NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Is our climate changing? Many times we have heard the question asked, and perhaps the best answer is that in such a changeable climate it is hard to get data upon which to found an opinion. There can be little doubt, however, that the clearing away of the forests is beginning to tell quite materially in the matter of rainfall. In some places on the continent it has told disastrously; but the conformation of the country will probably avert any such consequences here.

It cannot be said that Lord Salisbury's speech at the Mansion House dinner threw much light on the Irish question. According to his lordship only a few more years of coercion are required to "restore the prosperity" of Ireland. There are men, however, with much higher reputations for brains and honesty than the noble marquis, who take a very different view of the situation; and, of course, there may be two opinions even as to what "prosperity" mean. In the opinion of some men, a nation of broken-spirited slaves, toiling for the enrichment of the "gentry," would be prosperous, so long as the taskmasters succeeded in getting the full amount of their demand. Israel in Egypt was prosperous in that sense.

The Toronto Empire says:—The British Columbia people are making extensive preparations for a grand display of the resources and capabilities of the Pacific province at the coming industrial exhibition. Mr. Hill, the secretary and manager is informed that in response to the requests of the authorities, the people throughout the province are contributing and preparing articles for exhibition of a character and on a scale which will not fail to make the British Columbia Court, as it is to be called, one of the features of Canada's great fair. The value of the industrial as an advertising medium of this kind can hardly be over estimated, where a display of the agricultural, mining and manufactuing products of a country will reach the eye of so many thousands of visitors. And the idea is a good one at this time, when an increasing interest is being felt in this portion of the Dominion in regard to British Columbia as an emigration field.

An amusing incident occurred while the Imperial Parliament was considering the Local Government Bill lately. At one sitting the house was making great progress with the bill, amendments being cleared off the paper at the rate of a score a minute. Finally Mr. Ritchie, the member of the government in charge of the bill, moved an amendment of which he had given notice, involving some slight verbal change. So quickly was the work being done before the chairman could put the amendment in its new wording, Mr. Ritchie's rapid mind had got to the next amendment; when the chairman put the usual question, Mr. Ritchie rose and objected to his own amendment, mistaking it for the next. The members laughed at the slip, the only one, it is stated, made during all the sittings taken up with this bill by Minister Ritchie, whose ability in conducting this important measure through the house of commons is favorably commented upon.

The premier of Victoria does not appear to be a man who is likely to let sentiment run away with him, as may be inferred from the following utterance on the subject of the Australian colonies:—"We Australians are not likely to submit to be ruled from a little island in the Atlantic when we can manage our own defence. Such independence is prophesied as a certainty; but this only is certain, whatever the future may be, it will be absolutely in accord with our own wishes. Our wishes are not in favor of separation. Two reasons check any such desire. Danger to Australia may arise from two sources—from China or from Russia. We could not cope with either. Our only present safety lies in remaining a colony of the United Kingdom. When we number 20,000,000 to 30,000,000, the case may be different; but the decision will lie with Australians, and not with others. Meanwhile the practical point is the federation of the Australian colonies amongst themselves."

THE MANSION HOUSE BANQUET.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The ministers were banquetted by the lord mayor at the mansion house this evening. Replying to the usual toast of her majesty's ministers, Lord Salisbury said that the great curse of Ireland was poverty. The government, he said, was not able to diminish poverty or to enrich men, but it could enable them, without interference, to enrich themselves. The government had been successful in lessening the tyranny which an association exercised over the Irish people and had increased the sanctity of contracts. All the government of Ireland, he declared, were administered with the same judgment and firmness as now for a few years longer, the liberty and prosperity of the country would be restored. In Egypt Lord Salisbury said the expectations of the government had been exceeded. When Egypt should be able to deal with her foes without help, Great Britain would be glad to leave that country absolutely. As to Bulgaria he hoped that the statesmen of the continent were being convinced that it would be best to leave her to herself. He believed that the emperor of Germany appreciated the value of peace, and especially as Germany could get nothing by war. He believed it was more desirable for the peace of the world that the policy of Russia should be more on a parallel with the policy of Germany. All that had occurred in Europe recently had been in the direction of peace, and England's efforts were always in the same direction.

RIOTOUS DEMONSTRATIONS.

PARIS, Aug. 9.—The official reports show that 24 persons were arrested yesterday for participating in the riotous demonstration which attended the funeral of General Eudes. But 8 of the offenders were held, however. The night was generally quiet, although there was some disorder in the Place de la Republique and troops were sent to assist the police. A fight also occurred in the Fauburg St. Antoine. The newspapers generally consider that yesterday's demonstration was less serious than might have been expected. The Radical press charge the police with losing their temper. The strikers are quiet at Amiens to-day. Another meeting of the cabinet was held to-day. M. Floquet, the prime minister, informed the cabinet that the Labor Exchange had long been used for purposes other than those for which it had been instituted and it had therefore been closed by the government. The approaches to each entrance of it are guarded by the police. The strikers made an attempt to assemble to-day at the Exchange but were driven away by the police.

TO-DAY'S DESPATCHES.

MAXWELL CLAIMS INJUSTICE.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 10.—Late last night Maxwell gave out a document for publication in the English press, in which he severely condemns what he calls the injustice of his trial, and claimed that the prosecution bribed witnesses to testify against him.

PAID THE PENALTY.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10.—Hugh M. Brooks, alias Maxwell, who murdered C. Arthur Preller in the Southern Hotel several years ago, was hanged at 9:01 this morning. Landgraf was hanged at the same time. When the death warrant was read to Maxwell at 8 o'clock he paled perceptibly and it became evident that he was about to weaken. On the march to the scaffold the knees of the condemned man commenced to tremble and it appeared that he would collapse. He presented a piteous spectacle, while Laugraff, the murderer of his sweetheart, his companion in death, tripped bravely forward. When the arms and legs of both men had been bound, they were asked if they had anything to say, and on their replying "no," Maxwell in a scarcely audible tone, the trap was sprung. Not a muscle moved in the case of Laugraff, while Maxwell's struggles were awful to behold. The rope around his neck had slipped and cut his nose, and a stream of blood coursed rapidly down his coat, his legs were drawn up and he struggled for 14 minutes. The physicians claim that in both cases the necks were broken.

BODIES RECOVERED.

CHATTANOGA, Aug. 10.—The bodies of the five men who were killed at midnight by the falling of a wall in the Caldwell-Gridiron block fire have been recovered.

TEEMER WINS.

ROUND BAY, Ind. Aug. 10.—In the single scull race, three miles with turn, yesterday, Teemer won, Gaudaner second, Hosmer third. Time 20.55. It was for a purse of $1000.

QUARANTINE DECLARED.

CHARLESTON, Aug. 10.—The board of health to-day declared quarantine against Florida's infected ports on account of yellow fever. Quarantine is not only by sea but on land. The Clyde line of steamers will suffer seriously.

MURDERER HANGED.

NEW CASTLE, Aug. 10.—Chas. H. Riedel, the murderer of his wife and child, was hanged here to-day at 12:42 p. m.

MR. O'KELLY THIS TIME.

DUBLIN, Aug. 10.—Jas. J. O'kelly, M.P., was to-day convicted of making a speech of intimidation, boycotting etc., and was sentenced to four months imprisonment without hard labor.

YELLOW FEVER.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 10.—Yellow fever has been declared epidemic here, and people are fleeing. Five new cases have been reported in the last 10 hours. The weather is hot and very favorable for the spread of the disease. The outlook is bad.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

OGDEN, Utah, Aug. 10.—Ezra Hale, 38 years of age, has been arrested here charged with complicity in the killing of James Hendry at Hooperville. The assassination is understood to have been provoked by Hendry having betrayed the sister of Hale. Hale denies any complicity in the shooting of Hendry, which occurred on September 22nd, 1871. A brother of the deceased is still in town. The hearing will be before the United States commissioner to-morrow.

THE VOLUNTEER DEFEATED.

NEWPORT, Aug. 10.—The yacht Volunteer was defeated by the Mayflower in a race to New London, under the auspices of the New York yacht club. This is the first defeat of the cup defender.

BROKE JAIL.

RED BLUFF, Cala., Aug. 10.—Last night three men broke jail by sawing the window grates. One prisoner from Redding named Beck, implicated in a murder case, one burglary, other horse stealing. Officers are in hot pursuit.

SUGAR ADVANCING.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—The American sugar refinery has made a further advance on all grades of refined sugar of an eighth of a cent per pound.

PASSENGER LIST.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—The str. Umatilla sailed for Victoria with the following passengers: Miss Fleming, J. Sumner, J. H. Trueman, Miss C. M. Tuely, Miss J. B. Steves, Mrs. Jack, A. C. White, Mrs. A. M. Dickenson, Mrs. F. W. H. Wright, W. R. Sproul, Miss J. Anderson, L. H Foiling, R. Derosa and wife, J. Watson, A. G. Phipps and wife, J. Cochran, Miss A. Danges and R. Stephen.

SHERIDAN'S SUCCESSOR.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The command of the army is virtually in the hands of Secretary Endicott and will be until after the funeral of General Sheridan. It is probable that an order assigning General Schofield to duty as commander-in-chief of the army, will be issued on Monday morning.

PAUPER IMMIGRANTS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Commissioner of Immigration Stephenson testified before the committee of the house, investigating the immigration question, that he believed six per cent. of the immigrants arriving at Castle Garden should be sent back. Many who have come over on false promises of certain prosperity awaiting them have become despondent on learning the true state of things and gradually become insane. Fully 50 per cent of the immigrants now arriving are penniless.

BLAINE'S ARRIVAL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Shortly before 8 o'clock this morning steamers and other vessels to meet Blaine sailed from port. Among them was the str. Sloan, which met the City of New York at quarantine, and both vessels steamed back to port, followed by a grand procession of other crafts. Blaine was seen standing in the midst of a group of friends on the deck of the steamer and gloriously surveyed the inspiring scene, while the strains of "Hail to the chief," "Home sweet home," and "Star spangled banner," was heard on all sides. On the saloon steamer Starin, Chairman Bartlett, of the reception committee, made an address of welcome in highly eulogistic terms, concluding with "one blast on your bugle horn were worth thousands of men." Blaine, in reply, said he wished every one who wished to appreciate his welcome after his long absence had seen and heard what he had during the 14 months he had been away. The coming campaign, he said, is viewed from a European standpoint with as much interest as in the U.S. It is the opportunity of England, it is the long looked for occasion upon which the cheaper labor and the cheaper fabrics of the old world expect to invade the new and lower the wages of American workmen to the European standard. I say the wages of the American laborer cannot be reduced except with the consent and votes of the laborer himself. On arriving at Starin's pier, Blaine was driven to the 5th Avenue Hotel. To a reporter Blaine said he did not know whether he would go on to Maine to-night or not. He did not know what arrangements had been made for him. When told the Irish Americans proposed to serenade him to-night and present an address he replied, "That's all right; I am glad of it." As to what part he would take in the coming campaign, Blaine said he could say nothing at present. He did not think he would go outside of Maine until after the state election there on the second Monday in September. When asked about his health he at first said he was perfectly well, and then added, laughingly: "That's a question I haven't answered in three years."

J. H. Earl, West Shefford, P. Q., writes: "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horse in cases of cuts, wounds, &c., and I think it equally as good for horse as for man."

Daily British Columbian

Friday Evening, Aug. 10, 1888.

By the Southern Railway negotiations, which received so successful a consummation the other day, Westminster, without prejudicing any of her former connections and associations, has been brought into touch with new centres of population and commerce on the American side of the boundary line. A certain mutual friendly feeling has always subsisted between this city and the rising cities of the Sound, particularly Seattle and Whatcom. The prospective city of Blaine, by reason of its proximity, must also share in the same good-fellowship. It is evident that the Southern Railway project has established a stronger community of interest between the royal city and the cities, present and prospective, on the Sound, than could have existed without such a link. The cordial relations thus established are evident from the utterances of public men and the press on the other side of the line particularly. With our almost immediate connection by tri-weekly—it may be daily—steamers with Whatcom and Seattle, and the speedy completion of the bond of steel to these points, our social and trade relations will be still further developed and consolidated, to the mutual and lasting benefit of all the cities and districts on both sides of the line, whether directly or indirectly concerned.

A few months ago the world was watching at what promised to be the death-beds of four illustrious, world-famed men—two in the old world, and two in the new—John Bright, a renowned statesman of England; Frederick, the idolized emperor of the German nation; Dom Pedro, one of Brazil's best sovereigns, and Gen. Sheridan, "Little Phil," as he was endearingly called by his comrades, one of the heroes of the civil war in the United States. "One shall be taken and another left," says the divine oracle, and it has an exemplification in the different fates of the four men whose struggle for life engrossed for a time the sympathetic attention of civilized humanity. The English statesman recovered; the German emperor gave up the ghost; the sovereign of Brazil wrested a new lease of life from the very gates of death; and, on Sunday last, at Nonquitt, Mass., after the longest heat of all, the hero of Shenandoah succumbed to his last foe and joined the innumerable army that have gone before. General Phillip Henry Sheridan was of Irish extraction, and was born in Somerset, Ohio, in 1831, making him at the time of his death only about 57 years of age. He was a graduate of West Point, and served with distinction in the civil war from 1861 to 1865, and was repeatedly promoted until he attained, in 1884, to the highest rank in the gift of the army, and received, a few months before his death, the title of "General of the Army." He leaves a devoted wife and four small children, besides a nation that delighted to do him honor, to mourn his untimely taking away. His name will figure prominently in American history. It has been already immortalized in Buchanan Reid's familiar and soul-stirring epic, "Sheridan's Ride."

An enthusiastic and level-headed writer in an American magazine, the Current, speaking of Mexico and its prospects, lays great stress upon the part that railroads must necessarily play in the development of this extremely rich, but hitherto, by reason of its lack of modern institutions and appliances, rather backward country. According to the writer referred to, however, Mexico, with an infusion of new blood and modern ideas, is beginning to awake and to shake itself free from the sloth and degradation of ages, in which ignorance, superstition and anarchy reigned supreme. It has been the one great misfortune of the people of Mexico to perpetuate the social life, the customs and crude civilization of three centuries ago, and to share but little, if any, in the mechanical progress so brilliant and enriching to the United States and the Canadas. "Railroads," says the writer, "have been the basis for the great advancement which has taken place among the people living to the north of Mexico. Railroads have cheapened and facilitated and made comfortable intercourse—have encouraged and fostered the diversification of home industries, developed the physical forces and given character to the manhood and womanhood of our English and French speaking neighbors. The same ways with improved means will push the Spanish-speaking people to a much higher civilization, for here, in Mexico particularly, and measurably so in the states to the south, the climate and natural resources are better and greater than those in the states to the north. Here it may be that the Almighty has designed that his race shall be perfected. Here already nature unassisted has done more for the floral, plant and fruit kingdom than in most countries on the globe; and may it not be here, too, that some day will be developed the grandest men and the noblest of women! Railroads are powerful influences for enlightenment. We owe it to them that local and race prejudices are disappearing. We owe to them the diffusion of progressive ideas which will distinguish the nineteenth century from all time that has gone before. Railroads will yet make all the people of the world shake hands, eat together, and be brothers in a common cause, the cause of humanity and the bettering of the physical conditions of each other. Railroads, by facilitating our intercourse and by bringing us constantly and agreeably together, will yet make us speak one language, sing the same songs, laugh at the same jokes, bow in respect to the same God, and be at home at one another's firesides." The writer quoted above proceeds to show that wherever and whenever the western nations have exchanged with the east, and wherever the Occident has selected a route to the Orient, then and there have been built great centres of civilization and trade, and the people have been lifted to a higher plane of action. As it has been in the past it will be in the future. The destiny of Mexico, says the writer, is a grand one. The people shall yet diversify their home industries and become free and independent of the workshops of other lands, and with industrial freedom she must become great. It is not independence of, nor dependence upon, but it is inter-dependence with other nations for which Mexico must strive. "If the Mexican people advance as resolutely and as uncompromisingly for industrial and financial freedom as they did for political independence, rapid and certain will be their ascendancy over those people who ride with their backs to the locomotive of progress and never see an opportunity until it is past. * * * When Mexico's system of railroads is completed in all directions, including Ead's ship transport route, and all under the control of the government in a spirit of equity, and made the basis for the diversification of home industries and security for the nation's credit, then the people of the earth will come by common consent to her soil to exchange courtesies and to negotiate business." The advancement and prosperity of Mexico, with its vast undeveloped wealth in minerals, tropical fruits, and other products, is a matter of interest to the entire world. Connected, as we will be in a few years, by a continuous line of railway, of which the Westminster-Sonthern will form an important link, with this Eldorado, the development of its resources and its political regeneration has a special interest for us. The "little burg," by its railroads, will soon reach in all directions for the commerce of the world, and the southern connection which it has just inaugurated will soon justify the indomitable enterprise and faith of the royal city.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "I have sold at retail, 156 bottles of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, guaranteeing every bottle. I must say I never sold a medicine in my life that gave such universal satisfaction. In my own case, with a badly ulcerated throat, after a physician penciling it for several days to no effect, the Eclectric Oil cured it thoroughly in twenty-four hours, and in threatened croup in my children this winter, it never failed to relieve almost immediately."

Perfect Hair

Indicates a natural and healthy condition of the scalp, and of the glands through which nourishment is obtained. When, in consequence of age and disease, the hair becomes weak, thin, and gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will strengthen it, restore its original color, promote its rapid and vigorous growth, and impart to it the lustre and freshness of youth.

I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a long time, and am convinced of its value. When I was 17 years of age my hair began to turn gray. I commenced using the Vigor, and was surprised at the good effects it produced. It not only restored the color to my hair, but so stimulated its growth, that I have now more hair than ever before.—J. W. Edwards, Coldwater, Miss.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,
Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers.

IF YOU ARE SUFFERING from debility and loss of appetite; if your stomach is out of order, or your mind confused; take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This medicine will restore physical force and elasticity to the system, more surely and speedily than any tonic yet discovered.

For six months I suffered from liver and stomach troubles. My food did not nourish me, and I became weak and very much emaciated. I took six bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and was cured.—J. M. Palmer, Springfield, Mass. ††

ESTABLISHED 1875
THE
PORTLAND, OREGON

The West Shore is the only illustrated magazine published on the Pacific coast, and aside from its excellent literary features, its object is to convey information, by both pen and pencil, of the great resources of this region, and the progress of their development.

Special illustrated articles appear in each issue; also, several pages of notes of the progress being made in every section, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Alaska, Utah, California, British Columbia, and the Pacific Northwest in general, are being illustrated. The subscription price is only $2.50. It is not only the cheapest illustrated magazine in the United States, but contains articles and engravings of great interest to every resident of this region, which can not be found in any other publication.

Subscribers for 1888 receive a large supplement every month. The first one is a beautiful oleograph of the "Entrance to the Columbia River," printed in nine colors, and each of the others represents some feature of our sublime scenery. The supplements are alone worth more than the price of the magazine. Try it for 1888, and after reading, send it to your friends elsewhere. You will find it both entertaining and instructive.

THE WORLD.

A playground—off with clouded skies
That o'er the rosebuds weep,
Where little troubles take the weight
Of sorrow far more deep;
Where loved toys break in tiny hands—
Sad symbols of the time
When hope shall cheat, and joys depart
In life's sweet passing prime.

A battlefield where forces meet,
And unseen hosts contend,
With truces all so short, they seem
With the wild strife to blend;
Strife that leaves none of us unscathed,
Where'er the mastery be;
But who, till the Great Day, can tell
With whom is victory?

A graveyard, where on every side
Pale monuments arise,
To show how brief is human life,
How vain is all we prize.
A graveyard filled by memory,
Where phantoms lightly tread,
But each one points with finger raised
To blue skies overhead.

JAPANESE BABIES.

The Substitute for Whipping in Their Far-Away Country.

The babies in Japan have sparkling eyes and funny little tufts of hair; they look so quaint and old-fashioned, exactly like those doll babies that are sent over here to America, says a writer in St. Nicholas.

Now, in our country very young babies are apt to put everything in their mouths; a button or a pin, or anything, goes straight to the little rosy wide-open mouth, and the nurse or mamma must always watch and take great care that baby does not swallow something dangerous.

But in Japan they put the small babies right down in the sand by the door of the house, or on the floor, but I never saw them attempt to put anything in their mouths unless they were told to do so, and no one seemed to be anxious about them.

When little boys or girls in Japan are naughty and disobedient, they must be punished, of course; but the punishment is very strange.

There are very small pieces of rice paper called moxa, and these are lighted with a match and then put upon the finger or hand or arm of the naughty child, and they burn a spot on the tender skin that hurts very, very much. The child screams with the pain, and the red hot moxa sticks to the skin for a moment or two, and then goes out; but the smarting burn reminds the little child of his fault.

I do not like these moxas. I think it is a cruel punishment. But perhaps it is better than a whipping. Only I wish little children never had to be punished.

FOOD OF THE PRIMITIVE MAN.

Primitive man, wherever he was first cast, whether in one centre or in more than one, must of necessity have found his food in the plant world. We cannot imagine him commencing his career learned in the art of hunting, killing and cooking the lower animals for food.

Many infer from this circumstance that the argument in favor of vegetarian practice is copied direct from nature, signed and delivered by her.

Not quite so fast. There is one interposing barrier to the free acceptance of vegetarian deed and act of conveyance of food from nature to man. Nature, herself, of her own right royal will, makes for animals, herbivorous and carnivorous, one distinctive animal food; a secretion from the living animal organism, a fluid which is a standard food—meat and drink in one—the fluid known under the name of milk.

Against absolute vegetarianism, then, we may fairly set up one exception, derived from nature as the unerring guide.

On observing the habits of animals we discover another natural fact. We find that animals of quite different natures, in respect to primitive selection of food, possess the power of changing their modes of feeding and of passing over as it were, from one class to another.

This change is distinct but limited, and we must accept it with all its extension on the one side and with all its limitation on the other.

The fruit-eating ape can be taught under privation to subsist on animal diet; a dog can, I believe, be taught to subsist on vegetable diet. But it would be as impossible to teach a sheep to eat flesh as it would be to make a lion feed on grass.—Contemporary Review.

PREPARATION FOR BUSINESS.

Notable Examples of Farsighted Shrewdness by Merchants of Holland.

A level-headed race, the Dutchmen. Realizing they are being outstripped in the foreign trade by the English and the Germans, a number of merchants have organized an association called "The Foreign Country."

The object of the association is to send young men to foreign countries, not only to get acquainted with the mode of transacting business, and particularly in the bazaars of the East, but that they may feel at home in those countries, and thus prepare the way for the establishment of Dutch commercial houses.

They propose to support these young men by paying their expenses and giving them a salary. In return the men are to find themselves to return the whole or part of the money when they can do so without difficulty, when the money will go to enlist others.

The Dutch rightly conclude that knowledge of business or commodities is not to be learned behind desks, but by personal experience.

"Art Is Long and Time Is Fleeting."

A schoolboy asks us what Longfellow meant when he said "art is long and time is fleeting."

It is a very common phrase that the poet took from Hippocrates, who lived 400 or 500 years B. C., and perhaps he in turn stole it from some wise man at as much earlier a period.

As we always understood it the phrase means that although life is short it takes long time to learn the art of living. If anybody can give a better interpretation of its meaning we would be glad to hear it.—Fort Worth (Texas) Gazette.

At an Evening Party.

Brown—"Who is that rank and scrawny-looking party near the piano, Robinson?"

Robinson—"That's Bixby's wife."

Brown—"You don't tell me. You know Bixby, then?"

Robinson—"Oh, yes; he's my brother-in-law."

Widow—"Yes, the direct cause of my poor husband's death was a quantity of baker's cake that he ate."

Minister (on a visit of condolence)—"It must be a source of great consolation to you, my dear Mrs. Hendricks, that you didn't make the cake yourself."—The Epoch.

THE COSTLIEST BEAN.

Description of the Mexican Vanilla Bean—Where and How It Grows.

The plant producing the vanilla bean, which, by the way, is the costliest bean on earth, is one of the rarest of any that furnish flavors, odors or flowers; for only very peculiar soil, climate and cultivation have yet insured its highest qualities for any considerable time.

Misantla, a city of Mexico, situated in the centre of a valley surrounded by mountains some 6,000 feet above the level of the sea, is supposed to be the original home of vanilla. It has been found in various parts of Central America, both north and south, but in no place possessing qualities so rich and rare as in the valley of Misantla.

Ingenious, painstaking and scientific Frenchmen have cultivated it on the Island of Mauritius, and were successful in producing a fair imitation of vanilla which they termed the "Bourbon" bean for which they found a market in England and France, but the crop of each succeeding year deteriorated until it sold for less than half the price of the genuine vanilla bean from its original home in Mexico, where it has been from time immemorial cultivated and prepared for the market by the native Mexican.

The native Mexican plants it near the base of a scrub oak to which he fastens its vine. It produces no fruit during the first four seasons. After that it bears fruit for eleven or twelve years.

The fruit or pod grows in large clusters similar to those of the banana. Its blossoms are in clusters much like our lilac, but white in color; and in fragrance wonderfully rich, exceeding that of the tube rose. The pod at first is large and green like the banana, but when ripe, it soon shrinks until it has a dry and withered appearance. All its virtues and excellences seem to be absorbed in the bean.

These receive numerous manipulations from the native producers. These patient, diligent workers affirm the absolute necessity of a ninety days' handling in order to ripen and retain the best qualities of the vanilla bean. They expose them to the sun for a certain length of time and then place layers of them between blankets until the alternate layers of blankets and fruit form a large pile and in this condition they undergo a "sweating process."

Thus several times each day they are exposed alternately to the sun and the blanket covering until all moisture is removed. They are thus handled until each bean attains the color of a very dark cigar.

Notwithstanding all this sweating and drying process the bean must be kept in rooms or vaults where the temperature of the air must be so uniform as to avoid all extremes of heat, cold, moisture or dryness.

The tonka beans grown in South America, are often palmed off upon the unwary as genuine vanilla. The tonka is aromatic in odor and strong in taste. It is good to perfume snuff and to scent clothes to preserve them from the ravages of the moth, but a wretched substitute for the vanilla bean.

The tonka is worth fifty to sixty cents a pound, while vanilla commands a ready sale at from $12 to $14.

Last year the vicinity of Misantla alone exported sixty million beans, the great portion of which reached New York. They are used by druggists and confectioners, and are a very important article of commerce.

WHERE THE DEFECT LAY.

A Brother Forces the Colored Preacher's Resignation.

There is a colored congregation of Methodists, who, until a couple of months ago, were led in the paths of rectitude by a very young preacher.

He was a fluent son of Ham and the length of the words he hurled at his hearers was only limited by his lungs at one effort.

This was all very well for a time, but when the elders of the church saw that the argument adduced did not draw the erring ones nearer to the big white throne a change was decided upon and a committee of one was appointed to ask for the preacher's resignation.

When the errand had been stated the preacher indignantly asked what the congregation expected for nothing.

"Waal, now, doan' yo' see, we duzzent expect——"

"Isn't my character away up yan above procrastination?"

"No trouble 'bout dat; but say, yer ion't fur enuf eddicated to——"

"Kaint I talk confluently enuf ter suit the most rapashus?"

"Dat's it, chile, dat's it; hole right on whar y'ar now. Yo' kin talk and yo' kin talk, but yo' doan't pint out; yo' kin argify and yo' kin argify, but yo' doan't show wharin."

The resignation was handed in directly.—Kansas City Star.

Learn from the Quakers.

The Quakers have many habits and customs that "worldly" people would profit by imitating.

They do nothing unnecessary, and save labor and wear and tear of mind whenever they can. When tools are hung up against a wall there the shape of the tools is painted against the wall, so that when a tool is removed and not returned the silent monitor remains.

Where a hammer, saw, or monkey wrench is hung up there its shadow is painted so that if the real hammer is gone the painted hammer remains to remind the owner that the borrowed tool has not been returned.—Boston Fibre and Fabric.

Patti's Country Residence.

High up on a beautiful eminence in a wild mountain valley of South Wales rise the proud towers of Patti's home, the romantic Elizabethan castle of Craig-y-nos, where the cantatrice spends her summers free as a bird. A beautiful brook runs through her own spacious castle grounds, and there are a score of others, the headwaters of the Tawe, the Neath and the Usk that lie in the region of the unpronounceable Ystradgynlais, within the shadow of the mountains, near Craig-y-nos. The valley of the Neath, not far distant, is most picturesque and wild, filled with trout streams with cascades 800 feet in height; and in the distance rise the Brecon Beacons, the highest mountains in South Wales. The splendid castles of the Marquis of Bute and the Earl of Dunraven, both enthusiastic fishermen, are not far distant from Patti's royal residence.

Knew Them Only on Paper.

Summer boarder—"What's that yellow stuff you are feeding the chickens?"

Farmer—"That's corn, mister."

"What is this in this bin?"

"That's wheat."

"Humph! What are these other things?"

"Rye, oats, barley—say, mister, what's your business when at home in Chicago?"

"I am a grain speculator."

Scrofula

Is one of the most fatal scourges which afflict mankind. It is often inherited, but may be the result of improper vaccination, mercurial poison, uncleanliness, and various other causes. Chronic Sores, Ulcers, Abscesses, Cancerous Humors, and, in some cases, Emaciation and Consumption, result from a scrofulous condition of the blood. This disease can be cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

I inherited a scrofulous condition of the blood, which caused a derangement of my whole system. After taking less than four bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla I am and, for the past year, have not found it necessary to use any medicine whatever. I am now in better health, and stronger, than ever before.—O. A. Willard, 21¢ Tremont st., Boston, Mass.

I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores for five years; but, after using a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the sores healed, and I have now good health.—Elizabeth Warnock, 54 Appleton street, Lowell, Mass.

Some months ago I was troubled with Scrofulous Sores on my leg. The limb was badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy failed until I used Ayer's Sarsaparilla. By taking three bottles of this medicine the sores have been healed, and my health is restored. I am grateful for the good it has done me.—Mrs. Ann O'Brian, 158 Sullivan st., New York. ††

The Royal City Planing Mills shipped two carloads of bridge timber east to-day.

A meeting of the Westminster football club will be held in the court house on Tuesday evening next at 8 p.m.

Mr. G. W. Grant, architect, is calling for tenders for the erection of a three story building for Mr. Thomas Ovens.

Ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. Holloway's Corn Cure is the article to use. Get a bottle at once and cure your corns.

The steamer Gladys arrived down from Chilliwhack this afternoon with a full load of fruit and farm produce and 15 passengers.

The str. Rithet cleared for Victoria this morning with 90 head of cattle, 200 sacks potatoes, 30 tons of farm produce and 26 passengers.

A Swash and a Frenchman appeared before Mr. McTiernan, J.P., at the police court to-day, charged with being drunk. Both were fined $2.50 and costs.

The str. Irving cleared for Chilliwhack this morning with 20 passengers, 35 tons of merchandise and several large consignments of knock-down boxes.

The addition to the public school is not finished yet and cannot be ready for occupation for some time. When the work is done the children should not be allowed to occupy the addition until the plaster is thoroughly dried.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is designed for those who need a medicine to purify their blood. No other preparation so well meets this want. It increases the appetite and rejuvenates the whole system. Its record, for forty years, is one of constant triumph over disease.

Don't forget the promenade concert at Herring's Opera House this evening. A very enjoyable programme has been prepared and the immense quantities of ice-cream, cake and lemonade gathered together for the occasion will be ample to supply the whole city if necessary.

The case of Fagan vs. Cooper for libel, has again been postponed, by consent of counsel, till Oct. 16th. Mr. Taylor, of Eberts & Taylor, counsel for Dr. Cooper, left for the eastern states to-day and requested Mr. McColl to allow the trial to stand until his return.

We acknowledge the receipt from the government printing office, Victoria, of copies of the "Statutes of British Columbia, 1888," and the "Journals of the Legislative Assembly, 1888." Both books are well and neatly printed and bound, and, we presume, contain within their covers the concentrated crystallizations of the wit and wisdom of the country.

It is expected there will be a large attendance from Victoria, New Westminster and Vancouver to the Foresters' reunion at Nanaimo on Saturday. The programme of sports is a special one and will afford ample scope for a full day's enjoyment. The prizes in connection with the Robin Hood lottery have been selected with care and will be valuable acquisitions to the successful competitors.

WEIGHED IN THE BALANCE, but not found wanting. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure has been weighed in that just balance, the experience of an impartial and intelligent public. Both remedially and pecuniarily it is a success. Its sales constantly increase, testimony in its favor is daily pouring in. The question of its efficacy in Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Kidney Ailments, and for Blood Impurity, is decided.

A Race for $2,000.

Thomas Watson and a Nanaimoite named Deal will run a three mile race in this city shortly. Watson is champion long distance runner of this province whilst Deal is said to be an eastern runner with a splendid three mile record. The race will take place next month and the stakes will be $1000 a side.—Vic. Colonist.

Fruitless Efforts.

The Port Townsend Argus, writing of the many abortive attempts which have been made to rival, and even injure, papers well established and giving good service to the public, says: Over $150,000 was sunk in one newspaper alone, in a fruitless effort to rival the Oregonian. Similar results may be expected in the Seattle and Victoria fields.

Wood Buffalo.

C. Fraser traded for the meat of two wood buffalo, killed some 60 miles west of Chippewyan. The skins were dressed into parchment, and showed the animals to be much larger than the prairie buffalo. The band out of which they were killed numbered about 60. Buffalo are also found on the Birch mountains west of Fort McMurray, on Salt river and near Great Slave lake.—Edmonton Bulletin.

The Schools.

The public schools in this city will re-open on Monday next. Mr. W. C. Coatham, principal, informs us that no changes will be made in the rooms occupied by the different departments for some weeks yet, until the new school rooms are ready for occupancy. The high school will also re-open the same day. After their good long holiday, the children and youth of the city should be ready and willing to return to their studies again.

Cricket Match.

To-morrow afternoon a cricket match will be played on the athletic grounds between teams chosen by Messrs Gifford and Armstrong. Team No. 1 is composed of Gifford (capt), Coulthart, Lewis, Smith, Wilson, Read, G. Armstrong, Peebles, Brine, Fletcher, Clute, jr., and Drysdale. Team No. 2 will be composed of Armstrong (capt), Miles, Chappell, Woods, Parks, Hamber, Harvey, Raymond, McMartin, J. S. Clute, sr., Moresby and Lister. Stumps will be pitched at 2 o'clock sharp.

Hauling Out the Boats.

The principal canneries hauled out their boats to-day, the sockeye run being over for the season. Nothing further will be done until the cohoes put in their appearance, and if they run as largely as is expected the canners will be able to make up the losses incurred by the sockeye run. After to-morrow there will be very few boats on the river except those employed in supplying the local demand. Chinese domestics have been scarce for the last six weeks, but there will now be two where one is wanted.

Boating Accident.

Two young men named Harris and Wilson while out for a sail last night, opposite the city, met with an accident that nearly proved fatal. By some accident their boat was capsized and in a moment both of them were struggling in the water. Luckily some fishing boats were in the vicinity and one of them went to the rescue and succeeded in saving both young men, though none to soon as they were almost exhausted when picked up. The boat was also secured and brought to the city. Sailing is not a very safe amusement for persons inexperienced in the currents of the river, and much caution is always observed even by those who have a thorough knowledge of it.

Marquis of Huntley.

It is reported that the Marquis of Huntley, who with Lady Huntley and suite spent a fortnight at the Harrison Hot Springs last year, is negotiating with the Dominion government for the purchase of one of the large islands facing the springs on Lake Harrison. It is said to be his lordship's intention to stock the island with pheasants, and to erect a shooting lodge thereon. He will send out for his private use a comfortable steam launch, and will spend the greater part of each shooting season with a large party of friends at this charming resort. His lordship when at the Harrison Hot Springs last year stated that he thought the scenery by far the finest that he had seen in his varied travels. The climate, he considered very fine.

A Tribute.

We take the liberty of publishing the following testimonial to British Columbia and THE COLUMBIAN, which we received yesterday, by postal card, from Lakefield, Ontario, dated Aug 2. The writer is Mr. W. C. Steves, well known in this city and district: The note runs as follows: "THE COLUMBIAN of the 18th July did not gladden my family circle. Please send a copy of that date. I suppose mine was lost. I do not wish to miss any links in the chain that issues from that great centre of the globe. We have it cold and dry; then hot and dry. Some things dried up and blew away, and some did not grow at all. When I compare this country with B. C., the difference in favor of B. C. is as great as the distance which separates them I enjoy THE COLUMBIAN; glad to see it is going ahead, &c.

The Best Pills.—Mr. Wm. Vandervoort, Sydney Crossing, Ont., writes: "We have been using Parmelee's Pills, and find them by far the best Pills we ever used." For Delicate and Debilitated Constitutions these Pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses, the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

The Onderdonk Contract.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has completed its case against the government before the arbitrator, sitting in British Columbia. It claims something like $6,000,000, on the contention that the British Columbia section of the road handed over to it was not so well built as it should have been. The counsel for the government extorted the confession from one of the company's witnesses that the road handed over contains work very much like that put into all railroads when first built in mountain sections, and that some of the work objected to could be matched on that part of the Canadian Pacific built by the company. But then it was said in reply that this is only temporary work, and is intended shortly to be replaced by better. A gift horse is not received with the formalities of a written contract, and we are forbidden to examine the age record of its teeth; but a gift railway must fill the bond to the last tittle of the contract, or you may be asked for six millions to make the boon worth having.—Monetary Times.

A Strange Adventure.

Mr. John Kirkland, of Ladners, met with an adventure a few days ago the like of which we venture to say has seldom or never occurred before. Having business which necessitated his passing through a large field of oats, on the farm of Mr. H. Trim, he entered the field by a sort of trail, which, however, was covered with standing grain. Mr. Kirkland stands good 6 ft. high, but he was not tall enough to see over the stalks which were waving round him, as the oats were nearly 7 feet in height. After pursuing his way for a considerable time he thought the rear end must soon be reached, but a sharp walk of some minutes more failed to bring him out. At the end of half an hour's walking Mr. Kirkland knew he was lost, but he did not feel very nervous, as the field was not large and he would be certain to find an exit soon. Yet in spite of every means devised for striking a "bee line" out, it was over an hour before he emerged from the waving sea of golden grain. It may seem a strange thing for a man 6 ft. high to be lost in a field of grain, but it is nevertheless a fact, and there are a dozen more fields on the Delta where the same thing might occur.

Cremation Introduced.

That Westminster is rapidly falling into line with the customs of modern cities, and adopting the most advanced ideas on all subjects, is becoming more apparent every day. The latest departure to chronicle is the establishment of a crematory, which though unsuccessful in its first operation may yet become as perfect as could be desired. Mr. Jos. Wintemute had the misfortune, a few days ago, to lose a well beloved horse, which he desired to cremate in the most approved and scientific manner. The furnace was erected on a vacant lot in the upper portion of the city, and when all was ready the remains were conveyed to the spot and the process began. Unfortunately for the success of the experiment the horse had led an active and useful life, and had spent more time in performing its duties than in putting fat on its ribs. The furnace fire was both large and hot enough to do the work well under ordinary circumstances, but the conditions in this case were extraordinary, as the whole carcase refused to lend even one drop of oil to hasten the ceremonies. Additional wood was heaped on and stirred up, but to no effect, the carcase would not burn and the ceremony was given up in despair. The remains now lie exposed to sun, wind and weather, and owing to the partial process do not present a very attractive appearance, and the people in the neighborhood are quite justified in demanding that the cremation be properly finished or the remains of the remains decently interred.

Bank of British Columbia

At the half yearly meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of British Columbia, which was held on July 18th, Mr. Robert Gillespie (the chairman of the bank) presided. This not being the period of the bank's financial year at which the full statement of accounts is presented, the only business transacted by the meeting was to approve of a dividend and bonus at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum. The chairman, in the course of his address to the shareholders, stated that the result of the half year ending June 30th was of a highly satisfactory character. It compared favorably with any corresponding half year in the past, and there was the gratifying feature in it that the business of the six months had been conducted without any loss. "You will bear in mind," said the chairman, "how frequently I have alluded to the vigilance, care and ability of the managers of the different branches. I think what I have just said again records that diligence and cleverness on their part." There was a sum of £5,000 added to the reserve fund, making it now stand at £105,000 There was also £7,000 carried forward to the next half year, which was a larger balance than at the corresponding period of last year. The prospects were favorable for the payment of a dividend of 10 per cent. in the next half year. Referring to the prospects of this colony, the chairman said that "there was no doubt that the province of British Columbia is making rapid strides. It is developing its resources greatly. I may tell you that we are carefully watching this progress so as to avail ourselves of new ground whenever we have a fair and reasonable opportunity of business. That we keep steadily in view and I have no reason to doubt but that we shall at the end of the current half year, present to you such a statement of facts and figures as will be satisfactory to you."

THE DEAF HEAR.—After eight years suffering from Deafness, so bad that I was unable to attend to my business, I was cured by the use of Hagyard's Yellow Oil. With gratitude I make this known for the benefit of others afflicted. Harry Ricardo, Toronto, Ont.

Late Canadian News.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 3.—Considerable opposition is springing up to the ratification of the Northern Pacific railroad contract, which is supposed to be promoted by the Hudson's Bay railroad influences. The Free Press has a significant article throwing cold water upon it.

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.—The nomination for East Assiniboia, rendered vacant by the appointment of W. D. Perley, M. P., to the senate, will take place on Sept. 12 and election on the 20th. Mr. Dewdney will be the government candidate as minister of the interior. Mr. Dewdney is not expected here till after election day.

TORONTO, Aug. 5.—Shortly after Geo. Belmont was discharged from the Central prison yesterday after having done six months there, an official called at that insituution to take him to Kingston to do fifteen years for shooting at a Grand Trunk conductor at Whitley. It then transpired that the prison authorities had not been informed of Belmont's second sentence. Belmont is still at large.

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—The execution of Milliman at Charlottown, P. E. I., early this spring for the murder of his sweetheart, and his plea of innocence while on the scaffold, incited several of his friends who believed him not guilty to take the matter up. The result of their efforts has been laid before the minister of justice here, and from what can be gathered they have not only in the opinion of the government, established the fact that an innocent man was hanged, but have placed the crime on the man who committed it, and who swore away Millman's life to save himself from the gallows. It is expected the murderer will be captured within a few days. The question arises if his guilt is established, could two men be hanged for one man's crime?

Legare, who captured Sitting Bull, is about to visit Regina, where an American officer will investigate his claim for a large sum. Legare claims the United States government authorized him to capture Sitting Bull at any cost, and he inveigled his band into Canadian territory by rationing a large number at great expense.
