NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Mr. Naake of the British Museum has lately discovered some printing in Polish which, so far as is at present known, is the earliest specimen of printing in that language. It is a hymn addressed to the Virgin Mary and it was usually sung by the Polish troops before engaging in battle, and bears date 1506.

For the first time in the history of Salt Lake City, says an exchange, the control of affairs has passed out of Mormon hands. The Gentiles have carried the municipal election and, for the present at least, the city is not to be dominated by the ecclesiastical monopoly which has been such a powerful influence in retarding its progress.

An American paper has the following anent some local reference: "Moses was of a retiring disposition," says the Hotel Mail, "he got out of the rush early in life." What a singular resemblance the Black Diamond bears to Moses. She was of a retiring desposition also, and was not long in getting away from the Rush.

Street Corner Astronomer—Come, gents, walk up, now, and take a look at Venus. Look at Venus, now; only 10 cents. Venus in all her glory for only one dime. Farmer Wayback—Gosh, Maria, I believe I'll take a look at her. Maria—Not if I know it, Jabez Wayback. I caught you lookin' at a statue of that critter in the museum, and I don't perpose you shall have a squint at her herself, not even if it only costs a nickel.

America rejoices in the successful escape of the Black Diamond. When the captain of an American vessel places an alien prize crew of one man upon a captured ship he deserves to lose his prize. Ola Hackersen is the name of the prize crew. It is a wonder that the Black Diamond was enabled to carry this name safely to port. The United States, however, is to be congratulated upon the temporary absence from her navy of one alien seaman.—America.

It is said that the only product of the Parnell Commission which will live in history is Sir Charles Russell's speech summing up the Parnell side of the case. "Every one," says a correspondent, "agrees that this is a marvelous piece of intellectual work. John Morley, who, although a politican, is one of the severest critics in intellectual matters, places it in the highest rank of performances of this kind—that is, the marshaling and elucidation of a vast body of heterogeneous facts, some historical, some political, and some economical."—Ex.

An electric wire fence is said to be causing considerable discomfort to cattle in Texas. Recently a Texas newspaper states, a steer attempted to break through the fence to join 15 other steers. "He had no idea," says the Munchausen who relates the story, "that he was tackling a buz saw when he struck that smooth wire fence. Well, sir, he jumped like he was hit at once by 40,000,000 hornets, and with his tail coiled over his back he wheeled and only struck the ground in high places. Then the 15 made a dash to follow him. One by one they rubbed that electric fence, and as fast as they did they jumped, bawled, kicked, wheeled, and sailed on as though they had urgent business at the North Pole and had only a few hours in which to make it. The electric fence is a stunner—it is the eighth and greatest wonder of the world. Not one of these cattle was hurt, but not one of them will go near the fence again."

The Bombay Guardian calls attention to an extraodinary book which is being distributed in India, a prize-book in the government girl's school in the Bombay presidency. The following quotations are given as specimens of the teachings set forth in the book: "If the husband of a virtuous woman be ugly, of good or bad disposition, diseased, fiendish, irascible, a drunkard, old, stupid, dumb, blind, deaf, hot-tempered, poor, extremely covetous, a slanderer, cowardly, perfidious, and immoral, nevertheless she ought to worship him as a god with mind, speech, and person. The wife who gives an angry answer to her husband will be a village pariah dog; she will also become a female jackal, and live in an uninhabited desert. The woman who eats sweetmeats without sharing them with her husband will become a hen-owl living in a hollow tree. The woman who walks alone without her husband will become a filth-eating village sow. The woman who speaks disrespectfully to her husband will be dumb in the next incarnation. The woman who hates her husband's relations will become from birth to birth a musk-rat living in filth. She who is always jealous of her husband's concubine will be childless in the next incarnation." To illustrate the blessed results of a wife's subserviency a story is told of the great reward that came to the wife of an ill-tempered, diseased, and wicked Brahmin, who served her husband with a slavish obedience, and even went the length of carrying him on her own shoulders to visit his mistress.

OUR NEW JUDGE

Mr. M. W. T. Drake Appointed Supreme Court Judge, vice Justice Gray Deceased.

The Hamilton Summer Carnival Opens To-day and Promises Complete Success.

Immense Numbers of Whales Reported in the Gulf of St. Lawrence at Present.

OUR NEW JUDGE.

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—The government organ says: M. W. T. Drake, Q. C., of Victoria, has been appointed judge of the supreme court of British Columbia in place of Justice Gray, deceased. The new judge is of English birth, and was admitted solicitor and attorney at law to the supreme court in England in 1851. He was called to the bar of British Columbia in 1877 and appointed Q. C. in September, 1883.

MR. TIMBERLAKE'S OPINION.

KINGSTON, Aug. 19. — Rev. W. Timberlake told the "Prentice Boys" yesterday that members of parliament were no better than the people who sent them. The electors knew how they were pandering to for support, and no objection was offered. He was glad to see a change in the condition of affairs, and that the people were growing alive to their duty.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S SHARE.

OTTAWA, Aug. 19.—The department of finance has forwarded to the provincial treasurer of, British Columbia, a check for the amount due to that province for its share in the profit of landing Chinamen in British America. The amount shows a tremendous increase over the previous year, due, of course, to the exclusion act being in effect in the United States.

GAVE HIMSELF UP.

KINGSTON, Aug. 19.—After the terms of the verdict in the shooting case at Madawaska were made known, McLaughlin returned home to High Falls and sent word that he would give himself up to the authorities if they went after him. He is now in Pembroke jail.

A GRAND BALL.

QUEBEC, Aug. 19.—The governor-general gives a grand ball at the citadel this day week.

THE HAMILTON CARNIVAL.

HAMILTON, Aug. 19.—The great carnival opened to-day. Although but the first day the streets are thronged with people, and there is every indication that the demonstration will be a success. The programme for to-day is mainly aquatic, embracing yacht racing and the illumination of the craft in the bay and lake. There will also be an illumination of the city.

A NEW SWINDLE.

WINDSOR, Aug. 19.—A slick swindle is operating through western Ontario. Upon entering a town he lays in a supply of small glasses at the expense of 10 cents each. These he fills with earth, in which he places a couple of short stalks of milk weed and anoints the earth and plant with attar of roses. He is now prepared to furnish confiding purchasers with shoots from the celebrated "Ceylone Rose," using that or some other high sounding name, for $1.50 each, and does it as fast as he can handle them.

PLAYFUL WHALES.

QUEBEC, Aug. 19.—The gulf is said to be almost swarming with whales this season. One of them made an attack on the tug steamer Dauntless, off point Des Monts, last Thursday. In its onset the boat got a slap from the animal's tail which made her shiver from stern to stern.

FAILED.

QUEBEC, Aug. 19.—The failure is announced of Soucy & Duperre, saddlers of this city, with liabilities of $10,000

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

SHELBURNE, Ont., Aug. 19.—O. R. Peck, president of the Ontario Pump Co., has met with an accident while raising the first bent of the tower for the Shelburne water works, which resulted in his death.

MAYOR CLARK RETURNS.

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—Mayor Clark returned home on Saturday night and met with an enthusiastic reception from a large number of Toronto's representative citizens. He brings back with him the idea that breathing spots are a necessity in all cities.

THE BEHRING'S SEA QUESTION.

OTTAWA, Aug. 17.—Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, to-day received full particulars from Victoria, of the seizure of the British sealers, sailing from Canadian ports, by United states vessels in Behring's Sea. The papers were taken unopened to the council of ministers to be considered there at this afternoon's meeting. It is understood copies of these documents will be forwarded to the imperial government at once as the basis for a claim against the U. S. government for compensation, and a settlement of the whole question of U. S. jurisdiction over the waters of the North Pacific Ocean.

FIRE AT TADOUSSAC, QUE.

QUEBEC, Aug. 17.—Fire broke out yesterday in a bakery store, at Tadoussac, and spread to three neighboring houses. They were all burned. There being no fire service, water had to be carried from the river and thrown on the flames, and it is a miracle the whole village did not go. Loss $5000.

LOOKING AFTER HIM.

OTTAWA, Aug. 17.—The police authorities are looking after Fritz Steinbach, the young German who robbed two of his fellow countrymen, residents of this city, of a considerable sum of money and then skipped.

FRENCH SQUADRON WILL NOT VISIT QUEBEC.

OTTAWA, Aug. 17.—The reason now assigned for the countermanding of the order for the French squadron, designated to visit Quebec, is that the French ambassador at London received a courteous intimation from Lord Salisbury that in the present condition of public temper in Canada on the subject of French ascendancy in the province of Quebec, it might be undersirable to allow French war ships to anchor in Quebec harbor. The recent speeches of the premier of Quebec in which the people were called on to look to the tri-color as their national flag and others calling on the provincial military to be prepared to defend their nationality appears to have had an effect on the mind of the British cabinet.

WHAT THE FRENCH PAPERS SAY.

MONTREAL, Aug. 17.—For some days past the French papers have been asserting that the Dominion government had refused permission to the French war ships to come to Montreal on the ground that it would tend to undue intimacy between French Canadians and their compatriots in old France. The officers alone are coming up.

FIGHT IN "A" BATTERY.

KINGSTON, Aug. 17. — Bandsmen Wilson and Lotto, of "A" battery, had a fight in the camp yesterday and Lotto was badly cut with a razor. His head and back were slashed in a serious manner. The two men had grudges against each other. Lotto is in the hospital and Wilson is under arrest.

THE REASON WHY.

OTTAWA, Aug. 17.—The reason now assigned for the countermanding of the order for the French squadron designated to visit Quebec, is that the French ambassador at London received a courteous intimation from Lord Salisbury that in the present condition of public temper in Canada on the subject of French ascendancy in the province of Quebec, it might be undesirable to send French warships to anchor in Quebec harbor. The recent speeches of the premier of Quebec, in which the people were called on to look to the Tricolor as their national flag, and others calling on the provincial military to be prepared to defend their nationality, appears to have had effect on the mind of the British cabinet.

REFUSES AN OPINION.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Solicitor Hepburn, of the treasury department, has refused to render an opinion on the question submitted to him by the Canadian Electric Power Company as to whether the electricity generated in Canada can be used in the United States without the payment of duty or without conflicting with the provisions of the alien contract labor law. The solicitor holds the question purely hypothetical.

THE BLACK DIAMOND AFFAIR.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17,—It is believed in official circles that when President Harrison returned from Bar Harbor he would take some action in the case of the Black Diamond, but at the treasury department it is said that the procedure in the matter has not been decided on. The treasury officials state that the captain and crew of the Black Diamond were not placed on parole by the captain of the Rush; in fact they refused to be disposed of in this way and for this reason they are not amendable to the civil law, national or international. In cases of the other seized sealers, the officers and crews were placed on parole and proceeded to the ports designated by their captors under prize crews, with difficulties.

THE NEW ELIXIR.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16.—Dr. Robert Longfellow, professor of dermatology in the Cincinnati college of medicine and surgery, conducted a series of experiments yesterday with Brown-Sequard's elixir. Tests were made on a dozen subjects. The first two patients were Thomas Alburn, an Englishman, 55 years old, and Fielden Weir, a coloured ex-slave, aged 70. The latter was bent and crippled with rheumatism and Alburn has been lamed by erysipelas. The liquid was injected in the arms and legs. When both subjects returned in the evening they could walk with ease. The exhilarating effect on the Englishmen was great. He walked a dozen squares, and declared all pain and stiffness had left his limbs. Both experiments were pronounced eminently successful. Dr. Brainard, of Cleveland, has also experienced successful results with the elixir in several cases where it was administered unknown to the subjects. Dr. Longfellow reports that in all the cases to whom he administered the fluid yesterday the effects were similar except one, that was in the case of a man 35 years old, in full health and in no need of a tonic. He experienced slight sickness. He reports further that the old coloured man, whose rheumatism was completely cured last night, says this morning that he still retains his restored strength, and that his family and friends regard his cure as little short of a miracle.

FROM VICTORIA.

The Sewerage Scheme.—A Young Man Arrested for Forgery.

Special to the Columbian.

VICTORIA, Aug. 19.—The Umatilla arrived from the sound this morning and left at 3 this afternoon. She was uninjured by her grounding in Puget Sound.

Talmage lectures to-night at the Victoria theatre.

Messrs. Pickering & Hill, English engineers and contractors, meet the city council this afternoon, when it will be decided whether their sewerage plan be accepted or not. The probabilities are that it will be accepted.

The city is filled with strangers.

A young man has been arrested here for forgery. It is said he forged a well known restauranter's name to several cheques. Further developments later.

Northway Escapes.

A Port Townsend paper says: Northway, the broker who absconded from Seattle after defrauding several of his creditors, did not succeed, after all, in getting off to Alaska. He compromised with two of his creditors, and was allowed his liberty at Port Townsend; but immediately afterwards a telegram was sent from Seattle to detain him at all hazards. Northway heard that the officers were after him, so he ran down to the beach and hired two Indians to take him to Victoria in a canoe. About an hour later the marshal got on the trail, and though Northway and his canoe appeared like a speck on the water, the marshal determined to overtake him if possible. He employed four Indians to take him in a canoe and catch the man. The Indians paddled until they were within two hundred yards of the first canoe, when Northway ordered his gondoliers to "pull for the shore." At this time they were opposite the brickyard; he jumped on shore and reached the shore before the marshal could overtake him, and made good his escape.

HAYTIEN MATTERS.

Undergo a Complete Change and Legitime's Star is now in the Ascendant.

The Jesuits' Estate Indemnity will be Paid by the Quebec Government in October.

An Ontario Student Obtains His College Degrees in a Rather Novel Manner.

CONDITIONS REVERSED.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 19.—Advices just received from Hayti report the present condition of affairs the entire reverse of what they were a few weeks ago. Since the effective repulse of Hippolyte's forces, Legitime's men are said to have gotten into fine trim and strengthened their position. It is said that Legitime is receiving financial assistance from the French government.

A PARDON PROBABLE.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19.- Detective Childs, who was sent here by Governor Lowry to arrest Kilrain, does not think Sullivan will be required to serve out his full term. Said he: "I am satisfied that Sullivan will be pardoned by Gov. Lowry, as will Kilrain also, if tried and sentenced. In fact, Gov. Lowry stated he would act leniently with them, only desiring in their arrest a vindication of the law.

TOOK ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Sam Crane, of the metropolitan baseball club, was arrested this morning on charge of running away with Mrs. Hattie Travenfelter, wife of a Scranton, Pa, fruit dealer. Hattie, in russett shoes and a baseball cap, was also made a captive, and locked up in the cell adjoining her lover. Travenfelter claims his wife took $1,500 belonging to him when she ran away.

PRINTERS' STRIKE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The World pressmen struck at 1 o'clock this morning. They demanded the discharge of an obnoxious foreman and the guarantee of union wages and hours. No action was taken on their petition owing to the absence of the business manager from the city. Outside help was obtained and the paper was issued two hours late.

LET THE DEAD REST.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Frederick W. Sharon, son of the dead United States senator, defendant in the celebrated Sharon case, arrived here from Europe yesterday. He was greatly surprised on hearing of the death of Terry, but would not express an opinion, saying, "he is dead; let him rest."

AN EXTRA SESSION.

LEWISTON, Me., Aug. 19.—An extra session of congress was discussed by Secretary Blaine, Harrison, Dingley and other republican leaders while the president was at Bar Harbor. Dingley, in an interview, says he believes it will be called about Oct. 20th. Rules will be amended the first thing and then the internal revenue and tariff laws.

TELLING FIGURES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—A statement just received here shows that the Canadian Pacific's gross earnings for June, 1889 were $1,255,361, an increase over the earnings for the corresponding month of last year of $74,365. Operating expenses under similar comparison show a decrease of $62,159, so that the net earnings were $527,462 and total incerase was $136,462.

NAGLE IN DANGER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 19.—A San Francisco newspaper man, who came down from Stockton this morning, said: "Last night at Stockton there was a good deal of talk about lynching Nagle. I heard one old fellow say in the offices of the Evening Mail that Nagle would be lynched inside of a week. I hardly think anything like this would have occurred, but the action of the sheriff in removing the prisoner under cover of darkness was suggestive, to say the least." In the city prison this morning Nagle was asked, "Did you anticipate trouble at any time?" "I did not", replied Nagle. "These fears that an attempt might be made to take me out of jail undoubtedly arise from the fact that the jailors would not allow anyone to see me outside of my attorneys."

THE JESUITS INDEMNITY.

QUEBEC, Aug. 19.—The local government will pay $400,000 to the Jesuits at the end of October.

GOT HIS DEGREE.

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—A somewhat unusual and serious charge is pending against a medical student. It is alleged he obtained old tickets of attendance at the Western University of London, Trinity Medical School and Victoria college. He erased the name of the holder and substituted his own, and with these in hand obtained a degree. The authorities of the medical council intend it is said to have the offender extradited, he being now in Chicago.

WINDING UP.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Unless something wholly unexpected should turn up the last spark of interest in current parliamentary proceedings has died out with the withdrawal of the tithes bill, and there will be a meagre attendance of members for the remainder of the session. As far as can be seen nothing remains but to wind up the business on hand, and the house will probably adjourn on the 31st of August. The proposal of the ministry to embody in the tithes bill a provision that a court should investigate the rents, amounted practically to a legal revision of all rents in England, and Sir William Vernon Harcourt did not exaggerate the matter in the least when he pronounced the proposal as the most revolutionary in principle that any government had yet introduced. The failure of the bill places the ministers in the position of having attempted to enforce an admittedly unjust law in Wales, and its withdrawal has hardly helped matters any. Since the example set by many conservative ministers of voting against the government on the division of Mr. Gray's amendment, it is very likely to be followed by a large number of Welsh tory voters at the polls.

Daily British Columbian

Monday Evening, August 19, 1889.

The killing of ex Judge Terry by Deputy United States Marshall Nagle, at a railway station in California, on the 14th inst., terminated a most eventful career, remarks an American cotemporary, commenting on the occurrence. Judge Terry has been a most notorious character for more than a generation. He gained early a reputation as a desperate man, of violent and uncontrollable temper, ever ready to arbitrate his difficulties with his fellow men with a revolver. That the law did not long ago do the work of Marshall Nagle's bullet was due to anomalous social and political conditions. He lived by the sword and died by the sword. The bitter contest over the distribution of the estate of Senator Sharon, in which Judge Terry was first attorney, and then both attorney and one of the plaintiffs, as husband of Sarah Alethea Hill, provoked many quarrels, and when Justice Field, of the United States supreme court, reversed the favorable rulings of the state courts, Judge Terry and his wife both acted so outrageously in open court that both were committed to jail for contempt. This only increased the animosity of Judge Terry against Justice Field, which dated from 1854. Many believed Terry would kill him, and it was in the latter's protection that Deputy Sheriff Nagle, a little hastily, it would seem, shot and killed Terry, as related in the despatches the other day. The violent temper of Judge Terry's wife renders it extremely probable, it is thought, that the last chapter of this remarkable quarrel has not yet been written.

The Salisbury government has undeniably struck a snag in the tithes recovery bill, which they were forced first to amend at the instance of the opposition, and finally to withdraw altogether on account of the amendment merely removing the pressure from the corns of the tenant class to those of the landlords. According to the despatches, the British cabinet only escaped technical defeat on this measure through the fluke of twenty Parnellite members being absent when a division was taken on the opposition amendment to the tithes bill. As it was the amendment was defeated by only four. The bill was remodelled accordingly, incorporating the spirit of the amendment, thus making landlords, instead of occupiers or tenants, liable for the payment of tithes, and precipitately withdrawn, as anticipated, on account of the storm threatened by the landowners. In all this rather humiliating manœuvring to save their seats the government figured very poorly, of course, and came out decidedly second best, losing prestige with both friend and foe. It is stated that the Liberals are jubilant over what they regard as the practical defeat of the government, and propose to take full advantage of it in the coming elections. The reports of the unhealthy condition of the prisons in which Irish political prisoners are incarcerated, unless signally disproved, must attach tremendous and deserved ignominy upon the administration. Not one, but several, instances are cited of prisoners being released only to die a few days afterwards from disease contracted in their foul dungeons. These are horrible stories to read in this nineteenth century, enough to make John Howard's ghost return to earth, and one could wish that they may not be true. However, all indications seem to point, as they have for some time, towards a short extension of the Tory lease of power in England, and a speedy resumption of the reins of government by Mr. Gladstone. It would certainly be most poetic justice for the Grand Old Man to be returned once more to the highest place in the people's gift, and have an opportunity before his terrestial sun sets forever to inaugurate and carry out some of those noble schemes for Ireland's amelioration and the Empire's good upon which his great mind and heart are set, and we believe that this reward and happiness are in store for England's greatest statesman. Then will he be able to exclaim, like the prophet of old, "Now, let Thy servant depart in peace."

Mr. Theodore Davie, according to promise, has been giving his constituents and the public some "particulars" about his "Northern Railway" policy. The "particulars," however, fail to particularize with a sufficient degree of perspicuousness. At a recent public meeting, Mr. Davie occupied considerable time explaining what his opponents said about the Canadian Western. "Our opponents say," exclaimed Mr. Davie, "that we are to sit still for the next two years (for that is the time the company have to begin operations) and do absolutely nothing. That is not the policy of any one here—it is not mine; it is not yours. (Applause.)" We are quoting from the Colonist's report of the attorney-general's speech to his constituents. The following double-back-actioned utterance, taken from Mr. Davie's speech, is reassuring, or not, just according to who holds the "combination" of the safe which protects the "resources of the province." "I am not going to pretend that the Canadian Western Railway should receive anything like the amount of assistance given to the C. P. R. They will, however, expect more aid than they have yet received, or more than this government would be justified in giving! [The italics and exclamation are ours.] The time for subsidizing a road as heavily as the C.P.R. was subsidized has gone by. The C.P.R. received $25,000,000 in money, 25,000,000 acres of land, and British Columbia and Lake Superior sections thrown in. The government had also to afford the constructors of the road every facility for fowarding material during its building, and had to sell to the company any material required at cost. The C. P. R. Co. also received rights of way and water frontages whenever navigable water was reached; and last, but not least, they received the promise that no opposition railway would be constructed for twenty years, and they were free of taxation in the Northwest Territories forever. It was upon these terms that the C.P.R. company entered upon their bargain to build the road. The same terms would not now be given to another transcontinental road; but he (Mr. Davie) merely referred to their case to show what had to be considered by a government in settling a railway question. These questions would not be taken up and disposed of without delay, unless the matter became one of government policy. (Applause.)" Without committing himself definitely, Mr. Davie, in the course of his speech, contrives to leave the inference that his idea of further assistance to the Canadian Western is to guarantee interest on a part at least of the sum required to build the road. What this may mean from the province, after making due allowance for Victoria "blowing itself in" on the scheme, will probably not be given out until it is sprung upon the legislature by Mr. Davie at some future time. In the meantime our legislators and would-be legislators might profitably post themselves on the question, so as to be prepared to speak and act when the occasion demands.

A TENDERFOOT'S LUCK.

He Relates How He Shot His First Buffalo.

Crept Up on the Herd, Blazed Away, and a Noble Bull Bit the Dust—An Unprofitable and Decidedly Disagreeable Surprise.

One day, while I was ticket agent of the Kansas Pacific railroad at Wallace, Kan., during the years that buffalo were still roaming in vast herds over the plains, the telegraph operator at the station came into my office in a great state of excitement, writes a New York Sun correspondent.

"There's a million buffalo feeding on the prairie only three miles below here," he exclaimed, "and not more than a quarter of a mile from the railroad track. Let's go down and bag a few."

I was still a tenderfoot in the region, and was crazy to kill a buffalo. So, in less than ten minutes after the operator brought me the news, we mounted a hand-car, and, accompanied by one of the track repairers, were spinning along toward the spot where the buffaloes were reported to be feeding. The report hadn't been exaggerated, except that the buffaloes were feeding no nearer than a mile from the track. That was the first herd of buffalo I had seen. I saw many long one afterward, but never saw one that could compare in vastness with this great reason gathering. The prairie seemed filled with them. They formed one black, unbroken, undulating mass that seemed rounded only at the horizon and stretched eastward and westward as far as the eye could follow it. The herd was on the north side of the railroad, and feeding toward it. Grabbing our hand-car and taking our guns, we proceeded cautiously across the prairie, half creeping, half crawling, until we had succeeded in approaching to within a quarter of a mile of the advance guard of the mighty host.

As we lay there watching the systematic arrangement and conduct of the vast herd, with its divisions and subdivisions and line of outposts, our attention was attracted by the peculiar actions of various members of one of the bunches which was feeding nearest to us. First one buffalo would give a sudden jump, run several steps, stop and look back, and then, giving his body a thorough shaking, would resume his feeding again, only to repeat his strange maneuvers a few seconds later. Another and another were affected in the same way, and, one after another, they finally fell abruptly to the ground, and lay stretched motionless there in full length.

"It seems to me," said I in a whisper to my companion, "that rattlesnakes are acting in their work on those buffaloes."

"No," said the trackman, who seemed to know something about buffalo, "the prairie rattlesnake can't kill a buffalo. Not as thick as those fellows have gone down, you know. I never saw any thing like that before, and can't understand it."

To solve the mystery, we concluded to go into that particular bunch, which would stampede it, and in turn send the entire herd speeding away over the plain. I was allowed the privilege of first fire. I crawled to within three hundred yards of the bunch. A magnificent spike bull stood within easy range, broadside to me. I aimed at him and fired. He fell where he stood. His immediate companions fled, the alarm spread along the herd, and soon the vast body was thundering away to the northward, shaking the prairie by their mighty tread. Followed by my comrades, I rushed up to my trophy. I put my foot on the massive neck, and felt proud of my achievement. I looked back at my companions. They were standing stock still a few feet behind me, their eyes staring at something beyond me and their jaws dropping. I turned to see what they were looking at and my eyes instantly became as staring wide open as theirs were. I never knew where he could have come from, but there at the other side of the buffalo I had just shot stood an Indian. He was at least six feet six inches tall. He was entirely naked, except that he wore a strip of buckskin around his loins and a quiver of arrows at his back. His eyes flashed wickedly as he drew himself up to his full height, placed his foot on the buffalo, and, smiting himself on his bare breast, exclaimed in a haughty and imperative tone:

"Ma boofalo-o-o!"

Before the Indian had finished making his positive claim to the buffalo I became painfully aware that he was not alone, but that no less than six other Indians, as big and ugly as he was, had appeared on the scene as quietly and mysteriously as he had. I had no intention whatever of disputing the red thief's claim, and I know that neither of my companions had. I took my foot off of the dead bull, which was all the Indian I knew for resigning my right to the trophy. The Indian folded his right arms and looked, I thought, contemptuously at us, and then exclaimed:

"Tabac!"

We interpreted this lightly to mean that the Indian wanted a chew of tobacco. Simultaneously all three of us produced a big plug, and reached it toward him. He took them all, bit off a chew from one, and stowed the three away somewhere in his breechcloth. Then, with a wicked leer, he waved his hand toward the railroad. We interpreted this to mean that we had better go, and we went. The mystery of the strange actions of the buffaloes we had seen fall was explained. The Indians had been hiding on the edge of the herd, and were picking off the choicest of them with their noiseless and deadly arrows. We never looked back until we had reached our hand-car on the track and were to start for home. Then we saw the Indians squatted in an excited group on the ground.

"They are gambling for our tobacco," said the trackman.

"That was the way I shot and lost my first buffalo, and I have often congratulated myself since that I didn't lose my scalp, and always wondered why that villainous redskin happened to let me keep it.

STUDENTS IN GERMANY.

Interesting Statistics Concerning Their Work and Studies.

The following interesting statistics occur in an article on "Student Life in Germany," by Dr. F. M. Warren, in the Chautauquan: We find in the twenty schools of Germany some twenty-six thousand students, of whom over twelve hundred are foreigners. The Russians leading, closely pressed by the Swiss, Austrians and Americans, in numbers that do not vary far from two hundred for each nation. As might be supposed, the largest towns contain the largest institutions. The modern university, like the mediæval, appears to demand the multicity of industrial life. The University of Berlin numbers over five thousand students, those of Leipzig and Munich more than three thousand each. To resist this tendency toward the distinctively urban foundations, favored to the utmost by the states which they peculiarly represent, the institutions of the smaller central powers and those less fostered by the pride of dynasty exert themselves to excel in some one specialty—in which effort they are often aided by tradition and habit. Thus in 1887, in spite of the greatly superior aggregate of the three universities noted above, certain of the provincial faculties have successfully maintained, not merely a relative, but even an absolute pre-eminence. The order of attendance in theology of both Protestant and Catholic faculties being reckoned together, when in the same institution) was, Berlin (794), Leipzig (672), Halle (598), Tubingen (514). In law, the capitals of the largest two States come first, Berlin (1,282), Munich (1,136), followed by Leipzig (738), and Tubingen, a second fourth (348). In medicine, the capitals again lead, but in reversed order: Munich (1,350), Berlin (1,297), Wurzburg, however, has here a specialty (935), which puts her ahead of Leipzig (781). In philosophy, Berlin (1,884) and Leipzig (1,040) leave the others far in the rear."

An Opinion on Flirts.

The Iowa Supreme Court, in a recent decision, expressed the opinion that girls who habitually gad about the streets late at night have no valid claim on the courts for redress if they are ruined. That ruling may seem severe, but it is based on a law that is older than any human enactment.

HUNTINGTON'S HORSES.

A Millionaire's Dicker with Another of the Same Ilk.

It is fun to hear one millionaire tell a story of another millionaire, and here is one of that kind, says the New York World. Some time ago he heard that Mr. Huntington had a couple of very handsome cobs for sale, and being in want of just that sort of thing the millionaire communicated with Mr. Huntington and asked his price. In response to the note Mr. Huntington appeared next day in the office of the would-be purchaser. He explained that the cobs were particularly fine animals, and that he would not part with them except for the reason that they were rather small, indeed too small for himself and wife, who were rather large people. The purchasing millionaire and his wife not being large people, this of course was no objection, and Mr. Huntington was asked to state his price. He said he wanted $1,000. Well, the millionaire had seen the cobs and so had his coachman, and he knew that this was a pretty long price. He expressed that opinion to Mr. Huntington, and told him that if he could get down to a reasonable figure they might talk business. Mr. Huntington asked what his idea of a reasonable figure was, and the would-be purchaser said he would give him $800 for the pair. Mr. Huntington scoffed at the offer, and said that he wouldn't entertain it for a moment, and the millionaires parted and matters were left in this shape.

The next day Mr. Huntington reappeared and said that he had thought the matter over, and that he was willing to take nine hundred dollars, but the other party to the negotiation was not willing that he should have nine hundred dollars of his, in this transaction at least, and stuck to his original offer of eight hundred dollars for the cobs. Mr. Huntington talked for some time and expatiated on the equine excellencies which justified the nine hundred dollar price, but the millionaire purchaser wasn't at all impressed. Mr. Huntington was quite as eloquent as any auctioneer who ever held forth at Bull's Head or any that Mr. Van Tassel had ever employed, but the eloquence failed of any effect, and Mr. Huntington again departed. He appeared again, however, and appeared and disappeared for all the days of the week and several days of the following week, and altogether spent perhaps twelve or fourteen hours in striving to convince his customer that nine hundred dollars was not too much for what he had to sell. But failing utterly in this philanthropic desire, he finally said that he would take the eight hundred dollars which was offered if the purchaser would pay his coachman twenty-five dollars.

"But," said the other millionaire party, "I have nothing to do with your coachman."

"But," said Millionaire Huntington, "my coachman expects something, and it seems to me that if I give you the horses at your price you ought to pay him."

Well, the purchasing millionaire didn't look at it in that way. He didn't think that a coachman on wages—and he presumed that Mr. Huntington paid his wages regularly—was entitled to commissions, and he thought they had a demoralizing and corrupting influence on the stable or unstable morals of the coachman, and he thought also that if there was any corruption or demoralization to go forward it would have to be done with Mr. Huntington's money. These arguments were, of course, unanswerable, and Mr. Huntington, having spent a number of valuable hours—because millionaires' hours must be valuable—in attempting to induce the other party in negotiation to pay one hundred dollars more than he wanted to pay, and having failed utterly, accepted the check for eight hundred dollars, and the horses were duly transferred.

MOURNFUL STORIES.

A Series of Tales Invented by a Young Lady for the Benefit of Bores.

There is a very nice young lady in Washington who, according to the Post, has a way of ridding herself of bores to be commended for uniqueness at least. She tells the tiresome party a story; then a second; if the second doesn't start him, the third one is almost sure to. In case that fails the fourth never missed its man. She calls them her "Undertaker Series." They are as follows:

"Oh! dear," said the beautiful daughter of a prominent undertaker, "I am afraid I shan't be able to go to Saratoga this summer. Papa says he never knew people to be so frightfully healthy. If some one doesn't die before long I shan't even have a new spring hat."

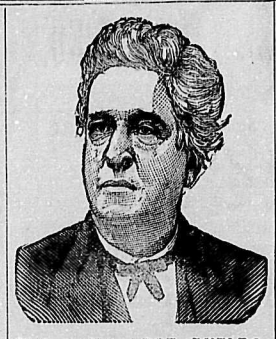
The second runs as follows: A New England gentleman went to Florence in the last stages of consumption, lingered a few months and passed away. His bereaved widow telegraphed home: "John is dead. Loss fully covered by insurance." She then set about preparing the remains for shipment to the North. The local undertaker was called in. The season was about over, and his large and select assortment had been reduced to a single casket, which proved about two feet too long for the deceased. "Never mind," sobbed the widow, after she had haggled the price down to the lowest possible figure; "the nox is too long, but I can fill the end in w-with oranges!"

And the third is like unto this: A certain undertaker's energetic wife okes out the family purse by keeping a boarding-house. The boarders claim to be able to tell, with unerring accuracy, when the husband has had charge of a funeral, because the next day there are flowers on the table, and ice on the butter.

The fourth story can be told only under extreme provocation. It would be downright grave robbery to repeat it.

A Bug Under Her Skin.

Mrs. Lavena Baker, of Plymouth township, Montgomery County, Pa., has for many weeks been suffering intense pain in her neck and shoulder. A few days ago a large black spot appeared. An incision was made by a doctor, who took from the flesh a large bug resembling a potato bug somewhat. She is now suffering from erysipelas, the result of the bug's presence in her skin.



THE LATE PROF. PHELPS.

The above is a portrait of the late Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., L. L. D., of Dartmouth college. He was a strong, able man, who stood high in the literary and scientific worlds. It is not generally known, but it is, nevertheless, the truth, that Prof. Phelps was the discoverer of what is known to the medical profession and chemists universally as Paine's Celery Compound, unquestionably one of the most valuable discoveries of this century. This remarkable compound is not a nervine, an essence, a sarsaparilla or any devised article, but a discovery, and it marks a distinct step in medical practice and the treatment of nervous complications. It has been freely admitted by the best medical talent in the land, and also by the leading chemists and scientists, that for nerve troubles, nervous exhaustion, insomnia, debility, senility and even the dreaded and terrible Paresis, nothing has ever been discovered which reaches the disorder and restores health equal to this discovery of Prof. Phelps.

Paine's Celery Compound is now being prepared in quantities, and can be procured at any reputable druggist. An attractive bunch of celery is to be found on every wrapper. It has become specially popular among professional men, mind workers, ladies burdened with exciting social duties and frequenters of the leading clubs.

The aldermanic elections on Wednesday are not exciting very general interest, and there was little canvassing done by the candidates to-day. The popularity of the three candidates, however, makes it certain the voting will be close.

The committee appointed to arrange for the public dinner to be given to Hon. Edgar Dewdney, minister of the interior, has received a despatch from that gentleman accepting the invitation. The date on which the dinner will be held cannot be fixed for a few days yet.

In connection with the Hogg abortion case, which excited so much comment and interest a short time ago, it may be interesting to many to learn that the complainant in the case is still living on the sound, and it is doubtful whether the crown will further prosecute the matter in any of the other charges against the defendants. —World.

The Times says the German bark J. H. Hustede, 1091 tons has finished discharging a cargo of 1864 tons of Welsh coal for her majesty's navy. The vessel has been chartered by Robt. Ward & Co. to load salmon for London, which makes the third vessel on the berth here to load British Columbia salmon, the other two being the bark Titania and the ship Doris Brodersen.

The attendance at both the Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon services of the Y. M. C. A. was far above the average, and the interest manifested was also very marked. Mr. A. C. Brydone-Jack addressed the evening service, and Rev. Thos. Baldwin spoke to the young men in the afternoon. At the close a collection was taken up for the association in Spokane Falls, Washington, whose income is cut off, in consequence of the late fire in that city.

Hon. E. Dewdney passed through Winnipeg to Regina on Friday. A deputation representing the old settlers waited upon the minister and presented him with a largely signed petition asserting their claims. At Regina Saturday the formal turning of the first sod of the Regina & Long Lake Railway took place, the ceremony being performed by Mrs. Dewdney. The party visit Saltcoats on Tuesday, and start for the coast on Thursday.

Police Happenings.

At the police court this morning an Indian who had wandered far from his home in Alaska, and who had got helplessly drunk on Westminster fire works, pleaded guilty and was fined $5. Two young men who both glory in the name of Smith, and who have hitherto lived peaceably together in a cabin in the swamp, quarrelled over the ownership of an old stove and finally resorted to their fists to settle the difficulty. No. 1 got the worst of the combat and evened up on No. 2 by getting the latter arrested, charged with assault. The police magistrate imposed a fine of $2.50 and costs on No. 2 and all parties retired satisfied.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Killed on the Track.

This afternoon an unknown man was killed on the track about half way between Vancouver and Hastings by the out-going Atlantic Express. The engineer in charge of the train was the veteran Peter Ryder, who is one of the most careful and skillful engineers on the road. The train which was a heavy one, was proceeding at the usual speed when the accident occurred. As the locomotive turned a short curve about a mile west of Hastings, the engineer saw the body of a man lying on the track only a few yards ahead, the head resting on one of the rails and the body reclining lengthways with the ties. As quick as a flash Ryder put on the air-brakes, and the train came to a stop so suddenly that every passenger aboard was alarmed. But the distance was so short that the train could not be stopped in time, and the truck wheels and one of the drivers had passed over the unfortunate man before the locomotive had come to a standstill. On examination it was found that the man's head had been cut off diagonally, and that both legs had been severed half way between the thighs and knees. The body was sent back to Vancouver and turned over to the authorities. From the section forman it was learned that the deceased had passed up the track a short time before, to all appearances very much intoxicated, but why the foreman did not have a drunken man removed from the track is not explained. It is probable the unfortunate stumbled and fell, and was so overcome by drink that he could not rise. The name of the deceased was not known to anyone of the train hands, but it is probable the coroner's inquest will bring about identification.

The Exhibition Celebration.

A general meeting of the exhibition celebration committees was held in the city hall on Saturday evening, Mayor Elect Townsend in the chair. The committees appointed at the first meeting were voted permanent. Mr. S. T. Mackintosh was elected permanent secretary and Mr. J. S. C. Fraser, treasurer. The sports committee reported recommending that a full list of sports be held and asked for an appropriation of $750. The St. Andrew's and Caledonian society presented a communication asking that the Scottish games be held under the auspices of the society, the prizes to be paid by the general committee. The procession committee asked for a grant of $400. The ball committee asked for an appropriation of $300. The decoration committee reported that they had decided to erect two arches, one representing the salmon industry and the other the lumber industry. Assistance in this proposition had been offered by cannerymen and lumbermen. The committee propose asking citizens to decorate their residences, and merchants to decorate their stores and offices. The committee asked an appropriation of $300. The fireworks committee suggested that there be no display of fireworks, but only a torch-light procession on the river, for which an appropriation of $300 would be required. Mr. H. G. Ross reported that there would be no trouble in having three Indian bands to take part in the celebration and a large number of Indians. The reports were all laid over till the next meeting, when it is expected the collection committee will report. The following committee were appointed. Horse racing: Geo. H. Raymond, J. M. Wise and Herbert Gilley. Rifle matches: A. F. Cotton, J. S. C. Fraser, F. R. Glover and Jas. Wilson. On motion H. B. Shadwell, R. Wintemute and O. E. Darling were added to the decoration committee, and D. Chisholm M. P. and W. N. Bole M.P.P., were added to the executive and reception committee. The meeting then adjourned till Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

THE TUG ACTIVE

Makes Her Trial Trip on Saturday With Most Satisfactory Results.

Although the weather on Saturday afternoon was anything but the ideal for a steamboat pleasure trip, very few of the guests invited to enjoy the trial trip of the fine tug Active, of the Royal City Planing Mills Co., neglected to take advantage of the outing. Being the largest vessel of its class ever built on the Fraser river, and having been constructed throughout with the strictest regard to every point essential to make the vessel as fine and complete as scientific shipbuilding could make it, the general interest with regard to the results achieved in the trial trip of the Active was very great. A few minutes before 4 o'clock the lines were cast off, and, with Capt. Wm. Johnson at the wheel, the Active was headed up-river and the trial commenced. The party on board consisted of John Hendry, president of the Royal City Planing Mills Co., B. Douglas, W. A. Duncan, P. Grant, Capt. E. S. Scoullar, A. McNair, T. J. Trapp, C. F. Beecher, Thos. Cunningham, J. Rankin, F. R. Glover, Thos. Mowat, Thos. Ovens, Capt. Insley, F. G. Strickland, J. D. Batchelor and others. All that was possible was done for the comfort of the guests, and refreshments ad libitum were provided for all who desired to reinforce the inner man. The Active proceeded past the city front at about half speed, which was slightly increased after rounding Herring's point. The machinery all worked perfectly and not the slightest hitch or accident occurred throughout the trip. At the mouth of Parson's channel the course of the Active was changed and she commenced the homeward run with 120 pounds pressure and the screw making 98 revolutions per minute. Under this increased pressure and with the current favoring, the Active fairly flew through the water, finally reaching the Royal City Mills wharf at 5:20 p. m. having completed the last 9 miles of the trip in exactly 35 minutes, or at a speed of almost 15 miles an hour. The party aboard were more than delighted with the performance of the vessel, and those competent to judge say she will be a veritable "flyer" when her machinery has been smoothened down by a few weeks' work. Not the least pleased of the party was Mr. Hendry dry and the directors of the company, who are more than satisfied with the results attained.

The Active was built in the Royal City Mills ship yard by Mr. Patrick Desmond, the well known ship builder of Miramichi, N. B., whose able services were procured by the company for this special work. Her dimensions are: length over all, 120 feet; length of keel, 110 feet; breadth of beam, 21 feet; depth of hold, 11 ft. 8 in.; draught, 10½ feet. The boiler was purchased through F. G. Strickland & Co. from the Abell Company, Toronto, and is said by them to be the finest ever made in their establishment. It is made of ⅞ inch steel plate, is 13 feet long by 9 feet in diameter and weighs 17 tons. It has been tested up to 270 lbs. pressure to the square inch, and can work with safety with 170 lbs pressure. It is furnished with three of Foxe's patent corrugated furnaces. The engines are triple expansion and were manufactured at the company's machine shops, at Westminster, under the superintendence of Mr. Robert McGuire, who designed the plans, and superintended the manufacture of every item, and finally fitted the whole machinery into the hull. This work is complete in every detail and reflects the highest credit on Mr. McGuire's mechanical ability. The cylinders are 12x24, 18½x24 and 33x24 inches respectively. The crank shaft and propeller shaft are each of solid steel 7 inches in diameter. The propeller is 9 feet in diameter and was manufactured in Buffalo, N. Y. The engines are fitted up with surface condensers and circulating and air pumps from the Knowles Mfg. Co., of Lowell, Mass. The cylinders and bed plate were cast at the Vancouver foundry. The vessel is well arranged for comfort. She has a cabin aft with 7 berths for the officers; a private saloon with two state rooms in the waist for the company's manager and ample quarters in the forecastle for the crew. She is supplied with every appliance required by law in case of fire or ship wreck. The cost to the company of the vessel complete is over $30,000. On the whole, the Active is a splendid vessel, a credit to the Royal City Mills Company and to Westminster, and that she will give all the good results expected of her, was proved by her excellent behavior on Saturday.

THE CHURCHES.

Summaries of Some of the City Sermons Spoken Sunday.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH.

The services at Holy Trinity church yesterday morning were conducted by His Lordship Bishop Sillitoe, assisted by Rev. Mr. Irwin. Before commencing the sermon his lordship addressed the congregation on the re-establishment of the Sunday school, which has been suspended for some weeks. He asked the teachers, from among the older members of the congregation to offer their services, and pointed out the great importance of the Sunday school and the work it should be made to accomplish. The teachers, he said, should be persons of experience, and not boys and girls little older than the scholars themselves. He accused parents of wilful neglect in not taking a deeper interest in the Sunday school as a means of Christain education, and concluded by urging them to pay more regard to the children's spiritual welfare. The matter of women workers, in connection with visiting new comers, sick persons and those who are not regular church attendants, was also dwelt on by the bishop, and he asked for volunteers to enter into this work. He proposed to divide the city into districts and allot certain work to each committee. Men workers were also spoken of, and volunteers asked for certain work proposed to be left to them. Temperance work, in connection with the church of England Temperance Society, is another work the bishop proposes to inaugurate. At the conclusion of this address Bishop Sillitoe preached an interesting sermon, taking for his text Matthew 7th chap. and 21st verse.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

At the Olivet Baptist church yesterday morning the pastor, Rev. Thos. Baldwin, discoursed on 1st epistle of John, 5th chap., part 4th verse: "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith." He said: The passage is difficult to understand, a number of questions arise from it. What is the victory? What is conquered? What is faith? For the way the word faith, as applicable in the spiritual sense, has been understood, or rather in many cases misunderstood, has made it the cause of differences and divisions. The word world means a great many things, but we should first see what it means and how it is to be interpreted in connection with the passage. It is sometimes spoken of as conveying the idea of the whole of God's creation, but it cannot be thus interpreted in this connection, neither can it be understood to mean this body of matter we call the universe, or even the whole of mankind, good and bad, or the wicked portion of the world as in contradistinction to the good. Faith overcomes something, and until the sinner is born of God he cannot fully interpret the word world in the sense here applied. Until the sinner has the new birth he cannot see that body of darkness and alienation that exists through sin, whether it is the man himself or in the great accessories to sin, nor understand that now to be recovered from his sins and their connection and consequences divine aid is necessary, and divine aid alone can recover and rescue him from the world of sin which has perverted him alike with other men. Another question arises: Why does John here call faith the victory? Why does he speak of it as the end and not the means? Because God in the new birth puts man in harmony with Himself. "Born of God," and therefore being in harmony with God, man experiences just the opposite desires, pleasures and pleasurable associations to what he did before; the unbelief, sin, corruption and death give place to faith in the power and love of God, belief in the relationship into which man is brought by the atonement, becoming sons of God, and peace and life as a result of trusting Him as a Father, hence the victory. Everything comes from an end, a germ as it were, and that which is born of the flesh is flesh, but he that is born of the Spirit and conditioned in the Spirit, he is spoken of as a new creature and is, in a most tangible condition, one with the Father, a son and heir by the Christ nature which he imbibes; therefore, the faith spoken of in this passage is not a means to an end, but the end itself. There are two points coming out here: Faith, being begotten, becomes a means to an end, and the knowledge of the Most High being ingrafted into the very nature of the regenerate man, clusters around it influences, desires and aspirations analagous to the Divine attributes, and these in line of service become a means to an end. First, he is a babe, new born, by and bye he matures into that power by which the soul is cultured up into the likeness of the Most High, and interest in His service. Take an example, take a class, try and teach them history, but you find some one saying they do not believe that Napoleon or Cromwell or Wellington ever lived, what are you going to do? You can never make a historian of that one, because there is a lack of sympathy necessary to the study. Take a class in geography, and as you propose to draw outlines of the various spheres that go to make up the universe, someone objects, because they have never seen the countries you would try to make them believe exist; you can't teach that one geography, simply because they are out of relation to the study, and therefore will never learn. Can you take men out of the world of darkened associations and make them in likeness ready for the Kingdom without a condition? No, you cannot. Man must be born again, then by faith read God, His character, view Him standing on the universe, framing laws in love for the benefit of His creaton, and, understanding His mercy and love, you will be built up and established in faith, which thus becomes the power by which we assimulate to His character, "If you love Me, keep My commandments." May God give us that operating, disciplining, unifying faith that shall sanctify us body, soul and spirit.

The new choir entered upon its work for the first time at this service, and made a very creditable lead of the service of praise.
