NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The construction of the Joggins raft saved $15,000 in transportation expenses. It is proposed to repeat the experiment, as it facilitates the sale of Canadian timber in the United States market.

No wonder the emperor William doesn't want the Schleswig-Holstein question raised by Russia. Only one man ever understood the Schleswig Holstein question, and he died in the effort to explain it to others.—Boston Transcript.

The very climax of personal aversion seems to be reached in the following from Puck: Freund—"Say, vot you goin' oud so soon for, Spritzenheimer? Dot vater vas just elegant!" Spritzenheimer—"I see dot feller Isaacstein coming dis vay, mit his bathing suit on, und mit dot mean cuss I will not bathe in the same ocean."

Young Frenchman—"Ah, oui. Eet ees fix by custom in Paree, when a young man marry he get certain number francs from the father of the girl." Young American—"It isn't so in this country. Here you must not only be able to support the girl but very often the rest of the family into the bargain. Say, what's the fare to Paris?"

The Manufacturers' Record, in an article recommending opium culture in the South, says that, once sown, the poppy is self-perpetuating, and is, in fact, hard to exterminate, reciting the fact that within the last two or three years eminent French engineers have undertaken the sowing of railroad embankments with poppy seeds, as, when once established, that perilous plant would cover the soil with a network of roots that would prevent it from washing away during heavy rains or from upheaval when frost was coming out of the ground in the spring. The suggestion seems good enough to warrant a trial. Surely a bank of poppies would present advantages in an æsthetic point of view over a bank of pig weed, thistles, and tomato cans.

Mr. Blaine objects to giving President Cleveland the retaliatory power asked for in his message to Congress. He says that Cleveland's failure to use the power of retaliation which he had under the former act proves that he is incompetent to deal with the matter; but he conveniently ignores the fact that the president would have shown himself worse than incompetent, had he put retaliation in force while the treaty was pending. The fishing season is over, he says, and retaliation now would do the fisherman no good, and would seriously interfere with the business of some American transportation lines. All of which means that Blaine sees plainly enough that the republicans are outwitted this time; and that he holds the rage of the Anglo-phobists at the nonenforcement of retaliation a lighter danger to his party, than the ill-will of the capitalists whose pockets would be touched by retaliation. Probably he is right. The pocket book is a very tender spot.

Not long ago, an old country scientist entertained the public with some speculations as to the probability that the earth was traversing a portion of space from which heat was being abstracted by a "dead sun." If we recollect rightly, the idea was that this dead sun—a tremendous mass of matter—was lurking in some dark corner of space, appropriating all the heat it could "beg, borrow or steal", and storing it away preparatory to a grand waking up to a blazing activity one of these centuries. Then there was speculation, on the part of the exponent of the theory, whether the earth would be so strongly influenced by one of these celestial mummies as to become a permanent attendant upon it; with the consequence, of course, of being slowly frozen stiff, or whether it would happen along just about the time when the light ing up took place, and get itself roasted to a cinder. The whole thing was a sort of celestial devil-fish story, and was eminently adapted to give one a fit of creeps. And the foundation of the whole yarn was, that they had had snow storms in Europe in July. We want that scientific man to come west. And when he gets here we want him to read Capt. Poele's meteorological report for August—mean temperature, 66.4! If his "dead sun" can't steal heat any faster than that, we are afraid it will have to stay dead for quite a time.

LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCHES.

SUCCESS OF THE CANADIAN FOOTBALL TEAM.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The Canadian football team won easily the first match on Saturday against the Antrim team at Belfast by six goals to two in the presence of a thousand spectators.

THE OTTAWA MEETING.

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—The Dominion rifle association matches opened to-day on the Rideau ranges with an attendance of 318 members as compared with 363 for last year. The weather is fine and the arrangements excellent. Though there is a small attendance the meeting promises to be very successful. Every province is represented, British Columbia has 5, Manitoba 10, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island 30 each, the balance being divided between Quebec and Ontario. $7,200 is offered in cash prizes, and $3,000 in trophies. Nine of this year's Wimbledon team are present. The British Columbia team has fared badly as yet in the matches; they are handicapped from having practiced with short Snider rifles and have had to fire with long Sniders. All the scores were poor to-day. Lieut. Brown, of the 12th York rangers, captured the McDougall cup.

BATTLE WITH HORSE THIEVES.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 3.—A special from Paladora, in the public land strip, says that the farmers and herdsmen of that section who had lost many horses and cattle recently, suspected a band of campers who claimed to be catching wild horses, and finding evidence of their guilt, 40 well armed vigilants surrounded their camp and sent a committee of six men to demand the surrender of the thieves. The reply of the desperadoes was a volley which wounded one man and two horses. This angered the vigilantes, and firing was at once begun and the outlaws shot down without mercy. They fought desperately and no quarter was asked or given. In 12 minutes the firing ceased and 17 outlaws were found to have been killed. The vigilantes had 3 men killed and 9 wounded; 2 horses were also killed and 7 wounded; 16 stolen horses were recorded. Not one outlaw escaped alive.

TO-DAY'S DESPATCHES.

WHEAT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Wheat, 101¾ Sept., 2½ Oct., 3 Nov., 4¼ Dec., 8¼ May.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Wheat, 94¼ Sept., 3½ Oct., 4¾ Dec.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 4.—Wheat strong; Cals. 7 shillings, 11½ d.

A BIG FIRE.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 4.—A fire broke out this morning in Klamber & Levis, general merchandise store in Barkertown. The block is the most substantial in the city. The flames spread on both sides and the whole block is now burning and no water at hand. The block will probably be a total loss. The fire is now under control; loss fully $200,000 upon stock and $45,000 on buildings; insurance on stock $125,000 and on buildings $30,000. It is rumored several firemen are buried in the ruins as the roof fell in very suddenly. Laborers are now digging out the ruins as rapidly as possible.

THE RETALIATION BILL.

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—Yesterday a meeting of the cabinet was held for the first time since President Cleveland's message on retaliation. The British government, the moment it was known congress was to be asked to pass a measure to retaliate against Canada, cabled Sir John requesting him to furnish the extent and character of the commercial relations which had existed between the United States and Canada since the confederation of the British North American provinces, also a clear statement of all remonstrances made by the U. S. against Canada for alleged irregularities in according U.S. citizens rights conceded by the treaty, as well as a full explanation as to the probable effect on the Dominion if the proposed retaliation measures were carried out. This information was prepared and was laid before the cabinet prior to being forwarded to the British government. In requesting the information Lord Salisbury enjoined the Dominion government to exercise the utmost caution in every movement just now, when an irregular step might tend to strengthen the feeling of hostility raised toward the Dominion. Several members of the cabinet were in favor of retaliation, though nothing definite was decided upon. Another meeting will be held this afternoon.

A TEST CASE.

MELBOURNE, Sept. 4.—A test case in connection with the prohibition of Chinese immigration to Australia was tried in the supreme court to-day, the action being that of a Chinese immigrant, who sued the government for damages because he was not permitted to land. There was a full bench of judges, the majority of whom decided in favor of the plaintiff.

HOME NEWS FROM ABROAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—From advices received in the city this morning the total pack of salmon in British Columbia for the season will be 135,600 cases, a falling off from last years' pack of 20,400 cases.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 4.—Eagle, the democratic candidate for governor, is elected by over 25,000 majority.

FOR STANLEY'S RELIEF.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—To-morrow six Englishmen who sail for Zanzibar will probably be first to meet Stanley if he is alive or first at any rate to send authentic information if he is dead. The expedition has been kept secret here and is not yet known to more than a dozen people. Eight hundred hired natives are waiting for the party at Zanzibar. It is in charge of Lieut. Swain, an officer of many years' experience in India. Sometime before Stanley started on the Emin Bey relief expedition the sultan of Zanzibar granted the concession of an immense piece of territory on the east coast of Africa to an English corporation. This grant covers over fifty million acres, is bounded by the German possessions on the south, near the river Rovuma, and by Wanda on the north. The western limit is not fixed, but extends at least to Lake Victoria, where supplies are waiting for Stanley. The party will explore this grant in connection with the determination to find Stanley.

COUNTERFEITER SENTENCED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—J. B. McDonnell, brother of the notorious bank of England swindler, has been sentenced to 10 years in state prison, having been convicted of counterfeiting a bank of England note.

A SMART RUSE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—It is reported that the president had received confirmation of the news from London, on Saturday, respecting the rejection of the Chinese treaty, but kept it to himself till the bill passed by the house yesterday could be prepared.

TIME BY THE FORELOCK.

SANTA CRUZ, Cala., Sept. 4.—E. W. Goodrich, an attorney, aged 26, who recently came here from the east, with the hope of being cured of consumption, terminated his sufferings last night by shooting himself through the heart.

THE INTERNATIONAL FAIR.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 4.—The international fair, the greatest exhibition in the county since the centennial, was opened to-day. The machinery was set in motion by Mrs. Jos. Salter, Buffalo's oldest inhabitant.

A NEW CHIEF JUSTICE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The president sent to the senate to-day the name of Chas. E. Boyd, of Pennsylvania, to be chief justice of the supreme court of Washington Territory.

$20,000 SHORT.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4.—Jule Last, secretary of the Duckworth Building Association, is in hiding, having embezzled $20,000. When the shortage was first discovered, he attempted to commit suicide.

A TRUE BILL.

MONTREAL, Sept. 4.—The grand jury has brought in a true bill against Pitcher, the defaulting Providence Bank teller.

THE COLUMBUS CENTENNIAL.

COLUMBUS, Ohio., Sept. 4.—The centennial exposition opened this morning. The city is profusely decorated and the streets crowded. There is a great agricultural, mechanical and stock show at the fair grounds. Six thousand Ohio militia paraded this morning, being reviewed by Governor Foraker. Mrs. Gov. Foraker started the machinery this afternoon.

HISSED AND CHEERED.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Glandstone addressed a meeting of liberals at Wrexham last night. There were local jealousies resulting in a disturbance and a confusion, one part of the audience cheering, the other hissing, so that Gladstone was obliged to stop speaking for five minutes.

HURRAHED FOR CLEVELAND.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 4.—On Sunday 2 respectable citizens, named Jones and Wilkes, were murdered by Samuel Hart. The only excuse the murderer has is that Jones and Wilkes hurrahed for Cleveland. The murderer was arrested.

Behring's Sea Sealing.

As the sealing season in Behring's Sea is now nearly over and no seizures of vessels for violating the United States statutes have been reported, it is not likely there will be any international difficulty this year in regard to the Alaskan seal fisheries. It is suggested by a Washington correspondent that Great Britain has reserved the Behring's Sea question, and of the claims put forth by the United States to jurisdiction over an open sea, as a point to be used in the event of the negotiations in regard to the North American fisheries utterly falling through. It was announced that the Ottawa government had advised Canadian owners of sealing vessels in British Columbia not to attempt to capture seals in Behring's Sea until the point in dispute was settled. The result has been that the Alaska Seal Company have had the fishing grounds all to themselves, and have, no doubt, made exceptionally good profits this year.—Mail.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of becoming a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Daily British Columbian

Tuesday Evening, Sept. 4, 1888.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, minister of customs, was interviewed in Victoria the other day by a Colonist representative, and expressed himself on the president's retaliation message in manner at once patriotic and courageous. But who would suffer from the retaliation? said Mr. Bowell. Not Canada, he continued. It would simply add to the self-reliance of her citizens and produce the same effect that the abrogation of the treaty in 1864 had accomplished. At that time the farmers of Canada raised stock and coarse grains, for which the United States was the market. The abrogation of the treaty forced them into other classes of farming, and they very soon had a market in England for their dairy products. Canada now exports $7,000,000 worth of cheese to the English market and has also in that country an excellent market for cattle and grain. The endeavor to force Canada into annexation in 1864 created a national sentiment, and she had progressed with great strides during the last twenty years. If the proposed retaliation were put into force it would produce a similar effect to that caused in 1864, and Canada would be the gainer. The president's policy seemed simply cutting off one's nose to spite one's face. United States carriers transported over $40,000,000 worth of goods annually for Canada, and the withdrawal of that trade could only hurt the Americans. Much had been said about the use of American waterways granted to Canadians, but the only serious hindrance that could be thrown in the way of summer traffic would be at Sault Ste. Marie. If retaliation were enforced, Canada would at once put every man possible on the Canadian "Soo" canal, and the work would be rapidly pushed to completion. The difficulty would then be removed, and Canada would serenely pursue her course. More business would be forced to Canadian ports, and while some disorder would at first be caused, Canada would eventually be the gainer, and the Americans would be the losers. Retaliation on Canada's part by refusing to permit American goods transit in bond, he thought, would be a foolish policy. The statement in the American press the other day, remarked Mr. Bowell, that the Dominion cabinet had met and decided to back down from its position is as absurd as it is untrue. The canard has been manufactured by the American correspondents at Ottawa, who, if they cannot get facts, telegraph absurdities to their papers.

The News of Sunday, adverting to the subject of the scheme of Victoria capitalists to unite that city with Westminster and the mainland by a railway and a 25-mile ferry at Shoal Harbor, introduces a certain line of argument, "for the purpose of showing that the scheme of a railway ferry between the mainland and the island, in substitution of the present plan of the ocean vessel coming here, is not only not an advance, but actually a retrograde step, if the action of some of the most important commercial communities of the world are to be taken as our guides." Our cotemporary supports his contention pretty well by citing instances where waterways take precedence as channels for commerce over parallel lines of railway, and even where such waterways do not exist naturally, it is found expedient and desirable, as between Liverpool and Manchester, and other instances, to construct, at great expense, ship canals to supercede, largely, existing railway lines as carriers of commerce. We are afraid our Vancouver cotemporary's disinterested admonitions on behalf of the ambitious and railway-fevered island city will be "love's labor lost." Resenting their isolation, they are determined to circumvent Dame Nature, who, in a fit of spleen evidently, cut them off from the "promised land" and fixed a great gulf between. Recognizing that Westminster is the "hub," and not wishing to fly off into space, and be no more heard nor seen, tentacle-like, they seek to reach out their arms or spokes toward the common centre. This is commendable, more than that it is natural, and we feel for our island brethren, even if we can't quite reach them as yet, in their persistent and praiseworthy endeavors to reverse their cruel fate. We would be the last one to throw a straw in their way. Let them have the railway and the ferry, and the collateral shipping facilities to boot. For our part we would rejoice if Dame Nature should relent, and, some time before the millenium is all tucked away in the tomb of the departed years, belch up from her shell-strewn sea-floor a substantial and enduring causeway, so that we can utilize all of the "tight little isle" as a sort of switching ground for the railways that converge at the "hub," and the poor imprisoned islanders can run across and stretch their limbs on our spacious avenues. Therefore, we would ask our Vancouver cotemporary to forbear, and not to vex our island neighbors in their laudable and natural endeavors to lay a plank to the shore.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Some time ago we made a note of the fact that the present year had turned out bad for Ontario, agricultually, owing to the long season of drouth, which, it was generally believed at the time, had practically ruined the crops over a good part of the province, especially throughout the midlands as far east as Brockville and over a large part of the northern and northwestern counties. The outlook was extremely serious, and coupled with the fact that last year was also a season of scarceness, it appeared probable that the government of either the province or the Dominion would have come to the aid of the farmers. It is gratifying to know that later reports are more favorable, and while the crops generally cannot be called an unqualified success, still they are much better than was anticipated, and last year's failure will not be repeated. The report of the Ontario bureau of statistics for the month of August gives some interesting figures regarding the condition of crops in the province. The report is based upon returns from 763 correspondents. The acreage of fall wheat is taken from the assessment rolls, while all other areas and statistics of live stock are compiled from farmers' returns under date of June 25th, 1888. Fall wheat generally was considerably injured by the unfavorable weather of April, May and part of June. The yield on the whole is below the average. Reports regarding spring wheat are more favorable than for some years past. The only injury it has received worth mention has been from slight drouth in a few places. Upwards of 80 per cent. of the reports are favorable. The area sown, however, shows decrease from 484,821 acres in 1887 to 367,850 this year. Barley is reported good as regards yield and size of grain. Oats have a satisfactory return in the western lake counties of Ontario and in a large portion of the west midland group. Reports are unfavorable from the east midland and St. Lawrence districts. Comparatively little rye is grown in Ontario; generally it has proved a good crop. Peas are reported good all over. The presence of the pea bug is reported only in some of the Lake Erie counties. Corn is a better crop than for years past, while a most encouraging report is given of beans. Roots and fruits are fairly good. With the medium crops in eastern Canada, and the excellent returns in the Northwest and British Columbia the year on the whole will turn out a prosperous one for Canada, agriculturally, which means, to a great extent, general prosperity.

Mrs. W. J. Lang, Bethany, Ont., writes: "I was one of the greatest sufferers for about fifteen months with a disease of my ear similar to ulcers, causing entire deafness. I tried everything that could be done through medical skill, but without relief. As a last resort I tried Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and in ten minutes found relief. I continued using it, and in a short time my ear was cured and hearing completely restored. I have used this wonderful healer successfully in cases of inflammation of the lungs, sore throat, coughs and colds, cuts and bruises, &c., in fact it is our family medicine.

Your Children

Are constantly exposed to danger from Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, and diseases peculiar to the throat and lungs. For such ailments, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, promptly administered, affords speedy relief and cure.

As a remedy for Whooping Cough, with which many of our children were afflicted, we used, during the past winter, with much satisfaction, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For this affection, we consider this preparation the most efficacious of all the medicines which have come to our knowledge.—Mary Parkhurst, Preceptress, Home for Little Wanderers, Doncaster, Md.

My children have been peculiarly subject to attacks of Croup, and I failed to find any effective remedy until I commenced administering Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This preparation relieves the difficulty of breathing and invariably cures the complaint.—David G. Starks, Chatham, Columbia Co., N. Y.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for many years, and have found it especially valuable in Whooping Cough. This medicine allays all irritation, prevents inflammation from extending to the lungs, and quickly subdues any tendency to Lung Complaint.—J. B. Wellington, Plainville, Mich.

I find no medicine so effective, for Croup and Whooping Cough, as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It saved the life of my little boy, only six months old, carrying him safely through the worst case of Whooping Cough I ever saw.—Jane Malone, Piney Flats, Tenn. ††

A CHARMING WIDOW.

"The idea of this little thing being a widow!"

"And a widow of four years' standing! It fairly takes one's breath away. She doesn't look a day over fifteen."

"Except in a strong light. In a strong light she would be taken for every day of twenty-one. I never settle upon a woman's age until I have seen her in a strong light."

This rather pointed remark from the lips of Miss Pickett, a spinster whose age was frankly beyond compare, seemed to produce an electric effect. Every woman on the piazza, as though suddenly reminded of a neglected duty, began carefully protecting her eyes from the glare of the sky.

"I wonder if she will get the Englishman," began the first speaker again. "She is putting in some pretty hard work. Her slightest glances are the incarnation of flattery."

"A great mistake. Never give a man more than he expects—you will only bore him."

"I am not so sure of that. A man is a very weak thing."

"Well, mark my word—he doesn't mean anything; he is only amusing himself."

A boarding-house in Santa Barbara, even when nestled amidst all the luxuriance of semi-tropical California, is quite like other boarding houses after all. It contained the usual abundance of idle women, the usual scarcity of vigorous men, the usual superfluity of gossip.

So it happened that the boarders at Radcliffe Mansion—which, by the way, was no more of a mansion than any respectable two-story building, but was burdened with that title in deference to the prevailing Californian tendency to make everything greater than it is—were all more or less interested in Mrs. Cora Tyrrell.

Mrs. Tyrrell sat opposite me at the table, and I used to watch her in a sort of amaze that anyone could be so young and fresh and fair and yet be widowed. Her form was absurdly slight for a full grown woman's, while her face was as sweet and guileless as a child's.

She some way reminded me of a pansy, particularly when she wore a slightly flaring hat, its dusky brim setting off to perfection the transparency of her complexion, the soft baby-like rings of her hair, the large, tender, pathetic eyes.

Beauty of this sort wins women as well as men. Even Miss Pickett, noted for the severity of her mental atmosphere, was subjugated. Not a woman grudged Mrs. Tyrrell her beauty, but several drew the line at the Englishman. Feminine generosity has its limits.

You see Percy Elliott was the only eligible man at Radcliffe Mansion—eligible in the world's acceptation of the term, which has a well-defined reference to an irreproachable bank-account—and it was hard to watch him slowly disappear down the widow's little throat.

He was a tall, nonchalant young fellow, quite convinced of his own importance, after the fashion of his countrymen. A certain narrowness of chest told why he was wintering in this far western land; and frequent horseback rides with Mrs. Tyrrell told that he believed in mingling business with pleasure.

She was a wonderful horsewoman, riding as easily without the saddle as with it, and jumping any fence without a tremor. These equestrian duets stimulated the boarders to the liveliest speculation.

Cora certainly was not overburdened with money, though her taste in dress skillfully concealed the deficiency. Jewelry of every description she utterly eschewed; but the gloom of her crape was exquisitely relieved by flowers.

She was never without flowers upon her breast; at first modest demure violets, suggestive of widowhood; then as the days wore on, roses—white for a long time, and finally pink.

I came to measure the progress of her affair with Mr. Elliott by these roses; when the pink ones appeared I was as excited as a girl over her first offer.

It was about this time that the boarders learned through a cousin of Elliott's, a lad who had accompanied him from England, that there was another factor in this interesting case. He said Percy was engaged to an English girl and was to be married the following winter.

My woman's curiosity almost got the better of my manners that I finally spoke to Cora about it. She looked at me quietly for a moment, and then murmured:

"Yes, I know."

"But it is true?" I asked eagerly.

"What did Mr. Elliott tell you?" she answered with a shade of reproof.

The boarders, as if moved by one common impulse, persisted in declaring that Elliott "didn't mean anything."

"Of course he's getting all the fun he can out of it," observed one experienced matron; "but marriage is quite another matter."

Then there was the English girl—or, rather, the rumor of her.

But I was not so sure about it. To me it seemed very plain that from marked indifference this nonchalant Englishman had gradually awakened into vivid interest, and at the moment I could have sworn that Mrs. Tyrrell was becoming a necessity to him.

He teased and tormented and even bullied the little widow; but at the same time he began to follow her every movement with his eyes, to play with his soup until she appeared at table, to wander in his replies whenever he was addressed.

Languid he was at all times, but there is a natural and an affected languor, and it seemed to me that the less he retained the one the more he cultivated the other.

Few men can resist the daily presence of soft tender eyes raised in appeal to their superior manhood—of an artless innocence needing constant correction from their large knowledge of the world.

Miss Pickett and Mr. Elliott were always at loggerheads. Her keen sallies were continually wounding his self-love; his languid assumption of superiority was a perpetual insult to her progressive womanhood, and so their mutual antipathy gradually expanded into solid hatred.

Miss Pickett was too thoroughly feminine not to be aggressive in her hostility, so when I observed her closeted with Mrs. Tyrrell for two hours one day, I easily guessed what it meant.

Rain came out the next evening, on the hill behind the house, whither Cora, Elliott, and I had strolled. Mrs. Tyrrell leaned back against a tree, slowly moved and looked up into the night—one of those exquisite, luminous, distinctly Californian nights.

The Scotch mist is unknown here; that of the orange blossom rising above the rest as the voice of the prima donna leads the accompaniment the song of the chorus—drifted upward to charm our senses.

Cora sighed a little and then began:

"Miss Lickett said I did not understand men at all—that I was too unsuspecting, too confiding. She said men liked sport with such women, but that they suspected most those women who treated them best."

"Miss Pickett be hanged!" burst forth from Elliott.

"Then you don't think I have done so very wrong?" and her velvet eyes looked into his with a troubled sweetness.

"Wrong! Humph!"

"How dreadful it seems to never trust anyone! I believe I would rather be always deceived than come to that." "You see," turning to me, "I am strangely situated. I am a widow, and yet I am scarcely more than a girl.

"You never have heard about my marriage? It occurred four years ago, when I was only seventeen, and still at school. Mr. Tyrrell was kind to me—and I was romantic.

"We were married on a Friday, and on Monday my husband was summoned to Mexico on business. It was August, and they feared I would take the fever, so it was decided that I must remain at home. Some time in September came a telegram announcing Mr. Tyrrell's death.

"A wife of but four weeks, away from my husband when he died—imagine my feelings! For over three years I have lived in seclusion. Now you can understand how natural it is that I should make mistakes."

In her eyes rose a mist that was dangerous to the Englishman's cherished composure. He breathed hard, cleared his throat, and shifted his position. Finally a little smile stole over Cora's lips, and she gave him a glance that was like a caress—I often told her she kissed with her eyes.

The next day who should arrive but the English girl! This advent, it seems, was the result of an arrangement made some months before in England, and which Elliott had not had the nerve to discountenance.

I happened to be passing through the hall when Harriett Norton clasped her lover's hand in greeting. No words are needed to tell a sensitive woman when she has lost a man's affection. Harriett knew it then and there—I could tell by the pallor that overspread her face, and the sudden drawn look about her mouth.

Within ten days she had departed, accompanied by her dignified aunt, who acted as chaperon. Yet, though she was a reserved girl, I had learned to esteem her even in that short time.

"It is very strange," she said, "Percy and I have known each other from childhood. I believed I could trust him utterly." Here a tear welled up in her clear true eyes. "I have never loved any man but him.

"We were to have been married next winter. I wonder how it will seem never to see him again."

Then her gaze wandered over to the softly tinted mountains, and she seemed almost to forget my presence.

"He is honorable after a fashion, and he would live up to his word; but I do not care for a promise after the life has gone out of it."

It was perhaps a month after this that Mr. Elliott's engagement to Mrs. Tyrrell was formally anounced.

Cora went about with a lightness subtly suggestive of happiness, yet with no undue demonstrations of triumph. There was even an undercurrent of sadness running through it all as though she realized that her gain was another's loss. Her conduct began to be pronounced admirable, even by those who at first criticised her severely. Society forgives almost anything sooner than an exhibition of bad taste.

Late one afternoon we were all out on the piazza, Elliott among us waiting for Cora to come down, when a tall stalwart fellow strode up to the door.

There was a certain boldness in his stride, a certain freedom in the swing of his arms, which bespoke determination.

He asked for Mrs. Tyrrell. She happened to come out just then, looking even more dainty than usual, in her clinging riding habit. But as she caught sight of the visitor she stepped short, as though turned to stone.

"Well, Cora," he began.

Still she did not speak, but simply stared rigidly before her, her cheeks as white as the flowers at her breast.

"I don't call this exactly a tropical greeting," he continued.

Somebody laughed. Cora's pallor changed to a hot red. She shut her teeth together with a snap.

"I thought you were in Australia," she gasped.

"Yes, I know you did," he rejoined with asperity. "But you see I am back again. You might as well make up your mind to come along."

"I will not," she answered, digging her little heels into the floor.

"You will not?" quietly. "I think you will."

At this Percy Elliott arose, and walking deliberately up to the man said:

"Understand that you are dealing with a man as well as a defenseless woman."

"And what business is it of yours?" retorted the stranger coolly. "I reckon a man has a right to his own wife."

We looked at each other aghast.

But it proved only too true. This was Mrs. Tyrrell's husband. He had been married ten years, and, worst of all, she was thirty-three years old!

The Santa Barbara Vulture ferreted it all out and served it up in three double-leaded columns. Its diligence also discovered that soon after meeting Elliott the enterprising widow had secretly instituted a suit for divorce, Tyrrell returning from Australia barely in time to quash the proceedings.

"She's the smartest woman on the whole coast," he proudly observed to the interrogating reporter—"I'll I am speaking of my own property."

We saw Mrs. Tyrrell no more. It was our last glimpse of those appealing eyes, that soft silken hair.

Elliott left precipitately for England. I hope that Harriett Norton was strong enough to withstand his contrite tears. But a woman's heart is a curious thing.

He Could Perlice.

"Say, mister," inquired a countryman of the station house keeper, "do you want any more hands down here?"

He was a big, six-foot fellow in his shirtsleeves, slouched hat and pants in his boots, with his whip tucked under his arm.

"I don't know," raid the station house keeper. "What can you do?"

"Oh, I guess I can perlice a little."

"No," laughed the policeman, "we don't want any more hands."—Atlanta Constitution.

A Sunday school lesson was on the "Ten Virgins," and the next Sunday the Review question was asked, "What was the illness about last Sunday?"

A bright boy gave the prompt answer, "About 10 gals that went to a weddin'."

Pimples, Boils,

And Carbuncles result from a debilitated, impoverished, or impure condition of the blood. Ayer's Sarsaparilla prevents and cures these eruptions and painful tumors, by removing their cause, the only effectual way of treating them.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has prevented the usual course of Boils, which have pained and distressed me every season for several years.—G. Scales, Plainville, Mich.

I was badly troubled with Pimples on the face; also with a discoloration of the skin, which showed itself in ugly dark patches. No external treatment did more than temporary good. Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected

I was troubled with Boils, and my health was much impaired. I began using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, in due time, the eruptions all disappeared, and my health was completely restored.—John R. Elkins, Editor Stanley Observer, Albemarle, N. C.

I was troubled, for a long time, with a humor which appeared on my face in ugly Pimples and Blotches. Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me. I consider it the best blood purifier in the world.—Charles H. Smith, North Craftsbury, Vt.

The str. Western Slope leaves for Nanaimo to-morrow morning.

The str. Gladys cleared for up river ports this morning with 15 tons of freight and 20 passengers.

Salmon were plentiful last night but the majority were white and consequently useless for canning.

A Chinaman in the employ of Mr. A. C. Wells, Chilliwhack, was gored to death yesterday by a bull.

The Royal City planing mills company shipped eight carloads of lumber to the northwest territories to-day.

Some calves arrived on the str. Irving to-day and will probably be left all night to soothe to rest with pleasant "bahs" the people of Front street.

Messrs. Walker & Shadwell have removed to the "Colonial" block, in the store lately occupied by Mr. W. Ross. dau30tc

The Irving arrived down from Chilliwhack this afternoon with 25 passengers, 42 pkgs of fruit, 18 pkgs butter, 28 pkgs vegetables, 21 sacks oats and 15 head of live stock.

The str. Rainbow arrived from Victoria this morning with 20 tons of fruit and merchandise and a number of passengers. She cleared on the return trip after discharging cargo.

When used according to directions, Ayer's Ague Cure is warranted to eradicate, from the system, Fever and Ague, Intermittent, Remittent and Bilious Fevers, and all malarial diseases. Try it.

The gallant bear slayers have returned to the city, bringing a few of their numerous trophies with them. The balance will follow on three steamboats and a scow in a few days.

Grouse has made its appearance on the market, but is bought up as rapidly as brought in. W. H. Vianan received 40 brace to-day which were all sold within an hour. No deer has been brought in yet.

The librarian of the city library acknowledges with thanks the receipt from the government printing office, Victoria, of a well-printed and neatly bound copy of the sessional papers of British Columbia for 1888.

We are in receipt from the government printing office of a well got up and bound copy of the "sessional papers of British Columbia, 1888," containing much useful and interesting information, maps, tables, reports, &c.

Disorders of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, can be cured by restoring the blood to a healthy condition, through the vitalizing and cleansing action of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the safest, most powerful, and most highly concentrated alterative available to the public.

W. H. Vianen has received from the Skeena river a large consignment of smoked oolachans which are about the daintiest eating in the smoked fish line that has ever been on the market. They are much more expensive than red herring, but their richness and superior flavor makes them well worth the difference in price.

Joseph Russan, Percy, writes: "I was induced to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for a lameness which troubled me for three or four years, and found it the best article I ever tried. It has been a great blessing to me." Beware of similarly named articles; they are imitations of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

The Colonist says: Next week, commencing Tuesday, the 5th inst., will be celebrated by the Jewish residents the festival known as Rash Harshonah, or Jewish new year. The feast will last ten days, the first two days to be kept holy by prayer and abstaining from servile labor. Services in the synagogue will be conducted by Mr. H. Bornstein.

Another big fire was reported last night to be raging on the Park road near the new Coal Harbor bridge. Probably by the time steps are taken to protect this magnificent heritage of the city there will be nothing left but a lot of blackened stumps, and the whole of the money spent on the road might just as well be thrown into the inlet. When are those squatters to be turned off?—News-Advertiser.

Advance in Lead.

In four days' time there has been an advance in the price of lead from 4.37½ to 4.82½, and it will probably reach 5. The advance is probably owing to the failure of the Mills bill to pass during this session of congress. Had this price prevailed sooner the Selkirk Mining Co. would have been the gainers by $1,500 on the ore they have shipped so far this season.—Colonist.

The Str. Belle.

This boat, after a term of 7 years' useful servitude has been thoroughly repaired from stem to stern. Her old boiler and propeller have been replaced by new ones. Her deck-house, which has been mostly rebuilt on a more commodious scale, with the addition of a new and more elevated pilot-house than the former one was, gives her a rather attractive appearance. She made a short trial trip last evening, giving good satisfaction in every respect, and seemed to "walk the water like a thing of life."

Hand Car Wrecked.

Early yesterday morning eight men started from Victoria station to go to Esquimalt, where they had been for sometime engaged in painting the passengers coaches. They were in the habit of borrowing a hand-car, in order to get to their work in good time, but were warned frequently of the danger they incurred, and to look out for the train backing up in the morning to the station before proceeding to Nanaimo. In rounding the rock cut in the Indian reserve they saw the engine backing down from Russell station. It was close upon them and not having time to remove the hand-car, jumped off. The tender struck the car with some force smashing it up, but doing no further damage.—Colonist.

Remarkable Salmon Run.

The str. Boscowitz, Capt. Williams, arrived this morning from the north. The report from the salmon canneries confirms previous accounts. On the Skeena McLellan's cannery was "full" some time ago, but the salmon was still running when the steamer left, but unfortunately there were no tins left to put them up. On the Skeena there is a full pack. At River's Inlet Cowan & Shaw have filled. Shotbolt, Hart & Draney's cannery has secured 12,000 cases and are still working. The fish are running well still, the boats averaging 200 per day, so that there will be no difficulty in filling the remaining 3000 cases which were prepared for. Had there been plenty of help at hand it would have been easy to fill before this. At River's Inlet the run is unusual, continuing later than in any year since 1882. On the Naas, which has had so many failures, it is simply remarkable.—Times.

Commercial Travellers' Tax.

The police experience much difficulty in collecting the tax levied on commercial travellers, and find that these gentlemen are up to as many tricks in evading the license as the "heathen Chinee" is at cards or any other game requiring sly dealings. As a rule the commercial man has got the worst of the game, but occasionally one manages to get off scot free, leaving the city in the lurch. Last week a traveller representing a fishing tackle house of Montreal was registered at the Colonial, and the police applied to him for the usual license fee. He denied being a drummer and for the time put the authorities off the scent. Proof positive was afterwards obtained but trace could be found of the drummer, although it was well known he had not left the city. On Sunday Constable Carty enquired of the bell boy at the Colonial if the traveller was going away on the train, and was answered that he had gone across the river, taking a small valise with him. The constable, however, knew different and proceeded to the depot where he found the commercial gentleman, who was finally induced to pay the license and the costs of the trouble incurred in collecting it. So much of the time of the police has been taken up in collecting these taxes that the city council has decided to take immediate steps towards making the costs so expensive that it will be a foolish traveller who tries to evade the law.

A Store Burglarized.

An attempt was made last night to burglarize the premises of Mr. Dashwood Jones, on Columbia street, and it is evident from the traces left that the afair was the work of a Chinaman. The robber made an entrance into the premises by cutting out a pane of glass in a window alongside the back door, and through this hole put in his arm, turned they key in the lock, opened the door and entered. His first move was to examine the till, which was carried bodily into the yard, but no money was found in it. The next move was to carry out 5 lbs. of tobacco, a jar of maple sugar and a caddy of tea, which he placed near the fence in a handy position for carrying away. The robber next made his way up-stairs and into the clerk's room, but here he was unfortunate and a slight accident spoilt his plans and lost him the booty. Not knowing the geography of the room the intruder struck against a stand with such force as to cause the wash jug to tumble over, making a considerable row. The clerk awakened, and, suspecting something wrong, jumped out of bed with a cry of "Who's There?" There was no reply but a sound of rapidly retreating footsteps. Mr. Jones was awakened by the alarm and started after the burglar, gun in hand, but was not successful in getting a shot at him. The Chinaman left in such a hurry that the booty remained in the yard, where it was found by Mr. Jones, who is no worse off for the visit.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Different Tastes.

THE COLUMBIAN is not free—nor can it expect exemption from the common lot of newspapers—from occasional complaints from readers that certain items or articles as the case may be, do not suit their particular tastes. In a world where tastes are as various as features, a newspaper with hundreds or thousands of readers cannot expect that every article or item shall just suit each individual reader. The most it can do is to give as nearly as possible all the news of the day, to see that its comments are inspired by a genuine desire for the public good, and trusting to cultivate the same large-mindedness in its readers, keep on the even tenor of its way.

Large Tomatoes.

Mr. Dashwood Jones, the well-known fruit and vegetable dealer, laid on our table this morning a bag containing 3 tomatoes, but from the size of the bag there seemed to be a dozen in it. The first one measured 14½x12½ inches and weighed 16 oz., the next measured 12½x11½ inches and weighed 14 oz., and the last 13x11½ inches weighing 14½ ozs. These tomatoes, Mr. Jones informs us, were grown by Mr. Clemis, of Spence's Bridge, and are by no means unusual in size. A large majority out of several hundred weight would weigh over half a pound. The tomatoes are larger, better flavored and more matured than those received from California, the long sea voyage from the south making it necessary to pick the vegetables in a semi-matured condition. Vegetables grown in the province are always of fine flavor as they are placed on the market within a few hours after leaving the garden.

Placed in Westminster.

Some days ago Sir John Lister-Kaye, who is the chief of a gigantic farming corporation in the Northwest territories, arrived in the province for the purpose of purchasing lumber for the erection of the buildings necessary thereto. The farming project includes the establishment of 10 immense farms at points between Medicine Hat and Regina, on the line of the C. P. R. Each farm will contain several thousand acres, and the total acreage under control of Sir John will be in the neighborhood of $100,000 acres. At each of the 10 points chosen for the base of operations there will be erected a farm house, barn, granary, store house, cattle sheds, sheepfold and piggery. The construction of these buildings will require something over 2,000,000 feet of lumber. Before ordering the lumber Sir John made thorough enquiries and personal investigation into the class of timber most suitable for the erection of buildings in the Northwest, and finally came to the conclusion that British Columbia lumber being more sound and durable and of a better working quality was the best he could purchase. In this Sir John showed sound sense and good judgment—the quality of British Columbia timber being acknowledged by experts, the continent over, to be the very best in use for building purposes. Tenders were asked for the quantity required and eleven firms tendered. That of the Royal City Planing Mills Co. was accepted, and the entire order of over 2,000,000 feet is in their hands to fill. The contract covers dimension, flooring, siding and ceiling lumber, besides doors and windows. The order will be shipped at the rate of 8 cars per day.

A Sea-Girt Home.

Mr. H. J. Robertson, a retired merchant of Foo Chow, China who arrived in this province last summer, and since then has made his headquarters in this city, has lately completed the purchase of Moresby Island, one of the most enchanting spots in the beautiful archipelago of the Gulf of Georgia, which he intends to make the future home of himself and family. Mr. Robertson's wife, two sons and a daughter are at present in this city, and the remainder of his family, five sons and two daughters, are expected to arrive in a few weeks from Scotland. Moresby island, which contains about 1500 acres, 60 acres being under cultivation, and 600 more available, and with the richest soil and the balmiest climate, is admirably adapted for a pleasant villa residence such as Mr. Robertson desires. It is known as "plum island," among the adjacent settlers, owing to the lucious quality and great bearing capacity of that class of fruit tree planted there by a Mr. Hollins, a former owner of part of the island. All sorts of fruits, grains and vegetables grow luxuriantly; there is plenty of good timber on the island, and it is stated mineral deposits of iron, silver, and gold xist in the single hill found on the island. It is the owner's intention to extensively develop the resources of his island home, and he will go largely into fruit growing, stock and poultry raising and dairying, besides other branches of mixed farming. Mr. Robertson thinks that the beauty of these islands will be appreciated in the future by others like himself, who have retired from business in the Orient, a residence among them being preferable, in his opinion, to a return to England or Scotland.

Police Court.

Before T. C. Atkinson, P. M., and P. McTiernan, J. P.

Robert Millman was up in the police court this morning on the information of A Tanage, charged with violation of the peace in having used threatening language and placing his clenched fist within a quarter of an inch of Tanage's nose. After hearing the evidence in the case his honor considered it necessary to place Millman under bonds of $100 to keep the peace for the space of six months. And although Mr. Tanage is said to be a very fluent linguist he failed to convince the court of his entire innocence on the occasion in question, and consequently was ordered to pay the costs.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction.

His Worship Mayor Dickinson in the chair.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From J. Stewart Yates, secretary of the Victoria and Westminster Railway and Ferry Co., saying his board had under consideration a suitable name for the company and suggested, in view of the possibility of a change in the city's name, the above. The clerk was instructed to reply that the city had no intention of dropping the word "New" from the city's name.

From Father Fouquet, stating that the unclaimed human body of an Indian who died at St. Mary's Hospital was awaiting burial, and asking the corporation to take it in charge.

His worship replied to this letter (which was written some days ago) asking Father Fouquet to bury the body and send his bill to the council which would be paid if the council were responsible.

On motion, it was decided that Father Fouquet be notified that the council did not consider itself liable for the funeral expenses of persons dying at the hospital.

From A. O. Lund, asking for grade of sidewalk on Douglas and Cunningham streets. Granted.

From L. F. Bonson, asking permission for the use of the agricultural grounds for the annual gathering of the Caledonia & St. Andrew's Society. Granted.

His worship reported that he had been approached by several gentlemen regarding a suitable athletic park. The park was very necessary and he hoped the council would see fit to appropriate $1000 towards it. The citizens would contribute another $1000. The matter would be laid before the council next Monday night and he trusted prompt action would be taken.

From John Reid and others, petitioning for proper grades from Mary and Clements streets to streets leading therefrom. Received.

Late Canadian News.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—Robert Gourlay, a wealthy resident of the village of Stayner, has eloped with a colored woman named Bush. The couple arrived here last night and left this morning for Pittsburg, Pa. Gourlay is about 60 and leaves a wife and grown up family. Mrs Bush leaves a husband and two children.

Oarsman Teemer and his backer, Keenan, are at variance, which is said to account for the delay in signing articles of agreement with O'Connor, the Toronto oarsman.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—A meeting of the Dominion Cotton Manufacturers' Association was held to-day to consider the question of the withdrawal of the St. Croix mill from the association. The colored section will now have to remain outside of the association as it could not remain in with the St. Croix mill out. There will be no advance in prices at present, but an advance is expected in the near future.

QUEBEC, Aug. 30.—President Cleveland's retaliation policy has given an unexpected stimulus to the Quebec project. The directors of the bridge company held an emergency meeting this morning and decided to proceed at once with the necessary surveys for the proposed bridge across the St. Lawrence here, which is the last link needed to complete the chain of the transcontinental communication via the Intercolonial and Canadian Pacific wholly on Canadian soil.

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—Judge MacMahon to-day gave his decision in the case of E. S. Cox, ex-broker, refusing to entertain the application for a writ of habeas corpus or to admit the prisoner to bail. Cox's friends have paid the $700 claim of Mrs. Graham, of Oakville, and the warrant in the case has been withdrawn.

A London cable to the Mail says:—The demand for Canadian produce in England is increasing enormously. The qualities of all kinds of articles are giving great satisfaction. The sale of Canadian apples in Covent garden market is growing steadily. Smoked hams from the Dominion find a ready sale all over London. One importer, occupying a surburban shop sold five thousand this season and has just ordered another still larger supply. Every ham has been received in good condition. Canadian cheese is also growing in public favor in England. Excellent makes are being retailed at seven pence per pound. The general opinion of consumers is that Canadian cheese is quite as good as the dearer American and English cheddars.

The Dominion wholesale grocery guild have decided that no compromise will be made with any retail grocer who asks for one. On account of having been burned out unless his stock to the value of 60 per cent. of his liabilities was covered by insurance.

Mrs. Eliza Jane Nicol, of this city, has instructed her solicitors to make application for divorce from her husband at the next sitting of the senate on the grounds of cruelty, adultery and desertion.

THREE RIVERS, Aug. 30.—Rev. Luc Des Hets, cure of Cape de Lamagdaloz, died suddenly while at dinner with his brother's family to-day. Deceased bore the title of Monsigneur, which was conferred upon him by the pope.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 3.—The French fishing vessel recently confiscated for violation of the Newfoundland bait law, has been released on bond pending an appeal to the supreme court. The present relations between Newfoundland and France are such that a conference or a conflict must soon take place.
