S DESPATCHES.

SEND YOUR CABLES.

NEW YORK, July 13.—A steamer will leave Hong Kong on Monday p. m. next for Port Darwin. Direct telegrams to catch this vessel should be despatched from London not later than 8 p. m. on Sunday evening. The passage from Hong Kong to Port Darwin, Australia, occupies about 9 days.

KING MILAN GETS HIS SON.

BERLIN, July 13.—A dispatch from Wiesbaden states that the Servian crown prince Alexander was taken to Belgrade at noon to-day and that Queen Natalie will be expelled from Germany. A later dispatch says an officer and 20 policemen entered Queen Natalie's Villa at 10 this morning, and soon reappeared with the crown prince and a lady of honor. Both were bundled into a close carriage and handed over to King Milan's plenipotentiaries at the railway station. The party at once boarded the train and started for Belgrade. It is believed the queen offered no resistance to the police. The prince was loudly cheered by the large crowd assembled to witness his departure.

THE BURLINGTON CONSPIRACY.

CHICAGO, July 13.—At 10.30 this morning none of the prisoners in the alleged conspiracy case instituted by the C. B. & Q. R. R. officials had appeared to answer to the charges before commissioner Hayne, although J. Q. Wilson, Thos. Broderick, John A. Bowles, J. H. Bawriesen and George Gorling had been waiting in the cage in the U. S. marshal's office for more than an hour. It was hinted that Alex. Smith, from whom important disclosures were expected, was in a private sweat box at the Burlington headquarters undergoing a vigorous pumping.

FIRE IN DIAMOND MINES.

LONDON, 13.—A later cable from the Cape of Good Hope stated that the fire in Deber's diamond mine at Kimberly has been extinguished and an exploring party descended the mine and reports 6 whites and 200 natives burned to death.

ADJOURNED INQUEST.

DUBLIN, July 13.—The inquest now holding at Mitchellstown on the death of Mr. Mandeville, which is alleged to have been caused by ill treatment in Tullamore jail, has been adjourned until next Tuesday.

IMMIGRANTS.

WINNIPEG, July 13.—3000 Icelanders arrived in the city last evening.

FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 13.—One hundred and seven through passengers arrived on the eastern train this morning en route to British Columbia.

BOULANGER AND FLOUQUET FIGHT.

PARIS, July 13.—Premier Flouquet and General Boulanger fought a duel this a. m. Both were slightly wounded. The duel took place at ten o'clock and the weapons used were swords. The duelling ground was on Count Dillon's estate at Neuilly a short distance from Paris. General Boulanger was wounded in the arm and neck, Flouquet escaped with a slight scratch on the hand. The members of the ministry awaited the result of the duel at the residence of Premier Flouquet and when that gentleman returned he received a perfect ovation. Only a small crowd was awating the return of Boulanger.

THE GREAT FRENCH DUEL.

PARIS, July 13.—Later particulars of the Boulanger-Flouquet duel says General Boulanger lost considerable blood, from a sword thrust through the neck, but it is not yet known how seriously he is hurt. The general was accompanied by M. M. Le'Herrisse and Laraant. M. Flouquet was seconded by Messieurs Clemenceau and Perrin. The duel lasted only four minutes. Boulanger seemed excited and exhibited considerable nervousness. He made several passes at M. Flouquet who was pale and equally as excited. M. Flouquet handled his sword in a very awkward manner. After some half dozen passes Boulanger made a desperate dash at Flouquet who thrust his sword out and held it at arms length. Almost at the same moment General Boulonger received the point of his antagonist's weapon in the neck. The general staggered placed his hands to his wound and fell unconscious in the arms of M. M. LeHerrisse. Larsant, a doctor who was present, at once bandaged the throat of the wounded man, but the flow of blood was only partly checked. The general was carried from the field and nothing definite could be learned of the injuries. The affair was kept a profound secret from everyone except the principals and seconds. The news of the duel caused a profound sensation in Paris. Eye-witnesses of the affair say that General Boulanger fought desperately and displayed much feeling. He tried very hard to kill his antagonist. He threw himself again and again on Floquet, making desperate lunges with his sword at every onslaught. Both duelists refused to stop at the request of their seconds, when Mr. Floquets hand was cut. General Boulanger's wound in the neck is thought to be serious. M. Floquet received slight wounds on the chest, hand and foot.

Late Canadian News.

QUEBEC, July 5.—Under the new order of things between the ship laborers and merchants, the stevedores will apparently be wiped out. All vessels are to be loaded by the day under the superintendence of foremen.

TORONTO, July 8.—The authorities are booming things here in the interest of temperance and a number of liquor cases occupied the attention of the police magistrate this morning. Thos. Kyllie, a bartender in the Albion hotel, was fined $20 and costs for selling liquor after hours. John Hanlan, one of the victims of the Island raid last Saturday, was also fined $20 for selling liquor on the Island, and Wm. Ward, charged with a similar offence, was remanded till the 10th inst.

TORONTO, July 7.—A well-to-do bricklayer named Dixon about 44 years of age, has it is believed, eloped with Mrs. Sheppard, North Toronto. She leaves behind three children and husband.

BELLEVILLE, July 8.—Matthew Leonard, a farmer of Tyendinaga, was found yesterday lying fatally burned in a fallow which was being burned. It is supposed he was overcome by the heat or fell in a fit.

TORONTO, July 8.—The remains of W. Flack, drowned while attempting to navigate the rapids of the Niagara river, was interred here yesterday, the Knights of Pythias having charge of the funeral.

HALIFAX, July 7.—An effort is being made to induce Governor-General Stanley to visit Halifax in August during the progress of the World's Fair in aid of the Victoria School of Design.

Daily British Columbian

Friday Evening, July 13, 1888.

The elections in Manitoba have resulted in such a victory for the Liberals which even the most sanguine among their leaders could hardly have expected. Out of a house of 36 members it is not expected the opposition will have more than six. While the Liberals throughout Canada will no doubt be glad to claim this result as a marked endorsation of Liberal principles and policy, from what we can learn, the campaign, though inevitably drifting into a Grit and Tory contest, was really fought out on local issues apart from politics and parties altogether. The question which has been agitating Manitoba lately more than any other, perhaps, is the railway question, more particularly in the matter of branch lines to the American boundary. Our readers are all familiar with the emphatic protests and desperate and manly struggles of the prairie province against the obnoxious and oppressive disallowance measures of the Dominion government. Norquay, the leader of the present badly demoralized opposition, was premier and leader of the government during Manitoba's most trying times in her determined stand for her rights and interests against the equally determined disallowance policy of Sir John Macdonald's government. Premier Norquay and his government represented the Conservative side of politics, and while ostensibly maintaining Manitoba's righteous quarrel, were suspected of preferring party to country and playing into the hands of the Conservative party at Ottawa. Norquay was accused of being a consummate traitor to the interests of his adopted province, and speedily found the cold shades of opposition as a reward for his duplicity, and Greenway, the leader of the Liberal faction, became premier, leader of the government, and the people's champion. The general elections in Manitoba coming on soon after this political revolution, the electors have again, and most emphatically, recorded their verdict against the party and the men who they consider played them false when the interests of the country were at stake. The Greenway government have instituted various reforms, among which is a creditable franchise act, and have gained the confidence of the people in every particular. Their sweeping victory is due, not to party influence, but to the united action of the electors, irrespective of party, and in the best interests of the province.

The Victoria Colonist and the Vancouver News refer editorially to the Westminster-Southern Railway. The Colonist congratulates the royal city upon the brilliant future before it, and very truly remarks, in conclusion, "The success of one portion of the province means the success of all." The News says: "The people of Westminster have now the whole proposal before them, and we think there is no doubt but that the opinion is almost universal that it should be accepted, and we believe that the by-law, authorizing the council to bond the city for the amount of the proposed bonus and to take the other steps necessary to carry out the propositions, will be carried by a large majority. As to the ability of the parties who are proposing to find the money to build the road, we of course know nothing. As, however, the gentlemen who are the trustees of the Westminster-Southern Railway have shown great prudence and good judgment throughout the negotiations, it may, we think, be safely assumed that they have satisfied themselves on this point. In view also of the care which has been manifested by them in the matter and the patience they have manifested as regards the demands of some of their fellow citizens and the local press that the details and progress of the negotiations should be made known to them before the time had arrived when it was judicious to do so, we are inclined to believe that the final agreement will be so prepared, and the rights and interests of the city so well protected, that the results achieved will be very different from those obtained in other places, which, after giving the bonus agreed upon, have found great difficulty in making the company carry out its part of the agreement." Some of our citizens think they have been perfect paragons of long-suffering patience in containing themselves so long without definite information of the progress of the negotiations which have just been made public. The News, as above, credits the patience to the other side of the account, and commends the much harrassed and care-worn trustees of the Westminster-Southern Railway for their praiseworthy exercise of that quality which sometimes "ceases to be a virtue." The News concludes its article on the subject by paying a high tribute to the energy and indefatigableness of the Westminster Board of Trade. "This is not the first time," says our cotemporary, "that the Westminster Board of Trade has been able to promote the prosperity of that place." The News contrasts the public spiritedness of the Vancouver Board of Trade unfavorably with that of ours, and concludes that, Vancouver having received so much adventitious aid, her citizens are not so energetic and self-reliant as those of New Westminster.

On another page will be found a somewhat extended and interesting account of the important and significant event of laying the corner stone of the new Presbyterian church in this city, which took place last night. The church when completed will be a creditable structure, seating over six hundred, and costing, when completed, between twelve and thirteen thousand dollars. Improvements and additions are being made to the Methodist church at present, which will about double its capacity and greatly increase its convenience and improve its general appearance. About five thousand dollars will be expended on this work. It is not two years since a new Catholic church was erected in this city, costing in the neighborhood of ten thousand dollars, and presenting an imposing and creditable appearance. Shortly after the completion of this church the Baptist denomination finished a very neat and commodious brick edifice, at a cost of nearly eight thousand. The Reformed Episcopal church was considerably improved and extended about the same time, and the church of England in this city have a massive stone tower under construction to accommodate a complete chime of bells, which will cost, when completed, in a short time as much as a very respectable church. In addition to all our church accommodations, present and prospective, the city has a thriving Y. M. C. Association, which has already taken preliminary steps in the matter of erecting a commodious association building. All the temperance societies known to civilization have also established themselves here, and are steadily educating public sentiment on the important question of temperance—or, more strictly, of total abstinence. Among the religions and moral influences of the town must be mentioned the Salvation Army. This unique organization of Christian workers has been in our midst about four months now. They have been indefatigable in their labors, have gained a good number of recruits, and it is generally remarked that they are accorded better treatment and shown more respect here than in most other cities, especially those in the east. They are credited with sincerity by all classes, their meetings are well attended, and they are evidently a power for good. The foregoing summary will support the statement of one of the speakers last night on the occasion we have alluped to—laying the corner stone of the new church. The Hon. John Robson, in a short address, remarked that New Westminster, in proportion to its population, might well be called a "city of churches," and to the speaker's mind that consideration, coupled with the well-known excellent educational advantages of the city, furnished the best possible evidences of its real prosperity and advancement, and constituted one of the best guarantees for its future progress. No one would attempt to dispute such a proposition, although we have heard it jocularly remarked by certain parties that our city was "too moral." We are glad to be able to say that, in the matter of churches and schools, and other institutions common to civilization, any one desiring to make a home in this city, and finding other conditions satisfactory, need feel no uneasiness in these respects. The church building and improvements mentioned above, the erection of two new school houses in the city and suburbs this season, and the numerous residences and other buildings going up on all sides, are evidences of our material advancement as a city that cannot be overlooked, and we may expect still greater progress in the near future from recent railway developments and from the auspicious re-opening of the Fraser River to navigation by large sea-going vessels.

Mr. T. C. Wells, Chemist and Druggist, Port Colborne, Ont., writes: "Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure sells well, and gives the best of satisfaction for all diseases of the blood." It never fails to root out all diseases from the system, cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, etc., purifies the blood, and will make you look the picture of health and happiness.

Scrofula

Is one of the most fatal scourges which afflict mankind. It is often inherited, but may be the result of improper vaccination, mercurial poison, uncleanliness, and various other causes. Chronic Sores, Ulcers, Abscesses, Cancerous Humors, and, in some cases, Emaciation and Consumption, result from a scrofulous condition of the blood. This disease can be cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

I inherited a scrofulous condition of the blood, which caused a derangement of my whole system. After taking less than four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla I am and, for the past year, have not found it necessary to use any medicine whatever. I am now in better health, and stronger, than ever before.—O. A. Willard, 21c Tremont st., Boston, Mass.

I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores for five years; but, after using a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the sores healed, and I have now good health.—Elizabeth Warnock, 54 Appleton street, Lowell, Mass.

Some months ago I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores on my leg. The limb was badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy failed until I used Ayer's Sarsaparilla. By taking three bottles of this medicine the sores have been healed, and my health is restored. I am grateful for the good it has done me.—Mrs. Ann O'Brian, 158 Sullivan st., New York. ††

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

AFTER THE BATTLE.

'Twas after the din of the battle
Had ceased in the silence and gloom,
When hushed was the musketry's rattle,
And quiet the cannon's deep boom.
The smoke of the conflict had lifted
And drifted away from the sun,
While the soft crimson light, slowly fading from sight,
Flashed back from each motionless gun.

The tremulous notes of the bugle
Rang out on the clear autumn air,
And the echoes caught back from the mountains
Faint whispers like breathings of prayer.
The arrows of sunlight that slanted
Through the trees touched a brow white as snow,
On the bloody sod lying 'mid the dead and the dying,
And it flushed in the last parting glow.

The dark, crimson tide slowly ebbing,
Stained red the light jacket of gray;
Bu another in blue sadly knelt by his side
And watched the life passing away.
Said the jacket in gray: "I've a brother—
Joe Turner, he lives up in Maine;
Give him these, and say my last message
Was forgiveness." Here a low moan of pain
Checked his voice. Then, "You'll do me this favor,
For you shot me:" and his whispers sank low.
Said the jacket in blue, "Brother Charley,
There's no need, I'm your brother, I'm Joe."

TO AMUSE A GUEST.

The Various Pastimes Proper to a Country Residence—Etiquette of Carriage Riding.

Now, how to amuse a guest in the country is one of the questions which a young hostess will surely ask.

Lawn tennis seems to be the solvent, so far as the young are concerned. Every country place should have a lawn tennis court. Archery has not yet become acclimated in America, but there are clubs in certain circles which promise a future for this game.

Yachting is a favorite summer entertainment, and adds much to the ease of country neighborhoods near the sea.

The opulent young people, near New York, who keep horses and dogs, whocan offer everybody a "mount," and take them to the hunt, have great facilities for entertaining guests. But no incompetent rider should ever get on a friend's horse. An English writer has said a man will forgive you for breaking his own neck, but not for breaking the neck of his favorite hunter. But driving in a carriage over a good road is by far the favorite amusement for ladies.

A correspondent writes to ask the etiquette of carriage riding. A gentleman always takes his seat with his back to the horses, opposite the lady, unless he is requested to sit by the lady. When he enters the carriage he should put his left foot on the step and enter the carriage with his right foot. This is, however, supposing he sits facing the horses; if he sits with his back to the horses he reverses this process. When the carriage stops he must be the first to alight, and then assist the ladies. He must, if he sit beside the lady who owns the carriage, sit on the left hand.

Ladies who own country houses and who entertain should learn to drive well. Indeed, in these days, when ladies drive ponies in little carts, we need not advise them to drive well.

Many correspondents ask what is the best equipage for a young man? A tilbury and one horse is very showy, a dog cart the most convenient, a high chariot very stately, but the two-seated post wagon the most convenient for a country neighborhood. There should always be a servant behind.

A guest who is asked to stay over Sunday at a country house should always hold himself at the disposal of the hostess. If she proposes a plan of action he should fall in with it, and yet he should not be a heavyweight. He must be ready to walk, read, write letters, take himself off if he sees he is not wanted, and the best hostess is she who sees to it that, while her guest is taken care of, he has no auspicion that he is being "entertained." The charm of a country neighborhood should be in its ease, and while a good-natured host and hostess place their grounds, their horses and carriages, and their servants at the disposition of their guests, the greatest care should be observed by the guest not to presume on this; to observe the family hours.

Some people are "born visitors"—they have the tact to perceive when they are wanted and when not; they allow the hostess to get off to write her letters, they are gay and amusing. Such a visitor is in great demand.—M. E. W. Sharwood, in New York Sun.

STEEL NEEDLES.

The Sewing Implements That Preceded Them.

It is impossible to say who were the inventors of needles; for at a very early period rude attempts were made among various uncivilized nations to form such an article out of bone, ivory or like materials, in order to stitch together their clothes. Doubtless our first mother employed such an instrument, along with the fibre of plants, etc., as thread.

But fine needles of metal were in common use among the more refined nations of antiquity, as the Hindoos, Chinese, Egyptians, Assyrians, Hebrews, Greeks and Romans. Pliny mentions the ladies of his day as having needles of bronze for sewing and knitting; and numbers have been found in Egyptian tombs that must have been made some 4,000 years ago.

The steel needle was first manufactured in Spain, where the process of making it was long kept a secret, whence it was first imported into England in the time of Queen Elizabeth.

In 1650, Christopher Greening, at Long Creeden, in Buckinghamshire, erected needle works, and thus began the manufacture of an article for which England is famed throughout the world.

John Was All Right.

"Yes, Mrs. Daily; his business keeps him late, you know."

"Are you sure it's business? These men ain't to be trusted too far, Mrs. Cally. I speak from experience."

"Well, I guess my John is all right."

"What makes you so confident?"

"Well, he shaves only once a week, and then he grumbles about having it to do. He doesn't give the least bit of attention to his personal appearance; indeed, I have hard work in keeping him tidy. Then he won't put a drop of cologne on his handkerchief, and——"

"That's enough, Mrs. Cally. There's no female in his case, that's sure. He's all right."—Boston Courier.

Whose Baby It Was.

Mr. Derringer (who has a weakness for pretty nurse girls)—"What a pretty baby (snapping his fingers at the baby and boldly eyeing the girl), and such an elegant carriage. Whose baby is it?"

Pretty Nurse—"It is yours, sir. Mrs. Derringer engaged me this morning."—Detroit Free Press.

WOULD YOU LIKE A NEW NOSE?

A Boston Surgeon Who Makes Nasal Organs of Any Shape to Order.

There can be no greater deformity than the loss of one's nose. Any kind of an organ, whether pug, turned up or flat, is preferable to an entire absence of one.

In olden times, men and women who were so unfortunate as to lose this member, unless wealthy, had to get on as best they might, but the individuals of great substance could provide themselves with artificial ones of ivory, gold or silver, usually enameled and of flesh color. These substitutes were, of course, awkward and uncomfortable, but the victims endured them because they concealed, or were thought to conceal, their loss.

In later days surgery came to the aid of the noseless, and what is called plastic surgery, or Talicotean operations are performed. These consist in taking adjacent pieces of skin, and twisting and turning them to unite with the freshly cut edges of the remnant of the original nose. Plugs of cotton and quills through which to breathe form the nostrils, and the result is a new nose, but of a putty-like appearance, as it has no bridge. Such a nose, as everybody knows, is better than no nose at all, but the new ones of surgery were by no means beautiful.

But a wonderful revolution in the restoring of that most useful and ornamental organ has within a month or two taken place in this city, which, so far as is known, is the first of the kind in the United States. Dr. H. D. Burrell, surgeon of the City and Carney hospitals, it is who has made the discovery in the way of furnishing a bridge for the nose.

At the time spoken of above, an otherwise fine looking woman from one of the thriving towns of the state, with a not at all pleasant apology for a nose, applied to Dr. Burrell for relief. Her deformity was such that she was compelled to live a most secluded life, rarely going out, save at night for needed exercise.

It occurred to Dr. Burrell that an improvement might be made on previous operations, and that, by adding a properly shaped piece of bone from a living animal, a natural looking nose could be made. An appointment was given the woman at Carney Hospital, and an operation was performed by cutting out the side of the mutilated member and turning it completely over.

A young chicken was then killed, and a piece of the breast bone of proper shape united to the root of the nose on the skull by silver wires. Then the flesh of the old nose was properly stretched over the bone and secured by ligatures. Tamkins of cotton were put in to give the nostrils the proper shape.

The new bone became properly united with its attachment, the wound healed, and the operation, thus far, is a perfect success. The patient has now a fine Roman nose, and the only scar is a nearly imperceptible line at one side of the newly made organ.—Boston Herald.

BITTEN BY A RATTLESNAKE.

The Luxury of Being Dosed with the Most Approved Antidote to the Poison.

A correspondent writing from Hawley, Penn., reports a backwoods resident as saying:

"They tell a story about a tough old bushwacker who lived down back of Schatt's Pond. Life had little charm for him when whiskey was scarce.

"Once he had been for several days in hard luck. He had been unable to buy a drink of his favorite tipple, and none of his neighbors was inclined to satisfy his longing for a nip.

"One day he was picking huckleberries, which he intended to exchange for whiskey, when he was bitten on the hand by a rattlesnake. He was a mile or so from a neighbor's who he knew had a fair sized jug which was generally well stocked.

"The old soak dropped his berry pail and flew across the barren to the house. He dashed through the door, and clapping his hands shouted:

"'Glory hallelujah, Abe! I'm bit by a rattlesnake! Open the jug and fill me!'

"Abe was scared, and in less than five minutes the snake-bitten bushwacker had a quart of whiskey under his belt. The snake bite never bothered him, but in the course of a couple of weeks he was way down on his luck again.

"Then he thought he would catch a mess of pickerel, and see what he could do with them as exchange for something he longed for more than he longed for fish. While he was on his way to the pond a man who lived near by saw him stealing cautiously along an old road. The man went out and got close to the old toper without the latter having discovered him.

"What was the man's alarm to see a big rattlesnake coiled in the road, ready to spring, and the bushwacker almost within reach of it. The man sprang upon the snake with his heavy boots and smashed its head. The old toper jumped back and whined:

"'Now, w'at'd ya go an' do that for?'

"'Why,' replied the man who had killed the snake, 'that rattler would have had his fangs in you in ten seconds more!'

"'I know it,' whined the old bushwacker, 'But don't ye know I'm pinin' fer whiskey?'"

The Homely Waiter Girl.

"Come, Ned, let's take this table over here."

"No, no, old man, some down in this corner there, furthest from the door."

"But look here, Ned, just see the table-girl over here. Isn't she a daisy? She's the prettiest one in the place. I don't want to go down there to be waited on by that old chrome."

"There, there, my boy; you just stop your nonsense and come along with me. I've been grubbing at restaurants too long to be fooled by any such talk as that. If you want to flirt you can get a prettier girl outside. If you want to eat you come here and pick out the homely waiter. The waiter-girl who is pretty doesn't have time to do anything else. It's the homely girl who brings your order straight and gets you your dinner hot every single time."

Her Long Wait.

An obliging lady customer in a certain store in one of the two cities Friday insisted that she always traded with the proprietor and not with mere clerks.

"But the proprietor is not in," said the clerks.

"Oh, well," was the reply, "I'll sit right down and wait for him."

She waited, and as the half hours sped she grew impatient.

"When will he be back?" she said, loftily.

"In about four weeks, madam," was the reply. "He is now on a business trip to Montana."

She traded with the clerks.—Lewiston Journal.

Your Children

Are constantly exposed to danger from Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, and diseases peculiar to the throat and lungs. For such ailments, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, promptly administered, affords speedy relief and cure.

As a remedy for Whooping Cough, with which many of our children were afflicted, we used, during the past winter, with much satisfaction, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For this affection, we consider this preparation the most efficacious of all the medicines which have come to our knowledge.—Mary Parkhurst, Preceptress, Home for Little Wanderers, Doncaster, Md.

My children have been peculiarly subject to attacks of Croup, and I failed to find any effective remedy until I commenced administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This preparation relieves the difficulty of breathing and invariably cures the complaint.—David G. Starks, Chatham, Columbia Co., N. Y.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for many years, and have found it especially valuable in Whooping Cough. This medicine allays all irritation, prevents inflammation from extending to the lungs, and quickly subdues any tendency to Lung Complaint. —J. B. Wellington, Plainville, Mich.

I find no medicine so effective, for Croup and Whooping Cough, as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It saved the life of my little boy, only six months old, carrying him safely through the worst case of Whooping Cough I ever saw.—Jane Malone, Piney Flats, Tenn. ††

Friday Evening, July 13, 1888.

There will be target practice on the Brownsville range to-morrow afternoon.

The str. Gladys returned from Chilliwhack this afternoon with freight and passengers.

The loading of the Camana is completed all but a portion of the deck load. The vessel is being got ready for sea and will sail about the beginning of next week.

To most children, the bare suggestion of a dose of castor oil is nauseating. When physic is necessary for the little ones, use Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take. Try them.

The str. Irving cleared for Chilliwhack this morning with 30 tons of freight and 20 passengers. She also took to Chilliwhack a fine imported stallion which arrived from the east during the night.

The juveniles of Holy Trinity church gave a raspberry festival yesterday afternoon at the Rectory school which was largely attended by the members of the church. Financially, the affair was very successful.

Jacob Loockman, Buffalo, N. Y., says he has been using Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for rheumatism; he had such a lame back he could not do anything, but one bottle has, to use his own expression, "cured him up." He thinks it is the best thing in the market.

One hundred and seven immigrants passed through Winnipeg to-day bound for British Columbia. They will be welcome when they arrive, whether farm laborers or capitalists. There is lots of room and opportunity for both in this province.

Fortify the system, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, against the diseases peculiar to hot weather. This medicine induces a healthy action of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, causing them to prevent the accumulation of the poisons which produce disease.

Owing to C Battery being ordered north to suppress the Indian troubles, the cricket match, C Battery vs. Westminster, announced to come off tomorrow, has been indefinitely postponed. The shooting match with the battery men is also postponed for the same reason.

The salmon run at the mouth of the river is improving daily, although the catches up to date have not been very large. The boats average about 50 fish each per day. The night before last one of the boats belonging to English's cannery brought in 84 fish—the largest catch recorded up to date this season.

Henry Clement, Almonte, writes: "For a long time I was troubled with chronic rheumatism, at times wholly disabled; I tried anything and everything recommended, but failed to get any benefit, until a gentleman who was cured of rheumatism by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, told me about it. I began using it both internally and externally, and before two bottles were used I was radically cured. We find it a household medicine, and for croup, burns, cuts, and bruises, it has no equal."

H. M. S. Caroline and "C" battery were to leave Victoria at daybreak this morning for the Skeena River. The government have acted very promptly in this matter and are to be commended for so doing. A force despatched within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the news of the trouble is quick work, when it is considered that many arrangements in the commissary and other departments are necessary to be got into shape before moving.

PARMELEE'S PILLS possess the power of acting specifically upon the diseased organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease. In fact, so great is the power of this medicine to cleanse and purify, that diseases of almost every name and nature are driven from the body. Mr. D. Carswell, Carswell P.O., Ont., writes: "I have tried Parmelee's Pills and find them an excellent medicine, and one that will sell well."

First of the Season.

The first shipment of canned salmon of this year's pack, from the Fraser River, has been made by Mr. Alex. Ewen the well known salmon packer. The shipment consisted of 500 cases consigned to Melbourne, Australia. Mr. Ewen has now some 1500 cases packed and ready for shipment whenever a satisfactory price is offered. The canneries owned by Mr. Ewen are now in operation and if the sockeye run is as large as expected he will have many thousand cases packed within a few weeks.

Upper Sumas School.

The annual public school meeting was held at Upper Sumas on June 18th and was largely attended by both ladies and gentlemen. The ladies turned out in a body which shows the growing interest taken in school matters here. Mr. Wm. M. Campbell was elected as chairman and Mr. Patrick Hennessy secretary. Mr. Wm. Russell was unanimously re-elected one of the trustee board. June the 30th was the day appointed for choosing the site for the new school house. The old school house was sold and subscriptions taken to aid in building the new school house which is very much required.

Rifles Parade.

In another column will be found a notice calling a parade of the N. W. Rifles for to-morrow night for the purpose of inspecting arms, accoutrements and clothing. We understand Capt. Scoullar has received orders to hold the company in readiness to proceed to the Skeena to aid in suppressing the Indian outbreak, and the object of the inspection is to see that the company appointments are in proper condition for service in the field. It is unnecessary to remind the men that there should be a full muster. The prospect of active service has already raised the enthusiasm of the company to its highest pitch.

Deep Sea Fishing Survey.

A rumor was circulated yesterday to the effect that the investigation of the deep sea fisheries off the west coast of Vancouver and Queen Charlotte Islands by Inspector Mowat, with the steamer Sir James Douglas, will not be carried out this year, the Ottawa authorities having countermanded their instructions to proceed. Should this prove to be the case, it will be learned with surprise and regret, for the survey would have led up to the location of fishing banks, and induced the investment of considerable capital in the prosecution of the fishing industry. If the order to stay has been given, the government should be strongly remonstrated with, and endeavors made to induce them to carry out the previous intention, for which provision has been made on the estimates.—Colonist.

Fond of the Jail.

Mr. Patrick Kane was released from gaol yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, having completed a term of 6 months imprisonment for breaking into a railway car and stealing goods therefrom. Instead of endeavoring to reform and lead a better life, Patrick quietly proceeded to get comfortably drunk and succeeded in making his efforts in that direction a complete success. Shortly after 8 o'clock last evening he strolled down to the C. P. R. freight sheds, and, after surveying the men at work there, threw off his coat and started to eject the workmen from the premises. Unfortunately for Patrick he was only one against many, and his efforts, though great, were spent in vain. Constable Carty was sent for and in a few minutes Mr. Kane once more found himself behind the bars. This morning police magistrate Atkinson gave Kane the privilege of leaving the city within 3 hours or going to gaol for two months. Taking into consideration the fact that Westminster was likely to experience a boom soon after the construction of the Southern Railway commences, Patrick resolved to go to gaol from where he could watch development, and on his release be on the ground to share in the many good things promised.

From an analysis of over 6000 cases of scarlet fever, it appears that liability to the disease is very slight during early infancy, reaches a maximum in the fourth or fifth year, and diminishes every year afterward. The severity is greatest in the first two years, lessening year by year throughout childhood and adolescence. Females are more liable to attack after infancy than males, but attacks among males are more fatal.

THE CITIZENS' BANQUET.

"The most representative gathering ever seen in Westminster," was the remark made by many prominent citizens as they looked at the assemblage gathered round the table in the Colonial dining room last night. And it was, without doubt, representative of the ability, push, enterprise and capital of Westminster. A glance at the gentlemen gathered round the table showed that very few men of prominence among us were absent, while the majority of substantial citizens, both in the professional and mercantile walks of life were conspicuous by their presence. The dinner, which was given in honor of ex-Senator Canfield, Mr. S. Baxter, Mr. John Hendry, and Capt. Gordon, was a grand affair. The table was most artistically and handsomely dressed and the bill of fare was the most varied and choice ever provided at the far-famed Colonial. His Worship Mayor Dickinson occupied the chair and Mr. John Hendry, president of the board of trade, the vice chair. On the right of the chairman sat W. Norman Bole, M.P.P. Senator Canfield and Mr. Baxter and on the left was Capt. Gordon of the good ship Camana and Capt. Hendrix. After the really excellent dinner had been discussed, Mayor Dickinson proposed the health of the Queen which was drunk in the usual loyal manner. The health of the president of the United States called for "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" in rousing style. "The Governor-general of Canada" and the "Lieutenant-governor of British Columbia" were enthusiastically received.

The Dominion and provincial parliaments was next proposed, to which Mr. Bole responded in his usual happy and witty style, showing the responsibility of a member and the numerous impossibilities expected of him. The speaker regretted the absence of Mr. Chisholm, M.P., who was suffering from a slight indisposition and was unable to attend. In conclusion, Mr. Bole paid a handsome eulogy to our fair Dominion, which was rewarded with rounds of applause.

"The Mayor and Aldermen" were treated to "They are Jolly Good Fellows."

Mayor Dickinson in a few well chosen remarks pointed out what had been done in the past by the council during his term of office, the rapid advancement made by Westminster during that time and its future possibilities, and concluded by expressing the hope that the Southern Railway project would receive the hearty support of the citizens in general. (Applause).

Alderman Elliott said he was probably the largest tax payer in the city, and the Southern Railway meant increased taxes, but even so, self must not be alone considered; on the contrary the welfare, present and future should be the guide of every intelligent and progressive citizen, and towards Westminster's coming greatness he was ready and willing to lend his heartiest support. (Loud applause).

Aldermen Ovens and Calbick also made fitting speeches.

Senator Canfield was the first to respond to the "Commercial interests of New Westminster" and on taking the floor was greeted with round after round of applause. The senator in a capital speech pointed out the grand future of Westminster, its great commercial advantages and its splendid position geographically, both as a railroad, shipping and manufacturing centre. With the best of advantages, he said, it should be remembered that a city is not made by its position and natural advantages—it must have within its limits an enterprising and progressive people. Without enterprise, and lots of it, in these days of close competition no city could hold its own. The senator concluded by complimenting the people of Westminster on the spirit of progression rapidly developing in our midst. The speaker took his seat amid great applause.

Mr. S. Baxter made a telling speech from a purely business standpoint, and urged the people of Westminster to keep the spirit of progression moving until their city was the commercial capital of British Columbia.

Mr. John Hendry on rising was greeted with thunders of applause. He spoke briefly on the shipping and railroad interests and explained the many difficulties he had met with in chartering vessels to load lumber at Westminster. With practically no chart of the river, and the obstacles placed in the way of one being made, he found it almost an impossibility to induce shipowners to let their vessels come to the Fraser. But he had worked hard, fought off the obstacles, and finally succeeded in accomplishing his purpose. Westminster, he said, had made a fair start and it would soon be on a par with its most progressive rivals.

Mr. Joseph C. Armstrong made a neat little speech expressing his sympathy with the Southern Railway project and promising his support to any scheme whereby the interests of the city would be advanced.

Mr. Keary sang a song in fine style after which the health of the "press" was proposed and drunk, Mr. Glover responded.

"The Southern Railway" was proposed by Mr. Peter Grant who said he favored the project for one reason only—that it would be much more convenient than the Semiahamoo trail.

Responses were made by Mr. B. Douglas, president of the Southern Railway, Capt. Bole, Mr. Corbould, Capt. Scoullar, Mr. Trapp and Mr. Drysdale.

After a rousing song by Mr. Rickman the health of "the ladies" was drunk in a most enthusiastic manner. Mr. Port and Mr. Frser replied in suitable terms.

"Our Guests" elicited speeches from Capt. Gordon, Capt. McAllister and Senator Canfield.

"The Army and Navy and Volunteers" was responded to by all the military men present.

The healths of Capt. Bole and Mayor Dickinson were proposed in succession by Senator Canfield. Both gentlemen gave neat little speeches in response.

The health of Mr. Jas. Punch, Reeve of Surrey, was enthusiastically drunk and "three times three" given for him in rousing terms. Mr. Punch acknowledged his thanks in a brief speech.

"The Fishing Industry of the Fraser" called for speeches from Mr. M. M. English and Mr. Port.

Mr. Curtis, "Secretary of the Board of Trade," was the last health drunk, after which a couple of hours were spent in singing songs, and it was past day-light before it was thought necessary to sing "God Save the Queen" and "Auld Lang Syne."

AN IMPORTANT EVENT.

Laying the Corner Stone of the New Presbyterian Brick Church—Some Particulars About the Edifice.

The interesting ceremony of laying the corner stone for the new Presbyterian church being erected at the corner of Blackwood and Carnarvon streets in this city, took place, according to announcement, last evening, beginning at 7:30, and occupying, with the addresses delivered afterwards, about an hour and a half. More or less rain had fallen during the day, but the sky, which had been cloudy and threatening, cleared beautifully toward evening and the weather was all that could be desired. Between three and four hundred people, representing all the denominations in the city, assembled at the site of the new church to witness the laying of the stone. The service was begun by the choir singing the 100th Psalm, being joined by those present. Rev. Mr. Scouler, pastor of the church then read the 122nd Psalm and offered prayer, after which he read a brief historical statement of the Presbyterian church in New Westminster, prepared by the Rev. Mr. Jamieson, who first organized the church in this city in the autumn of 1862. The statement showed that the present St. Andrew's church had been erected in 1864, and also recited the names of the first members and office-bearers of the church, together with the names of the present office-bearers, the building committee, and the church members, the latter numbering 179. Other interesting information was given, and the statement was put into a metal box prepared for the occasion, together with various coins and bank-notes, and copies of the city, provincial and church papers, after which the box was handed to the architect, Mr. G. W. Grant, who deposited it in the cavity under the stone. Mr. R. F. Anderson, chairman of the building committee, then presented the beautiful silver trowel, appropriately inscribed, to Rev. Robt. Jamieson, who, as first pastor and organizer of the Presbyterian church in this city, had been selected to lay the stone. Mr. Anderson accompanied the presentation with an appropriate address. The stone, a fine block of native granite, was then lowered, and laid with due ceremony, the reverend and venerable gentleman tapping it with the silver trowel and declaring it well and truly laid, in the name of the Trinity. After singing the 234th hymn, the assemblage adjourned to the church adjacent. There the proceedings were opened by another hymn, and the Rev. R. Y. Thompson, of Vancouver, was called upon and responded in an interesting and appropriate address, conveying the congratulations of the church at Vancouver and also of the brethren in the east, the rev. gentleman having but lately arrived in this province. An opportunity was then given for those desiring to contribute to the new church, after which and another hymn, the Hon. John Robson, provincial secretary, who was present, was called upon and gave a brief but graphic sketch of the early struggles of the church in this city, with which he had been connected, when for two years the attendance had varied from 13 to 20 at the Sabbath services. The speaker paid a marked tribute to the then pastor, Rev. Mr. Jamieson, and congratulated the congregation, the city and the province upon the progress and present standing of St. Andrew's and the other churches throughout the city, arguing that such a state of things indicated the truest prosperity. The hon. gentleman was followed by Revs. Messrs. White, Haddon, and Lennie, and Messrs. John C. Brown and J. S. Clute, all of whom made brief and appropriate remarks, and the meeting was closed by singing the 12th Doxology, the benediction being pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Scouler.

THE NEW CHURCH EDIFICE.

The new church will occupy perhaps the best site for a church edifice in the city, situated as it is on the corner of Blackwood and Carnarvon streets on well-elevated grounds, adorned with some grand old maple trees, planted by pioneer hands in the days gone by, making just such a place as the people of St. Andrew's Church regarded with pardonable pride. The new building is being erected from plans by Mr. G. W. Grant, architect, of this city, the design being selected in competition, as best meeting the requirements of the St. Andrew's congregation. It is a brick and stone building, modern gothic in design. The extreme width is 58 feet, and the length 100 feet. A tower, surmounted by a spire, the total height of which is 95 feet, occupies a commanding position on the south-west corner. Through this tower is one main entrance, another being by a porch on the opposite corner. A few steps of easy gradient lead to a vestibule 14x28 feet, from which entrances lead to the different aisles of the church as also two stairways to the gallery over the vestibule, making every part of the building easy of access and egress. The audience room proper will be 50x74 feet, and will contain 500 sittings, the gallery seating 100 additional. The seating is designed to give ample room, so that really the new church will accomodate considerably more than 600. In the north wing and in rear of the pulpit will be a choir and organ gallery 14x28 feet. On either side of this will be the pastor's and choir rooms respectively, each 10x16 feet with separate entrances. The roof will be open timbered, arched and moulded trusses the panelling being of cedar, as also the gallery fronts and all other interior woodwork, which will be finished in the natural wood. The seating has not yet been arranged for, but care will be taken to have this part comfortable and appropriate. The heating and ventilation have received due attention, the former to be done by means of a hot air furnace in the basement. The windows will be glazed with cathedral glass. Both interior and exterior will present a neat, substantial and handsome appearance, and the edifice will be a credit to St. Andrew's congregation and an ornament to the city. Ackerman Bros. are the contractors, and the new church is expected to be ready for occupancy before Christmas.
