NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Tacoma Ledger says: All the tin-horn gamblers have been driven out of Astoria by the chief of police. They still flourish in Tacoma and give Sunday-morning prize fights as a side show.

Has it come to this: Minister (called upon to marry a young lady to a feminine dude)—To avoid all mistakes, please state which of you is the bride. Texas Siftings is the authority for the above.

An alderman in Kingston objects to spending the money gathered from taxation for the entertainment of the governor-general. He and his objections were promptly squelched, we are told, of course. The idea of anyone, in this evening of the 19th century, having the impudence to question the morality of spending poor people's money for the benefit of rich men. This alderman must have been born before his time.

Once more, rumors of war. Russia sneering at Germany; Germany talking back, and discovering Russian intrigue and Russian gold behind Boulanger's recent successes in the French elections. What the next twist of the kaleidoscope will give us, one dare not attempt to foretell, but one is tempted to wish that these people would fight it out and have done with it—that seems about the only way out of the status quo.

The British steamship Glenshiel, from the East Indies, recently arrived at New York, reports a sand storm which occurred on the evening of July 10, while the vessel was making for Suez. When half way up the Red Sea a most terrific sand storm, which lasted nearly ten hours, suddenly swept down. It was impossible to see anything a ship's length away. The wind blew a gale, and it was found to be a dangerous experiment to stay on deck for any length of time. The sand was hot, and when it came into contact with the body, would sting like the point of a knife.

We had a paragraph in our "Scientific Miscellany" on Saturday about the influence of environment on animal forms and may point a moral by a quotation from Prof. Durmmond: "To continue the investigation of the modifying action of environment into the moral and spiritual spheres, would be to open a fascinating and suggestive enquiry. One might show how the moral man is acted upon and changed continuously by the influences, secret and open, of his surroundings, by the tone of society, by the company he keeps, by his occupation, by the books he reads.....by all, in short that constitutes the habitual atmosphere of his thoughts and the little world of his daily choice."

Apropos of the rather sensational story going the press rounds the other day, that a young British officer had slyly taken advantage of access to the patent office at Washington to steal Uncle Sam's latest "wrinkles" in torpedoes, a late American dispatch says:—Inquiry into the report that an English army officer had secured complete plans of our coast defenses, and copies of our submerged torpedo charts, brought out the statement that the young officer came here for that purpose, but left disgusted, being unable to learn anything not open to publication generally. Nevertheless, in view of this, and the strained relations with Canada, it is said the torpedo charts will be at once overhauled and rearranged.

In the Popular Science Monthly Dr. Wolf tells a very good story of what he saw in the slave market at Mukinge, in Africa. A distinguished-looking old fellow who had been a chief was among the slaves, and his history was rather novel. During his reign he was continually fighting with the neighboring tribes and many of his subjects were killed in battle. At last his people began to get tired of the business, and decided to sell their chief into slavery, as the best way to get rid of him, and to live for the future in peace. They sold him for ten goats, which were killed, and the meat distributed as a compensation among the relatives of those who died in the frequent battles of their chief. If all peoples and tribes would follow the sensible example of these otherwise benighted Africans, wars would cease to the ends of the earth.

Retaliation Bill Passed by Congress by a Vote of One Hundred and Seventy Six to 4.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

THE RETALIATION BILL PASSED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The house to-day passed the retaliation bill by a vote of 176 to 4, Bayne, Dalzeel, Lind and White voting in the negative.

DESTRUCTIVE FLOODS.

WATERLOO, Iowa, Sept. 8.—The Kongaree river rose 15 feet on Thursday night and overflowed its banks, inundating thousands of acres of cotton and corn lands. It is estimated that 25 per cent. of the cotton crop will be lost. The river is now 20 feet above low water and is rising. The Broad and Saluda rivers are also high. The damage will reach over $1,000,000.

SHARP PRACTICE.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 8.—W. H. Lyons, a real estate agent and secretary of the Sterling Live Stock Insurance Company, has left the city with about $30,000 obtained by fraudulent methods. His plan was to secure the name of non-resident land owners and descriptions of their property and forge transfers of such lands to J. W. Penrose, whose agent he claimed to be. After the transfers had been recorded he made out deeds of transfer signed by Penrose, and executed by himself as attorney, and then used the proceeds to his own advantage.

BURNED TO DEATH.

CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich., Sept. 8.—Last night Louis Brown and wife were burned to death in their home on Point River, 20 miles from here. Mrs. Brown was unable to unlock the door and perished. Her husband saved his six children, after which he went into the house to get his money and was overcome by the smoke and burned to death.

A DISASTROUS CONFLAGRATION.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—About one o'clock this afternoon an alarm was turned on for what proved to be one of the most stubborn and disastrous fires that has ever visited this city. At the time the alarm was sounded a mild breeze was blowing from the southeast. Where the fire occurred there are located the principal foundries, machine shops, lumber yards and coal depots. The fire started in A. F. Knorp's mill, a large wooden building surrounded by structures of the same material. The building was soon enveloped in flames which in turn communicated to the National iron works, a large three-story frame building on the corner of Howard and Main streets. The fire continued making rapid headway, while the wind freshened considerably. The National works, admitted to be one of the best foundry plants in the city, will be a total loss. The works represented $80,000 capital invested, with a small insurance. Six streams under full pressure kept up a deluge on the National works until with a crash the second and third floors gave way. This burning mass of ruins, fanned by the increasing wind, drove the flames across the street until the famous Risdon Iron works was seriously threatened. The signboard of the latter establishment caught fire at the Main street extremity. A large gang of men mounted the roof and with an ordinary garden hose, buckets and cans of all descriptions saved the building until such time as the firemen could direct several streams upon the incipient blaze. From the National iron works the fire caught near the end of the Globe brass foundry, the Eureka iron works, and forcing its way through the centre of the block, burned everything on the east side, slightly scorching the western end of the block. By this time the block bounded by Mission, Howard, Beale and Main streets, was insupportable. The firemen then held their posts until the heat became unbearable, and in their retreat were obliged to abandon their hose. The wind continued to increase, blowing steadily to the water front. At this stage it became evident that the shipping anchored along the wharves in the direct line of the fire was in danger. Hawsers were loosed while tugs, with a full head of steam on, were ready to render assistance should it become necessary. The fire boat Gov. Irwin, was tied to the inner end of Howard street wharf pumping eight streams for upwards of three hours. From the northeast corner of Main and Howard streets, to which place the scene of the fire was moved by the wind, it rapidly swept up Mission street taking in the Union box factory, a long two-storied frame building, not mentioning a large number of minor structures and small lumber yards. The fire continued to make rapid headway finishing up the block bounded by Main, Mission, Howard and Spear streets, and was a solid mass of burning ruins. It now menaced the extensive lumber wards, all with enormous stocks on hand; the blind, sash and door factories were also in line of the flames, when, to add to the excitement it was found that the fire department was sadly in need of hose. It became necessary to communicate with merchant's agents, etc., dealing in that article, resulting in a second and third instalments of hose. The extensive lumber yard of Jackson, Springer & Co. was completely burned out, also the yard of Geo. S. Given and the Union box factory, after which John Wigmore & Sons followed. Blythe & Trew were damaged only on Mission street to the extent of $15,000. From this point the fire swept to Stewart street where R. N. Partridge and Preston & McKinnon were damaged. Eventually the fire reached East street where the coal yard of Geo. Fritch was next fired. Fritch only recently received a full stock of coal. He estimates that his yard had about $60,000 worth of coal on hand, though he is unable to tell his exact loss and had no insurance. The ship Detroit, from Seattle, at Howard street wharf, had her foretop gallant sail, fore top-sail and main sail burned but sustained no other damage. The total loss is variously estimated at a million and a-half dollars. The principal losers are as follows: National iron works, $80,000; Joseph Wagner & Co., $350,000; Jackson, Springer & Co., $70,000; Day, Huber & Co., $25,000; Deakin, $50,000; Blythe & Trew, $150,000, partly insured; Pare Bros., $4,000, insurance $400; P. Mayer & Co., $10,000; Geo. Fritch, $30,000; Preston & McKinnon, $10,000; A. F. Knorp, $15,000; Columbia foundry, $8,000; Eureka foundry, $60,000; Globe brass foundry, $7,500; Dutton & Co., $4,000. There are over one thousand men thrown out of employment. Carcley, a fireman, is missing.

TO-DAY'S DESPATCHES.

VESSELS WRECKED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—The British bark Derby Park, from Point Discovery for Melbourne, was wrecked on Penhayn Island. The crew landed at Tahiti, but the captain's wife was drowned.

The schr. Bessie Everding went ashore at one o'clock this morning in thick fog one mile below Cliff House. The crew were saved. She was loaded with ties and wood.

AMERICAN TRICKS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—A sensational story is just beginning to go the rounds in connection with the Goldensen case. It is said a writ has been issued requiring Sheriff McCann to produce the condemned man in the probate court on Wednesday morning for the purpose of passing upon his sanity, and that the sheriff refuses to produce the murderer in court on the ground that Goldensen is in his custody by virtue of an order from the superior court for the purpose of being hanged. Sheriff McCann is credited with holding the opinion that Governor Stone is the only person that could release Goldensen from his predicament and until he is notified by the governor to the contrary he proposes to carry out the judgment of the court. Goldensen is sentenced to be hanged on Friday. It is also reported that Judge Murphy, who sentenced Goldensen, has absented himself from the city to avoid the service of a subpoena.

LOST AND FOUND.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—Thos. A. Pope, a tender to the Arctic whaling fleet, previously reported to be lost in the ice with the season's catch, arrived in port safely this afternoon. The reason of her delay was that she encountered a severe storm and was obliged to lay to. She brought down the catch of the lost whalers. She reports that the Arctic was unusually free from ice during the spring and prospects for a good season are the very best.

Late Canadian News.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 5.—A young lady visiting here has become deranged through attending services at the gospel tent.

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—General Manager Buchanan, of the Bank of Montreal, has returned to Montreal from the Northwest, and reports 20,000,000 bushels of grain for export. He visited the Mormon settlement, which he says is very prosperous.

MONTREAL, Sept. 5.—It has been discovered that S. O. Dupree, the cashier of the Lyon's bank at Lyons, Kansas, who is missing and whose cash is $10,000 short, stopped at a hotel recently and then went west. His brother, who is on his track and believes he is insane, has also gone west in pursuit of the fugitive.

ST. JUSTINE, Que., Sept. 5.—The farmers in this vicinity are very disconsolate since the last gale, which has caused a loss that will aggregate about $60,000. The farmers are beginning to sell their cattle and are buying their winter's provisions. The crops are really not worth harvesting.

KINGSTON, Sept. 5.—Mrs. Pierrepont Morgan, of New York, while boating near Gananoque, lost jewelry valued at $15,000. A diver has gone to try to recover the valuables.

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—Ministers Tupper and Foster addressed a conservative gathering at Beaverton yesterday.

OTTAWA, Sept. 7.—In the grand aggregate of the Dominion rifle matches, Staff-Sergeant Mitchell of the 90th heads the list with 305 points, while Chamberlain of the 95th has 273 and Graburn of the 91st has 267. Last year the highest score was 276. This will give a good chance to either of the three shots who may do well to-day in the governor-general's match to get a place in the Wimbledon team.

A large audience assembled in the city chambers yesterday to witness the marriage of the Rev. Marc Ami to Mrs. Graburn, widow of the mounted policeman murdered by Indians in the Northwest some years ago. Ami failed to appear, having sailed for France. The affair caused a great sensation.

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—There was a short meeting of the cabinet to-day when the president's message and its probable results were again informally discussed without any positive action. Sir John Macdonald says he will not recede from the position he has taken and is in that fully sustained by the British government. He believes that out of the evil good will come, as by adopting a policy of retaliation toward Canada, the U. S. will be forcing the Dominion to become self-reliant and dependent on her own resources.

Daily British Columbian

Monday Evening, Sept. 10, 1888.

Lord Salisbury, the present Tory prime minister, recently presented his son, the Rev. Lord William Gascoigne Cecil, an unknown curate at Yarmouth, to the valuable living of Bishop's Hatfield with Totteridge, in Hertfordshire. This living is worth £2,097 a year. The duties of the Totteridge church have been performed by a curate at the beggarly yearly salary of £100, although the tithes have amounted to £350. The poor curate of Totteridge resigned his charge, being unable to live on the small allowance. The people of Totteridge petitioned Lord Salisbury to make Totteridge a separate benefice, and endow it with a fair income, and retain their former curate; but he refused, and his own son gets the whole carcass, whilst the poor curates who do the work have to live with their distressed families on starvation salaries. In this same town of Hatfield, where Lord Salisbury is the chief landlord, the Methodists have been compelled to meet for forty years in a public-house stable, for which they paid 18 pence a week. These things take place in enlightened England, and such are the sub rosa doings of some of her *noble*men. Verily, we have need of the millenium.

In a recent letter from George Brooks, London, to an American paper, a deplorable picture, induced by the rigors of landlordism, is shown of the once charming farming district of East Lothian, where Scottish agriculture had reached its utmost perfection, and its tenant farmers were the most splendid men of their class to be found anywhere. These men are now ruined. Some of the most skilled of them who started with £20,000 or £30,000 of capital are now reduced to beggary. Says the writer: "One whom I know farmed 1500 acres and paid £3 10s. per acre rent. His landlord is a half idiotic youth with an income of £100,000 per annum, and spends most of his time in driving a four-in-hand at Florence. A. J. Balfour, our present secretary of state, is an East Lothian landlord, and one of the worst of the class. He is a merciless rack-renter. Yet Mr. Balfour is to speak at the forthcoming church congress on practical Christianity. East Lothian is now virtually a desolate and deserted country, its splendid agriculture gone to ruin. The farmers of Scotland have suffered greater hardships than the Irish farmers, though the world has heard little of their oppression. The land question will yet convulse the whole of the United Kingdom."

We have received from the Dominion land office in this city a map of New Westminster district, issued by the department of the interior. The map is neatly got up, being lithographed by the Dominion lands lithographic office, and is designed to illustrate the Dominion lands in the railway belt of 20 miles on either side of the railway, in this district. It will prove a convenience to prospective settlers on these lands as the map is carried out on a principle of considerable detail. With all the detail, however, a stupid oversight has occurred in the matter of the Westminster branch, which does not appear on the map at all. This might be inexcusable and unaccountable, if one could believe that it was the result of design; but we are informed by Mr. Higginson, of the Dominion lands office in this city, that the omission was accidental, and was caused by compiling the new map from an older one issued in this city before the existence of the branch line. Mr. Higginson says that the next map published will show the Westminster branch and also, probably, the Westminster Southern. This city has not been so highly favored on maps, prospectuses, etc., as some towns that we could mention, but it is not a "paper" town. It stands on its own bottom, and is superior to the adventitious stimulus so necessary to floating some embryo cities.

In a leading article on Friday last we commended the action of the city council in laying over certain matters, brought before them at a special meeting on Thursday night by the Westminster Southern Railway Company, until the regular weekly session to-night, for the reason that it would not have been prudent to either accept or reject the proposals placed before them, on such short notice. We also republished certain clauses of the the "workshops" by-law, the gist of which will be seen to be, when stripped of its legal verbiage, about as follows: When the Westminster Southern Railway Company (i. e., our own citizens, who in this matter act as the trustees of the city, and stand between the city and the American contractors, C. M. Sheafe & Co.) shall have entered into an agreement with the city council to erect and maintain the workshops and the ferry, provided for by city by-laws, and shall also furnish a sufficient bond for the fulfilment of their agreement, the city council may, by resolution, authorise the mayor, and the mayor, thus authorized, may issue and hand over to the Company—the city's trustees—the amount of the bonus debentures; the Company (as will be seen in the agreement between the Company and the Contractors—C. M. Sheafe & Co.), on behalf of the city, paying over to the Contractors the bonus money from time to time as the work shall progress, as the same shall be certified by the city's engineers. We stated on Friday in good faith, without any intention to injure the Company—and we believe a considerable number of our readers agreed with us at the time—"That the company's proposal strikes every one at the first blush as irregular cannot be denied. It is possible, however," we concluded, "that it might be put in some less objectionable form, and we shall be glad to publish any explanation or amplification which the railway company may see fit to lay before the public." It would appear that the practical object of the proposals laid before the council on Thursday last was to have such action taken by the council as would make the bonuses available when required. It is true the money has been voted by the ratepayers, but a good deal requires to be done and considerable time must necessarily elapse, in the usual course of business, before the debentures can be placed on the market and realized from. It is the intention of the company and the contractors to push construction both on the road and the works provided for by by-laws, and the city is expected not to be behind-hand with its part of the bargain. Neither the company nor the contractors, however, need have any misgivings on this score. Our city council—and particularly the mayor, who has for years held that honorable position—have had considerable experience in bonusing railways and other enterprises, and have an unexceptionable record in this respect. If references are wanted, the C.P.R. can testify to the strictly honorable and business-like treatment received at the hands of the city council in the matter of the Westminster branch of the C. P. R. bonused by this city a little over two years ago. We understand that similar arrangements will be made with the Westminster Southern Railway Company in the matter of the debentures as were made with the C.P.R. with respect to the Westminster branch. The debentures will be issued with due despatch and held in trust by the mayor for the corporation. The mayor and council will also give a bond to the railway company that the amount of the bonuses shall be forthcoming as the work progresses, as the company shall be entitled to receive the same. This arrangement is understood to be satisfactory to all concerned. The matter will probably be further laid over at the council meeting to-night to give time for perfecting details. The contractors and the company are arranging to push construction in all departments, and we are glad to state that no delays of any sort will occur.

We know of no mode of treatment which offers, to sufferers from chronic diseases, a more certain hope of cure than that which is comprehended in the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For purifying and invigorating the blood, this preparation is unequalled.

indicates a natural and healthy condition of the scalp, and of the glands through which nourishment is obtained. When, in consequence of age and disease, the hair becomes weak, thin, and gray, Ayer's Hair Vigor will strengthen it, restore its original color, promote its rapid and vigorous growth, and impart to it the lustre and freshness of youth.

I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a long time; and am convinced of its value. When I was 17 years of age my hair began to turn gray. I commenced using the Vigor, and was surprised at the good effects it produced. It not only restored the color to my hair, but so stimulated its growth, that I have now more hair than ever before.—J. W. Edwards, Coldwater, Miss.

HER LETTER.

"Sitting alone with your pen, dear,
And you so far away,
And, when you read the letter,
I wonder what you will say.
The room seems to whisper around me,
The voices are hushed as I pore
Just as they did that day, dear,
When you told me all your love!"

"I can see her," he fondly whispered,
As he sat by the far camp fire,
And read and read her letter
With heart that could never tire.
"I can see her true eyes shining
As she leans on her little hand,
And gazes and dreams about me
Here in this distant land."

The bugle rang out at midnight,
The fight was lost ere morn.
He fell, with his old battalion,
In dense horse fashion.
While at home the moon is shining,
And the roses of June unfold,
But the maiden is quietly weeping
As she comes her dream of old.

HORSES WITH BOGUS TAILS.

Flowing Caudal Appendages from the Wigmaker's Establishment.

A stylish barouche drawn by two prancing horses drove out Walnut street recently. A well-known wigmaker was standing at Broad and Walnut streets talking to a Times reporter.

"Do you see that team?" said the wigmaker. "Well, do you see what beautiful flowing tails they've got? They're bogus."

The little wigmaker laughed aloud and then said:

"I made those tails. I make tails for a good many stylish horses. You know that a horse without a handsome tail isn't handsome at all. He may have a beautiful mane and hold his head high and stamp and prance and bite his bit, showing all the traits of a full-blooded animal, but if he hasn't got a long, flowing tail all the other graces go for nothing.

"There are a great many stylish steppers driven in the park every day that have false tails that sweep the ground. The horses get used to the false tails just as a man becomes accustomed to wearing a wig.

"The false tails are fastened on to the horse's own tail so nicely that you can't detect the deception. The tails don't have to be removed at night when the horse is put in his stall. The bogus tails can be washed and brushed and combed on the horse just as well as off him.

"The bogus tails cost from $10 to $15. I generally make a pair for $25. They will last as long as the horse. I buy dead horses' tails and manes just as I buy human hair. The practice of docking horses' tails is shocking."

"The practice is dying out; but a tail will never grow in like it was before it was cut short. The way to cultivate a horse's tail is to clip it about an inch once a month."—Philadelphia Times.

AN EXILED QUEEN.

The Obscure Life of Marie, of Naples.

Marie, the exiled queen of Naples, lives the year round in Paris, in hired apartments on a third floor, for which she pays $1,200 a year rent. The house is retired and unfashionable, and the rooms are furnished with almost meagre simplicity.

This recluse-like life is followed by the Queen's own desire, to which her husband readily acceded. She feels that she is an outcast from her former estate, and therefore is determined to live like an outcast.

"If," she once remarked, "I remain at the bottom of the ladder, I shall at least have no fear of falling further. If I cherish no hopes I shall suffer no disappointments; if I set my heart on nothing I shall not be bereaved.

"I went to Naples a queen, and in a year I left it an exile. My rooms in the palace there were scarcely put in order for me when I was driven out by the revolution. Then we went to Rome. My husband owned a palace there, and we made it our home. What then? In a few years Victor Emmanuel drove us out of it. We fled to England and then to France.

"We were about to make a permanent home and devote ourselves to each other and to our only child, when that child died. Has not misfortune pressed us cruelly?

"Doubtless, if we were to purchase a house and seek to make a permanent home it would be taken from us. If we were so blest as to make friends we would lose them. No, we are exiles and wanderers, and such we must remain."

HINT FOR THE GAY AND FESTIVE.

Eating Onions for the Cure of Red Noses.

"I will give $500 to the man who will restore my nose to its natural color," said a well-dressed man in a down-town saloon on Saturday. Then, as if to give zest to his remark, he gulped down a big drink of whiskey, and, putting the glass down on the bar, he took a long and wistful look into the dim prospective of his life when his nasal organ was of the tinge it should be now.

"I don't know how it ever got so red," he continued, after ordering "a little of the same."

At his remark the bartender winked slyly at the man's companion and gave a significant glance at the empty glass on the bar.

A physician, who makes his headquarters in a Chestnut street drug store, was asked if there was any way in which a man could be cured of his red nose, and his answer was an emphatic "no."

"It is a bad thing to have a red nose," he said, "because most people think that it was brought about by whiskey drinking; and while this belief is justified in a majority of instances, it is not always the case.

"One of Philadelphia's most prominent men has a nose as red as a rooster's comb, and I know that he never drank a drop of liquor in his life. He will carry it with him to his grave.

"Cheese, if eaten frequently and in large quantities, will delay reddening of the nose, but if a man is addicted to per the whiskey and the cheese will have a tussle, and the whiskey will ultimately get there and fresco the nose for him in the most approved style."—Philadelphia Press.

The Best Kind of Crop.

He had occasion to drive from the station to his destination with a typical "Cape Codder," one of those keen but not over-brilliant-looking sons of the seacoast.

The Bostonian had noticed as they rode along, the bleak country, with its uninviting fields and sandy strips of land, and finally said to his companion:

"I don't see how you live in this forlorn looking country. What do you raise down here, anyway?"

"Wall," was the drawling answer, "we plant schoolhouse and raise men."

HAPPY ICELAND.

Its Geography, People and Institutions Described by a Native Now in This Country.

Fr. Ludwig von Dolcke is the son of an Icelandic state-holder, a gentleman of refinement, who was educated in Sweden, and has traveled extensively, and has come to this country to practice his profession of electrologist.

The Doctor speaks English fluently, having remained in the country twenty-three months when he first came here in 1844 as Commissioner to select the lands in Dakota and joining British Columbia territory, upon which a colony of six thousand Icelanders settled later. He says that four thousand more are coming very soon.

"A popular ignorance of Iceland prevails," the doctor said, "owing, I think, largely to the misleading name of Iceland. The island, of about 40,000 square miles, is green and fertile in the southern portion from May until October, when deer and sheep graze at large. In winter the snow is abundant.

"The recent millennium celebration has attracted travelers to Iceland lately. A good line of steamers sail from Copenhagen fortnightly. The country is under the protection of Denmark, and there the connection ends.

"There are nine provinces, each of which elect twelve of the oldest and wisest of its citizens to perform duties somewhat analogous to a State legislature here. There is also a national gathering similar to the House of Representatives and a body like the Senate, which meets once a year. But there is little governing and no law making to do.

"Each man governs himself upon the broadest principles of personal liberty in everything.

"The Icelanders are descended from the old Norse Vikings, the free-born families tracing their lineage to Harold and his men, who, their rich Norse mythology says, landed in 618. Your history makes it in the eighth century.

"The land is owned by a few, and those who work the estates are serfs, who pay rental.

"Traveling is by pony or deer, and in the mountains of northern Iceland man's foot has never trod. The Icelandic pony will take you as far as it is safe for you to go.

"The city of Redjavik has about 13,000 people, the greater portion of the people living upon the estates. There is splendid hunting and fishing, the wild game, similar to the northern part of this country, being nearly all white. Polar bears that come down with the icebergs furnish popular hunting.

"The Icelander is very proud of his pure and courageous Norman blood. You know that the French, English and German aristocracy, if possible, will claim even a trace of Norman blood, and there is a people that have nothing else.

"I never heard of but two cases of thieving. One was an Icelander who had broken his arm and whose family in the winter were suffering for food. He stole several sheep and was finally detected. He was at once put under medical care for his injury, provisions were furnished his family and he was in time given work. That was his punishment.

"The other case was a German who stole seventeen sheep. He was in comfortable circumstances and the theft was malicious. His punishment was to sell all his property, restore the value of his thefts and leave the country or be executed. He left at once."

Disputes and trades are settled by arbitration, the doctor says, and the decision must be accepted by all concerned. Public disgrace attaches to any slight misdeed and no one can live there and undergo the consequent mortification.

"Besides agriculture, which produces barley, rye and vegetables, the great industry is sheep raising. The exports are largely eiderdown, picked from wild birds, lava from the volcano, Mt. Hecla, which is pumice stone, and sulphur, which is found in similar and such varied states as salt.

"Vineland is the name of America used by all the people except the few who were educated abroad," continued the doctor. "It is the old Norse name.

"No people in the world are esteemed so highly as Americans, and this is why:

"The Icelanders know that their blood is purer than any of the European nations, where every man is generally a lord or a peasant, as he is born. But in America every boy and girl is born a prince or princess. The Icelander loves his own personal freedom and princely birth. He thinks that the man who has won both by the possession of political conditions for which he fought is his equal."

MANUFACTURING MELANCHOLY.

Strange Reason Why a Sturdy Fellow Thought Himself in a Declining Way.

I met at lunch yesterday a young fellow of my acquaintance who told me with a lugubrious look that he was not so strong then as he had been the day before, that he should be weaker still on the following day, and so on to the close of his life.

I was much shocked at this painful announcement, supposing, of course, that he was suffering from some incurable organic disease, and that his doctor had just pronounced sentence of death upon him. The case seemed to be a particularly hard one, inasmuch as the fellow was apparently in the very flush of health, and I had long known him as a vigorous athlete.

I was casting about in my mind for something appropriate to say on the occasion, when he relieved my fears by stating the exact cause of the trouble.

"You see," he said, "yesterday was my thirty-fifth birthday, and after 35 all the authorities agree a man's bodily strength begins to decline. So, you understand, I am on the down track, bound to get weaker every day until I sink into the grave. Isn't that enough to make a fellow blue?"—Boston Post.

Business Principles.

A man went into a provision store in Boston the proprietor of which was German.

"How much do you ask for your sausages?" he inquired.

"Dwenty cents."

"I can buy them for a shilling of Mr. ——."

"Vy you didn't, den?"

"He was all out of them."

"Oh, vell, I sells mine sausages for a shilling, doo, ven I vas oudt."—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

The Fate of Unposted Letters.

No man ever carried a letter around in his pocket a fortnight and failed to tear it up and write it over again.—Boston Herald.

A Plaid Kitten.

A little girl belonging to an east end family has a tortoise-shell kitten which she describes as a plaid.—Toronto Globe.

"It Saved My Life"

Is a common expression, often heard from those who have realized, by personal use, the curative powers of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. "I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, believing as I do that, but for its use, I should long since have died from lung troubles.—E. Bragdon, Palestine, Tex.

About six months ago I had a severe Hemorrhage of the Lungs, brought on by a distressing Cough, which deprived me of sleep and rest. I had used various cough balsams and expectorants, without obtaining relief. A friend advised me to try

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

I did so, and am happy to say that it helped me at once. By continued use this medicine cured my cough, and, I am satisfied, saved my life.—Mrs. E. Coburn, 18 Second st., Lowell, Mass.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for over a year, and sincerely believe I should have been in my grave, had it not been for this medicine. It has cured me of a dangerous affection of the lungs, for which I had almost despaired of ever finding a remedy.—D. A. McMullen, Windsor, Province of Ontario.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life. Two years ago I took a very severe Cold which settled on my lungs. I consulted physicians, and took the remedies they prescribed, but failed to obtain relief until I began using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Two bottles of this medicine completely restored my health.—Lizzie M. Allen, West Lancaster, Ohio. ††

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

HEAD OFFICE, TORONTO, CANADA

A HOME COMPANY.

This Association merits the confidence the Public is reposing in it from the following FACTS:—

The Security offered to policy holders is unsurpassed by any Company doing business in Canada.

It has no schemes of insurance, but the well-established lines, hence the policy holders cannot be misled as to their contracts.

Its statements to the public can be readily understood, its cash statement showing every item of income and new expended.

Its position is ascertained annually from a detailed valuation in which every item of liability is included.

Its progress has been unexampled in the history of insurance in Canada.

Its policies are indisputable after three years, and non-forfeitable after two years' existence.

Its profits are distributed upon an equitable basis. The profits to one class of policy holders are not lessened to give larger profits to any other class, which method affords superior advantages over the uniform bonus plan of distribution.

Ackerman Bros. have commenced moving one of the buildings on the Hamley lot up Columbia street this morning. If this building is removed with any degree of success the remaining buildings will also be moved.

Mr. Pat Pittendrigh left this morning by the Irving with a party of men for Harrison River, where he will be engaged for the next three months obtaining the ova from the spawning salmon and placing them in the hatchery.

The salmon run has decreased considerably since last week, the boats bringing in this morning only an average of 25 to the boat; but the sturgeon still continue to run well. About 1500 pounds of fish were sent to Victoria and Vancouver to-day.

The str. Gladys came down from Chilliwhack and way ports, bringing 30 passengers, 100 boxes apples, 53 bales of hay, 20 sacks of potatoes, 15 sacks of vegetables and 30 packages of sundries. She goes up again at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The football club held its first practice last Saturday afternoon and will continue to hold practices throughout the season. As several good men have lately joined them, we may expect very shortly to see a remarkable improvement upon last year's playing.

Parkers Cough Balsam, Mitchell's Castoria.

Loewenberg, Harris & Co., real estate agents of Victoria, will open a branch office in the Colonial building this week. Mr. Herbert Finlayson, who has been in the firm's Victoria office for many years, will have charge of the office in this city. Mr. Finlayson is an old Westminsterite, and will be welcomed back by all his old friends.

J. Baldwin Hands, barrister, of Toronto, has been struck off the rolls of the law society for unprofessional conduct. The charge preferred was that he appropriated $700 given him by Miss Crane, of St. Catharines, for investment. It will thus be seen that the legal fraternity know how to repudiate and condemn flagrant dishonesty as well as other people.

On Friday afternoon last, as Mr. Gilley was proceeding up the river with his steam pile driver "Rustler" one of the wheels, which have rather a home-made appearance, came in contact with a snag, causing so much damage to the buckets of the wheel that Mr. Gilley was obliged to return to the city for repairs. The repairs have been made and the Rustler will once more rustle with the Fraser river current.

A correspondent writing from Port Moody, says:—"We had a large number of visitors here yesterday, from Vancouver and New Westminster, and all went merrily for a time, but either from the effects of the flowing bowl or the desire for combat, more than one pugilistic duel was heard of. This will no doubt be a place of note should the government leave the casual comers and goers alone long enough."

Messrs. Parker & Laird, of Hillsdale, writes: "Our Mr. Laird having occasion to visit Scotland, and knowing the excellent qualities of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, concluded to take some with him, and the result has been very astonishing. We may say that in several instances it has effected cures when ailments had been pronounced incurable by eminent practitioners."

Presbytery Meeting.

The Presbytery of Columbia meets to-morrow afternoon in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in this city. In the evening a public congregational meeting will be held in the church, at which Rev. Mr. McLeod, of Victoria, Rev. R. Y. Thomson, of Vancouver, and others will speak.

The Annual Scotch Gathering.

The Caledonian and St. Andrew's society is making extensive preparations for the annual Scotch gathering to be given in the agricultural grounds in this city on October 4th. The gathering will be made the most attractive that has ever been given in the city and this, together with the grand ball which is to be given in the Oddfellows' Assembly Hall during the evening, will make a memorable day for the sons of Auld Scotia in this city. An excellent supper will be prepared and will be partaken of in one of the Masonic ante rooms.

Contracts Awarded.

G. W. Gilley & Co. have been awarded the contract for the channel improvements at the mouth of the Fraser. The contract calls for 40 brush mattresses, similar to those sunk by T. F. Sinclair last year. Mr. Gilley left by the steamer Rithet for Victoria to complete arrangements in connection with the work. Mr. Gilley has obtained a contract from the R. C. P. Mills Co. for dredging the river adjacent to the old Dominion sawmill. The Co. has purchased a dredger which is on the way from Ontario. As soon as it arrives Mr. Gilley will commence operations.

The Woolen Mills.

The Westminster woolen mills has a large number of hands employed at present and are turning out a large quantity of goods which we are glad to say find a ready market. The blankets which have been turned out lately are of the very best material and have given entire satisfaction to every one who purchased them, and experts say that they are equal to any blanket that can be manufactured, and there is no reason why they should not be. One of the looms is weaving blankets, others are weaving dark blue and checked flannels, while the remaining ones are employed weaving tweeds,, which will be of the very latest patterns. These tweeds the energetic company is having made into ready-made clothing and a drummer is now on the road somewhere in the province receiving orders for the clothing.

An Orthodox Dinner.

Last Friday week, while at the Harrison Hot Springs, our highly-respected fellow citizen Mr. James McNamarra, who is a good Catholic, resolved to dine in orthodox style. He caught a trout in a clear cold stream that flows by the hot wells, and then he provided himself with two Irish potatoes; these he tied to the end of his fishing line and let both down into the hot well and in half an hour they were cooked. He then lowered the trout into that boiling water which flows from the bosom of dear old mother earth and in ten minutes it was done to a turn also, and the veteran enjoyed a rich repast. Everyone will admit that this system of cookery is cheap; Mr. McNamara says it is excellent, and we venture to affirm that his Friday dinner on that occasion was the first cooked in this province without kindling a fire. Mac says that such a dinner on a log in the midst of such magnificent scenery is fit for a king.

James Cullen, Pool's Island, N. F., writes: "I have been watching the progress of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil since its introduction to this place, and with much pleasure state that my anticipations of its success have been fully realized, it having cured me of bronchitis and soreness of nose; while not a few of my 'rheumatic neighbors' (one old lady in particular) pronounce it to be the best article of its kind that has ever been brought before the public. Your medicine does not require any longer a sponsor, but if you wish me to act as such, I shall be only to happy to have my name connected with your prosperous child."

C. P. R. Line to Seattle.

Advices from Richmond state that the C. P. R. has agreed to build a traffic bridge in conjunction with the proposed Vancouver and Seattle Railway bridge across the North Arm, for a bonus of $20,000. The amount required for bonus is already on hand, the government having made a grant of $10,000 and the municipality another $10,00 for a bridge in that neighborhood. The line of the proposed railroad intersects the Fraser at a point about the upper end of Sea Island, and that being the point at which the municipality proposed to build the bridge in the first place, they will willingly accede to the proposed conditions, especially as the C.P.R. agree to maintain and keep the bridge in repair. We understand that it is the intention of the C.P.R. to use a steam ferry in connection with the said railway, for some time, in crossing the south channel of the Fraser.

Poor Georgie Herring.

It is our sad duty to chronicle the death of Georgie Edward May, second son of Alderman A. M. Herring, which occurred to-day about noon, in the 11th year of his age, at the residence of his parents on Mary street in this city. A week ago last Friday Georgie, with his mother, was spending the summer holidays at Port Moody, when some time during the day the fourth *finger of the right hand was accidental*ly cut and nearly severed from the hand by his elder brother, who was chopping wood with a heavy axe. The wound was dressed in this city in less than two hours from the time of the accident, and progressed favorably up to Saturday night last, when he went to bed, apparently quite well. Early yesterday (Sunday) morning Mr. Herring heard his son crying in an adjoining room and upon going to see the cause found Georgie in a spasm. These spasms continued in quick succession until about noon the same day, when that dreaded affliction tetanus, more commonly know as lock-jaw, set in and terminated fatally, as before stated, about noon to-day. Mr. and Mrs. Herring have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in the early loss of their bright little boy. The funeral will probably take place on Wednesday.

After Ten Years.

About ten years ago Mr. Frederick W. Tremills, now of Ladner's Landing, left his home in Devonshire, England, to try his luck in the far west. He was somewhat young at the time, and thought that some day he would return home, get married, and settle down, and to be sure of his being able to fulfil the second part of his programme he left Miss Edith Alice Ford to await his return, when the two would be made one. For ten years did they correspond, when, as the tendency of many people in England is to come west, Miss Ford decided to follow suit. A month ago the young lady left Devonshire and arrived in this city by to-day's eastern train, and upon stepping to the platform of the station she was met by Mr. Tremills, *who accorded her an affectionate greet*ing after so many years separation. So affectionate was the meeting that they then and there decided to quit their batchelor and maiden state in order that they may be man and wife. Accordingly the Rev. J. H. White, pastor of the Methodist church, was sent for, and the two were married in the wheel house of the str. Rithet this afternoon a few minutes before the boat left for Victoria. The affair was whispered around on the wharf and caused rather an excitement.

The Encyclical Letter.

There was a fair congregation in attendance at Holy Trinity church yesterday morning to hear the encyclical letter from His Grace the archbishop of Canterbury read by the Ven. Archdeacon Woods. The letter which is couched in very choice language, contains a copy of a report of the Lambeth Episcopal conference which has just closed. His Grace commends a series of resolutions, formally adopted by the conference, to the consideration of the Episcopal church throughout the world, from which we take the following clauses, referring more particularly to a basis for re-union:—That in the opinion of this conference, the following articles supply a basis on which approach may be by God's blessing made towards home re-union:—

The Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, as "containing all things necessary to salvation" and as being the rule and ultimate standard of faith;

The Apostles' Creed, as the baptismal symbol; and the Nicene Creed, as the sufficient statement of the Christian faith;

The two sacraments ordained by Christ himself—Baptism and the Supper of the Lord—ministered by unfailing use of Christ's words of institution and of the elements ordained by him;

The Historic Espicopate locally adapted in the methods of its administration to the varying needs of the nations and peoples called of God into the unity of His church;

That this conference earnestly requests the constituted authorities of the various branches of our communion, acting, so far as may be, in concert with one another, to make it known that they hold themselves in readiness to enter into brotherly conference (such as that which has already been proposed by the church of the United States of America), with the representatives of other Christian Communions in the English-speaking races, in order to consider what steps can be taken, either toward corporate re-union or towards such relations as may prepare the way for fuller organic unity hereafter.

Mr. R. C. Winlow, Toronto, writes:—"Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery is a valuable medicine to all who are troubled with Indigestion. I tried a bottle of it after suffering for some ten years, and the results are certainly beyond my expectations. It assists digestion wonderfully. I digest my food with no apparent effort, and am now entirely free from that sensation, which every dyspeptic well knows, of unpleasant fullness after each meal.

Important Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Y.M.C.A. will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the new assembly room in the Armstrong building, Columbia st. center. As this will be a most important meeting all the members are earnestly requested to be present in order that they may have a voice in and hear discussions on matters connected with the best interests and future of the association. The matter of obtaining a trained general secretary to take the place of Mr. J. R. Robinson, who has lately severed his connection with the association will be brought up and very probably two delegates will be appointed to attend the Y.M.C.A. convention which will take place at Seattle on the 20th inst., at which time it is thought that a general secretary will be promoted from the training home in Massachusetts in this city. As there are a large number awaiting an opportunity to become members, they will have a chance of entering their proposal and of being identified with the association as well as enjoying the privileges connected with it.

Personal.

I. B. Fisher, manager of the Bank of B.C., returned from Victoria yesterday.

Mrs. Barlow, mother of Mrs. A. J. McColl, left by the Atlantic express on Saturday for Ontario.

Mr. Pottmeyer, principal of the Vancouver public school, came over to the Royal city on Saturday and returned this morning.

George Hague, of Montreal, general manager of the Merchants Bank of Canada, and his son, Mr. Fred. Hague, were in the city to-day.

C. E. Woods, of Woods, Turner & Gamble, went down to Ladners by the Rithet and will be absent from the city several days on a surveying tour.

This morning C. E. Woods, of this city, received a telegram from his brother, Rev. Phillip D. Woods, in Quebec, stating that he would leave that city at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon for New Westminster. The reverend gentleman has been absent from this city for the period of 16 years.

Mrs. Celeste Coon, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "For years I could not eat many kinds of food without producing a burning, excruciating pain in my stomach. I took Parmelee's Pills according to directions under the head of 'Dyspepsia or Indigestion.' One box entirely cured me. I can now eat anything I choose, without distressing me in the least." These Pills do not cause pain or griping, and should be used when a cathartic is required.
