SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

London is said to have no less than thirty vegetarian restaurants and one vegetarian hotel.

The important scientific meetings in Paris for the five months ending with October will number at least 70.

The Cape de la Heve lighthouse, in France, is being lighted experimentally by the current from accumulators kept charged by two dynamos driven by a windmill.

For deafness of old age, Sapolini, of Milan, swabs the membrane tympani with a weak oleaginous solution of phosphorus. He claims to have stimulated the action of the membrane and improved the hearing in 62 cases.

An English inventor lays claim to an electric railway lamp—not controlled by clockwork—which is lighted by the dropping of a penny into the apparatus, and continues to shine for a period of from two minutes to several hours, according to adjustment.

In the decade ending with 1889, the iron production increased 145.59 per cent in America, 134.92 in Germany, and 3.96 in Great Britain. The Bessemer steel increase was about 300 per cent. in the United States, 200 in Germany, 575 in Russia, and a little over 100 in Great Britain.

Seismograph observations have been made on the new Tay Bridge by Prof. Ewing. The instrument was placed on the southernmost portion of the great girders and as the train came on at the Dundee end, a mile and a half away, oscillations of 1-500th of an inch were observable, increasing as the train advanced to a maximum of one-half inch.

DYNAMOS IN TELEGRAPHY.—The direct use of dynamos in telegraphy has been a failure, but Mr. W. H. Preece, F. R. S., declares that their use indirectly, through secondary batteries, has been eminently successful. At the General Post Office in London, there are 220 circuits thus worked from only 38 cells. The currents required are very minute compared with those used for electric lighting, that for one 50-watt glow lamp being sufficient for 10 telegraphic circuits.

AN UNSAFE PROTECTOR.—About half of the many anti-fouling compositions now employed for vessels make use of coppor, which Prof. V. B. Lewes condemns as very dangerous to iron and steel vessels. When such coatings are perforated, copper will be deposited on the iron and result in rapid corrosion. If several vessels are in the same basin, any one of them coated with such a composition endangers all, either through the minute particles of copper worn off and transported by the water, or through galvanic action between the vessels.

VEGETATION-CARVED ROCKS.—In New Providence and other islands of the Bahama group are numerous so-called "banana holes," ranging in size from that of a pint cup to that of a large cistern. Prof. C. S. Dolley, who has lately studied these holes, finds that they cannot have had the same origin as potholes, and do not appear to have been cut out by the waves, and he can only account for them as an effect of the action of decaying vegetation. Large quantites of leaves and other vegetable matter are found in the holes, and it is probable that the soft calcareous rock has been dissolved by the fermentation products, and washed away.

FLAPPING OF INSECT WINGS.—The slow flapping of the butterfly's wings is perfectly noiseless, but more rapid movements of insect's wings produce sounds increasing in shrillness with the number of vibrations. Sir John Lubbock has shown by some of his later observations that the wings of the horsefly give the sound F, and vibrate 20,100 times a minute, 335 times a second, and those of the bee yield the sound A, vibrating as many as 26,400 times a minute or 440 times a second,—though a tired bee may hum on E, making only 330 vibrations a second. Mercy has confirmed these theoretical numbers by placing a fly so that at each vibration the tip of his wing made a mark on a moving cylinder, the actual record being 330 strokes a second.

MILITARY DOGS.—The systematic use of dogs in military service has recently been proposed, and it is believed that under proper training the remarkable qualities of these intelligent animals would be of great value. Their acuteness of scent and hearing, with their ability to distinguish friend from foe, fit them for sentries and for scouting, and their speed and small size adapt them to messenger service, while they might even carry small loads of ammunition. After an engagement they would render important aid in hunting up the wounded. This subject has before attracted the attention of military men, while on the Belgian frontiers smugglers have long used dogs to transport duitable goods, and the custom house officers to counteract the operations.

A. C. McKinlay, surgeon dentist of Georgetown, Ont., died suddenly at New York on his way home from the old country, where he had gone for his health.

Mrs. Maybrick's Case Still Exciting Public Sympathy.---American Petitions for Reprieve.

Deputy Marshall Nagle's Shooting of Judge Terry is Pretty Generaly Endorsed.

SULLIVAN GETS 12 MONTHS.

PURVIS, Miss., Aug. 17.—Sullivan was sentenced to twelve months imprisonment. Fitzpatrick pleaded guilty and was fined $200.

PETITIONS FOR MRS. MAYBRICK.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 17.—The city of Portland is deeply moved over the conviction of Mrs. Maybrick. Prominent persons in this city opened correspondence with Messrs. R. S. Roe and Meicklin, of New York, the American attorneys of Mrs. Maybrick, and they were asked whether petitions to Secretary Blaine, requesting his aid in the movement of obtaining a reprieve, would be of benefit. They telegraphed immediately they would be of inestimable value. Accordingly petitions were circulated throughout the city and up to last night nearly three thousand names were received, including those of such men as Mayor Melcher, Judge Nathan Cleaver, Judge Symonds and Judge Gould.

STATE PROTECTION FOR NAGLE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—United States Attorney Carey has received a telegram from the attorney-general of the United States, instructing him to appear immediately for David Nagle, who is charged with the killing of David S. Terry, and to undertake his defence on behalf of the department of justice. It is inferred from this that the department of justice has investigated the facts and come to the opinion that Nagle's act in killing Terry was the act of a U. S. officer in the discharge of his duties.

A TICKLISH QUESTION.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The department of state has referred to the attorney-general the case of Capt. Duvergier, recently convicted of killing an American consul named Stanwood at Andahabe, Madagascar, and sentenced to ten years imprisonment. As the facilities for caring for prisoners in Madagascar are not extensive, it is proposed that Duvergier be brought to this country until the expiration of the time. The question that arises is whether a legal right exists to imprison him in this country when he was sentenced to serve his term at Tamatave. If brought here it is possible that a court would grant a writ of habeas corpus on this ground. No precedents exist by which the state department can guide its action.

A HORRIBLE TRAGEDY.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 16.—A special despatch from Jackson, Tenn., says: A terrible tragedy took place this morning 10 miles north of Jackson. Henry Prewitt, an ex-cowboy from Texas, shot his young wife fatally through the back, in the arms of her aunt, wounded his mother-in-law, and, running into a field, shot himself through the head, dying instantly. He had been married four months. A warrant was out for his arrest for "moonshining." He asked his wife to go with him to Weakly county. He got down on his knees this morning and begged her to go, but she is in poor health and told him she would not go. He bore a desperate character. He told his wife he had been married four times and had killed one wife and three or four men.

INDIAN TROUBLES.

BRAINERD, Minn., Aug. 16.—An Indian runner from Leech Lake reservation confirms the report previously brought of serious trouble met there by the north eastern commission in attempting to negotiate a treaty for the cession of the Chippewa Indians' lands. The Indians are in a serious quarrel and about evenly divided, between those in favor of signing and those opposed. The latter, however, have declared war to the knife on the other party, and declare that the first man who signs must die. One Indian had already been killed, a relative of the head chief, Flatmouth, who is a half-breed from the reservation. The two parties are led by Chen-Wa-Ge-Shig and Gno-Wa-Sig, under chiefs, the former heading the party in favor of signing. The runner stated that a mounted messenger had been despatched in haste to a telegraph point, presumably for troops.

NAGLE JUSTIFIED.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 16.—Attorney-General Miller was seen again at his residence yesterday and asked if he had anything further to say about the shooting of Judge Terry by Marshal Nagle He replied: "I see from the papers that the action of the deputy is pretty generally endorsed. It appears to be considered Nagle's presence was necessary and his action justified. I do not care to speak of the legal aspects of the case. I don't know any case analogous to it in our history, and I do not recall that it has ever been necessary before to provide protection for a United States judge. If the case comes to trial I suppose I will be called to testify, but I question whether there ever will be a trial. The grand jury may refuse to act or the coroner's jury may find it a case of justifiable homicide. I have not examined the legality of the question, however. I thought the protection of the officers of the law might be necessary, and knew something about the deperate character of the man with whom Justice Field had to deal. I thought of trouble when the trial began, but, of course, I didn't look for it at a way station or upon the train. If the justice's life was in danger, though, he was as much entitled to the protection of an officer at any eating house as in a court room or upon a bench. Though the attorney general was very guarded in his utterances his manner indicated very plainly that he believed that Deputy Nagle was fully justified in shooting Terry.

BARNS BURNED.

NEWINGTON, Ont., Aug. 16.—The barns and shed belonging to Leonard Helmer, near here, were burned with this seasons crop of hay, some grain, all his agricultural implements and a large quantity of oats. The barns were struck by lightning. The loss is $2,000; insurance $1,000.

TRIED TO SUICIDE.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—Joseph Handley, a prisoner under remand for breaking into a car, tried to suicide at the jail yesterday by hanging. He claims to be the stepson of Captain Delaney, in the commissioners office. Bedford road.

THE LOYAL CANUCK.

QUEBEC, Aug. 16.—Le Lecteur, while commenting on the French fleet which was coming up to this city and ordered back for reasons unknown, says: "Are our relations with France misunderstood, or are we believed to dream of a closer intimacy with that country than already exists. In that case little is still known about us. We are French and French we remain, but we are also loyal subjects to Britain to whom we are indebted for the precious political constitution we now enjoy."

VICE REGAL DOINGS.

QUEBEC, Aug. 16.—Lieutenant-governor Angers gave a dinner at Spencer Wood Wednesday night, the governor-general and a large party of ladies and gentlemen being present. To-night Lord Stanley gives a dinner party in the city in honor of the admiral of the French fleet.

COL. WILLIAM'S STATUE.

TORONTO, Aug. 16.—The statue of the late Col. Williams, who died at the close of the Northwest rebellion, has arrived here. It is to be sent to Port Hope where it will shortly be unveiled.

AN OLD LADY MISSING.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—A Mrs. Brown, of Hawkesbury, Ont., was invited by a daughter, who was living in Montreal, to visit her, and at the same time consult an oculist here for some trouble with her eyes. She arrived here on Wednesday and the same day went to visit the doctor, but has not since been heard from. The police are searching for the old lady.

OTTAWA NOTES.

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—Mr. George Bradbury has resigned the secretaryship of the Ottawa branch of the Equal Rights Association, because the Liberal wirepullers are using the Association for party purposes.

The marine department has called for tenders to erect a fog alarm building on Discovery Island, off the Pacific coast. The tenders close on the 10th of September.

The crazy man who imagined himself to be John L. Sullivan, terrorised Renfrew village until captured by the police yesterday after a desperate struggle.

To-morrow Hon. E. Dewdney turns the first sod of the Regina and Long Lake Railway.

VICTORIA NEWS.

The Bear's Nest Mine a Fizzle,----Two Seattle Characters Arrested with Stolen Money.---"Excited Siwashes."

Special to the Columbian.

VICTORIA, Aug. 17.—The Elder arrived from Alaska to-day. Your correspondent received the following news from the Alaska News Co., Juneau:

"JUNEAU, Aug. 5. — Bear's Nest people find its discovered ledge, no ledge, only a series of stringers of no value; they have shut down, paid off, and discharged all hands. Buildings are all finished, the hundred and twenty stamps alone remain unset, and over twelve hundred feet of tunnelling fail to reveal anything of value; so now all labor is stopped to await for ore to grow. The amount of wealth so far expended on this enterprise cannot be learned here, though it necessarily must run into hundreds of thousands. The Treadwell has 120 of its two hundred and forty stamps hanging up; its drillers are quitting in a body, for having a day's pay substituted for scaled foot rates, which means less wages. Salmon run thick all over this part of the coast. Capt. Murray's Chilcat cannery ships ten thousand cases this trip. The Bartlett Bay Cannery Co., in charge of Captain W. L. Johnston, has all it can handle."

The Victoria board of aldermen met Messrs. Pickering & Hill with regard to sewerage system last night; will give a decided answer Monday afternoon.

Barney Williams and Mamie Purcell were arrested here, charged with bringing stolen property from Seattle last night. Williams gave the stolen money to Officer Holden, from Seattle, and told him where the balance was to be found hidden in Seattle.

The Umatilla was successfully hauled off Brown's point, Puget Sound, by the Corona. She is uninjured, and is expected to reach here to-morrow. The Corona sails for Alaska to-day, which will be the last trip of the season. It is believed the company will put more steamers on the route next season.

Great excitement prevailed among a large number of Indians yesterday who arrived from the Fraser River canneries. They had just heard exaggerated reports of the Black Diamond seizure. They heard 15 vessels had been seized and sunk by the Rush, and were with difficulty pacified and made to believe the correct version of the story.

A Canadian Wild West Show.

Canada is to have a home made wild west show as well as the United States, says the Free Press. Messrs. Fuller & Breeding, two enterprising cattlemen from Maple Creek, are the originators and proprietors of the show, the principal features of which will be riding and performing on frisky bronchoes and wild Mexican mustangs; and also doing bare back feats on wild Texas steers as well as lassoing and mock branding cattle. Calf Shirt, a Blood Indian snake charmer, who picks up and handles rattlesnakes, has also been engaged for a season. All the performers are men who have lived for years in the wild west, and had to do with the rough and adventursome life incidental to the early days in the west. Messrs. Breeding & Fuller are experts with the lasso. Mr. Fuller has been captain of the round-up in the Cypress Hills district ever since the cattle industry began in the Canadian Northwest. — Calgary Tribune.

IMPERIAL WILLIAM

Is at Home, and the Loyal Populace Attend the Emperor and Empress.

All the Mayors of Festive France to be Banquetted in Paris To-Morrow.

Salisbury's Government Withdraw the Tithes Bill and Save Their Bacon.

THE EMPEROR WILLIAM.

BERLIN, Aug. 17. — The emperor and empress have arrived at Beyreuth and occupy the royal palace. They will remain over Sunday and attend a performance at the Wagner theatre to-morrow. The town is crowded with visitors, and not a fourth of those present can obtain seats in the theatre for any price.

A GIGANTIC BANQUET.

PARIS, Aug. 17.—The preparations for a colossal banquet to be given by the government to the mayors of France, to-morrow, are about completed. The banqueting hall will be capable of accommodating an immense crowd.

GARIBALDI'S MEMORY.

NAPLES, Aug. 17.—King Humbert visited the city yesterday and deposited a wreath on the tomb of Garibaldi.

EVERYBODY PLEASED.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The tithes bill by its withdrawal has been killed for the present session. All parties are pleased. The landlords, upon whom the burden of the measure, as amended, threatened to fall are greatly relieved. The government is satisfied with having extricated itself from the dilemma in which it was placed by the opposition, and the liberals are jubilant over what they regard as the defeat of and discredit to the government. The liberals claim that the government accepted their amendment to avoid defeat, and having done so had no further heart in the measure and ignominously abandoned it. The effect cannot be but bad on the constituencies, and the liberals propose to take full advantage of it in the coming elections.

THE POPE'S HEALTH.

ROME, Aug. 16.—The health of the pope is causing considerable uneasiness in Europe. It is known that he has been suffering with a complication of disorders for some time past, and now the announcement that, owing to the pope's continued ill-health, all receptions at the Vatican have been discontinued naturally excites the gravest fears.

THE GREAT MATCH.

The Great Lacrosse Match, Montreal vs. Ottawa, for the Championship.

OTTAWA, Aug. 17.—The M. A. A. grounds are crowded with fully 5000 people in stands and surroundings at this early hour. The Montrealers are just coming out for a practice before the great match begins. The boys are now on the field in good shape, and fully confident of continuing the good work they have done so far this season.

3:30 p. m.—Teams taking place for play; grand stand well represented by Ottawa sympathizers; enthusiasm immense; teams in position.

3:35 p. m.—The first game ball has just started.

3:44 p. m.—The first game is won by Montreal in 9 minutes.

3:52 p. m.—It is estimated that between 8000 and 9000 spectators are on the ground; the teams are taking position for the second game.

3:53 p. m.—Second game is started.

4 p. m.—A foul has just occurred; the game is started again, and the ball is playing around Ottawa's goal; another foul has been claimed by Montreal.

4:20 p. m.—The second game was taken by Montreal after 20 minutes' brilliant play. The teams immediately took position and the third game started. From the first very rough play was noticeable on both sides and one of the Ottawa men was warned. Several fouls were claimed in rapid succession and Elliott, of the Montrealers, was ruled off the field. This was followed a few minutes later by Bennett, an Ottawa man, being ruled off also. Montreal finally captured the third game after 29 minutes' play. A protest was entered against Poland, the umpire, and Mr. Ross, of Boston, replaced him.

5:15 p. m.—Ottawa won the 4th game in 13 minutes.

5:30.—Fifth game, won by Montreal.

An Ex-Evangelist's Escape.

Cowboy Evangelist Rasure, who lived here for some time and preached in a number of the churches, but finally left this city to go into the mining business at Yale, has not been playing in the very best of luck in his new deal. It seems that a workman named Mike Finnigan, who had been laboring for some time with Rasure in the marble yard up the river, had been for some reason or other refused payment for his services. Mike, who it appears, is a man of eccentric habits, got drunk on what little he had and remained in this interesting condition for three days. On Tuesday last he heard that Rasure was going away for a day or so, and he came to the conclusion that he must have his money or a pound, more or less, of flesh. He took a couple of drinks and a long knife and started for Rasure's house. He found that gentleman at home and explained the purpose of his call. He was told that his chance of seeing any of the money he so longed after was as distant as the pyramids. Mike then drew his meat slasher and made a wicked thrust at the side on which he thought Mr. Rasure carried his heart. His aim was not as good as his intention, and instead of hitting the body he struck the arm, but without serious injury. Mike was subsequently arrested by Commissioner Dodds and locked up.—New-Advertiser.

The nominations, as will be seen, have resulted in the election by acclamation of late Alderman Townsend for mayor, and in the nomination of three good men to fill the two vacancies in the aldermanic board, namely, Messrs. W. H. Keary, B. W. Shiles, and J. W. Harvey. With respect to the mayoralty, we have already expressed the opinion that Mr. Townsend would make a good mayor, conversant as he is with matters before the present council, and with his well known zeal, industry and integrity in the civic business. It will be noticed that Mr. R. Dickinson, one of our most prominent citizens, and who has so often served in the mayoralty before, received a requisition this morning asking him to allow himself to be placed in nomination on the present occasion. But, owing to all the circumstances, as explained elsewhere, nearly every citizen will commend Mr. Dickinson's action in declining to stand at this time. THE COLUMBIAN congratulates Mayor-elect Townsend and the city as well upon the result of the nomination for the mayoralty. The triangular contest for aldermen presents an interesting sort of conundrum. Two are to be taken and one left. Will the electors toss coppers or pull straws to decide which shall be which. But, no; such flippancy in the matter of exercising the franchise should not be indulged in, even though the temptation might be great. The greater the difficulty of choice, the more carefully should every elector weigh the real merits of each candidate, and vote conscientiously accordingly. We have already commended Mr. Keary's candidature, which was definitely announced the other day. Of Mr. Shiles it is unnecessary to say more than that he is a well and favorably known citizen, having had many years' experience in the city council and a good record throughout. Mr. Harvey is one of our most prominent business men, young, energetic, and enterprising, and having important interests in the city. Any two of the three candidates should make good aldermen. The polling takes place on Wednesday next, at the city hall, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and every elector can vote for two of the candidates, as the election is not by wards.

A number of interesting schemes, says an eastern exchange, are being propounded just now for the utilization of the immense water power contained in the Niagara Falls, the most careful plan as yet formulated being the one described in an address at the recent meeting of the National Electric Light Association at the village of Niagara Falls, N. Y. The proposal is to build a tunnel from the water level below the falls under the village and 200 feet below the surface of the land at an ascending grade of one foot per hundred, and extending in an easterly direction for two or three miles. Over this lateral tunnels are to be built, discharging into the main tunnel, and over these again, surface canals. Powerful dynamos will transform the water-power into electricity, which will be distributed all over the continent, the capacity of the system being 64,000 cubic feet per minute, and furnishing 119,000 horse power. Of course the principal point in such a proposal, to practical minds, at least, will be the cost of the work, and, when once completed, the real utility of the whole undertaking. It has been estimated that the cost of constructing a ten-foot tunnel a mile in length would be a million dollars, and might be very much more, while it would not in any case yield more than 20,000, or perhaps 30,000 horse-power, one-half of this being wasted when conveyed to any considerable distance by electricity. The whole question presents difficulties which the most skilled engineer might well shrink from, and even a De Lesseps consider as an undertaking too great for successful results. At present, no doubt, this immense body of water, falling, as it does, a great distance, wastes all the tremendous power it generates in pounding empty air, or dashing upon rocks, and the problem which it is now proposed to solve is simply the making of the water-power act upon machinery in such a way as to generate electricity. That the subject has created considerable interest is evidenced by the fact that an association in Buffalo is said to have recently offered $100,000 for any device which should use the now wasted power of the cataract. Experiments may, of course, be made at a comparatively small cost, and this would really seem to be the only practicable way of dealing with what has been for years a subject of interesting speculation.

It is too often forgotten by those indulging in work which requires a continuous exercise of brain power, well observes a cotemporary, that physical exercise is as essential to the welfare of the mental system as food and drink are to the physical organism. Popular opinion, it adds, is too apt to assume that brain must be developed at the expense of muscle and muscle at the expense of intellectual development, and that a man cannot be good for both at once; but there seems to be little real doubt, in opposition to this somewhat widespread idea, that the mental and physical powers of man should be developed together, the welfare of the former especially depending greatly, except in isolated cases, upon the strength of the latter. Historically there would seem to be very much to encourage the belief that, as civilization and education have expanded, as mental effort has become more general, the relative increase of physical strength has become marked. As a proof of this view a great writer has stated that many of the suits of armor in the Tower of London would be a tight fit for boys of sixteen to-day, while the average British soldier finds his hand cramped for room on the hils of the renowned cross-hilted swords of the Crusaders. It is also said that the old Greek stone coffins are nearly half a head too short for the average man of to-day. There can be no doubt that the conquering races of days gone by were successful largely owing to their physical powers, and that when wealth and idleness had softened their muscles and weakened their courage, the result was not only loss of empire, but decadence of mental vigor. The history of the Persian, Greek and Roman powers prove the fact that while energy, courage and strength remained, literature and the varied products of intellectual supremacy flourished, but as soon as riches, luxury and effeminacy replaced the physical prowess of former days, disgrace, defeat and degeneration naturally ensued. To the period when the two elements went hand in hand do we owe the beautiful poetry of the Persians, the legal and political thought of Rome and the magnificent Greek type of intellectual beauty—those broad views of the problems of government, the intense love of freedom and the great systems of deductive philosophy. The fondness of the British race for games and exercise of all descriptions is, no doubt, largely the cause of their intellectual vigor, and the philosophers and writers of the present age in Germany are proofs of the co-existence of the two principles of physical and mental development.

TOO MUCH ALIKE.

The Trouble a Young Lawyer Had with Pretty Twins.

"Yes," assented Mr. Bird, with evident appreciation, as he ran his fingers caressingly through his iron gray hair; "yes, sir, as you observe, they are very pretty girls, and their likeness to each other, in every way, is truly wonderful."

The remark was made in answer to a tribute of respect which the writer had paid to a pair of young ladies—I use the word "pair" advisedly, because they were twins—who had passed out of the office of Mr. Bird, one of the oldest and most highly respected members of the Middlesex bar.

"I knew the mother of those girls and her sister and their parents more than thirty years ago. The grandparents of those girls were clients of the man with whom I read law, and afterward their children became my clients, and now I am the legal adviser of both the grandchildren. I don't think, however, that those children are as much alike as were their mother and her sister. You could not tell them apart at all unless you had them together."

At this point one of the young ladies returned, with a little rush and flurry, saying, in a very pretty tone:

"I beg your pardon, Mr. Bird, but I went off without my gloves."

"Don't apologize, don't apologize, I pray, Miss—Miss—ah, Miss Annie. I am only too glad to see you in my office or my home at any time."

"Alice, you mean, Mr. Bird; but I thank you for the compliment all the same," and away she fluttered.

"Confound it!" growled the old gentleman, as he resumed his seat, after closing the door upon the fair visitor. "I'd have sworn that one was Annie." Then he looked up with a smile, after thinking a few minutes, and resumed: "If you can spare two minutes and care to hear it, I will tell you how I came near going crazy getting acquainted with the mother of those young ladies and her sister."

Of course, nothing would please me better, and I said so at once. Mr. Bird produced an ancient and most respectable brand of cigars, and when we had lighted up, he proceeded:

"The maiden name of those young ladies' mother and her twin sister was Van Scriver, and their father, old John Van Scriver, was a large farmer and miller, quite wealthy, residing near Princeton. I had been admitted to the bar only about a year when he died, and my preceptor, in whose office I was still located, had the settlement of the estate.

"On one occasion he wrote to the girls, who were the only heirs, that he needed certain memoranda from some papers in the homestead, and that on a day he mentioned he would be there to get them, asking the girls to look up the papers in the meantime. When the day came the old man was particularly engaged, and asked me to take his horses and carriage and do the errand; I was only too glad to oblige him.

"In due season I reached the homestead, was received by a staid, elderly housekeeper and ushered into the parlor, where I was greeted by one of the brightest and most beautiful young ladies I had ever met with. I told her who I was and how I came to be there.

"That is all satisfactory, Mr. Bird. We are glad to see any friend of Mr. Adair's. Be seated, and I will have the papers ready for you in a few minutes. Excuse me, please,' and she disappeared.

"I sat pleasurably thinking of the young lady who had just left me, when the housekeeper came in with cake and wine, after the then good, old-fashioned custom, and soon left me to enjoy them. I had been alone again but a very short time, it appeared to me, when the young lady returned with papers in her hand; but instead of coming forward, she stopped and stared at me in the most embarrassing way.

"'Did you find the papers?' I asked, in my best society tones.

"'Sir!' she exclaimed, with a Jack Frost in her beautiful voice. 'Did I what?'

"'Find the papers you went after.'

"'What are you talking about? Who are you, sir, and pray what are you doing here?'

"'The only thing I'm doing at present, madam,' I responded in tones quite as glacial as her own, 'is leaving here as soon as possible.'

"'Oh, thank you,' she replied, with lofty urbanity, as the maddest young man in New Jersey slammed the door behind him.

"Long afterward I learned that I had hardly driven away when the housekeeper came into the room, and Miss Laura Van Scriver, with her dignity still at its full height, demanded:

"'Who was that horrid, impudent young man I found in the parlor just now?'

"'Why, he's the young man Mr. Adair sent down for some papers that Miss Maggie has gone to get. Where is he?'

"Miss Laura responded by dropping into a chair and exclaiming, with almost a scream:

"'Oh, my! haven't I done it? Why, Mrs. Elkins, I actually drove the poor fellow out of the house. What in the world will I do? Don't, for gracious sake, tell Maggie. I'll make it up with Mr. Adair somehow, indeed I will.'

"The result was that Miss Maggie Van Scriver never heard of my cavalier treatment, and was for a time filled with wonder as to what manner of business man I could possibly be, having driven fifteen miles to do an errand and then gone off without courtesy or performance.

"I nursed my wrath and kept it nice and warm until I reached home, and then poured it all out to Mr. Adair, whose laughter was so long and uproarious that I took on a fresh installment of virtuous indignation, and was about giving the old gentleman a piece of my mind when he bade me shut up, while he wiped away the tears of hilarity and comforted me by saying: 'Bird, my dear fellow, it is all my fault. I utterly forgot to tell you that the girls are twins, and so terribly alike that you can't tell one of them from both.'

"The next day brought a wondering letter from Miss Maggie, asking what had caused my sudden and unaccountable departure and desiring to know if I was a Son of Temperance whom she had inadvertantly horrified and insulted by sending him cake and wine, and would Mr. Adair please tell her what it all meant, anyhow.

"'Now, here's your chance, Bird,' said the old man, handing me the letter. 'Just take my team and have another drive down there. You can fix up the mistake, whatever it is, in a jiffy, and get what I want this time, sure.'

"Away I went, and in due time was in the Van Scriver parlor. I took a critical look at the young lady as she came forward and offered me her hand, which I lost no time in taking. I was sure of Maggie Van Scriver now.

"'I'm very glad to see you, Mr. Bird. Pray what made you leave so unceremoniously on Monday?'

"'Well, Miss Maggie, I thought it was about the best thing I could do under the circumstances.'

"'What? Just because I offered you a little wine and cake?'

"'Not at all. The refreshments were as acceptable as they were gracefully tendered.'

"'Then why did you go away before I returned?'

"'I didn't go away before you returned. I stayed until you came back and practically turned me out of the house.'

"'I turned you out of the house!' she exclaimed, in blank amazement. 'Why, I never did any thing of the kind.'

"'I am sorry to contradict a lady; but you certainly did.'

"By this time I had forgotten all about the twins in the case, and Miss Maggie's brow darkened ominously as she said, gravely:

"'Mr. Bird, have you been drinking? I wish you to distinctly understand that I am not a story-teller; and I say I never saw you after I went out of this room after the papers.'

"'Miss Van Scriver, I want it distinctly and emphatically borne in mind that I am not a liar and if you had not in effect turned me out of the house, pretending to know nothing about me, I should not have gone away.'

"Then Miss Maggie's eyes flashed as she retorted:

"'And you can not oblige me more than by going away again.'

"I was half way across the yard to my carriage when I heard a tearfully penitent voice, crying: 'Oh, Maggie! Call him back! Don't let him go! It was I that did it!'

"I turned in considerable astonishment, and there stood both girls on the porch, looking so terribly alike that staring at them in semi-idiotic wonder I could not for the life of me have told which was the other. There is but little more of it. The story of how Laura 'fired me out' and concealed the fact from Maggie had to be told numberless times, until the moon shone brightly down upon my pleasant reflections as I pursued homeward the lonely road that was not lonely at all."

"Well," asked the writer, "is that all there is of it?"

"Yes," said Mr. Bird, with a queer smile, "except that I am the uncle of those two girls that just left us and the mischievous Laura is their aunt."—Lieutenant J. D. Chandlee, in Leslie's Newspaper.

PLAYED HIMSELF FREE.

Adventure of a Russian Pianist Who Wanted to Go to Germany.

Arthur Friedheim, the famous pianist, wished to cross the western Russian border recently for the purpose of filling his engagements to play in several German cities. As a Russian subject he was obliged to go through all sorts of formalities with Russian officials before leaving the country. Two weeks before the date of his first concert he asked the Captain of the city of St. Petersburg, where he was stopping, to ask the Governor of Lavonia to ask the mayor of Pernau, where he was born, for the consent of the Pernau police for the departure of Arthur Friedheim to Germany. Of course, the mayor and the police of Pernau had nothing against Mr. Friedheim or his concert tour in Germany, and they said so in a letter which they sent to the Captain of the capital by return mail.

Owing to the wretchedness of the Livonian mail-service this answer was stranded in a fourth-rate post-office a few miles from Pernau and lay there four weeks. At the end of the second week Mr. Friedheim had broken two engagements to give concerts in Germany. At the end of the third week he had broken four engagements and was receiving telegrams by the score from German theatrical managers whom he had disappointed. The fourth week brought telegrams and demands of an explanation, but no letter from Pernau.

Freidheim was in despair, says the New York Sun, and he resolved to cross the border without passes. He tried it, was arrested, and was taken before the chief of the district, who sent him to prison after confiscating his papers. In Friedheim's pocket-book were a package of his visiting-cards and several newspaper criticisms of his playing. The chief concluded that he had caught the murderer of Arthur Friedheim. He had Friedheim, whom he suspected of murdering himself and confiscating his own papers, doubly ironed and doubly guarded. After protesting and appealing for a whole day, Friedheim got an audience with the chief. He reiterated in vain the statement that he was Arthur Freidheim, the pianist. The chief wouldn't believe him. Finally Friedheim begged to be allowed to prove his identity by playing. The chief, who was something of a musician, consented. Friedheim was marched through the street to the chief's house between two soldiers and was set down before a piano. He played the second rhapsody of Liszt. As soon as he finished the chief removed the guard, saying: "Now I know you, Friedheim." The pianist was released on his promise to return to St. Petersburg for his passes.

Upon his arrival in the capital Friedheim found the letter from Pernau and his other papers ready for him. Four days later he began playing in Germany with a record of seven broken engagements behind him. The official red tape, of which he was a victim, so disgusted him with the Government of the Czar that he has declared his intention to give up his Russian citizenship to become a subject of Emperor William II.

ENGLAND AND AMERICA.

Some of the Differences Between John Bull and Brother Jonathan.

Baggage is "luggage" in England, writes Prentice Mulford in the Rochester Herald. No livery stables; instead, sign of "cars on hire." No cars on railroad; all "coaches." No rails; all "metals." No conductor; instead, "guard." No depots; all stations. No boots; all gaiters. No street-cars; all trams. No stoves. No mosquitoes. Very improper to allude to insect on plant or elsewhere as a bug. Bugs in Britain belong only in beds. In England's English "to get mad" means instantly. They get angry; never mad. A roasting-piece of beef is a "joint." Things are never "fixed," a la American; they are arranged. The English never "guess," "reckon" or "calculate;" these words belong to American-English. Wheat, oats, rye, barley, all go by the name of "corn;" corn itself almost unknown. No wharves; all docks or piers. Most pies are "tarts." Regular fruit pies baked in deeper dishes than ours; crust only at top.

Twenty millions or more people in Britain eat hearty supper at night. Table spread often as for dinner. Roast meat, potatoes and porter. No indigestion follows; never think of it. No green corn. No watermelons. No pork and beans. No buckwheat cakes. No succotash. No oysters cooked a la stew, fry, roast, broil, or steamed. No oysters save raw or in "patties." No clams at all. No pumpkin pie. No desert pies made in our fashion; very small affairs in small dishes. Plenty of cockles; miserable apology for our round clam. Oysters thin; not savory to American taste; kept at shop in vats of fresh water. Cod and king fish, twenty-five cents a pound. Lobsters very high-priced. Sole, sprat, herring and other fish very cheap. No porgies. No shad. No bluefish. Plenty of mackerel. Yarmouth bloaters in early summer; never found in perfection in this country; superb relish during that time. Are allowed to decompose after being caught until slight bloat sets in; hence name "bloater"; afterward lightly dipped in salt and water; then briefly and delicately smoked; then broiled. Flavor so acquired doesn't last over four days; salt strikes it afterward. Peas, cabbages, beans and turnips more tender than ours; boil tender in less time. White beans called "harvest beans." Yellow turnips not eaten; deemed fit only for sheep.

BARON MUNCHAUSEN.

He Turns Up Again as Alive and as Chipper as Ever.

A native newspaper published at Bitlis, in Asiatic Turkey, narrates the following remarkable story: Three Musculman travelers were lately journeying to Poulank. On arriving at a spot called Ahlat on the Lake of Van one of them approached the water and began his ablutions. As he was dipping his feet into the lake he uttered a scream. His leg had been seized in the jaw of a marine monster, which was dragging him into the water.

His companions ran to his assistance, and, taking him by the hands, they succeeded in bringing him ashore; but what was their surprise when they saw the monster also emerge from the water, firmly attached by the teeth to the calf of his leg. Knives, sticks and every thing else that was brought to bear upon the monster proved unavailing, and at last the ingenious travelers bethought themselves of a heroic measure. They lighted a good fire, and on it the jaw of the obstinate animal holding the man's leg was placed, the companions of the victim, who was yelling with pain all the while, standing near to watch the result.

The heat apparently roused the animal from its torpor; it began to move its body, and suddenly flew into the air, still holding the man by the leg. After flying up to a height of about forty yards it directed its course toward the lake, in which it plunged with a mightly splash, burying its victim in the depths of the water.

THE BRAIN (from a photograph.)
Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesions

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they gradually but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this sad end about are precisely the same things being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that Paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strains which modern life bring upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy. Paine's Celery Compound, if rightly taken, will renew the brain and build up nerve tissues as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a narcotic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the indorsement of the medical and chemical professions prove it.

Port Kells
This Fine Townsite, at the Fresh-Water Junction of the Southern Railw'y
—WITH THE—
FRASER RIVER
12 Miles Above Westminster,
Has just been Surveyed, and the Lots are for sale by WOODS, TURNER & GAMBLE
—AND—
ALBERT J. HILL & COMPANY
OF NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.
The advantages and prospects of this Plot for a future thriving Town are many.
The Land in the vicinity is good.
There are inexhaustible IRON ORE DEPOSITS, of a superior quality, immediately adjacent, as well as vast strata of the finest BUILDING SAND and POTTERY CLAY.
On the Townsite are a number of valuable MINERAL SPRINGS.
Communication by land and water is unequalled, by reason of the location of the Townsite on the Fraser River and the Southern Railway, while the natural elevation and lay of the land can not be excelled as a situation for a fine town.
The ground is open and clear of heavy timber.
The site has been selected as one of the most important stations on the Southern Railway, and with the completion of the road, in the near future, must, with all its other advantages, spring into prominence at once.
Those who apply early will have the pick of the Lots.
A clear title given with every purchase.
Parties wishing Lots can apply as well, on the premises, to

At the police court to day James Saul, a half breed, for being drunk and incapable was fined $2.50 and costs or 14 days in gaol. At the district court Peter John, a half breed, charged with being drunk and disorderly, was fined $8 or 14 days in default.

The stone foundation of the Powell block, corner of Columbia street and Lytton square, has been completed by the contractors, Hembrough & Co. It is a substantial looking job and cost about $3,000. The tenders for the brick and carpenter work will be let on Monday.

A proud man is Capt. Debney, of the steamship City of Puebla. The steamship reached San Francisco on Wednesday from Victoria in 48 hours and 35 minutes, beating all previous records. In addition to a chanticleer on her main deck, the Puebla now carries a broom.

The Telephone Company is about to construct a separate wire between Vancouver and New Westminster, by way of George Black's and the old New Westminster road. It is found to be almost an impossible act to transact messages over wires attached to poles on which the telegraph line is stretched, as the induction from the last line interferes greatly with the former one. The change will be welcomed, we are sure, by all subscribers who have business to transact between the twin cities, as it will tend to greatly facilitate business and make hearing much better at both ends.—World.

Says the Whatcom Bulletin of a late date: The three Oregon youths who tampered with the railroad switch at Lebanon junction, Sunday night, have the gallows in front of them as a result of their fun. A train ran into the open switch, thousands of dollars of valuable property were destroyed, a life lost and maimed and bruised men lie in the hospital, all the result of tampering with the switch by one of the boys and the criminal acquiescence of the other two. One of the young men will probably hang and the other two grace the penitentiary. There is a lesson in this for other young men.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

The B. C. Packing Co's Pack.

The British Columbia Packing Co., finished its pack to-day, having canned no less than 15,000 cases. The majority of the Indians and Chinamen have been temporarily paid off, but their services will be required again as soon as a fresh supply of cans are made, which will be only a few days as a large number of men are employed in manufacturing the second supply. The management of the cannery is well satisfied with the season's work, which has been more successful than anticipated.

Saved by the Rain.

The rain that everyone had been wishing for since the middle of July has come at last, and just in time to do an immense amount of good. Bush fires, which have been burning freely for six weeks are now checked, and will not attain serious dimensions again this season. The immense piles of cord wood on the Vancouver and Hastings roads, which were threatened with destruction a few days ago, are now out of danger for the time being, and citizens are not likely to be charged a double price for wood this winter, which would have been the case had the supply cut been destroyed. All root crops have been benifited by the rain, but farmers are anxious for fine weather soon, so that their grain crops may be harvested without damage.

Mr. Dickinson Replies.

A numerously signed requisition, on which were the names of many of our most prominent business men, was presented to ex-mayor Dickinson this morning, asking him to allow his name to be put in nomination for the mayoralty. Mr. Dickinson thanked his friends for this latest evidence of their continued confidence in him, but declined to stand, giving for his reasons the late hour at which the requisition was received, the shortness of the term to be served, and lastly he considered that the head of civic affairs should remain with a member of the present council for the remainder of the term. Mr. Dickinson's friends, though anxious to have him run, were satisfied with the reasons given and did not press the requisition further, acknowledging the justness of his objections.

The Alaska Salmon Pack.

The schooner Comet, which arrived at San Francisco a few days ago from Chignik, Alaska, brought the following information concerning the salmon pack: Up to July 27th the Chouinagin Island Packing Company had put up only 7,000 cases, the Chignik Bay Packing Company 10,000, and the Chignik Packing Company 6,000 cases. There was no salmon packed at this point in 1888. The Russian American Packing Company at Afognak Island had packed about 8,500 cases, and Pollock & Dodge, at the same place, had salted down only 250 barrels. Reports from Cooper River were not encouraging. At Karluk the pack at the Commercial Company's cannery up to July 25th, was about 17,000 cases, and that of the Aleution Island Packing Company at Kodiak about 10,000 cases. The Alaska Improvement Company, at Karluk, had packed 9,000.

Going it Blind.

The Times is so anxious to get into our wool that it attributes a certain "lecture" that appeared in the World lately—and which we will not say that our rather slangy Victoria cotem, did not deserve—to this paper. Not content with stupidly railing at us about the matter once, so "riled" is our cotemporary about the well-meant exhortation of the World (falsely attributed to us) to mend its manners, that it devotes a whole column in its issue of Thursday to round abuse of THE COLUMBIAN. As all the complimentary epithets and long drawn raillery are really aimed at the World, we decline to step into the breach, and turn our belligerent island cotemporary over to the tender mercies of its Vancouver friend, with the injunction that the latter should "bray it in a morter with a pestle," if need be. But why don't the Times quit bellowing and pawing up the dirt long enough to get the hair out of its eyes and see what it's bucking at.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage.

The world-renowned Talmage, as has been previously announced, will lecture at the Imperial Opera House, Vancouver, on Tuesday night next. An advertisement to which some important additions have been made today, will give particulars as to the cost of tickets, train arrangements etc. At 7:45, a quarter of an hour before the lecture, Professor Mills, just arrived in Vancouver, will give a splendid overture, which will will add much to the evening's entertainment. Quite a number of our citizens will no doubt take advantage of this opportunity of hearing the celebrated divine and lecturer, as Dr. Talmage does not lecture elsewhere on the mainland, and a large sum had to be guaranteed to induce him to do so in Vancouver. As will be seen by the advertisement, tickets can be got both at D. Lyal & Co.'s and at A. M. Herring's, and for from $1.50 to 75 cts.; also, if at least fifty go from this city, a special train will return from Vancouver after the lecture for their accommodation, round trip tickets being put at $1.25.

A Pugnacious Siwash.

At the Annieville cannery yesterday afternoon an Indian, known as Chilliwack Charley, made two assaults on the manager, Mr. Birrell. Charley, it appears, bought a cask from the cannery some weeks ago and yesterday brought it back, saying it leaked and demanded the price he had paid for it. As the man was under the influence of liquor at the time, Mr. Birrell, who was busy, paid no attention to him. Charley waited for a few minutes and then suddenly made an assault on Mr. Birrell, who "sailed into" his man in proper style and ended by ejecting him from the cannery. Not satisfied with the thrashing he had already received, Charley went and washed himself and then returned and challenged Mr. Birrell to fight to a finish. Never dreaming the Indian would repeat the assault Mr. Birrell, as before, continued his work and was greatly surprised when the Siwash stepped up close and struck him a severe blow under the eye. Charley was again ejected from the cannery and a boat was sent to bring a constable from this city, but by the time the officer arrived the Indian had made his escape for parts unknown. A warrant has been issued for his arrest.

MR. TOWNSEND ELECTED.

The Nominations Pass off very Quietly. Mr. Townsend is Elected by Acclamation.

There was not the slightest excitement to-day over the nominations, and it was probably the quietest affair of the kind in the history of the city. At 12 noon, when the time for receiving nominations for mayor expired, none but city officials and a representative of THE COLUMBIAN were in the city hall. The returning officer declared the nominations closed, and then proceeded with the declaration that there being no other nominations, except that of Mr. W. B. Townsend, that gentleman was duly elected mayor of New Westminster. The announcement was received with applause by those present. The apparent lack of interest over the nominations for mayor was owing to the fact that it was generally understood Mr. Townsend would be unopposed.

At 1 o'clock the returning officer declared the nominations for aldermen closed, and announced the following candidates for seats at the aldermanic board:

Jas. W. Harvey, proposed by B. Douglas, and seconded by J. G. Jaques.

W. H. Keary, proposed by C. McDonough, and seconded by T. J. Trapp.

B. W. Shiles, proposed by James Cunningham and seconded by H. Hoy.

No speeches were made and the returning officer adjourned the meeting till 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, when the polls will be opened for voting.

The Annual Shopping Visit.

The streets and shops yesterday and to-day were crowded with Indians, men, women and children, who, having been paid off by the canneries, were making their annual shopping tour. The amount of money spent by them in the last 48 hours must have been very great if the numerous packages and boxes carried away by them is to be taken as a sign. The merchants who make a specialty of Indian trade, all report a rushing business, and every store in the city has reaped more or less of the salmon harvest. The quantity and quality of goods, especially the latter, purchased by the Indians, is something surprising. In some instances the very richest quality of dress goods was bought by an old kloochman whose dumpy form would look just as attractive in the cheapest calico or wincey. But as they are spending their own money no one interferes with their ideas on dress, and even the head of the family, whose labors earned the money, pays over the cash without a grumble. Indians are good customers, they pay a fair price without bantering, and cash down and the merchant is particularly glad to welcome them at this season.

PERSONAL.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop D'Herbomez's condition is worse to-day, and it is not expected he will survive the night.

George Gillespie, assistant manager of the Bank of British Columbia at Victoria, arrived at Vancouver yesterday and will assume temporary management of the branch of the bank during the absence of Mr. J. C. Keith, who will shortly go to England on leave of absence for four months.

LATE CANADIAN NEWS.

As a result of a quarrel, Edward McLaughlan, a river driver, shot and killed Robert Ferguson at Madawaska village.

Richard McAndrew (colored), of Barbadoes, a seaman on the warship Tourmalive, died in the Marine hospital, Halifax, yesterday, in terrible agony from overeating. He was a glutton.

At a meeting of citizens Thursday night, in Winnipeg, it was decided to erect a monument to the memory of Premier Norquay. It is proposed to limit the subscriptions to $1 to enable all classes to subscribe.

Toronto medical men will enjoy a sensation next month. Four members of the profession will be arraigned before the medical council charged with unprofessional conduct, and a big fight will be made to have their names struck off the roll of physicians and surgeons for Ontario.

A gentleman from Nicola states that the grasshoppers are dying off, and that the devastation caused by them is much exaggerated. The ranchers are much discouraged, however, and are constantly selling their farms to the Douglas Lake Cattle Co. It is only a matter of time, our informant states, until Nicola Valley is entirely in the possession of this wealthy cattle company. The latter, however, pay the farmers satisfactory prices for their holdings.—Colonist.

B. C. Provincial Exposition Subscription Fund.

For the purpose of raising a fund to contribute towards the patriotic and worthy object of making the next annual provincial fair, to be held in this city, a grand and unprecedented success, the undersigned agree to contribute the sums opposite their respective names (to be paid into the association or to trustees competent to receive the same, on or before 6 months from the date of the last provincial exhibition, and to be applied to preparing exhibition grounds and buildings in the city, for increasing the amount offered in prizes, and for furthering the exhibition in other ways):
