SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

Dr. Hall, of Yokohama, has successfully treated opacities of the cornea by means of galvanism.

It is stated that two-thirds of the wood used in paper making is waste, though experiments indicate that this can be profitably converted into fertilizers.

Paris, in a total population of 2,260,945, has 20 centenarians, 138 persons over ninety-five, 640 over ninety, and 6,386 who have passed the eightieth year.

The death of Cleopatra has been investigated by by Dr. Grand-Marais, of Nantes. He finds evidence she was not bitten by a viper, but was suffocated by carbonic oxide.

A Russian physician reports the case of a boy five years old whose pulse was only 35 to the minute. Under treatment for cerebral anæmia, the pulse gradually rose to 60, but could not be made to go higher

Means for the accurate comparison of electrical standards and apparatus are to be supplied John Hopkin's University, no provision for such measurements having been made elsewhere in the United States.

It will probably surprise most people to learn that both cessation of respiration and of movement of the heart are rejected as signs of death by a French lecturer, in considering the precise moment when life ceases. Heart-beats have been known to continue for an hour after the body was beheaded, while on the other hand, they may temporarily cease in fainting.

GRADES OF CULTURE. — Prof. Joseph Le Conte declares that for every grade of culture, whether of the individual or of the race, there is a corresponding "grade" of "hand-work necessary for the best brain-culture. In the child of pre-school age, and in the savage and in palæolithic man, it is the simple use of the hand, or assisted by rude implements; in the school boy or girl, as also in the next higher grade of races, it is by the use of those finer instruments which we call tools; and in the university, as in the most civilized races, it is by the use of scientific instruments and machines.

NOVEL SCIENCE.—Writers of fiction are not distinguished for scientific accuracy. In his latest novel, Grant Allen buries some barrels of petroleum and a Ruhmkorff coil, with secondary wires, at the foot of a big poplar, and by this expensive arrangement brings about the apparently natural destruction of the tree in the next thunder-storm. Whereat electritian doubters propound the questions: 1. In order to successfully attract a flash of lightning to a tree, is it necessary to bury beneath its roots an induction coil? 2. Do Ruhmkorff coils exist which are without secondary wires? 3. Will an electric discharge ignite commercial petroleum oil?

METEOROLOGY OF MARS.—Flammarion has pointed out to the French Academy of Sciences that the varying state of the polar ice-caps of Mars has long been carefully observed by Maedler, Schiaparelli, and others, the inference being that this planet is not yet, like our moon, permanently frozen up. On the contrary, its temperature is equal to, if not higher than, that of the earth, and its polar snows melt periodically to far greater extent than on our globe. This disposes of the theory that the canals are glacial rifts. Perrotin has continued his observations, and notes that the flood which recently covered the equatorial continent of Libya has subsided, the sea and land again appearing mostly separated.

DEATH GIVING OXYGEN.—It is a curious fact, discovered by Dr. B W. Richardson, that pure oxygen becomes devitalized by repeated inhalations. Animals confined in a current of freshly made pure oxygen were differently affected, but never became sleepy; but when the oxygen once inhaled was freed from all known impurities and again supplied, the animals invariably became drowsy, fell asleep, and, under successive inhalations of the purified gas, expired. It was evident that, in breathing, the oxygen had undergone some change unknown to the chemist. What the change is can only be conjectured, though Dr. Richardson has found that if the exhausted oxygen be electrically charged it is revitalized, and will again support life.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

NOT A FREE TRADER.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Mr. William Henry Hurlburt, formerly editor-in-chief of the New York World, has written a long letter to the Times repudiating the contention of the Republican party of the United States that President Cleveland's policy is anti-American and especially contradicts the assertion of Mr. Blaine in his speeches since his return to America. Blaine, Mr. Hurlburt says, is endeavoring to raise a false issue in accusing the Democratic party of favoring England in its tariff policy. President Cleveland, the writer declares, is not a free trader in the sense of completely abolishing the customs duties as some Englishmen imagine from the assertions of the Republican press and orators and the general misleading tone adopted by the Republican party, but in the main advocates a policy contemplating the relief of the manufacturers from taxation upon raw materials and improved machinery. No serious reduction of taxation upon completely manufactured foreign articles is intended or desirable, and this, Mr. Hurlburt contends, is quite as well known to Blaine as to every other person in the United States who will take the trouble to acquaint himself with the facts and to speak the truth concerning them.

TO-DAY'S DESPATCHES.

DIED UNFLINCHINGLY.

BLACKFOOT, Idaho, Aug. 18.—Alexander Woods, a negro barber, who in May 1887 shot and killed his wife at Pocatello because of attentions paid her by a number of white men, was hanged here yesterday afternoon. He met his fate unflinchingly and made a short speech after the noose was around his neck, stating that he died without hard feelings against anyone.

SUBSIDY TO BE WITHDRAWN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Representative Felton of California called on the postmaster-general yesterday and stated that the New Zealand and Australian governments had decided to withdraw all subsidies which they had been paying the American steamship line which runs from San Francisco to Australia unless the United States government joins in paying its share to support the service. Mr. Felton urged the adoption of a more generous policy toward the line. The postmaster-general stated that he would communicate at once with the New Zealand and Australian governments, stating that the U. S. would give this line a full sea and inland postage in order to maintain it. This will amount to about $40,000 a year. Whether the Australian and New Zealand governments will accept this partial support is unknown.

NOT SPREADING.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 18.—The weather remains hot but the fever is making no spread.

THE STRIKE ENDED.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The great strike of laborers has finally ended, the majority having decided to return to work.

COLOR TROUBLES.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18.—The troubles over miscegenation practices in this state led to a terrible fight at Freetown yesterday. The negroes were armed and ensconsed themselves in a house and refused to surrender, even after a fight lasting an hour or two. Thirteen black men were killed, but none of the white men, so far as is known, lost their lives, and none are wounded.

YELLOW JACK DRIVES THEM OUT.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The naval stations at Key West and Pensacola have been abandoned temporarily on account of the yellow fever in Florida.

FOR ZANZIBAR.

CAIRO, Aug. 18.—Lieut. Wissman, the African explorer, has arrived here. He is going to Zanzibar.

PRIZE FIGHT.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Lablanche "the marine" knocked out Jack Farley, the English middle-weight, in 3 rounds in a hard glove fight near Yonkers this morning for a stake of $200 a side. The principals and some onlookers were arrested. The men arrested numbered 108 and were arraigned at the Tombs police court and all discharged excepting Lablanche and Farley who were held at $500 for trial.

OVER 20 KILLED.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18.—Reports from Frictown and other sources indicate more than 20 negroes killed on Thursday by regulators, and several severely wounded. A negro was hanged on Tuesday by a mob near Big Cypress Bay, in Bossier Parish, for breaking into a store and stealing a sum of money.

YELLOW FEVER.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 18.—For the 24 hours ending at 6 p.m. to-day:—New cases 4, deaths none, recovered none, under treatment 2, number cases to date 32, number deaths to date 4.

EMBEZZLER ARRESTED.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18.—David Davis, a clerk in a store at Qu'Appelle who recently absconded after embezzling $30,000, was arrested yesterday at Prescott.

CONSPIRACY DISCOVERED.

MADRID, Aug. 18.—A military conspiracy has been discovered and several sergeants and privates have been arrested. A strict watch is kept upon the suspected men in the garrisons at Saragossa and Lerida.

NO RACE THIS TIME.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Four big steamships sailed for Europe from this port to-day, all having records for speed, the Umbria, City of New York, Ems and La Bourgoyne. It had been supposed probable that a big ocean race was in prospect, but it is denied that the race will occur. The recent steamship collision has had a deterrent effect.

THE RESTRICTION BILL.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—McCreery, chairman of house foreign affairs committee, reported to the house this morning the Chinese restriction bill with amendments repealing previous laws in conflict therewith. Immediate consideration of the bill was granted and McCreery took the floor and made a speech in support of the measure.

A LEPER.

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—August Johnson, a Dane, from the leprous section of Denmark, but who has been in America 18 years, has just developed that loathsome disease. The authorities have isolated him.

SHOT WHILE ASLEEP.

RAWLINS, Wyo., Aug. 18.—Two murders in Carbon county are reported to-day. The body of a young man, about 25 years of age, was found the first of the week in Canyon gulch, near Ferris, with a bullet hole through his head. He is thought to be an Italian and to have been murdered for his money. He was rolled in his blankets when found and the theory is that he was shot while asleep. Another man, who had been murdered by his companions, was found in the hills near Fort Casper. He had been traveling with 2 young men and had a good camp outfit. They were seen crossing the river near Casper last week. The man was shot through the head. His companions robbed him of his money and outfit and are thought to have gone to Big Hole, Montana. There is little chance of their being caught as they are strangers in this country.

ANOTHER DYNAMITE MYSTERY.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 18.—A great scare was created last night at the Newport steel mills, just across the river from Cincinnati, by the discovery of 17 dynamite bombs in a pile of scrap iron which was being assorted. One only had a fuse attached. Their origin is a mystery.

TROUBLESOME TIMES AHEAD.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Owing to the riotous demonstrations at Moroveil last night, Boulanger returned immediately to Amiens. At Corbi one of Boulanger's supporters tried to shoot a magistrate.

PLUCKY BERNHARDT.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Sarah Bernhardt drove to Ralliero in a tilbury yesterday, her sister and friends following in a break. When crossing the Benquez bridge, over a dangerous and rapid torrent, the horses attached to the break became frightened and started to run. A catastrophe was imminent, but Bernhardt alighted from the tilbury, seized the horses heads and at the peril of her life led the animals across the bridge.

Police Court.

Before T. C. Atkinson, P. M., and P. McTiernan, J. P.

Jim, a Cowichan Indian, charged with having a bottle of gin in his possession, appeared in a handsome frock coat with a bouquet of forget-me-nots in his button-hole. His hair was gotton up a la pompadour, and on the whole he was as fine a specimen of a Siwash swell as any one would desire to see. Jim pleaded not guilty. There being some doubt as to the contents of the bottle, Constable Smith promptly took the box and solemnly swore the bottle contained good gin.

John A. Wilson, a half-breed fisherman, was netted by Constable Dominy at 11 o'clock last night. He had come to town to see the circus and, drinking too much lomonade, which weakened his legs, fell into the hands of the police. Fined $2.50.

Tom, a Sumas Siwash, was seeing the circus off to Vancouver, and, the morning being chilly, had indulged in a set-to with a couple of brother Siwashes which slightly damaged his figure head. On promising never to attend another circus Tom was allowed to go.

Joe, a Comox Indian, arrived in the city early yesterday morning on a flying business visit, and after concluding which had taken a little too much fire-water and was arrested. Fined $5 or 10 days.

Ah Gwong, charged with supplying liquor to a guileless Indian from the classic shores of Bella Coola, pleaded not guilty. The evidence adduced in this case clearly proved that Gwong was guilty and he was sentenced to 6 months in gaol with hard labor.

Late Canadian News.

NAPANEE, Aug. 13.—Wednesday, the 15th August, was set down as the day of the marriage of Hon. Mackenzie Bowell and Mrs. E. S. Stevenson. It is understood through the influence of the friends of Hon. Mr. Bowell the engagement was broken off on Friday last. It is said to have been a case of love at first, the parties only becoming acquainted about a month ago.

CHATHAM, Ont., Aug. 16. — The business men are endeavoring to induce the Canadian Pacific authorities to run their road through this town.

WINDSOR MILLS, Que., Aug. 17.—The Wheelhouse powder mills were blown up this morning. An employee named Vogt was badly hurt. Another employee who was standing in the doorway when the explosion occurred was blown clear into the river, a number of feet from where he stook, and killed. Vogt has since died.

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—Walter Walsh broke jail from the central prison this morning and made a dash for liberty in the direction of the city. Mounted guards were sent in pursuit. By a series of adroit manœuvres the convict got them off the track, but a crowd of small boys dogged his steps and raised the hue and cry. Walsh took refuge in a church, but was hunted out of that and at length fell exhausted. The crowd took care of him until the officers arrived.

QUEBEC, Aug. 17.—A leading lumber exporter, R. R. Dobell, has left for British Columbia to make a personal examination of the lumber facilities and advantages of the Pacific coast.

Daily British Columbian

Saturday Evening, Aug. 18, 1888.

Our friend of the Victoria Times is trying to "kick back." This feat is pre-eminently the prerogative of the athletic mule, who "gets there with both feet" every time. Our recalcitrant island cotemporary appears to lack the mule's judgment, while displaying his lineage. He is kicking desperately "against the pricks," and doesn't "get there" at all. The fact is, he has got caught at his little tricks, and a certain allowance must be made for frantic and irresponsible squirming. We are sorry for our otherwise amiable cotemporary, but trust that he will learn the wholesome lesson that his present deserved embarrassment is fitted to teach—never, no matter what the temptation, to deviate from the path of rectitude. There is a certain pathetic ludicrousness about the disjointed and evasive appeal which our cotemporary makes, more to his own conscience than to anyone else, that induces us to refrain from further harrowing his lacerated feelings, overburdened as they evidently are with self-reproaches. When our cotemporary's perturbations have somewhat calmed, he will no doubt thank us for this delicate consideration.

E. P. Thomson, state fish commissioner for Oregon, writing on the subject of hatcheries in a late number of the Portland Oregonian, says: "The cannerymen and fishermen operating on all the rivers except Rogue want hatcheries. Rogue river has a hatchery which has been operated off and on since 1877, and this artificial propagation is accountable for the three-fold increase in the run. Rogue river is the only river on the Pacific coast which has been fished continuously for a number of years and can still show an increased run. I think we will be able to furnish each of the other streams with 500,000 eggs annually, which will be taken from the Sacramento river. It will require ten days to ship the eggs from Sacramento to either of the rivers, and upon arrival there the fishermen and cannerymen will take care of them and turn the young fish into the river when the hatching is complete. Sacramento salmon rank next to Columbia river salmon in quality, and is superior to the fall fish in Coos bay, Rogue, Coquille, Umpqua, or Simslaw rivers. All want hatcheries, but if we can supply them with eggs right along, hatcheries will not be necessary. It would cost about $2,500 a year to operate a hatchery on each of the streams." By the foregoing it will be seen that fish hatcheries are, to say the least, very valuable auxilliaries in maintaining and even increasing the fish supply of rivers that are being constantly fished. The Fraser river salmon hatchery, which was established in 1884—the first eggs being put in during the fall of that year—has not yet had sufficient time to practically affect the catch in the river. Fishermen state that a few young grilse are taken in the nets this year, ranging under 18 inches in length. As this is the fourth year from the hatching of the first salmon eggs, it is surmised that some of these young fish are the product of the hatchery here. Owing to their small size, the majority, of course, would pass through the nets, and in view of this consideration the fact that they are caught occasionally may be taken as a proof that considerable numbers are ascending the river. In a year or two more the grilse will have attained maturity, and in succeeding years it may be fairly expected that the work of the hatchery since its establishment will continue to have a beneficial effect on the salmon fishing industry of the Fraser. As an example of what the hatchery is doing, Inspector of Fisheries Mowat informs us that over 10,000,000 eggs were placed in the hatchery last year. A large percentage of these should eventually return to the river as full grown salmon, and it is reasonable to hope that with the establishment of better regulations for the protection of the salmon, a large increase in the runs may in due time be brought about. The fact must not be lost sight of, however, that there is an immediate and urgent demand for the protective regulations we have referred to. As set forth in previous numbers of THE COLUMBIAN, there should be a considerable reduction in the number of boats licensed to fish, fishing outside of or near the river mouth should be prohibited or greatly restricted, and the present close time—only thirty hours a week—increased. We shall not go into details and say just how these different reforms should be effected, but trust that the proper authorities will look into the matter and judge for themselves.

Chronic derangements of the Stomach, Liver, and Blood, are speedily removed by the active principle of the ingredients entering into the composition of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. These Pills act specifically on the deranged organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease and renewing life and vitality to the afflicted. In this lies the great secret of the popularity of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Our Catholic friends in the American republic are taking high ground on the temperance question. From an exchange we learn that the Catholic Total Abstinence union of America held its annual session at Boston about the first of the present month. There was a large attendance of delegates from all parts of the United States, including a number of ladies, who for the first time appeared at a convention. The president, Rev. Father Thomas J. Conaty, of Worcester, Mass., in his opening address, said:

Our union sprang from a sense of the dangers that beset men. It had its origin in the endeavor to be better by practicising self-denial both for the sake of saving one's self and helping to save others. The pledge it exacts is only the manly, Christian resolution to shun not only the sin of intemperance, but its occasions; to shun not only the abuse which all men are bound in conscience to shun, but even its use, lest the abuse follow. Recognizing a source of danger in the social customs which generally prevail, and which become the occasion of the ruin of weak souls, our union maintains, as a principle, that friendship and hospitality, joy and sorrow, do not demand the social glass, and it raises its hands to break down such customs. We are not afraid to say with Cardinal Manning that the drink traffic is the parent of intemperance; that it is a national shame, a national folly and a national danger. It is a shame to our Christianity that so brutalizing, so degrading, so inhuman a vice should not only flourish among us, but actually rule us. The most notable expression of this traffic is the saloon as one of the destroyers of man. Yes, the saloon blocks our way intellectually, morally and politically. It blasts intellect, saps morality and defiles politics. It is the one thing in our community which cannot allege man's good as a reason for its existence. Our union means war on the saloon, and calls on its members to shun it and its influences as they would plague spots which cast on mind and in heart the greatest curse that can infect them. The most effective prohibitory law is that observed by men who are resolved not to enter the saloon, for this resolution would most effectively wipe it out of existence.

Letters of encouragement from many prelates, including the archbishops of Halifax and Winnipeg, were read. General Secretary Philip A. Nolan, of Philadelphia, in his report for the year ending Aug. 1, 1888, states: There are now affiliated to the general union 23 subordinate unions and 48 detached societies. The union of New Brunswick has disbanded, while that of Brooklyn, which was withdrawn, has since been re-admitted. The diocesan unions of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Pittsburg, Pa., have been admitted. During the year 120 societies were admitted and 87 dropped, leaving now on the rolls 701 societies. Of these two are in Nova Scotia and one in P. E. Island. There are 550 adult societies, with 33,971 members; 174 cadet organizations, with 13,705 members; 55 ladies' societies, with 5,040 members, and 12 girls' societies, with a membership of 1,039. An address to the Catholics of the country appealing for support and assistance was read. Bishop Keane was present and made a speech. The election of officers resulted in the re-election of Father Conaty as president. Mr. Nolan was re-elected secretary. The convention will meet at Cleveland, Ohio, next year. The union decided to pledge itself to raise $50,000 to establish a Father Matthew chair in the new university at Washington, in celebration of the centenary of the great temperance apostle's birthday—Oct. 10th, 1890.

PORTLAND, OREGON

The West Shore is the only illustrated magazine published on the Pacific coast, and aside from its excellent literary features, its object is to convey information, by both pen and pencil, of the great resources of this region, and the progress of their development.
Special illustrated articles appear in each issue; also, several pages of notes of the progress being made in every section. Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Alaska, Utah, California, British Columbia, and the Pacific Northwest in general, are being illustrated. The subscription price is only $2.50. It is not only the cheapest illustrated magazine in the United States, but contains articles and engravings of great interest to every resident of this region, which can not be found in any other publication.
Subscribers for 1888 receive a large supplement every month. The first one is a beautiful oleograph of the "Entrance to the Columbia River," printed in nine colors, and each of the others represents some feature of our sublime scenery. FIVE PIRATES BEHEADED.

A Former Naval Officer Tells the Story of a Bloody Execution in China.

While attached to the United States steamer Wachusett, then cruising in the waters of the Asiatic station, we happened to be sent to Canton to protect some of the American merchants who fancied that the Chinese, who had been making threats, were going to give them trouble.

On one occasion we were ashore under the guidance of a Chinaman and seeing everything curious that was to be seen, when through the streets came a large body of troops guarding five men carried in flat baskets suspended on bamboo rods from the shoulders of coolies.

"Sam, what are they going to do with those men?" we asked.

"Oh," said he, "they are pirates and the troops are going to cut off their heads."

We followed, and in a short time came to an open courtyard just off one of the main thoroughfares of the city. The soldiers filed in on each side, and the mandarin, who wrote the blue button, seated himself in a chair.

A great crowd of people had followed, and the sentinels at the gate had great trouble in keeping them back. We were in uniform, and when we were seen by the officer of the guard he called the attention of the mandarin to the fact.

We were immediately escorted to a place of honor beside the mandarin, who rose and bowed his respects; and told our guide to explain to us why he was there and why those five men were to lose their lives.

They had been caught in the act of piracy on the high seas by an English gunboat and turned over to the Chinese authorities for trial and punishment. They had had speedy trial, the act of piracy having been committed six days before.

While this explanation was going on the five prisoners were made to kneel on the ground in Indian file, their "queues" were coiled up on the backs of their heads, and with a slight inclination the backs of their necks were made perfectly bare. An officer was sent for the executioner, and he appeared, making the salute to the mandarin.

The prisoners were kneeling, their hands tied behind their backs, and heavy bamboo rods weighted at each end were laid across the calves of their legs.

The mandarin rose and read the warrant of execution. The utmost stillness prevailed. On the faces of the people who had flocked to see the executions an expression of fear and anxiety was depicted.

A command was given, the executioner walked to the side of the first man, and drawing a long, narrow knife from under his robe awaited the order. The supreme moment had come; five lives were to be taken. The men in the rear could see every movement of the executioner and of the man in front of him. To the "outside barbarian" it was a fearful moment.

A command was given, and in an instant the knife was in the air and in the next moment a head lay on the ground. A great fountain of blood spurted from the neck, and the executioner was beside the next man. Again the command, and a headless body the result, and in less than the time it takes to write this line the five men were beheaded.

We ran to the bodies in our curiosity to see if any muscular action was taking place, but there was none beyond the slowly closing eyelids. The law was vindicated. The troops formed in line, the heads were put in the baskets that lately carried the bodies of the pirates, and the march was resumed through the city.

The bodies were thrown into a cart and taken for burial outside the city. In answer to our question as to what would be done with the five heads, we were told that they would be placed on the walls of the city as a warning to all evil doers.—New York Mail and Express.

DANCING DUCKS.

Henry Bergh's Noble Work Recalled.

Peter Von Hipple was something of a character in New York thirty years ago.

There are a good many people who will remember him as the proprietor of a tumble-down groggery on the Bowery, near the Old Bowery Theatre, where he astonished the public for a good many years with three ducks confined in a cage, which were known far and wide as the "dancing ducks."

Old Peter would play a cracked fiddle and the ungainly birds would go through a dance which became wilder and wilder and wilder as the music grew faster. The cage was behind the bar, and no one was permitted to approach it on any pretense.

One day the old man—he was fifty then—fell asleep in a big chair, business being rather dull, and an inquisitive youth who had long suspected that there was some trick connected with the "dancing ducks," crept behind the bar and discovered the secret.

The bottom of the cage was of sheet iron. Underneath it was a small charcoal stove, always ready for kindling. When Peter wanted the ducks to dance he would, by some sleight of hand, insert a light in the stove, and then, under pretense of keeping time, would work a small bellows with his foot.

As the fire brightened and the floor of the cage became heated the birds would lift first one foot and then the other. The hotter it became, the faster old Peter would play, and the faster the poor waddlers would lift their webbed feet. It was very cruel, but very funny.

The story spread about and several gentlemen had Peter arrested. When the late Henry Bergh undertook his noble work he put a permanent stop to the "dancing ducks."

The old man is a little light-headed now, and although he has plenty of money he is constantly bewailing his fate, and blaming the "cruelty" people for driving him out of business.—New York World.

Equal to the Occasion.

The child had been piously brought up. She had been taught to say grace and her prayers, and everything that a tender mother could do to keep her pure and innocent and make her refined had been done.

She had been out playing late, and when she came in to dinner they were all at the table. She threw her hat in a corner and was immediately told to hang it up. She did so, and then clambered up on her chair.

She was about to start in on her soup, when the mother looked very reproachfully at her.

"Maria! haven't you forgotten something?"

"No, ma."

"I thought I told you you must always say grace."

The child put her little hands together, raised her eyes towards heaven with childish earnestness, and said simply and reverently:

"Let her go, Gallagher."

ABE LINCOLN'S OLD LOVE.

The Venerable Woman Who Declined to Marry Him in Her Girlhood.

Mrs. William Drenan, of Honey Grove, Tex., said to a newspaper man recently:

"I was born in Bingham county, North Carolina, in 1816, but when quite young moved with my parents to Sangamon county, Illinois, where I lived until, in 1842, I moved to Texas.

"I knew Mr. Lincoln well—knew and played with him when he wore knee breeches and went barefooted with the rest of us.

"We attended the same school in an old log schoolhouse, presided over by what I now know to have been a very primitive but good old man. He didn't know much, as men are educated these days; but, lah, me! we used to think him a compendium of knowledge. And Mr. Lincoln (simply 'Abe' then, though) was a very apt scholar, always ahead in his studies.

"As a young man he was most exemplary—generous to a fault, chivalrous, kind, honest and trustworthy; and he loved his good old mother.

"One little incident I never will forget.

"We all went to church one Sunday, a creek being on the way, over which we crossed on two fallen logs. Mr. Lincoln was not present during church—was away, I believe, in Springfield. Several of us girls had walked, as it was a beautiful day. But just before church was out, the sky clouded up and it commenced to rain very hard.

"We girls, at the conclusion of the service, were sitting in the church waiting for the rain to cease, when Mr. Lincoln rode up. His mother had also attended service, and on foot. After the rain was over, he assisted Mrs. Lincoln on to his horse, saying he would walk home with the girls, which he did. But when we came to the creek the logs had been washed away and the water was fully three feet deep.

"What to do we didn't know, but young Abe did. He commenced with me, and carried us all over in safety, till the last one, a very fleshy girl, was only left on the wrong side. He waded through after her and took her in his arms, starting across.

"We were making all sorts of fun of them, and, laughing gayly, when she, being a mischievous body, anyway, whispered something to him which caused him to give vent suddenly to a loud peal of laughter; when, somehow, the girl slipped from his arms, and both fell flat into the water. But it didn't spoil our fun in the least. Why, bless your soul, when we saw the two woebegone-looking creatures rise and wade to the shore we laughed all the more, and so did they. Those were good old times, indeed.

"It was early in the spring of 1834, one evening when we were out walking, that Mr. Lincoln asked me to marry him, but as I had already formed an attachment with and had promised to marry Mr. Drenan, of course I refused him. He seemed to be quite sorry, but in his genial way said:

"'Well, Martha, anyway, we can always be good friends.'

"And we were. I always thought a great deal of Abe, and hated to refuse him, but circumstances were such that I was almost compelled to.

"When he heard of our intention to remove to Texas Mr. Lincoln came over to our house on a visit and remained three days, trying his best to dissuade us. My maiden name was Matilda Wilson."

SHE GOT HER REWARD.

Encouraging to Promoters of Cooking Schools.

Potts had just returned from an extended trip abroad and was making his first call upon a young lady friend.

"My gracious, Miss Jennie, how you have changed! Why, you are a mere shadow of your former self. Aren't you well?"

"Well, no, Mr. Potts. You see, shortly after your departure I joined the cooking school, and there we are obliged to sample everything that we make. I am now a hopeless dyspeptic."

"How horrible! Really, I pity you from the bottom of my heart."

"You are very kind, Mr. Potts, but I feel positive that I shall reap my reward," and here the young lady blushed painfully.

"Reward? Really I do not comprehend."

Then, with a graceful flutter of clinging drapery, she crossed to his side, gave him a 'tis-leap-year expression, laid her left ear over his chest protector and gently murmured:

"Willie, dear, I can make biscuit such as your mother used to make."

With a wild cry of joy he took the trembling form in his great, strong arms, and their happiness was so intense that it could have been cut with a knife.—Cincinnati Times.

Hemp Ropes.

A German paper says a good hemp rope is hard, but pliant, yellowish or greenish, gray in color, with a certain silvery or pearly lustre. A dark or blackish color indicates that the hemp has suffered from fermentation in the process of curing, and brown spots show that the rope was spun while fibres were damp, and is consequently weak and soft in those places.

Again, sometimes a rope is made with inferior hemp on the inside, covered with yarns of good material, a fraud, however, which may be detected by dissecting a portion of the rope, or, in practiced hands, by its behavior in use.

Other inferior ropes are made with short fibres, or with strands of unequal strength or unevenly spun, the rope in the first case appearing woolly, on account of the number of ends of fibre projecting, and in the latter case the irregularity of manufacture is evident on inspection by any good judge.

Won an Easy Victory.

A jolly gentleman was drinking beer at the same table with three dissipated German students.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I'll order a bottle of wine for the biggest liar of you three."

"I deposited 20 marks yesterday in a savings bank," said the first.

"That's a pretty good lie."

"I am going to be able to pass my examination next session," said student No. 2.

"That's a whopper. Next."

The third student thought a moment and then said to the genial gentleman:

"You are going to lend me 20 marks."

The genial gentleman ordered the wine at once for the worst liar of the three.

Filial Imitation.

Mamma—"Harry, you must be still! No respectable person will stamp and pound and shout the way you are doing."

A Sluggish Liver

Causes the Stomach and Bowels to become disordered, and the whole system to suffer from debility. In all such cases Ayer's Pills give prompt relief.

After much suffering from Liver and Stomach troubles, I have finally been cured by taking Ayer's Cathartic Pills. I always find them prompt and thorough in their action, and their occasional use keeps me in a perfectly healthy condition.—Ralph Weeman, Annapolis, Md.

Twenty-five years ago I suffered from a torpid liver, which was restored to healthy action by taking Ayer's Pills. Since that time I have never been without them. They regulate the bowels, assist digestion, and increase the appetite, more surely than any other medicine.—Paul Churchill, Haverhill, Mass.

INVIGORATED.

I know of no remedy equal to Ayer's Pills for Stomach and Liver disorders. I suffered from a Torpid Liver, and Dyspepsia, for eighteen months. My skin was yellow, and my tongue coated. I had no appetite, suffered from Headache, was pale and emaciated. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills, taken in moderate doses, restored me to perfect health.—Waldo Miles, Oberlin, Ohio.

Ayer's Pills are a superior family medicine. They strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, create an appetite, and remove the horrible depression and despondency resulting from Liver Complaint. I have used these Pills in my family, for years, and they never fail to give entire satisfaction.—Otto Montgomery, Oshkosh, Wis. tf

Mr. Charnock, the general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Vancouver, will conduct services at 8 o'clock to-night (Saturday) in the rooms of the Y.M.C.A., also to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock; subject—"Character building."

Before buying a new suit it will pay you to wait and see our stock, now on the road, of the very best imported goods, which will be made up to the satisfaction of all who patronize us. Wait and give us a call.—Beggs & Heard. *

In Mr. D. Lyal's book store a large and handsome picture of the officers of the B. C. B. G. A. is on exhibition. The picture is an excellent specimen of photographer's art and faithfully illustrates the manly beauties of our gallant officers.

Young, old, and middle aged, all experience the wonderfully beneficial effects of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young children suffering from sore eyes, sore ears, scald head, or with any scrofulous taint, become healthy and strong by the use of this medicine. Six bottles, $5.

The schooner Bertha Dolbeer, Capt. Fardelius, sails at midnight in charge of Capt. McAllister the pilot. Her cargo of lumber, which was loaded at the Royal City Mills, consists of 36,000 feet of square timber and planking consigned to Guaymas, Mexico.

The stove and tinware establishment of H. M. Cunningham & Co. has been removed to Ewen's block, where the public will find one of the largest and best assorted stocks of Stoves, Tinware and house furnishing goods to be found any where in the province.*

A. B. DesRochers, Arthabaskaville, P. Q., writes: "Thirteen years ago I was [illegible] with a severe attack of rheumatism in the head, from which I nearly con[illegible] suffered, until after having used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for nine days, being by the head &c., when I was completely cured, and have only used half a bottle."

The card sharpers, thimble-riggers, and other gamblers travelling with Sells' circus did a thriving business yesterday afternoon and evening. One young farmer from up-river "blew in" $80 to a thimble-rigger and many Indians were fleeced out of smaller sums.

On Thursday an attempt was made to haul the pipe line of the Capilano water works across the Inlet. The steel wire rope which was passed through the pipes snapped like a thread under the heavy pressure it was subjected to, and that without moving the pipes. Another attempt will be made in a few days to get the line across the narrows, which is expected to be more successful.

BRUTAL MURDER

A Drunken Quarrel Causes a Murder this Afternoon.

This afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock an Italian named Joseph Cotea murdered a half-breed Chilian, known as Baskett. The scene of the murder was the small lane at the corner of the Merchant's hotel on Columbia st. It appears the two men had been drinking heavily during the day and were continually quarreling, but did not come to blows. The frequent disputes became so troublesome that both were put out of the hotel and told not to come back. An eye witness to the murder informed a representative of the COLUMBIAN that after reaching the street the quarrel was continued and finally a blow was struck. Cotea struck Baskett on the breast with sufficient force to knock him down and the moment the unfortunate reached the ground Cotea raised his foot and gave Baskett a terrible kick on the side of the head. No sooner had the kick been given than Baskett doubled up, turned over on his face and never moved again. Death was almost instantaneous. The police were informed and Cotea was arrested and is now in jail, but too drunk to realize his position. The coroner has been notified and an inquest will probably be held this evening. Cotea is a boat-builder by trade and has heretofore borne a fairly good character. Baskett was a fisherman and a well known character.

THE CONTRACT LET.

Mr. James Leamy Receives the Contract for Clearing the Right-of-Way for the Southern Railway.

The tenders for clearing the right-of-way of the Southern Railway, from Brownsville to the boundary, were opened to-day by Mr. A. J. Hill, the chief engineer of the company. Eighteen tenders in all were received, the lowest of which was that of Mr. Jas. Leamy, the well known contractor, who was awarded the contract for clearing the whole distance. The length of the line from point of commencement to the boundary, is about 24 miles, which will require about 300 acres of clearing. The figures of the contract are kept private for the present. Mr. Hill has instructed Mr. Leamy to begin work immediately, and that gentleman is making arrangements to commence operations on Monday. Mr. Leamy will push the work with all possible haste and will have sufficient cleared within two weeks to allow the construction party to make a start.

Alaska Mining Property.

Among the Geo. W. Elder's passengers for Alaska, which left here Wednesday, was Mr. M. W. Murray. Mr. Murray has cut the largest swath in big mining deals of any man on the Pacific coast. He is now en route home from London, England, where, as some time since announced in the press dispatches, he sold the Bear's Nest Mine on Douglas Island for $2,000,000. He had in his pocket when he left here on the Elder cash to the amount of $800,000, as a first payment on the purchase. Mr. Murrey states that he is likely to close out a deal to the same parties, involving the sale of the famous Treadwell mine.—Colonist.

Y. M. C. A. of the World.

The eleventh convention of the Young Men's Christian Association of the world convened at Stockholm, in Sweden, on Wednesday, and was formally opened in a brief address by Count Bernstoff, of Berlin, president of the convention held four years ago in Berlin. An address of welcome was delivered by the Bishop of Vishy and an address of inauguration by Baron Uggles. Dr. Von Scheele was elected president, and George Williams, of London, Count Bernstoff, of Berlin, and Lucian Warner, of New York, vice-presidents. The world's committee report showed a gratifying growth of the work in the past four years.

Seaside Resort.

We are pleased to learn that one of our enterprising citizens is about establishing at Boundary Bay, near the new city of Blaine, W. T., a seaside house with bath-rooms attached, which will be 40x100 feet, divided into several compartments, with dressing rooms and latest improvements. This house will be managed on eastern principles and no expense will be spared to make it one of the most comfortable houses on the Pacific coast. The beach is one of the finest in the province, and for a driving course is unequalled. The views from the house taking in the harbor, bay, Olympian range and Mt. Baker are grand beyond comparison. The building will be completed on or before the 15th of September, when the proprietor will be ready to receive guests.

The Circus.

Sells' circus last night was attended by almost every one in town, and fully 1,000 people from the country. The excuse given by venerable parents for being present was "the children wanted to see the circus." They were probably correct, but somehow the parents were as well pleased with what they saw as were the children. The bare back riding was excellent, considering the size of the ring, and the jumping, tumbling, and balancing feats were all first-class. The educated donkeys were most amusing and afforded fun to the audience, but the most enjoyable part of the exhibition was Sidney, the elephant. This animal has been most perfectly trained and acts in a manner almost human. The side shows were very interesting and the attractions in the shape of fat women, thin men, dwarfs, etc., were worth a visit. The circus left for Vancouver at an early hour this morning and will show there to-day.

The superiority of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is shown by its good effects on she children. Purchase a bottle and give it a trial.

Leather Parliament.

There was considerable excitement yesterday morning in the vicinity of the leather parliament buildings, and the doors were besieged with people long before the usual hour for opening. Countrymen were excitedly rushing up and down enquiring of everyone they met as to where such and such a member lodged, or when the house would meet and if there was any charge for admission. To the many enquiries several veteran members, who were enjoying their morning pipe outside the house, returned satisfactory answers, and in cases where the visitors were known to be men of importance and political influence they were furnished with tickets for the speakers' gallery. The great circus had attracted numbers of visitors to the city who for the most part had determined to blend business with pleasure and came prepared to press their representative to gain some desired ends for them. As the members began to drop in by twos and threes they were instantly captured by delegations of their constituents who threatened all sorts of dire calamities if their petitions were not instantly acceded to. It was in vain the hon. members explained that each matter must go through the regular course in the house. The country gentlemen would not beleive it, and declared open rebellion would result if even their smallest wish was not granted. A few of the veteran members, with considerable diplomacy, directed the steps of their delegations to a neighboring saloon, and by judicious conversation and a liberal supply of Canada's national beverage managed to lead the country gentlemen's thoughts in an opposite direction.

It was some minutes after the speaker took the chair before order could be restored, and the sergeant-at-arms found it necessary to eject 3 Chilliwhack gentlemen, 5 voters from Port Moody and 6 from Ladners in order to show that the dignity of the house must not be trifled with.

The hon. member for Weatherguage was the first to obtain the floor and rose to enter a protest against the action of the Corean government in charging missionaries with eating native children. The thing, he said, was preposterous, but supposing it were true he would like to know how many missionaries the Coreans had fried, stewed and boiled. He was a lover of fair play, and if the missionaries found they held the winning hand and wished to play even on the natives, by eating an occasional youngster, he thought they had a perfect right to do so, and the government should be willing to support them by force of arms if necessary.

The hon. member for Matsqui agreed with his colleague and expressed the sincere hope that the charge against the missionaries was true. The natives of the South Sea Islands had had control of cannibalism too long and it was time the tables were turned. Fresh meat was a scarce article in the south seas and it was rather hard on the missionaries to compel them by force of circumstances to become vegetarians. And if an occasional child was barbecued the loss to Corea would not be great, as the natural supply was much larger than the demand.

On motion of the hon. member for Hallerton the house adopted a resolution approving of the course latterly adopted by the missionaries, and promising them a hearty support if their feasts should be interfered with.

The hon. member for Port Moody said he took much pleasure in informing the house that the great circus was hourly expected to arrive, and he thought it was only a matter of common courtesy that a deputation from the house should await the arrival of the steamer at the wharf and give the circus people a right royal welcome to the city. He said if this course was adopted the proprietors might be induced to grant passes to every member of the house. Although no member of the house cared to visit the circus on a complimentary ticket, yet if the proprietors were generous enough to grant complimentary tickets he thought the dignity of the house would not be compromised if it condescended to accept them.

The hon. member for Harrison thought the deputation should be immediately selected, and, although no member of the house desired a pass, he thought it would be well to send the deputation down the river to meet the steamer so that the passes would be ready for the members the moment the circus reached the wharf.

The deputation was appointed and withdrew from the house to fulfill its mission.

The hon. member for Cemeteryville introduced a deputation of country gentlemen who carried a petition setting forth their various wants. The petition asked that the tax on whiskey, tobacco and cigars be abolished, the price of wheat fixed at $2.50 per bushel, eggs at 75 cents per dozen, potatoes at $20 per ton and all lines of dry goods at half cost price. In supporting this petition the hon. member said the demands were just and should receive the careful attention of the house. The majority should govern in all cases, and as the farmers were in the majority he considered they had a perfect right to arrange the taxes to suit themselves. He would ask the hon. members present how they would feel, if depending on hens for a living, if eggs only brought 20 cents per dozen and at the same time whiskey was $3 per gallon. At this rate it would take the united energies of 50 hens to keep an honest man in whiskey, even supposing he did not drink more than one gallon per week, which every member present would admit to be a very small allowance (cries of "Yes! yes! not half enough," etc.) It was a serious matter and he thought a special committee should be selected to report on the subject at the next sitting of the house.

The hon. members for Scott's Road, Matsqui and Cemeteryville were appointed a committee, with power to add to their number, to consider the petition, summon witnesses and ascertain the possibility of reducing the price of liquors.

At this moment the circus deputation entered the house, flushed and excited, bearing a massive bundle of complimentary tickets for the show. The speaker endeavored to get them for the purpose of checking the numbers, but the hon. members rushed in and helped themselves so generously that there was no ticket for the speaker when the deputation reported to him. A considerable uproar was caused by the speaker, and a fight was soon in progress between that gentleman and the sergeant-at-arms, who had managed to corral two tickets. Considerable confusion followed, during which the doors were locked and the house hastily adjourned.

Mrs. Crawford Skips.

At 3.20 o'clock this morning a lonely hackman drove down the Esquimalt road and turned into the avenue leading to the Naval Hospital. He drew up his steaming steeds at the gate of a small farm occupied by Mrs. Crawford (of the notorious Menzies case), the woman who was charged with enticing a young Chinese girl to unlawfully cohabit with a Chinaman named Ah Chee. The unproposing widow emerged from the house and entered the hack which was closed up and the curtains drawn down. The horses were then turned towards the city and driven at a rapid rate to the Alaskan. On arriving at the wharf the hackman purchased a ticket for Seattle and took it to the comely widow, who remained in the hack. When the steamer blew her last whistle the woman stepped out of the hack and bid farewell to Victoria. She stepped sprightly on board and is now in the land of the free. This morning her case was called in the police court but at the request of Mr. Walls was adjourned until to-morrow. She is out on her own recognizance in the sum of $50, and her non-appearance this morning to answer the charge or renew the bail shows very plainly that she had no intention to appear for trial. It will be in order for the senior editor of our morning contemporary to take a trip and bring the woman back. —Times.

Runaway.

This morning a team of horses attached to a heavy wagon, on the seat of which was a child less than 5 years old, while standing in front of Mr. Rousseau's store, took fright and dashed up Columbia street at a high rate of speed. Numerous efforts were made to stop them, but without effect as the cries seemed to add to their fright and increase their speed. The position of the child was most precarious and the onlookers momentarily expected to see the little fellow thrown to the ground, but he clung bravely to the seat until opposite Dr. McInnes' house when he dropped into the box and remained safe. Mr. D. McPhadden, who saw the horses pass his store, instantly grasped the situation, and jumping on a horse's back, started full speed in pursuit of the runaways. He was successful in overtaking the team when a short distance past Capt. Robinson's and riding along side grasped the reins and managed to bring them to a stand still. The little chap was found in the bottom of the waggon, safe and sound though somewhat frightened. Neither the horses or waggon, which belong to a Pitt Meadow farmer, named Wise, were damaged. Hitching posts are quite numerous along the streets and owners of horses, particularly farmers, should secure themselves against such accidents by making use of of them.

The Elopers Caught.

On Sunday a man named Millard L. Cantrell, accompanied by a prepossessing looking young girl named Clara C. Low, arrived by the train and took rooms at the Central Hotel as man and wife. Cantrell, who is a blacksmith by trade, obtained work at the V. C. Company on Monday. Everything went merry as a marriage bell till the train arrived yesterday, bringing the mother and step father of the young girl. The parents brought up a warrant signed by Thos. Shotbolt of Victoria, for the arrest of Cantrell on a charge of seducing their daughter Clara C. Low, who will not be 16 years of age till December next. Chief Constable Stewart and Constable O'Connell proceeded to execute the warrant, but they found that both the girl and her alleged paramour had left. It seems that the girl, who appears to be deeply infatuated with Cantrell, saw her parents and at once went over to the V. C. Co.'s shop and gave Cantrell warning. The couple then fled in the direction of Chinatown, but the argus-eyes of Constable O'Connell were soon on their track and that officer arrested the couple in the woods near the railway track. Cantrell was lodged in jail, and as he was entering the jail door, the girl flung her arms around his neck exclaiming "I love you and will love you always." The girl was taken to her parents and the man languishes in jail until this morning when he will be taken to Victoria for trial.

Cantrell is said to be a married man aged 35 years, and left his wife and children in Washington territory. The stop father's name is Albert Anthony Benard, and he resides at Ellensburg, Kittates County, W. T.

Mr. H. McCaw, Custom House, Toronto, writes: "My wife was troubled with Dyspepsia and Rheumatism for a long time; she tried many different medicines, but did not get any relief until she used Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. She has taken two bottles of it, and now finds herself in better health than she has been for years."

G. A. Dixon, Frankville, Ont., says: "I was cured of chronic bronchitis, that troubled me for seventeen years, by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil." See that the signature of Northrop & Lyman is on the back of the wrapper, and you will get the genuine Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.
