SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

Norway has more earthquakes than is generally supposed. Dr. Hans Reusch records 23 for 1887, all but three, however, being very slight.

Prof. Pickering, of the Harvard College Observatory, regards the so-called "canals" of Mars as areas of vegetation—possibly immense cultivated tracts. The canals are usually some 30 to 150 miles broad by 2000 or 3000 miles long, and most of them appear in parallel pairs.

A curious monstrosity lately exhibited to the Royal Horticultural Society, is an Alpine strawberry in which all the parts of the flower are more or less represented by leaves. The plant was described, by old botanists, but had come to be regarded as a myth until its reappearance in recent years.

Observations at 67 stations in Spain show enormous differences in the annual rainfall, which is no less than 138 inches on the Serra da Estrella, and only 11 inches at Lerida, in Catalonia. The minimum rainfall at all stations occurs in July and August, and the maximum fall at some stations in May and at others in October.

COMBINED ANAESTHETICS.—Chloroform and cocaine have been used together in twenty-four surgical operations by Prof. Obalinski, of Cracow. Most satisfactory results are reported, the advantages claimed being: A smaller quantity of chloroform is sufficient; vomiting is very rare; and the depression on awaking is much slighter than when chloroform alone is used.

AN EXPERIMENT IN EVOLUTION.—A striking illustration of the influence of environment on animal forms may be quite easily produced, according to Dr. Winslow Anderson. If the embryo of the land salamander be taken from the egg and kept in water of moderate temperature, abundantly supplied with oxygen, and amply fed with small water animals, the organism is remarkably changed even in a single generation. The embryonic lungs remain undeveloped and gills grow instead, a rudder tail and even fins are gradually developed for the new function of swimming, and the unnecessary feet and legs become mere rudimentary appendages.

AS OTHER WORLDS SEE US.—Throughout the long night of 354 hours, the side of the moon toward us is lighted by a magnificent reflector of the sun's rays. Always remaining in one fixed spot in the heavens, while sun and stars go in regular cycles of 29½ terrestrial days, the earth—as the moon may see it—passes through the phases from first quarter to full and to last quarter to full and to last quarter, shining at the lunar midnight with a light fourteen times stronger than that of our full moon. To our satellite, gravitating around us at a distance of 240,000 miles, the earth then appears four times as broad and thirteen times as great in area as the moon appears to us. As daylight speads over this part of the moon, the earth dwindles away to a thin crescent and finally disappears at the moment of new earth. Passing to its sister planets, we find the earth has lost its imposing appearance. To Mercury, 37,000,000 miles from the sun, the earth is an external planet, having the light of a first magnitude star, and analogous with Jupiter as seen by us; to Venus, 68,000,000 miles from the sun, our globe exceeds the stars in brilliancy, and has a perceptible diameter, with the moon plainly visible near the disc. To Mars, 145,000,000 miles from the sun, the aspect of the earth is very like that exhibited to us by the beautiful planet Venus; but to the giant Jupiter, 495,000,000 miles from the sun, our world is only a feeble star, always keeping within 12° of the sun. To Saturn the earth is separated from the sun by 6°, to Uranus by 3°, and to Neptune by but 2°. "Immersed in a luminous fascicle of solar rays," says Mons. J. Leotard, "our globe is entirely invisible to those latter planets of the system to which it belongs. The earth is unknown to these worlds, which are relatively near and are connected, like it, with the destinies of the sun; and the existence upon it of the intelligent race which believes itself to be alone in the universe is unsuspected. To these planets neighboring our own we do not exist. Seen from the nearest of the stars, the enormous sun that illuminates us is itself no more than a minute star, wandering in the infinite labyrinth of the worlds."

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

TERRIBLE STORM IN WEST INDES.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7.—The Picayune's Havana special says: "Tuesday's hurricane damaged nearly all the public buildings, uprooted trees and caused such destruction as has not been experienced here for many years. The streets were filled with the debris. The crops are greatly damaged, railroads are washed out and the telegraph wires are down. The chief loss is among the shipping. The rising tide overwhelmed the wharves and swept away quantities of goods. Vessels were foundered and barges laden with tobacco and sugar sunk. Reports of the losses of vessels continue to arrive. The northern part of the city is under water and travel there is suspended save in boats. The loss of the gunboat Lealtad at Sagua is confirmed. Several lives have been lost, but comparatively few considering the violence of the storm.

SIR CHARLES' SPEECH.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Sir Charles Tupper's speech attracts a good deal of notice in all the papers to-day. Generally speaking the tone of Sir Charles' remarks is enthusiastically approved. The Standard declares that England has the right to expect that Canadians will be careful and not involve her needlessly in difficulties with foreign powers when it is possible to avoid them, but rather to offer conciliation or legitimate concession. In return Canada will be certain to receive full encouragement and the support of Great Britain in her resistance of unlawful aggression.

TO-DAY'S DESPATCHES.

BEFORE THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—Major Langelier leaves for London during the coming month, to argue the case of Pion against the North Shore Railway before the privy council. Mr. Robideau of Montreal goes over at the same time to argue the celebrated Father R. P. Paradis case.

THE RITCHER.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—In the famous Ritcher case, motion was made to-day to quash the indictment, but it was disallowed by the court. The trial is fixed for Monday.

LIEUT. COL. COLFER DEAD.

QUEBEC, Sept. 8.—Lieut.-Col. Colfer, chief clerk of the provincial secretary's office, died suddenly at his residence on the island of Orleans yesterday.

LACROSS AND RACES.

QUEBEC, Sept. 8.—A lacrosse match between the Thistle and Independent clubs, and a yacht race is on the programme for the edification of the vice-regal party to-day. It is raining, however, and that will likely interfere with some of the arrangements.

IRISH CATHOLIC UNION.

KINGSTON, Sept. 8.—The next meeting of the Irish Catholic convention union of America will be held in Kingston 1889. J. J. Behan of the city has been elected a member of the executive committee.

OPPOSED TO A COSTLY RECEPTION.

KINGSTON, Sept. 8.—At a meeting of the reception committee to arrange for the visit of the governor-general. Ald. Adams created a sensation by protesting against wasting money on his excellency. He received $50,000 a year and was able to pay his own way. If the expense was heaped upon the city the result would be that poor people would have to be turned out on the streets because they could not pay the rates created by extravagance. The alderman was speedily squelched.

GOT 35 YEARS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—James Eagan, who was convicted of the killing of Wm. Aubrey, was to-day sentenced to serve 35 years in state's prison.

A COLLISION.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—The str. A. C. Freeze, belonging to the San Joaquin Improvement Co., having a large wheat barge heavily loaded in tow, was run into by the schr. Wonder last night off Benicia. The steamer's paddle boxes were broken into splinters. The vessels were fastened by tangling of schooner's rigging until the strain on engines became such that they were thrown out of gear and the shaft broken. The steamer suffered considerable damage, and her crew came to the city on the San Rafael ferry. The steamer's captain says that the crew of the schooner was drunk.

REPORT DISCREDITED.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 8.—The reported attack on the American consulate at Canton is discredited by naval officers and state department officials for the reason that the consulate is situated on an island separated from the town proper by two canals and a river. The naval men think it hardly probable that a mob could gain access to the island and assault the consulate.

THE RETALIATION BILL.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 8.—Chairman Allison stated that the sub-committee would give the tariff bill its finishing touches on Wednesday or Thursday, and the bill will go to the senate about the 18th. The house is considering the retaliation bill and a vote will be taken this evening.

137 DROWNED.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 8.—Capt. Ryan, of the schr. A. D. Story, which arrived from Iceland last night, reports that six vessels of the French fleet were engulfed off the south coast of Iceland during the terrible storm of April last. There were 137 men in all drowned.

YELLOW FEVER.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Dr. John C. Ames, of Palatka, Fla., is in the city, and expresses the gravest fears of the yellow fever at Jacksonville and believes the most stringent means of quarantine should be enforced. He thinks the epidemic will spread through the city until the November frosts nip it. He thinks Surgeon-General Hamilton deserves the highest praise for the way in which he has handled the fever infested districts. Dr. Ames believes the fever will be confined to Jacksonville and Tampa.

FIRE NEAR MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—A fire broke out at St. Jerome, a thriving town forty miles from here, this morning, burning two stores besides several dwellings. The loss is estimated at about $40,000.

THE FEVER STRICKEN SOUTH.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 8.—A special to the Times-Democrat from Jacksonville says: The panic feeling is growing rapidly. The situation grows worse hourly, and something must be done at once if women and children are to be protected. Answers to appeals for aid are coming generously for which stricken Jacksonville feels deeply grateful.

MOODYVILLE.

From a Traveller.

On arriving at this renowned old time sawmill village we were directed to the hotel—a very neat and well-kept house—where we were welcomed by Capt. Powers, a courteous and genial host, who seemed to be in his element when giving information to his guests. The general appearance of the town is about the same that it was 8 or 10 years ago, but the old residents have mostly passed away, some to lands far distant, whilst others are sleeping silently their last sleep. The inhabitants amuse themselves principally during fine weather boating, and the placid waters of the inlet are invariably thickly studded with various crafts in the evening of the day and even after nightfall.

This famous mill is running night and day to its full capacity. There are six vessels at the dock at present—most of which are loading—which will take away 6,200,000 feet of lumber. The Balaklava takes 1,100,000 feet to South America, the Pactolus 900,000 feet to China, the India 900,000 to South America, the Earl of Granville 1,000,000 to Australia, the Edward O'Brien 1,400,000 to Australia, and the Jaen Bass takes 900,000 to Valparaiso, South America. The mill is supplied with logs from various camps along the coast, some of which are distant about 200 miles. The next morning after our arrival we started off down the coast on a woodland path—for some distance thickly shaded with young maples—which brought us to the about two miles distant from Moodyville. This is headquarters for the Squamish tribe and is perhaps the cleanest and most neatly built Indian town in the province. It contains 70 dwelling houses, a church and school, and presents a rather attractive appearance when viewed from the inlet on the opposite shore. After passing the Indian village we proceeded to explore the country inland. Thinly scattered here and there we found settlers toiling to make himself a home. Some seemed contented on very barren soil, preparing to raise chickens, etc., probably in expectation of being convenient to a great metropolis in the near future. They reported game plentiful, such as deer, grouse, pheasants, quail and bears. After exploring a distance of about 10 miles inland we retraced our wandering steps satisfied that we could yet make better selections for homesteads near the northern terminus of the New Westminster Southern Railway.

New Chief Justice of W. T.

Just as some of the delegates to the Democratic territorial convention were signing a petition to President Cleveland for the nomination of Judge Nash, to fill the vacancy created by the death of Judge Jones, the news reached them that Charles E. Boyle, of Pennsylvania had been nominated by the [illegible] ident to be chief justice of the su[illegible] court of Washington Territory. [illegible] again Cleveland was wiser tha[illegible] party. Hon. Chas. S. Voorhees, who sat with him as a member of the forty-ninth congress, speaks of the new chief justice in the highest terms.—Seattle Press.

Skeena and Fraser Rivers Contrasted.

The remarkably good salmon run on the Skeena this year and the failure on the Fraser has led to a good deal of discussion among interested parties. As has been stated in the Times, some people say that the fishing is being overdone on the Fraser. While the fish are running two or three hundred nets are down night and day and there is no chance for the necessary number to reach the spawning ground. At the Skeena it is different. They can only fish there at a certain stage of the tide so that there is plenty of opportunity while the boats are drawn off for the salmon to go up and lay the foundations for a future supply. No doubt many of the theories which seek to account for poor runs are all wrong, but at the same time the history of all rivers is that they get fished out and how to prevent it is the question to consider. The salmon industry is too great a source of wealth to the province to allow it to be destroyed.—Vic. Times.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Daily British Columbian

Saturday Evening, Sept. 8, 1888.

The ever-widening circle of civilization is rapidly encroaching upon the gloomily romantic and once mystery-enshrouded domain of "the great lone land." Regular steam navigation has at length penetrated to the Arctic circle. The Hudson's Bay Company, grown hoary in the work of pioneering, has placed a steamboat, the Athabaska, on the route from Lake Athabaska to the Lesser Slave Lake. On her first trip, made on the 12th August, she took on seventy-two tons of freight at Athabaska Landing, a good earnest of the future traffic of that distant region. Senator Hardisty and a party from Edmonton were on board, a proof of the interest which the western-most town east of the Rocky Mountains takes in the extended navigation of the north. In lending its aid to penetrate to the Arctic circle by steamboat navigation, says the Monetary Times, the Hudson's Bay Company is loosening the bonds of the practical monopoly that it holds of the fur trade in that region. It must look for compensation for this sacrifice to the needs of advancing civilization, by the extension of other phases of the commerce in which it is also engaged. The new steamboat, while it will afford facilities to the rival fur-trader, will also accommodate the explorer, the miner, and the hopeful agriculturist, a little out of his latitude. The Hudson's Bay Railway, an enterprise which is in a fair way for being taken in hand in Manitoba very shortly, will prove a great developer of a certain section of the Canadian North-west and furnish an important link in a new and convenient trans-Atlantic route. Altogether, it is interesting to reflect upon the transformations which the last decade or two has wrought in the "great lone land." What will not the next ten years bring forth?

Thursday a communication and an item appeared in this paper on the subject of the furious riding through the streets of the butcher boys. The immediate cause for particular attention being attracted to this custom was the rather unpleasant mishap which befell Mr. J. B. Kennedy, of the Brunette Sawmills, on Thursday morning, as the result of an abrupt collision between his horse and a galloping beef charger. The circumstances as narrated show that Mr. Kennedy was driving down Columbia street in his carriage, when a butcher boy on horseback swept in from a cross street at full gallop, and, failing to check himself or make the sharp turn successfully, struck Mr. Kennedy's horse broadside, with the natural result that the occupant of the carriage was violently and without any warning thrown to the ground. It would be wasting words to say that the accident might have proved very serious. It is fortunate for all concerned that it did not do so. If a pedestrian, a woman or a child, had chanced to be in the way instead of a horse and carriage, we leave the reader to imagine the result. We have called attention to this matter again because it is one that is likely to be overlooked and lightly dismissed. It should not be dismissed however, without stringent regulations being put in force to prevent such catastrophes in the future. This charging recklessly up and down our streets and around corners, like cowboys in some wild frontier town, must be put a stop to, and likewise furious driving in vehicles. We do not mean to say that persons on horseback or in carriages should be confined to a snail's pace; but there is the "happy medium," and equestrians of all ranks and conditions should be impressed with the necessity of keeping within it.

The retaliation message of President Cleveland to congress, on the 23rd of last month, has provoked unlimited discussion in Canada and the States, and to a considerable extent in Great Britain also. It has been viewed from every conceivable point, according to the nationality, politics, and other predilections of more or less interested disputants. No party or clique in Canada or the neighboring republic but has attempted to manufacture capital out of this very convenient and much-construed document. Issued primarily as a democratic coup d'etat, it is as such acceptable to that party, who gloat over the hard nut it proves to their opponents. The republicans, on the other hand, recognizing that the president has cleverly thrown upon them the responsibility of giving practical application to their rabid retaliation talk of the last few months, with the disagreeable alternative of lunching off of cold crow, are displaying admirable ingenuity in squirming out of their uncomfortable position. The real issue itself, it can be imagined, is greatly obscured by partizanship and political bias, these passions being particularly rampant on the eve of a presidential election. Meanwhile the argus-eyed politicians of both parties are closely watching the long suffering public, who hold in their power the yet undelivered sentence of the ballot-box, to get their cue for advancing or retiring, according as the now courted and dreaded public smiles or frowns. In this compelled deference to the people lies the guarantee—on the presumption that the majority will reach their conclusions from a common-sense, business standpoint—that nothing rash will be done by the politicians, who, to gain votes, would, it is to be feared, be equal to almost anything. It is safe to say that the solid business men of the states, whose pockets would be considerably affected, would grow very restless under the enforcement of retaliation such as the president's message calls for, and that the retaliation bug-a-boo, after having served its purpose in a political exigency, will give place to a renewal of negotiations, on an amicable basis, between all parties concerned, eventuating in a satisfactory settlement of the whole question—if indeed the fiend of party does not continue to thwart so desirable a consummation.

Late Canadian News.

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—O'Connor offers to row Gaudaur, allowing the latter five seconds' start in three miles, or ten seconds' start in a five mile race, for $1,000 a side.

Miss Minnie Cameron, daughter of John Cameron, managing editor of the Globe, died to-day from heart trouble. She had been suffering for several months.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 3.—Mrs. Carney, widow of one of the section men killed in the Caraquet railway disaster last winter, is suing the company for $20,000 damages.

TORONTO, Sept. 3.—Scott McVeigh, assistant book-keeper in the Methodist book room is now in Uncle Sam's domains. His books up to the present show a defalcation of $5,000 and the end is said to be not yet. Before his flight he is said to have handed over his house and furniture as partial restitution.

CALGARY, Sept. 3.—The body of a man was found this morning hanging to a tree near Morley. It is supposed to be that of a railroad employee who disappeared some three months ago. Cannot ascertain name. It is supposed that he became despondent and committed suicide.

QUEBEC, Sept. 3.—The British warships Bellerophon, Cordeus and Pylades arrived here Saturday. Shortly after their arrival Admiral Lyons landed and visited the governor-general, and with some of the officers dined at the Citadel in the evening. Yesterday morning Lord and Lady Stanley with family and suite, attended divine service on the flagship, and the officers of the fleet again dined at the Citadel last evening. The governor paid an official visit to the Bellerophon this morning and was received with all honors, salutes being fired by all three frigates and their yards being manned by sailors. The governor-general and Lady Stanley, with suite, leave here Sunday next for Toronto. His excellency will receive an address from the board of trade on Monday and open the exhibition there.

Mrs. W. J. Lang, Bethany, Ont., writes: "I was one of the greatest sufferers for about fifteen months with a disease of my ear similar to ulcers, causing entire deafness. I tried everything that could be done through medical skill, but without relief. As a last resort I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and in ten minutes found relief. I continued using it, and in a short time my ear was cured and hearing completely restored. I have used this wonderful healer successfully in cases of inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, coughs and colds, cuts and bruises, &c., in fact it is our family medicine.

Your Children

Are constantly exposed to danger from Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, and diseases peculiar to the throat and lungs. For such ailments, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, promptly administered, affords speedy relief and cure.

As a remedy for Whooping Cough, with which many of our children were afflicted, we used, during the past winter, with much satisfaction, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For this affection, we consider this preparation the most efficacious of all the medicines which have come to our knowledge.—Mary Parkhurst, Preceptress, Home for Little Wanderers, Doncaster, Md.

My children have been peculiarly subject to attacks of Croup, and I failed to find any effective remedy until I commenced administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This preparation relieves the difficulty of breathing and invariably cures the complaint.—David G. Starks, Chatham, Columbia Co., N. Y.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for many years, and have found it especially valuable in Whooping Cough. This medicine allays all irritation, prevents inflammation from extending to the lungs, and quickly subdues any tendency to Lung Complaint.—J. B. Wellington, Plainville, Mich.

I find no medicine so effective, for Croup and Whooping Cough, as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It saved the life of my little boy, only six months old, carrying him safely through the worst case of Whooping Cough I ever saw.—Jane Malone, Piney Flats, Tenn. ††

LIFE IN RUSSIA.

Interesting Interview with an American Resident of That Country Who Is Now on a Visit Here.

"As soon as I crossed the Russian frontier," said the newly landed visitor to the interviewing reporter, "I saw I was in a strange country. At the Custom-House a stalwart and soldierly body of troops in the various picturesque uniforms of the Russian army confronted me. The Cossack of the Don and the Cossack of the Dnieper, the Lithuanian and the Pole vied with each other in dignity and gorgeous array.

"When I arrived at St. Petersburg I was at once impressed with the genial hospitality of this warm-hearted people. The Russian eats on an average once every two hours. The climate and custom require such frequent meals, the digestion of which is aided by frequent draughts of vodki and tea.

"Vodki is the Russian whiskey, made from potatoes and rye. It is fiery and colorless, generally flavored with some extract like vanilla or orange, as we flavor soda-water. It is drunk from small cups that hold perhaps half a gill. Vodki and tea are the inseparable accompaniments of friendly as well as of business intercourse in the country of the Czar. Drunken men are rare.

"Russia and Sweden are the only countries in which the double dinner is the rule. When you go to the house of a Russian, be he a friend or a stranger, you are at once invited to a side table, where salted meats, pickled eels, salted cucumbers and many other spicy and appetizing viands are urged upon you with an impressiveness that knows no refusal. This repast is washed down with frequent cups of vodki.

"Then over, and when the visitor feels as if he had eaten enough for twenty-four hours, the host says, 'And now to dinner.' At the dinner table the meal is served in courses, with stacks of bottles, here and there on the table, of champagne and delightful wines grown in the Crimea and in Bessarabia, where excellent clarets and Burgundies are made and sold for from 12 to 35 cents the bottle.

"In the cultivation of wines, as in many other industries and, indeed, many civil reforms, Russia is making strides which Americans little realize.

"Business does not begin fairly in the cities until noon, and the working classes, who are stolid and contented, labor from 14 to 16 hours a day for from 14 to 35 cents a day. Yet labor as well as manufactures is protected. Immigration is not desired, and emigration is only permitted under special restrictions.

"The Russians are exceedingly friendly towards Americans. By paying handsome concessions to the Government, a few Americans have been permitted to engage in business in Russia.

"In the cities the Russians live almost entirely in apartment houses. There are 10,000 tenants, it is said, in one house in St. Petersburg. The houses are nearly always of brick, and the government buildings are all stuccoed and painted red. Each house has a dvornik who is the agent of the owner and of the police, and a porter who wears the uniform of a colonel in the army, and is the janitor or agent of the tenants.

"The dvornik inspects the passport of every new tenant, and even temporary tenant or visitor, and reports it to the police station, where it is recorded. A like notification is made of every change of residence. The dvornik sits at the back gate of the house, clad generally in a sheepskin. He knows everything that goes on, and is responsible to the police. In this way the perfection of the Russian police system is maintained.

"The Russian has no public ambition to worry him. He eats, drinks, and plays cards until 1 or 2 in the morning. He rises and breakfasts towards noon.

"The Russian women of the better classes are beautiful. They are blondes, with broad cheeks and high cheek bones, clear complexions and peculiarly lovely gray eyes, from which shines out a heart of greenish fire.

"The great Russian game of cards is 'mouche,' not unlike the American poker, in which five cards are dealt, a trump is turned and one may play or pass for the game, which is twenty points."

THE JUNK BUSINESS.

Collecting Rubbish Often a Good Foundation for a Fortune.

"But few people have an idea how large an industry is represented by what may collectively be termed the 'rag business.'"

Belated citizens returning to their homes with the dawn and flimsy excuses for their waiting wives cannot fail to notice the swarm of men, women and children that dives in and out of obscure places, seizing with wolfish avidity on all sorts of scrap, such as paper, iron and cigar stumps. These go into an immense sack carried on the back, and by the hour of seven the collectors may be seen at the door of the ragman's den, bargaining for the sale of their wares.

To a junk dealer almost anything is welcome; he asks no questions. Lead pipe from a vacant house, brass castings from a foundry, patterns in copper, pieces of lightning rods, old iron of any description, paper in all forms, from a family Bible to the ephemeral daily journals of events, go on the scales and are subjected to the relentless appraisement of so much per pound.

If the goods offered for sale were stolen it is none of his business. He asks no questions and pays cash. The paper goes to the mills, the metal to the foundries, and the dealer, in the course of time grown wealthy, abandons his calling and seeks a wider field under the sign of the three balls of Lombardy or the seductive allurement of "easy payments."

Showing How Good Society Is Helpful to Sincerity.

There is a thirteen-year old boy in Cambridge who is a great "society man," and who is referred to by his friends on all points of etiquette.

He was overheard one day giving some "pointers" to a boy about his age, but who had, apparently, none of his friend's aplomb. Boy No. 2, whom we will call Fred, was saying anxiously:

"But I never know what to say to a girl at a party. What do you talk about anyway?"

"Oh, that's easy enough," replied the society man. "First you say that it's a lovely night for a party; then you ask her if she doesn't think the rooms are a little warm."

"Yes?" interrogatively from Fred.

"Well, then, ask her if she is fond of waltzing; then—then—oh, say, that the floor is very slippery."

"Well, what next?"

"Oh!"—evidently a little strained—"tell her you like her step; then"—sudden inspiration—"ask her if she doesn't want a glass of water; be a long time getting it, and by the time you get back some other man will be with her."—Boston Gazette.

MUTILATED EARS.

Cruel Punishments of the Olden Time.

Any mutilation of the ear which involves the loss of a portion or all of it has always been a mark of disgrace. In one of the statutes of Edward VI, the penalty affixed for its violation is the "loss of an ear and perpetual infamy." In those days the celluloid ear had not been invented and the loss of one of these members was a public badge of shame for life.

Following the retributive law of Moses, probably the punishment originated in the ecclesiastical courts. It is first mentioned in the trials of offenses against the church and some of the earless clerics were noted men. The sentence to the pillory frequently had the additional punishment of the loss of one or both ears added.

Daniel Fooc, or Foe, later in life known as Daniel Defoe, wrote a pamphlet called "The Shortest Way with the Dissenters," and lost his ears. Pope, in his "Dunciad," speaks of the author of "Robinson Crusue": "Earless on high stood unabashed Defoe."

He was placed in the pillory three times. That instrument being on a raised platform explains the line.

Dr. Bastwick, who published more pamphlets than pills, concluded one of his essays with: "From plague, pestilence and famine, from bishops, priests and deacons, good Lord deliver us." This was so serious an affront that the doctor was sentenced to the pillory and to lose both his ears.

The execution of his sentence was a sort of public fete. His friends gathered before the pillory and shouted words of encouragement. His wife climbed upon the pillory and kissed him. When his ears were cut off "she put them in a clean handkerchief" and carried them home.

The celebrated Prynne suffered a similar punishment.

The names of lesser criminals have escaped the permanent records but Blackstone mentions a number of early English Parliamentary enactments making the loss of an ear a penalty in law.

Fighting in a church or churchyard, by acts passed during the fifth and sixth years of the reign of Edward VI, meant the loss of both ears. If the prisoner had no ears—which implies that there were habitual criminals 350 years ago—he was to be branded with the letter F in the cheek.

In the second and third years of the same monarch combination among victuallers and artificers to raise the price of provisions or the rate of labor, for the third offense were punished by the pillory and the loss of an ear. The statute not only extended to the combinations to raise wages but to regulate the quantity of work or to lessen the hours of labor.

In later years the loss of an ear or part of one has also been regarded as implying disgrace. One of the favorite ways of mutilating an enemy in a rough and tumble fight is to bite off his ear. In disreputable brawls and in low resorts brute instinct makes ear mutilation a fit revenge for almost any wrong.

Jack Slade, a notorious desperado, in a fit of rage is said to have cut off the ears of a man he had murdered. He kept them in his pocket and boastfully exhibited them when in a drunken and dangerous mood.

When he saw on the poker table a stake he wanted particularly Jack played the ears. Flinging them on the table they beat four aces or a straight flush, for Jack had a pistol in each hand the next instant. He always took the pot on the play.

A CHILD'S POTENT KISS.

The Power of Simple Affection over a Hardened Convict.

In a prison in New Bedford, Mass., there is a man whom we shall call Jim, and who is a prisoner on a life sentence.

Up to last spring he was regarded as a desperate, dangerous man, ready for rebellion at any hour. He planned a general outbreak, and was "given away" by one of his conspirators. He plotted a general mutiny or rebellion and was again betrayed. He then kept his counsel; while never refusing to obey orders, he obeyed them like a man who only needed backing to make him refuse to.

One day in June a party of strangers came to the institution. One was an old gentleman, the others ladies, and two of the ladies had small children. The guide took one of the children on his arm, and the other walked until the party began climbing stairs.

Jim was working near by, sulky and morose as ever, when the guide said to him:

"Jim, won't you help this little girl upstairs?"

The convict hesitated, a scowl on his face, and the little girl held out her hands and said,

"If you will, I guess I'll kiss you."

His scowl vanished in an instant, and he lifted the child as tenderly as a father. Half-way up the stairs she kissed him.

At the head of the stairs she said:

"Now you've got to kiss me too."

He blushed like a woman, looked into her innocent face, and then kissed her cheek, and before he reached the foot of the stairs again the man had tears in his eyes. Ever since that day he has been a changed man, and no man gives less trouble.

Maybe he has a little Katie of his own. No one knows, for he never reveals his inner life, but the change so quickly wrought by a child proves that he may forsake his evil ways.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

A Prisoner's Innocence Fully Proved, and His Release Effected.

An extraordinary case of circumstantial evidence occurred in a town on the banks of the Tennessee River several years ago.

Two travelers had gone to the hotel and were placed for the night in the same room, but in separate beds. The next morning one of them was gone and traces of blood were found from the hotel to the river. It was believed that he had been murdered and thrown into the river, and the other traveler was arrested.

The accused denied his guilt and established an excellent reputation, and the fact that he had no object in murdering the man. Yet circumstances pointed so strongly and directly towards him that he was convicted of murder in the first degree, and the date of his execution fixed.

The case was, of course, published in the newspapers, and was seen by the man who was supposed to have been murdered in New Orleans, where he was engaged in business. He lost no time in notifying the authorities and securing the release of an innocent man.

He said that during the night at the hotel he had been attacked by bleeding of the nose, and arising, had gone to the river to bathe his face and wait till the bleeding had stopped. While there a steamboat came along, and going aboard he proceeded to New Orleans, somewhere the tracks of blood from the hotel to the river accounted for.

Pimples, Boils,

And Carbuncles result from a debilitated, impoverished, or impure condition of the blood. Ayer's Sarsaparilla prevents and cures these eruptions and painful tumors, by removing their cause, the only effectual way of treating them.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has prevented the usual course of Boils, which have pained and distressed me every season for several years.—G. Scales, Plainville, Mich.

I was badly troubled with Pimples on the face; also with a discoloration of the skin, which showed itself in ugly dark patches. No external treatment did more than temporary good. Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected and I have not been troubled since.—T. W. Boddy, River st., Lowell, Mass.

I was troubled with Boils, and my health was much impaired. I began using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, in due time, the eruptions all disappeared, and my health was completely restored.—John R. Elkins, Editor Stanley Observer, Albemarle, N. C.

I was troubled, for a long time, with a humor which appeared on my face in ugly Pimples and Blotches. Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me. I consider it the best blood purifier in the world.—Charles H. Smith, North Craftsbury, Vt.

HEAD OFFICE, TORONTO, CANADA

A HOME COMPANY.

This Association merits the confidence the Public is reposing in it from the following FACTS:—

The Security offered to policy holders is unsurpassed by any Company doing business in Canada.

It has no schemes of insurance, but the well-established lines, hence the policy holders cannot be misled as to their contracts.

Its statements to the public can be readily understood, its cash statement showing every item of income and how expended.

Its position is ascertained annually from a detailed valuation in which every item of liability is included.

Its progress has been unexampled in the history of insurance in Canada.

Its policies are indisputable after three years, and non-forfeitable after two years' existence.

Its profits are distributed upon an equitable basis. The profits to one class of policy holders are not lessened to give larger profits to any other class, which method affords superior advantages over the uniform bonus plan of distribution.

Mrs. Capt. Tom is the name of the richest Indian woman in Alaska. She is worth over $20,000, and lives royally at Sitka, surrounded by slaves. She supported two husbands until recently, having to give one up when she joined the Presbyterian mission. Mrs. Tom is ugly, fat and over 40, and is a shrewd trader.—Colonist.

To-day Messrs. D. W. Port & Co. shipped to Toronto 2,000 pounds of frozen salmon, and during the week no less than 12,000 pounds were sent east. Mr. W. H. Vianen also sent away 2,500 pounds to different parts of the province to-day and next week he will send 5000 pounds of frozen salmon to Avis, a Winnipeg fish dealer.

The str. Irving came down from Chilliwhack and way ports this afternoon, bringing 20 passengers, 230 bales of hay, 30 boxes apples and 84 sacks of wheat. The purser says that harvesting is nearly over up river, and that a fight occurred at Chilliwhack last evening in which nearly every one in that enterprising community took part.

Mr. C. M. McNaughten laid on our table this morning two beautiful, large apples, which came from a tree grown in his garden. This is the first year the tree has borne any fruit, and the dimensions of the largest apple were 14⅜ inches in circumference, and weighed 18 ozs. The smaller apple, which was the smallest on the tree, weighed 14 ozs., and measured 12½ ins. in circumference.

Hearing Postponed.

A telegram was received in the city yesterday afternoon from Seattle, to the effect that Judge Allen had refused to hear a motion on behalf of the West Coast Railway Company, to dissolve the injunction on their bridging the Snohomish River and other streams. The hearing was postponed to await the arrival of the new chief justice, who is now on his way from Pennsylvania.

The Matsqui Dyke.

Besides a number of white men there are 150 Chinaman at work at present on this undertaking, and the force will be increased in a few days. Mr. Robt. Bonson who has the contract for the wood work on the dyke is building a pile-driver to be used for that purpose. The dyke, it is said, will reclaim ten thousand acres of very rich soil which will be a valuable addition to the district. It is expected to be completed about the end of October.

C. P. R. Earnings.

The Canadian Pacific Railway company's earnings and expenses for July, 1888, were: Gross earnings, $1,188,355; working expenses, $787,326; net profits, $401,029. In July, 1887, there was a net profit of $391,186, and for the seven months ending July 31, 1888, the figures are as follows: Gross earnings, $7,021,746; working expenses, $5,506,847; net profits, $1,414,809. For the seven months ending July 31, 1887, there was a net profit of $1,332,245.

British Columbia Bills.

Conductor Cunliffe, who passed up on No. 10 last night, informed us that the committee on sports had been out collecting for about half an hour before his train pulled out and had raised about $300 for prizes in a baseball tournament to be held at Medicine Hat on Sept. 27th and 28th. He said that a very peculiar fact about the money collected was, that they were nearly all in bills of the bank of British Columbia. Mr. Niblock will contribute $100 to the amount, and it is said between six and seven hundred dollars will be given in prizes.—Calgary Tribune.

New Cars.

Six new postal cars, for service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver, are being built by the Canadian Pacific Railway company. When finished they will be very handsome. One has been completed and is now doing service, while five others are soon to receive their finishing touches. There will be sixteen postal cars altogether, ten of which are being reconstructed out of old coaches. The new cars will be cherry-finished inside and out, highly polished. It is expected that all the cars will be in running order early in autumn. In addition to these postal cars, the C.P.R. are building five new refrigerator cars and 20 conductors' cabooses or vans, commonly used at the rear end of freight cars. —Times.

Y. M. C. A.

The services in connection with the Association will be held as usual on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock and Sunday afternoon at 4. The assembly room is in Armstrong's new building on Columbia street. Having removed to these pleasant and commodious premises, the members and officers of the association hope that the public will take a greater interest in the efforts which are being made to build up the young men of this city in temperance, virtue, and honesty. Let all feel a responsibility for the success of this work and take a part in that which will be of benefit to all. Those who have sons in other places feel that by helping in this direction they are doing for others that which they would wish to do for them.—COM.

Down a Well.

Last evening about 7:30 o'clock, while a young lad in the employ of Mr. Thomas Cunningham, who was riding a mare, was driving home some 20 cows from the brush two or three hundred yards behind Montreal street, suddenly the mare fell down a well some 15 feet deep, the boy managing in some way or another to catch on to the edge of the pit and thus escaped being carried down also. There the poor animal stayed in several feet of water until 12 o'clock last night, for it was not until then, even with the aid of some 20 men, that Mr. Cunningham was able to extricate her. The means adopted for this purpose were as follows: An incline shaft was dug to the foot of the well when by means of a derrick, the mare was raised to the surface apparently none the worse for her rough experience. The lad who was riding had a narrow escape, for had he gone down the well the chances are that between the several feet of water and the kicking of the animal he would have been killed. The mare was a valuable one and it was a fortunate thing for Mr. Cunningham that some serious injury was not done her.

Our Streets and Sidewalks.

If there is anything that attracts the eye of a visitor to any city it is certainly the streets and sidewalks, their state of cleanliness, their condition and everything else in connection with them. Look at them in our own otherwise beautiful city; they are simply nothing more nor less than disgraceful. Sticks, stones—which are in many cases huge boulders—pieces of iron, lumber strewn here and there, mortar, manure, and everything else that goes to make up dirt is strewn about the streets in all directions; and then the sidewalks—the pavements of Westminster—what a beautiful condition our city aldermen try their utmost to keep them in, but fail in almost every sense of the word! The planks in most instances are worn down half an inch or so, leaving the nails sticking up, the foundations in other instances are actually rotten and unsafe, while in many places the planks are either taken up for several feet or a plank broken here and there. With the streets in such a condition is it any wonder that a Seattle man, who lately visited the city and wrote to a Victoria paper, called Westminster the dirtiest city on the coast. Much can be done to remedy the matter, the streets can be raked of all sticks and stones, they can be watered, contractors can be made to "clean up after them," nails can be driven farther down in the planks, heavy teams which break up the sidewalks in passing over them can either be made liable for damage or prevented from going over them, foundations can be strengthened and the broken planks can be replaced by new ones. The city council have men at work most of the time but what they do or where they work nobody knows. We can mention several pieces of sidewalk which have been in a very bad state of repair for several weeks past.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction.

Personal.

Hon. T. B. Humphreys is a guest at St. Alice Hotel, Harrison Hot Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Wintemute left to-day on a visit to their former home in Ontario.

B. W. Wilson, C. G. Major and B. W. Wolfenden went over to Vancouver this morning.

Donald Chisholm, M.P., went over to Vancouver this morning and will return this evening.

Mrs. Monck left this city to-day to join her husband who is at present at Farren's Point, Ontario.

Miss Clute returned yesterday from Vancouver where she had been visiting friends for the past two weeks.

T.S. Higginson, crown timber agent, returned home last evening from an inspection tour to the interior.

Mr. G. E. Corbould, of Corbould & McColl, barristers, left for Toronto to-day and will be absent about six weeks.

We are pleased to state that E. A. Jenns has sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to be able to attend to business again.

Thomas McNeeley, the well known Ladners Landing merchant, left to-day on a pleasure trip to eastern Canada by the Atlantic express.

F. R. Glover, of THE COLUMBIAN, and R.W. Armstrong, of the registry office, left this morning for Lillooet River where they will camp out for the next fortnight.

Wm. McColl left yesterday for Los Angeles to attend the meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. He is the first delegate sent by this province to the sovereign grand lodge.

Mr. Thomas Mowat, inspector of fisheries, left by the Atlantic express to-day for Ottawa and the lower provinces on a business and pleasure trip. He expects to be absent from this city about a month, and it is stated he will not return alone.

Mr. Jas. Macnamara returned yesterday from a pleasure tour to the Rocky Mountains and was exceedingly delighted with the scenery of the country. He visited Donald, Banff, Field and Harrison Hot Springs, and of all the scenery he has ever seen the most beautiful, grand, and picturesque surroundings are at Harrison Springs. Although Mac has been in our city for nearly 30 years this was his first trip up the river. There were about 50 guests at the St. Alice Hotel when he left and every one seemed to be thoroughly enjoying themselves.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of becoming a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

Police Court.

Before P. McTiernan and W.D.Ferris, J.Ps.

Charley, an aboriginal Fort Rupert gentleman, for being drunk and disorderly, was fined $5 and $2.50 costs.

William Allen, a Thompson River half-breed, for a similar offence, was fined the same amount. Both fines were paid.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Council and the Railway.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—I think that the matter submitted to the municipal council at the special meeting held on Thursday evening has been misunderstood. In talking with one of the directors yesterday, I learned that the company did not want to get the debentures handed over to them, but simply to have them issued, and ready for use when required. The lawyers, who do things up to the handle, prepared the necessary documents, and submitted them, which was all regular enough, but one of the aldermen, who are the watch dogs of the municipality, took the alarm, and mistook the timely hint for a peremptory demand, and whilst their alertness has caused a temporary but unnecessary panic, they have raised themselves in the estimation of the public. There is one feature of the business which would be better if it were absent. Two of the aldermen are also members of the railway company. If they were as wise as they are old they would not occupy such an ambiguous position; it is not enough that they abstain from voting on this question. Their presence in the council makes them responsible for the acts of the council. Supposing that a money vote comes up, they abstain from voting, but the five remaining to vote, three against two, would carry the motion; so that a minority of the council would vote money into their pockets. It is to be hoped that this Southern Railway scheme will not get a back-set through miserable stupidity. CITIZEN.

The Railway Matter.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—Sir, being present at a special meeting of the city council, I heard an agreement read by solicitors of the S. R. R. Co., asking the council to hand over immediately to the company the amount of debentures $150,000, voted for the purpose of building machine and workshops, and for steam railway ferry boat. Sir, it seemed to me by appearances, the agreement would at that meeting be signed. Ald. Herring not being present at opening of meeting, taking his seat, desired to be made acquainted with business before the council. On hearing, he spoke about the attempt to spring it suddenly on council, and asked for time to look over and consider the agreement. Ald. Calbick asked for time to consider. On motion of Ald. Ovens, seconded by Ald. Herring, time was granted to an adjourned meeting. Mr. Editor, I thought that the attempt to get the signature of the council to an agreement, which would nullify all previous agreements, and make the by-law on which the loan was voted of no effect, was one of the most high-handed speculations I have ever seen, after the company making their own conditions, and the promises of the mayor at a public meeting, and now to ask the city, through the mayor and council, to hand over $150,000 without, on their part, doing anything towards fulfilling their part of the conditions. Sir, it must be understood by all concerned, the city cannot furnish money for speculative purposes. The company can only receive the money for the purpose for which it was voted, machine shops and steam railway ferry boat—works in the city—as it is illegal to vote money out of the city treasury for any work done outside of city limits. Sir, the S. R. R. Co. has made a bold attempt to gain a point and as yet have done no harm but to themselves. Citizens have been put on their guard and feel that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty. JOHN E. LORD.

New West., Sept. 8, 1888.

Science and Physiology.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—Carbonic acid gas is an enemy to physical buoyancy and intellectual and spiritual activity, while electrized oxygen is a friend to both. It has been said that many a farmer, mechanic, business man, and house wife wonders why it is that they must needs take a nap every Sunday in church during sermon time. When the preacher has reached the heart of his discourse, and the hearers have adjusted themselves to give respectful attention, gentle sleep begins to steal over their mental faculties, often very much to their annoyance, and the pastor is surprised and somewhat discouraged at finding his arguments less cogent, and his appeals less effective than he expected them to be. He tries to raise the tone of his voice; he labors to inspire his language with more energy—but all in vain. The compass of his voice becomes more circumscribed, its volume decreased, the sharp elocutionary definitions vanish, and its musical variations become dull monotony. What is the matter? He is ready to exclaim, "I labor in vain, and spend my strength for naught," for the undisturbed sleepers increase in number, and I myself feel the contagion.

At home the busy mother never thinks of sleeping between 11 and 12 o'clock in the morning, and the active business man would consider his sanity or common sense sadly called in question should a friend propose a half-hour's sleep at that time of day. Nevertheless they both sleep—sleep like babies—in their seats; and logic, rhetoric and eloquence are alike wasted in the vain attempt to rouse their "sluggish souls." Why do they sleep so quietly while the minister is laboring so hard for their present and eternal good? Is it from choice? No. Have they no religious aspirations? Yes. Do they wish, when this short life is ended, to walk the golden streets of the New Jerusalem? Yes. Why, then, do they sleep the precious hour away, as if wholly unconcerned? I answer, because they are breathing carbonic acid gas and a poisonous alkaloid, both of which are fatal to animal life. WM. KENT.

A COMPLETE REVOLUTION in the state of a stomach harassed by Dyspepsia is caused by using Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, or great blood purifier, a medicine specially adapted to renew healthful activity in that organ and in those which most closely co-operate with it, the bowels and the liver. Easy digestion, an increase of appetite and a free secretion of bile, mark the radical change which it produces.
