SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

The solanine in unripe potatoes is supposed to have caused the recent poisoning of many French soldiers.

The fifth meeting of the International Geological Congress will be held in Philadelphia in 1891. The previous sessions have been: Paris, 1878; Bologna, 1881; Berlin, 1885; and London, 1888.

Almost the hardness of the diamond is said to be given by German workmen to steel engraving-tools. The tools are made white-hot, plunged repeatedly into sealing wax until cold, and then just touched with oil of turpentine.

Tracings of the curious hieroglyphics found upon certain slate rocks of Nova Scotia have been obtained by the Smithsonian Institution at Washington. The characters are cut to a depth of a sixteenth of an inch, and seem to be very old.

Watch-springs, piano-springs and similar articles have been successfully tempered by electricity. The steel is wound on a spool, placed in an oil-bath, and by the electric current kept at an exact degree of redness necessary for the temper required.

As the best method of water-proofing soldiers' clothing, the Belgian government has adopted dipping the goods in acetate of alumina and then drying in the air. The clothing is not injured, and is said to offer no obstacle to perspiration after treatment.

Prof. Langley finds that a very faint light may be perceived in about half a second, while an ordinarily bright light requires only about half that interval; and that the same amount of energy may produce at least 100,000 times the visual effect in one color that it does in another.

MORE SUBMARINE NAVIGATION,—The French minister of the Navy is reported to be experimenting on the Seine with an electrical submarine torpedo boat. It is made of sheet-iron, is cigar-shaped, and measures about 14½ feet in length by five feet in diameter. It carries a sufficient store of compressed oxygen for quite a trip under water.

FLOUR-BREATHING,—Twenty guinea pigs were placed by M. L. Poincarre in the most dusty part of a flour mill, in order to test the effect of the constant inhalition of the dust. At the end of two years ten pigs survived. The others, mostly young ones, seemed to have died from catarrhal pneumonia, and in no case from consumption. Little dust was found beyond the passages of the nose.

TEMPERANCE TONICS,—The chemist of the Massachusetts Board of Health has analyzed forty-seven specimens of the tonics and bitters with which the market is flooded. Many of these are advertised as being free from alchol, and some as an acid in overcoming the craving for drink, forty-six of the specimens examined were found to contain alchol, in proportions ranging from 6 to 47.5 per cent, 21.5 per cent being the average. A specimen of so-called "sulphur bitters" contained no sulphur.

COASTS,—It has been calculated that Europe has one mile of coast-line to each 190 square miles of territory; Asia, one to 469; Africa, one to 895; South America, one to 265. The total length of the European coast is 19,500 miles, of which 3000 miles is unavailable for commerce. The coast-line of the United States, exclusive of Alaska, has been estimated to be more than 17,000 miles, with an additional 1000 miles on the Great Lakes. Including the shores of navigable rivers, as has been done in the estimate for Europe, Mr. J. H. Patton finds the total available coast-line of the United States, exclusive of Alaska, to be 28,000 miles, or one mile to about 108 square miles of surface.

SUN ENERGY IN GROWTH,—The director of the Royal Deaf-Mute Asylum at Copenhagen has shown that children's growth varies greatly in different parts of the year, the rate of increase in the weight of boys being three times as great from the first of August to the middle of December as from the middle of December to the end of April, and most of the gain of this second period being lost between the end of April and the end of July. These fluctuations do not correspond to local changes of temperature of the whole globe. The evidence thus far collected is taken as an indication, therefore, that some unknown "energy of growth" comes to us from the sun with the heat rays, separate from them, and, unaffected by wind or weather, causes uniform fluctuations in the growth of all organic life.

THE THIN CANNOT GAIN IN WEIGHT if they are troubled with dyspepsia, because the food is not converted into the due proportion of nourishing blood which alone can furnish the elements of flesh. But there is no reason, when this wearing, attenuating disease is conquered by Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, why there should not be an appreciable gain in weight, which indeed is usually the case. It is a peerless remedy also for Constipation, Liver Complaint, Kidney troubles, and roots out all impurities from the blood.

MARINE ACCIDENTS.

SAUT STE. MARIE, Nov. 16.—The severest northwest gale of the season raged all last night and the weather was bitterly cold. One of the deck hands of the barge S. C. Baldwin, Lewis Helmquest, was drowned as the vessel was entering the canal. The engineer of the Baldwin was scalded to death on the way down at midnight. While the barge Colorado was lying wind-bound at the west end of the canal the schooner Ironcliff struck her, tearing away 35 feet of her bulwarks and breaking 9 of her stanchions. An unknown vessel went aground below Maria last night.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

WHALER PROBABLY LOST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—Whaling captains in port are of opinion that the bark Ohio, now overdue, is lost. One of the captains states that she was last seen at the tail end of the fleet off Cape Lisburne, in the Arctic Ocean. Another statement is that she was seen near St. Matthew's Island in Behring Sea. If the former statement is correct there is ground for belief that the bark is lost; if the latter is true she may be still on her way down.

WHEAT DEFICIT.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 17.—The report of Frank Mason, U.S. consul at Marseilles, just received at the state department, says that the wheat crop in France falls 80,824,952 bushels below that of last year and that, on the basis of a total yearly consumption of 120,000,000 hectoliters, there is a total net deficit of 87,259,488 bushels which will have to be supplied by importation.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 17.—Cadie Lorenzo, aged 27, while adjusting a belt on a shaft in the Lick paper mills last night, was caught in a belt and crushed to death.

NOVEMBER IN THE EAST.

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 17.—A snow-storm, driven before a heavy gale, is raging in this section. Travel is impeded on the lake and vessels are storm-bound at all points.

DIED OF THE FEVER.

RESIGNATION SENT IN.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Perry Belmont, of New York, who has accepted the Spanish mission, has sent his resignation as member of congress to the clerk of the house.

HEALTH BULLETIN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Jay Gould is no better this morning; her condition is still precarious.

ATLANTIC GALES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The English str. Exeter City, from Bristol and Swansea, arrived at quarantine this morning. She met the heavy gales which have been sweeping the Atlantic for the past fortnight. The storm struck the steamer on Nov. 8th while she was in latitude 49, longitude 44. The wind blew with hurricane force, lasting 26 hours, a high, dangerous sea prevailing during the entire time. Several tremendous seas broke on board, washing along the deck, breaking three life-boats, and smashing the forward part of the wheel-house and doing considerable other damage about deck. The British steamer Moray, from Yokohama, also arrived to-day. She too met the storm but escaped without serious injury.

A STRANGE FATALITY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—An astonishing revelation has been made in the case of the handsomely dressed woman who committed suicide at the Compton House on Oct. 4th last in this city. Being unidentified, she was buried in Potter's Field cemetery. On her clothing were the initials "A. C." It is now believed she was Mme. Almonte Calvert, a sister of Mme. Barreme, who married M. Barreme, prefect of the department of Eure, France, who was murderred in a railway car, Jan., 1886. The murderer was never brought to justice, but the murdered man's family seems to have been pursued by a fatality. One brother died under peculiar circumstances and another is now mad; the father is dead, and now the sister of Mme. Barreme is discovered to be the mysterious Compton House suicide. It was suspected a member of M. Barreme's wife's family was the murderer. If so it is hinted he has known how to get rid of his pursuers.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS RECOGNIZED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17. - The board of trustees of Columbia College has decided to establish an annex for women.

SHOT DEAD BY HIS WIFE.

OMAHA, Nov. 17.—Henry W. King, jr., of the firm of Browning, King & Co., was shot dead by his former wife this morning. The house with which he was connected here is a branch of the Chicago house of Henry W. King & Co., wholesale clothiers. Young King had been boarding at the Paxton hotel, with a woman ostensibly his wife. The King family is an old and prominent one in this city, both socially and financially. Henry W. King, jr., was about thirty years of age, and a graduate of Williams College. A few years ago he contracted an unfortunate marriage, as the sequel proved, causing his relatives much trouble and anxiety. Subsequently a divorce was secured. Henry W. King, senior, says the woman who shot his son is not his former wife, but a woman named Mrs. Beecher, whose home is in Chicago. The cause of the shooting has not developed.

A BOODLER NABBED AT KAMLOOPS.

SEATTLE, Nov. 17.—News has just reached here that Fred E. Simpson, the clerk who stole $10,000 from the N. P. Express Co. of Tacoma, last Tuesday, and went to Victoria, has just been captured at Kamloops, B. C. This capture was affected by Conductor Barnhart, of the C. P. R., who was working under the direction of American detectives. When caught Simpson had $12,118 on his person. He was in disguise and was going under the name of T. M. Moore. He had purchased a ticket for St. Paul, and intended leaving soon after. He takes the arrest coolly.

TOO MUCH COAL.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 17.—The river coal operators have called a meeting for to-morrow to consider the advisability of restricting production by shutting down all the coal mines along the Monongahela river. Capt. W. W. O'Neil, one of the largest operators, stated he has no doubt that operators will agree to suspend operations in all the mines for an unlimited period, because of the present small selling price. The proposed suspension will throw 6,000 men out of work.

THE CEREAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—Wheat quiet; buyer, 160⅞; buyer season, 171¾.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Wheat weaker and lower; Dec. 111; Jan. 109½; May 113.

DEFENCES TO BE INCREASED.

OTTAWA, Nov. 17.—After several months' correspondence, kept up between the Dominion and British governments, in reference to increasing the defences of Canada, the home government has promised to strengthen the defences along the frontier by the establishment of garrisons and batteries, and to increase the force in British Columbia. Total strength of force is now 3,700 men.

RESPONDING LIBERALLY.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 17.—The glass-blowers' assembly of Pittsburg came to the relief of the Powderly administration this morning by authorizing the Knights to draw upon their reserve fund for $5,000 and as much more as needed. They have $100,000 on hand. Other assemblies likewise put the district treasuries at the command of the general assembly and money in abundance for temporary purposes is now at its command. The general treasurer has also received $4,500 from October dues since the convention opened.

LATE DESPATCHES.

CAUSE OF CLEVELAND'S DEFEAT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The press this morning publishes answers from a large number of persons who were asked why Cleveland was defeated. Geo. W. Curtis answers: "I think the result was due chiefly to the presentation of the single issue which the president's party accepted but did not desire, which was new and unexpected to the country. Much is due, also, to the disappointment with the president's administration of civil service reform and to a lack of personal popularity."

ENFORCING THE CHINESE ACT.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Efforts are being made by the Treasury Department to secure the consent of Canada and Mexico to prevent Chinese from crossing their respective boundaries into the United States. It is evident, however, that Mexico will do nothing in the matter. Minister Romero says article two of the Mexican Constitution reads as follows: "All men have the right of entering and leaving the Republic or traveling through its territory, or changing their residence without the necessity of letters of security or passports, or other similar requisites."

MURDERED FOR MONEY.

WINONA, Ill., Nov. 12.—Peter Howe and wife, a wealthy couple, were murdered last night for money. No clue to the murderers.

THE BELL TELEPHONE CASE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Justice Miller of the supreme court, rendered a decision in the suit of the United States against the Bell Telephone Company, brought here on an appeal from the decision of the circuit court of Massachusetts sustaining demurrer entered by the Bell Company to the government's suit. Justice Miller has decided that the plea of multifariousness sent by the Bell Company does not hold good, and also that the Bell Company's contention that the United States has no right to bring suit to set aside a patent is no good. The decision is in favor of the United States. Justice Miller overrules the decision of the circuit court of Massachusetts, and the court remands the case with instructions to entertain the government's suit.

MONSTROUS DEMONSTRATION.

PORT TOWNSEND, Nov. 12.—The republicans had a monstrous demonstration on Saturday evening. Nearly 1000 people fell in line, headed by the Port of Entry cornet band. Several prominent democrats, draped in mourning, carried banners. Just after the procession some miscreants painted the custom house with glowing signs, such as "Harrison and Morton," "77," "Cleveland Can Fish On Decoration Day Now," and many others. Although the parties are known no arrests have been made. It is said that Harnard, the lately discharged deputy, who owns the building, was standing by and made no remonstrance against it. Two policemen were also present.

THE SOLID SOUTH WILTING.

CHARLESTON, S.C., Nov. 12.—The News and Courier have published opinions of thirty county chairmen on the situation. One of the leading democrats of the state created a sensation by saying: "I for one am getting tired of being used as a catapaw to rake chestnuts out of the fire for northern politicians of the New York Hewitt-Hill-Grant stripe. For twenty years or more these people have been using us to serve their own selfish ends. The solid south has been used as a catapaw by them and the solid south is a solidified fool if it does not kick over the traces. What would I do? Why, do this: I would have a convention of the southern states, the convention to meet and discuss the situation. Let us say to the national republican committee that we are tired of this thing and we want to break through the traces. Give us your assurance that you will leave us alone to manage our state affairs, and that you give us decent federal officials in the south, and we will break up the solid south. We will cut loose from Tammany & Co., democrats, and all of it and vote for the best man for president whoever he be, republican or democrat."

OVER THE OCEAN.

DONT WANT BLAKE.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The Queensland governorship question is still much canvassed both inside and outside of parliament. In official circles there is still a strong belief that in view of the frequent intensity of colonial politics it would be most unwise to take the sole responsibility of the selection of colonial governors from the unpartisan hands of the imperial ministers. It is still generally recognized that if Queensland insists on objecting to Sir H. A. Blake he cannot be forced upon the colony. The marked radical feeling against Sir H. A. Blake was shown in the house of commons to-night during the time in which questions are asked. It is fully expected that the apointment will be cancelled, though it is hoped that a middle course will be found satisfactory to the colony. There is a demand for a prior private intimation of the Crown's nominee to avoid a recurrence of such an unpleasant situation, especially seeing that South Australia supports Queensland, while the colonies generally never evinced a greater desire to co-operate with the Mother Country.

THE TERRIBLE TYPHOON.

HONGKONG, Nov. 17.—The bark Dione, from Sourabaya for San Francisco, has put in here badly damaged, having encountered a typhoon. She will have to discharge for repairs.

COTTON MILL BURNED.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Brotherton's cotton mill at Preston has burned; loss, £40,000.

WILLING TO COMPROMISE.

VIENNA, Nov. 17.—King Milan has offered to confirm the right of ex-Queen Natalie to the title of majesty, provided she foregoes here intended protest to the European courts and admits the legality of the divorce.

WHEAT.

Communications.

An Official Communication.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—As many of your readers would no doubt be pleased to know the contents of the letter, a copy of which is herewith enclosed, will you kindly insert the same in your paper and oblige. Yours truly,
O. D. SWEET.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 3, 1888.

SIR.—I have the honor to inform you that the copy of a communication, enclosed with yours of the 5th inst, addressed to the Provincial Secretary has been forwarded to his address at Ottawa as requested. I may also state that the Dominion Government have already granted permission to bridge the North Arm in accordance with plans submitted by the San Francisco Bridge Company. But so far nothing has been heard respecting the plans prepared by the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company, which are under consideration at Ottawa. I have the honor to be, Sir, your obedient servant,
W. S. GORE,
Surveyor-General.

Work on Scott Road.

EDITOR COLUMBIAN.—Please allow me a short space in your valuable paper, to correct the statement made by Mr. Robert Gray in your edition of Nov. 7th, in which he says, the second time the road was cleared, the brush was cut, logs and stumps all out level with the road or taken out, ditches cleaned out, all mud holes filled in, and road put in good repair &c. for $100.

As for the brush, it was cut over a foot from the ground in patches along the road-side, and left lying in the ditches. The logs cut just wide enough to allow a wagon to pass, were also rolled into ditches, which was the most convenient way to dispose of them. The only piece of ditch cleaned out was opposite his own farm so as to have drainage to his land. He also says, I only two-thirds cut the brush, which is not correct, as it was all cut close with the exception of one mile.

Had Mr. Gray done his work properly by cutting the brush close to the ground and throwing it clear of the ditches, cutting the logs three feet clear of ditches and rolling them outside, so that I should not have had to spend a large amount of the money laid out on the road in doing his work over again, I would have had enough money left to gravel the greater part of the road now graded, but the manner in which he completed his work shows his ability as a road builder is exceedingly limited.

Another instance in which he exhibits his ignorance in repairing roads is when he advocates graveling a road before it is graded.

If he had cleaned out the ditches properly, he must have had "mud on top of mud," unless he has some process of turning mud into gravel; if so, he is the man the government should have to grade their roads; and should they happen to want any more men like him they can obtain a number just as smart by applying at the Insane Asylum at Westminster.

If Mr. Gray had received the money to spend on the Scott road, the public would have been ignorant of what work has been done; and there is no doubt if the government had thought him a fit and competent person to perform the work he would have received it.

Daily British Columbian

Saturday Evening, Nov. 17, 1888.

Commenting in a recent issue upon the fact that the London Graphic had reached the conclusion that the evening newspaper would be the journal of the future, the Vancouver World makes the following very apropos remarks: "This is now becoming the all but universal opinion. The improved methods of transportation and the rapid transmission of news by electricity and otherwise has had the effect of raising the evening newspaper from a subordinate to a commanding position on the highest plane of journalism. The habits of the people, as every casual observer must admit, have likewise changed in the direction of more steady occupation and less leisure, so that in the natural course of things we may expect to witness the shrinkage of the morning papers and the expansion of evening ones in size and influence. The evening is the time when everybody has most time to spare, whilst in the morning it is necessary to cut down one's reading to the narrowest possible limit. A very important advantage possessed by the evening journal on this coast is the difference in time between this city's time and that of London."

The Parnell commission has been going on four weeks now, and still promises to engage public attention for weeks and months more. The despatches lately have contained nothing of importance, the past week having been occupied principally with the heaping up of evidence by the Times regarding the outrages which have been perpetrated in Ireland since the formation of the National League, without, however, having, so far, succeeded in connecting these outrages in any direct way with the League. Sir Charles Russel, counsel for the Parnellites, protested during the week against the admission of so great an amount of evidence that appeared to have no particular connection with the case. Sir Charles Webster, the Times' counsel, intimated that the connection would be established when the speeches which had incited to the crimes were brought before the court; so it may be imagined what a lot of material is to be waded through yet. The presiding judge, Mr. Justice Hannen, expressed a wish, that must be unanimous almost among frequenters of the court and interested perusers of the evidence elsewhere, that "evidence of this nature could be curtailed somewhat." What might be called side features of the proceedings during the week are the statements in open court by Sir Charles Russell, and also by Justice Hannen, that they had received threatening letters on account of their connection with the commission, which certainly did not come from the Parnellites, so far, at least, as Sir Charles Russell was concerned. From the length of time already consumed in the prosecution, and the round-about sort of evidence that has been, and continues to be, introduced, it would appear that the Times was unable to support its charges in any definite manner and was compelled to rake up voluminous and far-fetched evidence—in other words, substituting quantity for quality—in the hope of smothering the Parnellites under a sheer bulk of testimony and securing a conviction on inferential and circumstantial grounds. We do not believe that the Times will succeed in substantiating the sweeping charges made in its famous series of letters, and we sincerely hope it may not.

Nothing in nature is more marvellous, says an exchange, than the network of nerves constituting what we sometimes carelessly call our nervous system. Each nerve is a telegraphic cord in itself. Each is a part of the whole complex and inimitable system of telegraphy by which messages from the headquarters in the brain are sent to the minute stations in the extremities. If this telegraphic system of nerves were erected on diminutive poles outside of our bodies, it would be a most peculiar exhibit. Happily for us, our nervous systems are, as it were, a harmonious arrangement of underground wires, carefully buried within us, and deftly concealed from outside observation. We cannot see them, nor know whether they are too slack or too tightly strained. We can see when they are disturbed, for neuralgic agony shoots along their course from station to station. When we are glum, and dismal, and low-spirited, the telegraphic apparatus is out of order, and the nerve forces are demoralized. When nerves work wrong, it is when telegraphic poles are shaky, or wires tangled or crossed, or currents irregular, or batteries confused. According to the irregularity of our nerves, so are our irregular moods. If all is right, we are happy and cheery and sunshiny. But let the batteries blunder, or the currents cross, or the wires become entangled, and we are irritable, sulky, ill-tempered, or angry, as the case may be. In some of our distressful moods we pout and sulk, and misinterpret, and misunderstand. We take offense when no offense is intended, and we impute to others motives which were never conceived by them. At times when the moods are out of sort, we think the whole world is persecuting us, and we, the afflicted objects of persecution, are above all other human creatures singled out for martyrdom. There are circumstances under which most of us can, without insuperable difficulty, rise from the moodiness which is brought about by letting the nerves have their own way. Mental and physical diet has much to do with it. Brooding over real sorrows and imaginary miseries will make the best of us moody and wretched. Nursing grief and affronts and telling the sad story of our woes has as depressing an effect as narcotic drugs. Sleeping in unventilated rooms often produces chronic wretchedness, even if these rooms be furnished with the appliances of wealth and refinement. Association with grim persons is destressing and dispiriting. Good health, mental, spiritual, and bodily, is worth working for. It casts out the malaria of moodiness and lifts us into the sunlight of joy. Good health is more easily attained than most folks suppose.

Constipation

Is a universal and most troublesome disorder. It causes Headache, Mental Depression, impairs the Sight and Hearing, destroys the Appetite, and, when long continued, causes Enlargement of the Liver, Inflammation of the Bowels, and Piles. Constipation is speedily cured by Ayer's Pills.

For a number of months I was troubled with Costiveness, in consequence of which I suffered from Loss of Appetite, Dyspepsia, and a disordered liver. My eyes also troubled me. I was compelled to wear a shade over them, and, at times, was unable to bear exposure to the light. I was entirely three boxes of Ayer's Pills. I have no hesitation in pronouncing this medicine to be the best cathartic ever made.—James Eccles, Poland, Ohio.

I suffered from Constipation, and, consequently, from Headache, Indigestion, and Piles, for years. Ayer's Pills, which I took at the suggestion of a friend, have given me effectual relief. I commenced taking this remedy two months ago, and am now free from Constipation, the removal of which has caused my other troubles to disappear, and greatly improved my general health.—W. Keeler, Amherst, Mass.

I suffered from Constipation, which assumed such an obstinate form that I feared a stoppage of the bowels. Two boxes of Ayer's Pills cured me, completely.—D. Burke, Saco, Me. ††

ABOUT UMBRELLAS.

Their Origin Associated With Shade Rather Than Moisture.

The Umbrella a Relic of Solar Worship—Mrs. Gamp's Sunshade—The Fashionable Article—Folding Up a Silk Umbrella—A Sure Test.

There are those who suppose that the origin of the umbrella is to be sought for in man's need of some portable protection from the rain, which need found expression in the invention of the modern umbrella. Philology and science, however, point to a different conclusion, the former telling us that the umbrella is associated with shade rather than moisture, and the latter that it is a relic of solar worship. The word "umbrella" is a reduplicated form of the Latin word umbra, signifying "shade," and means really a little shade, in the same way that caliga (leggings) is father to the word "caligula" (little leggings).

Having decided the origin of the word, we will next proceed to give the view of a certain learned specialist as to the derivation of the article itself. The umbrella, according to our authority, is a relic of solar worship, was probably imported from Persia, and its origin has no more to do with keeping off rain than with keeping off lightning or thunderbolts. The Persians, it is well known, were worshipers of the heavenly bodies, the sun occupying the same place among their hierarchy of deities as he does among his own orbs. Viewing him as all powerful, as all intelligent, cognisant of the smallest act of their lives, the Persians hit at last upon a sort of portable screen which they might interpose between themselves and his beams, securing for the former privacy and for the latter ignorance of what his devotees were doing. This may sound a rather far fetched theory, but it is probably the true one, and whether or no, it is certain umbrellas did not originate in either Europe or America.

THE UMBRELLA ABROAD.

In Siam the possession of umbrellas is restricted to those of high rank. Mr. Spencer telling us that one of the titles of the dusky monarch there is "King of the Umbrella Wearing Chiefs." In the two great university towns of England etiquette discountenances under graduates appearing on the streets with umbrellas, and only permits the airing of these luxuries to fellows and graduates. In fiction the person of Mrs. Gamp has conferred on the umbrella an immortality which not even the muse of tragedy could do. Indeed, the umbrella cuts but a poor figure in the tragedy, while it is quite at home in the flights of comedy or farce. Mrs. Gamp's sunshade is so famous that it has given its name to those fluffy, obese looking articles which one is apt to associate with the ranter of old times and with modern representatives of the Lime Kiln club. The fashionable umbrella is as different a looking affair to one of these as it is possible to imagine. A greater contrast does not exist between a racer and a Clydesdale than between the modern umbrella and its woolly prototype of a generation ago. The former is made of silk, is in[illegible] black, brown or green in hue, is [illegible] light but strong framework, [illegible] viewed as a use or an ornament, [illegible]ently pleasing object to contemplate.

The u[illegible] sometimes used as a weapon of [illegible] defense, but is rather a poo[illegible] you want to strike your ene[illegible] washing blow" you had be[illegible]se to some other implement [illegible]lla. Viewed in this light, it p[illegible]cilities for being used st[illegible] a claymore or cutla[illegible]ts uses, and as you ca[illegible]ain off with a foil, [illegible] hope to draw blood [illegible]. If the latter is dis[illegible]pon of offense so it is [illegible] defense.

[illegible] UMBRELLA.

[illegible] the possessor of a silk um[illegible] desirous of appraising its merits, see what proportion the spread of it when open bears to the diameter when shut. To the extent the relation partakes of the nature of an inverse ratio, to that extent is your umbrella a good one. Folding up a silk umbrella is quite an art, the acquisition of which seems wholly impossible to some people. You should gather the tips firmly together in your right hand, elevate your umbrella to an angle of forty-five degrees with the trunk of the body; then, commencing at the bottom, with your left hand gather the folds of the umbrella rapidly together, working all the while toward the top. When you have got as far as the confining band stop, adjust it, and your umbrella is folded. A folded silk umbrella which has "blights" in it or measures more than two inches in diameter is a fraud, or else its owner does not possess the knack of folding it up properly.

In the case of Ashantee the umbrella has figured as a trophy, the great sunshade of King Coffee being all the British have to show for their waste of blood and treasure in equatorial Africa.

The material, hue and poise of an umbrella are so many criteria of respectability. A man may deceive with his hat often, with his gloves seldom, but with his umbrella never. It is an unerring test of character, a passport to gentility, and nobody is quicker to recognize the ring of the true metal in another or to detect the pretensions of the spurious ones than the true gentleman himself.

Pipes That Absorb Nicotine.

"New ideas in pipes? Why, there are scores of them," said a prominent tobacconist to a reporter. "Inventors are constantly turning their attention to the subject of nicotine absorbers. There is a pipe with a sponge, a pipe with a cotton filter, and a pipe with a gauze attachment to the bowl, all contrived to absorb the deadly poison of tobacco. Nothing, however is half so effective as the corn cob bowl. It absorbs all the nicotine in tobacco, until the pores of the pipe are full. Corn cob pipes should not be smoked more than a week. After they are saturated with nicotine it is very injurious to smoke them, because the smoker then gets the concentrated nicotine from the bowl. They cost only five or ten cents apiece and are very sweet when new. It is the thing nowadays for men of fashion to stroll through the streets in the early morning smoking corn cob pipes. It is English, you know."

Great Expectations.

"Oh, I don't know," replied Mr. Smith despondently. "I think he'd make a good husband for a rich girl."—Life.

Fiction and Fact.

Robert Louis Stephenson is the son of a Scotch engineer who sternly disapproves of literature and things literary.

When informed of his son's adoption of the profession of letters he was much disappointed and protested vehemently.

TIPPING.

The other day a man after having eaten his dinner in a first-class hotel in New York city handed the waiter who had attended to his wants a $2 bill. Commenting upon this unusually large tip, the head waiter said:

"That customer did not know that twentyfive cents would have served his purpose just as well, and that half a dollar would have been the extreme of generosity."

"No," answered the head waiter doubtfully, "I don't think it is. It would be less than that, though there are men who always make a point of giving half a dollar. The great majority of men make the fee ten cents, and where three or four come together they chip in five cents apiece for the waiter. Few customers neglect the tip entirely, but some of them let it go for a few days and then give a fee of fifty cents. They are the men who really get the best service, for although at the end of the week they will have paid less than ten cents on the average for their dinner fees, the waiter who gets the silver may have served the customer but once during that time. The effect of that plan is to make every waiter hope by special attention to induce the customer to pay a tip on that particular occasion when he serves. I know a man who varies the amount of his tip according to a mathematical schedule. He pays the waiter ten per cent. of the bill except when the bill is less than $1 or more than $5. In the first case he tips ten cents, and never goes above a half a dollar. The waiters' regular wages here are $20 a month and meals, and by decent luck and care any one of them is enabled to double his income by fees."

"Does the head waiter come in for fees also?"

"Yes, indeed, and mighty good ones, too. Men who find it agreeable to tip the head waiter seldom give him less than a dollar. His richest opportunity lies in a private dinner party. Those who dine in a separate room imagine that they get better attention than the people in the main dining room, and they fee the head waiter accordingly."

"Well now, it seems hardly gallant to say so, but a few waiters like to serve a lady who dines alone, or two of them together. A waiter thinks himself lucky to get a dime from a lady, and if there are two of them, the dime answers for both, if, indeed, they give any fee at all. In the uptown hotels and restaurants in the shopping district it may be that half the lady customers give a tip. Now and then one appears who leaves a quarter on the plate, just like a man, but alas! they are very rare. We have one customer who is a shrewd business woman, and takes much pride in her capacity for bargaining. When she comes in she selects a table with great deliberation, choosing according to the impression the waiters make upon her. Then she says to the waiter who comes to take her order: 'Now, what is your name, my man?' And suppose he answers 'Perkins, madam,' she continues: "Well, Perkins, I want you to serve me in tip-top shape; tip-top, understand? Now, here, and she slips a silver quarter under her glass, 'see that? That's yours if you serve me tip-top.' Then she looks at him sharply and proceeds to give her order.

You may depend upon it she gets served well, but if anything goes amiss that quarter goes back into her pocket."

Life Preservers.

A life preserver is not an article of costume that a man wants to wear all the time, but like the pistol in Texas when he does want it he wants it bad and what is more he wants it right away. He doesn't want to stand in a line and take his turn.

Life preservers are worn this year very much the same as they have been worn for some time back. Fashion in life preservers does not change to any great extent from year to year. However fastidious a man may be about the fit of his waist-coat, he has never been known to grumble about the cut of these cork waistcoats that the steamboat men are so generous in providing without expense to the passenger. The man who voluntarily assumes the straight jacket does so hurriedly and has no time to criticise the tailoring of it. The most popular style of life preserver is the cork variety. Some made of rubber are in the market, and these you have to inflate with your breath. They can never become very fashionable, as at the time a person wants to dress in them he needs his breath for shouting, swearing and other useful accomplishments. The usually adopted style of life preserver is made in the form of a jacket. These are made of a number of cork slabs about a foot square covered with canvas. The canvas is white other colors being considered not in good taste; besides they are worn only in very wet weather, and as colors generally do not wash well the plain white life preserver is not generally used by our best society. The preserver is put on in the same way as a coat and then the strings are tied in front somewhat in the fashion of the cords of a dressing gown. Some persons, careless of their appearance in public, put on the life preservers so that the strings tie behind, but this is not considered good form and the strings are hard to tie in that position. Of course some one else might do the tying, but when a stranger is approached for that purpose he is generally cold and reserved and wants an introduction or at least reliable references.

Always Tell Mother.

There is something that tugs at one's heart in the last words of the young woman in Sacramento who shot Patterson and then committed suicide with morphine. After being long in a stupor she rallied a moment and said to the attendant: "Please don't tell mother." It was the final illumination of a path that was ending in gloom and disgrace. Made the victim of heartless selfishness by the man she had killed, and going to her final account furnished and forlorn, she was, after all, the victim of not telling mother. There is no way of estimating the sorrow and sin and suffering that would be avoided if the confidence of children continued through life to run to their mothers. Over the grave of this girl, dead untimely by her own hand, on which was the blood of another, might be inscribed the epitaph: "Died in her youth, heartbroken, dishonored, a slayer, self-slain, because she would not tell mother"—San Francisco Alta.

Important Business.

"Oh, papa," she said with a blush, "young Mr. Chestnut who owns so many coal mines in Pennsylvania, is coming again this evening, and he says he wants to see you on some important business."

"All right, my dear," responded the old man, chucking her playfully under the chin. "I guess I know what the young man wants."

That evening Mr. Chestnut came to the point at once:

"Mr. Hendricks," he said boldly, "I want to ask you if you have laid in your winter's stock of coal."

No Dolly This Time.

Charles Dickens, the oldest son of Dickens, will be on hand in New York early in October and give a reading in Chickering Hall. There is no Dolly to come with him and gather money in a basket as the man by that name did for the older Dickens in 1867.

Having been appointed Provincial Health Officer for Districts lying south of Fraser River, I hereby give notice that the provisions of said By-Laws will be strictly enforced, and all persons are required to govern themselves accordingly.

BY-LAWS ISSUED BY HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR-IN COUNCIL,

UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE "HEALTH ORDINANCE, 1869."

HIS HONOUR THE LIEUTENANT-Governor of British Columbia, by and with the advice of the Executive Council of British Columbia, acting under and by virtue of the provisions of the "Health Ordinance, 1869," enacts as follows:—

1. Whenever small-pox is present in any locality without the boundaries of any Municipality, the Provincial Health Officer nearest to such locality shall at once cause the patient to be removed to an isolated hospital, tent or other suitable place, or cause such person to be otherwise sufficiently isolated, and shall see that he is properly cared for, and shall take proper measures for the disinfection, or, if necessary, the destruction of all clothing which may have been exposed to the contagion, and for the disinfection and purification of every conveyance, rail-car, steamboat, railway, vessel, carriage, or other vehicle which may have been exposed to the contagion.

2. Such Health Officer shall have, in his discretion, full power to place in another building or tent all persons who may have been exposed to the contagion, and shall cause them to be supplied with all necessaries until the period of incubation of the disease shall have elapsed, and no such person shall go, or be permitted to go, abroad, until he or she has given satisfactory proof of successful vaccination within the preceding seven years, or shall have obtained a medical certificate of insusceptibility to the vaccine disease, nor until the clothing or effects worn or carried by or with him or her have been properly disinfected, if the same have been exposed to contagion.

3. To assist the Health Officer, he shall have full power to employ persons to be nurses, sanitary policemen, and otherwise to aid in the prevention of the spread of the disease, and may himself give and enforce such reasonable directions for the same purpose as to him may seem expedient, and the nearest Government Agent shall see that all articles and necessaries required by the Health Officer are furnished.

4. Yesterday's Fire.

The house occupied by Mr. M. A. McRae, on Queen's Avenue, and burned last evening, was the property of Mr. W. R. Lewis. There was no insurance on either house or furniture and as only a portion of the latter was saved the loss will be very serious. This fire makes the necessity of waterworks more apparent than ever. Had there been a hydrant near the scene of the fire, the flames could have been subdued in a few seconds. The firemen got on the ground as rapidly as could have been expected considering the heavy pull up the hill, and worked heroically while there was any chance of saving the building.

Recent Skeena Uprising.

Mr. John Robson, provincial secretary of British Columbia, is still in Ottawa, endeavoring to settle the differences that exist between this province and the Dominion authorities. One of the principal points now at issue between the province and the Dominion is the question as to whether the provincial or federal authorities should bear the expense of putting down the recent Indian uprising on the Skeena. The provincial government contend that as the outbreak occurred among the Indians who are the wards of the federal government, and as it was against the latter that the Indians complained, therefore the cost of suppressing the disturbance should come out of the Dominion treasury. The amount involved is about $12,000.

That Legal Opinion.

We republish below the legal "decision" of Messrs. Davie & Pooley, of Victoria, anent the debentures trust committee, as a few words were inadvertently omitted yesterday. We have been requested to publish it with the introduction following:

"The following was handed in by the chairman of the finance committee. There being considerable question as to the legality of the action of the council in appointing a trust committee, the finance committee have laid the matter before Messrs. Davie & Pooley for their decision and the following is their reply, by telegraph:

"'MR. A. M. HERRING:—We think council can not give over control of the money to a trust committee and that members of the committee will be individually liable for any monies they receive. DAVIE & POOLEY.'"

Dominion Revenue.

The Dominion revenue for the first four months of the current fiscal year is of a most encouraging character, the total being $12,040,053, as against $11,702,051 in the corresponding period last year, an increase of $1,200,000. The expenditure, on the other hand, is $120,000 less than in the same period of 1887, the totals being $9,255,041, as against $9,379,722. There is a gratifying surplus so far this year of $3,700,000. The revenue for last month was made up as follows: Customs, $2,129,205; excise, $653,477; postoffice, $141,374; public works (including railways), $392,136; miscellaneous, $105,155; total, $3,421,409; anp the expenditure for the month $2,487,906. The net debt of the Dominion on Oct. 31st was $233,660,187, or an increase of $353,279. The statement of expenditure on capital account up to Oct. 31st was $1,542,749.

Accident to the Gladys.

On Thursday afternoon the steamer Gladys struck a snag opposite Johnson's Landing and tore a very large hole in her bottom. At the time the accident occurred the steamer was only a length and a half from the shore and so rapidly did the water enter her fore compartment that it became necessary to beach her immediately. Last winter a bulkhead was put in her hull, and this was the only thing that saved the Gladys from going to the bottom where she struck. Mr. Townsend went up to Johnson's Landing yesterday and brought the Gladys to Westminster for repairs, which will be made under the direction of McFee Bros., the shipbuilders. The str. Adelaide has been chartered to take the Gladys trips until she is ready for the route again. The snag that caused the accident was totally submerged and must have been carried down the river within a few days.

Breasting the Waves.

The steamer Cariboo Fly steamed into the harbor at 3 o'clock this afternoon in charge of Capt. Meyer. After getting off the rocks she proceeded to Skeena, where she took on board several passengers. As freight she brought 219 barrels of salmon, seven packages of furs, three cases household goods for W. Poole, and one case of curios for H. J. Salmon. The Fly left Skeena last Saturday evening at 4 o'clock, thus making the trip down in a little less than five days, out of that having been detained about 24 hours. She came in charge of the mate, Mr. Roberts, as far as Alert Bay, where she was met by Capt. Meyer and Purser Dickinson, who returned on her. One of the Indian passengers fell down the after hatch last night and broke his leg. The cargo which the Fly had on board when she was ashore has been taken back to Aberdeen where the tins will be re-packed.—Thursday's Times.

A Miscarriage of Justice.

The case of Johnny and Munday, Indians, charged with larceny, which went before the jury yesterday at the assizes, resulted in a verdict of "not guilty" although the evidence against them was strong enough and clear enough to have warranted a conviction. Although there was not a word of evidence given in defense of the prisoners it did not take the jury five minutes to come to a decision. This morning when the prisoners were discharged and were being paid back the money found on their person when arrested, and which was supposed to belong to the men who were robbed, Mr. Moresby said to them in the way of a joke "Hadn't you better give Cutlas his money back." Johnny said he would give it all back but $4, and did so. He also gave back a handkerchief which he said he had taken at the time of the robbery. Both Jonny and Munday looked upon their escape as an excellent joke and laughed heartily at the outcome of the affair.

A letter from P. O. Sharples, Druggist, Marion, Ohio, in writing of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, says: One man was cured of sore throat of three years' standing with one bottle. Fall Assizes.

Before the Hon. Mr. Justice McCreight.

SATURDAY MORNING.

The roll of petit jurors was called.

Hen Cook and Ah You, charged with the murder of Josephine, an Indian woman. Two indictments.

Mr. Bole, Q.C., and Mr. McColl for the defense.

Mr. Bole, Q.C., for the prisoner, pleaded not guilty on the first charge and refused to plead on the second.

Mr. Drake, Q.C., crown prosecutor, agreed to the withdrawal of the second indictment.

A jury was then called but its whole personnel was changed at least a dozen times by the counsel for the defense before 12 good men and true satisfactory to him were obtained. Nearly an hour was wasted in this manner.

Mary, an Indian woman, sworn, said: I lived last summer at Ladners in a tent; I had a daughter 15 years old; I recognize the prisoners, they came into my tent with another Chinaman; my daughter was in bed at the time; Hen Cook came in and Ah You stayed at the door. Hen Cook went to the girl and felt her pulse and then put some medicine on her wrist and set fire to it and it blazed right up; Hen Cook said he was a doctor; the Chinaman who escaped acted as a doctor; Josephine screamed with pain and tried to escape but Hen Cook held both of her wrists; the third Chinaman then forced open her mouth and passed a needle and thread under the artery of the tongue and then pulled the thread till the vein was torn apart; Hen Cook asked me for a needle, and, as I did not understand, he took one from my dress; Josephine tried to push the Chinaman away but Hen Cook held on; the blood streamed from Josephine's mouth in a perfect stream; after finishing with her mouth the Chinaman passed the needle through the skin of her throat and tore the the skin away; the Chinaman who escaped stuck the needle twice into her throat; the Chinaman next pushed the needle through the girl's breast four times, and she screamed very loudly. I went to the bed and tried to drive the Chinamen away but Ah You told me she would be all right to-morrow. The Chinaman then went away and Josephine died within an hour.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bole: My tent was about 100 yards from the cannery; only the three Chinamen came to my tent that day; Josephine was sick for nearly a week with a cold; both myself and the girl worked at the cannery; I tried to turn the men out of the tent but they would not go; when they came in and saw Josephine in bed they asked if she was sick; Hen Cook said my brother is a doctor and will cure her; Lip Chuck sat down and felt the girl's pulse and then commenced operations; my brother came in when Josephine began to scream; he did not try to stop the Chinaman by force but kept saying it was not right to do this; I never saw the Chinamen any more.

Frenchy, an Indian, sworn, said: I was outside Mary's house when the Chinese entered; I heard the girl crying and went to the tent; when I went in Hen Cook put some black stuff on the girl's wrist and set it on fire; he then took a needle and tore out the artery of the tongue and afterwards tore flesh in the same way from her breast and neck; blood was issuing from Josephine's mouth; I then left the house; Ah You was standing at the door of the tent; the girl could not do anything as Hen Cook held her down; Lip Chuck forced her mouth open and put the needle under her tongue; the old woman came into the tent after the girl's wrist had been burned; I told the Chinamen to stop their work but they said she would soon be better. The girl died an hour afterwards. I heard Mary tell them to stop many times.

Cross-examined by Mr. Bole: I lived some distance from Mary's house; many Indians were camped round about; I don't think there is a white doctor at Ladners; I never heard a Chinese doctor was coming to see Josephine; the girl commenced to cry as soon as her wrist was burned; the old woman did not enter the tent till her throat was cut; I am not a liar; God sees me and he knows I have told the truth; I did not know there was any China doctor at Ladners; I had seen Hen Cook before.

Echelta, sworn, said: I lived in the same house with Joseph; I was in the tent when the Chinaman came in; one held Josephine's hands and the other burned her wrist; then they put a needle under her tongue several times and pulled it away, making it bleed; Josephine died about half an hour afterwards.

Dr. DeWolf Smith: I held a post-mortem examination of an Indian girl in August: the external injuries were several marks on the left side of the chest below the collar bone and some near the lower border of the ribs; the wounds might have been made as described by the Indians; before opening the body I removed some lower teeth, raised the tongue and could see the two ends of the divided artery; I opened the body and found the organs all healthy but absolutely without blood; I came to the conclusion that the wound under the tongue was the cause of death; I don't know how long the girl was dead before I made the post mortem; it might have been 10 days or two weeks.

Cross examined by Mr. Bole: The ligaments under the tongue are sometimes cut by doctors; I have heard Chinese doctors cut under the tongue but I do not know what the operation is for or why it is done; the artery runs to the tip of the tongue. The artery is not difficult to get at.

W. Moresby, sworn, said: I went down to arrest the Chinese and found Ah You in the cannery; I found Hen Cook creeping from under a bed; when I arrested the latter he and Ah You set up a jabbering I did not understand; I asked Hen Cook and Ah You where the other Chinaman was and they told me he had gone across the river in a canoe; I could not find Lip Chuck; I had the body of Josephine disinterred and brought it to the city.

Ah Chu, sworn, said: I have seen tongues cut a dozen times, perhaps more; a ligament is a vein that bleeds when it is cut.

Ah Qui, sworn, said: I have seen Chinese doctors cut tongues often; it eases patients to cut the artery; there is no danger in cutting the artery.

Cumyow, sworn, said: I never saw Chinese doctors cut people under the tongue, although I know they often do so.

This closed the evidence in the case and Mr. Bole proceeded to address the jury.

Emperor William is said to be an inveterate smoker of cigarettes, smoking even at meals between the courses He eats but little and seldom drinks wine, but takes quantities of tea.
